THE British public have been for a considerable time past familiar with the principal events in the career of the universally popular comedian whose counterfeit presentment adorns, this week, the columns of the Illustrated London News. Everybody—who is Anybody—knows that Mr. John Lawrence Toole is the son a well-known civic toastmaster and respected employé of the Honourable East India Company (part of whose duties necessitated his wearing a most portentous cocked hat, and a scarlet waistcoat richly laced with gold, in which glowing garb, in my small boyhood's days, I have often gazed with awe and admiration on Mr. Toole, père, standing, in the defiant attitude of Ajax Defying the Lightning, beneath the portico of the old India House in Leadenhall-street); and that the future contributor to "the gaiety of nations" was born in London in 1830, and soundly educated at the excellent City of London School. It is equally well known that after a brief probation in a wine merchant's counting-house (was not David Garrick likewise for a time in the wine trade?) young John Lawrence joined a histrionic club in the City, and made his first public appearance at the Haymarket Theatre on the occasion of a benefit given to Mr. F. Webster. Shortly afterwards he went on the stage, professionally, for good and all, commencing his career under Mr. Charles Dillon, at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin. In 1854 he was fulfilling an engagement at the St. James's Theatre, London, then under the management of the late Mrs. Seymour; thence he went to the Lyceum; and, at the opening of the New Adelphi Theatre, Mr. Toole was engaged as leading comedian. People began at once to talk of "Toole and Paul Bedford," just as they had previously been accustomed to talk of "Wright and Paul Bedford." The mantle of Wright (who had it from John Reeve, who had it from Liston) descended on the shoulders of Mr. Toole, who continues to wear it right royally as manager and actor at the Folly Theatre. There are no shreds and no patches in that mantle; and its brilliant hues have never been smirched or tarnished while the vestment has been in Mr. Toole's keeping. As to his life during the last quarter of a century, it has been an unbroken succession of dramatic triumphs; but otherwise it has been happily uneventful. I had some thoughts of "interviewing" Mr. Toole on the American system before writing this notice; with the intent of ascertaining whether he had fought any duels, whether he had ever been blown up in the Hounslow Powder-Mills, or wrecked in a catamaran, or snowed up in a train on the Rocky Mountains, and whether he had ever been a Chartist, a Nihilist, a Rebeccaite, a Luddite, a Know Nothing, or a member of the "Rum Pum Pa's." On second thoughts, I concluded not to interview Mr. Toole, remembering, first, that he had already been interviewed by reporters both in England and in the United States; and, next, that albeit he is not a Colossus in stature, he looks muscularly as though he were very well put together, and were able to hit straight out from the shoulder—or, haply, even straighter out with a well-booted foot—were too narrow inquiries made concerning the last time he was vaccinated, whether he was born with a caul, and whether his theatrical wardrobe is insured in the Law Life, or the Queen's. With respect to his career as an actor, I suppose that most of us have seen and admired him in "Paul Pry" and "Uncle Dick's Darling," in "The Pigskins," "The Spitalfield's Weaver," and "The Area Belle," and "The Birthplace of Podgers;" and that we have appreciated him as much in the wonderfully droll character of Mr. Doublechick in "The Upper Crust" as we do in the exquisitely pathetic part of Caleb Plummer, in "Dot," in which he is so zealously and so artistically supported by Mr. Billington as John Peerybingle, by Miss Eliza Johnstone as Tilly Slowboy, and by Miss Lilian Cavalier as Dot herself. It is the great privilege and rare gift of Mr. Toole to be as much a master of pathos as he is of numour; but in his emotional impersonation he never forces nature, and never attempts to extort tears from his audience by unworthy tricks of maudlin claptrap. He plays the part of Tackleton's submissive drudge in a thoroughly realistic but unexaggerated manner, and exhibits a picture of character most delicately finished, but never overwrought. I remember that Lord Rosebery, when he took the chair at a dinner at Willis's Rooms offered to Mr. Toole prior to his departure for the United States, remarked that he could pride himself on having, perhaps, spent more guineas for stalls to see Mr. Toole in "The Pigskins" than any other young man in London. I hope that the young noblemen and gentlemen of the present epoch have, in their patronage of "The Upper Crust," been mindful of the spirited example once set by the Earl of Rosebery. But the talent of Mr. John Lawrence Toole appeals to all classes; and he is every inch as popular with the gallery as he is with the stalls and private boxes. For the rest, it may be no violation of the social proprieties to say that Mr. Toole is as much respected in private as he is admired in public life. I never heard that he had any enemies; and I am sure that he has not gone the way to make any. He is eminently "clubable," a sparkling conversationalist, the owner of a rich treasury of droll anecdote, and as full of fun as a schoolboy. Some time ago he had a Great Sorrow, and hosts of friends commiserated him as though it had been one of their own kindred that had been summoned away. But Time has been good to him; and to those friends he will be spared, I hope, for many years, to the fostering of innocent mirth and the awakening of gentle and tender feelings among those who witness his performances, be they grave or gay. In both moods he is a Master in his Art.

G. A. S.

CALEB PLUMMER AND TILLY SLOWBOY.

MR. BILLINGTON AS JOHN PEERYBINGLE.

MISS CAVALIER AS DOT.

MISS LISTON AS BERTHA.

Digitized by Google

"DOT," AT THE FOLLY THEATRE.

"You couldn't have the goodness to let me pinch Boxer's tail, Mum, for half a moment, could you?—There's a small order just come in for barking dogs, and I should wish to go as close to natur' as I could, for sixpence."

MR. J. L. TOOLE AS CALEB PLUMMER.

Digitized by Google

Extra Supplement.

"THE CONDITION OF TURKEY."

There is more than a mere pun—a certain degree of humour—in this picture with the punning title, by Mr. P. R. Morris, A.R.A., which was exhibited at the Dudley Gallery last year. The verbal joke, indeed, was anticipated by Punch, as we remember, so long ago as before the Crimean War. The late Mr. Urquhart, one of the earliest of political monomaniacs upon the Eastern question, published a solemn treatise, called "Turkey—and its Destiny." Our jocular contemporary, hard by St. Bride's Church, Fleet-street, thereupon came out with two small but significant woodcuts—the first exhibiting the Sultan of the poultry-yard, strutting amidst his servile harem, in the glory of an Oriental despot; but the second presenting his fat body trussed and cooked, and laid in a dish, with the savoury concomitant of sausages, most horrible to a Mussulman grandee; and with a knife and fork above held by invisible hands, about to dissever the wings and legs, to slice the ample breast, and to dive into the innermost recesses for the store of herbal stuffing. The first picture was called "Turkey;" the second, "And Its Destiny." This, indeed, was a Partition of Turkey, which would be well worth the combined diplomatic efforts of the European Concert to procure, if all the assembled guests could but sit quietly at table and enjoy their dinner in peace. We are not acquainted with Mr. P. R. Morris's political views, and have no right to suppose that he is either a Turkophile or a Turkophobe, a Philo-Turk or a Miso-Turk, or any of the foolish party names which have been current since the Bulgarian insurrection of 1876, and of which all sensible men are heartily tired. But he is evidently capable of discerning and giving characteristic expression to the peculiar airs, and tricks of carriage and gesture, which distinguish this fine class of domestic birds; and his masterly drawing of their forms may be appreciated in our Engraving, though without the colouring of the original picture. "The Condition of Turkey," regarded in this point of view, may afford us all some innocent pleasure at the approaching Christmas Season. Let us hope, before that comfortable festival, to have got rid of the Dulcigno difficulty, while that of the Greek frontier, rather than provoke another war, may stand adjourned till the Greek Kalends; but if both can be arranged, by pacific negotiations, to the generous wishes of our Premier, then so much the better.

THE COURT.

Her Majesty, who had again passed several days at the Royal Lodge at the Glassalt Shiel, returned with Princess Beatrice to Balmoral on Saturday. The picturesque grandeur of this district has a great charm for the Queen, who, as well as the Princess, often employs her time in sketching the notable points of the natural beauty of the neighbourhood.

On Sunday her Majesty and Princess Beatrice were at Crathie church, Divine service being performed by the Rev. Archibald Campbell.

Daily excursions on Deeside have been made by the Queen and the Princess, whose sojourn in the Highlands will close at the end of next week for this year.

The Right Hon. Hugh Childers is Minister in attendance.

The Dowager Duchess of Roxburghe has succeeded Lady Southampton as Lady in Waiting. Lady Southampton and the Hon. Ismay Fitzroy have left the castle.

The private secretary of the late Viceroy of India having forwarded to "The Princess Alice (Darmstadt) Memorial Fund" the sum of £3660 from residents in India, her Majesty has expressed her sincere appreciation of this gratifying mark of loyalty to herself and of sympathy with her in her grief.

Her Majesty has been pleased to become patron of the Girls' Friendly Society and to give £50 towards the central fund of the society.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The last few days of the residence of the Prince and Princess of Wales in London were occupied chiefly in receiving their relatives and in paying visits. The Prince was present at the latest meeting of the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, held at its rooms in Hanover-square. On Thursway week his Royal Highness went to Windsor for a day's shooting in the Great Park; he lunched with Prince and Princess Christian at Cumberland Lodge, the party being joined by the Princess and Prince John of Glücksburg. Prince John, who had been on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at Bagshot Park, had the same morning visited the Aldershott Camp, accompanied by the Duke of Connaught, commanding the 3rd Infantry Brigade, and made a general inspection of the barracks and of the quarters of the 1st Battalion 60th Regiment, quartered at the North Camp. Prince John returned with the Prince and Princess to town. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught dined with their Royal Highnesses at Marlborough House, and in the evening the Royal party, with the Duke of Edinburgh, went to Her Majesty's Theatre. The next day the Prince presided at a meeting of the governors of Wellington College at Marlborough House, at which were present the Duke of Connaught, Prince Leopold, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Archbishop of Canterbury. Prince Leopold lunched with the Prince and Princess, and subsequently the Prince and Prince John of Glücksburg went to Chiselhurst and visited the Empress Eugénie at Camden House. The Princes and the Duke of Edinburgh went to the Folly Theatre in the evening. The Prince and Princess and Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud, accompanied by Princess Louise of Lorne, Prince William of Prussia, and Prince John of Glücksburg, left Marlborough House on Saturday for Sandringham. The German Ambassador, with Lord and Lady Odo Russell, also arrived. Their Royal Highnesses, with their daughters and their guests, attended Divine service on Sunday at St. Mary Magdalene's Church in the Park, the Rev. F. Hervey, Rector of Sandringham with Babingley and West Newton, officiated. On Monday Prince William of Prussia and Prince John of Glücksburg, having completed their visit to the Prince and Princess, left for London, and also the German Ambassador and Lord and Lady Odo Russell. Prince John of Glücksburg left by the South-Eastern Railway the same evening for Brussels; and Prince William of Prussia returned to Cumberland Lodge, Windsor. The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh arrived at Sandringham from Eastwell Park. Tuesday was the thirty-ninth anniversary of the Prince's birthday. The auspicious event was celebrated at Sandringham by the usual rejoicings, a dinner being provided for the workmen on the Royal estates; and the customary honours were observed in the metropolis and at the various garrisons. A large family party has been at the house during the week, and the open weather has allowed of the enjoyment of out-of-door amusement; the ladies occasionally joining the sportsmen at their al fresco luncheons.

Prince Leopold presented the Queen's prizes awarded by the Science and Art Department to the successful students of the Metropolitan Drawing Classes, under the instruction of Mr. W. Busbridge, at the Guildhall on the 4th inst., the Lord Mayor presiding. The Prince was received at the entrance of the Guildhall by a guard of honour of the London Rifle Brigade. On Saturday his Royal Highness took up the freedom and livery of the Company of the Vintners, to which he was elected by a resolution of a Special Court of Assistants, held on May 21, 1874, shortly after he had attained his majority. The ceremony took place at the hall of the company, in Upper Thames-street. The certificate having been presented in a casket, the Prince was admitted an honorary member of the Court of Assistants, and took his seat accordingly, being also presented with the gold medal of the company. His Royal Highness was afterwards entertained at dinner by the Master, the Duke of Cambridge being one of the guests. On Monday, the Prince unveiled the Temple-Bar Memorial, in the presence of the Lord Mayor and the Corporation. His Royal Highness lunched with Baroness Burdett-Coutts in Stratton-street.

The Duke and Duchess of Teck visited Lochleven Castle last week, embarking from Kinross. The Duchess planted some ivy as a memento of her visit. This is the first time that Royal personages have been on the island since the escape of Mary Queen of Scots, 300 years ago. Her Royal Highness, accompanied by the Countess of Hopetoun, on a subsequent day visited Edinburgh University, the Museum of Science and Art, and Old Greyfrairs' Church and burying-ground, returning afterwards to Hopetoun.

Prince William of Prussia and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein dined with Colonel Moncrieff and the officers of the second battalion Scots Guards at their mess in Victoria Barracks, Windsor, yesterday week.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Barker, John T., to be Honorary Canon of Peterborough.
Binnie, Alfred Jonathan; Curate of Kenilworth.
Brown, Edward Utten; Vicar of Besthorpe, Norfolk, on his own petition.
Browne, F., Vicar of Barnardcastle; Honorary Canon of Durham.
Burrow, Robert F.; Rector of St. Andrew and St Mary's, Witton, Droitwich.
Cholmondeley, Francis Grenville; Vicar of Leek Wootton.
Culme, J. J.; Incumbent of Woodside (Forest of Dean).
Dunne, George Thomas; Vicar of St. John, Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire.
Dyer, Arthur Charles; Curate of Redmarley D'Abitôt.
Edgington, Charles N.; Vicar of Hanwell.
Ellis, D. H.; Precentor of St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney.
Elliss, Henry Christopher; Rector of Bidborough, Kent.
Flack, G. S.; Rector of Tattersett-with-Tatterford annexed, Norfolk.
Flower, Walker; Vicar of Worth.
Forbes, J. G.; Vicar of Hatfield, Broad Oak.
Griffith, William; Perpetual Curate of Llanddewifach, Radnorshire.
Haycroft, I.; Chaplain of Nunhead Cemetery.
Howe, John Edmund; Curate of Henley-on-Thames.
Hutton, R.; Vicar of St. Oswald's with St. Mary, Bingfield, near Hexham.
Jardine, Charles John; Vicar of Ravenfield.
Jenkins, John; Perpetual Curate of Llantwit Vardre.
Jenkins, Edward; Vicar of St. Mary Hill, Glamorganshire.
Johnson, William Cowper; Rector of Northwold, Norfolk.
Jones, Harry; Prebendary of Sneating, in St. Paul's Cathedral.
Jones, H. E., Curate of Lancaster; Vicar of Overton.
Jones, Thomas; Rector of Kilgerran, Pembroke.
Kelly, Bishop; Archdeacon of Macclesfield.
Kilner, F. C.; Vicar of Potternewton.
Kirkham, Thomas; Vicar of Manningham (St. Paul's), Yorkshire.
Lloyd, Julius; Rector of St. Ann's, Manchester.
Meares, John; Perpetual Curate of Harroldston West with Lambston, Pembroke.
Norris, Charles E.; Vicar of St. Edmund's, Rochdale.
Paton, James; Vicar of Hemingborough.
Peile, Thomas W.; Rector of St. John, Buckhurst-hill, Essex.
Powell, F. G. Montagu, Vicar of Pembroke Dock; Vicar of Frocester.
Puckwell, Leighton; Vicar of Newington-next-Hythe, Kent.
Stead, Edward Dymoke; Vicar of Peasenhall, Suffolk.
Tottenham, Edward; Vicar of Kirby Grindalyth.
Tower, Charles Marsh Ainslie; Rector of Chilmark, Wilts.
Tuson, Herbert, Sole Charge, Morthoe, Ilfracombe, Devon.
Were, E. A.; Vicar of North Bradley, Wilts.
Whitehead, Alfred, Vicar of St. Peter's, Thanet; Rural Dean of Westbere.
Wigram, F. E.; Honorary Secretary to the Church Missionary Society.
Williams, Hugh George; Vicar of Radir, Glamorgan.—Guardian.

Viscount Cranbrook presided on Tuesday evening at the annual soirée of the Leeds Church Institute, and spoke on the work and progress of the Church.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has conferred the degree of Doctor in Divinity on the Rev. Robert William Evans, Head Master of the Cathedral High School at Bombay, on account of services rendered by him to the cause of education in the East Indies.

The parish church of Great Barrington was reopened, after restoration, by the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol on the 4th inst. The cost of the work has been liberally defrayed by Mr. E. Rhys Wingfield, lord of the manor, who also kindly entertained a large number of neighbours at luncheon.

The Rev. Joseph Bardsley, M.A., Vicar of Bradford, was presented on Monday evening with an illuminated address from the congregation and parishioners of St. Dunstan's, Stepney, together with a silver tea-service and a purse of £100. The address alluded to Mr. Bardsley's eleven years' faithful ministry in Stepney and the special works carried on by him in the parish—namely, the building of three new churches, the restoration of the parish church, and the opening of mission-rooms, all which are well attended.

The Autumn Conference of the members of the Church Association was held on the 4th inst. in Willis's Rooms, under the presidency of Mr. T. R. Andrews. Recent events connected with the Rev. Pelham Dale and others caused the Conference to be very largely attended, and in the discussions which took place a strong feeling of satisfaction was expressed at the determined action which had been followed with regard to those clergymen of the Church of England who had adopted Ritualistic practices. The Council having stated that a new Guarantee Fund was required, subscriptions amounting to £6000 were made in the room.

A clergyman recommends to his brethren in the Church who may hold rural livings the tricycle as a means of rapid, convenient, and economical locomotion, and the recommendation is supported by the strong argument of his own successful experiences. "From seven to eight miles an hour is my speed, and I can do fifty miles a day. I can ride up any hill almost, and I carry my portmanteau behind me. The tricycle requires no grooming; no corn, is not taxed nor tolled. You can leave it at the door of a cottage and it wants no one to hold it; and, better than all, it has done my health—which was shattered abroad—more good than all the physic I have swallowed."

THE UNIVERSITIES.

Mr. Henry Rudolph Reichel, B.A., of Balliol College, and Mr. Richard Ridley Farrar, B.A., of Balliol College, have been elected to the two vacant fellowships at All Souls' College, Oxford.

The Rev. Dr. Edward Henry Perowne, Master of Corpus Christi College, has been re-elected to the office of Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge.

Lord Rosebery yesterday week gave his rectorial address to the students of the Aberdeen University, confining his attention almost solely to the question of teaching modern history in the Scotch Universities. Last Saturday the Earl was elected Lord Rector of Edinburgh University by a majority of 39 over Sir Robert Christison.

The introductory lecture for the session of the Edinburgh Association for the University Education of Women was given on the 4th inst. in the United Presbyterian buildings by Lord Moncreiff, the Countess of Rothes presiding.

NEW MAYORS.

Aberystwith, Mr. P. Jones, re-elected
Abingdon, Mr. T. Townsend
Accrington, Ald. James Barlow
Andover, Councillor George Curtis.
Ashton-under-Lyme, Mr. Thomas Higginbottom, re-elected
Banbury, Mr. Henry Walford
Barnsley, Mr. B. Marshall, re-elected
Barnstaple, Mr. W. Avery
Barrow, Ald. E. Wadham, 3rd time
Bath, Alderman Chaffin, 3rd time.
Batley, Alderman Parker
Beaumaris, Mr. H. Lewis, re-elected
Bedford, Mr. J. T. Hobson, 3rd time
Berwick-on-Tweed, Mr. A. Darling
Beverley, Ald Edward Crosskill
Bideford, Mr. Thomas Wickham
Birkenhead, Mr. William Laird
Birmingham, Alderman Richard Chamberlain, 2nd time
Blackburn, Ald. Henry Harrison
Blackpool, Alderman Henry Hall
Bodmin, Mr. J. H. Cardell
Bolton, Alderman J. Musgrave
Bootle, Councillor Wm. Poulson
Boston, Mr. J. C. Simonds
Bradford, Ald. A. Holden, 3rd time
Bridgwater, Mr. Clifford Symons
Bridport, Councillor C. Edmunds
Brighton, Ald. David Smith
Bristol, Mr. J. D. Watson
Buckingham, Mr. J. Wilson Thorpe, re-elected
Burnley, Mr. J. Howarth, 2nd time
Burslem, Mr. J. Maddock, re-elected
Bury (Lancashire), Alderman Book
Bury St. Edmund's, Mr. J. Floyd
Cambridge, Ald. J. Death, 3rd time
Canterbury, Mr. James Coppin
Cardiff, Alderman Rees Jones
Carlisle, Mr. J. R. Creighton
Carnarvon, Ald. L. Lewis, re-elected
Chard, Mr. G. T. Canning, 4th time
Cheltenham, Ald. Skillicorne, 3rd time
Chester, Mr. C. Brown
Chesterfield, Mr. J. Brown, re-elected
Chichester, Mr. E. Collins
Chipping Norton, Mr. W. Bliss, jun.
Clitheroe, Councillor Grime
Colchester, Councillor S. Chaplin
Congleton, Ald. R. Beals, 3rd time
Coventry, Councillor H. Matterson
Crewe, Mr. James Briggs
Darlington, Mr. John Morrell
Dartmouth, Mr. N. Hannaford
Darwen, Ald. W. Snape, 4th time
Denbigh, Mr. Thomas Jones
Derby, Mr. Abraham Woodwiss
Devizes, Alderman William Brown
Devonport, Mr. J. Graves, re-elected
Dewsbury, Mr. William Machell
Doncaster, Councillor Meacock
Dorchester, Mr. W. Durden, re-elected
Dover, Mr. R. Dickeson, re-elected
Droitwich, Mr. John Blick
Dudley, Mr. H. M. Wainwright, re-elected
Durham, Mr. W. Law Robertson
Evesham, Alderman Epsley
Exeter, Alderman Pring
Falmouth, Mr. J. C. Downing
Faversham, Mr Lewis Shrubsole
Flint, Ald. R. Muspratt; 13th time; eighth in succession
Folkestone, Mr. Jno. Bennet Tolputt
Gateshead, Alderman E. Hindmarsh, re-elected
Glastonbury, Alderman Austin
Gloucester, Ald. J. Reynolds, 3rd time
Godalming, Alderman Eager
Godmanchester, Alderman Devan
Gravesend, Mr Mark Martin
Guildford, Alderman Upperton
Halifax, Ald. J. Bairstow, re-elected
Hanley, Mr J. Bromley, re-elected
Hartlepool, West, Mr. John Horsley
Harwich, Mr. J. Vaux
Hastings, Alderman Gansden
Helstone, Mr. William Trevenan
Hereford, Mr. T. Maund
Hertford, Alderman William Baker
Huddersfield, Mr. Thomas Dinham
Hull, Alderman John Leak
Huntingdon, Councillor Thackray
Hythe, Mr. Henry Bean Mackeson, ninth consecutive year
Ipswich, Mr. Alfred Wrinch
Jarrow-on-Tyne, Mr H. Duffell
Kidderminster, Mr. H. R. Willis
King's Lynn, Alderman T. Wilkin
Kingston-on-Thames, Ald. F. Gould
Lancaster, Mr. Edward Clark
Launceston, Mr. J. Dingley, re-elected
Leeds, Alderman Tatham, re-elected
Leamington, Alderman H. Bright
Leicester, Ald. J. Bennett, 2nd time
Leominster, Mr. T. B. Shallard, 5th time
Lichfield, Mr. W. F. Gordon
Lincoln, Mr. Bernard Cannon
Liskeard, Mr. Borlase Childs
Liverpool, Alderman Williams
Llanidloes, Mr. John Henry Webb
Longton, Mr. J. Holdcroft
Louth, Alderman Fowler
Ludlow, Mr. T. Roberts, re-elected
Luton, Alderman Cotchin, re-elected
Lymington, Mr. J. S Good
Macclesfield, Ald. William Pownall
Maidstone, Mr. Alfred Spencer
Maldon, Mr. J. G. Sadd, 3rd time
Manchester, Ald. Baker, re-elected
Margate, Mr. Pointon, re-elected
Marlborough, Ald. J. B. Maurice
Middlesbrough, Mr. Charles Willman
Monmouth, Mr. George P. Tippins
Morpeth, Councillor W. J. Atkinson
Newark, Mr. T. G. Mackenzie
Newbury, Mr. Lucas
Newcastle-on-Tyne, Ald. Angus
Newcastle-under-Lyne, Mr. T. P. Heath
Newport (Isle of Wight), Councillor H. Orchard, re-elected
Newport (Mon.), Mr. J. R. Jacob
Northampton, Mr. Robert Derby
Norwich, Mr. Samuel Grimmer
Nottingham, Ald Edward Gripper
Oldham, Alderman James Yates
Oswestry, Mr. T. Minshall, 2nd time
Oxford, Mr. James Stanley Lowe
Penrhyn, Mr. M. Lavin
Penzance, Mr. Francis Boas, 8th time
Peterborough, Mr. John Thompson
Plymouth, Mr. F. Morrish
Poole, Mr. George Curtis, re-elected
Portsmouth, Alderman Pink
Preston, Alderman James Hibbert
Reading, Mr. G. W. Colebrook
Reigate, Councillor Pym, re-elected
Retford, East, Alderman Jenkinson
Richmond, Mr. George Roper
Ripon, Alderman R. Lumley
Rochdale, Alderman William Baron
Rochester, Mr. A. F. Budden
Romsey, Mr. E. Godney, re-elected
Rotherham, Alderman Robert Marsh
Ryde, Alderman Colenutt
St. Ives, Mr Thomas Cogar
Salford, Mr. Robinson, 2nd time
Salsbury, Mr. E. Frederick Kelsey
Scarborough, Mr. Thomas Whittaker
Sheffield, Mr. Abraham Brooksbank
Shields, South, Mr. Henry Nelson
Shrewsbury, Mr. Hall, re-elected
Southampton, Mr. J. Henry Cooksey
Southmolton, Alderman J. White, 6th time
Southport, Alderman Sutton
Stafford, Mr. J. T. Evans
Stalybridge, Alderman Warhurst
Stamford, Mr. Paradise, re-elected
Stockport, Alderman A. H. Sykes
Stockton, Alderman G. F. Smith
Stoke-on-Trent, Mr. C. M. Campbell
Stratford-on-Avon, Mr. J. Cox, jun.
Sudbury, Mr. G. G Whorlow
Sunderland, Councillor W. Wilson
Swansea, Mr. J. J. Jenkins
Taunton, Mr. Peter Taylor
Tenterden, Mr. J. Wilson Haffenden, second time
Tewkesbury, Mr. J. F. Prosser
Tiverton, Mr. C. M. Winton, re-elected
Torrington, Mr. Farley
Totnes, Mr. Edward Harris
Truro, Mr. Amos Jennings
Tynemouth, Mr. Joseph Baker
Wakefield, Councillor W. H. Lee
Wallingford, Mr. Hawkins, 4th time
Walsall, Councillor J. Newman
Wareham, Mr. F. Marshalsea
Warrington, Mr. J. R. Pickmere, re-elected
Warwick, Mr. F. W. Arkwright, re-elected
Wells, Mr. J. H. H. Holway
Welshpool, Mr. G. D. Harrison, re-elected
Weymouth, Mr. R. N. Howard
Wigan, Councillor W. J. Lamb
Winchester, Mr. E. D. Godwin
Windsor, Mr. George Tuck
Wisbeach, Councillor Pattrick
Wolverhampton, Mr. John Jones, re-elected
Worcester, Ald. T. S. Townshend
Wrexham, Mr. G. Bradley
Yarmouth, Mr. T. B. Steward, re-elected
Yeovil, Mr. Jabez Radford
York (Lord Mayor), Mr. J. A. Rowntree

The last meeting of the Court of Common Council in the mayoralty of Sir Francis Truscott was held on the 4th inst., when the Lord Mayor took leave of the members in his capacity of chief magistrate. The question of the erection of the Temple Bar Memorial was discussed at length, and a motion to move it from its present position to the Thames Embankment or some other spot was negatived, only the mover and seconder voting in its favour.

On the 4th inst. the opening meeting of the Royal Archæological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland of the session 1880-1 was held at its rooms, 16, New Burlington-street, W., and was well attended. Sir John Maclean, on taking the chair, congratulated the members on the prosperous circumstances under which they were entering upon the new session, and expressed a sanguine hope that it would be a successful one.

Three exquisite specimens of hand-painted ivory Christmas Cards have been received from Messrs. Walker and Company, of Farringdon-street; the protecting cards, we are informed, being supplied with a variety of mottoes to suit not only the Christmas season, but also New-Year's Day and Birthdays. Messrs. Marion and Co., of Soho-square, forward sample packets of their Christmas Coloured Photographs—the Robin series, the Quaint Little Folks series, and the Belles series; the two last-named being new, and all being charming. From Messrs. Mansell and Co., of Oxford-street, we have ten series of Christmas Cards of all kinds and prices, a spirit of elegance pervading the cheapest. Far earlier in the field than any of these were Lowell's steel-plate Christmas Cards, issued by Messrs. Chapin and Co., of Rathbone-place, which were noticed at the time they came to hand, several weeks ago. Every attention has evidently been bestowed on the manufacture of these; and, although somewhat lacking in an appearance of cheerfulness suitable to the season, their artistic excellence is great.

Digitized by Google

NOVELS.

Unusually effective use is made of a secret in The Silent Shadow, by Jessie Sale Lloyd (Tinsley Brothers), and the secret itself is so ingeniously prepared at the commencement of the first volume that it will probably remain a mystery to the majority of readers until they are well advanced into the third. This is a perfectly legitimate and exceedingly powerful means of keeping up the interest, which might otherwise wane, and of stimulating the attention, which might otherwise flag, when an author evidently depends rather upon plot than upon incidents, characters, profound studies of humanity, or exquisite literary manipulation for taking the reader captive. The story presents a picture of domestic entanglement, and shows how a she-devil, as she is boldly termed in the novel itself, conspired with a coward to wreck the happiness of a somewhat weak-minded, but in other respects admirable, married couple, for the sake of insinuating herself into the calumniated wife's position, at the risk of a conviction for bigamy. It is certainly a fearless conception that a woman should suggest to her own husband, as he really was, and as there is every reason to believe she considered him at the time to be—a plan which, to be successfully carried out, not only required him to be as infamous a creature as herself, but involved the dangers of a bigamous connection and the chances of supernatural credulity and simplicity upon the part of a noble-hearted baronet and his frank, trustful, loving wife. But Danton recommended audacity in all cases, and would probably, therefore, have applied his exhortation to novelists. At any rate, there is wonderful audacity about the plot developed in the novel under consideration, and readers, when they discover what it is, will most likely agree cordially with one of the accomplices therein, who candidly remarks that "it is a devil's plot." In contriving it great reliance is placed upon the notorious laxity of the Scottish marriage laws, and that laxity is represented as being even greater than it can possibly have hitherto entered into the mind of man to conceive. Hitherto it has been almost universally supposed that mutual engagement and fair probability of intention were necessary. However, suffice it to say that the plot fails, and that the superb Sir Laurence Vivian, Bart., is extricated from his matrimonial embarrassments by the comparatively insignificant Mr. Baldo, as in the fable the lordly lion is delivered from the toils by the humble mouse. The said Mr. Baldo himself gives the gist of the story in the following brief summary:—"The Rev. Mr. Macdonald was the clergyman of a little Scotch village called Heatherley. Near there Sir Laurence Vivian had a moor. He went down to shoot, and fell in love with Miss Macdonald, a young girl of seventeen or eighteen years of age. Well, she had a cousin who had been brought up with her as a brother. About the time of her engagement he went to America, and did not return until some two or three years after her marriage, when he went to Avondale Court to stay with her and her husband. Up to this time they had been a most happy couple, and Lady Vivian had been at the zenith of popularity as the belle of the London season. But after that cousin's visit there were strange whispers about the domestic life of the Baronet and his wife. On Christmas Eve the cousin is said to have turned up again: on Christmas Day Lady Vivian left her home." It is needless to say what the world said after this, and even the reader may demur to Lady Vivian's conduct on the ground that it was not like her, or, indeed, like any innocent woman with a grain of sense; nor, sweet creature as she is, can her behaviour towards her forlorn old father fail to arouse feelings of indignation. The author evidently has not aimed at solidity or at novelty of design or of incidents. The mainstay of the whole structure is the secret. There are some pretty scenes in which the child plays the chief part, and there are others which would be far more interesting if it were less difficult to sympathise with the actors and actresses in their somewhat eccentric modes of proceeding. Lovers of diamonds will be much gratified at the frequency with which those gems flash through the pages, though the introduction of costly brilliants at times when affairs of the heart are in question may tend to throw a doubt upon the source of emotion.

Too much of a good thing is rare, no doubt, but The Shadow of a Life: by Beryl Hope (W. H. Allen and Co.), is decidedly a case in point: it is very good indeed in parts but there is a great deal too much of it. It is called "a girl's story;" and girls, especially governesses, are likely to derive most gratification from it. For the majority of readers, who will not fail, however, to remark the cleverness and knowledge, as if it were the result of personal experience, with which types of character, phases of life, as seen from the standpoint of a highly-favoured governess, conflicts of feeling, as when a parent struggles against pride for the sake of a child or of children, and the sufferings of refinement in compulsory association with vulgarity, are fully depicted or skilfully indicated, it will be a little too circumscribed in range, a little too meagre in incident, a little too girlish, though powerful and passionate occasionally, in tone, a little too trivial on the whole, and far too long, discursive, repetitive. It is the story of a lovely young girl, who "went out as a governess," and won the heart, with the loss of her own, of a gallant, manly, aristocratic dragoon. The young girl has long been conscious that there is something mysterious about her family, but it does not occur to her for a long while that she may be the equal, if not the superior, by birth and position, of her lover; for her father is, apparently, an ordinary village doctor, whose refined children, to the disgust of at least one of them, are almost compelled to be intimate with the village ironmonger's vulgar family. Yet that village doctor turns out to be the son of an Earl. But even so a flirt, upon whom too much ink is wasted, though the portrait is well drawn, may cause a breach between the high-born governess and the noble dragoon; and the book will show how a breach was caused and how it was healed.

A "second series" of Johnny Ludlow, by Mrs. Henry Wood (Richard Bentley and Son), will be welcomed by the author's admirers, who will turn to the three volumes, if they have not already read the contents elsewhere, with a confident assurance, not likely to be misplaced, of abundant entertainment after their kind. The identity of "Johnny Ludlow," which has been a subject of dispute, is now set at rest, and nobody will now wonder at the popularity attained by the short stories published in the Argosy under that well-known pseudonym, for whatever difference of opinion there may be as to Mrs. Henry Wood's claim to be regarded as a star of literature in its highest sense, it must be universally admitted that she holds a very distinguished place among the most artistic story-tellers. Of course "Johnny Ludlow," who is supposed to be a mere boy, does not aim so high as Mrs. Henry Wood in her capacity as a writer of startling romances in three volumes each. But the short stories have many notable characteristics freshness of tone, briskness of movement, vigour, reality, humour, pathos. From "Lost in the Post," with which the first volume of this "second series" commences, to "Lee, the Letter-Man," with which the third volume concludes, it is safe to affirm that there is not a single story which will not be read, if at all, with pleasure by both sexes of all ages.

HOME NEWS.

The Marquis of Stafford opened a coffee tavern at Longton on Tuesday.

Mr. Thomas Duckham, M.P., has been elected chairman of the Farmers' Club for 1881.

The Duke of Norfolk has sent £100 to the Charing-cross Hospital.

The state apartments of Windsor Castle are closed until further orders.

In the last ten months the value of printed books exported was £787,436, against £766,966 in the same period of 1879.

Mr. Henry Doyle, the Director of the National Gallery of Ireland, has been appointed a Companion of the Bath.

Owing to want of funds, the Refuge for Homeless Boys has been obliged to give up the Chichester training-ship and to transfer the boys to the Arethusa.

At a meeting of the Town Council of Edinburgh yesterday week Lord Provost Boyd was unanimously re-elected to the civic chair for a second term of three years.

Sir D. P. Duncombe, Bart., has made an abatement of 20 per cent from the rents falling due from his tenants—the reduction applying to the rents of the arable lands.

A conference of elementary teachers and school managers, representing the counties of Bucks, Beds, and Herts, was held at the County Hall, Aylesbury, last Saturday.

Last Saturday Lord Lyttelton laid the foundation-stone of the Cobden Club Institute, situated in Landseer-terrace, Kensal-road. The estimated cost of the building is £4000.

At a numerously attended meeting of the committee of the Newspaper Press Fund last Saturday relief grants amounting to upwards of £300 were made.

The nineteenth series of the Lambeth Baths winter meetings was opened last Saturday evening, when the chair was occupied by Mr. S. Morley, M.P.

Lady Truscott gave her farewell reception and Cinderella Dance at the Mansion House on Friday night. The guests numbered about one thousand.

A handsome stained-glass window, erected in Harecourt Chapel, Canonbury, by the congregation, to the memory of their late pastor, Dr. Raleigh, was unveiled on Saturday last.

The amount contributed this year to the Hospital Sunday Fund in Manchester was £6557, and to the Hospital Saturday Fund £1696.

Telephonic communication has been successfully established between Liverpool and Manchester under the supervision of Mr. Joseph B. Morgan.

Mr. C. S. Wortley, M.P., and Mrs. Wortley, were on Saturday last presented with a Broadwood grand piano and a complete service of table cutlery, at the Cutlers' Hall, Sheffield. The subscribers numbered 1146.

Mr. Smythies, Q.C., has been appointed Recorder of the borough of Ludlow, vice Mr. George Browne, deceased; and Mr. John Beavis Brindley, a member of the Oxford circuit, has been appointed Recorder of Hanley.

Sir Stafford Northcote, M.P., last week distributed the prizes to the successful candidates at the Oxford Local Examination at Bath, and spoke in terms of high appreciation of the extension of University education in our great towns.

An exhibition of art-needlework executed by members of the Ladies' School of Technical Needlework and the Working Ladies' Guild has been held at 42, Grosvenor-square, by the permission of Mr. Robert Loder, M.P.

Yesterday week a conference of delegates from the metropolitan vestries and district boards was held at St. Martin's Vestry, at which the provisions of the Artisans' Dwellings Act were considered and discussed.

The office of Clerk of the Peace for Bucks, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Acton Tindal, has been conferred upon Mr. E. R. Baynes, who for many years acted in professional partnership with the deceased gentleman.

The Board of Trade returns for October show that the total declared value of the exports was £18,685,060. The total value of the exports for the past ten months being £185,731,037. The total value of the imports for October was £27,436,060, and for the first ten months of the year £337,343,822.

The Chemical and the Linnean Societies held their first meetings for the scientific season at Burlington House on the 4th inst. Both were largely attended by the Fellows, and both sat late. At the Chemical Society there were eleven papers down for discussion, giving results of work done for the most part during the recess.

The directors of the North London Railway entertained the chairman of the company, Mr. James Bancroft, at dinner at the Euston Hotel a few days since, when a silver salver, with an appropriate inscription, was presented to him as an acknowledgment of the respect and esteem entertained for him by his colleagues on the board of direction.

The House of Keys met in Douglas, Isle of Man, yesterday week, and considered in Committee a Bill to amend the House of Keys Election Act, 1866. By 16 votes to 3 the House decided to extend the franchise to unmarried women who possessed the necessary qualification. The property qualification for members of the House of Keys was abolished.

At a meeting of the South London Working Men's College, at the Horns Assembly-Rooms, Kennington, on Tuesday evening, Professor Tyndall, who occupied the chair, distributed the prizes to the successful students at the last examinations. Prior to this Mr. Wyke Bayliss read a lecture upon the "Study of Poetry and Art."

Professor Henry Morley, speaking on Monday at the Westbourne-park Institute, Porchester-road, Bayswater, in one of a course of lectures he is delivering on "The Literature of the Present Time in its Relation to the Work of the Day," referred to the works of Dickens and Thackeray, but mainly occupied himself with the life and work of Dickens.

An old boys' club is being organised amongst the ex-scholars of that noble charity, the Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society; and all those who may be desirous of joining or aiding the movement are requested to communicate with Mr. John G. Adams, at 69, Cook's-road, Kennington, who will give every information.

Mr. David Spencer is the Coventry gentleman who has offered to present a park and recreation-ground, consisting of sixteen acres, to that city. It was stated at a meeting of the Coventry City Council on Tuesday that Mr. Spencer had deposited a cheque for 4000 guineas in the hands of the Mayor for the carrying out of the work.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the fifth week in October was 87,450, of whom 49,632 were in workhouses, and 37,818 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding week in the year 1879, these figures show an increase of 2795. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 921, of whom 675 were men, 206 women, and 40 children under sixteen.

Mr. Justice Grove, Mr. Baron Huddleston, and Mr. Justice Bowen have been placed on the rota as Election Petition Judges for the ensuing year. Baron Huddleston is absent through illness; the hearing of the Evesham election petition (which is the last one for trial) consequently devolves upon Mr. Justice Grove and Mr. Justice Bowen.

The Metropolitan Board of Works have resolved to adopt a recommendation from the Works Committee, that a reply should be forwarded to the Open Spaces Committee of the Kyrle Society stating that the board were not prepared at the present time to apply for powers to enable them to take over the garden of Lincoln's-inn-fields for the use of the public.

Mr. Barlow, C.E., attended a meeting of the North British Railway directors, held on the 4th inst., when plans for the restoration of the Tay Bridge were approved. The new scheme provides for a double line of rails. The piers are to be of brick throughout, and the structure is to be lowered eleven feet. A strong iron parapet will also be erected along each side of the bridge.

The winter session of the Royal Geographical Society was opened on Monday evening—the president, Lord Aberdare, occupying the chair. Mr. Joseph Thomson read a paper on his recent journey to the Lukuga outlet of Lake Tanganyika, viâ the north end of Lake Nyassa, of which expedition he had become the head in consequence of the death of its original leader, Mr. Keith Johnston. Among the members of the council present was Sir Bartle Frere, who was loudly cheered.

The Board of Trade returns as to emigration from Liverpool during the month of October show that the total number of emigrants who sailed from the Mersey was 14,695, of whom 12,979 were for the United States of America. The nationalities of these emigrants show that there were 6858 English, 285 Scotch, 1518 Irish, and 5309 foreigners. The emigration in October was less by 4633 souls than in the preceding month.

The Scottish Chamber of Agriculture, at its annual meeting in Edinburgh, on Tuesday, adopted a resolution declaring the claim of tenant farmers to compensation for improvements that add to the letting value of a farm to be a righteous claim, and one which should be made a presumption of law. In the course of the discussion several speakers advocated the abolition of entail. A proposal to consider the question of land valuation and rent modification encountered opposition, and was eventually withdrawn.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING NOV. 20.

SUNDAY, Nov. 14.

Twenty-fifth Sunday after Trinity.
Morning Lessons: Micah iv. and v. 1—8.; Hebrews viii. Evening Lessons: Micah vi. or vii.; John iv. 1—31.
St Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Otley; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Gregory; 7 p.m., Rev. R. S. Gregory, Vicar of St. Mark's, Myddelton-square.
St. James's, noon, probably Rev. Francis Garden, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. Harry Jones, Rector of St. George's in the East; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Farrar.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. W. Boyd Carpenter (in aid of the Society for Relieving Distress); 3 p.m., Rev. W. Hulton.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Gordon Calthrop.
Temple Church, 11 a.m. uncertain; 3 p.m., Rev. A. Ainger, the reader.

MONDAY, Nov. 15.

Institute of British Architects, 8 p.m. (Mr. E. Ingress on the Modern Barrack, its Plan and Construction).
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Professor A. H. Church on Chemistry; and on Thursday).
Accession of Christian IX., King of Denmark, 1863.
Asiatic Society, 4 p.m. (Professor Monier Williams on Indian Theistic Reformers).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Races: Derby Autumn Meeting.

TUESDAY, Nov. 16

Full Moon, 8.39 p.m.
Sittings of the House of Lords begin.
Humane Society, 4 p.m.
Institution of Civil Engineers, 8 p.m.
South-place Institute, 7 p.m. (Mr. W. C. Coupland on Ethical Principles); 8.30; p.m. (Dr. E. B. Aveling on Biology).
Gresham Lectures, 6 p.m. (Dr. Wylde on Music, and on 17th, 18th, and 19th).
Horticultural Society, 1 p.m.
Pathological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Zoological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Statistical Society, 7.45 p.m.
Races: Shrewsbury, Four Oaks Park

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 17.

Institute of Bankers, 6 p.m. (Mr. J. Dunn on the Law of Value).
Meteorological Society, 7 p.m.
Dental Surgeons' Association, 8.30 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Address by Mr. F. J. Bramwell, chairman of the council).
London Dialectical Society, 8 p.m. (Sir Arthur Hobhouse on India).
Society of Public Analysts, 8 p.m.
College of Preceptors, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. A. J. Ellis on the Standard Pronunciation of English).
Geological Society, 8 p.m.
British Archæological Association, 8 p.m. (Tower of London:—Mr. C. H. Compton on the Martin Tower, and Mr. E. P. L. Brook on Remains of a Roman Wall).

THURSDAY, Nov. 18.

Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Linnean Society, 8 p.m. (Dr. J. D. McDonald on the Classification of Gasteropoda; papers by Rev. G. Henslow, Dr. G. Dobson, Messrs. P. McOrran and Harry Bolus, and Rev. M. J. Berkeley).
Horological Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. James V. Poole on Hall Marking).
Birmingham Historical Society (inaugural address of Dr. E. A. Freeman, the President).
Chemical Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. Spencer Pickering on the Oxides of Manganese; Dr. J. H. Gladstone and Mr. A. Tribe on Aluminium Alcohols).
Royal Society Club, 6.30 p.m.

FRIDAY, Nov. 19.

Society for Propagation of the Gospel, 2 p.m.
South Kensington Museum, 2.30 p.m. (Mr. Ernst Pauer on the History of Pianoforte Playing).
Philological Society, 8 p.m.
City of London College, 6 p.m. (Dr. N. Heinemann on Political Economy—Private Property).
Architectural Association, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. G. R. Redgrave on the Use of Cements).

SATURDAY, Nov. 20.

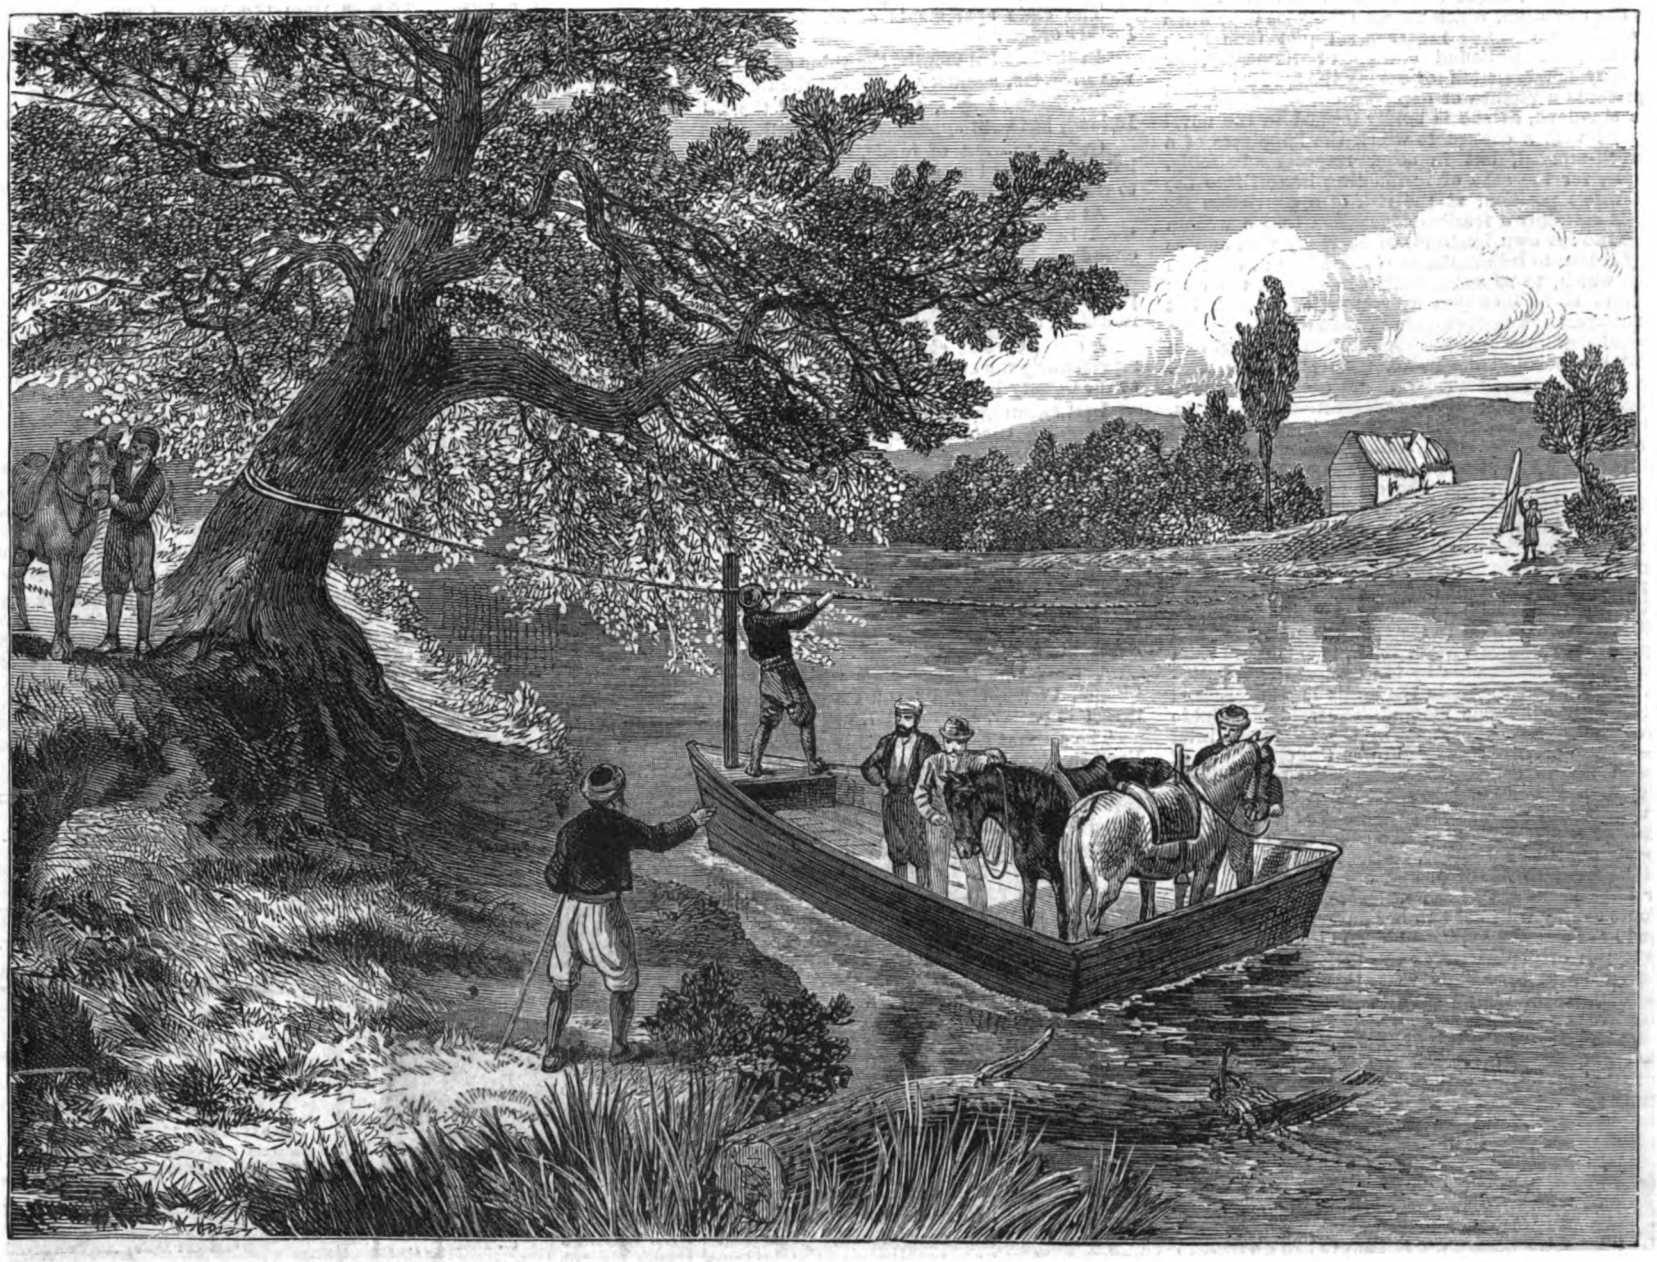
Hull and East Riding Cattle Show (six days).

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

Day.	Daily means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermom.: Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Thermom.: Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Oct. 31	30·061	42·2	35·3	·78	4	49·6	33·4	W. WSW.	226	0·000
Nov. 1	30·229	37·6	29·6	·73	8	45·1	31·3	WSW. N.	134	0·000
2	30·078	36·1	30·1	·81	3	44·4	26·3	N. ENE.	165	0·000
3	30·224	40·8	30·0	·68	2	45·9	33·6	NE.	322	0·000
4	30·308	38·9	31·4	·77	2	45·3	31·6	NNE. N.	156	0·010*
5	30·342	39·0	38·3	·97	8	45·6	30·5	N. NW.	78	0·000
6	30·334	45·0	39·0	·81	8	50·9	38·3	NW. WSW.	120	0·000



* Dew.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·103	30·199	30·155	30·170	30·412	30·302	30·371
Temperature of Air	43·1°	43·4°	33·7°	42·0°	39·4°	39·6°	44·6°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	38·4°	37·3°	31·7°	38·0°	36·3°	36·4°	41·4°
Direction of Wind	WSW.	NW.	N.	NNE.	NNE.	N.	NW.

Digitized by Google

GREEK ANTIQUITIES OF ASIA MINOR.

CROSSING THE SCAMANDER, NEAR TROY.

CHAPEL OF THE SEVEN SLEEPERS AT EPHESUS.

Digitized by Google

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW IN THE TEMPLE GARDENS.

TEMPLE GARDENS CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW.

Almost simultaneously with the reopening of the Law Courts after the Long Vacation comes the annual show of chrysanthemums in the Inner Temple Gardens, which, by permission of the Benchers, will remain open during November. Mr. Newton, the head gardener, is to be congratulated upon the forward condition to which he has brought the majority of his plants this season, and upon the addition of several new and choice varieties to his already numerous collection. Among these may be mentioned the pretty bronze-tinted flower named Tendresse, the Grand Turk (a large purplish rose bloom of the Japanese variety), the MacMahon (a large white flower with purple tips), the Gazelle (crimson, tipped orange), the Bouquet Fait (a handsome flower of a delicate rose colour tinted with claret), the Cry Kang (a very pretty rose magenta of the Japanese variety), and others. Among the older-established favourites special attention may be directed to the James Salter, Gloire de Toulouse, Prince Alfred, Elaine, Aurea Multiflora, Gloria Mundi, Mrs. G. Rundle, Lord Derby, Wells Queen, and Plenipo. We understand that this makes the thirty-sixth annual show of these pretty winter flowers at the Inner Temple. The chrysanthemum show in the Middle Temple Gardens has also been reopened this year.

GREEK ANTIQUITIES OF ASIA MINOR.

The collection of Sketches made in April, 1877, by our well-known Special Artist, Mr. William Simpson, illustrating the present aspects and the archæological possibilities of many sites of classical renown on the shores of Asia Minor, as well as in the peninsula of European Greece, has frequently supplied a theme of comment. Many of those Sketches, bearing reference to the supposed position of ancient Troy, according to Dr. Schliemann's theory, as well as to the recent antiquarian discoveries among the ruins of Ephesus, and those of Mycenæ within the existing Greek Kingdom, have been engraved and published in this Journal. An Exhibition of the whole series of original Sketches and finished drawings was opened to public view in Pall-mall about three years ago, and attracted numerous visitors, who recognised their interest and value as contributing to our acquaintance with famous places of ancient historic and poetic associations. Two of the remaining Views are now presented to our readers; one from the Troad or Plain of Troy—namely, the scene of "Crossing the Scamander;" and one from the vicinity of Ephesus, being that of the shrine erected at the cavern where the "Seven Sleepers" of early Christian martyrology were believed to have miraculously slumbered through perilous ages of heathen persecution.

The Scamander is also called Xanthus, and is described by Homer as "the wide-flowing, silver-eddying river." It is also described as begotten of Zeus, and as one of the Divine powers it took sides with the other gods of Olympus in the great struggle for Troy. In the twenty-first book of the Iliad occurs the wonderful description of its contest with Achilles, when that renowned hero was getting the worst of the fight, till Athene and Poseidon came to his rescue. The river is of considerable size, and in the month of April it quite justified Homer's phrase as being "deep-eddying." It is of a grey tint, the water very like that of the Ganges. On the Plain of Troy there are still to be found the older beds of the Scamander, and which are called "Asmak," which word means "still water," and befits the pools in the old hollows of the river bed. The Scamander rises on the sides of many-rilled Ida, where it bursts forth from the sides of the mountain, and is described by Dr. Clarke, who says he beheld several cascades, all of foam, pouring impetuously from chasms in the naked face of a perpendicular rock. It is said the same magnificent cataract continues during all seasons of the year, wholly unaffected by the quantity of rain or of melting snow.

The topography of Ephesus and its neighbourhood is not yet free from disputed questions, though we know much more of that great city, its theatre and its Temple of Diana, than could have been expected twenty years ago. On the east side, however, of the hill to which the name of Mount Prion is assigned by Mr. Falkener, are the remains of the Chapel of the Seven Sleepers. That curious but touching and romantic legend was related, in apparent good faith, by some Fathers of the Church, but has been suggestive of various imitations among the fabulous and fantastic tales of different nations, both in the East and in the West. It was said that, in the time of the cruel persecution under the Emperor Diocletian, towards the close of the third century after Christ, seven young men of this city, who were believers in Christ, hid themselves in the cavern here, not hoping for earthly deliverance, but intending to abide together in united prayer till released by the death which would naturally soon come upon them. Instead of dying, they were presently enfolded in a profound sleep, which held them safely above two hundred years; they awoke and emerged from the cave, to behold a new and better social world, under the influence of Christianity, arisen in the Roman Empire. They saw and wondered at the entire change of outward customs, habitations, and attire in their native city, whose people came to meet or visit them, but could hardly understand their speech. After a few hours, praising God and their Saviour, and once more resigning their souls to heavenly mercy, these primitive disciples again withdrew to their cave, where in a few minutes they quietly expired. Such is the original tradition, which has been adopted and altered by Mohammed in the eighteenth chapter of the Koran, and is still cherished by Mussulman believers, adding some trivial particulars, as that of the dog, Ketmehr, which they say followed the seven devoted saints into the cave, and spoke to them a promise that they should not die. The Christians of the sixth century, or perhaps of a later date, converted this hallowed recess into a chapel, excavating a square chamber, in which were seven or eight niches resembling tombs, for a memorial of the former occupants of the consecrated cavern. The reason of the eighth tomb has not been explained by authority, but its idea may be capable of a theological explanation.

Digitized by Google

The first meeting of the Ascham Society, formed for promoting social intercourse between persons engaged in educational work, will be held in the rooms of the society, 18, Baker-street, Portman-square, next Wednesday evening, when Dr. Richardson, F.R.S., will lecture on "Temperaments in relation to education." The future meetings of the society will be held on the second and fourth Wednesday in each month.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

Crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.,

LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœbæ to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," &c.

Extract from Preface:—"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simple than in text-books on Zoology. For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena, and I have been more careful to sketch in bold outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.

I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lasso-Throwers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Mailed Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect Suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies when they Change their Coats.
XII. Intelligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.

THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and Her Children," &c.

"Altogether, with its attractive illustrations and brightly written pages, is one of the pleasantest volumes for intelligent boys and girls that has been produced this season. But, indeed, a book so instructive and entertaining deserves a welcome at all seasons, and is likely to secure a permanent reputation."—Pall Mall Gazette.

London: E. STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

BEAUTIFUL PRESENTS.—THE MINIATURE LIBRARY OF THE POETS, very clearly printed, on fine toned paper:—Shakespeare's complete Works, in 12 vols., in handsome cloth box, 15s.; Milton's Poetical Works, in 2 vols., cloth, gilt edges, in paper box, price 2s. 6d.; Wordsworth and Longfellow, uniform with Milton in style and price. The three last-named Poets together, in 6 vols., in plain cloth box, 7s. 6d.; or in handsome cloth box, lettered, 9s.; or two of them in 4 vols., in cloth box, 5s. Kept also in russia and French morocco.—London: W. KENT and Co., Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers in Town and Country.

Now ready, 25th Edition, 8vo, cloth, pp. 1102, price 16s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Completely re-arranged, revised, re-written, annotated, and brought down to the present time, with a copious introduction, by R. S. Guttteridge, M.D. The present edition contains many important new chapters and sections, with new features and matter pertaining thereto, including the specific characteristic effects of all the new American remedies, the symptoms and treatment of all general diseases, including those of women and children. Diseases of Tropical Climates are fully considered, and the volume may be pronounced of the greatest value to families, emigrants, and missionaries.

Of this work a Physician of high standing writes:—"I have gone pretty well through your Edition of Laurie's Domestic Homœopathic Medicine, and I can truly say that it is the most perfect work of its kind ever published; in fact, it is, to my mind, too good for the general public, as it enlightens them too much in the art and mystery of medicine and surgery. For young medical beginners such a work is invaluable, as it would save them a great amount of reading. It is really superior to any Domestic yet published. I have the First and Second Editions of Laurie, and your Edition only shows what the work has developed into."

Just out, Thirtieth Edition, post 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

EPITOME OF THE ABOVE WORK. By R. S. GUTTERIDGE, M.D.

This edition contains notices of most of the new medicines, and is brought down to the present time.

HEATH and Ross, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard; and 9, Vere-street, W.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

POPULAR FRENCH NOVELS, Translations of the best examples of recent French Fiction of an unobjectionable character. ONE SHILLING EACH.

FROMONT AND RISLER. By A. DAUDET.
SAMUEL BROHL AND PARTNER. By V. CHERBULIEZ.
MAUGARS, JUNIOR. By A. THEURIET.
DRAMA OF THE RUE DE LA PAIX. By A. BELOT.
WAYWARD DOSIA. By H. GREVILLE.
A NEW LEASE OF LIFE. By E. ABOUT.

VIZETELLY and Co., 10, Southampton-street, Strand.

NEW NOVELS AT ALL LIBRARIES.

ADAM AND EVE. By Mrs. PARR. 3 vols.
THE MYSTERY IN PALACE GARDENS. By Mrs. RIDDELL. 3 vols.
THE RED RAG. By R. MOUNTENEY JEPHSON. 2 vols.
JOHNNY LUDLOW. (Second Series.) By Mrs. HENRY WOOD. 3 vols.
DOROTHY FOX. By Mrs. PARR, Author of "Adam and Eve." Crown 8vo, 6s.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

NOTICE.—THE MAGAZINE OF ART. Fourth Edition. THREE LARGE EDITIONS of the NOVEMBER NUMBER having been exhausted, a FOURTH EDITION has been prepared, which is ready for delivery this day.

Now ready, price 10s. 6d.,

THE MAGAZINE OF ART.—Yearly Volume for 1880. With about 350 Illustrations by the first Artists of the day, and Etching for Frontispiece.

N.B.—This Volume of "The Magazine of Art" contains 480 pages, whilst the two former volumes (published at 7s. 6d. each) have consisted of not more than 300 pages each. The price of Vols. I. and II. has been raised to 10s. 6d. each.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

ALL MOTHERS SHOULD READ

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL and CHILDREN'S DRESS. Price 6d.; by post, 8d. Published on the 15th of each Month.

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL contains information upon all the newest Modes for Children, from Infants to Children of 14 years of age.

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL. The NOVEMBER Number contains cut-out Paper Pattern, the Combination Night Dress for a little Girl; a Beautifully Coloured Fashion-Plate; the Silkworm's Gift. Diagram Sheet, containing Patterns for cutting-out a Baby's Doll's Layette; Diagram Sheet, containing—1. The Percy Ulster; 2. Princess Night Dress; 3. The Lorna Costume; 4. The Fielding Costume. Costumes and Toilettes for Children; Winter Costumes for Young Girls and Children; Morning, Promenade, and Evening Toilettes for Ladies; New Lingerie, Parures, Winter Bonnets, Hats, Mantles, and Visites; Models from Les Grands Magazins du Louvre, Paris. Needlework—Pointe, Ornament for Chemise Top, Edgings of Insertion in Crochet and Braid and Cotton.

LA MODE IN PARIS.—Nursery Notes by the SILKWORM; Modes for Children, and where to see them; the Last News from Paris.

MYRA'S ANSWERS.—Answers on Dress, Health, and Personal Attention, Needlework, the Cuisine, Miscellaneous, &c.
Subscriptions—Yearly, 8s.: Half-Yearly, 4s.

GOUBAUD and SON, 39 and 40, Bedford-street, London, W.C.

Just published, Illustrated, post-free, 1s. 6d.,

DECORATIVE PAINTING. A Practical Guide to Decorating the Walls of any Apartment, Painting Panels, Screens, and Terra Cotta. By W. B. HARRISON.—WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

Neatly bound in cloth, price 2s. 6d. Now ready,

FAMILY HERALD SUPPLEMENTS. Vol. V.

Containing Eight Complete Novels.

"Queen Mab."	Sinned Against or Sinning?
Across the Moor.	The Doctor of Marston.
Once at Daggers Drawn.	Mab's Wooings.
Only a Woman's Hair.	A Righteous Retribution.
A Mysterious Lover.	The Mistress of Hurst.
Fate.	From a Distant Shore.
"We Kissed Again, with Tears."	Vanedene.
"What will Ethel Say?"	An Utter Despair.
Minnie Yorke's Offers.	He Stooped to Conquer.

London: W. STEVENS, 421, Strand; and of all Booksellers.

THE NEW FASHION-BOOK for AUTUMN, 1880, is NOW READY. Post-free for twelve stamps.

"MESSRS. DEBENHAM and FREEBODY, of Wigmore-street and Scarborough, announce the Autumn Edition of their 'New Fashion-Book,' which is not only twice its original size, but contains twice the number of skilfully-executed illustrations of ladies' dress in its various departments, and is in every respect of greatly enhanced value. It contains an elaborate and exhaustive article on the Fashions for the present autumn. . . . Almost endless details of materials and made-up articles, with prices attached, will be found in the work, which is altogether of exceptional merit, and ladies who wish to be au courant with the frequent changes of fashion, to ascertain at their leisure, at what cost any particular articles can be obtained, who desire to ensure careful attention to their wishes and punctuality in their fulfilment, cannot do better than consult the 'New Fashion-Book' of Messrs. Debenham and Freebody."—Morning Post, Oct. 22, 1880.

"THE NEW FASHION-BOOK, Autumn, 1880, issued by Messrs. Debenham and Freebody, of Wigmore-street and Welbeck-street, should be in the hands of all who desire to be au courant with the latest modes. The illustrations of travelling, walking, evening, and reception dresses are exceedingly attractive, and the same may be said of the millinery, tea gowns, and laces. Ladies should procure this most interesting Magazine of Fashion, which is especially published by this eminent firm of silk mercers and drapers in April and October of each year."—Court Journal, Oct. 23, 1880.

"THE NEW FASHION-BOOK for the Autumn Season has been issued by Messrs Debenham and Freebody, of Wigmore-street. It contains many novelties in costumes, mantles, millinery, &c., with ample descriptive matter. A lady must be, indeed, fastidious who cannot find something in the book to her liking. The figures are better drawn and truer to nature than those in most fashion-books, and altogether the publication is creditable to the taste and enterprise of the firm."—City Press.

THE NEW FASHION-BOOK, Post-free for 12 stamps. DEBENHAM and FREEBODY, Wigmore-street, Welbeck-street, London, W.

Third Edition, 1s., post-free,

THE new ELECTROLYTIC TREATMENT of CANCER and of simple Tumours. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.—NELSON and Co., 23, Duke-street, Grosvenor-square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free, Two Stamps.

DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s.
London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,

DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics. G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

Fourth Edition, cloth, post-free, 13 stamps,

DR. BARR MEADOWS on Homœopathy. "A clever expose of the system." G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

New Edition, pp. 180, cloth, 1s.; for 13 stamps by post,

DOG DISEASES TREATED BY HOMŒOPATHY. By JAMES MOORE, M.R.C.V.S. Each disease is clearly described and prescribed for.
JAMES ERPS and Co., 170, Piccadilly; and 48, Threadneedle-st.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

CHATTO and WINDUS'S NEW BOOKS. Full Catalogues by post upon application.

Complete in 4 vols., demy 8vo, 12s. each,

A HISTORY OF OUR OWN TIMES, from the Accession of Queen Victoria to the General Election of 1880. By JUSTIN McCARTHY, M.P. "Criticism is disarmed before a composition which provokes little but approval. This is a really good book on a really interesting subject, and words piled on words could say no more for it."—Saturday Review.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF MARK TWAIN'S NEW WORK.—Crown 8vo, cloth extra, with 314 Illustrations, 7s. 6d.,

A TRAMP ABROAD. By MARK TWAIN. "A piece of work that is not only delightful as mere reading, but also of a high degree of merit as literature . . . The book is full of good things."—Athenæum.

A Handsome Gift-Book, small 8vo, cloth extra, 6s.,

THE WOOING OF THE WATERWITCH: A Northern Oddity. By EVAN DALDORNE. With 125 fine Illustrations by J. Moyr Smith.

MISS G. BOWERS'S NEW HUNTING SKETCHES. Beautifully coloured, and handsomely half-bound, oblong 4to. 21s.

LEAVES FROM A HUNTING JOURNAL. By G. BOWERS, Author of "Canters in Crampshire," &c. Coloured in facsimile of the Originals.

NEW NOVELS NOW READY AT EVERY LIBRARY.

A CONFIDENTIAL AGENT. By JAMES PAYNE. 3 vols.
THE REBEL OF THE FAMILY. By E. LYNN LINTON. 3 vols.
ELLICE QUENTIN. By JULIAN HAWTHORNE. 2 vols.

CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

Just published, demy 8vo, price 12s. 6d.,

ROUND THE WORLD IN 124 DAYS. By R. W. LEYLAND, F.R.G.S. With Map and Illustrations.—London: HAMILTON, ADAMS, and Co., Paternoster-row.

MISS BRADDON'S CHRISTMAS ANNUAL. Price One Shilling, Illustrated.

THE MISLETOE BOUGH. The New Annual. By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret." London: J. and R. MAXWELL, Shoe-lane, Fleet-street.

1d. Weekly; Monthly Part, 5d.,

GARDENING ILLUSTRATED.—Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening. Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All Newsagents. Copy by post, 1½d. Vol. I., 7s. 6d.
37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

SELF-CULTURE for ALL.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR, in WEEKLY NUMBERS and MONTHLY PARTS.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR. Numbers 1, 2, and 3 now ready, price 1d. each.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR. Part I. now ready, price 6d., containing a valuable CHART of the HISTORY of the WORLD, printed in Colours. Prospectus post-free on application.

WARD AND LOCK'S

UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR: or, Self-Culture for All.

The "Athenæum" of Nov. 6, 1880, says:—"The work is excellent, and it is to be hoped it may meet with the popularity it deserves."

"The publishers are doing a public service which cannot be over-estimated, as they are offering the means of education to the humblest people in the community as well as to those living far remote from scats of learning."—Edinburgh Daily Review.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

Three Steel Engravings of Fashions, delicately coloured, in the November Number, price One Shilling.

THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION, the Authority upon matters of DRESS, FASHION, AND SOCIETY.
Office: 11, Ave Maria-lane, London, E.C.; and all Booksellers.

SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE for NOVEMBER commences a new volume; contains 25 distinct Articles and 70 high-class Illustrations. Price 1s. 4d.
F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

CAN A MAN FLY? or, Fifteen Months in the Moon. 3rd Thousand. 96 Pages. SUMMARY OF CONTENTS:—Separation of Mind and Matter. Journey to Moon: Landing; "Try other Side." Second Landing: Signal to Earth; Reply; Reunion of Mind and Matter; Description of Lunar Inhabitants—their Dwellings, Food, Government, Language, Division of Time, Mode of Calculation, Animals, Birds, Plants, Monocyclic Railways (120 miles per hour), and Utilisation of Electricity; a Sixth Sense—Natural Telegraphy; Lunar Courtship; Terrible Flood; Festival of the Rising Sun; Solution of the Problems of Aerial Navigation and Diamond Manufacture; Long Ride Through the Air; Awful Combat—Triumph; Earth from entirely New Point of View; Conclusion. Price 6d.; post-free, 7d.—G. H. RYAN, Hornsey, London, N.

THE LINCOLN POSTAGE-STAMP ALBUM and CATALOGUE. Illustrated. Fifth Edition. With Spaces for over 3500 stamps. Cloth gilt, 2s. 6d.; post-free, 2s. 10d.—W. LINCOLN, 239, High Holborn, London.

WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS on LOAN for the use of amateurs and students. The Subscription Portfolio contains a choice collection by leading Artists. Catalogue and terms on application.—ARTHUR ACKERMANN, 191, Regent-street, London.

CHARMING CRAYON PORTRAITS. Send Photo and 10s. 6d. to A. and J. BOOL, Artists (from Royal Academy, National Medallist), 86, Warwick-street, Pimlico, London, who will return photo with faithful Crayon Drawing from it, 15 by 10 inches, post-free, home or abroad. 100 testimonials. Tinted Crayons, 21s.; Water-colour, 21s.; Oil, two guineas; Life-size highly-finished Crayon, £5 5s. On Parle Français.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY. (KRAUS' PROCESS.) The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 21s. and 31s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHY NOT MAKE YOUR OWN LANTERN SLIDES? (TRANSFER PROCESS.) A Box containing a Sheet of Twelve 3¼-inch VIEWS, Glasses, Roller, Brushes, Varnishes, New Frame, Masks, and Book containing full Instructions, 14s. Particulars and Price-Lists post-free.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

MACNIVEN and CAMERON'S PENS are the BEST. "They come as a boon and a blessing to men, The Pickwick, the Owl, and the Waverley Pen." "They are a treasure."—Standard. 6d. and 1s. per Box. Sold by all Stationers. Specimen Box of all the kinds, by post, 1s. 1d. 23, Blair-street, Edinburgh. Penmakers to Her Majesty's Government Offices. (Est. 1770).

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS. GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.

GOOD-BYE. COTSFORD DICK'S New Song. The Poetry by G. J. Whyte-Melville. "There is a charm about this song which will gain for it a wide acceptance; there is no bar to its achieving considerable popularity."—Queen. Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

THE KING'S CHAMPION. New Song, for Baritone or Bass. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON. Sung by Mr. Thurley Beale. Editions in D and E flat. Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

SECONDHAND PIANO SALE.—PIANOS, £15; Broadwood Pianos, £25; Erard Pianos, £35; Collard Pianos, £28; Harmoniums, £5; American Organs, £10. THOMAS OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE.—Purchasers who can pay cash will do well to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of obtaining thoroughly good instruments at extraordinary low prices.

BROADWOOD PIANOS, 24 guineas. Full compass Pianofortes, in handsome cases, good condition, fine tone, at above moderate price, for cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

COLLARD PIANOS, 28 guineas. Full-compass COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fine full, rich tone, perfect condition. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Madame Tussaud's).

ERARD PIANOS, 38 guineas, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Trichord COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, in handsome ebonised and gilt cases, fine full, powerful tone. Cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street,

PIANOFORTE SALE.—The PIANOFORTE HIRE and THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM BUSINESS carried on as usual during the Sale.—THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., opposite Madame Tussaud's.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES. SPECIALITÉ. REPEATERS, CHRONOGRAPHS, &c. HENRY CAPT is the only Manufacturer in Geneva having a Branch Retail House in London. Every Watch sold by him is guaranteed of his own manufacture, and none but the best quality are kept. Special Workmen for Repairs. London Branch, 151, Regent-street.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES for Painting, Fern Painting, and Decalcomanie, Blotting-Books, Card Plates, Cigar-Cases, Screens, &c. Priced List free. WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Office, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 2s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 8d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 8d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris, 1878.

BAKER and CRISP'S ENGRAVINGS, Post-Free, of all the NEW COSTUMES, Ledger Jackets, Mother Hubbard Cloaks, Jersey Jackets, Jersey Skirts, Tea Gowns, and Dressing Gowns. Patterns free. 198, Regent-street, London.

BAKER and CRISP'S ENGRAVINGS, Post-Free, of all the NEW ULSTERS, from 8s. 11d. to 3 gu neas—viz., the Tailor-Made Langtry, Grassmere, Lochiel, Sandown, Cheviotdale, and others. 500 Children's Ulsters from 4s. 11d. Patterns free.

BAKER and CRISP'S ROYAL MOLESKIN, Lyons Velveteens, in Black, Coloured, Striped, and Figured of all kinds, from 1s. 11½d. to 6s. 6d. per yard. Patterns free. Real Lyons Striped, Figured, and Plain Silk Velvets, 3s. 11d. to 7s. 6d. Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

BAKER and CRISP'S WINTER FABRICS, Foule Serges, Vicunas, Blanket Serges, Welsh Homespuns, Witney, Cheviots, and 100 other Beautiful Fabrics, from 9d. yard. Patterns free.

BAKER and CRISP'S FRENCH and HIMALAYAN COLOUR and BLACK CASHMERES, a beautiful range of colours and qualities, very widest, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 6d. yard only. Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

A MARVEL OF CHEAPNESS, 12 for 1s. 11½d. 1500 dozen hemmed-stitched Cambric Handkerchiefs, post-free 25 stamps. 2000 dozen extra fine and beautiful, in half-dozens, free for 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 6s. 6d. half-dozen. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street.

FURS, FURS, FURS.—100 Fur-Lined Cloaks Extraordinary, 29s. 6d., 35s. 6d., 39s. 6d.; 1500 real Russian Fur Shoulder Capes, 3s. 6d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 11d., post-free; Fur Sets, 10s. 6d. to 60s.; Muffs, 3s. 11d. to 20s.; real Seal Hats, 12s. 9d. to 21s. Send for our detailed lists. BAKER AND CRISP'S, Regent-street.

LADIES' WINTER UNDER VESTS, Cardigans, Knitted Vests, Tam o'Shanter Hats, 1000 Merino Vests, 18 stamps; Cardigan Vests, 2s. 3½d., extraordinary black Cashmere and Ribbed Hose, 2s.; beautiful wool Shoulder Wraps, 3s. 11d. and 4s. 11d., post-free. BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

TWENTY THOUSAND LADIES' SILK SQUARES for Neck or Pocket. Three for 15 stamps. Also suitable for Childrens' Pockets. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street.

INDIAN EMBROIDERY of the most Elegant and Fashionable Designs—viz., Christening Robes, 21s. and 42s. each; Ladies' Handkerchiefs, 3½d. and 4½d. the half dozen; Bables' Bibs, 2½d. the dozen; Children's Frocks, 15s. each; Petticoats, large size, 2½d. each; Ladies' Neckties, 2½d. the dozen; Children's Capes, 12s. 6d. each; Narrow Edging, 1½. per yard; Ditto, Wide, 3s. 4d. per yard. The above sent post-free to any address in Great Britain, the United States, and Canada. Remittances to be crossed "Agra Bank," and made payable to J. KENYON and CO., 19, Strand, Calcutta, East Indies.

TO LADIES.—THE SHREWSBURY WATERPROOF TWEED CLOAKS, SKIRTS, and JACKETS, in every variety of shape and colour, are supplied by the original Makers, E. W. and W. PHILLIPS, 37, High-street, Shrewsbury. Patterns and Prices on application.

ULSTER CLOTHS, Sealskins, and other Materials for Ladies' Jackets, at very moderate prices, for ready money only. CHARLES MEEKING and CO., Woollen Warehouse, 5, Holborn-circus, corner of Hatton-garden, London.

THE LONDON GLOVE COMPANY'S GLOVES.

Ladies 2 Button Kid Gloves from	6s. 6d. per half-dozen.
" 4 "	"	8s. 6d.	"
" 6 "	"	10s. 6d.	"
Gentlemen's Kid Gloves	"	6s. 0d.	"

Single Pairs Sold.
Detailed list of all Makes post-free.
THE LONDON GLOVE COMPANY, 45a, Cheapside, E.C.

ARRASENE. A New Material in Silk and Wool, for Artistic Embroidery. Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks. Can be procured of Berlin Wool Repositories. Wholesale only, R. G. GEACH, 157, Cheapside.

Digitized by Google

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Please direct all Letters and Orders for

PETER ROBINSON,

SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833.)
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

SILKS AND VELVETS.

Now on Sale. All Patterns free.
The entire Manufacturer's Stock, comprising
RICH BROCADED SILKS, SATINS, and VELVETS,
in every variety of colour for the fashionable combination Dresses. Per yard.
In all the new shades and mixture of OLD GOLD, &c., for Promenade Wear. In Delicate Tints, for Evening and Dinner Wear. In White, Ivory, and Cream, for Bridal Wear; also in Black. 3s. 6d. 4s. 6d. 5s. 6d. 6s. 6d.

RICH COLOURED VELVET BROCADES.

In splendid variety of New Shades and Mixture, for making up with Silk, Satin, or other fabrics .. .. 5s. 11d. 6s. 11d. 7s. 6d.

BLACK VELVET BROCADES.

In very handsome designs for Dresses and Mantles, much under price .. .. .. 7s. 6d. to 21s. 0d.
400 Pieces Coloured Satin striped Velvets, in every shade .. .. 3s. 9d.
Italian Silk Velvets in every Shade 4s. 11d., 6s. 9d. to 8s. 9d.
Black Lyons Silk Velvet .. .. 9s. 6d. to 21s. 0d.
Coloured Lyons Silk Velvet, in all New Shades .. .. 11s. 9d. to 16s. 9d.

PLUSHES AND SATINS.

The New Dress and Mantle Plush, in Black and all New Colours .. 7s. 6d. to 10s. 9d.
Lyons Dress Silks, in every shade of colour .. .. 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., to 4s. 6d.
Extra Double Warp .. .. .. 5s. 11d.
Rich Duchesse Satin, in Black and all the New Shades, 23 inches wide .. .. 5s. 3d.
Silk-faced Satins, in all Shades .. 2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d.

PETER ROBINSON,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET.

Patterns post-free.

WINTER DRESSES.

New Materials in New Colours, Cashmir d'Italie, Grain de Poure, Cachmere de la Reine, Angola Foule, &c. All pure wool, and dyed by the most eminent Paris dyers in Black and every new colour. Prices, the Full Dress, from .. .. Each. 14s. 6d. to 25s. 0d.
Also, in Black and the same colours, several thousand pieces of Cashmere and Cashmere Merinos, very wide .. .. per yard. 2s. 3d. to 3s. 6d.
Estamene, Witney, Devonshire and other All-Wool Serges, in Navy, Dark Brown, Prune, Bronze, Black, &c. .. .. .. 1s. 0d. to 2s. 9d.
Cashmere, Merino, and Cashmere, de Paris, in Rich Colourings, very soft and fine, 44 to 47 inches wide, per yard.. .. 2s. 2d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 9d. to 3s. 3d.
Also, Black .. .. .. 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Rich Velvet-Velveteens, Black, White, and all the new colours in Plain, Striped, and Embossed 1s. 0d. to 4s. 9d.
Also the New Black, as advertised, very wide .. .. 2s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
The New Plush Velveteen, in Black and Colours, 27 in. wide 4s. 9d.

EVENING DRESS MATERIALS.

Per yard.
In Plain and Damassé Grenadines .. .. .. 1s. to 2s. 6d.
Tinsel Gauze in great Variety .. .. .. 6½d. to 1s. 9d.
Rich Japanese Silk in Plain and Damassé, at one price .. .. 1s. 11d.
The New Gros Grain Japanese, 22 inches wide .. 2s. 9d.
Light Shades in Merinos, Cashmere, &c.
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the

LOUIS VELVETEEN

in Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an insufficient recommendation.
"LOUIS." It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition Many ladies have adopted the

LOUIS VELVETEEN,

in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."
Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both
"LOUIS." Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, foldingmarks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.

WHOLESALE AGENTS,

who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—
"LOUIS." J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

SPENCE'S ULSTER CLOTHS.
New and Elegant Autumn and Winter Fabrics, light, soft and warm, manufactured expressly by J. S. and Co. for Ulsters in the various fashionable colours and mixtures (four yards required for full-size Ulster).
54 inches wide, price 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 11d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., to 10s. 6d. per yard.
Full Sets of Patterns post-free.

SPENCE'S (TAILOR-MADE) ULSTERS.
Made from specially selected Ulster Cloths, for travelling, seaside, or walking. Instructions for self-measurement and patterns of materials post-free.

SPENCE'S PLUSH HOODED ULSTERS.
The Newest Styles and most Fashionable Colours.
"The greatest Novelty as Ulsters."
Price 19s. 6d.

SPENCE'S LOW-PRICED ULSTERS.
Commencing from 10s. 6d. A great variety marked at Wholesale City Prices.
Instructions for Self-Measurement and Patterns of Materials post-free.

SPENCE'S VELVETEENS.
Black and Coloured, guaranteed fast pile, warranted to wear, 100 Shades, full width, 2s. 9d. per yard.

SPENCE'S SERGES.
Sold at Manufacturers' Prices.
"Rough and Ready," 27 inches wide, 8½d. per yard.
All-Wool Winter Estamene, 1s. 3½d. per yard.
New French Cashmere Serge, 10½d. and 1s. per yard.
Knockabout Corduroy Cloth, or the Everlasting Cloth, 1s. 2½d. per yard.
Patterns post-free.

SPENCE'S JOB GOODS.
300 pieces Chambral Tweed,
25 inches wide, 4½d. worth 7½d. per yard.

SPENCE'S (only address), who Sell all Goods at Wholesale City Prices for cash, saving 25 per cent. or 5s. in the pound, is
JAMES SPENCE and CO.,
76, 77, 78, and 79, St. Paul's-churchyard; and
1, 2, and 4, London House-yard, E.C.

WINTER DRESSES—THE BEST VALUE IN LONDON.—Vecuna Foule Serges, the Fashionable Material for the Season. Price, 2s. per yard. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S
Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.

UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM,
PETER ROBINSON'S Experienced Dressmakers and Milliners Travel to all parts of the COUNTRY, FREE of EXPENSE to purchasers, with Dresses, Millinery, and a full assortment of made-up Articles of the Best and most suitable description. Also materials by the Yard, and supplied at the SAME PRICES as if purchased at the Warehouse in Regent-street.
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionably low rates, at a great saving to large or small Families.
Funerals conducted in Town or Country at stated charges.
Address ONLY to 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES.

Special qualities that will not spot with rain, finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner, solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities, from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard.
Others not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

THE SMALL PROFIT SYSTEM.

BLACK SILKS.

PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET, is now Selling
ALL BLACK SILKS, PLUSHES, and VELVETS, both Plain and Brocaded,
AT VERY SMALL PROFITS,
to induce large Sales.

Bonnet's..	No. 1 Quality, 4s. 3d.	}	from 1s. 6d. to 4s. per yard under fair value.
..	No. 2 .. 5s. 3d.
..	No. 3 .. 6s. 0d.
..	No. 4 .. 7s. 0d.
Jaubert ..	No. 1 Quality, 3s. 3½d.	}	from 1s. to 4s. per yard under their fair value.
	No. 2 .. 3s. 11d.
	No. 3 .. 4s. 9d.
	No. 4 .. 5s. 3d.
	No. 5 .. 6s. 0d.

To be obtained only at
PETER ROBINSON'S
REGENT-STREET SHOP,
Nos. 256 to 262, Regent-street.
For Patterns please be careful in the address.

NEW FRENCH MILLINERY.

SPECIAL NOVELTIES IN BONNETS, HATS, CAPS, &c., have been imported from Paris.
Our Show-Rooms were never more attractive than now.
Photographs will be sent by return, on application to
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262.

WARM and SEASONABLE DRESSES,
IN BLACK.

Nanciue Cloth, all wool, excellent wear, 1s. per yard.
Vigogne, extra wide (47 inches), beautifully soft, 2s. 9d.
Cachemire, 47 inches wide, 1s. 11d.; well worth 2s. 6d.
English Wool Poplin, 8½d., 1s., and up to 2s. 6d.
Flannel Serge, 1s. 4½d. to 3s. 6d.
Stout, Warm, Charity Homespun, 9½d., 1s., 1s. 2½d.
Damassé, new patterns (Silk and Wool), 2s. 6d.
Indian Cachemire, very soft, light, and warm, 2s. 6d. to 9s. 6d.
Velveteens (rich fast pile), 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d. up to 5s. 11d.
Patterns free.—Address as follows—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.

FOR 3 GUINEAS. 3½, 4, AND 5 GUINEAS.

FASHIONABLE, WARM, BLACK COSTUMES,

in Indian Cachemire, beautifully warm and soft; Vigogne, Double Cashmere, and Velveteen (fast pile).

FOR 33s. 6d. AND 2½ GUINEAS.

USEFUL BLACK SERGE COSTUMES,

well cut and handsomely Trimmed, Braided, &c.
Sketches free.
WARM PETTICOATS, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

EVENING DRESSES.

A New and very Choice Collection for this Season, at 1 guinea and up to 7 guineas.
Illustrations and Descriptions, with Patterns, sent on application.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

FRENCH MODEL COSTUMES.

SILK, SATIN, and SATIN DE LYON, from 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, ditto ditto 7½ guineas.
Sketches free.
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.
Nos. 256 to 262.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Bridesmaids' Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. — FINE APPLES.—Direct importations received Weekly.—A Cask of choice Canadian Apples, high coloured and of fine flavour, delivered free at any Railway Station in United Kingdom within a radius of One Hundred Miles from London on receipt of 28s., or beyond that distance 30s. P.O. Order or Cheque on London Bankers.
J. WITTLETON, No. 6, Adelade-place, London Bridge, E.C.

EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE.
Product of a special refining process, it is Chocolate devoided of its over richness and substantiality. Sugarless, and, when made, of the consistence of coffee. An afternoon Chocolate. Sold only in packets labelled JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle-street, London.

WILLS' "WESTWARD HO!"
WILLS' "WESTWARD HO!"
NEW SMOKING MIXTURE.
"When all things were made, none was made better than Tobacco; to be a lone man's Companion, a bachelor's Friend, a hungry man's Food, a sad man's Cordial, a wakeful man's Sleep, and a chilly man's Fire. There's no Herb like it under the canopy of Heaven."—Kingsley's "Westward Ho!"
In 1 oz., 2 oz., and 4 oz. Packets, lined with tinfoil.
WILLS, W. D. and H. O.

A LADY having a simple RECIPE that at once safely removes SUPERFLOUS HAIRS, preventing their appearance, has pleasure in forwarding it upon application to Mrs. Grace Newton, Verwood Villa, Thornton-heath, Surrey.

THROAT IRRITATION.—Soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in Boxes, 7½d. and 1s. 1½d., labelled "James Epps and Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London." A letter received:—"Gentlemen.—It may, perhaps, interest you to know that, after an extended trial, I have found your Glycerine Jujubes of considerable benefit (with or without medical treatment) in almost all forms of throat disease. They soften and clear the voice. In no case can they do any harm.—Yours faithfully, GORDON HOLMES, L.R.C.P.E., Senior Physician to the Municipal Throat and Ear Infirmary."

"I can highly recommend DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS for all Throat Irritation and Chest Diseases." (Signed) J. Swain, M.P.S., 240, Mill-street, Liverpool. They taste pleasantly. Price 1s. 1½d. per Box.

FITS.—EPILEPSY, or FALLING SICKNESS.—SENSATIONS. GIDDINESS.—FAINTS.—A Pamphlet addressed to sufferers from these distressing complaints, explaining their treatment and complete cure. By a Physician of twenty-five years' special experience. Pamphlet gratis and post-free from Mr. WILLIAMS, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park, London.

VISITORS TO LONDON are invited to inspect OETZMANN and CO.'S vast display of ARTISTIC FURNITURE, CARPETS, CURTAINS, PICTURES, CLOCKS, BRONZES, TABLE LAMPS, ELECTRO-PLATE, CUTLERY, DINNER, DESSERT, TEA, and BREAKFAST SERVICES, TABLE GLASS, VASES, and every kind of artistic furnishing items, arranged in separate Show-Rooms. OETZMANN and CO., having purchased largely during the recent depression, are enabled to offer these goods considerably below present value.
OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.

SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)

OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.
OETZMANN and CO.

SIDEBOARDS.—OETZMANN and CO.'S Large and Handsome Mahogany or Oak Sideboards, with high plate-glass back, price 15 guineas; massive Spanish Mahogany or Oak ditto, very handsome, 25 guineas; noble Spanish Mahogany or Oak ditto, handsomely carved, and lofty plate-glass back, made and finished in the best possible manner, price 35 guineas. A variety of Early English and other designs in Spanish Mahogany or finest carved Oak, from 25 to 30 guineas.
OETZMANN and CO.

BEDDING DEPARTMENT.—Handsome 3 ft. 6 in. Mahogany Chest of Drawers, with deep bottom drawer, 2 guineas; Spanish Mahogany Wardrobes, from 3 guineas upwards. Bed-room Suites, enamelled imitation of amboyna, satin-wood, and other handsome woods, consisting of Wardrobe, Chest of Drawers, Washstand, Toilet Table, Toilet-Glass (best plate, 16 in. by 12 in.); Towel Airer, three Chairs, and pedestal Toilet Cupboard, all complete for 6 guineas.
OETZMANN and CO.

ARTISTIC BORDERED CARPETS, OETZMANN and CO., to meet the increasing taste for Artistic Furnishing, are introducing some very handsome ready-made Bordered Carpets in every class of design, adapted to every style of furnishing and decoration, at greatly reduced prices, ranging from 28s. 6d. to 15 guineas. Price-List and Sketch-Plans of Rooms, as guides for measurements, are sent post-free on application. Small Indian Carpets, 8s. 6d. each.
OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISHING IRONMONGERY DEPARTMENT.—Strong Bronzed Fenders, from 1s. 6d. each; super ditto, 3s. 8d.; handsome Drawing-room Fenders, 8s. 8d.; ditto, new design, from 12s. 9d. to 5 guineas; fire-irons, from 1s. 9d. per set; handsome ditto, 4s. 9d.; burnished steel ditto, from 7s. 6d. to 2 guineas per set; japanned oval Tea Trays, from 3s. 11d. per set of three, 16, 24, and 30 inches; handsome ditto, chaste pattern, gilt and enamelled, 7s. 6d. per set; elegant ditto, from 12s. 6d. to 5 guineas per set.—OETZMANN and CO.

"QUEEN ANNE" ROYAL WORCESTER CHINA TEA, COFFEE, and BREAKFAST SERVICES, manufactured at the celebrated ROYAL PORCELAIN WORKS exclusively for Messrs. OETZMANN and CO., from their new Registered Design. The most artistic design ever introduced. Prices from 21s. per Tea Set of 28 pieces. Coloured Illustrations post-free. Also, SOLE VENDORS of the "NEO-CLEOPATRA" TOILET SERVICES (Registered), Ewer, Basin, &c., complete, from 8s. 6d. per set.
OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 479 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.

OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

SILVER WAITERS. — The GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE (Limited) have always ready a large Stock of SILVER WAITERS and TEATRAYS of the newest and most elegant designs:—

Size and Weight.	King's. Plain centres. 9s. per oz.	King's. Neatly chased. 9s. 6d. per oz.	Beaded. Richly engraved. 11s. 6d. per oz.
8 inch 12 ounces	£5 8 0	£5 14 0	£6 18 0
9 inch 17 ounces	7 13 0	8 1 6	9 15 0
10 inch 20 ounces	9 0 0	9 10 0	11 10 0
12 inch 30 ounces	13 10 0	14 5 0	17 5 0
14 inch 43 ounces	19 7 0	20 8 6	24 14 6
16 inch 58 ounces	26 2 0	27 11 0	33 7 0
18 inch 80 ounces	36 0 0	38 0 0	46 0 0
20 inch 124 ounces	55 16 0	58 18 0	71 6 0
22 inch 158 ounces	67 10 0	71 5 0	86 5 0
25 inch 200 ounces	90 0 0	95 0 0	115 0 0

A Pamphlet of Prices, Illustrated with Engravings, will be forwarded, gratis and post-free, on application.
11 and 12, Cornhill, London.

NOTICE.—SPOONS and FORKS in SILVER and in ELECTRO-PLATE ELKINGTON and CO., as the result of important improvements in the above manufactures, are able to offer their guaranteed qualities at such prices as, while fully maintaining their acknowledged superiority, place them within the reach of all classes. Revised Illustrated Price-Lists free by post on application. Purchasers of Silver Spoons and Forks obtain the advantage of any fluctuations in the silver market.
Address—ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-street, London, or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 65s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

DEANE and CO.'S TABLE CUTLERY, celebrated for more than 150 years, remains unrivalled for quality and cheapness. The stock, extensive and complete, affords a choice suited to every purchaser.

Ivory Handles.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.
Table Knives, per dozen.	13 0	16 0	19 0	24 0	32 0	35 0	40 0
Dessert ditto	11 0	13 0	15 0	19 0	25 0	29 0	33 0
Carvers, per pair	5 6	6 6	7 0	8 0	9 0	10 6	11 0

Agents for Joseph Rodgers and Sons, Cutlers to Her Majesty.

DEANE and CO.'S London KITCHENERS. DEANE and CO. Manufacture, Supply, and Fix complete COOKING APPARATUS, Kitcheners, Hot-Water Circulation, Bath Fittings, &c. Gas Cooking and Warming Stoves.

London Pattern. Double Oven.	London Pattern. Open Fire.	Fluvel's Kitcheners.	Cheap Kitcheners.
5ft. .. £24 0 0	5ft. .. £22 0 0	3ft. 6 £10 0 0	3ft. £3 0 0
5ft. 6 .. 27 0 0	5ft. 6 .. 25 0 0	4ft. .. 12 0 0	3ft. 6 .. 6 0 0
6ft. .. 30 0 0	6ft. .. 29 0 0	4ft. 6 13 10 0	4ft. 10 5 0

Manufactory and Workshops, 21, Jacob-street, Dockhead, S.E.
Deane and Co.'s Complete Illustrated Catalogue free by post.
DEANE and CO., 46, King William-st., London Bridge.—A.D. 1700.

ETZENSBERGER'S PATENT CAFETIERE is economical, cleanly, and safe; makes an excellent cup of coffee, strong and fragrant; is made in two sizes for the breakfast table, pint and quarts, in block tin, nickel plated, electro-plate, and German silver. Coffee and Tea Filters, for bars, hotels, coffee and tea palaces, of any size.

THE WILFRID is an Ornament for the counter. Can supply coffee and tea, hot water and milk, all at the same time, and with little cost and trouble.
R. ETZENSBERGER and CO.,
No. 13, St. Andrew's-street, Holborn-circus, E.C. London.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PRINTER. The People's Printing Press, for Authors, Amateurs, the Army and Navy, &c. Prospectuses forwarded on application to D. G. BERRI, 36, High Holborn, London, W.C.

CONSUMPTION AND WASTING DISEASES.

IN "NOTES on CONSUMPTION and WASTING DISEASES SUCCESSFULLY TREATED with HYDRATED OIL, with Cases showing the immediate increase in weight by it," see Book published by Diprose, Bateman, and Co., Lincoln's-inn-fields. The ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, will send a copy free on application.

G. OVEREND DREWRY, M.D., Physician to the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, Author of "Common-Sense Management of the Stomach," &c., referring to cases treated at the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, says that "'Hydroleine' (or Hydrated Oil) produces an effect such as neither cod-liver oil nor any preparation of it with which I am acquainted even faintly approaches, and patients are unanimous in their statement that the appetite is much increased by taking 'Hydrated Oil,' and that, so far from possessing the unpleasant taste of ordinary cod-liver oil, the taste of 'Hydrated Oil' is agreeable rather than the reverse, and is described by some as resembling Devonshire cream. These, I submit, are very important points in cases usually attended by great irritability of stomach. The general improvement in strength shown within a fortnight was in many instances surprising, even to myself, who had seen already in private practice many startling results from its use. My experience, however, shows that in cases where cod-liver oil or an emulsion of it has been depended upon, increase of weight is rarely obtained."—Page 16.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil),
Equal to Ten times the quantity of Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Entirely supersedes plain Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Produces rapid increase in flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is certain in result, and is pleasant to take.

TRY YOUR WEIGHT!!

TRY YOUR WEIGHT.—HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has proved of the highest value as a food in consumption and all wasting diseases, invariably producing increase in flesh and weight. This preparation of Hydrated Cod-Liver Oil is tonic, digestive, and ten times more strengthening and nourishing, as well as far more pleasant to taste, than plain cod-liver oil. Hydroleine may be described as partially digested oil, which will nourish and produce increase of weight in those cases where oils or fat, not so treated, are difficult or impossible to digest. All tendency to emaciation and loss of weight is arrested by the regular use of Hydroleine, which may be discontinued when the usual average weight has been permanently acquired. Of all Chemists, 4s. 6d.; or sent direct, carriage paid, to any address in England for 54.—Sold wholesale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London.

READ the following Extracts from a few among the hundreds of letters received, showing that HYDROLEINE will nourish, and cause young or old to increase in weight where plain cod-liver oil will not; the original letters, with many others, may be seen at our Office.

DR. AUSTIN, of Sunnyside, East Grinstead, writing on May 13, 1880, says:—
"I recommended one patient to get it, and he gained 8 lb. weight in a week; left it off next week, and lost 4 lb. This speaks well."

MR. JAS. STEWART, Chemist, of Dalkeith, writing April 28, 1877, says:—
"I weighed only 116 lb. on March 25, took the Hydroleine very irregularly I must confess, and on April 19 weighed 120 lbs. I found it very pleasant to take, never experienced the least approach to nauseation, and rather think it acted very much as a tonic."

WRITING of Hydrated Oil on May 14, 1877, Mr. KENNETH M'DONALD, of Dunkeld, says:—
"I had been taking cod-liver oil all winter myself, and thought I would first experiment on myself with the Hydroleine, and I must say, whether it is that or not, I am much better; in fact, all right again, and I certainly give it the credit, and will recommend it to all in preference to the ordinary oil—it is much easier taken."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been favourably received by all classes of people, as well as the press, as the following extracts will show:—

MRS. ELLEN COOKE, Weston-super-Mare, in a letter dated May 24, 1879, says:—
"I think the last bottle you sent me has saved the life of a little boy three years old."

MR. J. H. GREGORY, Master of Caxton Workhouse, Cambs., writing on March 12, 1879, says:—
"The effect of the bottle I received from you was marvellous, as I increased nearly 4 lb. in weight, and felt better in every way."

MRS. MARYATT, Bayswater, W., writing on Jan. 22, 1877, speaks of the Hydrated Oil in the following terms:—
"My little boy (aged five and a half years) is so extremely fond of it that he will take it just as it is, without the ginger or orange wine, and will smack his lips after it. As for myself, I can never sound its praises too loudly. I consider it a perfect life-giver."

MR. JOHN MILTON, writing from Liverpool on May 7, 1877, says:—
"Five weeks ago a small pamphlet was handed to me descriptive of your Hydroleine, and since that time my wife has been taking just one bottle a week with certain benefit."

MR. A. BOYCE, Chemist, Hayward's-heath, writing on July 9, 1877, says:—
"I have given it to several consumptive cases, and am pleased to inform you with very good result. The effect of it on two persons (children) has been wonderful. I am trying to make it known every where I can."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is not a patent medicine.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Has the formula upon every bottle.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is used to increase flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
May be relied upon to increase weight.

THE CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES upon which HYDRATED OIL is prepared were first described in a treatise on the Assimilation and Digestion of Fats in the Human Body, by H. C. Bartlett, Ph.D., F.C.S., published by Messrs. J. and A. Churchill, New Burlington-street (Fat in the Human Body, page 41):—"Nothing appears to restore the healthy functions of the liver and pancreas in these cases except the frequent ingestion of oil or liquid fat, so treated artificially that it is already partially transformed by fermentation and the reaction of bile. Seized on with avidity by the absorbents, it is insensibly assimilated by the digestive organs, until they gradually become strengthened, not only to provide their own nourishment, but to transform a sufficient quantity of fat to supply the inevitable waste throughout the body."

ALL persons taking HYDROLEINE are particularly urged to keep an ACCOUNT from WEEK to WEEK of their WEIGHT, that the gain and improvement may be shown. The makers, having devoted special attention to perfecting a process by means of which uniformity in the production of HYDRATED OIL is secured, desire to direct the attention of the medical profession and the public to this preparation, to distinguish which the name of HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been registered under the Trade-Marks Acts. Ask your Chemist for it. If your Chemist has not the "Hydroleine" in stock, a bottle will be sent from the Factory (carriage paid) to any part of England, on receipt of Post-Office Order, 5s. Sold whole sale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London. Pamphlet sent free to any address.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH. Sacred Musical Drama. Music by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Performed at the Leeds Musical Festival with enormous success. Price 8s.; bound in cloth, 10s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

COME, MARGARITA, COME! The favourite Tenor Song from Arthur Sullivan's Sacred Musical Drama "The Martyr of Antioch." Sung by Mr. Edward Lloyd. Price 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

Vocal Score	8s. net.
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 6d. ,,
Olivette Lancers. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Polka. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Galop. D'Albert	2s. ,,
I Love my Love so well. Duet	2s. ,,
The Convent Slept	2s. ,,
Where balmy garlic scents the air. Bolero	2s. ,,
Valse Song. First Love	2s. ,,
Torpedo Song	2s. ,,
Sob Song. Sung by Miss St. John	2s. ,,
Romance—"Nearest and Dearest"	2s. ,,
Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs	2s. ,,
Nava's Gems, Olivette (1 and 2) each 1s. 6d.	2s. ,,
Franz Nava's Farandole	1s. 6d. ,,
Audran's "Nearest and Dearest" (Pianoforte)	2s. ,,

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PORTIA WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready.
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Volume II., handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs.; Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 50 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 5 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 25 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
ALL MUSIC POST-FREE AT HALF PRICE.

FOLI'S GREATEST SUCCESS.
THE RAFT. Descriptive Fantasia. By PINSUTI. In E and G, free, 24 stamps. Now being sung by Signor Foli with the greatest success at all his concerts. Decidedly the finest baritone (or bass) song extant.

I LOVE MY LOVE. PINSUTI'S most celebrated Song, in A flat and B flat; free, 24 stamps.
This the most effective Drawing-room Song ever written, is continually sung by all the leading vocalists, both soprano and contralto.

THREE JOLLY BRITONS, or the ENGLISH, IRISH, and SCOTCH.
New National Song.
"Long may our good Queen on her Throne
O'er her subjects keep a watch,
For the three will fight for her as one,
Though English, Irish, and Scotch.
Words and Music, G. WARE. Post-free, 18 stamps.

SHALL I WEAR A WHITE ROSE? New Song. By EMILY FARMER; poetry by Savile Clark. This charming Song is now being sung by Madame Trebelli at her Provincial Concerts with perfect success. Published in E flat and G, for soprano or contralto. Post-free, 24 stamps.

JOHN GILPIN. Cantata. By GEORGE FOX. 2s. 6d. net. Easy and effective. A liberal discount allowed to choral societies for copies.

LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE.
Vocal Score, English Words, 10s. net, and 4s.
Piano Score, complete, 2s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 100th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS,
24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

Just published, price 1s.; post-free, 14 stamps.
WALDTEUFEL'S VALSE ALBUM for CHRISTMAS, 1880-1, containing Emile Waldteufel's Five best Waltzes; 24 pages, full music size, with Elegant Illuminated Cover.—FRANCIS and DAY, 351, Oxford-street, W.

THE BEST NEW WALTZ.
DAS WUNDERSCHON (Most Beautiful) WALTZ, by CARL ROSENGARD. Played with great success at the Prince of Wales's Hall at Abergeldie Castle. "A really pretty and melodious waltz."—Graphic. Post-free, 2s.
REID BROS., 189, Oxford-street, London.

LA PREMIÈRE VOLÉE POLKA. By A. T. TOLLER. "This excellent and very original polka is always well received, and will shortly become very popular." Post-free, 1s. 6d.
REID BROS., 189, Oxford-street, London

NEW MUSIC.

KUHE'S TWO NEW BALLADS.
FORGIVEN. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling.
MY ONLY LOVE. Sung by Mr. McGuckin.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE ZEELAND TOLL. Sung in "Annie Mie." Words by Clement Scott
2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BABY AND THE FLY. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
Boosey and Co., 295, Regent-street.

HER NAME. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Mr. Maas throughout the Provinces. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

SECOND THOUGHTS ARE BEST. By RANDEGGER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies at every Concert in Madame Patey's Tour and always encored. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

TIME WAS. Lady ARTHUR HILL'S popular Ballad. Sung by Miss Mary Davies. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Löffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper covers; 4s. cloth, gilt edges,
ROYAL EDITION OF NATIONAL SONGS.
SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols. | SONGS OF WALES.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND. | SONGS OF FRANCE.
SONGS OF IRELAND. | SONGS OF GERMANY.
In the Press: Songs of Italy, and Songs of Northern Europe and of Eastern Europe, completing the series. All the foreign songs have English and the original words. The Book of Irish Songs contains 78 of Moore's Irish Melodies and 20 National Airs.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAVOURITE CANTATAS.
HENRY HOLMES' CHRISTMAS DAY. Words by Keble. 2s. 6d.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S PRODIGAL SON. 2s. 6d.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S ON SHORE AND SEA. 2s. 6d.
F. H. COWEN'S ROSE MAIDEN. 2s. 6d.
F. H. COWEN'S CORSAIR. 3s. 6d.
F. HOWELL'S LAND OF PROMISE. 2s. 6d.
F. HOWELL'S SONG OF THE MONTHS. 2s. 6d.
KAPPEY'S PER MARE, PER TERRAM. 3s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE PARISH ANTHEM-BOOK.—A collection of Fifty Standard Anthems by the most celebrated composers, suitable for large and small choirs. In Numbers, price One Penny each; or one Volume, paper cover, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt edges, 5s.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street. Specimen Anthem for one stamp.

THE CHORAL UNION, containing FORTY POPULAR GLEES and PART-SONGS, in four handy books, each with the music of the forty pieces for one voice—viz., Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, or Bass. Price Sixpence.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

2 vols., 2s. 6d. each, paper covers; 4s., cloth, gilt edges,
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. A Collection of celebrated Songs, in medium keys, for the use of Amateurs.
Vol. I.—Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto.
Vol. II.—Tenor and Baritone.
Each Book contains 50 Songs, with English and Italian Words.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT ERLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

BOOSEY'S HALF-GUINEA BEETHOVEN. The 32 Sonatas, from engraved plates (nearly full music size), bound in cloth, gilt edges, 10s. 6d. Edited by W. Dorrell. The handsomest edition published.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and Short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New System of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for NOVEMBER contains:—Home Music-Worship—The Father of the Symphony—The Great Composers: Spohr—Marchetti's Opera, "Don Giovanni d'Austria"—Leeds Musical Festival—Jacques Offenbach—Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.—Reviews, Foreign and Country News, Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for NOVEMBER contains:—"Thus Speaketh the Lord of Hosts." Anthem for Christmas, by Dr. STAINER. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

		s.	d.
1.	The Pianoforte	2	0
2.	The Rudiments of Music	1	0
3.	The Organ	2	0
4.	The Harmonium	2	0
5.	Singing	4	0
6.	Speech in Song	2	0
7.	Musical Forms	2	0
8.	Harmony	2	0
9.	Counterpoint	2	0
10.	Fugue	2	0
11.	Scientific Basis of Music	1	0
13.	Church Choir Training	1	0
14.	Plain-Song	2	0
15.	Instrumentation	2	0
16.	The Elements of the Beautiful in Music	1	0
17.	The Violin	2	0
18.	Tonic Sol-fa	1	0
19.	Lancashire Sol-fa	1	0
20.	Composition	2	0
21.	Musical Terms	1	0

E. Pauer; W. H. Cummings; Dr. Stainer; King Hall; A. Randegger; A. J. Ellis, F.R.S.; E. Pauer; Dr. Stainer; Dr. Bridge; James Higgs; Dr. Stone; Rev. J. Troutbeck; Rev. T. Helmore; E. Prout; E. Pauer; Berthold Tours; J. Curwen; James Greenwood; Dr. Stainer; Stainer and Barrett

(To be continued.)
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

Just published.
COMPOSITION. By Dr. STAINER. No. 20 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 2s.
MUSICAL TERMS. By STAINER and BARRETT. No. 21 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 1s.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITIONS.
One Volume, 518 pp., folio, handsomely bound, cloth, gilt edges, price 21s.; ditto, 8vo, paper, 7s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 10s. 6d.
MENDELSSOHN'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, including the "Lieder Ohne Worte," an entirely new and carefully revised edition.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

LIEDER OHNE WORTE. Cheap Editions. Octavo, paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.; cloth gilt, 8s. Also, superior edition, octavo, paper, 4s.; cloth gilt, 6s.; folio, cloth gilt, 12s.
The only Complete Editions, containing Books 7 and 8.

One Shilling each.
ELLIOTT'S VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM. In six sets, price One Shilling each; or in two volumes, cloth gilt, Four Shillings each. List of contents may be had on application.

Just published, price One Shilling each.
NOVELLO'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS. Nos. 1 and 2, each containing Twenty Compositions by BACH, edited by Berthold Tours. List of contents may be had on application.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

Just published, price 4d.,
TIBBIE DUNBAR. Part-Song. The Words written by Robert Burns; the Music composed by E. MARWOOD TUCKER.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NEW MUSIC.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.—High-class MUSIC for students and others, for all instruments. To be had gratis and post-free, a List of 400 Classical Works, including church music, oratorios, organ music, violin quartets, quintets, trios, duets, &c., bound, at greatly reduced prices.
London: Published only by ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

THE HOLY FAMILY. Sacred Melodies. Arranged by W. H. CALLCOTT for the Pianoforte. Solos complete in twelve books, 5s. each; Duets, 6s. each; ad lib. Accompaniment for Flute, Violin, and Violoncello, 1s. each. Each book at half price in stamps. N.B.—This work may also be had in four volumes as solos, cloth, gilt edges, price 12s. each net.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER. Words from Holy Scripture; Music by Miss M. LINDSAY (Mrs. J. W. Bliss). 3s. each; post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MY LADDIE FAR AWAY. A very taking Song. By Miss M. LINDSAY. Post-free for 24 stamps.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, where may be had, gratis and post-free, a list of Miss M. Lindsay's favourite Songs.

CLASSICAL EXTRACTS from the GREAT COMPOSERS. Arranged and Fingered for the Pianoforte by J. DUVAL. Six Books, at 3s. each. Post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE BUTTERFLY'S KISS. New Song. Written and Composed by ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab. 3s.; post-free 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

STEERING. Song. By F. H. COWEN, in E flat and D. This song is rapidly making its way in public favour. Post-free for 24 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HANDSOME NEW EDITION of the GREEN CATALOGUE, containing a valuable List of New Vocal and Pianoforte Music, suitable to all Teachers. Post-free.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

F. H. COWEN'S GREATEST SUCCESS.
THE CHILDREN'S HOME. By COWEN. In Keys for all voices.
London: W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, N.

COTSFORD DICK'S NEW SONG.
A GOLDEN WEDDING. By C. DICK. "It is seldom we come across such a charming little song. The music is touching in its simplicity, the words are rich in poetic tenderness, reminding us of 'Darby and Joan,' a song it bids fair to rival in popularity."—Review.
London: W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, N.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.
The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLÉ'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready.
Catalogues and all particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

DOMINION ORGAN COMPANY, Bowmanville, Ontario, Canada.
The best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.
"PRINCESS LOUISE,"
Ten Stops, including Octave Coupler.
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom,
FORSYTH BROTHERS,
London: 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street.
Manchester: Cross-street and South King-street.
Complete Catalogues post-free.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' Newly-Patented SOSTENENTE GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOS have gained the two First Prizes and only Special Mention above all competitors at the Sydney International Exhibition, 1879-80 Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London, W.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'
IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS. "The best and most substantial instrument produced." 3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE. In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.
Class 0, £14 | Class 2, £20 | Class 4, £30 | Class 6, £35
Class 1, £17 | Class 3, £23 | Class 5, £27 | Class 7, £40
American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £240. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER, 18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO. By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 18s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

ORIDE GOLD ALBERT CHAINS, 5s., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d. Links, Solitaires, or Studs, 2s. 6d. Brooches, 4s. 6d. to 8s. 6d. Earrings, 3s. 6d. to 7s. 6d. Lockets, 4s. 6d. to 12s. 6d. Free by post. Opinions of the Press and Price-Lists post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS, ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly Illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
The New STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 14s. 6d., and 16s. 6d.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London, W.

CHLORODYNE.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S.
COUGHS, ASTHMA,
COLDS, BRONCHITIS, &c.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
This wonderful remedy was discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne, and the word Chlorodyne coined by him expressly to designate it. There never has been a remedy so vastly beneficial to suffering humanity, and it is a subject of deep concern to the public that they should not be imposed upon by having imitations pressed upon them on account of cheapness and as being the same thing. Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a totally distinct thing from the spurious compounds called Chlorodyne, the use of which only ends in disappointment and failure.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the whole story of the defendant was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—See the "Times," July 13, 1864.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a liquid medicine which assuages pain of every kind, affords a calm and refreshing sleep without headache, and invigorates the nervous system when exhausted.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the GREAT SPECIFIC for CHOLERA.
DYSENTERY,
DIARRHŒA.
Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla to the effect that cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the only remedy of any service was Chlorodyne.—See "Lancet," Dec. 31, 1864.
The General Board of Health, London, reports that it acts as a charm. One dose generally sufficient.
Dr. Gibbon, Army Medical Staff Calcutta, states:—"Two doses completely cured me of diarrhœa."
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE rapidly cuts short all attacks of EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC,
PALPITATION, HYSTERIA.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the true palliative in NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER,
TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.
From Dr. B. J. Boulton and Co., Horncastle.
"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct sedative and anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."
IMPORTANT CAUTION.
The immense sale of this remedy has given rise to many unscrupulous imitations.
N.B.—Every bottle of genuine Chlorodyne bears on the Government stamp the name of the inventor.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE.
Sold in Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.
J. T. DAVENPORT
33, Great Russell-street, W.C., Sole Manufacturer.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 493, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

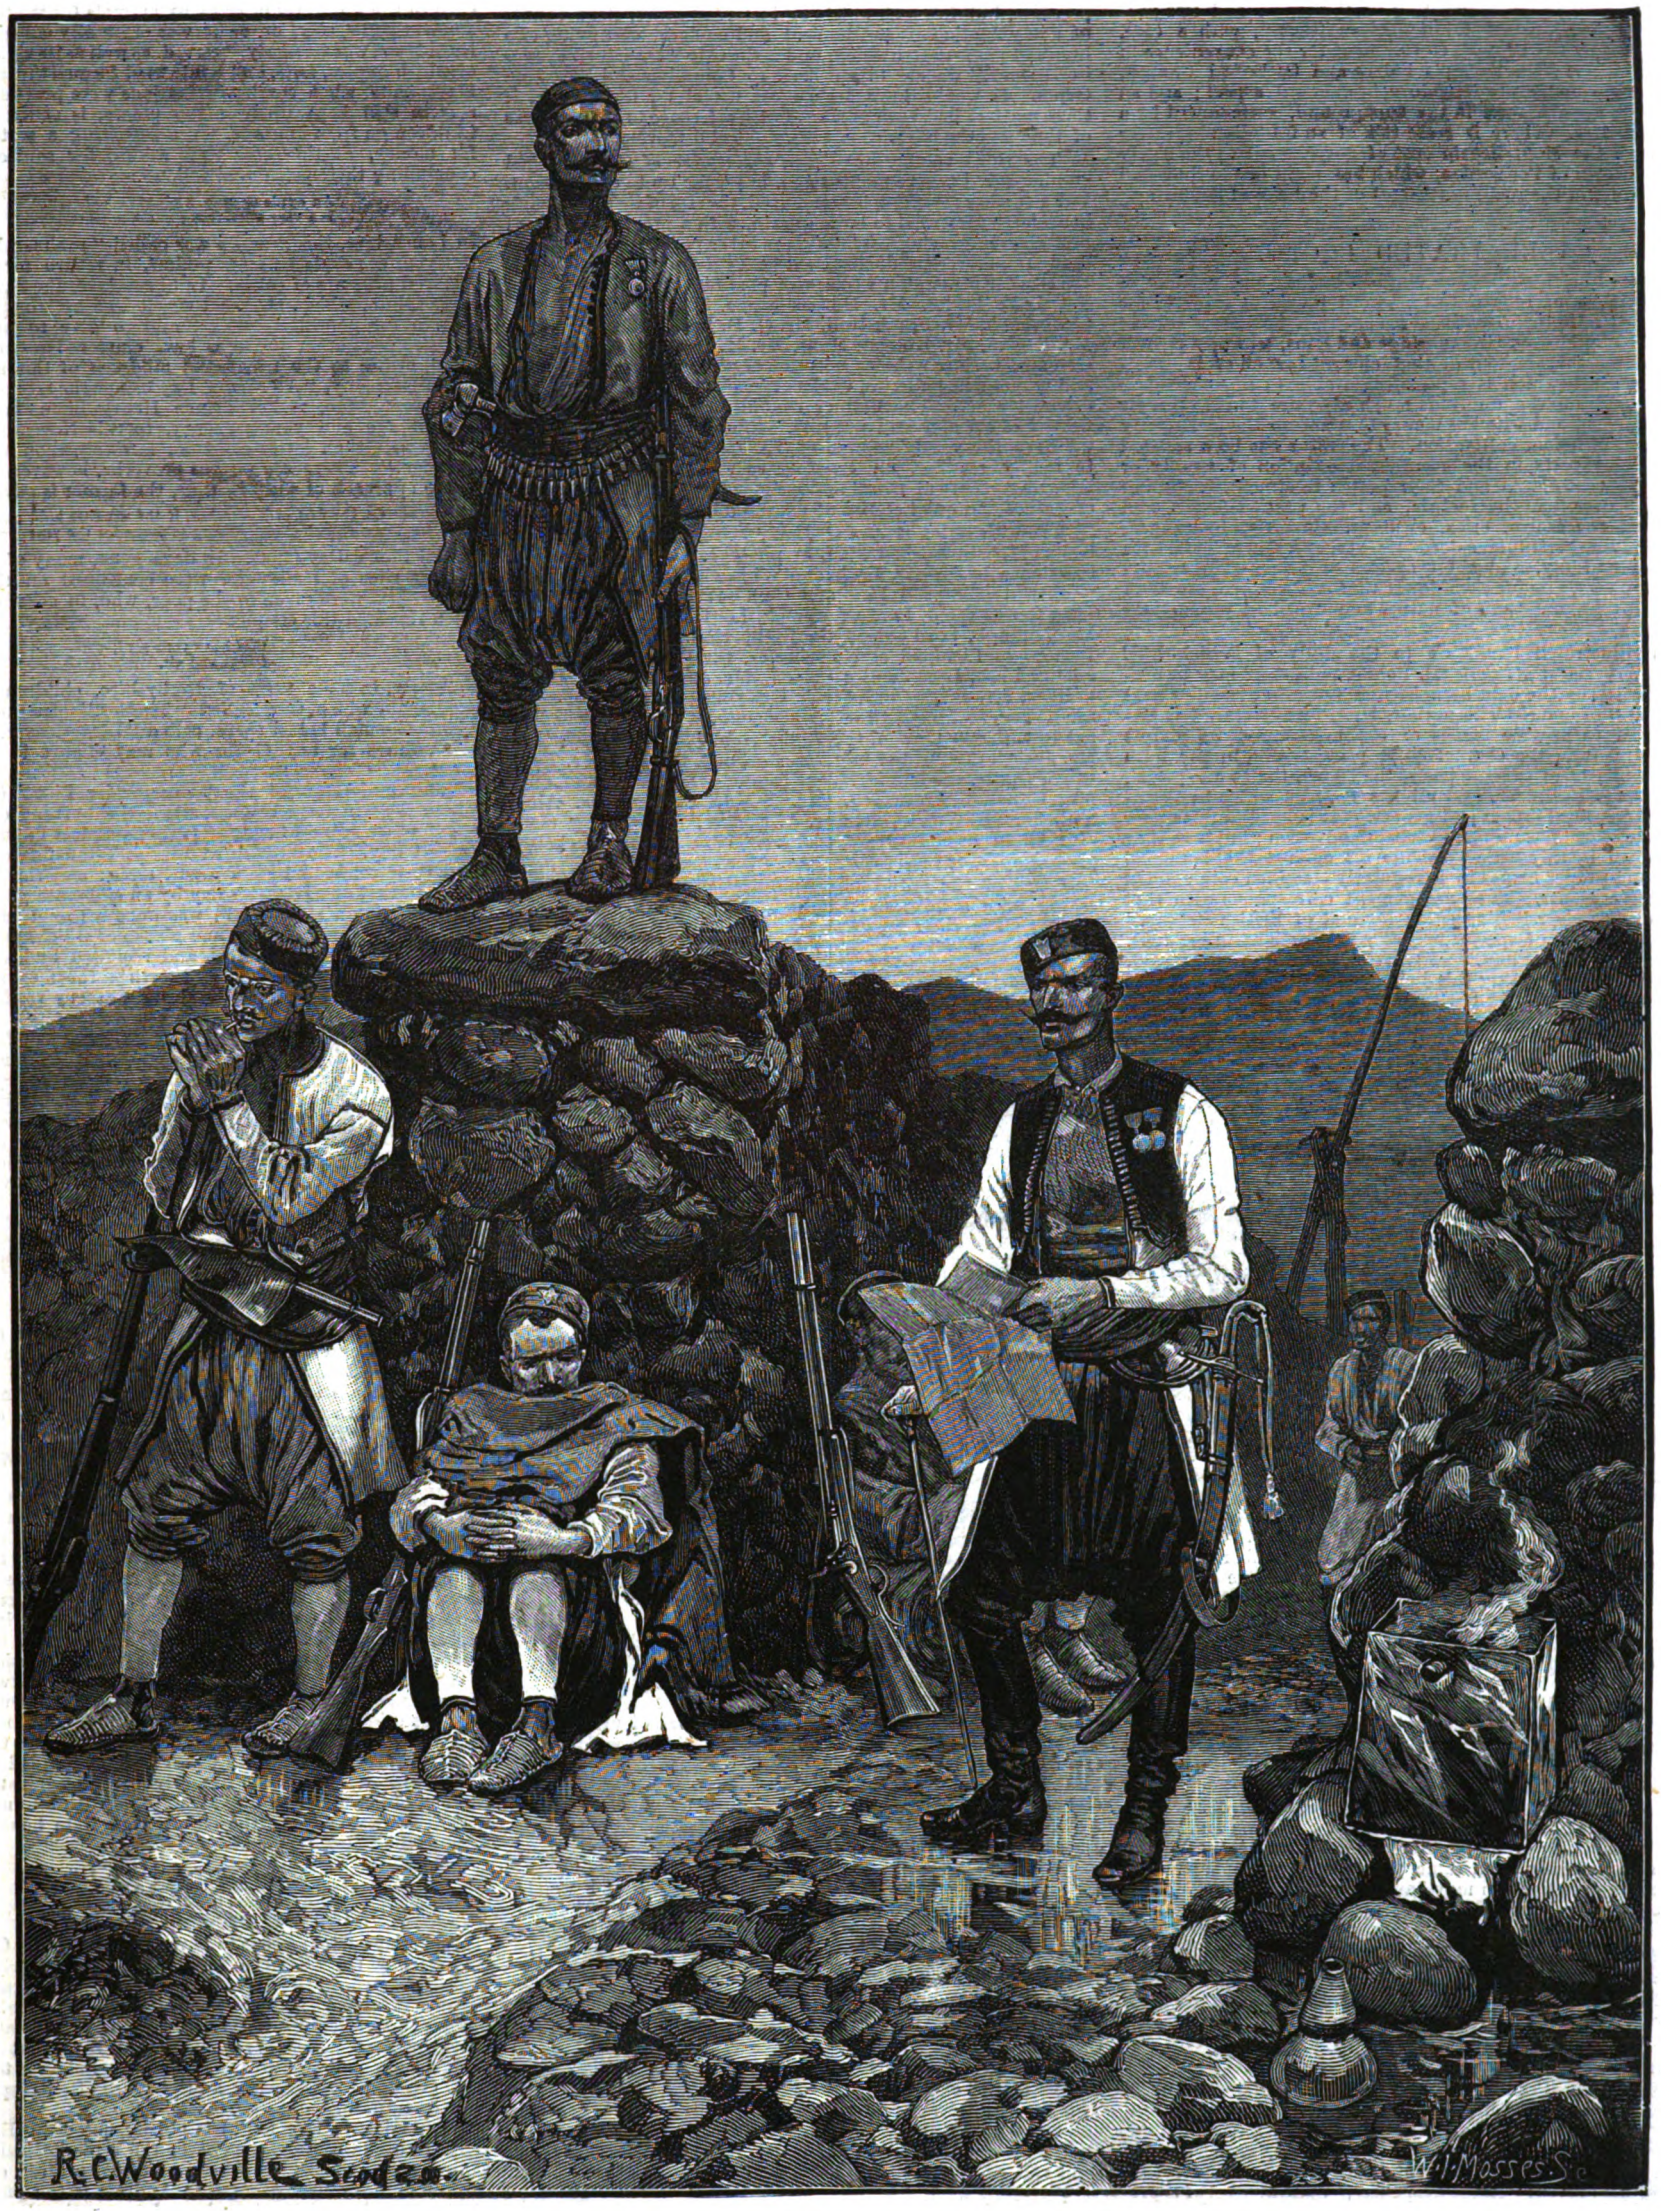
COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, FOR CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE.
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 29, Queen-street, London, E.C.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 9d., 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d.



PEPTOMALT.
NUTRITIVE. DIGESTIVE.
An agreeable combination of Pepsine with Malt Essence, invaluable in all forms of weak or impaired digestion, affording nourishment and digestive power; equally useful to children or adults. To be obtained through any respectable Chemist, or direct from the Manufacturer, T. S. JOHNSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, Malvern. In Bottles, price 4s. and 7s. 6d.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, and ASTHMA. A certain method of cure has been discovered for these distressing complaints by a physician, who is desirous that all sufferers may benefit from this providential discovery. It is beyond all doubt the most remarkable remedy of the age. Full particulars will be sent by post, free of charge.—Address: Mr. WILLIAMS, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park, London.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1880.

Digitized by Google

ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE DULCIGNO QUESTION.

MONTENEGRIN OUTPOST AT PECORICA, ON THE ROAD BETWEEN SCUTARI AND ANTIVARI.

FROM A SKETCH BY MR. R. C. WOODVILLE, OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

It is hoped, at the hour of writing this notice on Wednesday, that news of the peaceable surrender of the seaport town of Dulcigno to the Montenegrin Principality will be received almost immediately. The Sultan has at length been prevailed upon by the firm demands of the European Powers, through their Ambassadors at Constantinople, to send Dervish Pasha to Scutari, with strong military reinforcements, to compel the submission of the Albanian League to the Montenegrin occupation of Dulcigno. Mr. Gladstone, in his speech at the Lord Mayor's Banquet on Tuesday evening, stated that her Majesty's Government had just received a telegraphic message from the Sultan, giving promise of the immediate surrender of that place. But it has become quite apparent that the remaining difficulty lay with the local opposition of the Albanians and of the Mussulman population. A few days will show whether this is likely to cause bloodshed; and whether, in that case, it will be for the Turkish regular troops under Dervish Pasha, or for the Montenegrin army commanded by General Bozo Petrovics, to enforce the final act of cession. In the meantime, we present four additional Illustrations of this troublesome crisis in the diplomatic history of the Eastern Question. Our special artist, Mr. R. C. Woodville, furnishes two Sketches—namely, those of the headquarters of Bozo Petrovics, at Sutorman, near Antivari; and of the Montenegrin outpost at Pecorica, on the road from Antivari towards Scutari; which localities have been described in connection with some of the former Illustrations given in this Journal. We are further again indebted to an English naval officer, who lately acted in that country as the Times Correspondent, for two sketches taken by him at Cettinje, the capital of Montenegro; the one showing the main street, or rather the only street, of that rustic Highland village, where Prince Nikita and his ancestors have long held their patriarchal Court; and the other being a view to the southward, from the hills above Cettinje, looking down upon the Lake of

Digitized by Google

Scutari in the distance, with the surrounding Albanian mountains. A striking description of this view will be found in the new volume which we reviewed a fortnight ago, "Albania: A Narrative of Recent Travel," by Mr. E. F. Knight, who also gives an acoount of Cettinje; but the same places and scenes have been repeatedly described by preceding travellers. The only buildings, above the rank of cottages, in the simple little Montenegrin capital, are the Palace of his Highness the Sovereign Prince, which is a plain commodious mansion, consisting of the centre and two projecting wings; a new hotel of modern fashion, with a café, established by the Prince's Government for the convenience of foreign visitors; the Bishop's Palace and Cathedral Church, which are equally unpretending in outward aspect; and an old tower, upon a rock in the background, surmounted by a wooden belfry. There is some talk of an intention hereafter to remove the Montenegrin seat of government to the newly annexed town of Podgoritza, which has eight or ten thousand inhabitants, in the plain north-east of the Lake of Scutari.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS.

Botany and horticulture, the cherished study and pastime of many persons of refined taste, afford beautiful subjects for book illustrations. Greenhouse Favourites, a handsome volume published by Messrs. Groombridge and Sons, will be a perfect treasure for the amateur of that elegant branch of the floriculturist's art, which is especially suitable to anyone whose health or advanced age forbids much exposure to the open air in the garden, and who has money to spare for the more costly apparatus of indoor cultivation. The editor has been assisted by special experts in the accurate description of twenty or thirty different plants and their proper treatment, beginning with the camellia, the fuchsia, and the passion-flower, and including the azalea, erica, clematis, cineraria, hydrangea, pelargonium, geranium, calceolaria, verbena, and orchids, with the rose and lily, and a few species of ferns. The colour-printed plates, one for each flower that is described, are both truthful representations of nature and excellent productions of art.

An illustrated handbook to the study of British Wild Flowers by Natural Analysis (D. Bogue, publisher) may be usefully carried by the field botanist in his pleasant rambles next spring and summer. The author, Mr. F. A. Messer, has endeavoured to provide means of easily teaching, by simple figure drawings, the characteristic peculiarities, in the form or arrangement of organic parts, the leaves, the flower-petals, the pistils and stamens, and all the rest, by which to distinguish the natural orders and genera. It is hard to remember these variations from a mere verbal description; but here they are shown by tiny little woodcuts set against the botanical terms and proper names in a regularly classified catalogue of our native plants. The arrangement corresponds with that given in Professor Babington's "Manual of British Botany," and the selection of species is nearly the same as in Sir J. D. Hooker's "British Flora." Mr. G. S. Penson, of Plumstead, has assisted in preparing this judicious and convenient help to a delightful pursuit of knowledge.

The surpassing beauty of the coloured plates, from drawings by the author, which Messrs. Marcus Ward and Co., the publishers, have printed for Mrs. Louisa Meredith's new book, Tasmanian Friends and Foes, claims our admiration. She has long been known to many readers of "My Home in Tasmania," "Some of My Bush Friends in Tasmania," and another Tasmanian sketch-book, entitled "Our Island Home." The great public may not yet be aware of the wonderful richness and variety, so unlike the neighbouring Australian colonies, which characterise the aspects of nature in that charming island; the picturesque and romantic scenery of its highlands and forests, the loveliness of its flowers, and the strangeness of its beasts, birds, reptiles, and fishes, which are quite different from those of Australia. Mrs. Meredith, who has lived there with her husband nearly forty years, and is a loving observer of all living creatures, intimately acquainted with the habits and dispositions of those which come in her way, is also a lively and agreeable writer. She has, in this volume, preferred to cast her abundant store of anecdotes and descriptive notices into the form of conversations between one "Mrs. Merton" and the children, Guy and Louis, Gwendoline and Winifred, with Mr. Merton and his friends Bexley and Crawford. As the authenticity and correctness of these details of natural history may be relied upon, there is much real instruction to be got from the book, which treats especially of the Tasmanian animals, "feathered, furred, and finned." It is furnished with a number of woodcuts, as well as the eight coloured pictures, some of which represent gorgeous Tasmanian flowers.

Many years have passed since the Rev. Dr. W. M. Thomson, an American missionary in Syria and Palestine, embodied the result of his local observations and Biblical researches in The Land and the Book. The standard merit of that work has nevertheless stood the ordeal of being collated with the reports of successive parties of archæological explorers having peculiar facilities and advantages provided for them by special associations for this object in London and elsewhere. An illustrated edition of Dr. Thomson's book, revised and completed with the additional knowledge supplied by more recent discoveries and surveys, is now published by Messrs. T. Nelson and Sons. It has lost nothing of its popular interest and acceptability, though its authority upon some points of topographical and antiquarian investigation may have been superseded by later writers. The volume is well got up on fine paper, and is adorned with a large number of engravings, from photographs or drawings, most of which we have seen before.

A pretty book of English Lake Scenery, containing twenty-five coloured plates, from drawings by A. F. Lydon, is brought out by Messrs. John Walker and Co., of Farringdon-street. The landscape views are accompanied by short pieces of descriptive comment.

The late Miss Frances Ridley Havergal, in reference to her life and character, and her poems of religious sentiment, has recently been spoken of with much regard. Messrs. James Nisbet and Co. publish a memorial volume, entitled Life Chords, including "Zenith," and the series "Under His Shadow," another of "Loyal Responses," and a number of short pieces, with twelve artistic illustrations. These are designed by the Baroness Helga von Cramm, and printed in colours by Vincent Brooks, Day, and Son, with very good effect. Their subjects are mostly Alpine or English landscape scenes, associated with Miss Havergal's thoughts and recollections, and there is a portrait of herself in childhood. The volume is uniform with that issued last year by the same publishers—namely, Life Mosaic, or, "The Ministry of Song: and Under the Surface;" which contained other poems by the same author, with other pictures by the same artist.

Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin have brought out additional volumes of several attractive and valuable works produced by successive instalments. The Countries of the World, by Dr. Robert Brown, is one of the most instructive, as well as interesting, compilations of its class. This volume treats of Siberia, China and Chinese Tartary, Burmah, Siam, and Cochin China, India, Persia, Afghanistan and Turkestan, with a great variety of illustrative wood-engravings. Another work of popular interest, edited by Mr. F. Whymper, is called The Sea: its Stirring Story of Adventure, Peril, and Heroism. It relates first the exploits of the pirates and bucaniers (whom we used to spell "buccaneers,") from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, with those of the privateers, like Paul Jones, who scared our own coasts ninety years ago. It then presents, but in no chronicle or historical order, the accounts of many Arctic voyages, ancient and modern, occupying two hundred pages; after which, under the title "Decisive Voyages in History," we are taken back to Columbus and Vasco da Gama. It would have been more useful for instruction, if these matters had been arranged with reference to the progress of time and the advance of geographical discovery.

The third volume of Cassell's Magazine of Art enlarged and improved twelve months ago, has come up to expectation. But a further extension is announced, the size of its pages being henceforth increased to large quarto, with a greater number of first-class Engravings. Those given in the past twelvemonth are of high quality, reproducing good works of eminent artists, while the smaller illustrations comprise portraits of Sir Noel Paton, Mr. Luke Fildes, Mr. Marcus Stone, Mr. Sant, Mr. George Cruikshank, Mr. Frank Holl, Mr. G. D. Leslie, Mr. Herkomer, Mr. Boehm, Mr. Holman Hunt, Mr. H. H. Armstead, and M. Gérôme; besides a choice selection of pictures from exhibitions and permanent galleries, works of sculpture, and examples of decorative art. The literary contents of this magazine are worthy of its aim and purpose. From the same publishers, we have the yearly volume of The Quiver, which is adapted to family reading, on Sundays as well as on week-days, mingling papers of moral and religious instruction with views of nature and quiet stories of domestic life.

The fifth series of Men of Mark, being Contemporary Portraits of Distinguished Men, in photographs of consummate excellence by Messrs. Lock and Whitfield, has recently been published (Sampson Low and Co.). It comprises those of Lord Beaconsfield, Lord Cranbrook, Lord Derby, the Duke of Marlborough, Lord Cairns, the Right Hon. W. H. Smith, the Bishops of Lichfield and Rochester, Sir George Jessel, Mr. Justice Lush, Lord Justice Cotton, Mr. Justice Lopes, Baron Pollock, Mr. Justice Fry, Sir Charles Dilke, Sir Joseph Hooker, Sir Theodore Martin, Sir H. Bessemer, Sir Julius Benedict, the Rev. Canon Liddon, the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Mr. Joseph Cowen, the late Mr. Roebuck, the late Mr. Hepworth Dixon, the late Mr. Tom Taylor, Mr. Robert Browning, Mr. Harrison Ainsworth, Mr. Wilkie Collins, Mr. Alma Tadema, Mr. Vicat Cole, Mr. A. Elmore, and other persons of note in different professions. There cannot be better photographs, or better likenesses of the men.

Some of the entertaining publications of the Christmas season, with a mixture of light reading and pictures, have already made their appearance. Miss Georgiana Bowers has drawn a new series of Leaves from a Hunting Journal (Chatto and Windus), which have the characteristic vigour and vivacity of her former designs. My Day with the Hounds, by Mr. George Finch Mason (publishers, W. P. Spalding, Cambridge, and W. Kent, Paternoster-row), is a collection of five short and lively sporting stories, with a score of engravings in a style that has the effect of etching, and is rather cleverly done. The Necklace of Princess Fiorimonde, by Mary Morgan (Macmillan and Co.), is a book of seven little romances, gracefully conceived and elegantly related, with engravings designed by Walter Crane. An extremely pretty book for children is called Ups and Downs—All Smiles, no Frowns, by Mr. J. Tilsley (Wells Gardner, Darton, and Co.); the pictures, mostly of nice little folk engaged in pleasant adventures or pastimes, are designed with good taste and humour, and very agreeably coloured. Lady Lamb has written the History of a Black-and-Tan Terrier, which is illustrated by Mr. Walter J. Allen and published by Newman and Co. It will be interesting to that large class, the lovers of dogs.

FINE ART SOCIETY'S EXHIBITION.

Great interest attaches to the drawings of Thomas Bewick in this exhibition, at 148, New Bond-street. They have been placed at the disposal of the society by the Misses Bewick, and it is understood they form part of a complete collection of their father's works, which they intend to bequeath to the British Museum. The well-known woodcuts and the original drawings for them are arranged side by side. In nearly every case the drawing is no larger than the engraved copy—seldom exceeding two or three inches—and it is quite wonderful to find in so small a compass such exact and truthful renderings of nature. Many of the drawings of birds are exquisitely beautiful—notably the "Kitty Wren" (No. 10), which is a most charming and dainty little work of art, much superior to the woodcut. We are all acquainted with the mingled humour and pathos to be found in Bewick's tailpieces, but we have hitherto known him only as an artist in black and white. Here we meet him as a draughtsman in water-colours, and we do ubt not the little gems in the present exhibition will greatly add to his reputation.

One half of the gallery is filled with a superb collection of etchings, comprising numerous examples by H. Herkomer, A.R.A., James Whistler, Samuel Palmer, Seymour Haden, James Tissot, Paul Rajon, J. C. Hook, R. A. Bracquemond, and others.

The opposite processes of printing etchings and woodcuts are shown in the exhibition, some of Bewick's original blocks being used, and the interested visitor has the opportunity of taking away a Bewick proof printed in his presence.

When Mr. Justice Hawkins took his seat on the bench at the Cambridge Assizes on Tuesday morning, the Vice-Chancellor of the University entered the court and claimed the right, by ancient custom, to take precedence of the High Sheriff of the county, and to sit on the right of the Judge. This the High Sheriff (Captain Catling) declined to permit, and on an appeal to the Judge, after a long consultation, Mr. Justice Hawkins informed the Vice-Chancellor that no such right existed. The Vice-Chancellor then left the court.

Yesterday week the President of the Royal Manchester Institution, Mr. Richard Peacock, entertained a large number of gentlemen interested in art, science, and literature, at dinner in the galleries of the institution. In reply to the toast of "The Royal Institution," the President said the council were of opinion that the time had now come when, in obedience to the law of progress, mere personal and proprietary management should give way to municipal influence, with a view to widen the usefulness of the institution, and enable it to fulfil in a higher degree the purpose for which it was founded. Negotiations were proceeding for the transference of the institution to the Corporation of the city as the home of a permanent gallery of art. Mr. Jacob Bright, M.P., Mr. John Slagg, M.P., the members for the city, the Mayor (Mr. Pattison), and other gentlemen expressed their hearty approval of the scheme.

FOLKLORE OF NOVEMBER.

Chilly drear November, with its rain and fog, has always been an unpopular month; and, if the weather prophets are to be trusted, cold weather during this month is unlucky:—

If there's ice in November that will bear a duck
There'll be nothing after but sludge and muck.

By our ancestors it was popularly called "Blot Monath"—i.e., "Blood Month," probably from the quantity of blood that was shed in the slaughter of so many animals for winter use.

All Saints' Day, or, as it was originally called, Allhallow Even Mass, was formerly observed, as well as its vigil, by a feast, of which apples, nuts, and lambswool formed the indispensable ingredients, when sundry divinations were practised. An old custom still kept up in many places, is called "souling." Children go from house to house repeating a sort of doggrel for money, at the same time asking for soul-cakes, often concluding their petition as follows:—

An apple or pear, a plum or a cherry,
Is a very good thing to make us merry.

In Lancashire, this practice was called "psalm-caking," from the young people singing psalms, in return for which they received presents of cakes. In Shropshire, the Soul Cake is a sort of bun, which, at one time, it was an almost universal custom for persons to make, and to give to one another. Numerous weather proverbs have clustered round this day. Thus, owing to the traditional mildness of this season, they say in Germany, "All Saints' Day brings the second summer." Shakspeare, too, makes Prince Henry liken Falstaff, with his old age and young energy, to this November summer. "Farewell, thou latter summer; farewell, thou All Hallow'n summer!" There are various proverbs, however, which refer to the approach of winter; thus, the farmer is advised—

On the first of November, if the weather hold clear,
An end of wheat-sowing to make for the year.

All Souls' Day (2nd). In days gone, many of the superstitious rites of Halloween were continued on this festival. Soul-cakes were given to the poor, who, in acknowledgment, often repeated this couplet—

God have your soul,
Beens and all.

Formerly, in some parts of Derbyshire, children lighted up small fires, which they called "Tindles." In the county of Aberdeen small baked cakes, called "Dirge-loaves," are made in readiness for any visitor who may chance to call at the house.

The anniversary of the "Gunpowder Plot" (5th) is not observed as in former times, when the burning of a "good guy" was a scene of uproar perhaps almost unknown at the present day. The bonfire at Lincoln's-inn-fields appears to have been conducted on a grand scale; and the butchers of Clare Market observed this day by an elaborate procession.

Lord Mayor's Day (9th) was once a grand civic festival and pageant, the triumphs and glories of which, performed by giants, extolled by laureates, and recorded by historians, are but dimly and faintly shadowed forth in the meagre pomp of modern celebrations, with which most of our readers are well acquainted.

St. Martin's Day (11th) was formerly a day of feasting and jollity, in which geese and new wine held prominent places. On the ancient clog almanacks, this day is marked by the figure of a goose, because, as tradition says, St. Martin, on being elected to a bishopric, hid himself, but was discovered by that bird. Martlemas beef was salted beef hung up to dry, at this season of the year, for winter use. Farmers notice in which point the wind lies on St. Martin's Eve, believing it will so continue for the two or three following months. It is also said that "if there be ice that will bear a duck before Martlemas, there will be none that will bear a goose all the winter." According to a Scotch proverb—

'Tween Martinmas and Yule
Water 's wine in every pool.

The approach of winter, to [illegible] is the subject of allusion in many of the old rhymes, as for example, "At St. Martin's Day, Winter is on his way."

St. Brice's Day (13th) was celebrated in the sixteenth century by a rough custom called bull-running, of which a long account will be found in Strutt's "Sports and Pastimes."

Queen Elizabeth's Accession (17th) was long observed as a Protestant festival, and was popularly termed "Queen's Day." The Pope in effigy, in a chair of state, was paraded in the streets of London and afterwards thrown into a bonfire.

St. Cecilia's Day (22nd). She is regarded as the patroness of Music, her skill having been so great that, runs the legend, an angel who visited her was drawn from the mansions of the blessed by the charms of her melody. Musical performances were given abroad in her honour at least as early as three centuries ago; the first authenticated occasion of the kind in London having been in the year 1683. These "musick-feasts" took place first at the Stationers' Hall, and afterwards elsewhere, during a great part of the last century. Our early St. Cecilia's celebrations, it is said, led to the establishment of the Three Choir Festivals of Hereford, Worcester, and Gloucester.

St. Clement's Day (23rd) was formerly regarded as the first day of winter. A pot was formerly marked against this day, from an old custom of going about to beg drink to make merry with. In Staffordshire the children go from house to house singing the following rhyme:—

"Clemeny, clemeny, God be wi' you,
Christmas comes but once a year;
When it comes, it will soon be gone,
Give me an apple, and I'll be gone."

A similar custom seems to have prevailed on St. Catherine's Day (24th). On "Cattern Day," as it is popularly called in Buckinghamshire, the lacemakers hold a merry-making, and eat a sort of cake called "wigs," and drink ale. We find numerous weather proverbs associated with St. Catherine on the Continent. The French peasant says that this saint brings snow and cold weather; and the Belgians tell us that "St. Catherine by showing a bright face often stops the long rains of autumn."

St. Andrew's Day (30th) is chiefly noted in England as regulating the commencement of the ecclesiastical year, the nearest Sunday to which, whether before or after, constitutes the first Sunday in Advent. St Andrew is the patron saint of the Royal Society, in whose honour the Fellows were accustomed, at the early anniversary meetings, to wear a St. Andrew's cross in their hats. Tander and Tandrew are the names given to this festival in Northamptonshire, where it was formerly observed by the lacemakers as a day of merry-making. In Scotland it is called Andry's Day, Androis Mess, and Andermess. According to an old saying—

On St. Andrew's Day
The night is twice as long as the day.

A curious practice prevails on the Continent, by which the peasantry profess to be able to foretell the weather of the ensuing year. On the evening before St. Andrew's Day they fill a glass brimfull with water and let it stand all night. If any of the water has run over by morning it is a sign of a wet year, but if none has escaped it prognosticates a dry season.

Digitized by Google

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

The Mentana monument at Milan was unveiled on the 3rd inst. by Garibaldi, in the presence of an immense crowd and amid the utmost enthusiasm. Garibaldi was propped up with cushions in his carriage. His address was read by his son-in-law, General Canzio. M. Rochefort made a speech, which was much applauded. On Monday General Garibaldi left Milan for Genoa. He was accompanied to the railway station by bands of music and a large number of people singing his Hymn and the Marseillaise.

The eruption of Mount Vesuvius is stated to be increasing in activity. Two large streams of lava are flowing from the crater to the base of the cone.

HOLLAND.

On Tuesday the Second Chamber adopted the new Penal Code by 38 votes to 10.

BELGIUM.

The King opened the Chambers on Tuesday. In the speech from the throne his Majesty said he had been deeply moved by the popular manifestations of affectionate loyalty displayed at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Belgian independence. The forthcoming marriage of the Crown Prince of Austria with Princess Stéphanie was an event which would crown all his wishes. There had been an improvement in the position of the public Treasury, and it was hoped that the Budget of 1880 would show an equilibrium between revenue and expenditure. In conclusion, the King said that the Government would neglect no means to raise by education the moral and intellectual condition of the people.

GERMANY.

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says that the war which is being waged between Prince Bismarck and the Socialists is becoming more serious every day. The state of siege is being extended, and the Socialists are being expelled by the score.

On Monday evening Adelina Patti finished what is said to be her last engagement at Berlin by appearing with unqualified success as Violetta in Verdi's "Traviata."

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

At the sitting of the Austrian Delegation Budget Committee on the 5th inst. Count Bylandt, the Minister of War, made a long and circumstantial speech in defence of the extraordinary credits demanded by his department.

On Monday the Lower House of the Hungarian Diet agreed to the compromise with Croatia, after M. Tisza, the Minister President, had made a speech in support of it.

The united committees of the Hungarian Delegation have adopted all the proposals of the military committee in reference to the extraordinary grants for the troops in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the common Minister of Finance having previously replied to a number of questions relating to the matter addressed to him by members of the Delegation.

An earthquake occurred on Tuesday morning in Southern Austria, the shock being felt as far south as Pola and Serajevo.

DENMARK.

The Folkething was opened on Tuesday. The Budget, which balances at 50,000,000 crowns, shows an estimated increase in the revenue of 2,750,000 crowns, and in the expenditure of 5,500,000 crowns, as compared with last year, the additional outlay being due to the purchase of the Zealand railways by the State and the carrying into effect of the new military law. The Minister of Public Worship introduced a bill for the formation of a board to facilitate international literary intercourse.

RUSSIA.

The great Nihilist trial before the St. Petersburg Military Tribunal is proceeding, the prisoners arraigned numbering sixteen, including the supposed authors of the Winter Palace and Moscow Railway explosions, as well as the man accused of having prepared the mine near the Alexandrowski Railway station on the Sebastopol line. In the course of the proceedings on Monday the identity was established of the carpenter who loged in the basement of the Winter Palace under the guard-room. He was formerly a student.

The Daily News correspondent at St. Petersburg states that the auxiliary Russian forces have started from Turkestan to co-operate with General Scobeleff.

TURKEY.

Telegrams from Berlin and Vienna state that Turkey has assembled 60,000 regulars in the provinces bordering upon Greece, who in less than a month will be reinforced by 30,000 reserve. The ex-Minister Abeddin Pasha has been appointed commander of the Turkish forces in Epirus.

We learn from Constantinople that thirty thousand Redifs have been called out by the Porte, and that troops have been dispatched to Salonica and Volo.

GREECE.

The Minister of Finance asked on the 4th inst. for an extraordinary credit of thirty-six millions of drachmas. This sum, the Minister said, was required to meet the most urgent necessities of the War Ministry up to January next. The Minister said that with the powerful army Greece now had, and after the enormous sacrifices she had already made, it would be suicidal for her to recede. A Vienna telegram in the Standard states that at a council of war held in Athens, under the presidency of M. Coumoundouros, it has been resolved to send an army of 24,000 men against Thessaly, and another of 36,000 men against Epirus. There are to be, further, 20,000 troops held in reserve.

M. Thrasybulos Zaimis, who has many times been Premier of the Greek Ministry, died suddenly at Athens of heart disease.

AMERICA.

An address has been issued by the Republican National Committee congratulating the country upon the indisputable election of General Garfield as President by 213 electoral votes, and declaring his popular majority in the Northern States to be 518,000. Some Southern States would also have been carried had all the Republicans there been permitted to vote. The address claims that the Republicans have carried the Legislatures of all the Northern States except Nevada. The United States Senate will have thirty-seven Republican, thirty-seven Democratic, and two Independent members. There will be a Republican majority of at least fifteen in the House of Representatives.

Mdlle. Sarah Bernhardt made her first appearance in the character of Adrienne Lecouvreur, at Booth's Theatre, New York, on Monday night, before a densely crowded house, and met with a most enthusiastic reception.

CANADA.

It is semi-officially announced that the Dominion Parliament will be summoned to meet early in December.

Lord George and Lady Campbell arrived at Quebec last Saturday on a visit to the the Governor-General.

Colonel F. De Winton, secretary to his Excellency, sailed for England on the same day.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Sept. 8, 1879) with a codicil (dated June 28, 1880) of Mr. Edward Mackenzie, J.P. and D.L., late of Fawley Court, Bucks, who died on Sept. 27 last, was proved on the 28th ult. by Colonel William Forrest and William Dalziel Mackenzie, the son, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £1,000,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Ellen Mackenzie, £500, and an annuity of £1600 and the house and grounds on his estate of "Gillotts" as a residence, with the plate, furniture, linen, china, glass, and effects during life or widowhood; the trustees are also to provide for her, in addition, a carriage with a pair of horses in proper style and condition; subsequently the said plate, furniture, and effects are made heirlooms to go with the estate; to each of his four married daughters, £20,000; to each of his two unmarried daughters by his first marriage, £40,000; to each of his daughters by his second marriage, £30,000; and his trustees are directed to provide a saddle horse for each of his unmarried daughters; to each of his sons by his second marriage, £100,000; and there are a large number of annuities and legacies to grandchildren, nephews, nieces, trustees, and servants. The Fawley Court estate, with the advowson of the parish church, and the Thetford and Santon Downham estates, Suffolk and Norfolk (subject as to the latter estate to a right of residing in the house thereon given to his second son, Edward Philippe) he devises to the use of his eldest son, William Dalziel, for life, with remainder to his first and every other son according to their respective seniorities in tail male. The sum of £150,000 is directed to be laid out in the purchase of estates in England, Wales, Scotland, or Ireland, to be settled on his said son, Edward Philippe, and he gives him the furniture and effects at his estate of Auchenskeoch, Scotland. A sum of £200,000 is in like manner to be laid out in the purchase of estates to be settled on his third son, Austin; and £150,000 for estates to be settled on his fourth son, Keith Ronald; he also settles on the last-named the estate of "Gillotts," Bucks. After making numerous other provisions, the testator gives the residue of his real and personal estate to his son William Dalziel Mackenzie. This case well illustrates the operation of Sir Stafford Northcote's Act, passed in the early part of the year, altering the scale of stamp duties on probates. Previously thereto the stamp duty to be paid on this probate would have been £13,500, whereas the actual duty paid thereon amounted to £23,750, making a difference of £10,250 in favour of the revenue, and this wholly irrespective of the legacy and succession duties which have become payable.

The will (dated March 31, 1879) of the Rev. Henry Wright, a Prebendary of St. Paul's, late of The Heath, Hampstead, who was drowned at Coniston, Cumberland, on Aug. 13 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by Mrs. Lucy Sophia Wright, the widow, Alexander Samuel Leslie Melville, and Francis Beresford Wright, the brother, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £120,000. The testator appoints his wife guardian of his infant children, and he gives her an immediate legacy of £1000, his residence, with the furniture, effects, horses and carriages, and an annuity of £1500 charged on his interest in the Butterley Company; to his executors, Mr. Melville and Mr. Wright, £200 each, free of duty; to his old servant, Mary Ann Plumridge, if a spinster at the time of his death and so long as she remains one, an annuity of £50, also charged on his interest in the Butterley Company; to the rest of his servants, legacies according to length of service; to his daughters, £6000 each; to his son who shall first attain twenty-one all his real estate; and his interest in the Butterley Company (subject to the said annuities) and the residue of the personalty to all his sons.

The will (dated April 15, 1854) with three codicils (dated May 4, 1863; April 18, 1864; and Nov. 16, 1865) of Mrs. Mary Gibson, late of Anglesey Lodge, Alverstoke, Hants, who died on Aug. 5 last, was proved on the 21st ult. by Benjamin William Marlow, M.D., the nephew, and Frederick John Lowes, M.D., the surviving executors, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. After making many bequests, the testatrix leaves one half of the residue of her property to the children of her late brother, Major-General William Biddlecombe Marlow, and the other half to her said nephew, Dr. B. W. Marlow.

The will (dated Nov. 24, 1874) of Mr. Thomas Claxston, late of No. 38, Edward-street, Dorset-square, who died on Sept. 11 last, was proved on the 13th ult. by Samuel William Bowden Colston and Thomas Nowell, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. After the death of seventeen annuitants, a sum of £800 is given to the Vicar and churchwardens of Higher Brixham, Devon, for the purpose of providing a coal or clothing fund, and for other necessaries, for agricultural labourers, natives of the said parish, and their wives, children, parents, brothers, and sisters.

The will (dated July 15, 1878) of Mrs. Ann Smith, late of Blackheath, who died on Sept. 14 last, was proved on the 29th ult. by William Smith, Thomas Smith, and Samuel Smith, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The testatrix bequeaths £500 to her niece, Mary Elizabeth Wilson; annuities of £30 each to her servants, Mary Cook and Sarah Ann James; one fifth of the residue to each of her sons, William, Thomas, and Samuel; one fifth upon trust for the husband and children of her late daughter, Mrs. Mary Richmond; and one fifth upon trust for her daughter, Mrs. Anne Atkinson.

The will (dated Nov. 20, 1875) of Mrs. Mary Harman, late of Dunheven House, West Croydon, who died on Sept. 15 last, was proved on the 22nd ult. by Richard Harman and William Turner Shackleton, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £21,000. The testatrix, after giving some legacies, leaves one half of the residue to her daughter, Mary Shackleton, and one half to her daughter, Catherine Beatrice Marshall.

The will (dated March 6, 1880) of General Samuel Braybrooke, late of No. 3, Gledhow-gardens, South Kensington, who died on the 7th ult., was proved on the 27th ult. by Philip Watson Braybrooke and Charles Henry Steuart Braybrooke, the sons, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £18,000. The testator leaves all his property to his wife for life, and then to his children.

The will (dated July 28, 1880) of Mr. John Christopher Lethbridge, late of No. 25, Abingdon-street, Westminster, and of Granville House, Blackheath, who died at Tregare, near Launceston, on Aug. 27 last, was proved on the 28th ult. by Christopher Lethbridge, the son, Miss Caroline Mary Lethbridge, and the Rev. C. F. S. Money, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £9000.

A telegram from Sydney of the 10th inst. announces that the New South Wales Parliament has been dissolved.

The Viceroy of India arrived at Lahore on Wednesday afternoon, and obtained a most cordial reception. The Municipality presented an address to his Excellency on the arrival of the train.

LORD MAYOR'S DAY.

Amid fine weather, and in the presence of enormous numbers of spectators, Mr. Alderman M'Arthur, M.P., the new Lord Mayor, went in state on Tuesday from Guildhall to Westminster. A novel feature of the procession was the appearance of a large detachment of volunteer firemen, together with six steam fire-engines. In the ward of Coleman-street, represented by the Lord Mayor in the Court of Aldermen, the streets were elaborately decorated, and an address of congratulation was presented to the new chief magistrate, by whom it was acknowledged. In the Court of Exchequer the newly elected Lord Mayor, with the Sheriffs, the Recorder, and other officials, were received by the Barons of the Exchequer, and his Lordship was introduced to the Judges by Sir Thomas Chambers. Mr. Baron Pollock, after feelingly alluding to the late Lord Chief Baron, congratulated Mr. M'Arthur on his elevation to the position of Lord Mayor, and spoke in high terms of his predecessor in office. After leaving Palace-yard the civic pageant made its way over Westminster Bridge, and through a part of the borough of Lambeth, for which constituency the Lord Mayor has sat in Parliament during the past twelve years. Here, as at other points along the line of route, his Lordship was warmly cheered.

At the banquet at Guildhall in the evening, Mr. Gladstone replied to the toast of her Majesty's Ministers. He began by referring to the work accomplished in the late brief Session of Parliament. The recess, which was supposed to give rest to the Government, had been attended with great anxiety, and he was bound to say an early word in reference to the state of Ireland. The bounty of Providence had bestowed upon that country the great blessing of an abundant harvest, and they might, perhaps, have believed that this bounty would have improved the social circumstances of the people; but they had been disappointed in this respect. Parliament, too long accustomed to legislate for Ireland in a spirit of narrowness, had of late dealt with the Irish Land Question on a principle adapted to the condition of Ireland. There appeared to be a belief that the Land Act of 1870 required large amendment. It would be the duty of the Government carefully to examine the state of the law, and if they believed its provisions were insufficient, they would not scruple to call on the Legislature again to deal with the subject. Certain influences had come upon the people of Ireland to prevent the happiness which it was hoped might result from an abundant harvest which were not compatible with good government and order, but order must be maintained under any circumstances. Ireland was now punishing herself, and not England. Occupiers and would-be occupiers were obstructed by menace and crime, which could not be tolerated. The Government recognised the priority of the duty of enforcing order and of looking to the law as it stood for protecting every citizen in the enjoyment of his life and property. If circumstances necessitated asking for an increase of power, which they would not anticipate, they would not shrink from asking it. In South Africa the struggle with the Basutos was the result of the policy of the Cape Ministry, and must be watched with deep anxiety. The Government had sought to restore friendly relations between India and Afghanistan; and, though they had done something, had not succeeding in accomplishing all they wished. The right hon. gentleman then alluded to the Eastern Question, observing that two things were imperative with regard to Turkey—the fulfilment of international engagements and internal reform; and with this view Ministers had laboured for the fulfilment of the Treaty of Berlin. He then announced the receipt of intelligence with regard to the speedy surrender of Dulcigno.

The other Ministers who spoke were the Lord Chancellor, Lord Granville, Lord Hartington, Lord Spencer, Lord Kimberley, and Sir William Harcourt. Lord Selborne, who spoke early in the evening, elicited loud cheers by remarking that one of the first, greatest, and most paramount duties of every Government was to "maintain the law with firmness, steadiness, and without respect to any man." The toast of the Ambassadors was acknowledged by M. Challemel-Lacour.

POST-OFFICE SAVINGS BANKS.

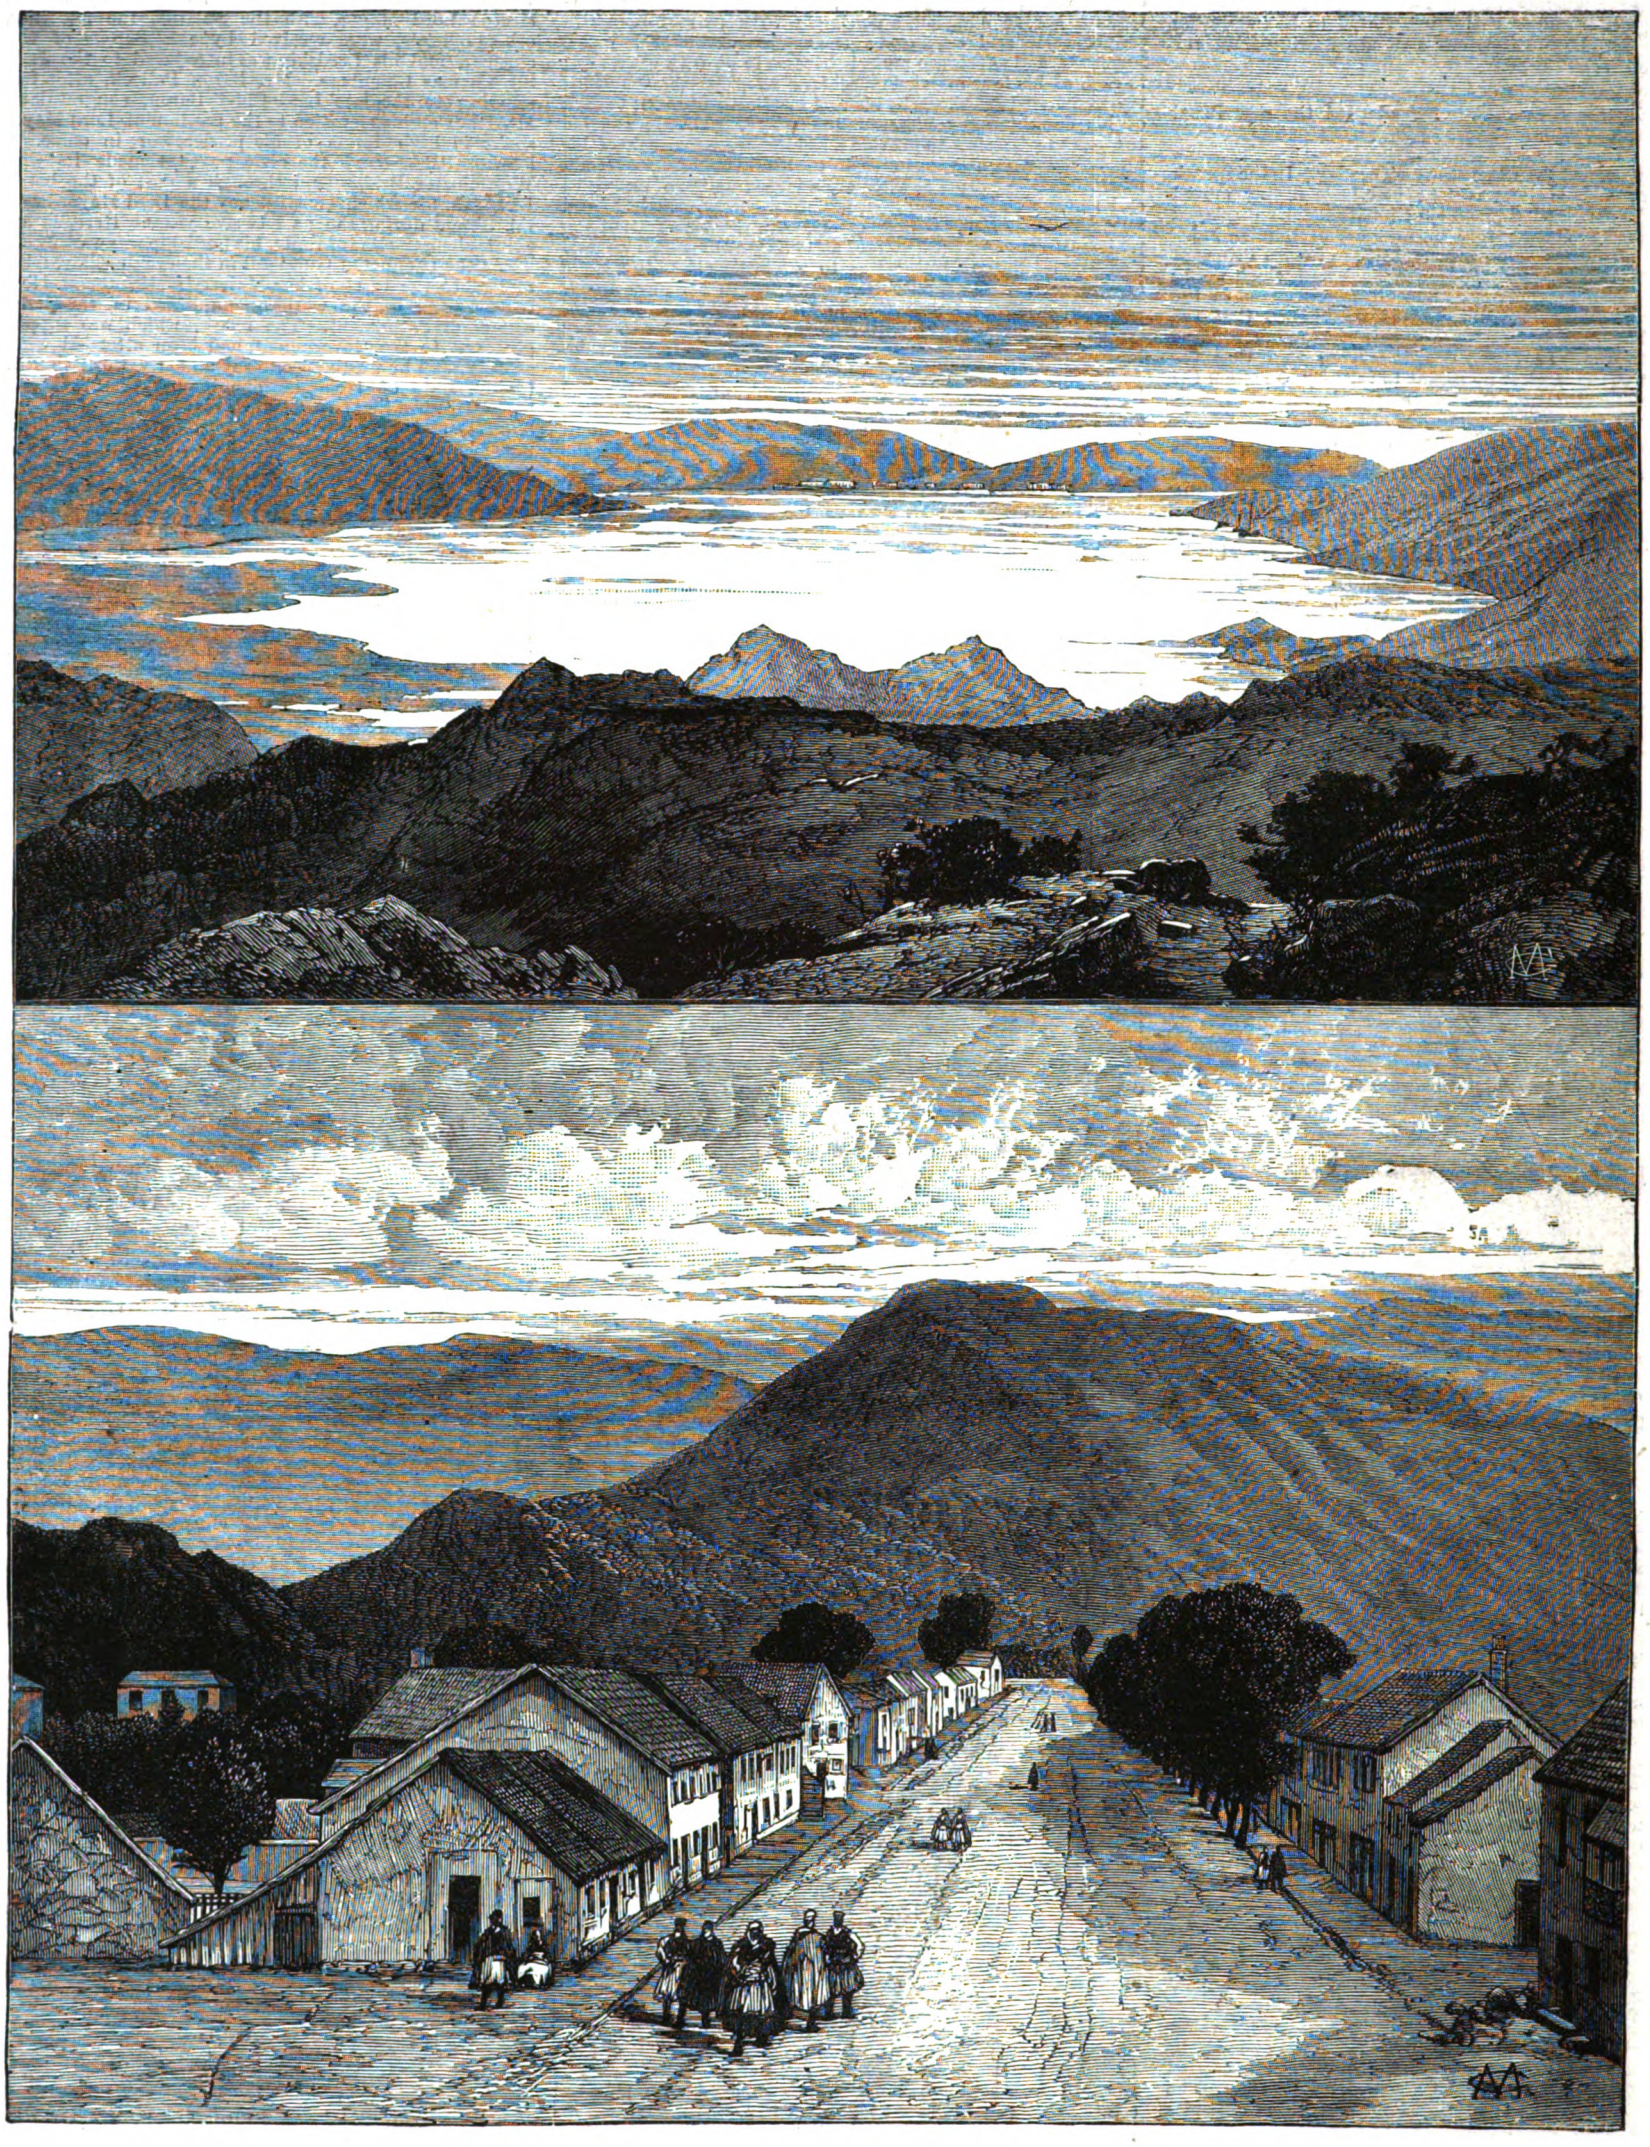
SMALL SAVINGS BY POSTAGE-STAMPS.

The experiment of affording facilities for the saving of small sums of money by the issue of forms to which twelve postage-stamps may be affixed, and the amount then deposited in the Post-Office Savings Bank, having proved successful in ten counties, the plan is to be extended to the whole of the United Kingdom next Monday. The ten counties contain less than a tenth of the entire population; but during the seven weeks in which the experiment has been in operation more than 14,000 forms have been received at the Post Office, and more than 7000 new accounts opened through their agency.

SMALL INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT STOCKS.

Mr. Fawcett has issued a notice explaining the conditions and limitations under which the thrifty poor may become holders of Consols. The following is the statement that has been issued by the Postmaster-General:—

By the Savings Bank Act of last Session any person on and after the 22nd inst. will be able to invest, at any Post-office in the United Kingdom at which there is a savings bank, small sums in any one of the following Government stocks—Consols, Reduced, or New Three per Cents. The sums so invested must not be less than £10 and must not exceed £100 in any one year, and the aggregate amount held by any one investor must not exceed £300. The following amounts will be charged for the purchase of stock, and these sums will include all expenses connected with the subsequent collection of dividends: On stock not exceeding £25, 9d.; exceeding £25, but not exceeding £50, 1s. 3d.; exceeding £50, but not exceeding £75, 1s. 9d.; exceeding £75, but not exceeding £100, 2s. 3d. The charges on the sale of stock will be at the same rates up to £100; for £200 it will be 2s. 9d.; and for £ 00 3s. 3d. The investment will be at the current price of the day on which it is made, and a certificate thereof will be sent to the investor by post. Similar arrangements will be made for sales of stock; and dividends will be collected by the Post-office, and placed to the credit of the investor. Any person having invested £50 or more may, on application to the Post-office, obtain a stock certificate for £50 or any multiple of £50. These certificates will have coupons for dividends annexed, payable to bearer. Facilities similar to those just described for investment of small sums in Government Stocks will be granted by the Trustee Savings Banks.

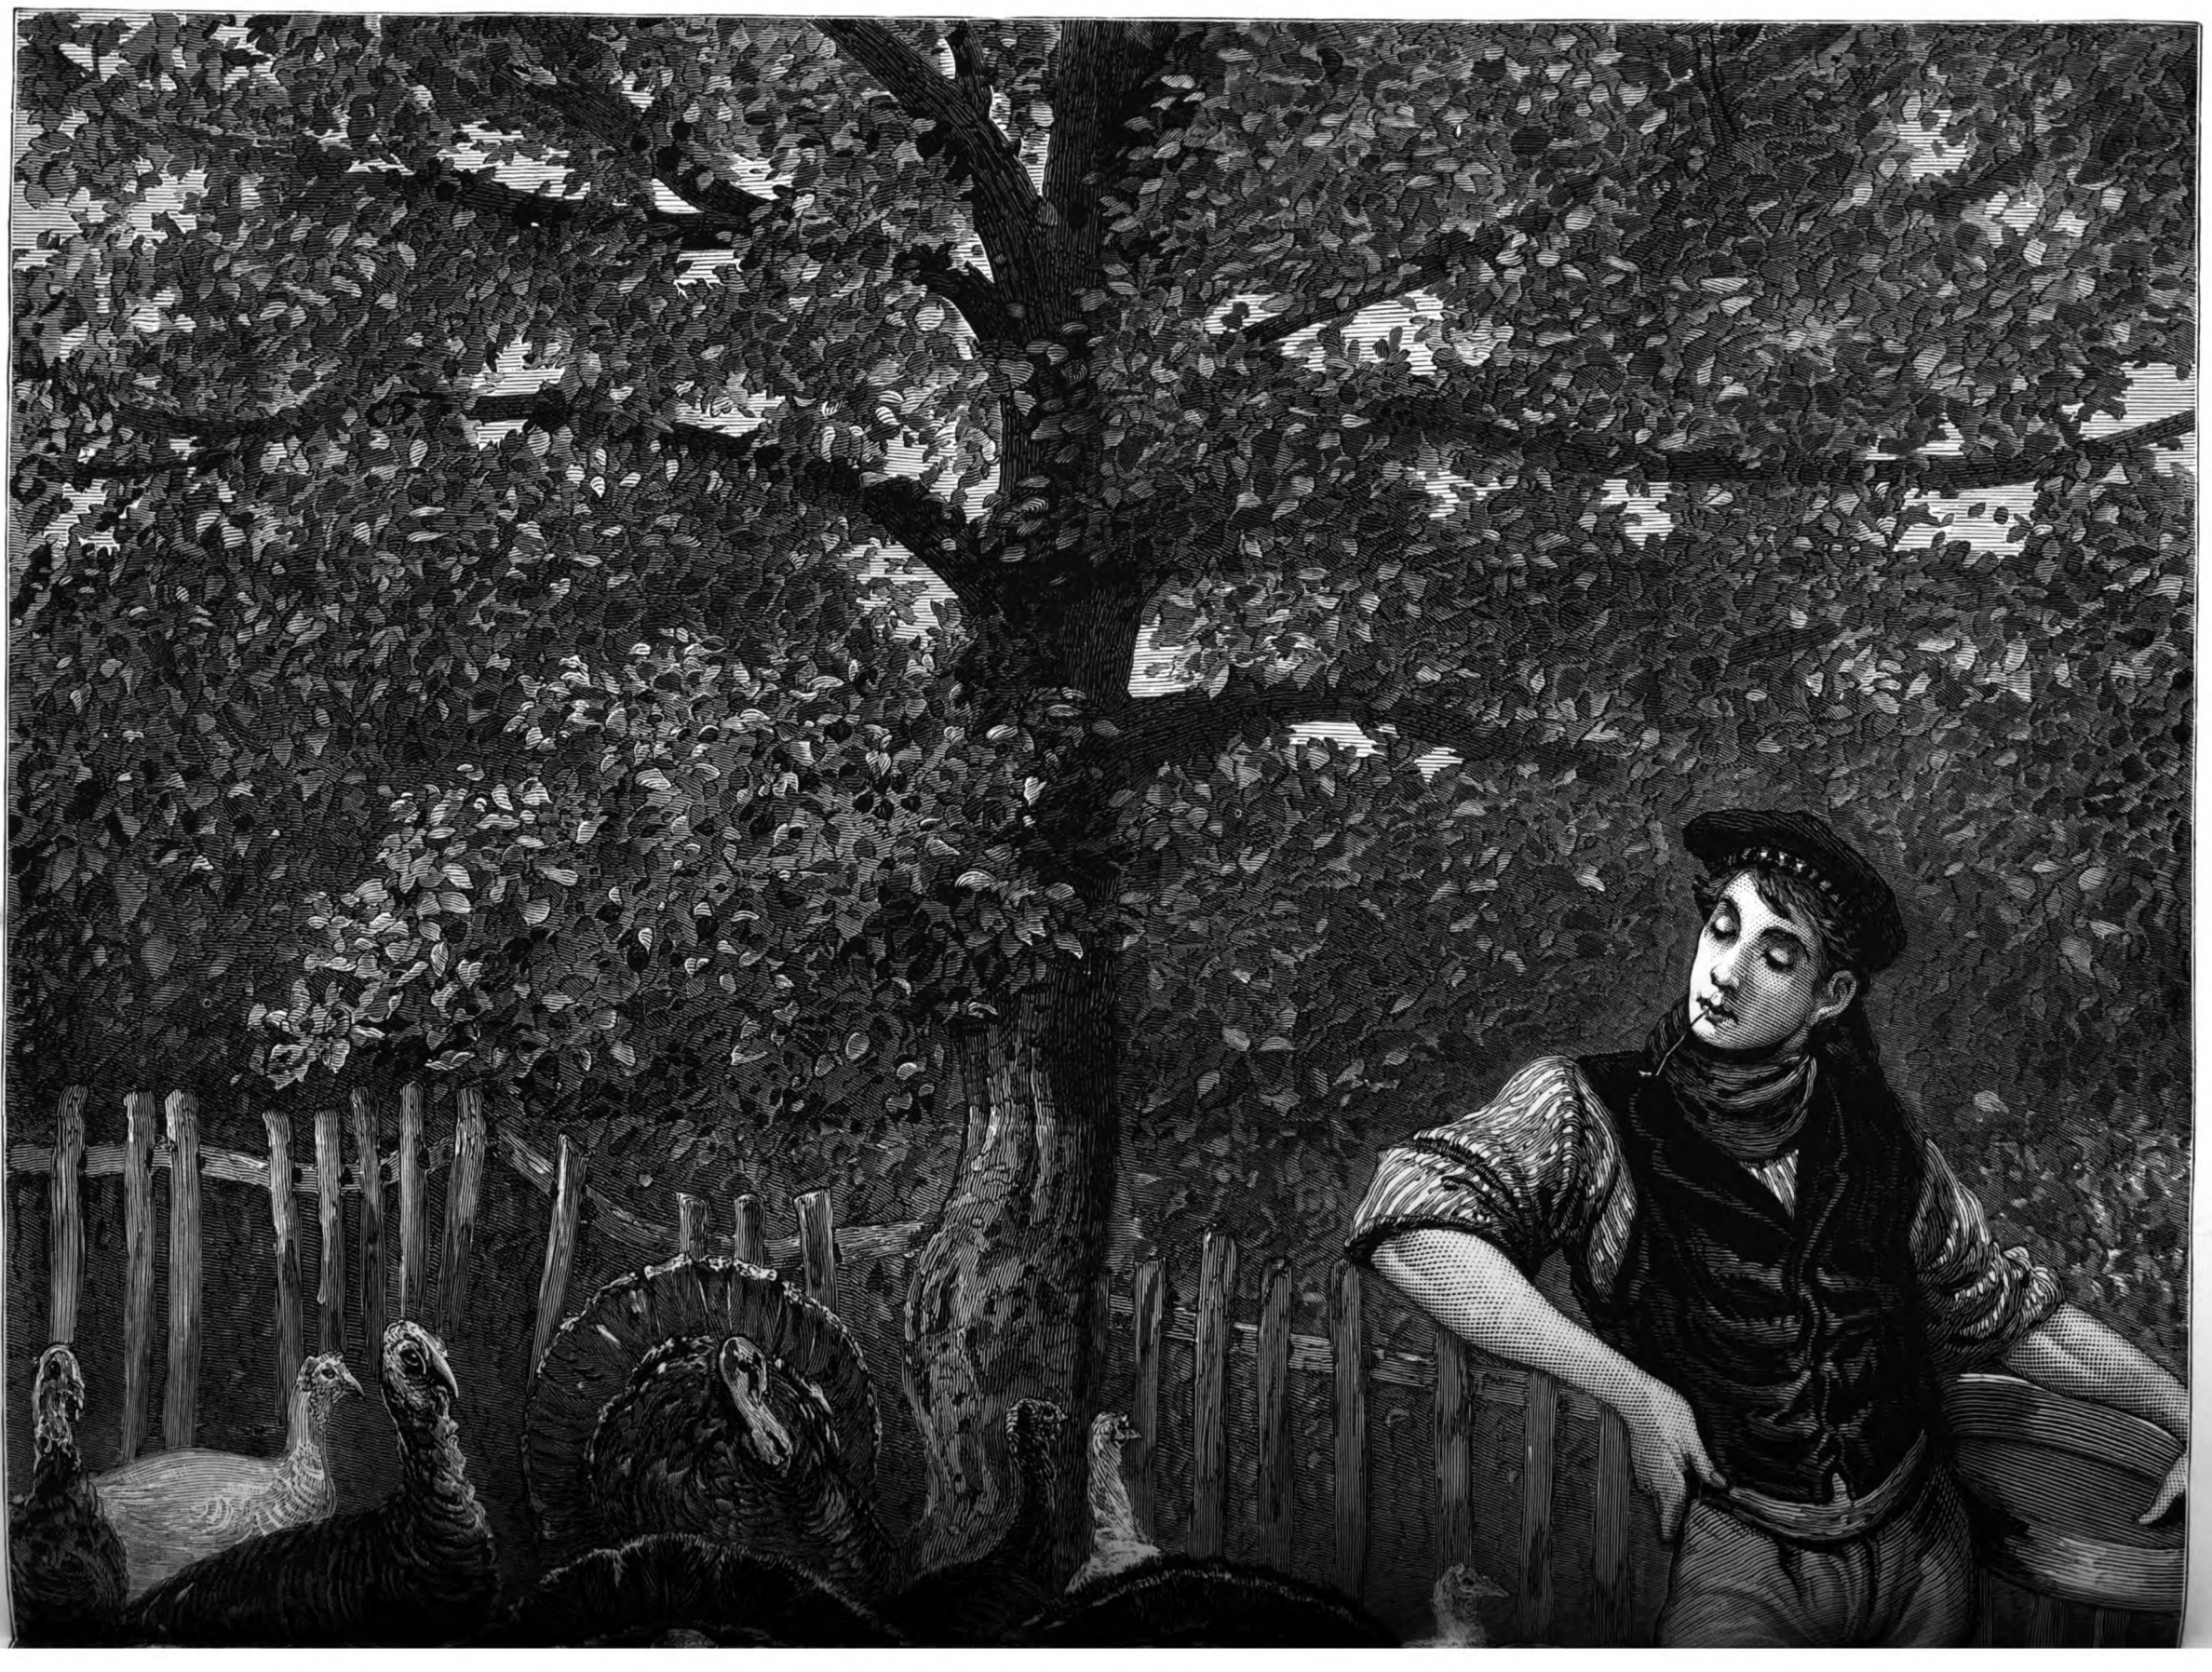


A private ascent made by Mr. Coxwell last week from Ashford, Kent, in company with Mr. Walter Powell, M.P., and Mr. W. B. Murray, artist, was a remarkable undertaking. The aeronauts travelled over seven counties, and were in mid-air for nine hours and a half. They descended in good order in the evening at Gunston Mills, some miles beyond Exeter. The greatest altitude attained was 8000 ft., where a bottle of water became ice. The views of the earth by day and by night were exceptionally fine.

There was a large gathering of Welshmen in the old Surrey Chapel, Blackfriars-road, on Monday, under the presidency of Mr. B. T. Williams, Q.C., M.P., the occasion being the holding of the annual meeting of the "Llundain Eisteddfod Gadeiriol," at which members of the choirs of the different Welsh chapels in the metropolis and other natives of Wales competed for prizes in singing, recitations, original essays, and the various musical and literary efforts incidental to these well-known national assemblies.

Digitized by Google

SKETCHES OF MONTENEGRO, BY THE "TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.



SEE PAGE 481.

1. THE LAKE OF SCUTARI, FROM THE HILLS ABOVE CETTINJE.
2. MAIN STREET OF CETTINJE, THE CAPITAL OF MONTENEGRO.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

THE CONDITION OF TURKEY.

BY P. R. MORRIS, A.R.A.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

THE DULCIGNO QUESTION: HEAD-QUARTERS OF BOZO PETROVICS, AT SUTORMAN, NEAR ANTIVARI.
FROM A SKETCH BY MR. R. C. WOODVILLE, OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

Digitized by Google

OBITUARY.

LORD WENLOCK.

The Right Honourable Beilby Richard Lawley, second Lord Wenlock, of Wenlock, in the county of Salop, and a Baronet, Lord Lieutenant of the East Riding of the county of York, Hon. Colonel of the East Riding Volunteers, formerly Lieutenant-Colonel Yorkshire Hussars, J.P., President of the York Chamber of Agriculture, died on the 6th inst. He was born April 21, 1818, the eldest son of Paul Beilby, first Lord Wenlock (so created May 13, 1839), and of Caroline, his wife, youngest daughter of Richard, Lord Braybrooke, and during the lifetime of his father, from 1851 to 1852, sat as member for Pontefract. His Lordship married, Nov. 28, 1846, Lady Elizabeth Grosvenor, third daughter of Richard, second Marquis of Westminster, K.G., and leaves issue five sons and four daughters. Of the former, the eldest, Beilby, now third Lord Wenlock, born May 12, 1849, married, May 14, 1872, Lady Constance Mary Lascelles, eldest daughter of the fourth Earl of Harewood. The family of Lawley, on which a baronetcy was conferred in 1641, is descended from Thomas Lawley, cousin and heir of John, Lord Wenlock, Privy Councillor to King Edward IV., and Knight of the Garter.

LORD ORMIDALE.

Robert Macfarlane, Judge of the Court of Session, in Scotland, by the title of Lord Ormidale, died on the 3rd inst., at Hartrigge House, Jedburgh, in his seventy-ninth year. He was born in 1802, son of Mr. Parlan Macfarlane, of Glen Luss, in the county of Dumbarton, by Anne, his wife, third daughter of Mr. Alexander Campbell, of Ormidale, Argyleshire. He was educated at the Universities of Edinburgh and Glasgow, practised for some time as a Writer to the Signet, and was called to the Bar in Scotland in 1836. He filled subsequently the offices of Advocate-Depute and Sheriff of Renfrewshire, and was appointed Judge of the Court of Session in 1862. Lord Ormidale was author of various legal treatises.

MR. MONTGOMERIE, OF ANNICK LODGE.

Mr. Roger Montgomerie, Deputy Lord Clerk Register of Scotland, J.P. and D.L., late M.P. for North Ayrshire, died on the 25th ult., aged fifty-two. He was third son of the late Colonel William Eglinton Montgomerie, of Annick Lodge, by Susan Fraser, his wife, daughter of Mr. John Anderson. He was educated at Rugby, and at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he graduated M.A. 1854. Previously, in 1852, he had been admitted an advocate at the Scotch Bar. He held the office of Advocate-Depute in 1858, from 1866 to 1868, and was reappointed 1874. Mr. Montgomerie sat in Parliament for the northern division of Ayrshire for the duration of the last Parliament, from 1874 till the general election this year.

MR. PALLES.

Mr. Andrew Christopher Palles, of Little Mount Palles, in the county of Cavan, and of Dublin, father of the Lord Chief Baron of Ireland, died on the 31st ult., in his eightieth year. He was only child of Mr. Andrew Palles, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Mr. Richard O'Ferrall, of Balyna, in the county of Kildare, and represented a family of considerable antiquity and of Italian origin, being descended from the Del Palatios of Lombardy. This interesting line of ancestry led probably to the genealogical and antiquarian tastes which Mr. Palles possessed. His store of legendary lore connected with his own part of Ireland was most valuable. Mr. Palles married, Aug. 12, 1828, Eleanor, daughter of Mr. Matthew James Plunkett, and leaves surviving issue, two sons and one daughter. Of the former, the second, Christopher, is, as already indicated, the learned and accomplished Lord Chief Baron in Ireland.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Mr. Charles Tabor, of Bovingdon Hall, Bocking, Essex, on the 3rd inst., in his seventy-fourth year.

Frances, wife of Edward Cronin, M.D., and sister of the late Sir John Kennaway, Bart., of Escot, Devon, on the 30th ult., at Claremont House, Brixton-road.

Mr. Archibald Gerard, of Rochsoles, in the county of Lanark, J.P. and D.L., on the 27th ult., at Salzburg, Austria. He was born July 8, 1812, the second son of Colonel John Gerard, of Rochsoles, by Dorothea Montague, his wife, daughter of the Rev. Archibald Alison. He married, Aug. 7, 1839, Euphemia Erskine, eldest daughter and coheir of Sir John Robison, K.H., and leaves three sons and four daughters.

Colonel Mure, M.P. for Renfrewshire, on Tuesday morning, at his residence, Piccadilly, in his fifty-first year. The deceased sat as the Liberal representative for Renfrewshire from 1874, having unsuccessfully contested the county in the previous year. He was Deputy-Lieutenant and magistrate for Renfrewshire; and was formerly Lieutenant-Colonel in the Scots Guards, with whom he served in the Crimea.

Mr. John Bathurst Graver-Browne, of Morley Hall, Norfolk, J.P. and D.L., on the 26th ult., at Lowestoft, aged forty-three. He was eldest son of Mr. John Turner Graver-Browne, of Morley Hall (who assumed the additional surname of Browne), by Fanny, his wife, daughter of the Ven. Henry Bathurst, Archdeacon of Norwich. He married, 1871, Frances Julia, daughter of Sir Henry Josias Stracey, Bart., and leaves two daughters. He served as High Sheriff of Norfolk in 1873.

Mr. William Henry Heathcote, of North Luffenham Hall and Tadworth Court, Surrey, on the 17th ult., at the first-named seat, aged eighty-three. He was the third son of Sir Gilbert Heathcote, Bart., of Normanton Park, in the county of Rutland, M.P., by Lady Catherine Sophia, his first wife, fourth daughter of Mr. John Manners, of Grantham Grange, Lincolnshire (by Louisa, his wife, Countess of Dysart in her own right). He was educated at Westminster, and Trinity College, Cambridge. He married, 1833, Sophia Matilda, only daughter of Mr. Thomas Wright, of Upton Hall, Notts.

Deputy Surgeon-General B. Tydd, A.M.D., at The Prestons, Ightham, Kent, at the age of fifty-five years. The deceased was the son of John Tydd, Esq., of Hermitage, county Clare, Ireland, and entered the service April 25, 1851. He served in the Eastern campaign of 1854-5, including the affair of Bulganac and the battle of the Alma (being awarded the medal with clasp and Turkish medal). He became Deputy Surgeon-General on March 9, 1879, and shortly afterwards was appointed head of the Statistical Branch of the Army Medical Department, Whitehall, an office which he held till his death.

Sir Bartle Frere was on Saturday evening last entertained at Willis's Rooms at a dinner in celebration of his return from the Cape. Upwards of 230 gentlemen, including many Indian civil and military officers, were present. Sir Richard Temple, who highly eulogised Sir Bartle Frere, presided.

CHESS.

ORIMA (Rostoff).—We are obliged for the name and address. The problems shall now have our best attention.

X Y Z (Sheffield).—The Chessplayers' Chronicle is published monthly by Mr. Morgan, Great Queen-street, London.

CAPTAIN M (Dublin).—Thanks for the report, which shall appear next week. We should be glad to hear more of the club's proceedings and some specimens of the members' skill. In chess, as in other arts, Dublin seems to be the "Silent Sister."

ALPHA.—We share your admiration for the last self-mate problem. The power given to the adverse Queen is in marked contrast to the compositions of the old school.

W J E (Dewsbury).—We are glad to note that No. 1914 has deceived so experienced a solver. The solution is given below.

G H McL (St. John's-wood).—The problem comes well commended, and shall have our best attention.

A C (Staines).—Self-mate problems are as old almost as the game itself, and probably owe their origin to the ancient custom of one player giving such odds as forcing his adversary to mate him.

W W (South Norwood).—The solution is given below, and should please you after your twenty hours' effort to solve it by way of 1. Kt takes R!

S W (Liverpool).—The match by telegraph between your club and Calcutta was announced in our issue of the 2nd ult. We are obliged for the moves.

J R HANDLEY (Halifax, N.S.).—Your solutions of Nos. 1909, 1910, and 1911 are correct.

N R (Freckenham).—Your letters do not miscarry; but please to note that this column is made up for press on the Saturday before the day of publication.

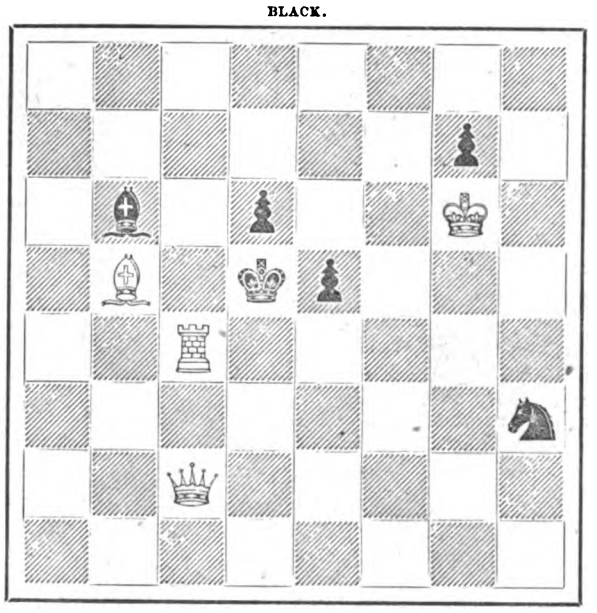
CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1913 received from Norman Rumbelow, F W Humphries, M H Moorhouse, H J Grant, Pierce Jones, W F Payne, and Orima.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1914 received from Emile Frau, H de Groot (Groningen), Pierce Jones, L Falcon (Antwerp), E Casella (Paris), and J Bumstead.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1915 received from H B, W Biddle, Cant, Hereward, East Marden, Shadforth, Alpha, Norman Rumbelow, A R, R B Duff, L S B, James Dobson, F R Jeffrey, N Cator, C Darragh, W Warren, E Elsbury, Chessophile, An Old Hand, B Dyke, D W Kell, S Farrant, A Kentish Man, T Greenbank, C C Elmore, D Templeton, G L Mayne, Elsie, C S Coxe, H Langford, R Ingersoll, T Barrington, R Oswald, Helen Lee, R Jessop, H Blacklock, Ben Nevis, A Youngster, R H Brooks, Julia Short, Smutch, C C C, Pierce Jones, E P Vulliamy, M H Moorhouse, A Chapman, Emile Frau, W F Payne, A C Wogglepoll, J W W, F W Humphries, Dr F St, E L G, Cornelius, W T R, W Owen (Pallanza), Walter W, and G Smithwhite.

THE Sulmate dedicated to Count Pongracz has been solved by R Oswald, E Elsbury, S Farrant, D Templeton, C S Coxe, R Ingersoll, East Marden, G H H (Oxford), H Blacklock, Alpha, A C, Ben Nevis, and G Smithwhite.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1914.



WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Kt to Kt 4th	B takes B*
2. Q to Q 6th (ch)	K takes Q
3. B mates.

* If Black play 1. R to Q 6th, then 2. Q to K B 2nd; if 1. R takes R, then 2. Q takes R (ch); and if 1. K to B 4th, then 2. Q takes P (ch), mating in each case on the third move.

PROBLEM No. 1917.

By A. CYRIL PEARSON.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

Played at the Divan between Mr. JANSSENS and Major MARTIN.

(Giuoco Piano.)

WHITE (Mr. J.)	BLACK (Mr. M.)	WHITE (Mr. J.)	BLACK (Mr. M.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	The move made gives Black two strong Pawns.
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	34.	K takes P
3. B to B 4th	B to B 4th	35. Kt to B sq	P to B 4th
4. Castles	Kt to K B 3rd	36. B to Q 2nd	P to B 5th
5. P to Q B 3rd	Kt takes P	37. Kt to R 2nd	K to Kt 3rd
6. B to Q 5th		38. Kt to Kt 4th	R to R 2nd
In view of the slow development of the forces on both sides in this opening, White has been in too much haste to "castle;" and here we should have preferred 6. P to Q 4th to the move in the text.		39. Kt to K 5th (ch)	K to B 4th
6.	Kt takes K B P	40. K to Kt 2nd	R to R 4th
7. R takes Kt	B takes R (ch)	41. B to Kt 4th	Q R to R 2nd
8. K takes B	Kt to K 2nd	42. Kt to Kt 4th	R to R 5th
9. Q to Kt 3rd	Castles	43. B to Q 6th	R takes Kt (ch)
10. P to Q 4th	Kt takes B	Perhaps the only way of utilising his extra Pawns lies in this direction.
Black has a Rook and two Pawns for his two minor pieces, and, had he now played 10. P to Q B 3rd, he might have soon obtained a good game.		44. P takes R (ch)	K takes P
11. Q takes Kt	P takes P	45. B to K 5th	K to B 4th
12. P takes P		46. R to K R 3rd	R takes R
12. B to Kt 5th gains time at least, and is certainly more aggressive.		47. K takes R	P to Kt 5th (ch)
12.	P to Q B 3rd	48. K to Kt 2nd	K to K 5th
13. Q to K R 5th	Q to B 3rd	49. P to Q Kt 4th	K to K 6th
14. Kt to B 3rd	P to Q 4th	50. P to Q R 4th	P to Q R 3rd
15. B to Q 2nd	B to B 4th	Very weak: the right line of play appears to be 50. P to B 6th (ch); 51. K to B sq, P to Kt 6th; 52. B takes P, K takes K P. At all events, it affords more chances of winning than any other.
16. K to Kt sq	Q to Kt 3rd	51. P to Q R 5th	P to Kt 6th
17. Q takes Q	B takes Q	52. K to Kt sq	K to B 6th
18. Kt to K 5th	B to B 4th	53. K to B sq	K to Kt 5th
19. R to K B sq	B to K 3rd	54. K to K 2nd	P to B 6th (ch)
20. Kt to K 2nd	P to K B 3rd	55. K to K 3rd	P to B 7th
21. Kt to B 3rd	B to B 4th	56. K to K 2nd	K to R 6th
22. Kt to Kt 3rd	B to Q 6th	57. K to B sq	K to R 7th
23. R to K sq	P to K Kt 3rd	The game is obviously drawn at this point, for Black can never advance the K Kt P so long as the Bishop commands the diagonal upon which it now stands.
24. P to K R 3rd	K to B 2nd	58. B to Q 6th	K to R 6th
25. Kt to K B sq	B takes Kt	59. B to Kt 8th	K to Kt 5th
This exchange appears uncalled for and, on general principles, we should have kept the Bishop for the end-game, if possible.		Black should have been contented with the "draw," which he secures by moving the King to R 7th and R 6th alternately. The retreat of the King enables White to win.
26. B takes B	K to Kt 2nd	60. K to Kt 2nd	P Queens (ch)
27. P to K Kt 4th	P to K Kt 4th	61. K takes Q	K to B 6th
28. K to B 2nd	K to Kt 3rd	62. B to Q 6th	K to K 5th
29. R to K sq	Q R to K sq	63. B to B 5th	K to B 6th
30. R to K 3rd	R to K 5th	64. B to Kt 6th	P to Kt 7th (ch)
31. R to Q Kt 3rd	R to B 2nd	65. K to Kt sq	K to Kt 6th
32. B to K 3rd	P to K R 4th	66. B to B 7th (ch)	K to B 6th
33. Kt to Q 2nd	Q R to K 2nd	67. B to K 5th,
34. P takes P (ch)		and Black resigned.
34. Kt to B square, with the view of posting that piece at K B 5th, is stronger.

The match by telegraph between Liverpool and Calcutta, the preliminary arrangements for which were announced in our issue of the 2nd ult., was commenced last week, Liverpool being represented by a committee of the members, and Calcutta by Mr. Robert Steel, an old Liverpudlian, assisted by two native amateurs of the Bamboo caste. As our readers were informed on the occasion referred to, a signal code is used, by means of which the combination of any two moves can be transmitted by a single word, thus reducing the cost of the enterprise to reasonable proportions. Even now, however, the cost is not inconsiderable, and both sides deserve great credit for the spirit displayed in the conception and execution of such an undertaking. Two games are being played concurrently, Liverpool having the first move in one, Calcutta opening the other; and the only stringent condition included in the terms of the match—there is no money stake—is that the moves are to be dispatched within forty-eight hours after the receipt of each message. So far as the games had proceeded on Tuesday last, the following are the moves in both:—

Liverpool Game.—1. P to Q B 4th, P to K 3rd; 2. P to K 3rd, P to Q B 4th; 3. P to Q Kt 3rd, P to Q 4th; 4. Kt to K B 3rd, P to Q 5th; 5. B to Q Kt 2nd, Kt to Q B 3rd; 6. P to Q Kt 4th, Calcutta to move.

Calcutta Game.—1. P to K 4th, P to K 3rd; 2. P to Q 4th, P to Q 4th; 3. Kt to Q B 3rd, B to Q Kt 5th; 4. P takes P, P takes P; 5. B to Q 3rd, P to Q B 4th; 6. B to Q 2nd, Kt to Q B 3rd. Liverpool to move.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

BENTLEY AND SON.
The Red Rag. A Novel. By R. Mounteney Jephson. 2 vols.

BICKERS AND SON.
An Index to Shakespearian Thought: A Collection of Passages from the Plays and Poems of Shakespeare. By Cecil Arnold.
Samuel Pepys and the World He Lived In. By Henry B. Wheatley.

BOGUE.
The Royal Guide to the London Charities for 1880-1. By Robert Fry. Eighteenth Annual Edition.
Sword and Surplice; or Thirty Years' Reminiscences of the Army and the Church. An Autobiography. By H. J. Wale.

CASSELL, PETTER, AND GALPIN.
Little Chimes for All Times: Dot's Story Book.
The Family Honour. By Mrs. C. L. Balfour.
The Praise of Books as said and sung By English Authors. Selected by John Alfred Longford.
Better than Good. A Story for Girls By Annie E. Ridley. Illustrated.

CHATTO AND WINDUS.
The Complete Works of Bret Harte. Collected and Revised by the Author. Vol. III: Tales of the Argonauts and Eastern Sketches.
A Confidential Agent. By James Payn. 3 vols.

GRIFFITH AND FARRAN.
Tiny Natural History Series, with Illustrations by Harrison Weir and others:
Frolicsome Frisk and His Friends. By the Author of "Odd Stories About Animals."
Wise Birds and Clever Dogs. By the same author.
The Tiny Menagerie. By Mrs. R. Lee. Illustrations.
Artful Pussy. By the Author of "Trottie's Story Book."
Pet Pony. By same author.
Dog Postman. By same author.
Bow wow Bobby. By same author.
Mischievous Monkey. Same author.
Lily's Letters from the Farm. By Mary Hooper. With Illustrations.
Little Nellie's Bird-cage. By Mrs R. Lee. Illustrations.
Our Dog Prin. By Mary Hooper. With Illustrations.
Little Neddie's Menagerie. By Mrs. R. Lee. Illustrations.
Mudge and Her Chicks. By a Brother and Sister.
Hilda and Her Doll. By E. C. Phillips. With Illustrations.

HAMILTON, ADAMS, AND CO.
The Emigrant's Friend; containing Information and Advice for Persons Intending to Emigrate to the United States. By Major Jones. Map.

HATCHARDS.
Peacock Alley; or, A Boy and a Girl Against the World. By the Rev. Frederick Langbridge.

HEYWOOD, MANCHESTER.
Health Lectures for the People—Health Lectures delivered in Manchester 1878-79-80.

HODDER AND STOUGHTON.
New Zealand: Past and Present. By the Rev. James Buller.
Men Worth Remembering—Henry Martyn. By the Rev. C. D. Bell.
The Twa Miss Dawsons. By the Author of "The Bairns."

ISBISTER AND CO.
Good Words for 1880. Edited by Dr. Donald Macleod.
The Sunday Magazine 1880.

LOW AND CO
The Grandidiers: A Tale of Berlin Life. By Julius Rodenberg. From the German by W. Savile. 3 vols.

MACMILLAN.
Pansie's Flour-Bin. By the Author of "St. Olave's." Illustrated by Adrian Stokes.
Faust. A Tragedy. By Goethe. Translated into English Verse, with Notes and Preliminary Remarks. By Professor John Stuart Blackie. Second Edition. Revised and largely Rewritten.
A Visit to Wazan, the Sacred City of Morocco. By Robert Spence Watson. With Illustrations.
The Necklace of Princess Fiorimonde: and Other Stories. By Mary de Morgan. With Illustrations by Walter Crane.

MARSHALL AND JAPP.
Treasure Book of Consolation for All in Sorrow or Suffering, Compiled and Edited by B. Orme.

MAXWELLS.
Autobiography of an Italian Police Officer.

NELSON AND SONS.
The Land and the Book; or, Biblical Illustrations drawn from the Manners and Customs, the Scenes and Scenery, of the Holy Land. Southern Palestine and Jerusalem. By Dr. William M. Thompson. 140 Illustrations and Maps.

NISBET AND CO.
Life Chords, Comprising "Zenith," "Loyal Responses," and Other Poems. By Frances R. Havergal. With Twelve Illustrations by the Baroness Helga von Cramm.

PAUL AND CO.
Collected Sonnets. Old and New. By Charles Tennyson Turner.

REMINGTON.
The Life of Sir Anthony Panizzi K.C.B., late Principal Librarian of the British Museum. By Louis Fagan. With an Etching and Other Illustrations by the Author. 2 vols.
Half-Hours with Foreign Novelists. By Helen and Alice Zimmern. With Short Notices of the Lives and Writings of the Authors. 2 vols.

ROUTLEDGE AND SONS.
A Popular History of Science. By Robert Routledge.

SEELEY, JACKSON, AND HALLIDAY.
Stories of the East from Herodotus. By the Rev. Alfred J. Church. With Illustrations from Ancient Frescoes and Sculptures.

SMITH AND ELDER.
Mchalah. A Story of the Salt Marshes. 2 vols.
The Trumpet-Major. A Tale. By Thomas Hardy. 3 vols.

SONNENSCHEIN AND ALLEN.
The Captain's Dog. By Louis Enault.
Grandmamma's Recollections. By Grandmamma Parker.
The Fisherman of Rhava or Djalmah's Voyage to Etlan. By C. E. Bourne.
Chit-Chat. By Puck. From the Swedish of Richard Gustafsson. By Albert Alberg. Second Edition.
Fabled Stories from the Zoo. By Albert Alberg. Second Edition.
Woodland Notes. From the Swedish of Gustafsson. By Albert Alberg.
Rose-Leaves. From the Swedish of Richard Gustafsson. By Albert Alberg.

VIZETTELLY.
Popular French Novels—
A New Lease of Life, and Saving a Daughter's Dowry. By Edmond About.
Wayward Dosia, and the Generous Diplomatist. By Henry Greville.

WALKER AND CO.
English Lake Scenery. Illustrated with a series of Coloured Plates from Drawings by A. F. Lydon.

NEW MUSIC RECEIVED.

FRANCIS AND DAY.
Emile Waldteufel's Valse Album. Christmas 1880-1.

HUTCHINGS AND ROMER.
Braule des Sabots. (Danse de 1588.) Pour Piano. Par Arthur H. Brown.

LUCAS AND WEBER.
The Better Land. Part Song. Composed for and Performed at the Leeds Musical Festival. 1880. By James Broughton.
Belinda. Gavotte. By Cotsford Dick.
Toccata. By Walter Macfarren.
The Willow-Tree. Song. By Lancelot Bruce. Music by Walter Macfarren.
Romance, for the Pianoforte. By Cotsford Dick.
Two Hearts and One Beat. Galop for Pianoforte. By Louis Engel.

MARRIOTT AND WILLIAMS.
Love is such a Mystery. Song. By Henry Croft Hiller.
"I Know." Song. Words by Arthur Matthison. Music by Antonio L. Mora.
I Will not Wed. Song. By Leslie Trowbridge.
There Be None of Beauty's Daughters. Song. Music by Tobias A. Matthay.
One Morn in May. Waltz Song. By Edward Oxenford. Music by Alexander Reichardt.
Pamphlet. For Violin and Pianoforte. By Tobias A. Matthay.
Minuet in E Flat for Pianoforte. By Edward G. Withers.
Two Gavottes. For the Pianoforte. By Conrad Herman.
Galop. The Hibernian. By Alexander Colles.
Frühlingstraum. Suite de Valses. By the same Composer.
Leonie Waltz. By the same Composer.
Till Cherry Ripe themselves do Cry. Music by Henry Croft Hiller.

METZLER AND CO.
Musical Bijou Christmas Number. Nos. 46 and 47. Dance Music.
The Scarecrow. Song. By C. J. Rowe. Music by C. Gounod.
John Peel Polka. By J. M. Coward.
Ritz-Ratz Polka. By J. M. Coward.
Liebe and Hoffnung (Love and Hope). Walzer von Rudolf Herzen.
"The Lovers" Waltz. By Charles d'Albert.

REEVES.
Music and Musicians. Essays and Criticisms by Robert Schumann. Translated and Annotated by Fanny Raymond Ritter. Second Series.
Henry Smart: His Life and Works. By William Spark. With Portrait.

Last month the officers (fishmeters as they are called) appointed by the Court of the Fishmongers' Company seized at and near Billingsgate market and on board boats lying off that place 18 tons 7 cwt. of fish as unfit for human food. Of this, all but 6 cwt. arrived by land. The fish numbered 57,524, and included 30 coalfish, 5592 cod, 42 crabs, 300 flounders, 400 gurnets, 3420 haddocks, 22,475 herrings, 1915 lobsters, 860 plaice, 1100 skates, 5660 smelts, and 15,700 whitings; and, in addition, there were condemned 7 barrels of anchovies, 80 lb. of eels, two bags of esacllops, 15 of mussels, 31 of periwinkles, 7 kits of salmon, 630 gallons of shrimps.

In London 2706 births and 1513 deaths were registered last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 76, while the deaths were 36 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 7 from smallpox, 27 from measles, 70 from scarlet fever, 15 from diphtheria, 10 from whooping-cough, 22 from different forms of fever, and 35 from diarrhœa; thus to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class 186 deaths were referred, against 192 and 210 in the two preceding weeks. These deaths were 46 below the corrected average number from the same diseases in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had steadily increased in the eight preceding weeks from 124 to 333, further rose to 355 last week, which, however, corresponded with the corrected weekly average: 220 were attributed to bronchitis and [illegible] pneumonia. Different forms of violence caused 45 deaths.

Digitized by Google

SOUND INVESTMENTS.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY OF CANADA.

—The Securities of this Railway are now becoming so much better understood that further recommendation of them on my part is almost superfluous. While, however, reiterating my previous expressions of confidence as to the future, I think that my views at the present time may be acceptable to my readers. The slackening in traffic returns a few weeks since was due to the reluctance of farmers to sell grain at the lower prices, but this is now overcome, wheat and corn again pouring into Chicago in unprecedented volume, thus feeding the stream of traffic from west to east, of which the Grand Trunk is now becoming a more and more important channel. The business to the west is also daily increasing, and this is very valuable to the Company, as it obviates the necessity for freight-cars returning empty.

Contrary to the gloomy forebodings of those who have obstinately refused to believe in the continuance of the progress which has been manifesting itself for so long a period, the past month has shown very considerably augmented earnings, notwithstanding the comparison with the same period in 1879, when the great increase commenced. The past week's receipts were the largest in the history of the Company.

In the half-year from the date of the previous meeting to that held last week the gross additional revenue amounted to nearly £200,000, and it is indeed surprising that, notwithstanding this circumstance, the Third Preference and Ordinary Stocks should now be lower in price than in the spring. English Railways have not shown anything like this rate of improvement. Canada, on the other hand, is only partially opened out, and is now attracting to it a steady stream of settlers who will, of course, develop her latent resources, to the enormous enrichment of the Grand Trunk Railway.

At the recent Meeting the President made a most encouraging statement as to the position of the Company; and, so far from regarding the chances of further advancement as exhausted, he repeated the words which he used at the Meeting in April as follow:—"I think I may conclude by saying that the prospects of this undertaking are brighter than they have ever been at any period of its history." He added, "That was the utmost prophecy I ventured to indulge in, and I think I may fairly repeat the same words now." The expression of these views by such a competent and cautious railway authority will no doubt commend itself to shareholders and intending investors.

It is very evident that the value of the Chicago Extension as a feeder to the Grand Trunk system has not yet been fully realised, but it is expected that during this month the terminal station in the centre of Chicago will be opened for passenger traffic, to the material benefit of the Company.

Under these circumstances it is not surprising that the securities of this Railway should be in favour. The Six per Cent Second Equipment Bonds and Five per Cent Debenture Stocks being prior charges, and paying at present prices £4 17s. 6d. and £4 11s. 3d. per cent respectively are being eagerly bought by Trustees who cannot obtain even four per cent in the Preference Stocks of English Railways. Those Investors who seek good Preference Stocks can buy equal proportions of First and Second Preferences which will yield an average of £5 12s. 1d. per cent. There is now very little doubt that for the current half-year a good dividend will be earned on the Third Preference, and this, with the rapidly improving prospects of the Railway, will make it very attractive to that large class of investors who look not so much to immediate dividend yield as to growth in capital value. When it is remembered that after the First and Second Preference Dividends are fully provided (and this is now being realised) it only requires a net increase of a little over £5000 per week to pay the full dividend on the Third Preferences, it is by no means unreasonable to look for an advance in the value of the Ordinary Stock which is entitled to the reversion of the profits of a railway whose prosperity is daily increasing.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY OF CANADA.

—The Directors of this Company can scarcely be congratulated upon the slender victory obtained at the recent meeting. Had my resolution been carried, to add to the Board two gentlemen of acknowledged railway experience, the proprietors would have felt more confidence in the administration of affairs. It is evident by the greatly reduced number of proxies intrusted to the Directors, that their policy is gradually losing support.

PHILADELPHIA AND READING RAILROAD.

—When I called attention last month to the great improvement in this Company's business, I could not have anticipated the dimensions to which the increase of revenue had really attained. The official returns for the month of September show a net increase of £180,000 over the corresponding month of 1879, being an average of over £40,000 per week additional net profit. Such a rate of progress is unexampled in this country. The North-Eastern, our greatest mineral line, is considered to have done marvels in obtaining increases of £13,000 to £20,000 a week gross. It is worth while mentioning that the Reading Company's gross earnings per annum are about equal to those of the North-Eastern; while the total Capital of the Reading, including Floating Debt, is only £28,000,000 against £55,000,000 of North-Eastern. The Ordinary Stock of the North-Eastern is £22,000,000, having a market value of £38,000,000, while the Reading Ordinary stock is only £6,500,000, now selling for £8,250,000. Instead of receiving regular dividends of 10 per cent per annum on the Ordinary shares and carrying large sums to reserve, as was the case for many years, the period of depression which followed the American crisis of 1873 found the Reading Company unable to earn its prior charges. Such exceptionally bad times form no criterion of actual value, otherwise many now prosperous concerns would not stand in their present position. As the Philadelphia and Reading Companies suffered doubly, both in their capacity as general Carriers and as the largest Coal producers in the world, so must they benefit doubly in the good times which have now fairly set in.

It is in order to make a more equitable balance of capital that it is proposed to pay off the floating debt by the creation of a Deferred stock, equivalent in position to the "A" stocks of English Railways, thus making the present Ordinary shares similar to our "B" stocks, with 6 per cent preferred dividends. The arrangements for such an issue are, I believe, completed, and it will be first offered to the shareholders at a price that will secure a large premium to those who may prefer to sell it. The position thus created for the existing Ordinary shares ought to make them a sound investment at nearly double the present price.

An important feature in the future of the Philadelphia and Reading is that by converting their terminable Mortgages with Sinking Fund into Perpetual Debenture Stock, as has been done so successfully by the Grand Trunk, a saving in the charge for interest and sinking fund of fully £264,000 a year could be effected, this sum alone being equal to 4 per cent dividend on the Deferred Issue.

ATLANTIC, MISSISSIPPI, AND OHIO RAILWAY.

—A very marked advance has taken place in these Bonds within the last four weeks, but a slight reaction from the highest point has ensued, owing to the Trustees for the Bondholders having applied to the American Courts for postponement of the sale of the road for ninety days from the 1st inst. The delay is in no way detrimental to the Bondholders, as the Line continues to steadily increase in prosperity. It is understood that an application will at once be made to the Courts for permission to distribute a portion of the large amount at present in hand on account of overdue coupons, and this will probably amount to 8 or 10 per cent.

MEXICAN RAILWAY.

—The Report and Accounts of this Company for the half year ending June 30 last, will shortly be issued, and they cannot be otherwise than favourable. Strong efforts have again been made to depress prices by the circulation of a variety of adverse and false rumours; but, owing to the publication of very favourable Traffic returns for September, and the announcements as to the number of new lines in course of construction—which will act as feeders to this Railway—a rapid recovery followed, and a very large amount of investment business has been transacted, to the great discomforture of those speculators who hoped to depress prices for their own benefit. The transport of railway material for these new lines must add to future traffics, and upon the reasonable estimate of monthly increases of £10,000 to the end of the year there would probably be a dividend for the Ordinary Shareholders.

ISLE OF MAN RAILWAY.

—Incorporated in 1870, this Railway connects Douglas, Peel, Castletown, and Port Erin, affording accommodation to all the principal parts of the Island. The Capital is £200,000 in Shares of £5, of which £50,000 is in 5 per cent Preferences. In 1879 an independent Company opened, at a cost of £120,000, a Railway bringing Ramsey, viâ St. John's, in connection with the Isle of Man Railway system, thus attracting the entire traffic of the north and north-western part of the Island. The Isle of Man Railway has from the commencement paid dividends of 4 per cent on its Ordinary Shares. Last year the rate was 4½, and this year the earnings will be sufficient to divide 5 per cent. There is no more attractive watering-place in the Kingdom than this Island, and the facilities for communication and accommodation, which have only recently been afforded, are such that there were upwards of 20,000 more visitors to the Island this year than last. The service of steamers was formerly almost exclusively with Liverpool; but the Barrow route, with a shorter sea passage, now attracts a very large number of tourists, the Midland Railway Company greatly assisting in its development by forwarding all the traffic they can from Yorkshire and the manufacturing districts of the North.

There is also a large mining interest in the Island, including the Great Laxey and Foxdale Mines. Within the last few days a rich discovery of silver lead has been made in the south of the Island, close to the railway.

Being thoroughly established, and yet with its traffic comparatively in its infancy, the position of this Railway must rapidly improve, and there is no doubt that its shares constitute a sound Home investment. They are £5 fully paid, and at present are quoted at £5 10s.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

—Since I referred to this Stock last month, an advance of about 4 per cent has taken place. In view of the strong financial position of the company, the steady growth of Traffics, and the improvement of the Coal and Iron Trades in South Wales, there is no reason why a further rise in value should not take place especially when it is remembered that the amount of this Stock is so small as compared with similar issues of other Railways.

TRAMWAYS OF GERMANY.

—The growth of the Traffics of this Company for the eighteen weeks of the current half-year, ending Oct 30, has been very considerable, the total increase amounting to £3157, and this without any addition to the number of horses. The prospects for the current half-year are therefore most favourable, and it is not at all improbable that the dividend will exceed that for the half-year ending June 30 last, when 6 per cent was paid. The Shares are therefore decidedly worth the attention of investors at the current price of 10 to 10½.

BORDEAUX TRAMWAYS AND OMNIBUS.

—A year has now elapsed since the Omnibus Company of Bordeaux was purchased by this Company. During that period, while the Tramways have been in course of construction, the total receipts have been £79,000, and a first interim dividend of 5 per cent has been paid. If such results have been achieved by the aid of only a portion of the Tramway system, sections having been opened at various intervals, it is reasonable to anticipate very brilliant results when the whole twenty-six miles are in full operation. This Company possesses the absolute monopoly of the Tramway and Omnibus traffic in Bordeaux, which is the Liverpool of France.

CANADIAN COPPER AND SULPHUR.

Advices received from these properties continue very encouraging. I feel confident investors in these shares will be amply rewarded.

INDIAN GOLD MINES.

—The shares of the South Indian and Indian Glenrock Companies are attracting fresh attention, the time being near at hand when the value of the reefs will be demonstrated by the erection of the crushing machinery. The announcement just made of the discovery on the South Indian reefs is of the greatest importance, and must tend to considerably enhance the value of the property. Enthusiastic estimates of the shares speedily doubling in value have been freely indulged in. Those who have carefully studied the subject from the commencement will scarcely be unprepared for this cheering intelligence. Indian Glenrock and Indian Phœnix Shares, together with South Indians, are well worth buying

From Mr. WILLIAM ABBOTT'S Circular for November.

10, Tokenhouse-yard, London, E.C.

LONDON SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 27, HARLEY-STREET. Principal, Mr. Henry Baumer. First Professors in London. Music in all its Branches. French, Italian, and German Languages. HALF TERM, NOV. 12. For Prospectus, address Hon. Sec.

ST. JOHN'S-WOOD ART-SCHOOLS, 7, ELM-TREE-ROAD, N.W.—Drawing from the Life and the Antique. Painting from the Model and Still-Life. Students specially prepared for Royal Academy Schools; twelve successful at last competition.
Apply to A. A. CALDERON, Esq., Principal.

MALVERN COLLEGE. The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1881.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £555,000.

DIRECTORS.
Hon. James Williamson, M.L.C., President.
G. B. Owen, Esq. | J. C. Firth, Esq.
Wm. Innes, Taylor, Esq. | S. Browning, Esq.
C. J. Stone, Esq.

LONDON BOARD.
Sir Penrose G. Julyan, K.C.M.G., C.B. | Rt. Hon. A. J. Mundella, M.P.
Falconer Larkworthy, Esq. | Robert Porter, Esq.
Thomas Russell, Esq., C.M.G.
Head Office—Auckland.

BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and at eighty-six other towns and places throughout the Colony.

The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.

The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES.

AUSTRALASIAN AGENCY and BANKING CORPORATION (Limited).
Capital £1,250,000. In 125,000 Shares of £10 each.
Subscribed in the Australian Colonies, £942,350; in London, £200,000. Reserve Fund, £25,000.

LONDON DIRECTORS:
Abraham Scott, Esq. | Harry Hankey Dobree, Esq.
Frank C. Capel, Esq. | Joseph Cockfield, Dimsdale, Esq.

BANKERS:
Messrs. Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard, and Dimsdales.

SOLICITORS:
Messrs. Freshfields and Williams.

The Company are now issuing Debentures at the above rate for four, five, or six years. Forms of application can be obtained at the Office of the Company, 6½, Austin Friars.

GOVERNMENT STOCKS and SHARES BOUGHT and SOLD at the Current Rates by DAVID KAUFMANN, Banker, Welckerstrasse No. 6, Hamburg, who has now for SALE Original Government Bonds, capital 8,672,100 Mk., equal to about £43,360, Principal prizes, 400,000 Mk, 250,000 Mk., 150,000 Mk., 100,000 Mk., to be drawn in Series within a few months.
Prices for the next drawing:—One Original Debenture, 6s.; one Half ditto, 3s. Stamps received in payment. Prospectus in English sent free on application.

AN old and important firm in Bordeaux, having branch establishments in Paris and the colonies requires AGENTS and TRAVELLERS for the sale of wines and spirits. Excellent terms would be made with travellers having an established connection. Useless for any to apply without first-class references.—Address to the Agents, Messrs. MARC and CO., Bordeaux, France.

HOMŒOPATHIC HOME HOSPITAL (SELECT) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-road, Surrey. Established 1867. A Home for the Cure of Internal and External Tumours and other Diseases of Women without cutting. Treatise of successful cures post-free.
Physicians—DAVID JONES, M.D.
HORACE LOWTHER, L.R.C.P.
Dr. Jones attends at his residence, 15, Welbeck-street, London, daily, Eleven till One (except Tuesday and Friday). Dr. Lowther attends daily, Nine till Eleven, at Bolton House, where, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and evenings, the fee is Half a Crown.

LONDON HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL, GREAT ORMOND-STREET, BLOOMSBURY (Unendowed). Seventy Beds. Funds urgently needed. Trained nurses sent out to attend private patients. Wards set apart to receive paying patients.
For further information apply to the Hospital.
By order, G. A. CROSS, Secretary.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.

GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER of IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY.—A PAMPHLET on Self-Applicable Electricity, demonstrating the most effectual, rational, and simple Galvanic Treatment of Nervous and Rheumatic Pains, Debility, Indigestion, Nervousness, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Epilepsy, Cramp, Functional Disorders, &c., as realised exclusively by the use of PULVERMACHER'S IMPROVED PATENT GALVANIC CHAIN-BANDS, BELTS, and SELF-RESTORABLE POCKET BATTERIES, &c. Approved by the Académie de Médecine, Paris; the Royal College of Physicians, London, &c.; substantiated by medical reports and authenticated testimonials, including Sir C. Locock, Bart., M.D., Sir William Fergusson, Bart., Sir J. R. Martin, Bart., M.D., Dr. A. Clark, Physician to the London Hospital. This Pamphlet (sent post-free) treats "why and wherefore" these galvanic arrangements have proved most efficacious, even in cases where other electrical apparatus and ordinary medical treatment have been tried in vain, especially in those ailments resulting from deficiency of Vital Electricity in the affected organs. Apply to

J. PULVERMACHER, GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT,
194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE
MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Ladies' Attendant,
J. F. PRATT,
490, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET, W.

MOURNING.
Messrs. JAY'S experienced Assistants travel to any part of the Kingdom, free of expense to purchasers. They take with them dresses and millinery, besides materials, all marked in plain figures, and at the same price as if purchased at the Warehouse in Regent-street.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

MANTLES, Lined with Plush and other Seasonable Doublures.—These Mantles are noticeable for their special neatness and convenient arrangements. Messrs. JAY confidently trust that the selections they have recently made will ensure a continuance of the reputation which their Mantle Department has so long maintained in the fashionable world.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

SHORT COSTUMES and GRACEFUL DINNER DRESS—Short Dresses.—Messrs. JAY respectfully invite their clientèle to the choice Collection of Pattern Costumes of the newest type of fashion, which have been imported from Paris and Berlin.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.

BLACK VELVETEENS.—Almost equal in appearance to good black velvet. As black velveteen is likely to be much worn during the winter season, Messrs. JAY have had manufactured special qualities of black velveteen, fast colour. These Velveteens are confidently recommended to their customers.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.

BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season, perfectly fast colour, will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up in costumes. In various qualities, 46 in. wide, from 5s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

TURKISH PASTILS.

"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghilés at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

PALACE SOAP.

PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 5s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Mélange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 14s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.

PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a graceful and pleasing perfume without being piquante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath.
Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalcules," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER

THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London. Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET.
Fresh as the flower itself. Price 2s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle. Sold at all Chemists and Perfumers throughout the Universe; or Breidenbach and Co., Distillers of Wood Violet to the Queen, 157B, New Bond-street, W. Trade-Mark, the "Wood Violet."

HIS GRACE
THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND,
a most distinguished authority, when addressing the students of the Newcastle College of Medicine, particularly impressed the following upon their minds:—
"Be patient of NEW ideas and NEW doctrines, prove before you condemn, avail yourselves of NEW discoveries, and recollect it is not HOW, but WHETHER, you CURE your patients."

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
is a new application of a very old idea—viz., that of curing disease through the medium of the pores of the skin.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
is worn upon the pit of the stomach, its healing, purifying, and tonic properties being absorbed therein.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
acts most beneficially upon the liver. We quote from one of our correspondents, who has derived great benefit from the use of the pad:—"My liver now not only never troubles me, but appears to me to act as a mediciner, by a spontaneous passing of superfluous bile."
We submit the following testimonial, and shall be pleased to forward many others, with full information, free by post:—

CAPT. H. C. COTTON writes to a friend as follows:—
"The Hall, Wem, Shropshire.
"I have been staying with a cousin of mine, who was in Norway this autumn, and came back very ill. He consulted all sorts of physicians, but without effect, when a friend of his said, 'Why don't you try this new treatment by absorption—the Holman Liver Pad?' At first he laughed at the idea; but, being unable to eat or sleep, he thought he might as well try anything likely to do him good. He sent for one of these Pads, and in a few days felt so much better that he could eat anything, and has been perfectly well ever since. He has also persuaded other people to try the Pad, and with the same success. I therefore send you the address of the Proprietor in London of the Holman Pad, and I strongly advise you to try this vegetable treatment, which will give you no trouble and requires no medicine."
Children's Pads, 7s. 6d.; regular size, 10s.; special size, 15s. For sale by all Chemists, or sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom on receipt of stamps or P.O. Order, payable to CHARLES CRISTADORO, Vere-street, Post-Office, W.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.,
10, Argyll-street, Regent-street, W.
Paris Agency: Beral, 14, Rue de la Paix.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

SOLD only in tin-lined Packets by all Grocers. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 208, Regent-street, W.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoas Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requries no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
FRY'S COCOA. | FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
A choice prepared Cocoa.
"most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

GUARANTEED PURE.
FRY'S COCOA. | FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
Pure Cocoa only,
the superfluous oil extracted.
J. S. FRY and SONS.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.
Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 42s.—The reason why the price is so low (being, indeed, less than cost) is that the market has been suddenly overstocked.—TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 45s., carriage paid to any railway station in England. There is now the opportunity of purchasing for 42s., or, carriage paid as above, for 45s., a splendid carpet, about 3¾ to 3¾ yards long.
TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.
A Catalogue of the Best Floor Coverings post-free.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES,
FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS,
DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES,
CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS
POST-FREE.

CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J, TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL, GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 85 and 86, High Holborn.

Digitized by Google

BURNS AT NEW YORK AND DUNDEE.

The fine statue of Robert Burns, erected in the Central Park of New York, and there unveiled on the 2nd ult., is reproduced by one in Albert-square, Dundee, which was uncovered on the 16th. The sculptor is Sir John Steell, F.S.R.A., of Edinburgh, whose statues of Sir Walter Scott, in the great Edinburgh Scott Monument, and of the Duke of Wellington (equestrian), of the Prince Consort, with supporting figure groups, in Charlotte-square, of Dr. Chalmers, Lord Jeffrey, and of Professor Wilson, Allan Ramsay, and other Scottish notables, in Prince's-street-gardens, are conspicuous ornaments of the fair metropolis of North Britain.

Sir John Steell, it may be remembered, some years ago furnished the Scottish residents in New York with the statue of Sir Walter Scott. This was at the Scott Centenary Festival of 1871, and they naturally began to want a statue of Burns. It has often been observed, with some amusement, by less enthusiastic Englishmen, that there is a sort of emulation, among Scotchmen of vehement literary attachments, between the devotees of Sir Walter and those who swear by the Ayrshire lyrical poet. This may probably have occasioned the setting up of the Burns statue, directly fronting the Scott statue, in the Mall of the New York Central Park.

It was presented, in the name of the committee, by Mr. John Paton, to the Mayor and Corporation of that city, and received by the Mayor, Mr. Cooper, with suitable addresses on both sides, followed by an eloquent and scholar-like oration from Mr. G. W. Curtis; the Caledonian Clubs of America mustered strong upon this occasion.

The ceremony at Dundee, a fortnight later, was performed with equal dignity, and was attended by a grand procession of the volunteers, Town Council, Burns Club, various trades' unions, and local associations. The statue was unveiled by Mr. Frank Henderson, M.P., amidst great popular acclamation; Provost Brownlee presided, and Bailie Maxwell also addressed the meeting, which was followed by a large public dinner at the Albert Institute.

Our Illustration, which is from a photograph of the bronze statue by Mr. John Annan, of Edinburgh, represents this noble and expressive work of the sculptor's art. The peasant-poet of Ayrshire, bareheaded, is seated on the trunk of an elm, his plaid thrown loosely over his shoulders; in his right hand is a pen, but he is rapt in mental communion with the lyric Muse. The likeness, for which all good portraits were consulted, but especially that printed for Burns by Naismith, is considered very good; the head was moulded from a cast of the skull of Burns in the Edinburgh Phrenological Society's Museum. The sock of a plough, and a scroll inscribed with some lines of "To Mary in Heaven," lie at the poet's feet. The statue is of colossal size, being nearly 12 ft. high, though in a sitting posture.

CHRISTIANSAND, IN NORWAY.

The disastrous conflagration which lately destroyed two thirds of this Norwegian seaport town, with its fine Cathedral Church, was reported in our foreign news three weeks ago. Christiansand, named after King Christian IV., by whom it was founded in 1611, is situated at the mouth of the Otteraa, or Torrisdalselv, on the shore of an inlet of the south coast of Norway, confronting the Jutland peninsula of Denmark, on the opposite coast of the Skagenak. It has an excellent harbour, which is frequented by the British, German, and Danish shipping that passes in or out of the Baltic, and by vessels in the coasting trade. The town had above 12,000 inhabitants before this great fire, which has rendered many of them homeless. The streets were broad and regular, but the houses, mostly built of timber, were low, and of insignificant appearance, though generally embellished with plants and flowers growing in front. The cathedral was a handsome edifice, but of no great antiquarian interest, having been built in the seventeenth century; there was also a public school, connected with the bishopric, a banking-house, several hotels and good shops, with a small public park. The neighbouring scenery is picturesque, up the Sætersdal and along the fjord or the seacoast; and steam-boat excursions in the vicinity are recommended to tourists. We are indebted to the Rev. G. F. Gresley, of Newport Pagnell, for the view of Christiansand.

THE MAGAZINES.

SECOND NOTICE.

Fraser is chiefly remarkable for a powerful but very Scotch story, "Mrs. Sempill's Settlement," by A. Allardyce, and a picturesque descriptive paper by Mr. R. L. Stevenson, who succeeds in painting to the very life the woods, sands, and breakers, and the curiously mixed population of the Californian coast, in the neighbourhood of the old Mexican capital, Monterey. Mr. Kebbel's "English Rural Walk" is also a fine piece of description; and there is much excellent writing of the same class in Mr. Hugh Macmillan's account of the uninhabited island of Elachnave, once the abode of St. Columba and monastic learning. "Three Phases of Lyric Poetry," is a piece of appreciative criticism on "the fine sentiment and grace" of Mr. Gosse, "the freshness and melodious form" of Mr. Andrew Lang, and "the philosophic reach and imaginative strength" of Dr. Hake.

STATUE OF ROBERT BURNS AT NEW YORK.

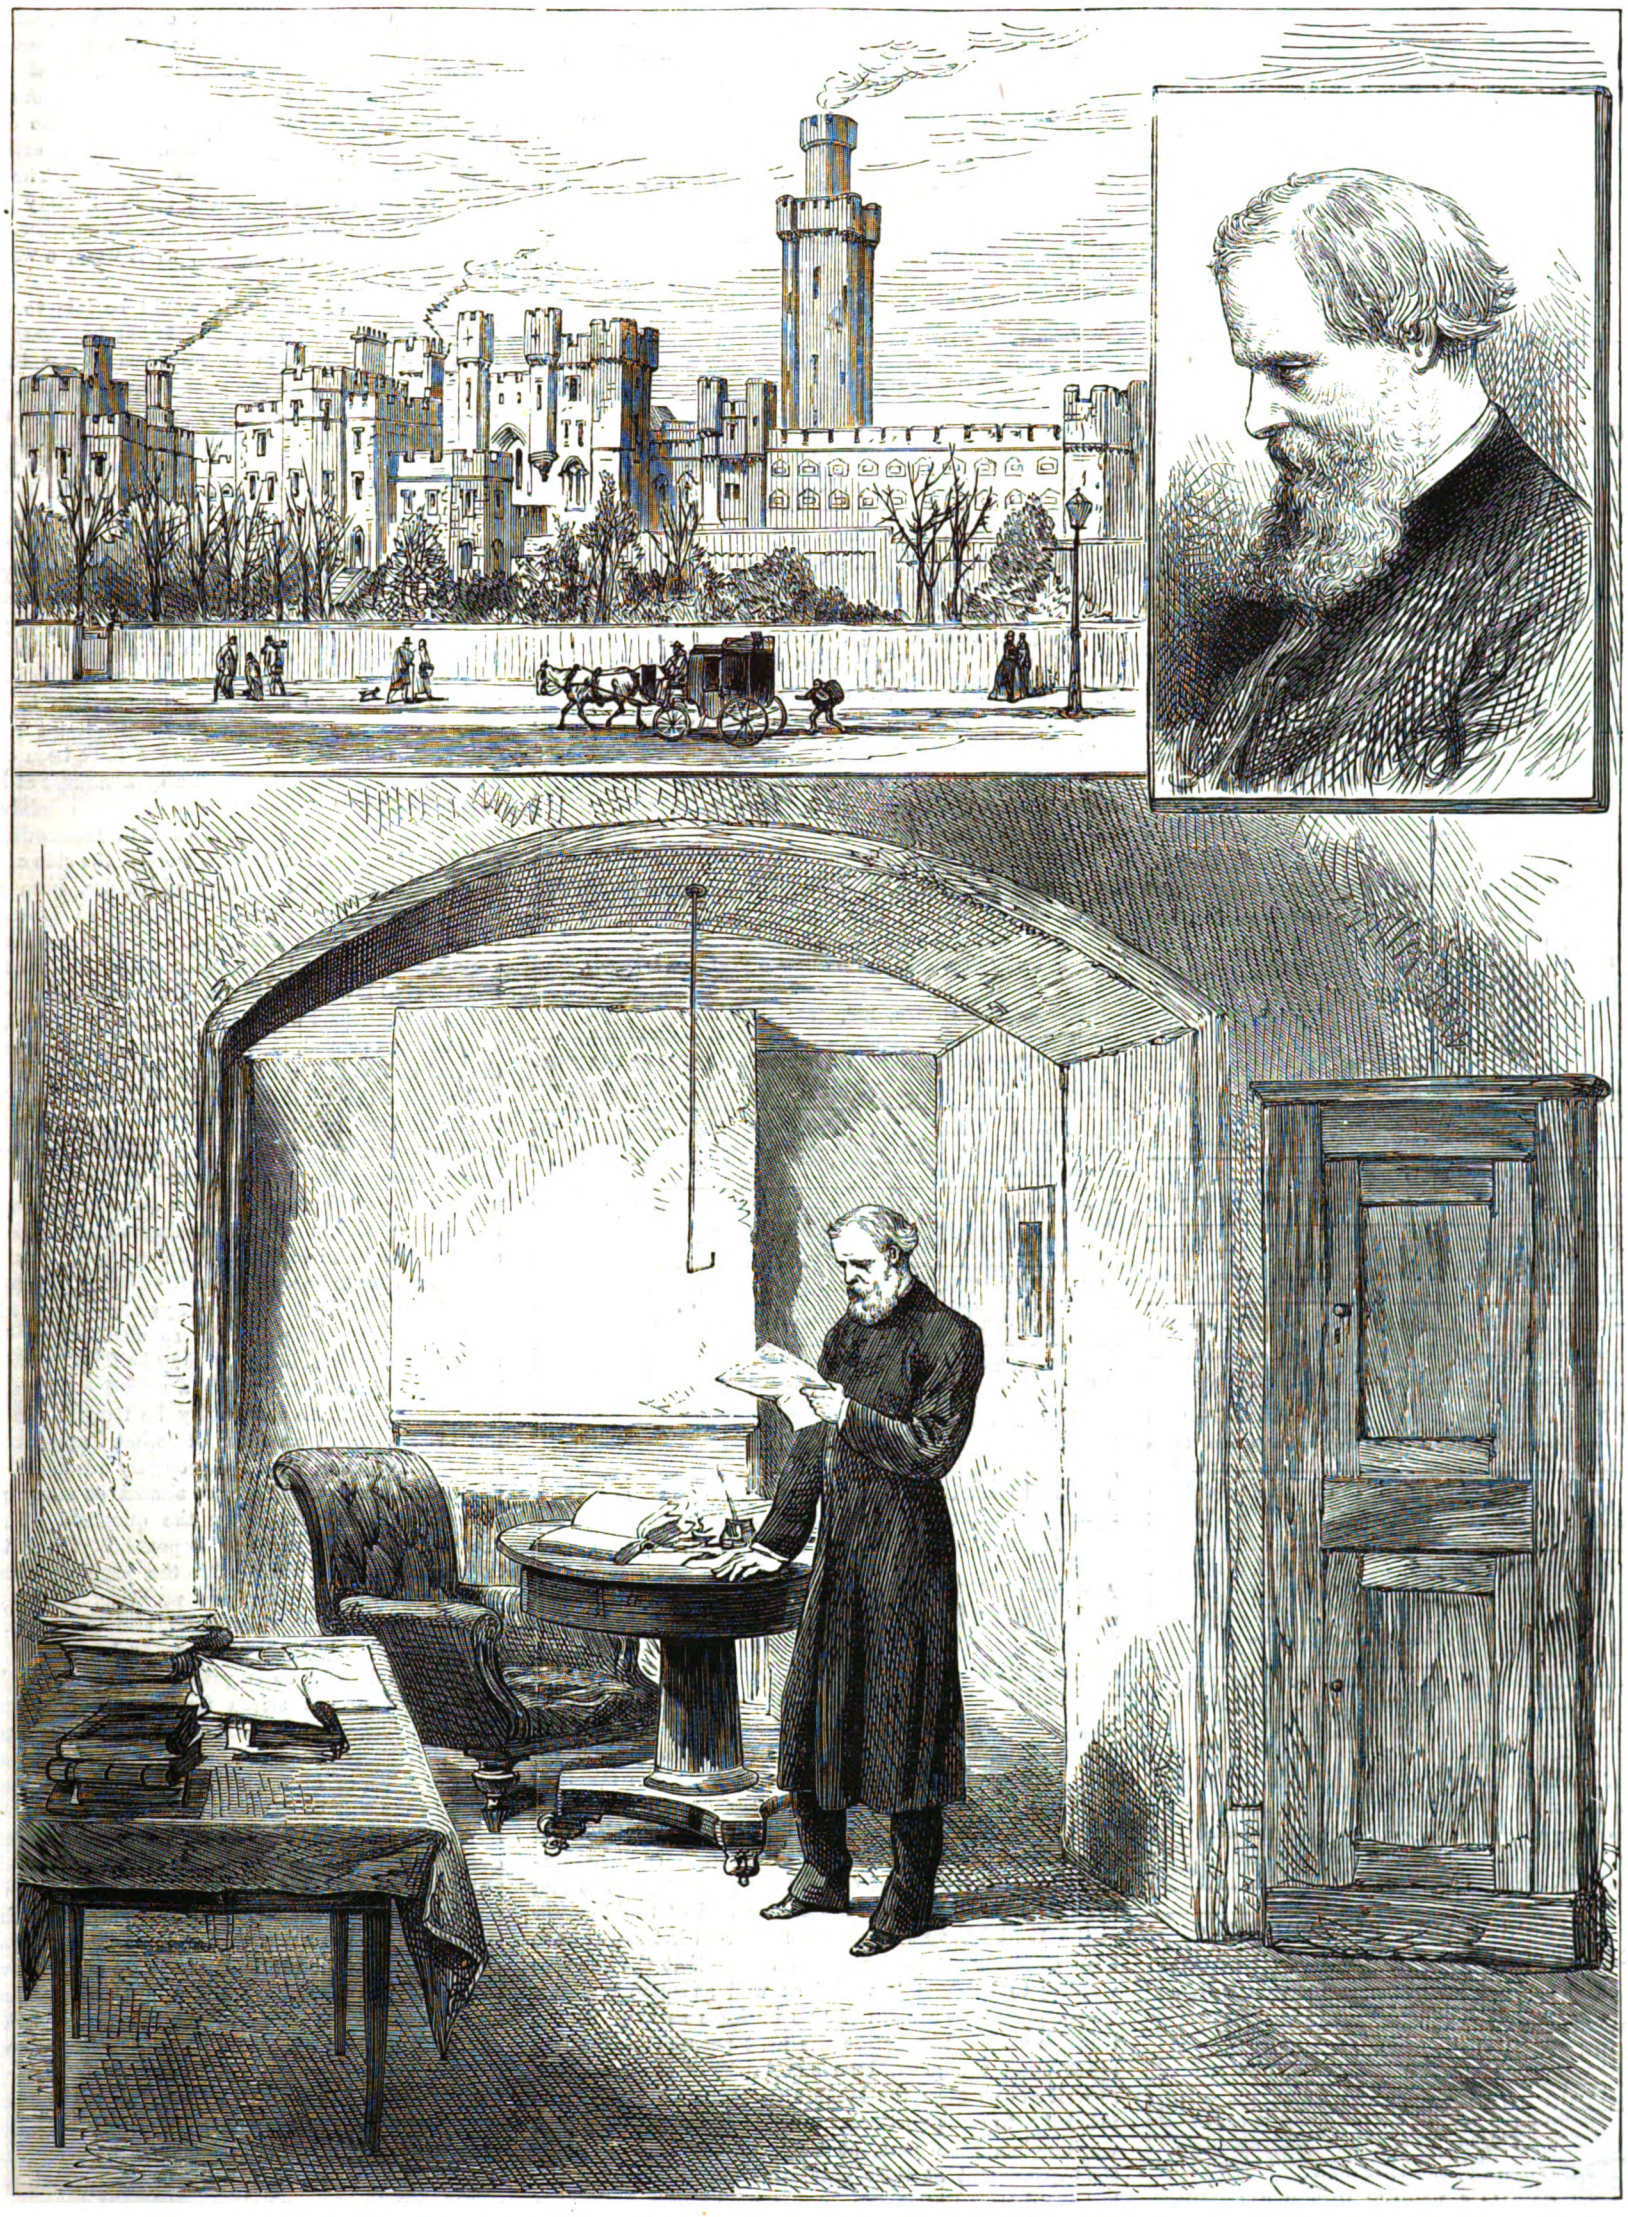
The best papers in an excellent number of Scribner's Monthly are, as usual, those most closely associated with art. A really magnificent portrait of Mr. Gladstone is accompanied by a discriminative notice, directing attention to what is often overlooked—the Scotch element in his character. The illustrations after Millet display this great realist's unsurpassed force and truth; while two at least of those after Elihu Vedder, "The Lost Mind" and "The Young Marsyas" exhibit a poetical feeling at the other end of the scale of artistic faculty, and even more admirable. "Bordertown and the Bonapartes" is another copiously illustrated paper, bewildering in the seemingly inextricable manner in which the Imperial race get mixed up with the Hopkinsons. Mr. Stedman's criticism of Walt Whitman is very sound, and Mr. Boyesen's "Lost Hellas" is a beautiful poem. The Atlantic Monthly is full of agreeable variety, but has no very special feature. In the North American Review the most noteworthy contributions are M. de Charnay's paper on the ruined cities of Central America, and a damaging attack on the weakest point of General MacClellan's military career—his neglect to support Pope during the Peninsula campaign.

Temple Bar has a brief but useful account of the so-called national press of Ireland, and readable accounts of Lady Hester Stanhope and Dr. Erasmus Darwin, the scientific side of whose character hardly receives sufficient prominence. Science, on the other hand, is the subject of the most important article in the Gentleman's Magazine—Mr. Grant Allen's ingenious attempt to indicate approximately the development of new species in relation to geological time. The immense acceleration of the process in comparatively recent geological epochs is very remarkable. The continuation of Mr. Francillon's "Queen Cophetua" and Dr. Japp's excellent criticism on "Vers de Société" are also to be noted. "A Confidential Agent," in Belgravia, is as amusing as ever, but borders somewhat closely on the farcical; too farcical, also, is the grotesque anecdote entitled "An Expensive Derby." Mrs. A. W. Hunt's "Leaden Casket," and Mr. Rimmer's sketches of old English times keep up their agreeable character. London Society has lost what has long been its chief attraction by the conclusion of Miss Bertha Thomas's lively and picturesque "Violin Player." The contents of the New Monthly include a chronicle of the proceedings of the International Law Congress at Oxford. The object of the Army and Navy Magazine, a new undertaking, is sufficiently explained by the title. It contains two papers of great interest, under present circumstances—a powerful plea for the retention of Candahar, from the pen of Colonel Malleson; and an account by Mr. Boulger of a remarkable Chinese official work on the art of war. Judging from this, the capacity of the Chinese for military affairs would seem by no means despicable.

Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin have begun the issue of two new serials—An Illustrated History of the United States of America, and the Child's Life of Christ, with original illustrations. A new and enlarged series of their Magazine of Art (to which we referred last week) is commenced with the present monthly part; and they also continue to publish their excellent Family Magazine, Old and New London, Technical Educator, Longfellow's Poetical Works, Illustrated; Science for All, Illustrated; Familiar Wild Flowers, with Coloured Plates; and an Illustrated Book of the Dog.

We have received Part I. of The Squire, a magazine for country gentlemen, the first part of Ward and Lock's Universal Instructor, Illustrated, the Serial Issues of Mr. Heath's Fern Paradise and his Gilpin's Forest Scenery, Tinsley's Magazine, Churchman, St. James's Magazine, Argosy, Good Words, Victoria Magazine, St. Nicholas, Science Gossip, Men of Mark, Covent-Garden Magazine, Welcome, Kensington, the Month, Golden Hours, Modern Thought, Examples of Works of Art in Kensington Museum, Biograph, Peep-Show, and Chatterbox. Among the Fashion Books are the World of Fashion (with additional plates), Le Follet, Ladies' Gazette of Fashion, Myra's Journal, Myra's Mid-Monthly, Weldon's Ladies' Journal, and Illustrated Household Journal. We have also received Monthly Parts of All the Year Round, Once a Week, Leisure Hour, Sunday at Home, Sunday Magazine, Gardeners' Magazine, Gardening Illustrated, Day of Rest, Social Notes, Boy's Own Paper, Girl's Own Paper, Young England, Union Jack, Daisy, Christian Age, Library of Romance, and House Decorator.



CHRISTIANSAND, IN NORWAY, THE SCENE OF THE RECENT DISASTROUS FIRE.

Digitized by Google

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2164.—VOL. LXXVII. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1880. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

THE RITUALIST PROSECUTIONS: THE REV. T. PELHAM DALE IN HOLLOWAY PRISON.—SEE PAGE 494.

Digitized by Google

BIRTHS.

On the 15th inst., at Chelsea House, the Countess Cadogan, of a son.

On the 16th inst., at Hamilton House, Arlington-street, Lady Wimborne, of a son.

On the 8th inst., at Dundalk, the wife of the Hon. Henry Plunket, of a daughter.

On the 11th inst., at 20, Grosvenor-place, the Countess Stanhope, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 10th inst., at Mahableshwar, John George Alexander Baird, Esq., of Adamton and Murkirk, 16th Lancers, second son of the late William Baird, Esq., of Elie, to Susan Georgiana, eldest daughter of the Right Hon. Sir James Fergusson, Bart., K.C.M.G., of Kilkerran, Governor of Bombay.

On the 7th ult., at Christ Church, Georgetown, Demerara, by the Rev. T. J. Moulder, Incumbent of St. Augustine's, Arthur Brand, of Plantation "Mon Repos," to Emmeline (Emmie), eldest daughter of the late H. T. Garnett.

On the 16th inst., at St. Jude's, South Kensington, by the Rev. R. W. Forrest, D.D., Charles James Rowe, barrister-at-law, and of Hiralourah, Haputale, Ceylon, eldest son of the late Charles Rowe, of 27, Pembridge-square, W., to Annie, eldest daughter of Charles Gray, Esq., of Nareeb-Nareeb, Victoria, Australia.

DEATHS.

On the 9th inst., at Uxbridge-road, Shepherd's-bush, Mary Ann, the beloved wife of Robert Wood, and only child of the late Harry Hurst, of Eastbourne, Sussex.

On the 13th inst., at his residence, 3, The Cedars, Clapham-common, Edward Baker, Esq. (son of the late Edward Baker, Esq., of Lion House, Stamford-hill), aged 58 years, deeply lamented. Will friends kindly accept this intimation.

On the 3rd inst., at The Woodlands, Isleworth, after much suffering, Jane, widow of Edward Kenyon Bullman, Esq., late of Leeds, and youngest daughter of the late George Matthewman, Esq., of that town, in her 73rd year.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

NOW READY.
PRICE ONE SHILLING (INLAND POSTAGE, 2½d.),
THE
ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK
FOR 1881,
CONTAINING
SIX COLOURED PICTURES;
PRINTED BY LEIGHTON BROTHERS' CHROMATIC PROCESS,
FROM ORIGINALS BY EMINENT ARTISTS.
TWELVE FINE-ART ENGRAVINGS;
ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENA;
TWELVE DIAGRAMS OF THE DURATION OF MOONLIGHT;
The Royal Family of Great Britain; the Queen's Household; her Majesty's Ministers; Lists of Public Offices and Officers; Bankers, Law and University Terms; Fixed and Movable Festivals; Anniversaries; Acts of Parliament passed during the Session of 1880; Revenue and Expenditure; Obituary of Eminent Persons; Christian, Jewish, and Mohammedan Calendars; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Government Duties; Times of High Water; Post Office Regulations; together with a large amount of useful and valuable information, which has during the past thirty-eight years made the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK the most acceptable and elegant companion to the Library; whilst it is universally acknowledged to be by far the cheapest Almanack ever published.
The unprecedented demand for the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK year after year stimulates the Proprietor to still greater exertions to secure for this Almanack a reception as favourable as that which has hitherto placed its circulation second only to that of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.
The ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is inclosed in an elegant cover, printed in colours by the same process as the COLOURED PLATES, and forms a useful and pleasing ornament to the drawing-room table.
The SHILLING ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is published at the Office of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, 198, Strand, and sold by all Booksellers and Newsvenders.

THE BRIGHTON SEASON.
Frequent Trains from Victoria and London Bridge.
Also Trains in connection from Kensington and Liverpool-street.
Return Tickets, London to Brighton, available for eight days.
Weekly, Fortnightly, and Monthly Tickets, at Cheap Rates.
Available to travel by all Trains between London and Brighton.
Cheap Half-Guinea First Class Day Tickets to Brighton
Every Saturday, from Victoria and London Bridge,
Admitting to the Grand Aquarium and Royal Pavilion.
Cheap First Class Day Tickets to Brighton every Sunday,
From Victoria at 10.45 a.m., and London Bridge at 10.35 a.m.
Pullman Drawing-Room Cars between Victoria and Brighton.
Through Bookings to Brighton from principal Stations
On the Railways in the Northern and Midland districts.
A Special Train for Horses, Carriages, and Servants,
From Victoria to Brighton, at 11.15 a.m. every Weekday.

GRAND AQUARIUM AND PAVILION.—Military and other Concerts EVERY SATURDAY AFTERNOON, for which the above Saturday Cheap Tickets are available.

NEW ROUTE to WEST BRIGHTON by the DIRECT LINE, PRESTON PARK to CLIFTONVILLE.
A Morning Up and Evening Down Fast Train Every Weekday between London Bridge and West Brighton.

PARIS.—SHORTEST, CHEAPEST ROUTE.—Via NEWHAVEN, DIEPPE, and ROUEN.
CHEAP EXPRESS SERVICE Every Week Night—First, Second, and Third Class.
From Victoria 7.50 p.m., and London Bridge 8.0 p.m.
Fares—Single, 33s., 24s., 17s.; Return, 55s., 39s., 30s.
Powerful Paddle-Steamers, with excellent cabins, &c.
Trains run alongside Steamers at Newhaven and Dieppe.
SOUTH OF FRANCE, ITALY, SWITZERLAND, &c.—Tourists' Tickets are issued enabling the holder to visit all the principal places of interest.
HAVRE.—Passengers booked through by this route every week night from Victoria and London Bridge as above.

TICKETS and every information at the Brighton Company's West-End General Offices, 28, Regent-circus, Piccadilly; and No. 8, Grand Hotel Buildings, Trafalgar-square; also at the Victoria and London Bridge Stations. (By Order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

THE BIRMINGHAM CATTLE and POULTRY SHOW.
The THIRTY-SECOND GREAT ANNUAL EXHIBITION of FAT CATTLE, SHEEP, PIGS, DOMESTIC POULTRY, CORN, ROOTS, and IMPLEMENTS will be held in BINGLEY HALL, BIRMINGHAM, on MONDAY, NOV. 29, Admission, 5s.; Tuesday, Nov. 30, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 1 and 2, 1s.
For Excursion Trains and other special railway arrangements, see the advertisements and bills of the various Companies.

GREAT AND UNMISTAKABLE SUCCESS OF THE NEW PROGRAMME.
ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
THE NEW PROGRAMME PRESENTED BY THE
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS
on the 1st inst. having been received with the warmest marks of approbation BY CROWDED AUDIENCES EVERY NIGHT DURING THE PAST WEEK, will be repeated
EVERY NIGHT, at EIGHT, and on MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, and SATURDAY, at THREE and EIGHT.
The enormously successful Musical and Terpsichorean Sketch of THE OLD KENTUCKY HOME, will be given at every Performance until Christmas.
The inimitable MOORE, together with the powerful phalanx of Comedians, Charles Sutton, Walter Howard, John Kemble, Sully, Chevers, Ernest Linden, all take part in the New Programme.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
ON the NIGHT of ST. ANDREW'S DAY, TUESDAY, NOV. 30, A SPECIAL GRAND PERFORMANCE OF SCOTTISH NATIONAL MUSIC will be given by the MAGNIFICENT CHOIR AND ORCHESTRA OF THE
MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS.
The Full Programme will be published in the course of a few days.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—Conductor, Sir Michael Costa.—The FORTY-NINTH SEASON will COMMENCE at ST. JAMES'S HALL, on FRIDAY, DEC. 3, with Beethoven's Mass in C, Mendelssohn's Lauda Sion and Christus. Tickets, 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., and 2s. 6d., now ready. Subscription for series of nine concerts, £2 2s., 2l., and 3 guineas each, at the Society's Office, 7, John-street, Adelphi; St. James's Hall; and principal Musicsellers'.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT.
THE TURQUOISE RING, Mr. Corney Grain's New Musical Sketch. THE HAUNTED ROOM and A FLYING VISIT. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday Evenings at Eight; Thursday and Saturday Afternoons at Three. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s. and 5s.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place.

THE CHRISTMAS NUMBER
OF
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,
1880,
WHICH WILL BE ISSUED ON DEC. 13,
WILL COMPRISE A LARGE PICTURE IN COLOURS,
ENTITLED
"IN WONDERLAND,"
From a Painting by FRANK HOLL, A.R.A.;
With a Seasonable Article by GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA;
FOUR COLOURED ILLUSTRATIONS:
FIRST STEPS, THE EVENING PARTY, ROSES AND LILIES,
by KATE GREENAWAY;
And THE FANCY-DRESS BALL, by HARRY FURNISS;
AND THE FOLLOWING
CHRISTMAS ILLUSTRATIONS AND STORIES.

ENGRAVINGS.
Catarina. By Luke Fildes, A.R.A.
Winter. By L. Rossi.
The Rival Suitors (Two Pages). By F. Barnard.
The Vicar's Daughters. By A. Hunt.
In Sight of Home on Christmas Morning. By A. Emslie.
Games for Old and Young. By G. Cruikshank.
Hark! the Herald Angels Sing. By A. Hunt.
Woodleigh Grange. By S. Read.
The Careless Nurse. By M. E. Edwards.
Dick's Dilemma. By A. Hunt.

TALES.
Fernande. By M. Betham-Edwards.
At the Twelfth Hour. By R. E. Francillon.
The Little Town by the Seine. By Katharine S. Macquoid.
Margaret Donnan. By Mrs. J. H. Riddell.
AND VERSES
By William C. Bennett, Savile Clarke, John Latey, Edward Rose, Clement Scott, George R. Sims, J. Ashby-Sterry, Byron Webber, and others.

The whole inclosed in a Handsome Coloured Wrapper, and published apart from the Ordinary Issue.

Price One Shilling: Postage Twopence-halfpenny.

TO ENSURE A SUPPLY, ORDERS SHOULD BE GIVEN AT ONCE TO THE NEWSAGENTS.

No more Advertisements for this Christmas Number can be received.

OFFICE, 198, STRAND, W.C.

THE SIXTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS is NOW OPEN, at THOMAS McLEAN'S GALLERY, 7, Haymarket, next the Theatre. Admission, including Catalogue, One Shilling.

FRENCH GALLERY, 120, Pall-Mall.—The 28th ANNUAL EXHIBITION of PICTURES, by British and Foreign Artists is now OPEN, including Luminais' celebrated picture, "Les Enervés de Jumiéges." Admission 1s., from 9.30 to 5.30.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ARTHUR TOOTH and SON'S ANNUAL WINTER EXHIBITION of high-class PICTURES, by British and Foreign Artists, is NOW OPEN at 5, Haymarket, opposite Her Majesty's Theatre. Admission, One Shilling, including Catalogue.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS Every Night at 8.30.—Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. At 7.30, BYGONES, by A. W. Pinero. Doors open at 7. Special Morning Performances of THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, Saturdays, NOV. 20 and 27, at 2.30. Box Office (Mr. Hurst) open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1880.

A series of Cabinet Councils following upon the speech made by Mr. Gladstone last week at the Guildhall Banquet has, perhaps, somewhat unnecessarily piqued the curiosity of the British public. We can discern no special reason why such should have been the case. The middle of November has usually been the season for a brief reassembling of Her Majesty's Ministers in London, for the purpose of tracing, in outline at least, the practical measures to be submitted to Parliament in the ensuing Session. There is no present indication, we think, for supposing that the great Council of the Nation will be summoned to meet before the close of the present year. From the speeches of the Lord Chancellor and of the Premier at the Lord Mayor's Dinner we infer—what might have been correctly inferred without them—that the business waiting to be done is varied as well as superabundant. To make such a selection of this business as may be got through with credit before the next prorogation, and to agree upon the general scope and drift of each measure, as well as to assign the labours necessary to bring it to maturity, to some particular member of the Cabinet has, we imagine, been part, at least, of the occupation of the Government at their successive Councils during the last ten days. But it can hardly admit of a doubt that the condition of Ireland and the immediate as well as remoter remedies needing to be applied for the pacification of that country, have engaged a large share of consideration on the part of the Ministers of the Crown.

We say the condition of "Ireland"—speaking of it as a whole—because, although the acutely inflammatory spots are comparatively few, and make themselves visible chiefly in the South and West, the inconvenience and anxiety which they occasion extend far beyond their centres, and if they do not produce utter anarchy they tend to excite a social demoralisation incompatible with the normal administration of protection and justice. The case to be dealt with is anomalous. Ireland has been blessed with an abundant harvest, such as, in ordinary times, might have diffused over the greater part of it a feeling of contentment, not to say gratitude. Yet the outward manifestations of the spirit of the people were never, perhaps, more difficult to cope with than they are now in the disturbed districts and in their respective neighbourhoods. Terror, not of the Law, but of something outside of Law, governs the movements of all classes alike—Landlord and Tenant, Tradesman and Customer, Rich and Poor, Loyal and Revolutionary. There are few within the range of its influence who do not feel obliged, as a primary condition of their existence, to succumb to it, at least for the present. The ordinary transactions of life are limited by it. Society stagnates. Trade withers. And an occasional outrage, affecting either person or property, benumbs, as it were, a wide area of nervous energy.

This state of things, it would be idle to deny, has largely arisen out of the past. It has happened that the legal tenure of land in Ireland has settled itself down upon a narrow and an essentially unsound basis, in which, for the most part, property takes its rights without recognising its corresponding obligations, and has thereby encroached, to a wide extent, upon the equally just rights of labour. It is so, in part, even now. It has been so much more than it is. The wealth of Ireland—by which we mean not its money only, but its capacity for self-sustenance and growth, has been drained away from it by absentee proprietors, who, devolving upon the cultivators of their estates all the duties which properly appertain to themselves, seek only to obtain from them the means of lavish expenditure out of the land from which they derive it. No doubt there are splendid exceptions to this rule. But, splendid as they are, they are almost necessarily "few and far between." It might have been obvious to any thoughtful mind that such a system must at last come to grief. It has done so in Ireland. The pendulum which once swung to extremes on the side of landlordism is now rapidly vibrating towards extremes on the side of tenancy. The last impulse to it has, peradventure, been given by the agitation of the Land League, and it remains yet to be seen whether the leaders of that agitation have gone beyond, we will not say the moral law of Society, but the civil law of the State. But, whatever may become of the prosecutions which have been commenced, whether they succeed or fail, it is obvious that they cannot touch the real evil which clamours to be grappled with. This will require the most earnest and disinterested efforts of the highest order of statesmanship, which, unless it proceed upon the lines of confiscation—a thing almost beyond conception, at this time of day—will probably prove a very costly remedy to this country, and, apart from the expense of it, a remedy needing to be most cautiously and wisely administered, lest, in the long run, the cure might turn out to be worse than the disease. There are some historical examples for guidance; and, perhaps, after close examination, some principle, so modified as to adapt them to the present instance, may be found to work well. The case is one upon which a negative judgment based upon local traditions can hardly be trusted. Every man has in his mind an idea of what, according to his individual opinion, would thoroughly reconcile the Irish people to their lot. There are almost as many proposals as individual thinkers upon the question. This shows the difficulty, but not the impossibility, nor the utter hopelessness, of dealing with the problem once for all. Her Majesty's Ministers, we presume, fully appreciate the position in which they stand, and the importance of the crisis with which they have to deal.

We can hardly be surprised at the strength of the demand which has arisen for some extraordinary and immediate measure of protection to life and property; and, if it would answer the desired end, no delicacy of party motive, or even violation of economic law, should stand in the way of extending speedy relief to those who now suffer under a reign of terror. But it is extremely questionable whether repressive legislation would really put an end to that form of mischief which is now most rampant. Whenever legislation strikes with vigour, it is the more necessary to see to it that its aim is precise. This it is the particular function of the Government to determine. They have the fullest information of the special needs to be met, and they alone can safely judge of the means best adapted to meet them. It would be comparatively easy for them to satisfy current opinion in Great Britain, and even to relieve, for the moment, some classes of the community in Ireland. But the time seems to have come to aim, not so much at the symptoms of the mischief which has so long afflicted Ireland, as at the prolific source of it—a policy which will impose upon any Government that may undertake it continuous and immense labours, and not a little danger of temporary defeat.

Digitized by Google

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

By a majority of three hundred and fourteen votes the Right Hon. John Bright, M.P., has been elected Lord Rector of the University of Glasgow. Mr. Bright, it is understood, had a majority in all the four "nations" over his distinguished opponent, Mr. John Ruskin. The illustrious author of 'Modern Painters" will take no harm by his defeat. I knew a gentleman once who was afflicted with an extremely hasty and violent temper. He happened to be staying at Therapia, near Constantinople, with a friend with whom he had, on some trifling matter, a furious quarrel; and in the excess of his wrath he threatened—it was warm weather and the windows were open—to throw his adversary into the Bosphorus, which flowed beneath. Fortunately, he did nothing whatever of the kind, and was speedily reconciled to his friend, who, on shaking hands, showed his extremely placable temperament by remarking, "After all, it would have been something to be thrown into the Bosphorus." Now nobody would like to be thrown into a horse-pond. There is something dignified in the idea of drowning in the Bosphorus. It is something to be beaten by John Bright.

But admire, if you please, the irony of Fate. Mr. John Bright began his career in buttonless drab and a broad-brimmed, low-crowned hat. Ironical Fate decrees that he shall be elevated to an academic rank of which the traditional costume is a flowing robe of scarlet. Mr. Bright, it has long been understood, is not a very fervent admirer of University Education. Ironical Fate gives him supremacy over a great Northern centre of collegiate learning. Finally, it is certain that Mr. Bright does not hold titles of honour in very great favour; yet Ironical Fate has so ordered it as to make him Chancellor of a Duchy, and eventually a Rector with the title of "Lord."

An absurd letter purporting to have been written by Mr. Ruskin to the committee of a school of art at Chesterfield has been disowned by that gentleman, and turns out to be an impudent and silly forgery. I place the concoctors of such fabrications on precisely the same plane with the miscreants who write anonymous letters and the imbeciles who play practical jokes. The mention of Ironical Fate reminds me of a "bogus" communication from one of the Parcæ lately forwarded to me at the office of this Journal, and bearing the post-mark of Colombo, Ceylon. Opening the letter, I found within an envelope with a deep black border, and with the word "Atropos" in one corner. This second envelope contained a sheet of black-bordered paper, headed "Death Call," subscribed "Your Disobedient Servant, Death," and informing me that I was to prepare and beware to receive a visit from Death on the Twenty-Second of December next; as I was one of Thirteen who dined together on the Twenty-Second of December last.

I just looked at my last year's diary; and found that on the Twenty-Second of December, 1879, I was a guest, with about two hundred others, at the annual festival of the New England Society, held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on which occasion I was privileged to listen to some of the best after-dinner oratory that I ever heard in my life. When I say that the Hon. George W. Curtis (the editor of Harper's Illustrated), Mr. Chauncey Depew, the Rev. Dr. Bellows (a great friend of Mr. Thackeray), General Sherman, Secretary Sherman, and General Horace Porter (the Bernal Osborne of America), you may imagine what an elocutionary treat I had among the New Englanders, who, by-the-way, in the course of the evening drank the toast of "Old England" with tremendous enthusiasm.

But that "bogus" Atropos. Fancy the mental and ethical condition of any human being who could deliberately send such silly and wicked balderdash all the way from Colombo, in Ceylon. Fancy any respectable printer (the stuff was in handsome type) "setting up" such blasphemous twaddle. I suppose that there is some kind of enjoyment to be derived from practical joking. So may there have been in smashing the Portland Vase. So may there be in cutting the cushions of railway compartments, or pelting passing trains with stones, or squirting dirty water over ladies' dresses in the streets.

Wanted: a full-bottomed Wig—very full bottomed and carefully powdered. Wanted also a large silver-gilt Mace, and a Sergeant-at-Arms in a Court suit. These, with the addition perhaps of a judicious inspector of police and a couple of strong-armed constables, seem to me to be most urgently required at the Palais Bourbon, Paris, for the purpose of enabling M. Léon Gambetta to deal with a small section of Legitimist Deputies, contrasted with whose absolutely rebellious insubordination the wildest freaks of our own Obstructives in the House of Commons may be considered tamely submissive exhibitions. The other day a deputy from La Vendée, M. Baudry d'Asson, in a debate on the expulsion of the monks, was so polite as to qualify M. Jules Ferry and his colleagues as "un gouvernement de crocheteurs"—a government of picklocks. Thereupon the insulting Deputy was, by a vote of the Chamber, suspended from his functions, and excluded from the House for a certain number of sittings.

It was the duty of M. Gambetta, as President, to see this decision executed; but it pleased M. Baudry d'Asson to put the Chair at defiance, to slip into the Chamber by a back door, and to resume his accustomed seat, whence, after much vain parleying, he had to be literally dragged by main force, and was carried out of the Chamber by a military escort some five and twenty strong. I think that Captain Gossett and the Mace (with Inspector Gernon within convenient distance) could have managed the rebellious M. Baudry d'Asson between them without the assistance of squads of chasseurs and infantry of the line. Poor Colonel Riu, who commanded the military on the occasion of the citadel of the Vendean deputy's individuality being stormed, seems to have had a bad time of it. His epaulettes were torn; and he was even "punched" by the excited sympathisers with M. Baudry d'Asson. When all was over, and M. Baudry was safe under lock and key, the Colonel behaved like a gallant gentleman. He sate down to dinner with his prisoner; and humorously asked the sympathisers whether he was to "keep the blows" which he had received; meaning whether he was to consider them as serious outrages to be avenged by the satisfaction of the duello, or merely chance-medley knocks distributed haphazard in a scuffle. The sympathisers hastened to explain that the "punching" was only to be taken in a Pickwickian or Parliamentary sense, and amply apologised for having too forcibly accentuated their political opinions on the subject of M. Baudry d'Asson's expulsion.

Mem.: English Members of Parliament for divers offences against the authority of the House have been time and again committed to the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms, and even sent (as Sir Francis Burdett was) to the Tower, or (as Sir John Cam Hobhouse, afterwards Lord Broughton de Gifford was) to Newgate; but the unseemliest scene of violence that has occurred in the august precincts of St. Stephen's since the memorable April 20, 1653, when the Lord General Cromwell invaded the Commons with an armed force, branded hon. members as drunkards and profligates, "annexed" the mace, and finally bundled the Long Parliament into Old Palace Yard, was on March 21, 1815, when, as I read in Mr. George H. Jenning's "Anecdotical History of the British Parliament," the celebrated Lord Cochrane (afterwards Earl of Dundonald) who had been expelled the House of Commons after his sentence to fine and imprisonment for an offence of which he was wholly innocent, but who had been re-elected, by acclamation, by the electors of Westminster, escaped from the King's Bench prison, hurried down to Westminster, and took his seat in the House to the right of the Speaker's chair; no members being then present, and prayers not having been read. Here he was followed by Mr. Jones, the Marshal of the King's Bench, and two or three of his officers, who carried the undaunted Lord Cochrane back to prison.

A most interesting address was delivered at the rooms of the Society of Arts last Saturday evening by Mr. William Morris, M.A., on the subject of House Decoration. With many of Mr. Morris's strictures on the modern taste, or rather want of taste, shown in the external and internal ornamentation of houses, I thoroughly agree. For example, what can be more detestable than the new craze for daubing the lower portion of our house-fronts a staring crimson, or a chocolate, or what Mr. Morris calls a "cockroach" colour? Yet Jones so besmears his façade because his neighbour Smith has "gone in" for plum-colour, or chocolate, or "cockroach;" and Robinson over the way, and Brown round the corner, will speedily follow suit, merely imitatively and quite unintelligently.

But Smith, Brown, Jones, and Robinson should not inconsiderately be blamed. Their business compels or their inclination leads them to dwell, say, in west-central London. What are they to do to relieve the dismal, grimy monotony of their house-fronts? Paint them white, with green jalousies and balconies? The effect would be charming. For about a fortnight London would look as picturesque and smiling as Havana or New Orleans. At the expiration of the fortnight, perhaps sooner, the painted house-fronts, thanks to the horrid influence of sooty smoke, would turn whitey-brown, then dingy brown, then black.

I wonder whether house-fronts, covered with "azulejo" tiles, blue and white, in bold arabesque patterns, would answer. You may have seen houses so fronted at Lisbon. The colours in the designs are imperishable, and each shower of rain only serves to clean the surface of the tiles. Fresco-painting is out of the question. This is not a climate for fresco. Of course, one's beau ideal of a house would be either a beauteous marble villa of Palladian design, like M. Gambart's "Château des Palmiers" at Nice, or a mansion in the "Queen Anne's" style, one of the finest modern revivals of which was the fine old house restored for Mr. Thackeray in Palace-gardens, Kensington. But, alack! how many of us are rich enough to build houses for ourselves, or to take them on repairing leases?

Well, one can go further afield. Outlying Bayswater, Notting-hill, West Kensington, Shepherd's-bush, and Acton are all abundant in pretty villas at not very excessive rents. Residential Haverstock-hill is now joined to Highgate, and will soon be united to Muswell-hill. All round the Crystal Palace a labyrinth of handsome dwelling-houses has sprung up, where a few years ago were only green fields, cows, and shady lanes. Smiling Camberwell is merged into sweet Dulwich; and Penge, Anerley, Sydenham, Gipsy-hill, and Upper and Lower Norwood are now only so many suburbs of the gigantic metropolis. I bought a copy of "Lyson's Environs of London" the other day, and am half afraid to open it, lest I should discover that London has now no environs left—in the spots where I remember them.

The latest addition to our metropolitan villeggiature is the Telford Park Estate at Streatham-hill, where, on a site of some sixty acres, whole streets of residential villas are being constructed by Messrs. Sutton and Dudley, the enterprising entrepreneurs who built the "Palatinate" hard by the Elephant and Castle, and the "Albany" in the Albany-road, Camberwell, and who are covering the area once occupied by the old Surrey Gardens with eligible house property. The residences on the Telford Park site have been designed by Mr. E. J. Tarver, architect; and it is gratifying to learn that the estate is well timbered; that many of the trees are of noble size; and that both roads and houses have been so planned as to preserve these beautiful and healthful adjuncts, so often ruthlessly destroyed by speculative builders. The Streatham-hill Railway Station stands at the south-east corner of the property.

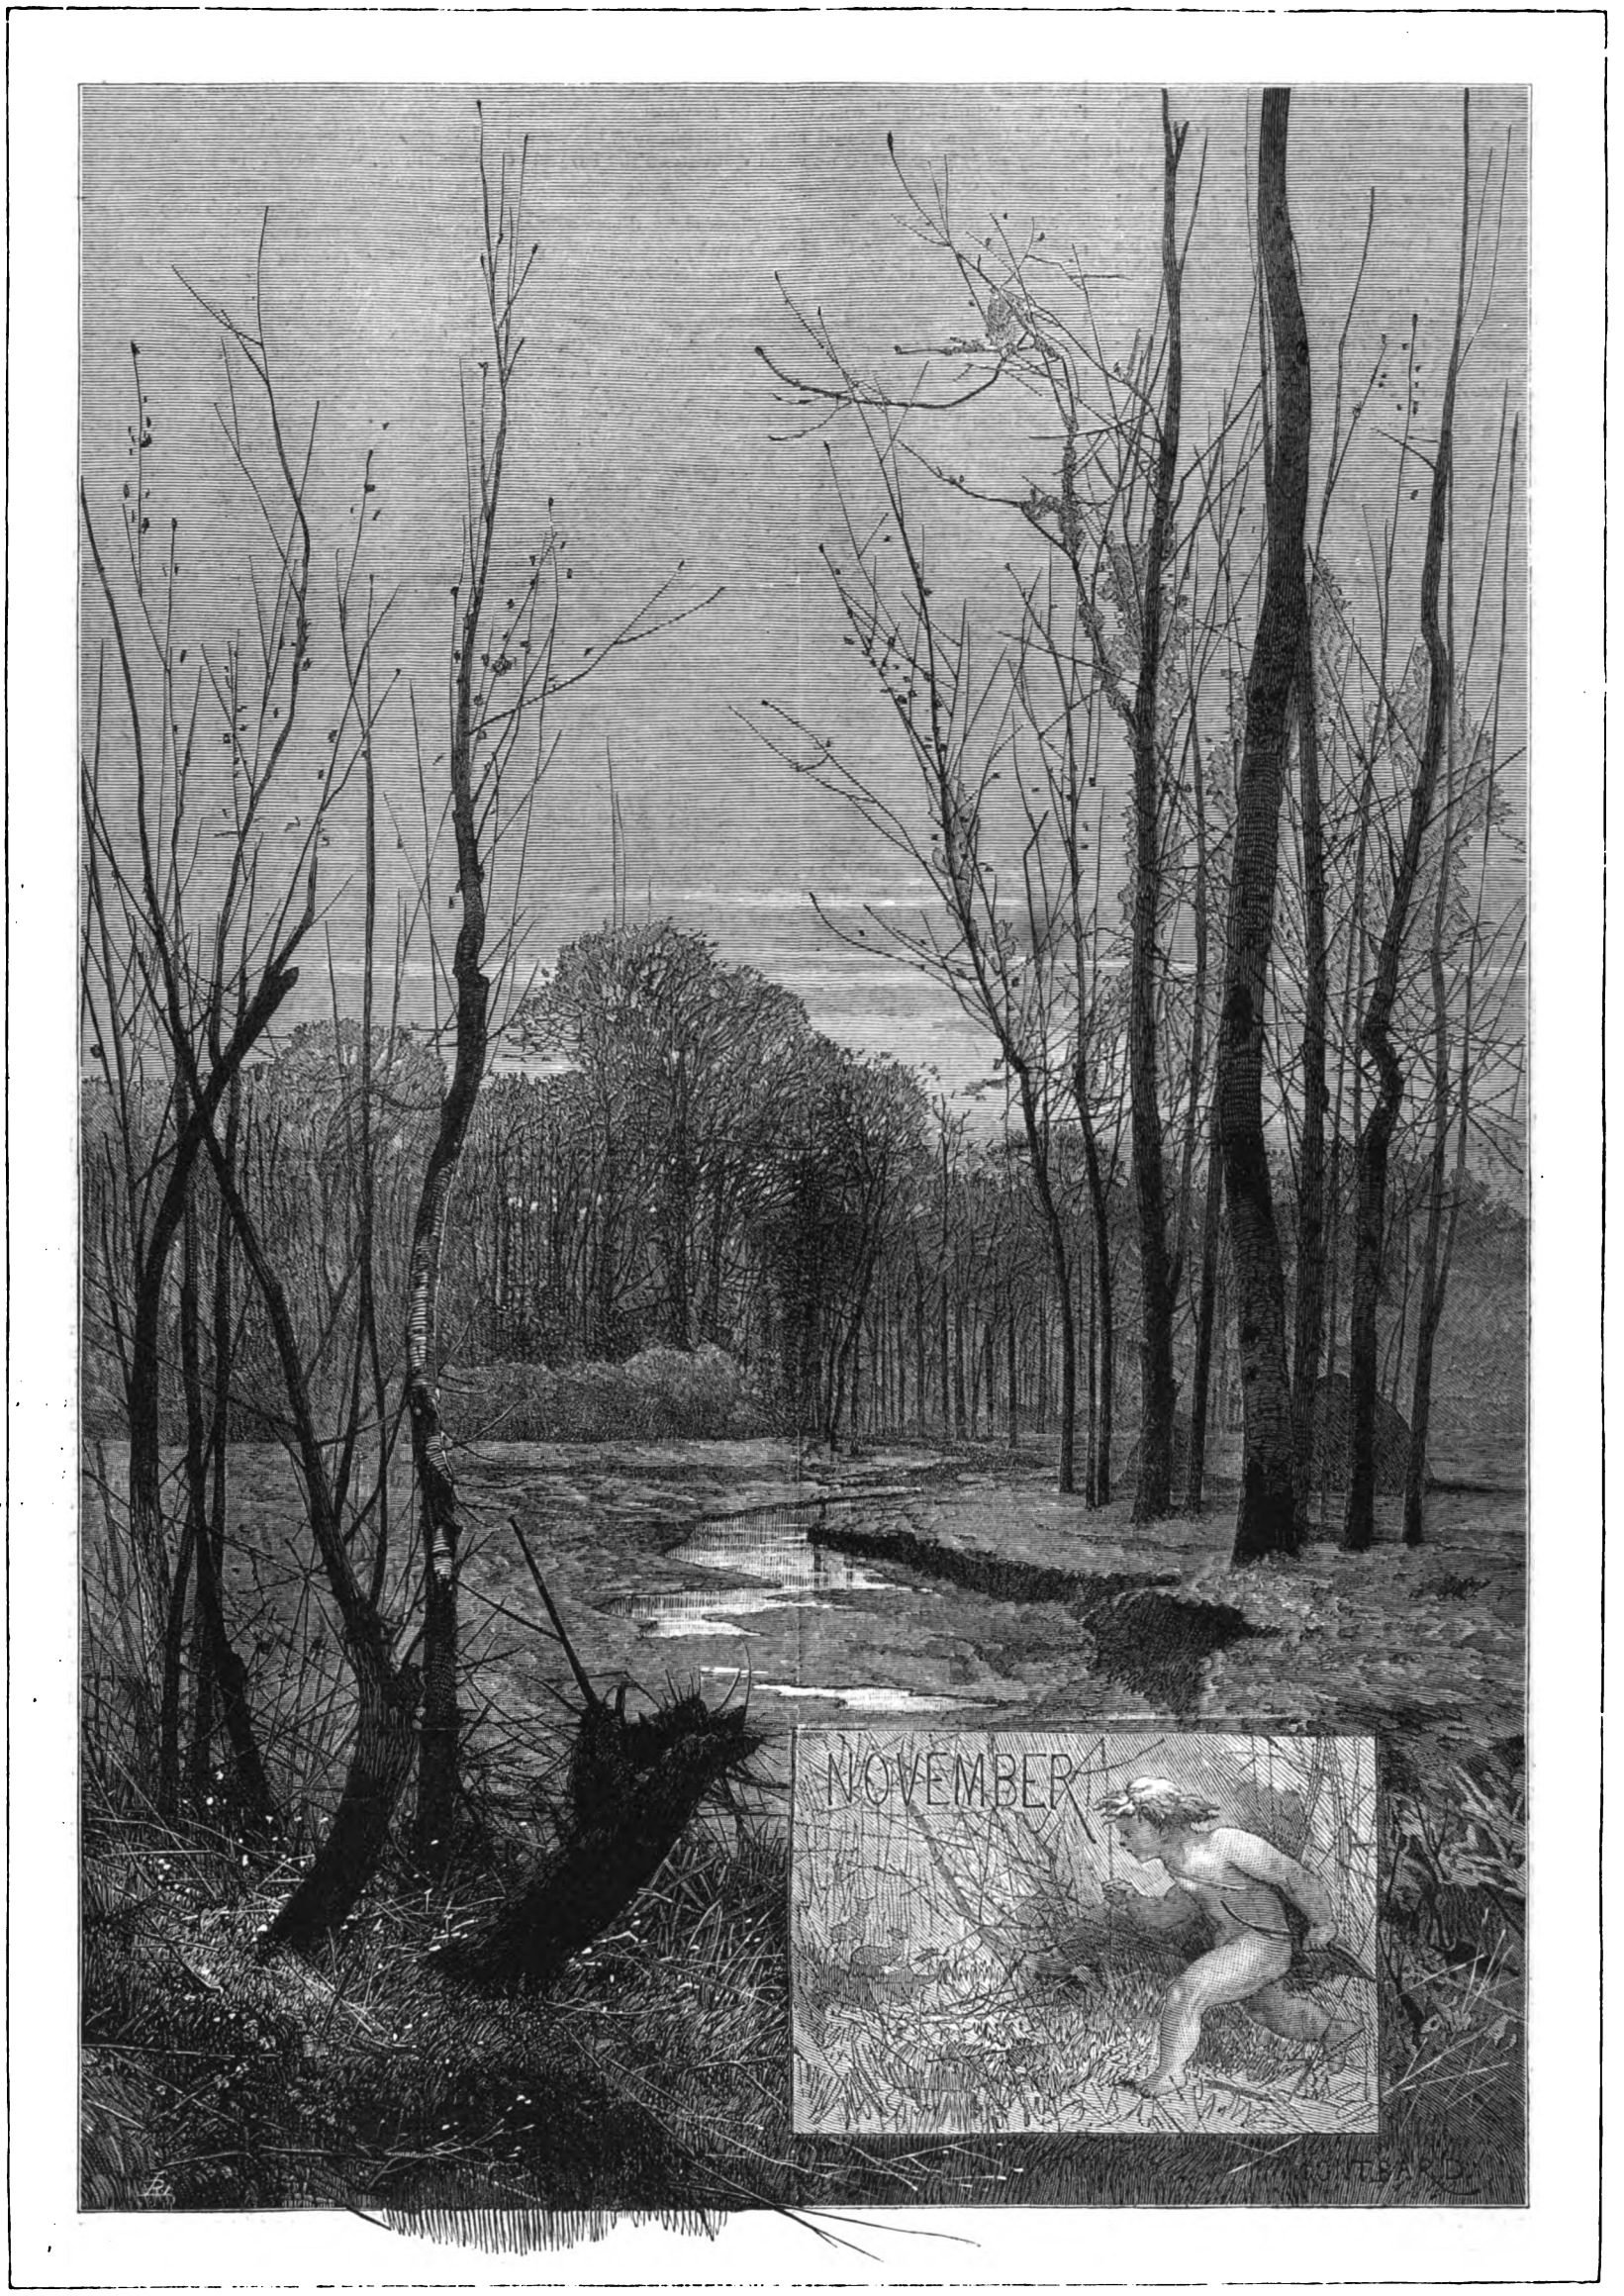
To be within a few minutes by rail and only three miles by road from the Crystal Palace; to be only five miles from the West-End and five and a half miles from the Royal Exchange and the City proper; to have a tram system close at hand to Westminster and Blackfriars Bridges, Southwark, and Greenwich; and to be able to obtain at a moderate rent a handsome detached or semi-detached house, drained, ventilated, and "sanitated" up to the Richardsonian or "City of Hygeia" standard:—all these are advantages which will doubtless attract crowds of tenants to Telford Park when all Mr. Tarver's Old English, Elizabethan, or Queen Anne houses are completed; but there will be nevertheless multitudes of persons who are obliged, or who prefer to live in Guilford-street, or Gower-street, or Wigmore-street, or some other thoroughfare of hopelessly incurable ugliness. These luckless persons I should recommend not to trouble themselves about their house fronts—they are past praying for—beyond periodically painting them "in a proper and workman-like manner," in accordance with the covenants in their leases. For the rest, let them look first to the interior "sanitation" of their dwellings, and next to the internal decoration thereof, and in the last direction they will learn much from the experienced counsel of Mr. William Morris, whose "Hints" will be doubtless reprinted in the Journal of the Society of Arts. It should further be republished in pamphlet form. Much of that which Mr. Morris has to say on the subject of carpets, window glazing, ceilings, and wall-papers is invaluable from the points of view of good taste and common sense.

The student of contemporary manners can scarcely have failed to be struck by one of the details in the account of the recent savage attack on Count von Hatzfeld, the German Ambassador at Constantinople. The Turkish roughs who reided his Excellency's carriage and flourished their drawn swords over his head were, it is stated, officers in the Imperial Guards; and they were all in a state of intoxication. What! it may be asked, can the "pious and temperate Osmanli" get tipsy? Yes; when he has been veneered with civilisation, he can get very "tight" indeed. The Turkish artillery officers from the Tophané barracks, who patronise the music-halls of Pera and Galatea, are not by any means distinguished for moderation in their cups; and at more than one very grand banquet I have seen Effendis, and even Pashas, in a sad condition of what the Americans call "tangle-leg."

But your Turk, when he imbibes to excess, is original in inebriety. He still declines to look upon the wine when it is red, and eschews bordeaux and burgundy; but he will drink any quantity of champagne, preferring to "dash" his tumblers of Heidseck or Mumm with cognac, "for his stomach's sake." Of the very nasty spirit called raki he is immoderately fond; and this fondness is not confined, apparently, to the upper classes. The first time I went to the Mosque of St. Sophia a venerable Mollah in a very high pulpit was preaching a sermon to a congregation of whom at least a third were women. I asked the dragoman what the sermon was about, and he told me that the Mollah was inveighing against the excessive use of raki.

Mem.: Turkish gentility gulps down raki as a "whet," just as Frenchmen swallow absinthe, or Italians vermouth, or Germans and Russians kümmel. But herein lies the difference. The Germans and the Teutons, prior to their repast, are usually contented with a single dram. The Osmanli takes many. A scion of the Latin race, when he exceeds (which he does very rarely), gets tipsy at dinner; the Teuton and the Anglo-Saxon (and they are even becoming more temperate) get tipsy after dinner; but it is immediately before dinner that the civilisation-vencered Turk tipsifies himself with raki.

In re the "Music of the Spheres." "E. M." writes me that there is probably an earlier instance of the use of the expression than the Shakspearean citations lately given. "Pericles," according to Lowndes, was published in 1609; but two years before there was printed "The Combat of the Tongue and the Five Senses for Superiority," which is attributed to Anthony Brewer, and in which (Act iii., scene 7) one reads—



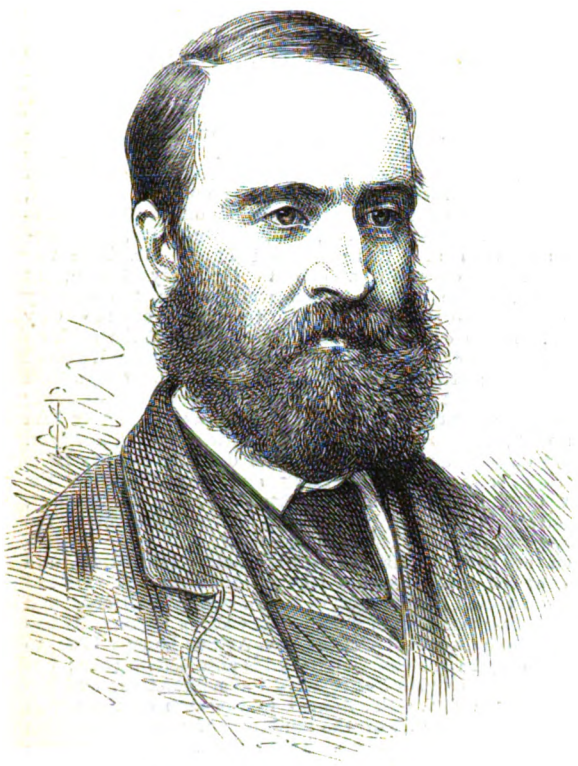
> I hear the celestial music of the spheres
> As plainly as our Pythagoras did.

This occurrence of the expression is noticed, my correspondent adds, at page 15 of the edition of Pope's "Essay on Man," by the Rector of Lincoln, 1875.

I read in the Daily News that Lord Folkestone and Mr. Edward Gibson have kindly consented to act as judges of the Essays on the Demoralising Effects of Liberalism, for the best of which productions handsome prizes have been offered by Mr. Peters, of Headfield. I have changed my mind as to entering the lists as a competitor. I have but little leisure; and that I would wish to devote to the composition of a series of essays on the Beneficial Effects of Toryism, and the expediency of forthwith reviving the Pillory, the Stocks, and the Whipping-Post, the Ordeal by Battle, the Admiralty Droits, the Clerks of the Pipe and the Petty Bag, and the Peine Forte et Dure for refusal to plead. To these will be added an elaborate argument in favour of the immediate re-enfranchisement of Gatton, Grampound, and Old Sarum, and a plea for the total abolition of Vaccination, the authorisation of intramural interments and slaughterhouses, and the imposition of a uniform sixpenny rate of inland postage. Abating the peine forte et dure and vaccination, which was not suppressed, but only fiercely preached against by a section of the clergy, all the Beneficial Things which I have touched upon were advocated by Toryism when I was born.

In the matter of "punching" the heads of small school children, "H. H. M.," a member of the Bradford School Board, informs me that the school-teacher summoned before and convicted by the West Riding (County) magistrates sitting at Bradford was not on the staff of the Bradford Board School, but was in the employ of the Eccleshall School Board. As it happened, I was in doubt as to the particular school to which the defendant belonged; so I mentioned only "a" Board School. G. A. S.

Digitized by Google

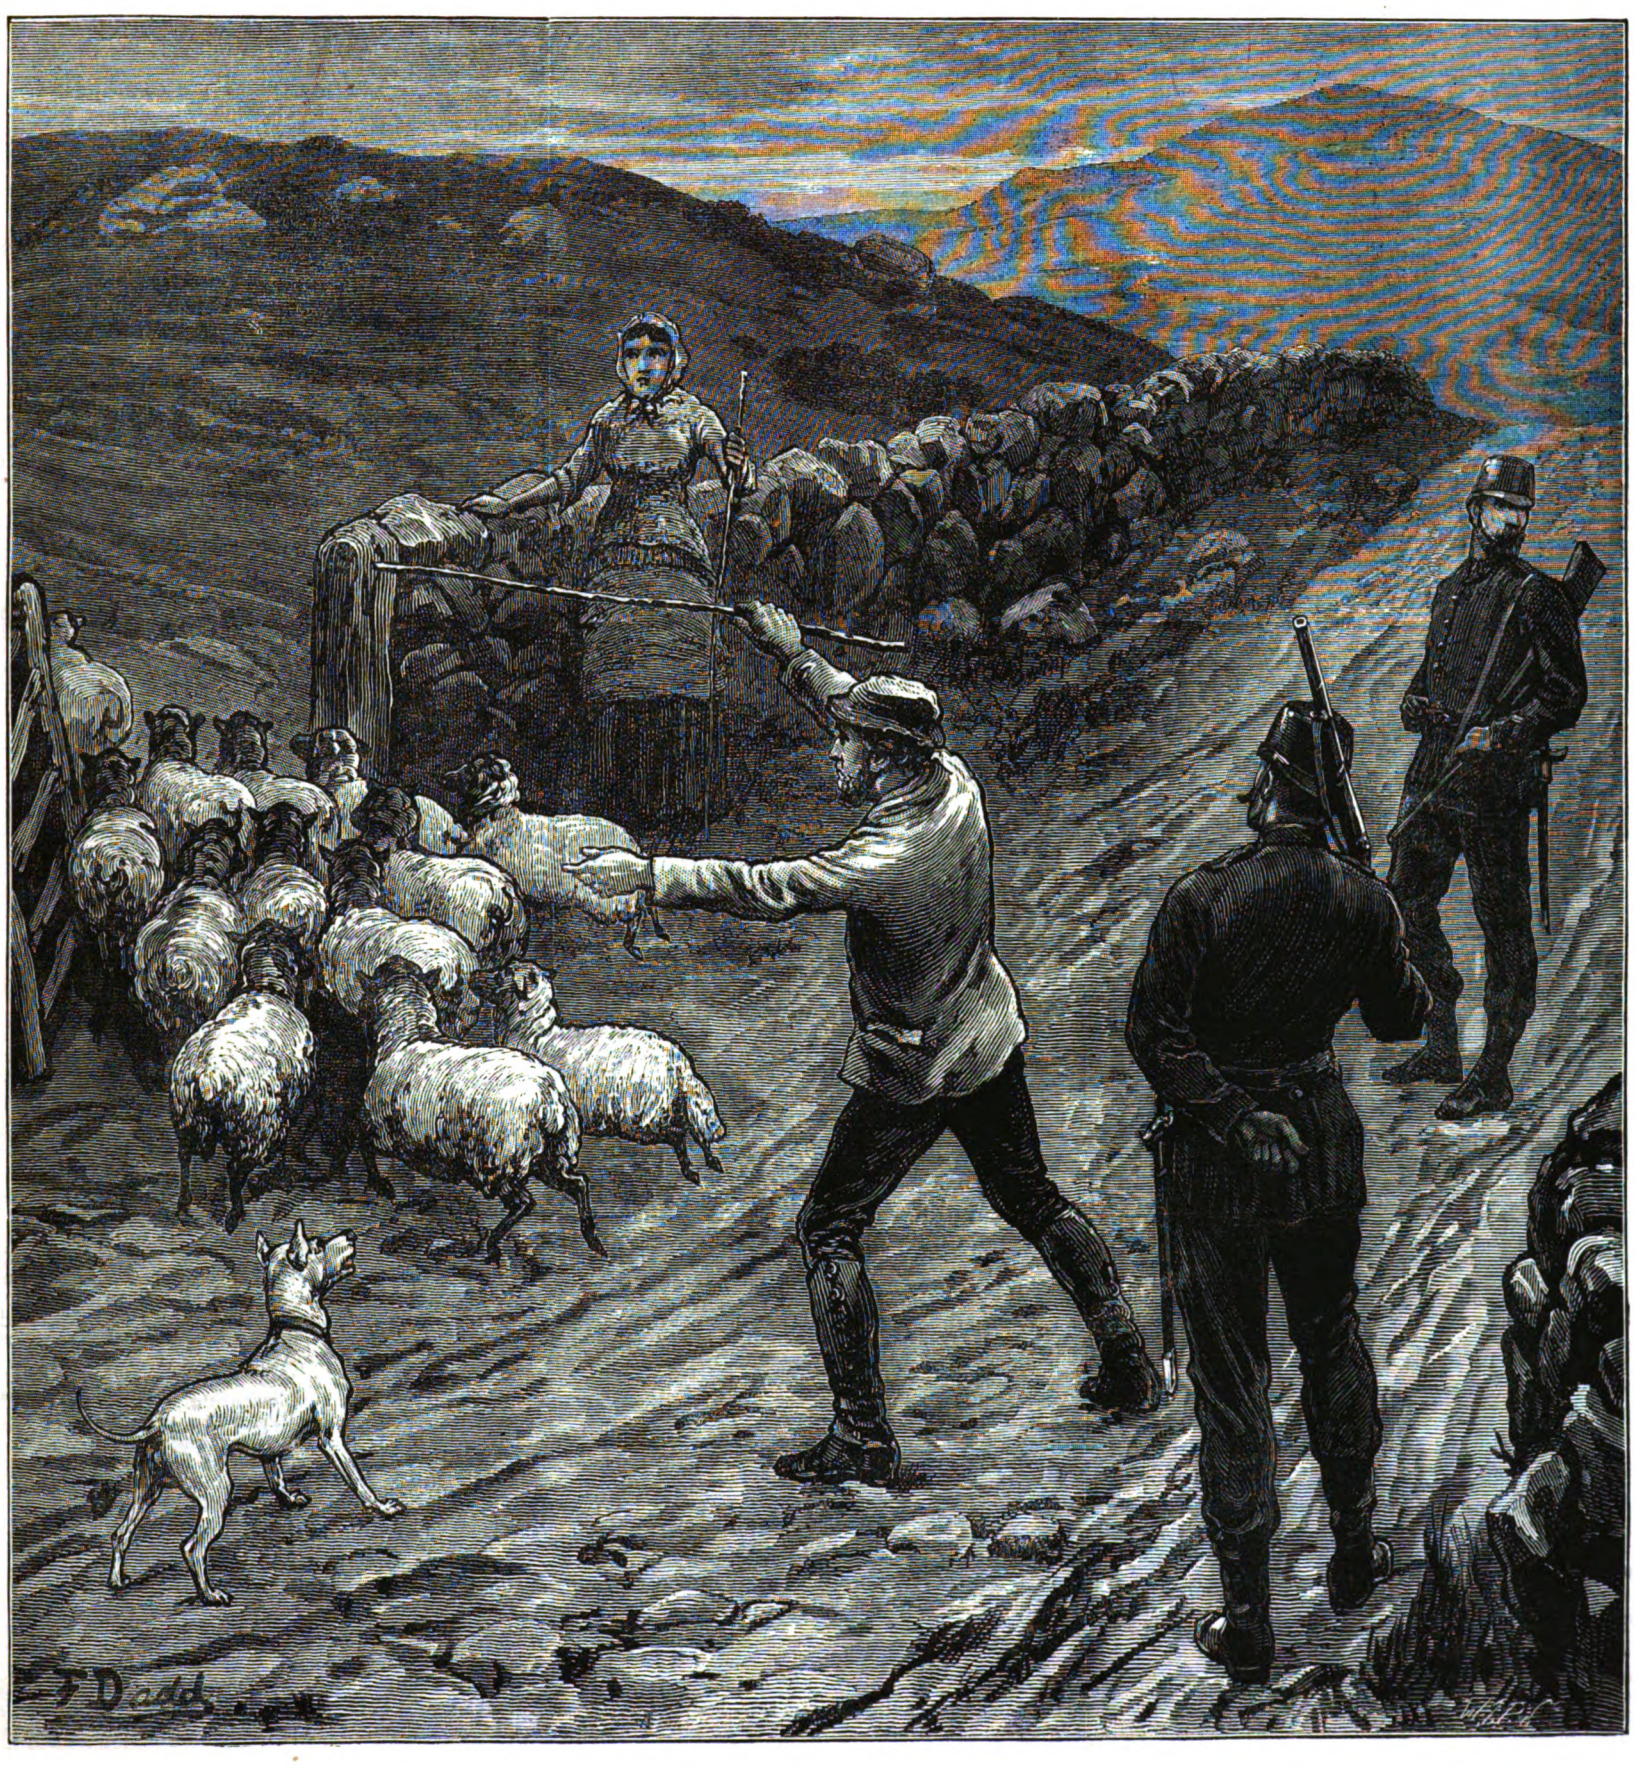


THE MONTHS: NOVEMBER.—SEE PAGE 494.

Digitized by Google

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE.

SEE PAGE 496.



MR. C. S. PARNELL, M.P.

MR. T. BRENNAN (SECRETARY).

MR. J. G. BIGGAR, M.P.

FARMING UNDER DIFFICULTIES IN COUNTY MAYO.

Digitized by Google

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Nov. 16.

On Tuesday last, the Ferry Cabinet having been defeated on a simple question of the fixing of the order of the day, thought fit to resign. M. Grévy refused to accept the resignation, and the crisis continued until Wednesday night, when the Cabinet withdrew their resignation. On Thursday M. Louis Legrand interpellated the Ministry on its declaration of Tuesday. M. Jules Ferry replied, and asked the Chamber to signify clearly whether it had or had not confidence in the Cabinet. After a long debate and after some severe personal attacks on the Minister of Marine, Admiral Cloué, the Chamber voted an order of the day of confidence by 297 votes against 131, and the question of the reform of the Magistracy was placed on the order of the day for Saturday instead of the educational question. And so the Ministry came out of the crisis both victor and vanquished, victor in having obtained a vote of confidence, vanquished on the question of the order of the day, which started the whole difficulty.

On Thursday a disgraceful scene took place in the Chamber of Deputies. During the Session of Wednesday the penalty of temporary exclusion had been pronounced against M. Baudry d'Asson, a disorderly Royalist Deputy who had used violent language in the course of the sitting. M. Baudry d'Asson refused to acknowledge the authority of the President, and entered the Chamber on Thursday as if nothing had happened. M. Gambetta thereupon invited M. Baudry d'Asson to withdraw. M. Baudry d'Asson remained motionless. Then an indescribable scene took place. The sitting was suspended, the galleries cleared, and Colonel Riu, Military Commander of the Chamber, was ordered to expel M. Baudry d'Asson by force. This order could not be executed in the courteous and law-biding manner which characterised the recent expulsion of Mr. Bradlaugh from the House of Commons. Several members of the Right surrounded M. Baudry d'Asson, the soldiers charged, blows were exchanged, uniforms and clothing torn, eyes blackened, and at last M. Baudry d'Asson, after a desperate resistance, was captured and confined in the petit local reserved for recalcitrant Deputies who have sinned against the rules of the House very grievously. The sitting was then resumed and concluded as has been already described.

Curiously enough, the very articles of the rules of the Chamber against which M. Baudry d'Asson rebelled, and which the Royalists so sharply criticise as the work of the Demagogues and Radicals, were drawn up in 1849 by Radicals, whose names were the Duc de Broglie, Rouher, Bocher, Buffet, Montalembert, and Dufaure. The protest of the Royalists thus turns against themselves.

The moral of all the recent Ministerial embarrassments was admirably summed up in M. Alfred Naquet's speech in the Chamber on Thursday, the tenor of which was that in the present Chamber it is impossible to form a Ministerial majority, in the real sense of the word; there can only be a majority de circonstance, a majority of the day. The sections and groups of the Chamber will not work together under recognised chiefs; the Ministry, therefore, must be content to work with a majority that will march behind a certain programme. The thing first to be done is to carry out bills on which the Republican groups are unanimous, and to leave the disputed points in the background until those bills have been carried. It is probably on this basis that the present Chamber will pass the last year of its existence.

The proceedings of the Senate were enlivened on Monday by an interpellation of M. Buffet on the Ministerial crisis of September last, and on the execution of the decrees of March 29. M. Jules Ferry and M. de Freycinet replied. The latter gave an account of his policy and action in the matter of the decrees in a vinegary tone, which pleased only the friends of M. Jules Simon. The debate on the interpellation was continued in the Senate to-day, as was also that on the magistracy in the Chamber.

The life of Paris, it has been said, is a drama-vaudeville in three hundred and sixty-five acts, without "waits," for the piece continues interminable even during the night. The antitheses of la vie Parisienne are more extravagant than those of Victor Hugo, whose sublime imagination sees in the starry heavens the image of "le crachat de Dieu." Whatever the hour and whatever the spectacle, there is always a crowd ready to collect together and gaze. There was a crowd to receive Louise Michel at the Gare Saint-Lazare last Tuesday; there was as great a crowd to see Jeanne Samary, the actress, married to M. Paul Lagarde last Wednesday; there was a crowd to see M. Baudry d'Asson expelled from the Chamber; there was a crowd to see MM. Buffet, De Freycinet, and Ferry fencing in the Senate; there was a crowd at Madame Adam's on Sunday to hear a lecture on Japan; and there will probably be a greater and more elegant crowd than ever at the Church of Saint-Roch to-morrow to see Sub-Lieutenant Roland Bonaparte married to Mdlle. Marie Felix Blanc.

And now, to pass from the vaudeville to the drama, Xavier Aubryet died yesterday, after having been bedridden, as Heine was, for six years with a nervous malady. His funeral will take place to-morrow, simultaneously with the marriage of Prince Roland Bonaparte. Xavier Aubryet was a Parisian, a boulevardier, a wit who was once a rival of Nestor Roqueplan, a viveur of the famous Demidoff set, and a literary critic and poet of delicate taste and originality. His best books are his "Jugements Nouveaux" and "Chez nous et chez nos voisins," which latter contains some interesting studies of English literature.

To return once more to the flous-flous of the Parisian Vaudeville, it may interest ladies to know that the Parisian coiffeurs are brewing an international conspiracy for bringing into fashion the wearing of false hair. At present blonde is the fashionable colour for hair, and the shades vary from flaxen to golden red, from the shade called rayon de lune, through the comète, cheveux de la reine, and cheveux vénitiens.

The De Cissey scandal still continues to agitate public opinion. The Chamber of Deputies has nominated a committee of eleven members, all of whom are favourable to ordering a Parliamentary inquiry. Meanwhile fresh accusations are being brought against the General almost daily, and the matter is almost becoming a party question. The irreconcilable and radical Journals are merciless in their attacks on M. de Cissey and the Baroness de Kaulla. Yesterday Colonel Jung's son, a collegian of seventeen years of age, mixed himself up in this painful affair by writing a letter to the Figaro disowning his mother, the Baronne de Kaulla. This letter has naturally shocked the French, amongst whom Mother-worship is an instinct and the voix du sang a national principle.

It may interest those who, like the swallows, fly southwards at the approach of winter, to know that high French society, and particularly that of the noble faubourg, is abandoning Paris as a winter residence. Few of the aristocratic salons will be open before spring; from motives chiefly of economy, the bearers of great and historical names have decided in future to winter at Pau, Cannes, Nice, Madeira, and even Algeria, and to shut up their Paris houses except during the spring months.

T. C.

THE MONTHS: NOVEMBER.

Clammy, chill, sour, sullen, gloomy: no adjectives, by the majority of Englishmen, are considered too mean for this meanest of months! If there were only something downright bad about him he might not be so maligned as he is. But, surly fellow though he may be, he can scarcely be called downright bad. He brings no drenching torrents of rain, no blinding snowstorms, no ice-encumbered rivers, but simply torments us with leaden skies, and clinging damp, and fog, and mizzle, drizzle, drip, drip. Such, at least, is the rôle commonly attributed to him, and certainly nothing could be meaner than the spectacle he presents, as he stalks through the bilious-looking town, his straggling locks and unkempt beard beaded with moisture that descends from a halo of fog, chilling the atmosphere at every stride, and veiling the sky so that

> The night has no eve,
> And the day has no morning.

Thoroughly mean, too, and odious is he, when he enters autumn woods, and, laying his sacrilegious hands on the richly-coloured foliage, strips the trees of their latest beauty. But he does not wrench off all the leaves at once; let us, at any rate, give him credit for that. Perhaps he has some qualms of conscience. The timid, sensitive ash drops her few remaining leaves at once, as do also the walnut and the lime; and soon after the mulberry, horse-chestnut, and sycamore succumb to the withering touch of the cold-blooded ravisher. But the elm and a few others he spares a little longer; the latest of the deciduous trees to cast their leaves being the beech and the oak, which retain their autumn glory almost until December commences his wintry sway.

The still lovely tints, late in the month, in the oaken and beechen groves, make us involuntarily pause in our railing against "gloomy November." Nor must we forget that, in the country at least, he occasionally permits intervals of weather clear and pleasant as in the mellow days of October. The mornings may be raw and misty, and the adjacent woods and hills lost in fleecy vapour; but around those woods and hills there is no pestilential smoke and grime to clog the air, and mist and hoar-frost quickly vanish before the rising sun. So rich and varied, when the mist has lifted, is the foliage upon the oaks and beeches, and so fantastically fair the threads of gossamer, which, sparkling in the soft sunlight, are floating in the tranquil air on every hedge and field—we almost forget that the lanes are thickly strewn with leaves, and feel that some of Mab's merry sprites must have practised a spell upon gruff November. But whether it is the fairies, or whether November has, after all, some qualms of conscience, certain it is that we have occasionally some delightful days even thus late in "the pale descending year." Sometimes in the morning they come, these sweet glimpses of dying autumn; sometimes at noon, and occasionally not until towards evening, when the white mist that has been enveloping the whole country-side since morning is suddenly lifted from the earth, and itself becomes an object of superb grandeur, catching as it does the slanting rays of the setting sun, and throwing back upon the brown lanes, fields, meandering streams, and tinted woods, a light that is unutterably beautiful.

But, while November has some redeeming phases in the country, in town it is quite another matter. In the country the vapours of the month are white and fleecy mists that dissolve into thin air before the rising sun; in the town they join issue with the smoke and grime of civilisation, and settle down upon the streets like a nightmare in dense yellow fogs, which often last all day and all night. Indeed, it is in the town rather than the country that November has earned his evil reputation—a reputation so wretched that foreigners think our chief occupation now must be the commission of suicide. No wonder Guy Fawkes chose this month for his infernal purpose; for may he not have thought that he would effect a kindly deed in freeing King and Parliament from an intolerable existence? True, the town is not always wrapt in a wet blanket of "pea-soup;" but, even when there is no actual fog, the faint sunbeams are unable to struggle through the gloom, and everything looks dingy, damp, and dirty. There are, however, few things but might be worse; and so with the murky atmosphere of our great towns in November. When the streets are draped in hopeless fog, and the opposite side of the way is only detected by a sickly flare of gaslight, it requires a Mark Tapley to feel really jolly; yet how infinitely better is the lurid glare of gaslight from lamp-posts and shop-windows to the street-lights of other days! So late as the beginning of the present century they were bad enough, when there were no gas-lit shop-windows, when ropes here and there spanned the leading thoroughfares with suspended lamps, whose pale glimmer was only perceptible immediately underneath. But what a time of it benighted London must have had in the November days, say of James I., when the foul, narrow streets were scarcely lit at all, and the muffled tolling of old St. Paul's, as the hours slowly died, must have boomed down through the silent yellow vapours in the Cheap like a death-knell to the groping citizens!

Upon Londoners, and such as cannot raise their mournful eyes from the rustling leaves at their feet, the gloom of the declining year has doubtless a very depressing effect. But there are many who snap their fingers at the gloom. To the great army of sportsmen the "sere and yellow leaf" is by no means an object for intense melancholy, it being an infallible sign that the farmers have opened their gates to huntsmen and gunners, for no longer are there in the fields any cattle or horses to wander into forbidden lands, the exhausted pastures having been exchanged for the farmyard; nor are there any crops to spoil. Roots, of the mangold-wurzel and turnip species, are being piled in heaps or being carted to the farmyards and outbuildings; but, except the roots, and a little ploughing, the agriculturist's labours are now concentrated in close vicinity to his homestead. And so hunting is in full swing, and every day there are dashing rides 'cross country, that quite account for our Waterloos and Balaclavas. Coursing, too, is one of the sports of the month, and steeple-chasing, and, in the north, deerstalking. For those who cannot ride well to hounds there are still plenty of pheasants, partridges, hares, and rabbits, in blissful ignorance of their fate; and the solitary snipe will have to keep a sharp look-out, as will also the woodcock and wild-duck that are migrating to our coasts.

The various kinds of water-fowl that are now reaching our shores from the Far North ameliorate, by their presence, somewhat, the dreariness of the seaside. Their discordant cries seem in harmony with the sad sea waves that break in measured sweep upon the beach. Not violently, though, do the waves break just now; they are but muttered threatenings of storms to come: it is not until winter sets in that the sea lashes itself into sublime fury. Indeed, during November, the sea is often quiet enough, especially when the fogs of the month find their way to the coast; when, through the turbid air, the boats close in to shore seem miles away and the fishermen to be performing a shadow pantomime, now indistinct, now striking large and prominent, now vanishing, with no sound but the receding ripple of the tide.

PROSECUTIONS OF RITUALIST CLERGY.

The continued imprisonment of the Rev. Thomas Pelham Dale, Rector of St. Vedast's, Foster-lane, for contempt of the orders of the Court empowered by Act of Parliament to correct irregularities in the public services of the Established Church, has excited many demonstrations of feeling on the part of High Church clergy and people. It will be recollected that this case has been before Lord Penzance, Judge of the Court of Arches, on several occasions, but no notice has ever been taken by Mr. Dale of the suit, the monitions or suspensions, except by an appeal to the Court of Queen's Bench nearly three years ago, when the sentence was quashed on the ground of an informality. A second suit was instituted by the churchwardens, and has been steadily pursued. On Thursday, the 28th ult., the Judge (Lord Penzance) agreed to issue a writ of significavit, which was speedily acted on; and two days later, on the Saturday evening, the 30th ult., an officer proceeded to Mr. Dale's residence, No. 6, Ladbroke-gardens, Notting-hill, and then and there arrested him. Mr. Dale was conveyed at once in a cab to the City Prison, at Holloway, where he has since remained in the custody of Lieutenant-Colonel Milman, Governor of the City Prison. He is confined in the right wing of the gaol, on the ground floor, two rooms being assigned to him, and a small fire allowed; this and the gas have to be extinguished at half-past eight o'clock at night, and at six in the morning he is expected to rise. His friends are allowed to supply him with food, subject to prison regulations. He is, however, already on the sick list and under the doctor's care, as he is suffering from general debility and an abscess in the right hand. Visitors are admitted at his own request, specially naming them, but subject to the approval of the Visiting Justices. The members of his own congregation are not permitted to see him. Mrs. Dale and others of his family come to pass the day with him. He has also been visited by the Hon. C. L. Wood, Colonel Hardy, and other leading members of the English Church Union. He has proposed to appoint his son, the Rev. Arthur Murray Dale, to perform duty in the church during his enforced absence; but the Bishop of London has rejected the nomination, and has appointed the Rev. C. T. Acland to the cure of the parish during the continuance of the inhibition of the Rev. Pelham Dale by the Court of Arches. The Bishop, in his letter communicating this to Mr. Dale, further observes, "I may add, that it would not be possible for me to allow any clergyman to officiate in your church who would not be prepared to certify me that he would perform the services of your church without those ornaments and practices which you have been monitioned to discontinue." In the mean time, and for several weeks to come, the church is shut up and the services stopped, for the ostensible purpose of executing repairs ordered by the churchwardens. It was necessary for them to break in through the window, as the keys were and are in Mr. Dale's possession, as Rector, and he refuses to give them up. Watchmen are stationed both day and night in the church, and the doors have been fitted with several new locks, to prevent any persons on behalf of the Rector getting in and claiming possession. Meetings to demand the liberation of Mr. Dale were held, on Thursday week, at the Cannon-street Hotel, and at St. James's Hall, on Thursday last.

The Rev. Thomas Pelham Dale is sixty years of age. He is eldest son of the late Very Rev. Thomas Dale, who was Vicar of St. Pancras, at another time Rector of St. Bride's, Fleet-street, Canon of St. Paul's, and finally Dean of Rochester. He was educated partly at home, partly at King's College, London, till he was placed with Sir William Fairbairn, at the Millwall Works, to learn the profession of a civil engineer. But he ultimately determined to become a clergyman, and went to Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. He there took his degree, with honours, in 1845, being in the first class of mathematics, twenty-fifth wrangler of that year; he also won a scholarship, and became a Fellow of his College. Having taken orders, he held a curacy under the Rev. Daniel Moore, at Camden Chapel, Camberwell; but he was for some time Curate to his father in St. Pancras, and afternoon lecturer there and at St. Luke's, Old-street. He also held the post of Librarian at Sion College, in the City, and was honorary chaplain to the Great Northern Hospital. In 1848 he was presented to the rectory of St. Vedast with St. Michael-le-Quern, a church in Foster-lane, Cheapside, near Goldsmiths' Hall, behind the General Post Office. This presentation was made by the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, Mr. Dale's father, as Canon Dale, being then one of the Chapter. The peculiarities which have characterised Mr. Dale's ministration of public worship were brought before the law courts four or five years ago. During eight months of 1876, while inhibited from conducting service in his own church, he ministered in that of St. Mary Magdalen, Paddington, by permission of the incumbent there. He had lent his own church, in like manner, to the Rev. A. H. Mackonochie, of St. Albans, in 1874.

Our Illustrations on the front page of this Number present a view of the City Prison at Holloway, and one of the interior of the apartment occupied by Mr. Dale, with a portrait of him, which is copied from the photograph by Mr. A. E. Fradelle, of Regent-street.

The Hon. Mr. Palmer, son of Lord Selborne, has been admitted, by patrimony, to the freedom of the Mercers' Company.

Professor Henry Morley on Monday night continued his series of lectures at Westbourne Park Institute on English Literature, the subject of the evening being Thomas Carlyle and John Ruskin. These two writers, said the lecturer, had had a very great influence upon the thought of the present day, and their earnestness had been completely recognised. Each of them delivered the same message—viz., that the advance of society was still to be laboured for, but could only be attained by the labour of each one to make the best of himself or herself, and to aid others in a like endeavour. In the writings of both there was the same message, that all had to do their work thoroughly and to be themselves. Taking first Mr. Carlyle, Professor Morley sketched his life, supplementing the narrative with many extracts from his works. The cherishing of individual life, said Mr. Morley, was the ruling sentiment of Carlyle, and of that more than anything else he was the prophet of our time. In Mr. Ruskin, though in a different nature, there was the same lesson taught, but with another voice, amid other surroundings and amid different conditions. With him, as with Mr. Carlyle, there was a tendency to excess in the maintaining of a simple elementary truth. In Thomas Carlyle there was strong manly vigour. In John Ruskin there was grace, bordering almost upon effeminacy—a grace which one found in the mind of a highly-trained and highly-cultivated woman. There was a high sense and a keen perception of truth and beauty, which allied itself very much to what was best in woman's nature. A short sketch of Mr. Ruskin's life and a review of his principal works completed the lecture.

Digitized by Google

THE PLAYHOUSES.

I have again witnessed the performance of "Anne-Mie" at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, and rejoice at being able to pay a well-deserved tribute to the intelligence and carefulness with which those who have control over the play have endeavoured to lop and prune away many of the excrescences which, on the first night, rendered the drama adapted from the Dutch of M. Rosier Faassen by an "unknown hand" such a very wearisome and dispiriting exhibition. In the stage management, which from beginning to end reflects the very highest credit on Miss Genevieve Ward, there was, it must be admitted, little ground for alteration, and still less for improvement. The entire scenic arrangements of "Anne-Mie" may be said to move like clockwork; only the clock on the first night went desperately slow. But Miss Geneviève Ward has bravely set herself to the task of brightening up the work "all round;" and the result has been that "Anne-Mie" is now a much more actable and much more enjoyable piece than it was three weeks ago. Miss Ward's own very artistic "make up" has had several slight but effective additions introduced; and the suppression of some of the prosiest dialogue in which a few of the characters surrounding her were formerly permitted to indulge brings into stronger and consequently more advantageous relief her own very conspicuous qualities in refined elocution, and the dignified expression of a deep-rooted sorrow. There is pathos and pathos. Perhaps Miss Ward, in her intellectual grasp of the character of Anne-Mie, remembered that the Dutch are a phlegmatic race, and it was owing to such a remembrance that she elected to portray, not a passionately emotional, but a composed and comparatively undemonstrative heroine. Thus Persiani in the "Gazza Ladra" was all fire and passion, and tearful intensity. Miss Kelly, on the other hand, in "The Maid and the Magpie," was staid and demure, and quietly pathetic. That there could be a Dutch "Maid" we know from Sir Edwin Landseer's picture.

I went on Tuesday to see the "Lady of Lyons" at Sadler's Wells. It was the thirtieth and, for the present, the last performance of Mr. Charles Warner as Claude Melnotte. On Thursday he appeared as Young Dornton in the "Road to Ruin." The house on Tuesday was excellently well filled; the pit and gallery crowded. Lord Lytton's artificial yet most touching drama would not seem to have lost one iota of its popularity among the masses. It is a strange mixture of poetic sentiment and broad farce. Everybody knows that the plot is borrowed from a French dramatist, who, in his turn, borrowed it from a real incident in the life of Angelica Kauffmann, the painter, who was inveigled into a marriage with a soi-disant Count de Horn, who turned out to be a footman; many of the "situations" (the duel, for example) are ridiculously forced and stilted; and the concluding tableau of Claude concealing his emotions behind a cocked hat and feathers is simply grotesque. The dialogue is full of cheap bombastic clap-trap, of the "man who would lay a hand upon a woman" pattern; while most of the smart sayings which "bring down the house," are unblushing appropriations from the French epigrammatists. It was a great mistake too, in art, in a romantic play, to make Madame Deschapelles such a ludicrous character that she can scarcely open her mouth without the audience laughing at her, as though she were Mrs. Malaprop or Deborah Woodcock; and, much as we may admire Claude Melnotte, it is impossible to forget that, in assuming the character of the Prince of Como, his conduct is that of a contemptible trickster, impostor, and swindler. With all these blemishes, the "Lady of Lyons" has never ceased to obtain the firmest of grasps on the English middle-class mind, and for this there may be four reasons. In the first place, Claude Melnotte is not a profligate. He deceives Pauline, but he respects her purity. The scene in the cottage in which he intrusts his virgin bride to the care of his mother at once wins for him the sympathies of the audience. In the next place, he is a rustic, who, eventually by his own valour and good conduct, raises himself to high rank and fortune. Middle-class audiences are very fond of such a hero. In the end he foils and tramples upon the "wicked nobleman," Beauséant. Middle-class audiences always like to see the wicked nobleman come to grief. Thirdly, the scenes between Claude and Pauline are full of downright passionate love-making on both sides—love-making as passionate as that in "Henrietta Temple" or "Venetia"—boy and girl love-making, with plenty of nonsense about it. Without nonsense, sweethearting would be as dreary an affair as the amatory correspondence of the solicitor who used to sign his billet doux, "Yours without Prejudice." Finally, Lord Lytton, in some of the grandiloquent blank verse speeches scattered through the play, exercises over the female part of his audience precisely that glamour with the use of which he was satirically twitted by Mr. Tennyson in the famous "New Timon" lampoon in Punch. He "charms the girls" in the "Lady of Lyons" just as he charms them in "Ernest Maltravers" and "Alice"—in "Zanoni" and "Night and Morning." The girls love to listen to his talk about honeysuckles and orange-groves, and murmuring fountains and stars, where lovers dwell when Love becomes Immortal. The girls do not understand half his fine words; nor can they see how hollow and meretricious most of this dulcet rhetoric is; but it is soft and smooth as a Lydian measure; and they like it, and will not cease to like it.

Mr. Charles Warner and Miss Isabel Bateman are, happily, just as well suited for frank, fresh, boy and girl lovemaking as Mr. and Mrs. Kendal were in the Pygmalion and Galatea days. Mr. Warner is young, earnest, manly, unaffected, good-looking, strong (he can lift Pauline as though she were a feather), and with a natural capacity, when he is deeply moved, for pulling out his pocket-handkerchief and indulging in a good hearty sob. I like young Paul Melnottes. I have known, to my sorrow, many elderly ones, who could groan, sniff, and, on occasion, bellow; but as an exponent of the unreserved, tearful grief of a young fellow thoroughly broken down for the time by anguish and remorse I have seen few actors superior to Mr. Charles Warner. In the scenes of passion he was forcible without being too melodramatic; and his repeated defiance of Beauséant was especially good. The tenderness of his demeanour to his mother, his chivalrous courtesy to Pauline, the respectful resignation with which he bears the reproaches of the justly incensed woman whom he has fooled, were all likewise very admirable features in the interpretation of Claude Melnotte; and I noticed a marked improvement in his elocution since I saw him in Othello. A classical tragedian Mr. Charles Warner may not be destined to become. We are wholly destitute of a school of classical acting, either in tragedy or in comedy; but, as a romantic actor, Mr. Warner should go very far indeed.

Mr. Warner's dress in the First Act I did not like. It was most ungainly and unpicturesque; and beneath his jerkin he had something between a blouse and a bib, of some light blue fabric most unseemly to look upon. He should confer with Mr. Forbes Robertson (one of the best-dressed actors on the stage), or ask Mr. Lewis Wingfield to design a Claude Melnotte peasant dress for him. Mind; it is a most difficult dress, that worn in the first act. Macready, if I remember aright, assumed a black velvet jerkin and a most monstrous turn-down collar of an exaggerated Byronic type. The best-attired Claude Melnotte that I can remember was Charles Kean.

Miss Isabel Bateman, who, prior to these thirty performances, had never, I believe, played the part of the heroine, acquitted herself to admiration as Pauline Deschapelles. Much of the praise awarded to Mr. Charles Warner must in simple justice be awarded to her. Miss Isabel Bateman has many natural advantages on her side—youth, good looks, grace, animation, earnestness, and spontaneously expressed emotion. In some characters in which I have seen her there may have been, on her part, the slightest of tendencies to call too frequently on her lachrymatory ducts and to pose as a "Niobe all tears;" but she does not weep one drop too much in Pauline Deschapelles. Her love-speeches were simply charming; and the vehemence of her first denunciation of Claude's perfidy roused the audience to genuine enthusiasm. Mr. Stanmore's rough-and-ready impersonation of the bluff General Daumas was highly appreciative; and Mr. E. H. Brooke made a polished and adroit Beauséant. Mr. Walter Brooks was sufficiently foppish, but not sufficiently distinct in his enunciation, as Glavis. Mrs. Staunton struggled bravely through the unthankful part of Madame Deschapelles; and Mr. Canninge as Monsieur Deschapelles bore the disconsolate mien of a bankrupt merchant even before he had to confess his inability to meet his acceptances. A more impecunious voice and manner, and more insolvent-looking small-clothes and stockings I have rarely seen. Miss Clayton was quiet and effective as the Widow Deschapelles. Next week I shall have something to say about the famous old comedy of the "Road to Ruin," with Mr. Charles Warner as Harry Dornton.

G. A. S.

MUSIC.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

On Thursday week Madame Zacchi appeared for the third time—the first time here as the heroine in "Lucrezia Borgia," in which the lady sang and acted with much dramatic power. In the several important scenes with Gennaro and the Duke, Madame Zacchi produced a very favourable impression, which would have been heightened had she controlled the tremolo that prevails in her vocalisation. As on many previous occasions, Madame Trebelli's fine voice and style gave full effect to the music of Maffio Orsini. Signori Runcio and Ordinas were effective representatives, respectively, of the characters of Gennaro and Alfonso. On the following evening "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was given, and Mdlle. Eliza Widmar, as Rosina, sang with much taste and refinement; Signor Aldighieri having been a very successful representative of Figaro. Signor Vizzani was the Almaviva, and Signor Zoboli the Bartolo. The appearance of Madame Zacchi as Leonora in "Il Trovatore" on Saturday evening was prevented by her indisposition; and, instead of the opera just named, "La Traviata" was repeated. The announcements this week were of operas recently given, the production of Signor Tito Mattei's new opera, "Maria di Gand," having been postponed to Tuesday next. In Monday's repetition of "Lucrezia Borgia" the character of Maffio Orsini was transferred to Madame Amadi, who met with a very favourable reception, and was encored in "Il segreto."

The first of the Saturday afternoon performances associated with the Monday Popular Concerts at St. James's Hall took place last week, when the string quartet party consisted of Herr Straus, Mr. L. Ries, Mr. Zerbini, and Signor Piatti; the same artists having also co-operated at last Monday's evening concert. The quartet on the former occasion was Schumann's in A major; in the latter instance, Mendelssohn's in F minor. Mdlle. Janotha was the solo pianist at both concerts; Madame Antoinette Sterling having been the vocalist on Saturday, and Miss Annie Marriott on Monday.

The fifth Saturday afternoon concert at the Crystal Palace included first performances (there) of a beautiful, although not elaborate, serenade, for stringed instruments, by Mozart, and of a lively overture (to the operetta "La Princess Jaune") by M. Saint-Saëns; Berlioz's symphony "Harold in Italy," the important viola part finely played by Herr Straus, was the specialty (although no novelty) at the concert, which comprised other interesting features, among them having been the brilliant vocal performances of Madame Koch-Bossenberger. The specialty of last Saturday's programme was a pianoforte concerto by the late Herman Goetz, whose opera, "The Taming of the Shrew," and his symphony in F minor, have recently made his name so celebrated. Each of the three movements of the concerto contains much interesting music, well written for the display of the solo instrument, and including some rich and varied orchestral details, the chief fault being the somewhat excessive length of the work. It was admirably played by Mr. Charles Hallé. Another quasi novelty was a pleasing "Largo" by Haydn for stringed instruments only. Other features of the concert call for no specific mention, beyond stating that familiar vocal pieces were rendered with much success by Miss Annie Marriott.

The first of the four Saturday evening orchestral concerts at St. James's Hall, under the direction of Mr. F. H. Cowen, took place last week, when a cleverly written overture to an opera entitled "Corinne" was very favourably received on its first performance. It is the composition of Mr. Julian Edwards, a young composer from whom much may be expected. Mr. Oscar Beringer played his "Andante" and "Presto Agitato" for pianoforte (with orchestra), as at a recent Crystal Palace concert; and M. Musin executed, with much success, a "Caprice" of his own, and an uninteresting violin concerto by M. Godard; Mr. Cowen and Mr. Beringer played with good effect some new Hungarian dances by Herr Brahms for two performers on the pianoforte, and an excellent band (of about sixty instrumentalists) was heard to advantage in Cherubini's overture to "Anacreon," Beethoven's eighth symphony (in F), and Mendelssohn's overture to "Ruy Blas." Vocal pieces were effectively rendered by Mrs. Osgood and Mr. Santley. Mr. Cowen conducted with much ability. The second concert is to take place on Nov. 27.

This (Saturday) evening the performance of Berlioz's "Faust" music, conducted by Mr. Charles Hallé, takes place at St. James's Hall.

The fifteenth season of Mr. John Boosey's London Ballad Concerts will begin at St. James's Hall next Wednesday evening; a new feature of the scheme being the introduction of a choir of sixty voices, selected from the South London Choral Association. On Wednesday, in the same locality, Mdlle. Janotha will give a Recital of Pianoforte Music.

The committee of management of the Norwich Festival have decided to hold the next triennial meeting during the week commencing Monday, Oct. 10, 1881. Signor Randegger has been appointed conductor.

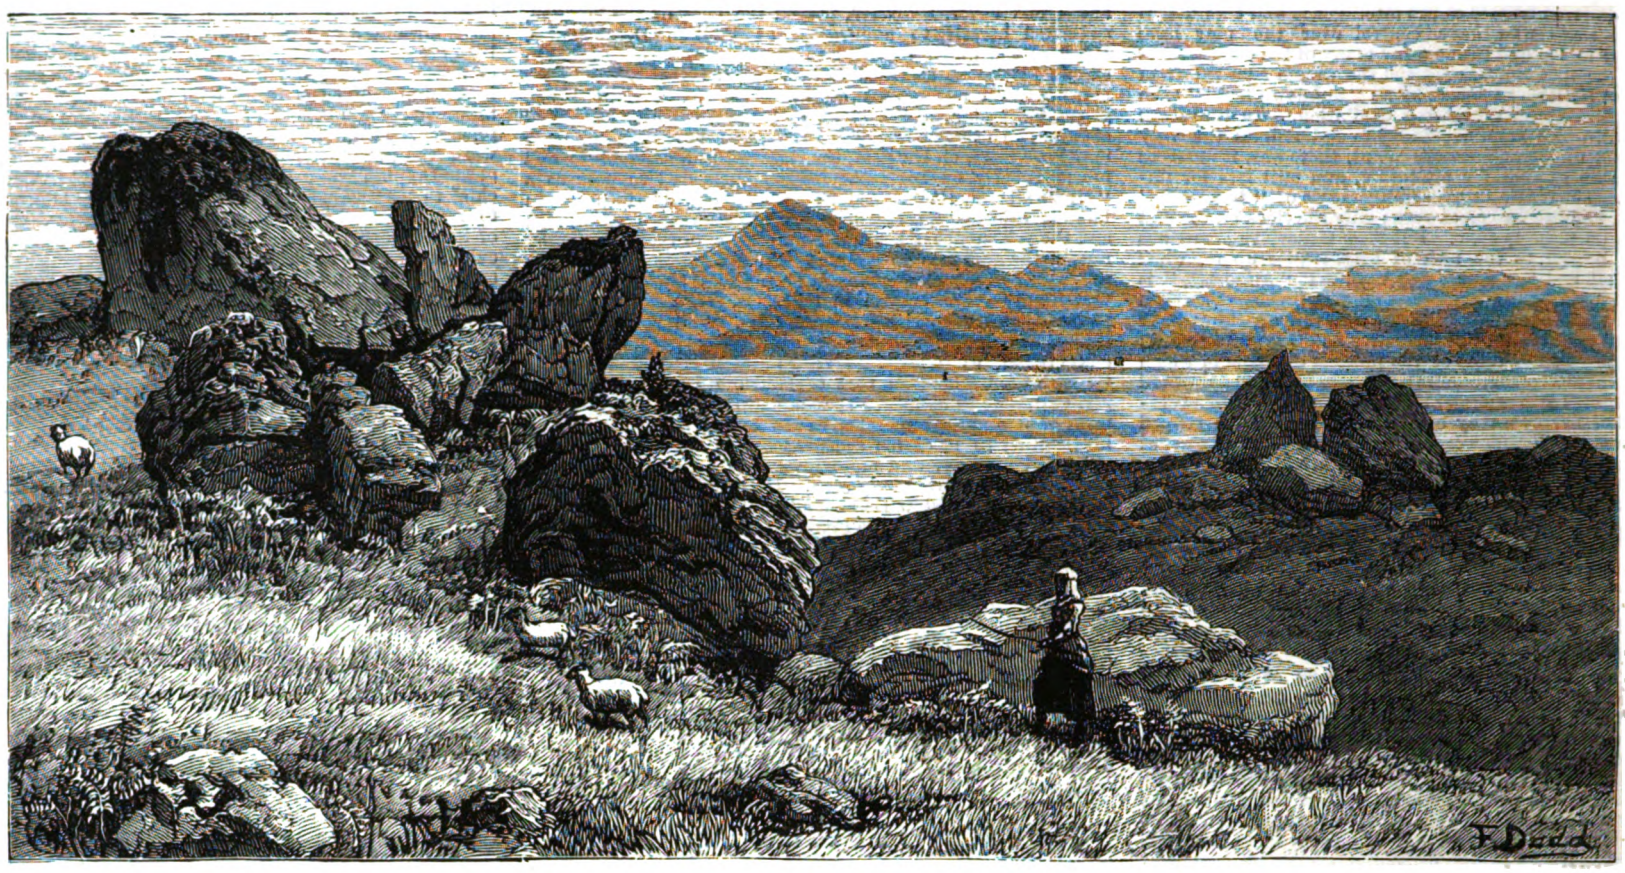
Ormonde Castle, the seat of the Marquis of Ormonde, has been taken for the Empress of Austria for six weeks' hunting with the Kilkenny Hounds. The Empress is expected in the middle of February.

THE RECESS.

Politics are growing lively in the Political Stock Exchange. The bland speech of Mr. Gladstone, at the Guildhall Banquet, appears to have been received by Sir Stafford Northcote as anything but a flag of truce. Indeed, it would seem as if it bore the semblance of a red rag, to judge from the effect it had at Bristol last Saturday upon Sir Stafford. The gentle, bucolic lowings in which the right hon. Baronet had for some time indulged for the behoof of placid Devonshire audiences were forsaken. The horns were, so to speak, lowered, and free scope was given to the after-dinner charge of Sir Stafford Northcote at the Dolphin banquet, Mr. Edward Clarke, M.P., goading his chief in the reckless style adopted by him of late, presumably to recommend himself the sooner for office. The points of Sir Stafford's speech were few. Graceful was the opening eulogium of Lord Beaconsfield's services as leader of the Conservative Party; and adroit the argument that by the adoption of his Lordship's tactics the Party might be brought back to power. Credit for the late Administration was claimed from the fact that the Government were seeking to give effect to the Berlin Treaty, although Sir Stafford pointed out that the cession of Dulcigno was not provided for in that instrument. Nor was the extension of the Greek Frontier, except in a protocol. Coercion of Turkey was emphatically protested against. The Naval Demonstration was pronounced a failure. Sir Stafford Northcote's attention having been called for so many years to the East, it was, perhaps, natural that he should refer to the building of Jerusalem by the Jews with a weapon in one hand as the only parallel he could find to the military expedition in Ireland to protect Captain Boycott in getting in his crops. It was the language used by members of the Government that caused ignorant people in Ireland to take the law into their own hands. Mr. Gibson, the Irish Attorney-General of the late Ministry, besides adding the strong volume of his eloquence to the stream of Conservative oratory at the Dolphin dinner, on Monday delivered an able and vigorous address on Ireland at the Victoria Rooms, Bristol.

Lord Cork and Mr. Osborne Morgan, the principal Liberal speakers at Bristol on the Colston anniversary, sought to put a happier aspect on affairs on Saturday, and spoke with habitual ability. But it was left to the two Cabinet Ministers supplied by Birmingham to deliver the most effective answers to the Conservative speeches at Bristol. On Tuesday Mr. Bright and Mr. Chamberlain addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting, held in the Birmingham Townhall to celebrate the opening of the new rooms of the Junior Liberal Association. This flourishing body is shortly expected to number a thousand members. Mr. Chamberlain, being Chairman of the Club, presided. It was not long before there escaped from him a sally that was keenly appreciated. He elicited some laughter by the quiet remark that their critics were unreasonably impatient when they complained that Ministers "have not undone in six months all the mischief that it took their opponents six years to do." Cheered also was the outspoken declaration that Mr. Gladstone's acceptance of office had been "the signal for a return to a policy of honest finance, and the nation no longer postpones its liabilities and renews its bills." Mr. Chamberlain's defence of the Ministerial policy in the East and in Ireland abounded with similarly pungent phrases. But he did not keep the enthusiastic audience long from Mr. Bright, to whose personal encouragement of himself since he had been a Cabinet Minister the President of the Board of Trade paid a graceful tribute. It would be difficult for any one who has not witnessed the heartiness of Mr. Bright's reception at a popular meeting to realise the intensity of the enthusiasm with which the right hon. gentleman is received by his constituents. His speech was a characteristic one. His playful objection to the word "inaugural" at starting easily led up to an emphatic justification of the formation of political clubs on the score of their public usefulness. Two phrases of Lord Beaconsfield—"the affairs of Europe and the affairs of the world are conducted and determined by monarchs and statesmen;" and "a great part of the troubles of Ireland came from its being surrounded by a melancholy ocean"—were quoted, to be demolished, to the satisfaction of Mr. Bright's listeners, at any rate. Ireland monopolised the greater part of the address. Mr. Bright repeated the historical review, in which he attributes the evils of Ireland to the "system of great proprietors established by the monarchs and statesmen of two centuries ago." Speaking, not as a Minister, but as a member of Parliament—and this distinction was dwelt upon with emphasis—Mr. Bright again recommended "some broad and generous and complete system established by the Government by which landowners who are willing to sell" may do so to tenants anxious to buy. Furthermore, Mr. Bright asked why, if twenty or thirty millions were squandered in the Afghan war, five or ten millions could not be lent to Ireland to enable the million or so acres of waste lands to be cultivated by Irish tenant farmers? Whilst censuring the House of Lords for its rejection of the Compensation for Disturbance Bill, Mr. Bright related an interesting personal anecdote. He said at the time Mr. Cobden was offered office by Lord Palmerston, Lord John Russell desired Mr. Bright to join the Government also; but, added Mr. Bright,

> Lord John Russell wrote to me and explained to me the reason why Lord Palmerston found that he could not ask me to join in his Government, and it was this, that I had expressed opinions or an opinion about an institution in this country which the country thought important and essential, and that there were persons whose support was necessary to his Government who told him that that support would be withheld if I became a member of his Administration.



A conspicuous member of the House of Lords, the Marquis of Salisbury, will have an opportunity before the week is over of replying to Mr. Bright, his Lordship having promised to preside on Friday at the "inaugural" banquet of the Hackney Conservative Club, at the Cannon-street Hotel.

Carnarvonshire is in the throes of an election. Mr. Rathbone and Mr. Nanny are respectively the Liberal and Conservative candidates; and the nomination is fixed for the 23rd, the polling for the 30th inst. The late Colonel Mure's seat for Renfrewshire is not to be contested by the Conservatives, and the field is left to Mr. Crum, of Thornliebank.

Mr. Hengler's admirably-appointed equestrian establishment in Argyle-street opened last Saturday night with a varied entertainment, that gave complete satisfaction to an audience which filled the building.

A new illusion, named "The Temptations of Good St. Anthony," has been added to Messrs. Maskelyne and Cook's Entertainment at the Egyptian Hall, and it was given for the first time on the 11th inst. before a crowded audience. The well-known story of the piece is explained by Mr. W. Morton in amusing terms. In the centre of the stage is placed a representation of Cleopatra's Needle, which is made the medium of numerous optical illusions of a most surprising character. The size of the Needle is 7 ft. 6 in. high, and its middle breadth only 18 in. This illusion claims to be constructed upon an entirely new principle, superseding all such old accessories as bellows, tables, looking-glasses, and so forth.

Digitized by Google

CROAGH PATRICK, FROM THE MAYO SHORE OF CLEW BAY.

SKETCHES OF THE PEASANTRY IN MAYO.

Digitized by Google

THE STATE OF IRELAND: WOMEN CARRYING HOME MEAL-SACKS FROM THE RELIEF COMMITTEE

A SKETCH NEAR HEADFORD, GALWAY, BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

TROUBLES IN THE WEST OF IRELAND.

Whatever just indignation may be felt at the conduct of the Land League agitators, and at the atrocious crimes which are perpetrated from week to week, arising from the savage passions excited by their reckless harangues, the wretchedly helpless poverty existing in many districts of the west, especially in Mayo and Galway, and in Kerry to the south-west, continues to excite our pity. Several of the sketches made lately by our Special Artist in Mayo and the adjacent counties are now presented to our readers; and they tend to illustrate both the difficulties of cultivating the soil without adequate means, which few of the small tenants can have at command, and the destitute plight of those reduced to dependence on the doles of meal and other necessaries of life distributed by the local Relief Committees from the funds raised by charitable subscription. It is, however, to be observed, that this was before the harvest of the present year, which has proved tolerably abundant, yielded something for the subsistence of the poorest cottiers who had been able to retain possession of their little plots of land. The distress is not so urgent at the present time as it was in the spring, or in the winter of last year; but it seems, nevertheless, deplorable that so large a part of our fellow-subjects should be exposed, by the chances of one or two bad seasons, to endure this extreme degree of misery and social degradation. We earnestly trust that the deliberations of her Majesty's Ministers, and of Parliament in its next Session, will succeed in devising measures for the reform of the system of occupying and cultivating land in those districts of the country, with a due regard to the rights of existing proprietors, but with a view to some better security for the due rewards of labour and returns of capital applied to the land by its actual holders. It may also be found needful that the State should intervene as a capitalist, either in purchasing the interests of some of the landlords, in order to create a new class of perpetual tenancies at fixed rents, or of small freeholders charged with repayment by instalments, or else in great public works of land improvement.

An extraordinary state of affairs has arisen in the neighbourhood of Ballinrobe, Mayo, on the shore of Lough Mask, not far from the place where Lord Mountmorres was cruelly murdered. Captain Boycott, resident agent for the estates of Lord Erne, has during several weeks past been living in danger of his life from the threats of violence constantly uttered against him. No labourers are permitted to work for him, and the crops on his own farm were spoiling for want of hands to gather them in. It was therefore proposed in Dublin, and in Ulster, by those who sympathised with his distressed condition, to send a large party of volunteer labourers, well armed for their own defence, to perform this work for Captain Boycott. Five hundred were enlisted in the service, but the Government in Dublin interposed, fearing that so large a number of strangers would get into a sort of private war, as they would certainly be encountered by still greater numbers of the Mayo peasantry. The party was therefore restricted to fifty men, from Cavan and Monaghan, led by Mr. Somerset Maxwell, Mr. Goddard, a Dublin solicitor, and Mr. Manning, land agent; while a very large military force, comprised of a squadron of the 19th Hussars, and detachments of the 84th and 76th Regiments, with a detachment of the Army Service Corps, was sent from Dublin for the protection of the working party. The troops reached Ballinrobe on Thursday morning last week, and were joined by a force of the Royal Irish Constabulary, also bearing arms, when a sufficient guard was placed around Captain Boycott's house and grounds. On the arrival of the Ulster men, next day, they were escorted by the military to Lough Mask House, and a regular encampment was formed with thirty tents, all requisite campaigning furniture and stores having been provided by Government. The commanding officer of the troops, Lieutenant-Colonel F. E. Wilson, of the 84th, was accompanied by Colonel Bruce, of the Constabulary, and by three of the local stipendiary Magistrates, Messrs. Sheehy, Beckett, and Harrel, whose charge it is to keep the Queen's peace in that district. They were gladly welcomed by Captain and Mrs. Boycott, who had, with their children and nephew, Mr. Weekes, been enduring real privations, as in a state of siege, being hardly able to get a loaf of bread from the village. The crops to be saved consisted of ten acres of potatoes, seven acres of mangold, eight of turnips, and twenty acres of wheat, besides some oats, worth altogether about £500 or £600. The Ulster men, who are mostly sons of farmers, have gone to work diligently since last Saturday, and will have got in all the crops by the end of this week, but mean to thrash the oats and corn for Captain Boycott. That gentleman has invested £5000 in the farm, which he holds on a lease of thirty-one years, and he expects to be obliged to leave all, and to submit to utter ruin. It is, of course, in his office as agent for Lord Erne that he has unhappily become obnoxious to the neighbouring tenantry. The Earl, who resides at Crom Castle, Newtown Butler, in Fermanagh, has been menaced with a visit of fifty Mayo tenants, headed by their parish priest, the Rev. M. O'Malley, to demand Captain Boycott's dismissal, but the Land League has disapproved of this appeal to the legal proprietor of the Lough Mask estates. There is no symptom of any present intention to commit acts of violence, so long as the military force remains in the neighbourhood.

Digitized by Google

Another cruel and dastardly murder of a rent-collector has been committed near Limerick Junction; the victim was a young man, Henry Wheeler, who had assisted his father in getting in small rents for one or two neighbouring landowners. On the Friday evening of last week, as he was quietly walking home, he was shot by some persons, who, after wounding him once, pursued and shot him twice again, and finally beat out his brains with a stone. The herdsman, Michael Moore, who was walking with him, is under some suspicion. In the mean time, Land League meetings continue to be held in Dublin and in different parts of the country, but the orators do not express anything like earnest denunciation of these crimes; whilst in the assemblies that listen to Mr. Dillon and other speakers cries of death to the landlords are freely and frequently uttered, with no serious rebuke from the leaders of the movement.

Our Illustrations this week comprise one that shows two armed constables, in Mayo, employed to protect a shepherd and a female assistant in tending their master's sheep in the field, which is a fact rivalling the history of Captain Boycott's harvest-home. Half a dozen sketches of the ordinary habits and occupations of the Mayo peasantry are given, which are mostly from the seacoast; there is a girl with a creel or basket, fetching seaweed to use for manure; another maiden plying her domestic industry at the spinning-wheel; others driving or leading donkeys, which are much employed as pack-beasts there; while a farmer and his wife, together on horseback, ride into the village or little market town. The scene at Headford, in Galway, was sketched during the operations of the Relief Committee, some months ago. We shall probably give, from time to time, further Illustrations of the distressed and disturbed condition of the West of Ireland.

The wild mountain scenery of what is called "Joyce's Country," the district beyond Lough Mask to the shores of the Atlantic, and south of Clew Bay, has been admired by many visitors in less unhappy times. This district runs into Connemara, being partly in the county of Mayo and partly in Galway. There are twelve conspicuous summits, ranging from 1900 ft. to 2350 ft. in height, which are called the Twelve Pins, and of which many different collective views can be obtained from different sides. A few miles from the town of Westport, on Clew Bay, rises the grand peak which bears the name of Croagh Patrick, 2510 feet high, and its ascent is not very difficult. It commands a magnificent view of the bay, with its numerous green islands and headlands, and of the open sea far beyond. Croagh Patrick is also, for the Catholic peasantry, a noted place of religious pilgrimage.

THE IRISH STATE PROSECUTIONS.

We present this week portraits of three of the leading members of the Land League against whom the Government intend to proceed. These are Charles Stewart Parnell, Avondale House, Avondale, in the county of Wicklow, M.P.; Thomas Brennan, secretary of the Land League, mercantile clerk, Dublin; Joseph Gillis Biggar, merchant, Belfast, M.P. The other persons to be indicted are Timothy Daniel Sullivan, journalist, Dublin, M.P.; Thomas Sexton, Frederick-street, Dublin, M.P.; Patrick Egan, treasurer of the Land League, merchant, Clontarf; John Dillon, North Great George's-street, Dublin, M.P.; Michael O'Sullivan, assistant secretary of the Land League, Dublin; Michael Boyton, paid agent of the Land League, Kildare; Patrick Joseph Gordon, of Claremorris, shoemaker; Matthew Harris, of Galway, road contractor; John W. Nally, Mayo; John W. Welsh, Balla, shopkeeper; and J. Sheridan, Tubbercurry, publican. The venue is laid in Dublin. The informations lodged by the Attorney-General, Mr. Hugh Law, are very voluminous. There are nineteen counts. The defendants are charged generally with conspiracy to prevent the payment of rents, to defeat legal process for the enforcement of rent, to prevent the letting of farms from which tenants have been evicted, and to excite ill-will among her Majesty's subjects in Ireland.

The Crown will be represented by the law officers, Mr. Law (Attorney-General) and Mr. Johnson (Solicitor-General), the law adviser, Mr. John Naish, Q.C., Mr. A. M. Porter, Q.C., Mr. Heron, Q.C., and Mr. David Ross, counsel to the Attorney-General. The proceedings will be conducted by Mr. Lane Joynt, Crown and Treasury Solicitor, in conjunction with Mr. S. L. Anderson, Crown Prosecutor. It is understood that the Land League have engaged the services of Mr. V. B. Dillon, jun., as their solicitor. Messrs. M'Laughlin, Q.C., Mr. M'Donogh, Q.C., Mr. O'Brien, Q.C., Mr. Murphy, Q.C., and W. D. Andrews, Q.C., along with Mr. A. M. Sullivan, M.P., will be counsel for the defence.

Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell is eldest surviving son of the late Mr. John Henry Parnell, of Avondale, who was High Sheriff of the county of Wicklow in 1836. His mother was an American lady, Delia, only daughter of Admiral Charles Stewart, of the United States Navy. Mr. C. S. Parnell was born in 1846. He was educated at Magdalen College, Cambridge. He is a county magistrate, and was High Sheriff of Wicklow in 1874. He was elected M.P. for Meath in April, 1875, and has assumed the position of leader of the "Home Rule" party, and more recently of the "Land League." In April last he was elected simultaneously for the counties of Meath and Mayo, and for the city of Cork, but chose to sit for the last-named constituency.

Mr. Parnell, the professed enemy of Irish landlords, himself belongs to that class. His property is situate at Avondale, in the heart of Wicklow, and consists of 4678 statute acres, valued in the Government returns for 1873 at £1245 annually. The mansion of Avondale was built in 1779, and here the Parnell family have resided a hundred years past. The estate is bounded on the north by the Avonmore river, and on the south by the Avonbeg, and extends to where these waters—immortalised by Moore—meet in the Vale of Avoca. There are about thirty tenants on the Avondale estate, with holdings varying in extent from four acres upwards. Mr. Parnell besides has erected a saw-mill and turnery on his property, and for years past he has been making borings for lead, and in his latest attempt he has succeeded in striking the lode. A correspondent of a London Conservative paper says:—"I visited tenants at eight different points of the Parnell estate. Of these I found that two owed over three years' rent and two over one year. One possessed a lease for ever, two held leases for 200 years each, and three leases for thirty-one years each. In one or two instances the rents were above the Government valuation, but they were mostly below it. Every tenant, in addition, has been receiving a reduction of 20 per cent of the rent for some time past; and the tenants informed me that since the death of Mr. Parnell's father, in 1858, the rents have in several cases been permanently reduced. The Avonmore property is in settlement. New leases can be granted only for thirty-one years, and no fine can be taken on their renewal." He also gives a favourable account of the condition of the work-people employed in Mr. Parnell's saw-mill. The men and youths at work were, a few years ago, ordinary farm labourers. They all seemed exceedingly active and skilful; their industry is stimulated by a rate of wages increasing by a certain amount each year, with piece-work rates in very busy times."

Mr. Joseph Gillis Biggar is eldest son of Mr. Joseph Biggar, merchant, of Belfast, by Isabella, daughter of Mr. William Houston, of Ballyycarl, Antrim. He was born in 1828, and was educated at the Belfast Academy. He is a merchant in the provision trade; he has been a town councillor since 1871, and was formerly Chairman of the Belfast Water Commissioners. In February, 1874, he was elected M.P. for Cavan, as a Home Ruler, and was re-elected in the present year. The Portrait of Mr. Parnell is from a photograph by Mr. W. Cobb, of Woolwich; that of Mr. Biggar, from one by the London Stereoscopic Company.

THE COURT.

The return of the Court from the north has been deferred for a day or two. Her Majesty will hold a Council at Windsor next Saturday when Parliament will be further prorogued.

A dance was given by the Queen at Balmoral to the servants, tenants, and gillies of the Balmoral and Abergeldie estates in honour of the Prince of Wales's birthday, her Majesty and Princess Beatrice, with the ladies and gentlemen of the Household, being present.

Divine service was performed on Sunday at the castle by the Rev. David Strong, Minister of Hillhead church, Glasgow, in the presence of the Queen and the Princess, and the Royal Household.

The Right Hon. Hugh Childers left Balmoral on Monday.

Sir Charles and Lady Forbes, of Newe, and Sir John and Lady Clark have dined with her Majesty; and Captain H. E. Lacon, Lieutenant E. D. Mansell, and Lieutenant J. D. Hunt, of the 71st Highland Light Infantry, stationed at Ballater, have dined at the castle, and been presented to her Majesty.

The Queen and the Princess have taken their usual out-of-door exercise.

The following appointments to the Star of India have been made by her Majesty:—To be a Knight Grand Commander—The Nawab of Bahawulpur. To be Companions—Sirdar Bakhshi Gunda Singh, of Patiala; the Dewan Ram Jas, of Kuppurtalla.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

A county ball was given at Sandringham yesterday week by the Prince and Princess of Wales, at which the principal families of the district, besides a large party staying at the house, were present; Messrs. Coote and Tinney's quadrille band attended. Princess Louise of Lorne and the Duchess of Edinburgh left early the same day for London. The next morning the Prince and Princess, with their guests, drove to Congham House, the seat of Mrs. Elwes, to the meet of the West Norfolk Hounds. There was a large field, and the Royal party joined the hunt. The Earl of Northbrook and Lady Emma Baring arrived at Sandringham on a visit. Their Royal Highnesses, with Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud and their guests, were at the service at St. Mary Magdalene's Church in the Park on Sunday morning, the Rev. F. Hervey and Canon W. F. Erskine Knollys, Rector of Wrotham, Kent, officiating. The Sandringham party broke up on Monday, and on Tuesday the Prince went on a visit to Mr. E. Birkbeck, M.P., and Mrs. Birkbeck, at Horstead. Thursday was a gala day at Norwich, the Prince coming to the Norwich Cattle Show. The progress of his Royal Highness was through the principal streets of the city, which were gaily decorated in his honour. The Prince lunched with Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P., president of the show, and Mrs. Colman, at their residence, Carrow House, Norwich.

The Prince and Princess will leave Sandringham on Monday next to travel, by way of Peterborough, to Luffenham station, from thence to proceed to Normanton Park, Rutland, there to remain for the week, as guests of Lord and Lady Aveland. A distinguished circle of guests is invited to meet their Royal Highnesses; and a grand ball on Friday will close the week's festivities. Their Royal Highnesses will leave Normanton Park on Saturday, Nov. 27, and will drive to Stamford on that day, on their way to London. Sketches of Normanton Park will appear in our Journal of next week.

Admiral the Duke of Edinburgh visited Sunderland on Tuesday, and inspected the coastguard and life brigades. He has also inspected Whitby and other stations.

Prince William of Prussia paid a visit to Portsmouth last week, being the guest of Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar. He inspected the forts at Spithead, also the Inflexible, the Dreadnought, and the dockyard. The Prince returned to Cumberland Lodge yesterday week, and the same evening, with Prince Christian, dined with Colonel Keith Fraser and the officers of the 1st Life Guards at their quarters in the Cavalry Barracks, Windsor. Princess Christian and Prince William, Princess Victoria of Holstein-Augustenburg, and Princess Caroline Matilda attended the five o'clock service at St. George's Chapel on Sunday. On Tuesday Princess Christian and Prince William came to London, and in the evening went to the Lyceum Theatre.

Prince Leopold went to the Lyceum Theatre yesterday week.

The Duke and Duchess of Teck, with their children, have arrived at Kensington Palace, after a two-months' visit to the Countess of Hopetoun, at Hopetoun House, Linlithgow.

The Duchess of Westminster has arrived at Bournemouth.

A marriage is arranged between Mr. F. A. Beauclerk, late 60th Rifles, second son of the late Lord Frederick Beauclerk, of Little Grimsby Hall, Lincolnshire, and Miss Dickson, eldest daughter of the late Admiral John Dickson, of Ryde; the marriage of the Hon. W. St. John Brodrick, M.P., with the Hon. Hilda Charteris will take place at St. James's, Piccadilly, on the 4th proximo; and that of the Hon. Arnold Keppel, Scots Guards, with Miss Gertrude Egerton early in January.

HOME NEWS.

General the Marquis of Hertford has been elected a member of council of the Oxford Military College.

Mr. Thomas Meekham has been unanimously elected chairman of the Licensed Victuallers' Asylum for the ensuing year.

The heavy rains recently has caused a general renewal of the floods.

Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire, will preside at the annual festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution on Feb. 23, 1881.

Mr. A. G. C. Liddell, of the Inner Temple, has been appointed junior counsel to the Mint and Post-office at the Durham, Northumberland, and Newcastle Assizes.

Mark Firth, the well-known philanthropist and benefactor to his native town of Sheffield, was on Tuesday seized with paralysis, and lies in a critical state.

The War Office has lately purchased £12,000 of Consols, in the name of the Secretary of State for War, out of the fund accumulated from the unclaimed balances of deceased soldiers.

The Earl of Shaftesbury has issued an earnest appeal for subscriptions to enable the work of the Ragged School Union to be carried on efficiently.

An important Royal Warrant, amending in some respects the warrants of May 1, Aug. 3, Dec. 31, 1878, and Jan. 10. 1880, regarding the pay of the Regular forces, has been issued from the War Office.

At the opening meet of the Duke of Hamilton's harriers at Easton Park, Suffolk, on Monday, a handsome claret service was presented to his Grace in acknowledgment of his liberality in providing sport for many years.

The annual Poultry and Pigeon Show at the Crystal Palace which has been held this week is said to have been superior in some respects to the shows of previous years. A competitive trial of carrier pigeons formed a feature of this year's exhibition.

The opening meeting of the one hundred and twenty-seventh session of the Society of Arts was held on Wednesday evening, when the inaugural address was given by Mr. F. J. Bramwell, F.R.S., Chairman of the Council.

A meeting of the general committee formed for the purpose of carrying out an international horticultural exhibition in Manchester, in the autumn of next year, was held on Tuesday, when subscriptions to the amount of £1000 were announced.

The Gazette of yesterday week night publishes the new regulations which the Lords of the Treasury and the Postmaster-General have made for carrying out the recently-published scheme with respect to investments in Government Stock by depositors in savings banks.

We are requested to state that a copy of the first issue of the General Catalogue of the Melbourne International Exhibition, just received from Melbourne, may be inspected at the International Exhibition Offices (J. M. Johnson and Sons), 1, Castle-street, Holborn.

Dr. S. O. Habershon, senior physician, and Mr. J. Cooper Forster, senior surgeon, on the staff of Guy's Hospital, have placed their resignations in the hands of the Governors of that institution, in consequence of the course pursued in regard to the nursing arrangements.

On the recommendation of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Forster, the Prime Minister has granted £250 from the Royal Bounty and Special Service Fund to the widow of the late Dr. Robinson; and £150 to the mother of the late Dr. O'Donovan, of Skibbereen.

Mr. Saul Samuel, C.M.G., has arrived in London, to enter upon the duties of Agent-General for New South Wales. Mr. Samuel has been in several Administrations in that colony, having at various times during the last quarter of a century occupied the positions of Treasurer and Postmaster-General.

On Wednesday afternoon Lewis Gibson, of Putney, and George Tarryer, of Bermondsey, both watermen, sculled from Putney to Mortlake for £50 a side. Gibson led to the Point, where Tarryer joined issue, and, after a fine race to Chiswick, Gibson went away and won easily.

Dr. W. Collingridge, Medical Officer of Health to the Port of London, is giving a course of practical lectures in connection with the St. John's Ambulance Association to the employés of Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin, at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street.

A final dividend of 9½d. in the pound has been announced in connection with the bankruptcy of Messrs. Harvey and Hudsons, bankers, Norwich, who failed for upwards of £1,700,000 in July, 1870. The total return to the creditors has been 14s. 3½d. in the pound.

A meeting of the City Commission of Sewers was held on Tuesday, at which the Court adopted a report of the Streets Committee, recommending that tenders should be accepted for the electric lighting of the City, and that the area to be lighted should be divided into three districts.

Lieut.-General Sir Frederick S. Roberts arrived in England on Tuesday from India. At Dover and in London he was enthusiastically cheered by large assemblages, and he received a congratulatory and eulogistic address from the Dover Town Council, to which he replied.

A new club for London cabdrivers, named the Centaur Club, was thrown open, in full working order, last Saturday. The premises devoted to the club and the offices of the Amalgamated Cabdrivers' Society have frontages in Poland-street, Oxford-street, looking down Great Marlborough-street, and in Noel-street, Berwick-street. They are four storeys in height, with a basement which extends the entire depth—some 140 feet, and contain a large number of rooms devoted to refreshments, billiards, bagatelle, lavatories, and smoking.

Digitized by Google

An adjourned conference of delegates from vestries and district boards on the question of the water supply of London was held on Tuesday, in St Martin's Vestry-Hall, when a memorial was adopted praying for the creation of a water trust in the metropolis.

A War Office order sets forth at great length the changes which have been occasioned in the volunteer force during the official year just closed by the consolidation of all the administrative brigades and battalions and the extensive renumbering necessitated by the dying out of many small corps during the last twenty years.

The nomination of sheriffs took place yesterday week in the Exchequer Division of the High Court of Justice. The names were read by the Queen's Remembrancer, and the sheriffs were selected by several members of the Government and some of the Judges, including the Prime Minister, who appeared in the robes of a Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The arrivals at Liverpool of live stock and fresh meat from the United States and Canada last week were—of live stock an increase and of fresh meat a decrease when compared with the preceding week; the totals being 1551 cattle, 1693 sheep, 671 pigs, 4027 quarters of beef, 702 carcases of mutton, and 275 dead pigs.

The whole of the printing, together with the supply of the paper, for the forthcoming Census for England and Wales has been undertaken by Messrs. McCorquodale and Co. There will be 7,527,500 householders' schedules, 79,350 numerating books, and 110,000 forms for vessels, the amount of paper that will be required being 57 tons 13 cwt.

It is proposed to hold a conference of the managers of reformatory and industrial schools on Tuesday, the 30th inst., in the board-room of the School Board for London, to take into consideration "the present state of the law concerning the treatment and punishment of juvenile offenders, under the general criminal statutes and the Reformatory and Industrial Schools Acts."

At the weekly meeting of the School Board for London last week, Sir Charles Reed, M.P., presiding, Mr. Edward North Buxton, for several years chairman of the Bye-laws Committee, was elected vice-chairman of the Board in the place of the late Rev. J. Rodgers. Mr. Mark Wilks has been elected chairman of the School Management, and Dr. Richardson, the new member, has been elected a member of the Works Committee.

Mr. W. W. Hunter, C.I.E., Director-General of Statistics to the Government of India, gave yesterday week his second and concluding address in Edinburgh on "What the English have yet to do for the Indian people." The previous address was devoted to the poverty of the Indian people; that of yesterday week was directed to the difficulties which that poverty gives rise to in the government of the country.

Two gold medals of the Royal Humane Society were on Monday presented at Huddersfield to Henry and Henry John Weintys, father and son, who were instrumental in saving a man from drowning in August last. The Weintys were fishing in a reservoir, when a lunatic rushed down a hill and threw himself into the water. Another person who was following, unable to stop himself, fell in also. The Weintys found the two struggling, and were able to rescue one alive.

The late Lord Mayor of London has remitted to the Executive Committee at Newport, Monmouthshire, of which Lord Tredegar is the chairman, £7317 18s. 7d., being the result of the collection made at the Mansion House during his year of office for the relief of the sufferers by the Risca Colliery accident. Sir Francis Truscott has also forwarded to the Lord Lieutenant of Cornwall £1085 11s. in aid of the Truro Cathedral fund. The Atalanta and the Rowland Hill funds will not be closed for some time to come.

To the list of new Mayors given in this Paper last week the following are to be added:—The new Mayor of Bristol is Mr. Joseph Dodge Weston; of Cambridge, Mr. Alderman Death, who had served twice previously; of Dorchester, Mr. W. Durdan; of Liverpool, Alderman W. B. Forwood; of Oxford, Councillor Lowe, Councillor Banting being chosen sheriff; of Preston, Alderman Hibbert; of Queenborough, Mr. Josiah Hall, J.P., who also served the office last year; and of Southwold, Mr. J. Eustace Grubbe.

In the Chancery Division last Saturday a point was raised upon a condition of the will of a Miss Mary Elizabeth Turner, who devised large real estates, first to her father on trust for life, and then to her brother, on condition that he should not at any time marry a domestic servant, or anybody who had been of that condition. The opinion of the Court was that the testatrix's brother, by marrying a person who had been his housekeeper, had contravened the terms of the will, and that the plaintiffs had made out their claim to the property.

The annual general meeting of the members of the Oxfordshire Agricultural Society was held last Saturday, at the Townhall, Oxford; and among those present were the president for the ensuing year, Mr. George Herbert Morrell, J.P., of Headington Hill Hall, who occupied the chair; the Earl of Jersey, and a large number of the tenant farmers of the county. The Duke of Marlborough was unanimously elected president of the society for the year 1882. A deputation attended from Thame asking the society to hold the 1881 show in that town, and offering a contribution of £200 to the funds, together with some special prizes and a suitable show-ground. It was agreed to hold the next show at Thame.

On the first day on which the Lord Mayor sat at the Mansion House, the City Press says that £1000 was handed to him, to be disposed of as his Lordship might think fit.—The Lord Mayor requests us to state, in regard to this paragraph, that the £1000 in question was sent to him by a friend in America for a special religious object, and that he is only intrusted with the duty of forwarding it to its destination. This must be taken as an answer to the shoals of applications to the Lord Mayor for participation in the distribution of the amount.—The Citizen states that the late Sir Francis Lycett will be long remembered for his liberality to the religious cause with which he was associated. One of his last acts was to hand a cheque for £7000 to the Rev. Gervase Smith, D.D., for the Wesleyan Chapel Building Fund.

In London last week 2538 births and 1636 deaths were registered. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 80 below, whereas the deaths exceeded by 17, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 17 from smallpox, 47 from measles, 84 from scarlet fever, 16 from diphtheria, 17 from whooping-cough, 22 from different forms of fever, and 21 from diarrhœa; thus to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class 224 deaths were referred, against 210 and 186 in the two preceding weeks. These deaths were 12 below the corrected average number from the same diseases in the corresponding week of the last ten years. In Greater London 3128 births and 1969 deaths were registered. The mean temperature of the air was 43 deg., being 2·9 deg. above the average.

Extra Supplement.

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.

The Saxon Chronicle informs us that, in the year 655, Oswy, King of Northumbria, having defeated and killed the heathen Penda, King of Mercia, this event produced the Benedictine monastery of Peterborough, the first that was erected in the midland and east-midland shires of England. Peada, the son of Penda, had embraced the Christian religion, and was permitted by Oswy to reign in Mercia in his father's stead. He founded this monastery, as he was bidden by Oswy to do, choosing a site at Medeshamstede, on the river Nene, in North Gyrwa-land, overlooking a wide expanse of fen country to the east of Northamptonshire. The two Kings, with their own hands, "began the ground wall and wrought thereto." The brother of Peada, Wulfere, who succeeded him three or four years later, and Ethelred, the next King of Mercia, continued to favour the rising monastery. It was completed, and was dedicated to St. Peter, St. Paul, and St. Andrew, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Rochester, and other prelates. The first Abbot was Saxulf, who became Bishop of Mercia in 674. Great privileges and high precedence were conferred by the Pope on this monastic establishment. It was sacked and destroyed by the Danes, under Hubba, in 870, but was rebuilt by Athelwold, Bishop of Winchester, in 966. From that time it was called Peterborough, and the epithet of "Golden" was added, from part of the Minster roof having been gilt by Abbot Leofric, a relative of King Edward the Confessor. This prelate was a mighty pluralist, holding five monasteries at once—Burton, Coventry, Crowland, Thorney, and Peterborough. His successor, Abbot Brand, was uncle to Hereward the Saxon, and knighted that champion, who nevertheless did not scruple to drive out the Norman Abbot Thorold and carry off the relics and treasure of this wealthy monastery.

The Abbots of Peterborough lived in great prosperity through the Norman, Plantagenet, and first Tudor reigns, became immensely rich, and built what is now the Cathedral. Its present choir was begun in 1116, by Abbots John of Seez and Martin of Bec; the transept and nave are later Norman, by Abbot William de Waterville and Abbot Benedict. The Early English west front, with its three grand arches forming a magnificent porch, was probably built from 1200 to 1222, by Acharius and Robert of Lindsey, successive Abbots; it seems coeval with the west porch at Ely and the chapter-house at Lincoln. These arches are 81 ft. high, supported by triangular piers, entirely detached from the west wall; and they are flanked at each side by a square turret, with spire and pinnacles, to the height of 156 ft., which is equal to the length of this façade; the arches support gables, each holding a circular window, and all the details are very noble and graceful. This is the unique and most characteristic feature of Peterborough Cathedral, which is seen very well from the Great Northern Railway trains at the station there. The later portion of the building is the east aisle, of Perpendicular architecture, commenced by Abbot Ashton, in 1438, and completed by Abbot Kirton from 1496 to 1528.

The last Abbot, John Chambers, resigned this place to King Henry VIII. in 1540. As Queen Katharine of Arragon had been buried here in 1585, the church was spared, and became the Cathedral of a new Bishopric, to which the late Abbot was preferred. Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, was also buried here in 1587, after her execution at Fotheringay Castle, but her body was removed to Westminster Abbey in 1612.

THE SURRENDER OF DULCIGNO.

What there is to be said of the surrender of Dulcigno, up to Wednesday evening of this week, is neither more nor less than the following: that Dulcigno has not been surrendered. When it will be, whether it will ever be, and almost whether there be such a place, notwithstanding the Sultan's assurances to Mr. Gladstone on Lord Mayor's Day, begins to seem doubtful. It is a long time since first we heard of it, and we should all be very happy to hear the last of it. There must be such a seaport town on the Adriatic coast, though it is said to be a very small one. Perhaps it is so diminutive that the Sublime Porte cannot readily find out where to lay hands upon it, or it would else have been picked up and delivered to the Principality of Montenegro—which is not itself very big—according to the diplomatic promise lately put on record. There is an international or European Naval Force, making a demonstration somewhere—we believe in the Austrian port of Cattaro, with a view to this consummation, but the wind has been blowing rather hard for several weeks, and the report of its victories has not been heard at this distance. It is scarcely more likely to have reached the ears of the Turks or Albanians at Scutari, who are certainly there, and some of them still at Dulcigno. For the reader may see, by our present Illustration, which is from a Sketch by our own Special Artist, that there is a camp of Turkish troops who have a portable smithy, for the repair of any such article as an iron hook belonging to an army waggon, with which a soldier appears to be just now rather busy. If the Sultan should take a fancy to order them, for a change, henceforth to beat their swords and bayonets into ploughshares, they would no doubt be able to do it, at the blacksmith's forge which has been set up in camp. It would be all the same to the settlement of the Dulcigno question; for we may rely upon it that Dervish Pasha is not going to apply force of arms to make the Albanians give up that town to Montenegrin "dogs." Sooner or later, something or other will, perhaps, be done, or perhaps let alone, and the concert of Europe will, at last, obtain its triumphant vindication.

The above remarks may be deemed less serious than is becoming "the gravity of the crisis," as politicians say; but one is tempted to think the Turkish Government is playing with the whole affair. Yet the latest "Reuter" from Constantinople, dated last Tuesday, runs as follows, with a rather portentous air:—"Dervish Pasha telegraphs that the military cordon formed by the Turkish troops around Dulcigno is now complete. No armed person will be permitted to enter the town, and Dervish Pasha has announced his determination to shoot all who attempt to force their way through." It is not stated whether the Albanians or the Montenegrins are to be warned by this proclamation. We also learn that an Austrian Lloyd's steamer arrived at Cattaro on Monday with 170 cases of rifles and 600,000 cartridges for Montenegro. It brought news that a large body of Turks is encamped near St. Giovanni di Medua, where fifteen trading vessels are unloading provisions for the army. This is the port of Scutari, to the south of Dulcigno.

Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., M.P., presided at the annual meeting of the Society of Cymmrodorion, at the Freemasons' Tavern, last week. The report of the Council showed that the Society was steadily increasing in prosperity and usefulness. The preparation of a new Bibliographia Cambrensis formed an important item in the programme of the ensuing season's work.

FINE ARTS.

A notice of the Hanover Gallery is unavoidably postponed.

Mr. R. P. Bell and Mr. George Aikman have been elected Associates of the Royal Scottish Academy.

Mr. Hubert Herkomer, A.R.A., on Tuesday night distributed the prizes and certificates to the students of the Leicester School of Art, and delivered an address.

M. Lefevre, of King-street, St. James's, has issued a very fine etching by M. Paul Rajon, after the drawing by L. Alma-Tadema, R.A., entitled "The Bath—Strigils and Sponges." If it were not for the rather overpowering blackness of the boy and dolphin, the etching would be faultless.

Amongst the numerous tempting novelties coming forth to attract the notice of Christmas-present-buyers is one issued by Mr. Macmichael, of South Audley-street, being a box of correspondence cards, with envelopes to match, stamped with various artistic designs, representing birds, animals, &c.

Anything more daintily graceful than Messrs. De la Rue's Christmas and New-Year's cards it would be difficult to conceive. Of the various specimens sent most are characterised by quiet elegance, with touches here and there of quaint conceit, the comic element not being wholly absent; and in all, design and workmanship are alike excellent.—Well deserving of praise also are the cards issued by Messrs. Hildersheimer and Faulkner. A few are possibly too florid; but the bulk of them, figure-subjects and flowers, are chastely designed and delicately coloured.—The floral cards of Messrs. Poulton and Son, hand-painted, are worthy of note.

The American Art Review is, as usual, full of clever illustrations. Mr. Linton concludes his "History of Wood-Engraving in America," in which he has displayed much sound, healthy criticism. If American wood-engravers will lay Mr. Linton's advice to heart, they may found a school of engraving that has never been equalled since the art began; but they must give up attempts to make their work look like photographs, and engrave less finely, so that their blocks need not require special paper and special printing to make them at all intelligible.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING NOV. 27.

SUNDAY, NOV. 21.

Twenty-sixth Sunday after Trinity.
Princess Royal of Great Britain and Germany born, 1840.
Morning Lessons: Eccles. xi. and xii.; Hebrews xiii. Evening Lessons: Hag. ii. 1—10, or Mal. iii. and iv.; John vii. 1—25.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Humphry; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Gregory; 7 p.m., Rev. Preben lary Sadler.
St. James's, noon, Rev. G. G. Bradley.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. W. L. Blackley, Rector of North Waltham; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Farrar.
Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. Prebendary Wordsworth.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Charles J. Martyn, Rector of Long Melford, Suffolk.
Temple Church, 11 a.m., uncertain; 3 p.m., Rev. A. Ainger, the Reader.

MONDAY, NOV. 22.

Strangers' Friend Society, anniversary, 6 p.m.
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor A. H. Church on the Scientific and Artistic Aspects of Pottery and Porcelain).
Royal Academy, 8 p.m., Professor Marshall on the Skeleton (and on the 24th and 26th).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Geographical Society, 8.30 p.m. (Sir Bartle Frere on Temperate Southern Africa as a Route to the Central Equatorial Region).
Institution of Surveyors, 8 p.m.
Hull and East Riding Cattle Show (five days).
Races: Warwick Races.

TUESDAY, NOV. 23.

Sheriffs' Fund Society, Old Bailey, anniversary, noon.
Anthropological Institute, 8 p.m. (Dr. Paul Topinard on Anthropometry; Mr. C. S. Wake on the Origin of the Malagasy).
Institution of Civil Engineers, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. P. Maxwell on New Zealand Government Railways; Mr. J. R. Mosse on Ceylon Government Railways).
Medical and Chirurgical Society, 8.30.
West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m. (Mr. S. Bidwell on Mr. Graham Bell's Photophone).
South-place Institute, 7 p.m. (Mr. W. C. Coupland on Ethical Principles; 8.30 p.m., Dr. E. B. Aveling on Biology).
Tredegar Agricultural and Poultry Show.
Manchester Races.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 24.

Royal Society of Literature, 8 p.m. (Mr. F. G. Fleay on the Living Key to English Spelling Reform now Found in History and Etymology).
Society of Telegraph Engineers, 8 p.m.
Hunterian Society, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. Comyns Carr on Barry's Influence on English Art).
Builth Dog and Poultry Show.
International Gun and Polo Club, Brighton, special meeting and ball.
London Ballad Concerts begin, St. James's Hall, 8 p.m.

THURSDAY, NOV. 25.

Moon's last quarter, 2.5 a.m.
National Benevolent Institution, anniversary, elections, 10.30 a.m.
Infant Orphan Asylum, Wanstead, elections, Cannon-street Hotel, 10 a.m.
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Philosophical Club, 6.30 p.m.
Society of Antiquaries, 8.30 p.m.
Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.
Kempton Park Races.

FRIDAY, NOV. 26.

Princess Maud of Wales born, 1869.
City of London College, 6 p.m. (Dr. N. Heinemann on Political Economy—Market Values).
Colonial Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. T. B. H. Berkeley on the Leeward Islands, West Indies).
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
Westbourne Park Institute, evening (Professor H. Morley on "George Eliot").
Clinical Society, 8.30 p.m.
South Kensington Museum, 2.30 p.m. (Professor Ernst Pauer on the History of Pianoforte Playing).

SATURDAY, NOV. 27.

Princess Mary Adelaide of Cambridge, Duchess of Teck, born, 1833.
Botanic Society, 3.45 p.m.
Birmingham Cattle and Poultry Show (five days).
Physical Society, 3 p.m.

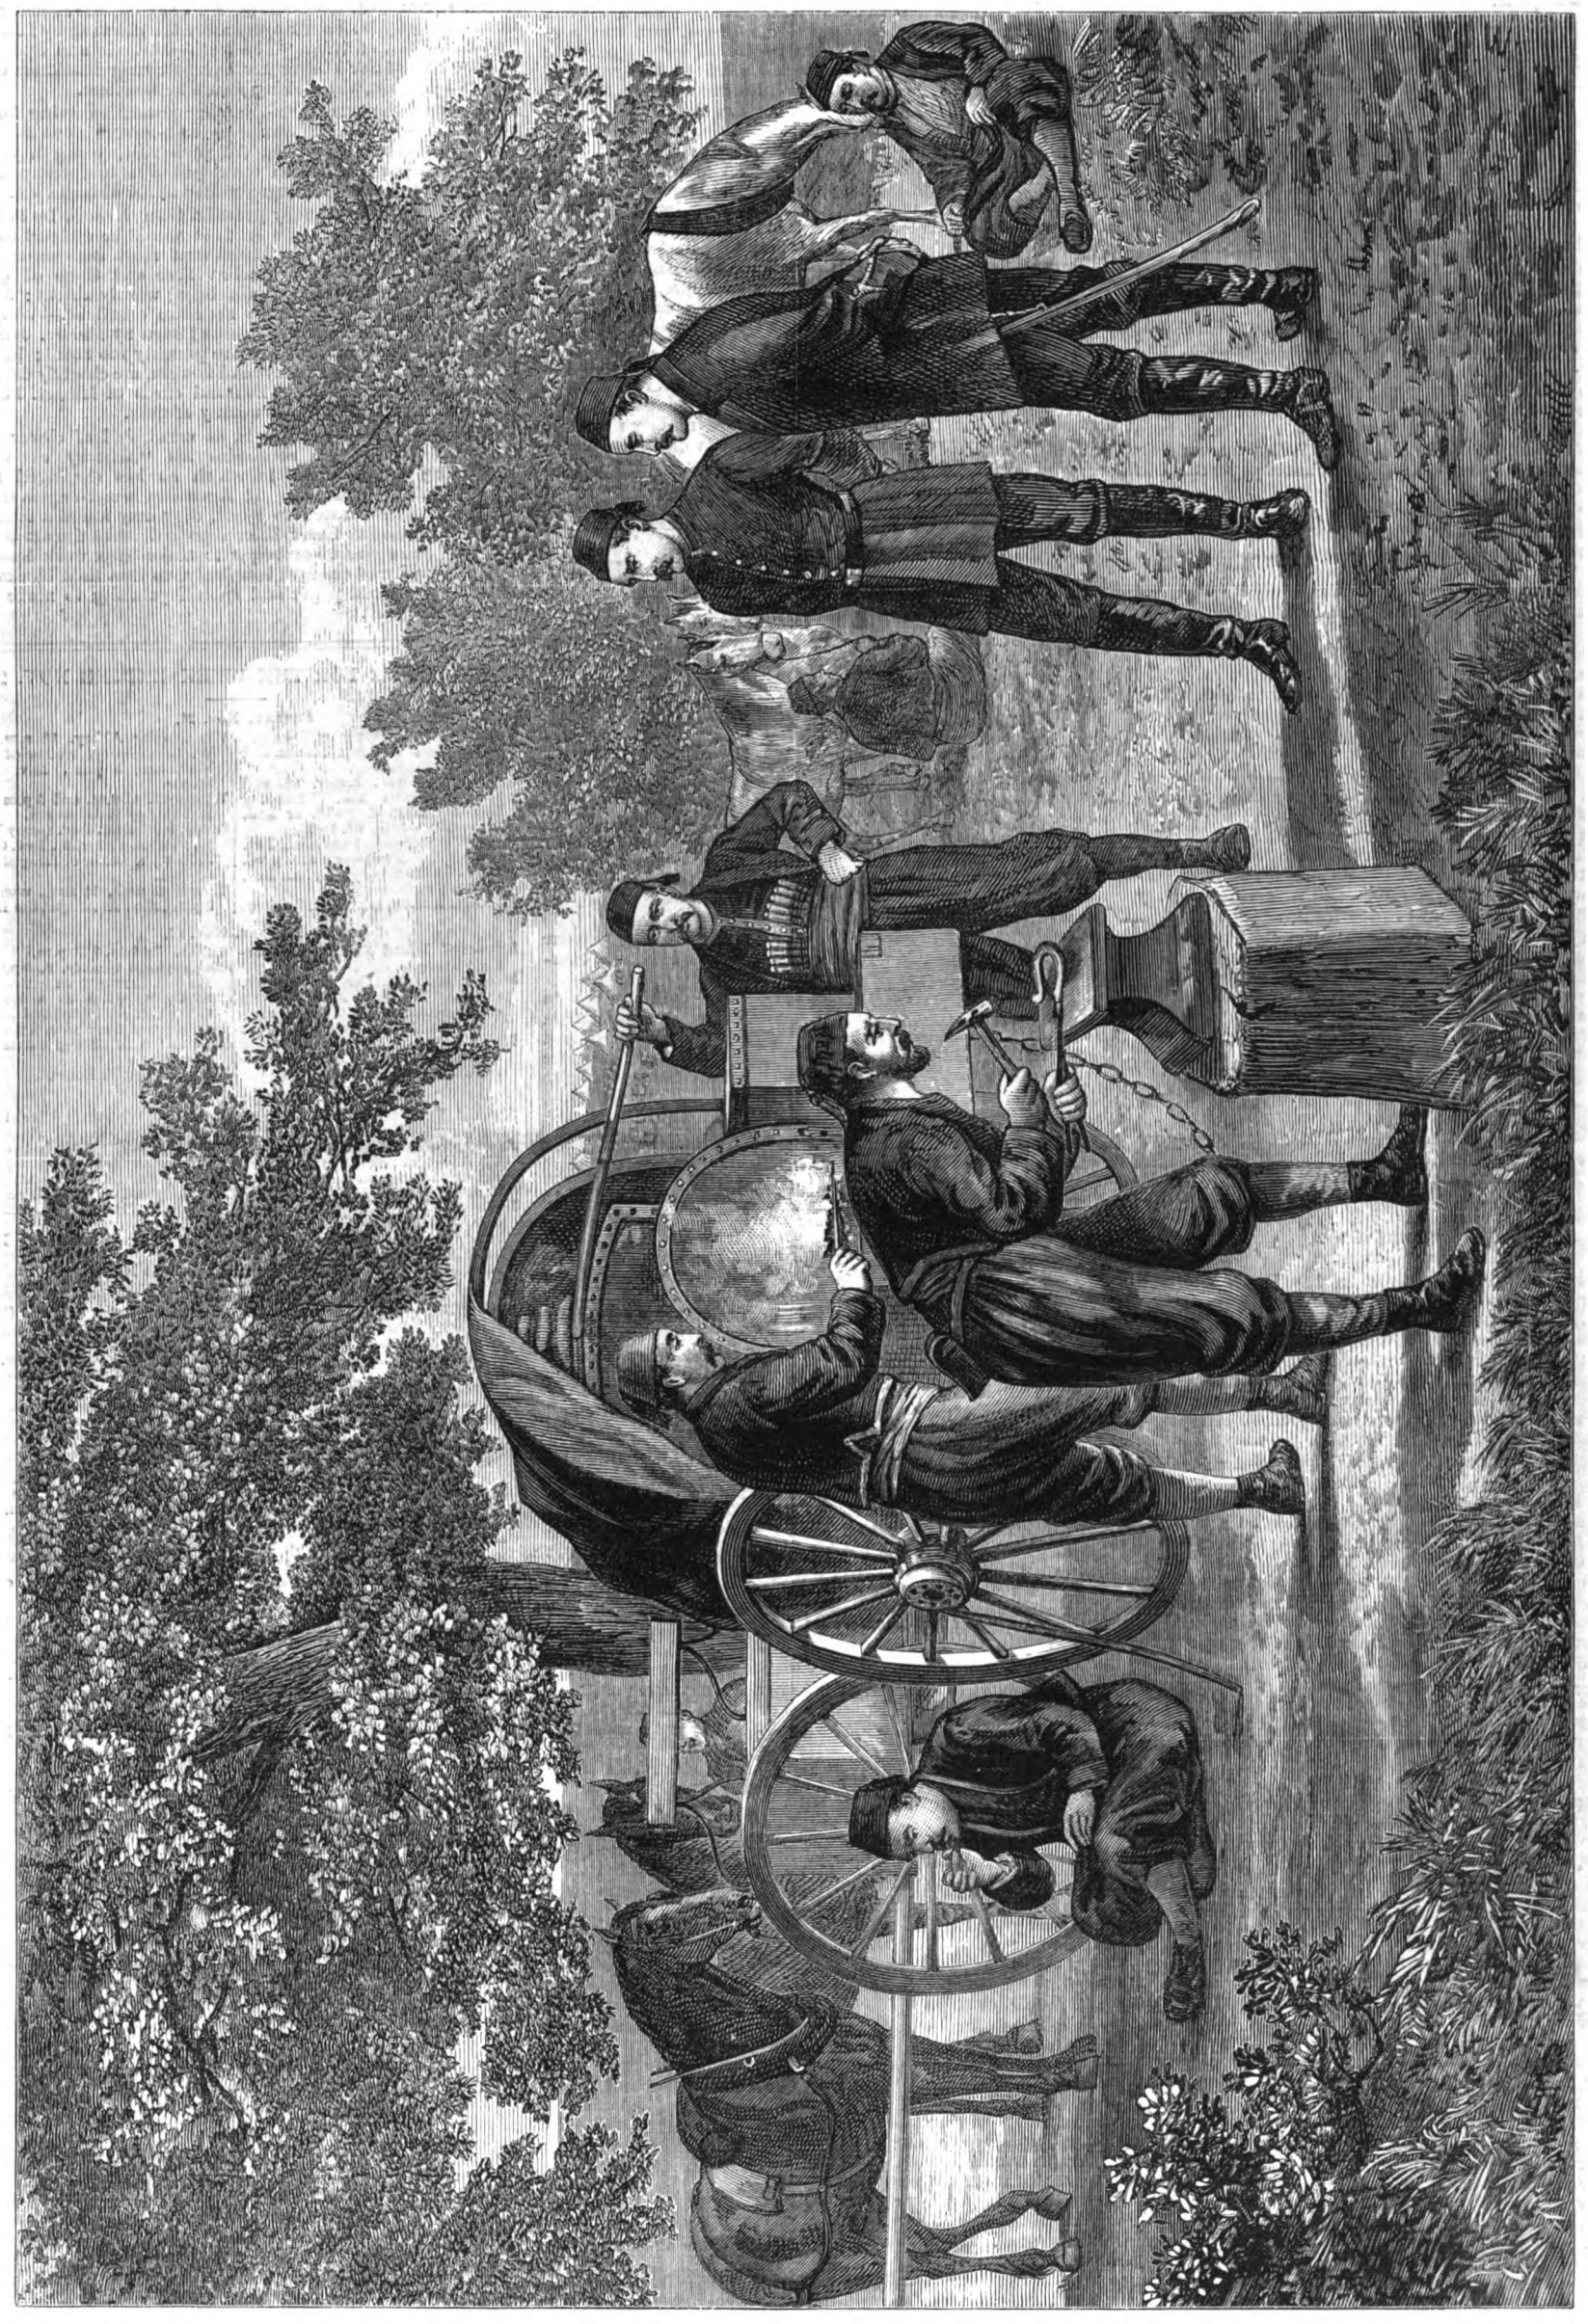
THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM.: Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	WIND: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Nov. 7	30·177	47·9	42·0	81	10	51·5	42·5	SW.	238	0·100
8	30·293	40·8	32·9	76	3	50·0	34·9	N. NNE.	223	0·000
9	30·176	36·8	31·0	81	8	43·7	28·5	NNE. SW.	296	0·005
10	30·092	44·0	37·5	80	7	50·5	36·0	WSW. NW.	153	0·045
11	30·033	48·4	48·0	98	10	52·7	37·6	NW. SSW. SW.	206	0·065
12	29·953	51·0	47·2	88	10	55·8	46·7	SW. WSW.	264	0·010
13	29·718	55·0	50·7	86	10	58·0	50·0	SW	553	0·010

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—



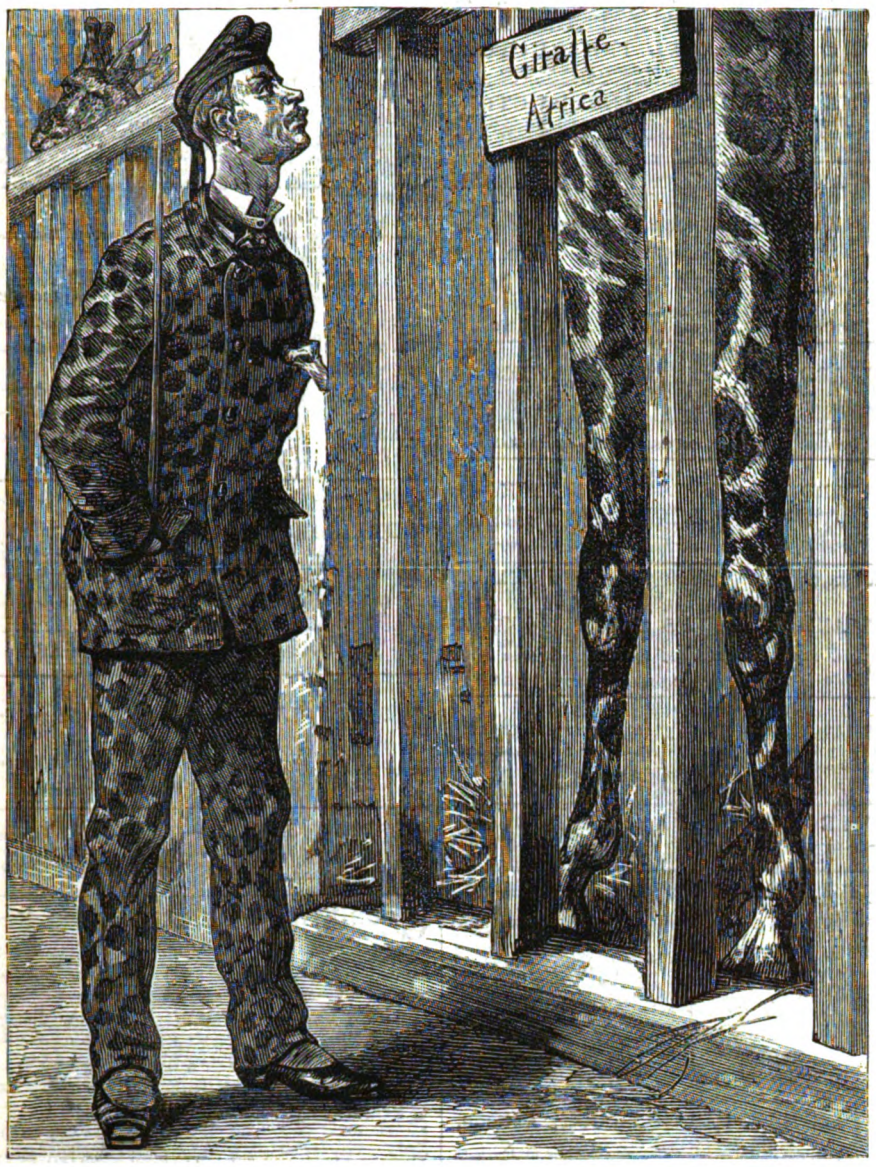
Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·232	30·221	30·316	30·065	30·061	29·949
Temperature of Air	47·59	45·72	33·4	47·40	49·67	51·8
Temperature of Evaporation ..	44·9	41·39	31·7	43·10	48·67	50·7
Direction of Wind	SW.	N.	NNE.	WNW.	SSW.	SW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING NOVEMBER 27.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m
4 13	4 30	4 47	5 5	5 25	5 45	6 8	6 30	6 55	7 17	7 52	8 25	9 2	9 36

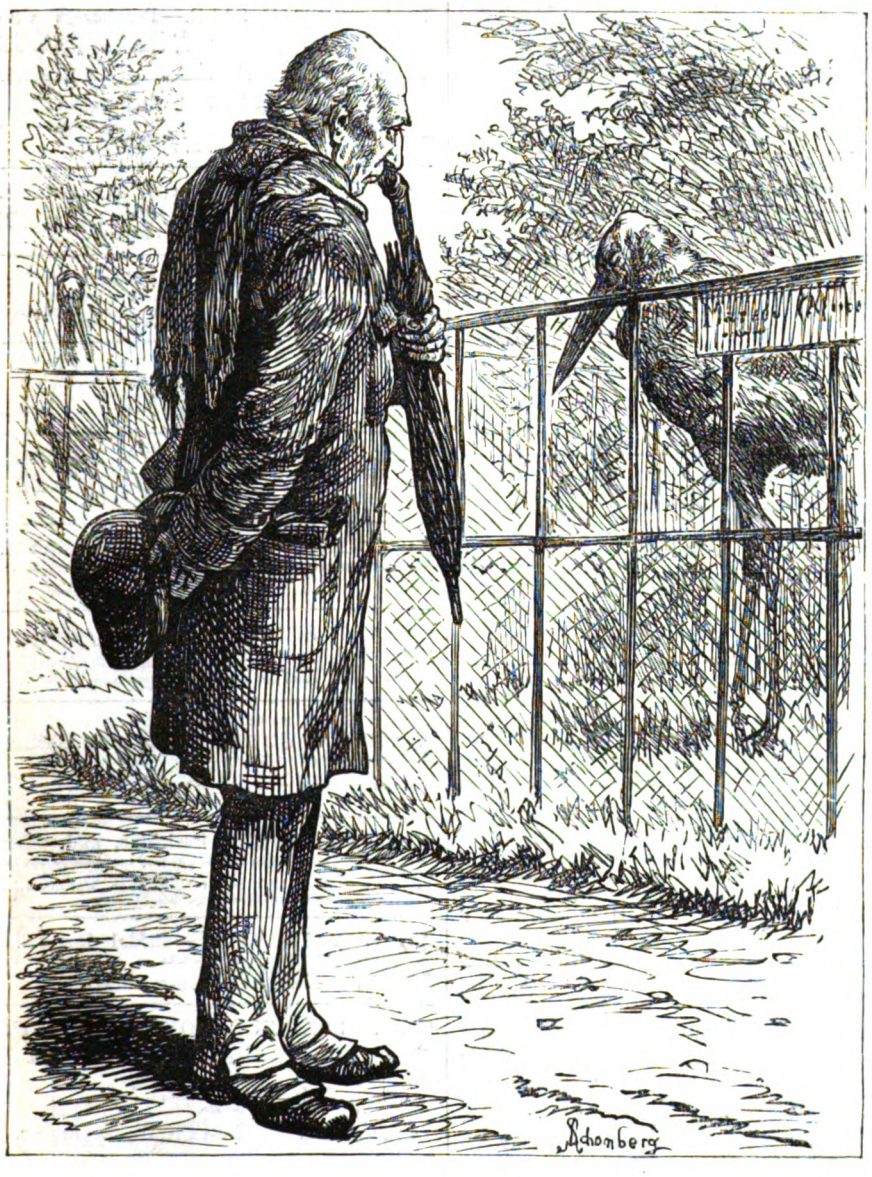
Digitized by Google



BLACKSMITH'S FORGE IN THE TURKISH CAMP NEAR DULCIGNO.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

Digitized by Google

ODD SKETCHES AT THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS.



SEE NEXT PAGE.

A COUNTERFEIT PRESENTMENT.

THE GOATEE BEARD.

THE MEDITATIVE MARABOU.

MINERVA AND HER OWL.

Digitized by Google

ODD ZOOLOGICAL SKETCHES.

The satirical observer and critic of human physiognomy who may have exercised his vocation in daily walks through the crowded streets of London will find new matter for sly and subdued mirth, yet in the vein of melancholy Jaques, with a tincture of misanthropic depreciation of his kind, by scrutinising many visitors at our popular "Zoo." For it demands but a little fanciful ingenuity to detect in their features and carriage the queerest unconscious resemblance to some of the irrational creatures, as we esteem them, which are imported from every distant region of the earth for the delight of admiring curiosity in the Regent's Park Gardens. An endless store could be gathered of these accidental odd likenesses; which are sometimes produced, for the moment only, by the effect of a single attitude; or which may be the result of some arrangement of costume; but which seem, in other cases, to betray a subtle affinity of temper and moral disposition. One of our Artists, a man of travelled experiences in many cities and nations, has made bold to delineate a few suggestive instances of this department in the study of animal and human characters, which we hope will not be misapplied to any malicious uses of personal ridicule, among their private acquaintance, by the giddy and thoughtless part of the reading public. It was an unfortunate taste in the choice of summer attire, to be sure, which induced that tall and lanky gentleman to clothe himself in a suit of "dittos" blazing with large brown spots, when he was going to stand beside the lofty giraffe, and to stretch his long neck almost to the top of the bars. The New Englander, or Yankee, wearing his beard cut in the American fashion called a "goutee," might as well have been warned away from too ready a comparison with the hairy appendage that hangs from the nether jaw of a hirsute and hircine quadruped, familiar alike to the Old World and the New. Of the different species of cranes, with which these Zoological Gardens are so fully provided, the African Marabou is distinguished by an enormous beak, an apparent baldness of the head, and an air of profoundly absorbed meditation; but we feel quite sure that the venerable gentleman, with his umbrella put up to his nose, who stands deeply thinking beside its railed inclosure, had no design of mocking imitation at the expense of that solemn bird. Nor is it to be supposed that Mrs. Tabitha Teacham, the elderly lady who has retired from keeping Minerva House boarding-school, would come to the Zoo, of all places, to look for a fit companion in the aviary here: though she is perfectly skilled in all the lore of Lemprière's Classical Dictionary, and she knows well enough that the Athenian owl was Minerva's own favourite bird.

In the Common Pleas Division on Tuesday an action to recover damages for alleged libel was opened before Lord Coleridge and a special jury. The plaintiff was Dr. Charles Rogers, a minister of the Established Church of Scotland, and the defendant was Mr. Colin Rae Brown, who had commented upon the conduct of the plaintiff with reference to his connection with the movement for erecting a monument to William Wallace. The jury stopped the case, and returned a verdict for the defendant.

Mr. Caird, the president of the Statistical Society, opened the winter session on Tuesday night by an address on the agricultural interest as affected by American competition. He regards the competition as in its infancy. The paper abounded with some very interesting statistics as to the growth of the competition and the cost of the transit of grain from the Far West to this country. He dwelt briefly on Lord Cairns's Land Bills, but he did not think they would meet the real evil, which was the existence of limited ownership. Comparing the loss to the agriculturist in Ireland with that to the English farmer and landowner, he calculated that the loss of capital in Ireland would not bear a moment's comparison with that which had been sustained in this country.—Mr. Henry Percy Potter, F.R.C.S., of St. Thomas's Hospital, has been awarded the Howard Medal for 1880 of the Statistical Society, with the sum of £20, for a competitive essay.

HER GRACE THE LATE DOWAGER DUCHESS OF SOMERSET'S EXTENSIVE and HISTORICAL WARDROBE having been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. LEWIS DAVIS, of 2, Crawford-street, Baker-street, W., will be SOLD by AUCTION, by Messrs. LEWIS DAVIS and SONS, at the Grand Galleries, 3, Princes-street, Leicester-square, W., on DEC. 7, 8, 9, and 10, 1880; on view four days prior. The Wardrobe and Jewels comprise the most extraordinary ever displayed to public notice, consisting of magnificent Silk Velvet Coronation Robes, Jewelled Coronets, and Head-Dresses, antique Court Suits, artistically embroidered; Steel and other Court Swords; costly Indian Shawls; Spanish, Point, and other fine Laces; old Brocaded Velvet and Silk Court Trains; beautifully Embroidered Satchels, mounted in gold and silver; magnificent Lace Handkerchiefs, Silk Hose, Bonnets, Feathers, Flowers, &c., too numerous to mention (1000 lots), of the most recherché description. The nobility and gentry are respectfully invited to view the above by Catalogue, 1s.; by post, 13 stamps, of Mr. and Mrs. LEWIS DAVIS, 2, Crawford-street, Baker-street, W.

PRATT'S WATER PAD TRUSSES are the MOST EFFECTUAL CURE FOR RUPTURES. PRATT'S ELASTIC STOCKINGS, for VARICOSE VEINS, &c. J. F. PRATT, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

"THEY HAVE NO EQUAL."
This is the universal opinion of everybody who has tried DR. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, for bilious and liver complaints, indigestion, wind, spasms, foul breath, nervous depression, irritability, lassitude, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, heartburn, giddiness, dizziness of the eyes, &c. Being as mild and tonic in their action as they are certain in their curative effects.—Prepared by W. Lambert, 173, Seymour-place, London, W., in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d., and sold by all Chemists. The genuine are in square green packages. Take no other.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

MR. TENNYSON'S NEW VOLUME WILL BE PUBLISHED ON WEDNESDAY NEXT.

BALLADS, AND OTHER POEMS. BY ALFRED TENNYSON, POET LAUREATE.

Fcap 8vo, cloth, price 5s.

London: C. KEGAN PAUL and Co., 1, Paternoster-square.

Now ready, royal 8vo, price 28s.,
THE POWER OF SOUND. By EDMUND GURNEY, late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready, crown 8vo, 10s. 6d.,
THE POETRY OF ASTRONOMY. By RICHARD A. PROCTOR, Author of "The Borderland of Science," "Science Byways," &c. London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co, 15, Waterloo-place.

FOUR NEW WORKS OF TRAVEL.
ACROSS PATAGONIA. By Lady FLORENCE DIXIE. In 8vo, with Illustrations. [Immediately.
A LADY'S TOUR IN CORSICA. By GERTRUDE FORDE. 2 vols. 21s.
THE CORAL LANDS OF THE PACIFIC. By H. STONEHEWER COOPER. 2 vols. Demy 8vo, with Illustrations. 28s.
A TRIP UP THE NIGER AND BENUEH. By ADOLPHE BURDO. Demy 8vo, with Illustrations. 10s. 6d.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
LITTLE PANSY. By Mrs. RANDOLPH, Author of "Gentianella," &c.
DIMPLETHORPE. By the Author of "St. Olave's."
STRICTLY TIED UP.
LORD BRACKENBURY. By AMELIA B. EDWARDS, Author of "Barbara's History," &c. THIRD EDITION.
ROY AND VIOLA. By Mrs. FORRESTER, Author of "Viva," &c. THIRD EDITION.
GERALDINE AND HER SUITORS. By Mrs. SIMPSON, Author of "Winnie's History," &c. [Nov. 26.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

In Monthly Parts, price 7d.,
AN ENTIRELY NEW WORK, entitled
CASSELL'S OLD AND NEW EDINBURGH. A Narrative of its History, its People, and its Places. With ORIGINAL ILLUSTRATIONS, specially executed for the Work.
Part I. ready Nov. 25, 1880, price 7d.
"In Edinburgh—or Modern Athens, as it is often called—every step is historical; the memories of a remote and romantic past confront us at every turn and corner, and every spot is associated with some thrilling or heroic deed.
"To faithfully and adequately depict by pen and pencil so rich and rare a combination of subjects is no light undertaking; but the publishers hope, by the aid of the very able artists who have been enlisted in this congenial task, that it will be found that everything has been done which is possible within the range of this work to make it worthy of this great historic city, which can boast of more features of interest, old and new, than perhaps any other city in the world."—Extract from Prospectus.
Prospectuses at all Booksellers', or post-free from CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

DE LA RUE AND CO'S. ANNOUNCEMENTS.
BUNHILL ROW, LONDON, E.C.

Nov. 22. In Two Handsome Volumes, Demy 8vo, price 32s., with a Portrait by Paul Rajon, and other Illustrations.
THE LIFE OF SIR ROWLAND HILL, K.C.B., and the HISTORY OF PENNY POSTAGE. By Sir ROWLAND HILL and his Nephew GEORGE BIRKBECK HILL, D.C.L., Author of "Dr. Johnson: his Friends and his Critics," &c.

Now ready, in Royal 4to., cloth, extra gilt, price 6s.,
NEW ILLUSTRATED CHILDREN'S BOOK.
THE STORY OF PRINCE HILDEBRAND AND THE PRINCESS IDA. By Major T. S. SECCOMBE. With upwards of 110 Illustrations by the Author.

Now ready, crown 8vo, cloth, price 7s. 6d.,
VOYAGES OF THE ELIZABETHAN SEAMEN. A Selection from the Original Narratives in Hakluyt's Collection. Edited, with Historical Introduction, by E. J. PAYNE, M.A., Fellow of University College, Oxford.

Shortly. Demy 8vo, cloth, with Maps and numerous Original Etchings on Stone,
THE SHORES AND CITIES OF THE BODEN SEA. Rambles in 1879 and 1880. By SAMUEL JAMES CAPPER, Author of "Wanderings in War Time," &c.

Shortly, new Work by Dr. Guy, F.R.S, crown 8vo,
THE FACTORS OF THE UNSOUND MIND. With Special Reference to the Plea of Insanity in Criminal Cases, and the Amendment of the Law. By WILLIAM A. GUY, M.B., F.R.C.P., F.R.S.

Shortly, crown 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,
HISTORY OF GERMANY—POLITICAL, SOCIAL, AND LITERARY. Brought down to the Present Day. By the Rev. Dr. E. COBHAM BREWER, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Author of "History of France," "Guide to Science," &c.

Shortly, a new and improved Edition, cap 8vo, cloth, price 3s. 6d.,
LAWS OF SHORT WHIST, and a Treatise on the Game. By JAMES CLAY. THOS. DE LA RUE and Co., London.

Just published, demy 8vo, price 12s. 6d.,
ROUND THE WORLD IN 124 DAYS. By R. W. LEYLAND, F.R.G.S. With Map and Illustrations.—London: HAMILTON, ADAMS, and Co., Paternoster-row.

MISS BRADDON'S CHRISTMAS ANNUAL.
Price One Shilling, Illustrated.
THE MISLETOE BOUGH. The New Annual. By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret." London: J. and R. MAXWELL, Shoe-lane, Fleet-street.

1d. Weekly; Monthly Part, 5d.,
GARDENING ILLUSTRATED. — Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening. Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All Newsagents. Copy by post, 1½d. Vol. 1, 7s. 6d.
37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

Just published, Illustrated, post-free, 1s. 8d.,
DECORATIVE PAINTING. A Practical Guide to Decorating the Walls of any Apartment, Painting Panels, Screens, and Terra Cotta. By W. R. HARRISON.—WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

SCRAPS for SCREENS and SCRAP-BOOKS (Coloured).—Immense variety of Flowers, Figures Birds, and Landscapes, from 1s. per sheet; 1 doz. assorted, 10s. 6d. London: WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

SELF-CULTURE for ALL.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR, in WEEKLY NUMBERS and MONTHLY PARTS.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR. Numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, now ready, price 1d. each.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR. Part I. now ready, price 6d., containing a valuable CHART of the HISTORY of the WORLD, printed in Colours. Prospectus post-free on application.

WARD and LOCK'S UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR; or, Self-Culture for All.
The "Athenæum" of Nov. 6, 1880, says:—"The work is excellent, and it is to be hoped it may meet with the popularity it deserves."
"The publishers are doing a public service which cannot be over-estimated, as they are offering the means of education to the humblest people in the community as well as to those living far remote from seats of learning."—The Edinburgh Daily Review.
Prospectuses post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

In Monthly Parts, price 6d. each.
WARD and LOCK'S WORTHIES of the WORLD. A Series of Original Biographical Sketches of the Notable Men of all Countries and all Times. With Portraits. Part 1. now ready. Prospectus post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

In Monthly Parts, price 6d.,
WARD and LOCK'S FARM BOOK.—A complete Guide to Farm Management in all its branches. With Coloured and other Illustrations. Part I. now ready. Prospectus post-free.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

A COMPANION WORK TO MRS. BEETON'S BOOK OF HOUSEHOLD MANAGEMENT.
In Monthly Parts, price 6d. each.
WARD and LOCK'S HOME BOOK. A Domestic Cyclopædia. With Coloured and other Illustrations. Part I. now ready. Prospectuses post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Price ONE SHILLING, Picture Cover,
WARNE'S ILLUSTRATED ANNUAL. Twenty-four distinct Tales, &c., written by twenty-four popular Authors, fully Illustrated.
Edited by JOSEPH HATTON.
F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

THE NEW FASHION-BOOK for AUTUMN, 1880, is NOW READY. Post-free for twelve stamps.

"MESSRS. DEBENHAM and FREEBODY, of Wigmore-street and Scarborough, announce the Autumn Edition of their 'New Fashion-Book,' which is not only twice its original size, but contains twice the number of skilfully-executed illustrations of ladies' dress in its various departments, and is in every respect of greatly enhanced value. It contains an elaborate and exhaustive article on the Fashions for the present autumn. . . . Almost endless details of materials and made-up articles, with prices attached, will be found in the work, which is altogether of exceptional merit, and ladies who wish to be au courant with the frequent changes of fashion, to ascertain, at their leisure, at what cost any particular articles can be obtained, who desire to ensure careful attention to their wishes and punctuality in their fulfilment, cannot do better than consult the 'New Fashion-Book' of Messrs. Debenham and Freebody."—Morning Post, Oct. 22, 1880.

"THE NEW FASHION-BOOK, Autumn, 1880, issued by Messrs. Debenham and Freebody, of Wigmore-street and Welbeck-street, should be in the hands of all who desire to be au courant with the latest modes. The illustrations of travelling, walking, evening, and reception dresses are exceedingly attractive, and the same may be said of the millinery, tea gowns, and laces. Ladies should procure this most interesting Magazine of Fashion, which is especially published by this eminent firm of silk mercers and drapers in April and October of each year."—Court Journal, Oct. 23, 1880.

"THE NEW FASHION-BOOK for the Autumn Season has been issued by Messrs Debenham and Freebody, of Wigmore-street. It contains many novelties in costumes, mantles, millinery, &c., with ample descriptive matter. A lady must be, indeed, fastidious who cannot find something in the book to her liking. The figures are better drawn and truer to nature than those in most fashion-books, and altogether the publication is creditable to the taste and enterprise of the firm."—City Press.

THE NEW FASHION-BOOK, Post-free for 12 stamps.
DEBENHAM and FREEBODY, Wigmore-street, Welbeck-street, London, W.

Neatly bound in cloth, price 2s. 6d.
Now ready,
FAMILY HERALD SUPPLEMENTS, Vol. V.
Containing Eighteen Complete Novels.

"Queen Mab."	Sinned Against or Sinning?
Across the Moor.	The Doctor of Marston.
Once at Daggers Drawn.	Mab's Wooings.
Only a Woman's Hair.	A Righteous Retribution.
A Mysterious Lover.	The Mistress of Hurst.
Fate.	From a Distant Shore.
"We Kissed Again, with Tears."	Vanedene.
	An Utter Despair.
"What will Ethel Say?"	He Stooped to Conquer.
Minnie Yorke's Offers.

London: W. STEVENS, 421, Strand; and of all Booksellers.

CAN A MAN FLY? or, Fifteen Months in the Moon. 3rd Thousand. 136 Pages. SUMMARY OF CONTENTS:—Separation of Mind and Matter. Journey to Moon: Landing; "Try other Side." Second Landing: Signal to Earth; Reply; Reunion of Mind and Matter; Description of Lunar Inhabitants—their Dwellings, Food, Government, Language, Division of Time, Mode of Calculation, Animals, Birds, Plants, Monocyclic Railways (120 miles per hour), and Utilisation of Electricity; a Sixth Sense—Natural Telegraphy; Lunar Courtship; Terrible Flood; Festival of the Rising Sun; Solution of the Problems of Aerial Navigation and Diamond Manufacture; Long Ride Through the Air; Awful Combat—Triumph; Earth from entirely New Point of View; Conclusion. Price 6d.; post-free, 7d.—G. H. RYAN, Hornsey, London, N.

8vo, pp. 724, cloth, 8s.; or half bound, 10s. 6d.,
HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC PHYSICIAN. By Drs. PULTE and EPPS. Revised, with important additions and many new remedies, by WASHINGTON EPPS, L.R.C.P.
CONTENTS:—General Diseases—Casual Diseases—Cutaneous Diseases—Fevers—Affections of the Mind—the Head—the Eyes—the Ears—the Nose—the Face, Lips, and Jaws—the Teeth, Gums, and Mouth—the Windpipe and Chest—the Stomach and Bowels—the Urinary and Genital Organs—Diseases of Women—Treatment of Children—Anatomy and Physiology—Hygiene and Hydropathy—Materia Medica—Domestic Surgery—Medical and Surgical Appliances—Dislocations and Luxations—Fractures.
London: JAMES EPPS and Co., 48, Threadneedle-street.

Third Edition, 1s., post-free,
THE new ELECTROLYTIC TREATMENT of CANCER and of simple Tumours. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.—NELSON and Co., 23, Duke-street, Grosvenor-square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free, Two Stamps.
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s. London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics. G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

Fourth Edition, cloth, post-free, 13 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Homœopathy. "A clever exposé of the system." G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

Now ready, crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.,
LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," &c.
Extract from Preface:—"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simple than in text-books on Zoology. For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena, and I have been more careful to sketch in bold outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.
I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lasso-Throwers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Mailed Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect Suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies within their Coats.
XII. Intelligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.
London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.
THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and Her Children," &c.
"Altogether, with its attractive illustrations and brightly written pages, is one of the pleasantest volumes for intelligent boys and girls that has been provided this season. But, indeed, a book so instructive and entertaining deserves a welcome at all seasons, and is likely to secure a permanent reputation."—Pall Mall Gazette.
London: E. STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Nearly ready,
HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE: Readings in Necessary Knowledge for Girls and Young Women. Edited by Rev. J. P. FAUNTHORPE, M.A., Principal of Whitelands College. Dedicated by permission to his Grace the Duke of Westminster, K.G. Post 8vo.
London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

JUST PUBLISHED.—THE LILLY OF THE VALLEY, Polka Mazurka, for Piano. Of all Musicsellers. Price 3s. 6d. net; by post, of C. E. BROOKMAN, 5, Carey-place, Watford, Herts.

GOOD-BYE. COTSFORD DICK'S New Song. The Poetry by G. J. Whyte-Melville. "There is a charm about this song which will gain for it a wide acceptance; there is no lur to its achieving considerable popularity."—Queen. Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

THE KING'S CHAMPION. New Song, for Baritone or Bass. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON. Sung by Mr. Thurley Beale. Editions in D and E flat. Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street W.

SECONDHAND PIANO SALE.—PIANOS, £15; Broadwood Pianos, £25; Erard Pianos, £23; Collard Pianos, £28; Harmoniums, £5; American Organs, £10. THOMAS OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE.—Purchasers who can pay cash will do well to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of obtaining thoroughly good instruments at extraordinary low prices.

BROADWOOD PIANOS, 24 guineas. Full compass Pianofortes, in handsome cases, good condition, fine tone, at above moderate price, for cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

COLLARD PIANOS, 28 guineas. Full-compass COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fine full, rich tone, perfect condition. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Madame Tussaud's).

ERARD PIANOS, 38 guineas, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Trichord COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, in handsome ebonised and gilt cases, fine full, powerful tone. Cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE. — The PIANOFORTE HIRE and THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM BUSINESS carried on as usual during the Sale.—THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., opposite Madame Tussaud's.

THE LINCOLN POSTAGE-STAMP ALBUM and CATALOGUE. Illustrated. Fifth Edition. With Spaces for over 3500 stamps. Cloth gilt, 2s. 6d.; post-free, 2s. 10d.—W. LINCOLN, 230, High Holborn, London.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S. All the novelties by the most eminent publishers. Descriptive Catalogue sent post-free. THOMAS CHAPMAN, Stationer, 54, Leicester-square.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!!—250 lovely-coloured embossed Scraps, Fruits, Flowers, Birds, Figures, &c., 1s. 1d.; larger size, 2s. 3d., honestly worth double.—Address: GEORGE SPALDING and Co., Importers of Fine Arts, Ipswich.

SAMPLES GRATIS.
PAPIER MARION.—The Finest Writing Paper. Apply to 23, Soho-square, W., for Specimen Sheets and Envelopes. Sent gratis per post. To be had of all Stationers; and wholesale only of the Manufacturers, MARION and CO., London.

ULSTER CLOTHS, Sealskins, and other Materials for Ladies' Jackets, at very moderate prices, for ready money only. CHARLES MEEKING and CO., Woollen Warehouse, 3, Holborn-circus, corner of Hatton-garden, London.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Bridesmaids' Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application. WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

THE LONDON GLOVE COMPANY'S GLOVES.

Ladies 2 Button Kid Gloves from	6s. 9d.	per half-dozen.
" 4 " "	8s. 6d.	"
" 6 " "	10s. 6d.	"
Gentlemen's Kid Gloves	6s. 9d.	"

Single Pairs Sold.
Detailed list of all Makes post-free.
THE LONDON GLOVE COMPANY, 45a, Cheapside, E.C.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free. R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES. SPECIALITE REPEATERS, CHRONOGRAPHS, &c. Special Workmen for Repairs. London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

Digitized by Google

FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES.

AUSTRALASIAN AGENCY and BANKING CORPORATION (Limited).
Capital £1,240,000. In 125,000 Shares of £10 each.
Subscribed in the Australian Colonies, £942,350; in London, £300,000. Reserve Fund, £25,000.
LONDON DIRECTORS:
Abraham Scott, Esq. | Harry Hankey Dobree, Esq.
Frank C. Capel, Esq. | Joseph Cockfield, Dimsdale, Esq.
BANKERS:
Messrs. Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard, and Dimsdales.
SOLICITORS:
Messrs. Freshfields and Williams.
The Company are now issuing Debentures at the above rate for four, five, or six years. Forms of application can be obtained at the Office of the Company, 6½, Austin Friars.

GOVERNMENT STOCKS and SHARES BOUGHT and SOLD at the Current Rates by DAVID KAUFMANN, Banker, Welckerstrasse No. 6, Hamburg, who has now for SALE Original Government Bonds, capital 8,672,160 Mk., equal to about £417,320, Principal prizes, 400,000 Mk, 250,000 Mk., 150,000 Mk , 100,000 Mk., to be drawn in Series within a few months. Prices for the next drawing:—One Original Debenture, 6s.; one Half ditto, 3s. Stamps received in payment. Prospectus in English sent free on application.

SUN FIRE OFFICE.
Threadneedle-street, E.C. Charing-cross.
Oxford-street (corner of Vere-street), W.
Established 1710.
Home and Foreign Insurances Effected.
Sum insured in 1879, £252,492,461.
FRANCIS B. RELTON, Secretary.

SHIPWRECKS.—LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.
During the recent storms the Life-Boats of the NATIONAL LIFE-BOAT INSTITUTION saved One Hundred and Fifty-two Lives from various Shipwrecks, and Seven Vessels from destruction. CONTRIBUTIONS are thankfully received by Messrs. Coutts and Co.; by all the other London and Country Bankers; and by the Secretary, RICHARD LEWIS, Esq., 14, John-street, Adelphi.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The ANNUAL EXAMINATION for SCHOLARSHIPS and ENTRANCE EXHIBITIONS will be held on DEC. 7 and 8.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

HOMŒOPATHIC Home Hospital (Select) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-rd., Surrey. Estd. 1857. A Home for the Cure of Internal and External Tumours and other Diseases of Women without cutting. Treatise of successful cures post-free. Physicians—David Jones, M.D.; Horace Lowther, L.R.C.P. Dr. Jones attends at his residence, 15, Welbeck-street, London, daily, 11 till 1 (except Tuesday and Friday). Dr. Lowther attends daily, 9 till 11, at Bolton House, where, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and evenings, the fee is 2s. 6d.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite. 25s. and 20s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie.
An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHY NOT MAKE YOUR OWN LANTERN SLIDES?
(TRANSFER PROCESS.)
A Box containing a Sheet of Twelve 3¼-inch VIEWS, Glasses, Roller, Brushes, Varnishes, New Frame, Masks, and Book containing full Instructions, 14s. Particulars and Price-Lists post-free.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

DUPLEX LAMPS.—The New Patterns.
The light of twenty-four sperm candles at a cost of less than one farthing per hour; a pure and healthy flame, not injuring the choicest works of art. Engravings post-free.
Drawing-room Lamps, China and Glass, £6, 78s., 63s., 52s., 40s.
Dining-room Lamps, Bronze and Ormolu, 40s., 35s., 28s., 22s.
Cheap Table Lamps, 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 18s., 19s. 6d., 27s.
Refined Rock Oil supplied by Dean and Co., 14d. per gallon.
DEANE and CO., 46, King William-st., London-bridge. A.D. 1700.

T. R. GRIMES'S SALE of PATENT DUPLEX LAMPS, Greenhouse Stoves, China, Glass, and Earthenware will CONTINUE during Alterations. Parties Furnishing or proceeding Abroad will reap the greatest advantage by purchasing at the present time.
Furnishing Galleries, 33, New Bond-street, W.

HIS GRACE
THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND,
a most distinguished authority, when addressing the students of the Newcastle College of Medicine, particularly impressed the following upon their minds:—
"Be patient of NEW ideas and NEW doctrines, prove before you condemn, avail yourselves of NEW discoveries, and recollect it is not HOW, but WHETHER, you CURE your patients."
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
is a new application of a very old idea—viz., that of curing disease through the medium of the pores of the skin.
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
is worn upon the pit of the stomach, its healing, purifying, and tonic properties being absorbed therein.
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
acts most beneficially upon the liver. We quote from one of our correspondents, who has derived great benefit from the use of the pad:—"My liver now not only never troubles me, but appears to me to act as a medicine, by a spontaneous passing of superfluous bile."
We submit the following testimonial, and shall be pleased to forward many others, with full information, free by post:—
CAPT. H. C. COTTON writes to a friend as follows:—
"The Hall, Wem, Shropshire.
"I have been staying with a cousin of mine, who was in Norway this autumn, and came back very ill. He consulted all sorts of physicians, but without effect, when a friend of his said, 'Why don't you try this new treatment by absorption—the Holman Liver Pad?' At first he laughed at the idea; but, being unable to eat or sleep, he thought he might as well try anything likely to do him good. He sent for one of these Pads, and in a few days felt so much better that he could eat anything, and has been perfectly well ever since. He has also persuaded other people to try the Pad, and with the same success. I therefore send you the address of the Proprietor in London of the Holman Pad, and I strongly advise you to try this vegetable treatment, which will give you no trouble and requires no medicine."
Children's Pads, 7s. 6d.; regular size, 10s.; special size, 15s. For sale by all Chemists, or sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom on receipt of stamps or P.O. Order, payable to CHARLES CRISTADORO, Vere street, Post-Office, W.
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.,
10, Argyll-street, Regent-street, W.
Paris Agency: Beral, 14, Rue de la Paix.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER of IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY.—A PAMPHLET on Self-Applicable Electricity, demonstrating the most effectual, rational, and simple Galvanic Treatment of Nervous and Rheumatic Pains, Debility, Indigestion, Nervousness, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Epilepsy, Cramp, Functional Disorders, &c., as realised exclusively by the use of PULVERMACHER'S IMPROVED PATENT GALVANIC CHAIN-BANDS, BELTS, and SELF-RESTORABLE POCKET BATTERIES, &c. Approved by the Académie de Médecine, Paris; the Royal College of Physicians, London, &c.; substantiated by medical reports and authenticated testimonials, including Sir C. Locock, Bart., M.D., Sir William Ferguson, Bart., Sir J. R. Martin, Bart., M.D., Dr. A. Clark, Physician to the London Hospital. This Pamphlet (sent post-free) treats "why and wherefore" these galvanic arrangements have proved most efficacious, even in cases where other electrical apparatus and ordinary medical treatment have been tried in vain, especially in those ailments resulting from deficiency of Vital Electricity in the affected organs. Apply to
J. PULVERMACHER, GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT,
194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833.)
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.
SILKS AND VELVETS.
Now on Sale. All Patterns free.
The entire Manufacturer's stock, comprising
RICH BROCADED SILKS, SATINS, and VELVETS,
in every variety of colour for the fashionable combination Dresses.
In all the new shades and mixture of OLD GOLD, &c., for Promenade Wear. In Delicate Tints, for Evening and Dinner Wear. In White, Ivory, and Cream, for Bridal Wear; also in Black. Per yard. 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. to 5s. 6d. to 6s. 6d.
RICH COLOURED VELVET BROCADES.
In splendid variety of New Shades and Mixture, for making up with Silk, Satin, or other fabrics 5s. 11d. to 6s. 11d. to 7s. 6d.
BLACK VELVET BROCADES.
In very handsome designs for Dresses and Mantles, much under price 7s. 6d. to 21s. 0d.
400 Pieces Coloured Satin striped Velvets, in every Shade 3s. 9½.
Italian Silk Velvets in every Shade 4s. 11d., 6s. 9d. to 8s. 9d.
Black Lyons Silk Velvet 9s. 6d. to 21s. 0d.
Coloured Lyons Silk Velvet, in all New Shades 11s. 9d. to 16s. 9d.
PLUSHES AND SATINS.
The New Dress and Mantle Plush, in Black and all New Colours 7s. 6d. to 10s. 9d.
Lyons Dress Silks, in every shade of colour 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., to 4s. 6d., 5s. 11d.
Extra Double Warp Rich Duchesse Satin, in Black and all the New Shades, 23 inches wide 5s. 3d.
Silk-faced Satins, in all Shades 2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d.
PETER ROBINSON,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET.
Patterns post-free.
WINTER DRESSES.
New Materials in New Colours, Casimir d'Italie, Grain de Poure, Cachmere de la Reine, Angola Fonle, &c. All pure wool, and dyed by the most eminent Paris dyers in Black and every new colour. Prices, the Full Dress, from Each. 1½s. 6d. to 25s. 0d.
Also, in Black and the same colours, several thousand pieces of Cashmere and Cashmere Merinos, very wide per yard. 2s. 2d. to 3s. 6d.
Estamene, Witney, Devonshire and other All-Wool Serges, in Navy, Dark Brown, Prune, Bronze, Black, &c. 1s. 0d. to 2s. 9d.
Cashmere, Merino, and Cashmere-de-Paris, in Rich Colourings, very soft and fine, 44 to 47 inches wide, per yard 2s. 2d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 9d. to 3s. 3d.
Also, Black 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Rich Velvet-Velveteens, Black, White, and all the new colours in Plain, Striped, and Embossed 1s. 0d. to 4s. 9d.
Also the New Black, as advertised, very wide 2s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
The New Plush Velveteen, in Black and Colours, 27 in. wide 4s. 9d.
EVENING DRESS MATERIALS.
Per yard.
In Plain and Damassé Grenadines 1s. to 2s. 6d.
Tinsel Gauze in great Variety 6½d. to 1s. 9d.
Rich Japanese Silk in Plain and Damassé, at one price 1s. 11d.
The New Grós Grain Japanese, 22 inches wide 2s. 9d.
Light Shades in Merinos, Cashmere, &c.
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.
ELIZABETHAN MANTLES.—The richest novelties of the season Made of Plush and Brocaded Velvets and Silks, or trimmed with these materials. The mantles of this class imported from Paris and Berlin are of novel form) and of the richest kind, but there are many other patterns at a cheaper cost, and of more moderate pretensions.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW MANTLES, Lined with Plush and other Season able Doublures.—These Mantles are noticeable for their special neatness and convenient arrangements. Messrs. JAY confidently trust that the selections they have recently made will ensure a continuance of the reputation which their Mantle Department has so long maintained in the fashionable world.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season, perfectly fast colour, will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up in costumes. In various qualities, 46 in. wide, from 5s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
Patterns free.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW MILLINERY.—"It may be that the report so recently promulgated implying a falling off in the inventive faculties of the Parisian artistes has stimulated inventions" Messrs. Jay have recently imported a very large number of Ladies' Hats, Bonnets, and Caps, and they believe their French Milliner has never before selected so many novelties nor displayed better taste.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW SHORT COSTUMES and GRACEFUL DINNER DRESS—Short Dresses.—Messrs. JAY respectfully invite their clientèle to the choice Collection of Pattern Costumes of the newest type of fashion, which have been imported from Paris and Berlin.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

"THE AMARANT VELVETEEN"
supersedes all others for durability and silk-like appearance.
Is not Spotted by RAIN, nor Injured by HEAT.
It is of PERFECT MANUFACTURE and PATENTED FINISH
Unfading in Colour, Unequalled in Value, Firm in Pile.
To be had in all Colours and Prices.
Ask for it, and see that the word "AMARANT" is stamped GOLD on the FACE SELVAGES.
Patterns and Show Cards supplied to the Trade.
RAWSON BROTHERS, Sole Agents,
2, Blue Boar-court, Friday-street, London, E.C.

WINTER DRESSES—THE BEST VALUE IN LONDON.—Vecuna Foule Serges, the Fashionable Material for the Season. Price 8½d. per yard. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 53, Oxford-street, W.

DRESSES and DRAPERY Extraordinarily Cheap. THE FAMILY DRAPERY STORES, 116 to 122, Edgware-road, Hyde Park, W Every description of General Drapery, Household Linen, Velveteens, Dress Materials, &c., at Merchants' prices for Cash.—Special: Now on Sale, a large Stock of Fine Thick Wool Dress Goods and Flannels from 6d. to 1s. 6d. yard. All patterns free.

INDIAN EMBROIDERY of the most Elegant and Fashionable Designs—viz., Christening Robes, 21s. and 42s. each; Ladies' Handkerchiefs, 35s. and 45s. the half dozen; Babies' Bibs, 20s. the dozen; Children's Frocks, 15s. each; Petticoats, large size, 28s. each; Ladies' Neckties, 28s. the dozen; Children's Capes, 12s. 6d. each; Narrow Edging, 1s. per yard; Ditto, Wide, 3s. 6d. per yard. The above sent post-free to any address in Great Britain, the United States, and Canada. Remittances to be crossed "Agra Bank," and made payable to J. KENYON and CO., 19, Strand, Calcutta, East Indies.

ARRASENE.
A New Material in Silk and Wool, for Artistic Embroidery.
Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks.
Can be procured of Berlin Wool Repositories.
Wholesale only, B. G. GEACH, 137, Cheapside.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
(Repeated eight times.)

SOLD only in tin-lined Packets by all Grocers. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE. Product of a special refining process, it is Chocolate devoided of its over richness and substantiality. Sugarless, and, when made, of the consistence of coffee. An afternoon Chocolate. Sold only in packets, labelled JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle-street, London.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.
CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.
CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000 lbs.
CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoas Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER."
Keeps in all Climates. Requries no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

FRY'S COCOA. GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
A choice prepared Cocoa.
"most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.
FRY'S COCOA. GUARANTEED PURE.
FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
Pure Cocoa only, the superfluous oil extracted.
J. S. FRY and SONS.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
IS A WORLD-WIDE NECESSARY.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE NURSERY.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE SICK-ROOM.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
HAS A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 8s. 4d.; Households, for Bread making, 8s. 8d.; Wheaten Meal for Brown Bread, 8s.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; American Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d.; Barley Meal, per 48 lb., 8s.; Lentil Flour, per 1 lb. tin, 8d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O.O. and Cheques payable to George Young.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 42s.—The reason why the price is so low (being, indeed, less than cost) is that the market has been suddenly overstocked.—TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 45s., carriage paid to any railway station in England. There is now the opportunity of purchasing for 42s., or, carriage paid as above, for 45s., a splendid carpet, about 3¼ to 3¾ yards long.—TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.
A Catalogue of the Best Floor Coverings post-free.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES,
FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.
CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS,
DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.
CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES,
CHESTS, BOXES, &c.
CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS
POST-FREE.
CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA. GRATEFUL and COMFORTING. "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.
Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea imported. Sold only in Packets.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 203, Regent-street, W.

"THE BEST SELECTIONS OF THE BEST GROWTHS."
WILLS' CIGARETTES. "DUBEC" (mild). "YENIJEH" (full flavour).
Every Genuine Cigarette bears the name of
W. D. and H. O. WILLS.
Sold by all Principal Dealers.

ROWLANDS'
ODONTO
Whitens the Teeth, Prevents Decay, and gives a pleasing Fragrance to the Breath. It is the purest and most fragrant Dentifrice ever used, and contains no mineral, acid, or gritty substances.
ROWLANDS'
MACASSAR OIL,
known for the last eighty years to be the best and safest preserver and beautifier of the hair; it contains no lead or mineral ingredients, and is especially adapted for children's hair. Sold by all Chemists, &c., in usual four sizes, 3s. 6d., 7s., 10s. 6d. (family bottles, equal to four small), and 21s.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath.
Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London. Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and only genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester, Established 30 years." PEARLY WHITE and SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rosy brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are all insured by the use of this most perfect Dentifrice. Pots, 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists.

FER BRAVAIS (Bravais' Dinlysed Iron), used in every Hospital. Recommended by all Physicians. For Anæmia, Chlorosis, Debility, Exhaustion, &c. FER BRAVAIS (liquid iron in concentrated drops) is the only one entirely free from acid; it is without smell, tasteless, and produces neither constipation, diarrhœa, inflammation, or fatigue in the stomach; it is besides the only iron that never blackens the teeth. It is the Cheapest of all Ferruginous Compounds, as a bottle of it lasts a month. General Depot in Paris, 13, Rue Lafayette (near the Opera); and at all Chemists. Beware of dangerous imitations, and see that the Trade Mark is on every Bottle, which can be had of all Chemists in the United Kingdom. Sold also at 8, Idol-lane; and Messrs. Barclay and Sons', 95, Farringdon-street, London, where the Pamphlet on "Anæmia and its Treatment" can be obtained.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT.
Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 493, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

BERLIOZ' FAUST. Performed at St. James's Hall. Vocal Score. Price 7s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH. Sacred Musical Drama. Music by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Performed at the Leeds Musical Festival with enormous success. Price 8s.; bound in cloth, 10s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

COME, MARGARITA, COME! The favourite Tenor Song from Arthur Sullivan's Sacred Musical Drama "The Martyr of Antioch." Sung by Mr. Edward Lloyd. Price 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

	s. net.
Vocal Score
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 6d. ,,
Olivette Lancers. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Polka. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Galop. D'Albert	2s. ,,
I Love my Love so well. Duet	2s. ,,
The Convent Slept	2s. ,,
Where balmy garlic scents the air. Bolero	2s. ,,
Valse Song. First Love	2s. ,,
Torpedo Song	2s. ,,
Bob Song. Sung by Miss St. John	2s. ,,
Romance—"Nearest and Dearest"	2s. ,,
Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs	2s. ,,
Nava's Gems, Olivette (1 and 2) each 1s. 6d.	2s. ,,
Franz Nava's Farandole	1s. 6d. ,,
Audran's "Nearest and Dearest" (Pianoforte)	2s. ,,

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PORTIA WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready.
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Volume II., handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs.; Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 50 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 25 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S MUSICAL BOX. A Sensational Caprice for the Pianoforte. Composed by I. LIEBICH. 4s.; free by post for 24 stamps. "An agreeable and clever piece, which is very popular among amateurs."—Musical World.
London: Published only by ROBERT COCKS and Co.

PART-MUSIC, published by ROBERT COCKS and CO.—Handbook of Glees, demy 4to, in Nos., at 1d. each, and Double Nos., 2d. each. Vocal Quartets, in 8vo. form, for the use of Schools, Choral and Glee Societies, 60 Nos., from 1d. to 4d. and 6d. each. W. Hills's 105 Rounds and Canons, 13 Parts, each 2d.; or, complete, limp cloth. W. Hills's Vocal Trios, sequel to the Rounds and Canons, in 30 Parts, each 2d.; or, Double Parts, 4d. each; in three Vols., each 3s. A List of the above may be had gratis and post-free.
London: New Burlington-street.

NEW SONGS PUBLISHED by ROBERT COCKS and CO.

Raindrops. Lady Lindsay. 3s.	The Paper Ship. A. S. Getty. 3s.
Swing Song. J. Miller. 3s.	Where the Stout Nor'-wester. Lady Henry Thompson. 3s.
In Summertime. T. Marzials. 3s.	Corydon. C. Dick. 3s.
Buttercup Queen. T. Marzials. 3s.	The Unforgotten Song. O. Barri. 3s.

Post-free for 18 stamps each.—New Burlington-street.

THE BUTTERFLY'S KISS. New Song. Written and Composed by ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab, winner of Manchester and Huddersfield Glee Prizes. 3s. Also, by the same popular Composer, RETURNING SAILS. New Song. Words, Rev. No. 1, in F, simplified accompaniment; No. 2 in A flat (original). 3s. each; all post-free at half price.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

A WREATH OF HEATHER. For the Piano. By W. S. ROCKSTRO. No. 1, "'Twas within a mile" and "Come o'er the Stream;" No. 2, "Annie Laurie;" and No. 3, "Flow gently, sweet Afton," and "A Hundred Pipers." Price 2s. 6d. each number; post-free for 15 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

FIFTEEN TWO-PART INVENTIONS. By J. S. BACH. In Three Books, each 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps each. "Among the entire heaps of existing studies of medium difficulty, these 'Inventions' are without rival, whether as regards their usefulness to the student or their beauty as music."—Brighton Gazette.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

CLASS COPIES.—VOCAL DUETS for LADIES' VOICES. Five Duets by Pinsuti, Stephen Glover, Franz Abt, and R. Schumann. 1s. net.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street. Order everywhere.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 76, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £300. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

NEW MUSIC.

KUHE'S TWO NEW BALLADS.
FORGIVEN. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling.
MY ONLY LOVE. Sung by Mr. McGuckin.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE ZEELAND TOLL. Sung in "Annie-Mie." Words by Clement Scott.
2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BABY AND THE FLY. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
Boosey and Co., 295, Regent-street.

HER NAME. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Mr. Maas throughout the Provinces. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

TIME WAS. Lady ARTHUR HILL'S popular Ballad. Sung by Miss Mary Davies. 2s. net.
Boosey and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Löffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper covers; 4s. cloth, gilt edges,
ROYAL EDITION OF NATIONAL SONGS.

SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.	SONGS OF WALES.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND.	SONGS OF FRANCE.
SONGS OF IRELAND.	SONGS OF GERMANY.

In the Press: Songs of Italy, and Songs of Northern Europe and of Eastern Europe, completing the series. All the foreign songs have English and the original words. The Book of Irish Songs contains 78 of Moore's Irish Melodies and 20 National Airs.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAVOURITE CANTATAS.
HENRY HOLMES' CHRISTMAS DAY. Words by Keble. 2s. 6d.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S PRODIGAL SON. 2s. 6d.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S ON SHORE AND SEA. 2s. 6d.
F. H. COWEN'S ROSE MAIDEN. 2s. 6d.
F. H. COWEN'S CORSAIR. 2s. 6d.
F. HOWELL'S LAND OF PROMISE. 2s. 6d.
F. HOWELL'S SONG OF THE MONTHS. 2s. 6d.
KAPPEY'S PER MARE, PER TERRAM. 3s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

WEHLI'S RECOLLECTIONS OF THE MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM. This popular fantasia will be performed by Mr. Kuhe at Dublin on the 20th inst., and at Brighton on the 29th.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

LILLIE'S SECOND MUSIC-BOOK. containing Instructions, Exercises, and Pieces, in continuation of the "First Music-Book." Fifty-six pages, illustrated, price 2s. 6d. Also, LILLIE'S MUSIC-BOOK, complete, containing the two books in one volume, with 21 Illustrations (120 pages), forming a handsome book for presentation. In cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

2 vols., 2s. 6d. each, paper covers; 4s., cloth, gilt edges,
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. A Collection of celebrated Songs, in medium keys, for the use of Amateurs.
Vol. I.—Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto.
Vol. II.—Tenor and Baritone.
Each Book contains 50 Songs, with English and Italian Words.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and Short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New System of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT ERLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

NEW NUMBERS FOR CHRISTMAS OF
HAMMOND'S MUSIC PORTFOLIO.
PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.
Post-free, 13 stamps.

No. 10.

Elfen Reigen	Waltzes	Gung'l.
Light and Shade	Waltzes	Strauss.
Les Muses	Waltzes	Lamothe.
La Vallette	Waltzes	Percy Beamish
Aus Freundschaft	Polka	Liebig.
Fairy Fountain	Schottische	Roullson.

No. 11.

Marien	Waltzes	Gung'l.
Les Zephyrs	Waltzes	Lamothe.
Les Cloches de Paris	Waltzes	Lamothe.
L'Alliance	Waltzes	Schiller.
Deutsche Lieder	Quadrille	J. Resch.
Le Verre en Main	Polka	Fahrbach.

N.B.—Cornet and Violin Accompaniments to each Book, 6d. each.
Complete Lists sent on application.
A. HAMMOND and Co.,
5, Vigo-street, London, W.

F. H. COWEN'S GREATEST SUCCESS.
THE CHILDREN'S HOME. By COWEN. In Keys for all voices.
London: W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, N.

COTSFORD DICK'S NEW SONG.
A GOLDEN WEDDING. By C. DICK. "It is seldom we come across such a charming little song. The music is touching in its simplicity, the words are rich in poetic tenderness, reminding us of 'Darby and Joan,' a song it bids fair to rival in popularity."—Review.
London: W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, N.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.
The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLE'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready.
Catalogues and all particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Music-sellers.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LAST PUBLICATION.
FIFTEEN MELODIES OF SCHUBERT.
Transcribed for the Pianoforte.
Charming short pieces specially adapted for teaching. Price 2s. each.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, Sole Agents for the Dominion Organ Company, Canada.
New Organ, "PRINCESS LOUISE," the best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom,
FORSYTH BROTHERS, Manchester and London.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE.
In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.

Class 0, £14	Class 2, £20	Class 4, £30	Class 6, £35
Class 1, £17	Class 3, £23	Class 5, £27	Class 7, £40

American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'
IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial instrument produced."
3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

NEW MUSIC.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
ALL MUSIC POST-FREE AT HALF PRICE.

FOLI'S GREATEST SUCCESS.
THE RAFT. Descriptive Fantasia. By PINSUTI. In E and G, free, 24 stamps. Now being sung by Signor Foli with the greatest success at all his concerts. Decidedly the finest baritone (or bass) song extant.

I LOVE MY LOVE. PINSUTI'S most celebrated Song, in A flat and B flat; free, 24 stamps.
This, the most effective Drawing-room Song ever written, is continually sung by all the leading vocalists, both soprano and contralto.

THREE JOLLY BRITONS, or the ENGLISH, IRISH, and SCOTCH.
New National Song.
"Long may our good Queen on her Throne
O'er her subjects keep a watch,
For the three will fight for her as one,
Though English, Irish, and Scotch.
Words and Music, G. WARE. Post-free, 18 stamps.

SHALL I WEAR A WHITE ROSE? New Song. By EMILY FARMER; poetry by Savile Clark. This charming Song is now being sung by Madame Trebelli at her Provincial Concerts with perfect success. Published in E flat and G, for soprano or contralto. Post-free, 24 stamps.

JOHN GILPIN. Cantata. By GEORGE FOX. 2s. 6d. net. Easy and effective. A liberal discount allowed to choral societies for copies.

LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE.
Vocal Score, English Words, 10s. net, and 4s.
Piano Score, complete, 2s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 1000th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS,
24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for NOVEMBER contains:—Home Music-Worship—The Father of the Symphony—The Great Composers: Spohr—Marchetti's Opera, "Don Giovanni d'Austria"—Leeds Musical Festival—Jacques Offenbach—Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.—Reviews, Foreign and Country News, Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for NOVEMBER contains:—"Thus Speakest the Lord of Hosts." Anthem for Christmas, by Dr. STAINER. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

		s.	d.
1.	The Pianoforte	E. Pauer	2	0
2.	The Rudiments of Music	W. H. Cummings	1	0
3.	The Organ	Dr. Stainer	2	0
4.	The Harmonium	King Hall	2	0
5.	Singing	A. Randegger	4	0
6.	Speech in Song	A. J. Ellis, F.R.S.	2	0
7.	Musical Forms	E. Pauer	2	0
8.	Harmony	Dr. Stainer	2	0
9.	Counterpoint	Dr. Bridge	2	0
10.	Fugue	James Higgs	2	0
11.	Scientific Basis of Music	Dr. Stone	1	0
13.	Church Choir Training	Rev. J. Troutbeck	1	0
14.	Plain-Song	Rev. T. Helmore	2	0
15.	Instrumentation	E. Prout	2	0
16.	The Elements of the Beautiful in Music	E. Pauer	1	0
17.	The Violin	Berthold Tours	2	0
18.	Tonic Sol-fa	J. Curwen	1	0
19.	Lancashire Sol-fa	James Greenwood	1	0
20.	Composition	Dr. Stainer	2	0
21.	Musical Terms	Stainer and Barrett	1	0

(To be continued.)
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

Just published.
COMPOSITION. By Dr. STAINER. No. 20 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 2s.
MUSICAL TERMS. By STAINER and BARRETT. No. 21 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 1s.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITIONS.
One Volume, 518 pp., folio, handsomely bound, cloth, gilt edges, price 21s.; ditto, 8vo, paper, 7s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 10s. 6d.
MENDELSSOHN'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, including the "Lieder Ohne Worte," an entirely new and carefully revised edition.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

LIEDER OHNE WORTE. Cheap Editions. Octavo, paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.; folio, paper, 5s.; cloth gilt, 8s. Also, superior edition, octavo, paper, 4s.; cloth gilt, 6s.; folio, cloth gilt, 12s.
The only Complete Editions, containing Books 7 and 8.

One Shilling each.
ELLIOTT'S VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM. In six sets, price One Shilling each; or in two volumes, cloth gilt, Four Shillings each. List of contents may be had on application.

Just published, price One Shilling each.
NOVELLO'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS. Nos. 1 and 2, each containing Twenty Compositions by BACH, edited by Berthold Tours. List of contents may be had on application.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' Newly-Patented SOSTENENTE GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOS have gained the two First Prizes and only Special Mention above all competitors at the Sydney International Exhibition, 1879-80. Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London, W.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the Public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA.

BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from	21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS	21s. to £50
DRESSING CASES	21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES	21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES	4s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS	10s. 6d. to £5
STATIONERY CASES AND CABINETS	30s. to £5
INKSTANDS	5s. to £5
CANDLESTICKS (per pair)	7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS	15s. to £5
PORTRAIT ALBUMS	4s. 6d. to £1
THE NEW "TANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND	105s. to £10
THE NEW "EPITOME" WRITING CASE	12s. to 30s.
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 14s. 6d., and 16s. 6d.

And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.
HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

MACNIVEN and CAMERON'S PENS are the BEST.
"They come as a boon and a blessing to men,
The Pickwick, the Owl, and the Waverley Pen."
"They are a treasure."—Standard.
6d. and 1s. per Box. Sold by all Stationers.
Specimen Box of all the kinds, by post, 1s. 1d.
23, Blair-street, Edinburgh,
Penmakers to His Majesty's Government Offices. (Est. 1770.)

JUST PUBLISHED, Gratis and Post-free, OETZMANN and CO.'S NEW CATALOGUE. "A Guide to House Furnishing"—contains price of every article required in completely furnishing a house of any class, also "Hints on House Furnishing and Decoration," and is considered to be by far the best furnishing guide extant. The prices have been reduced wherever it was found compatible with maintaining the same excellence of style, quality, and workmanship, and will be found from 5 to 25 per cent below those charged at Co-operative Stores. Members should write for Catalogue and Patterns, and compare prices and quality. A minimum saving of 5 per cent is guaranteed. Those residing at a distance inconvenient for a personal visit, would do well to avail themselves of O. and CO.'S "Postal Order Department," full particulars of which will be found page 379 in Catalogue.—OETZMANN and CO., 67 to 79, Hampstead-road, near Tottenham-court-road.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road, London. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.
OETZMANN and CO.

"STANLEY" DINING-ROOM SUITE in solid carved Spanish Mahogany, upholstered in best marone leather, comprising a noble Couch, two Easy-Chairs, and six Chairs, price 14 guineas. Quality guaranteed. A variety of other patterns on show, from 8 guineas to 50 guineas. Massive Mahogany Telescope Dining-Tables, 8 feet by 4 feet, patent metallic screw, 5 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

ELEGANT TAPESTRY CRETONNE CURTAINS, in various choice designs, adapted for Drawing-Rooms, Dining-Rooms, Parlours, Bed-Rooms, &c., lined throughout with the new Cretonne Lining, and bound all round with best Silk Paris Lace, or Cretonne Binding, 3 yards long by 30 inches wide, 10s. 6d. per pair, ditto, 45 inches wide, 15s.; ditto, 3½ yards long by 45 inches wide, 17s. 6d. per pair. Also every description of materials used for Curtains. One of the largest and best Assortments in London to select from. Patterns sent post-free to the country by describing kind required.

THE "NORFOLK" COAL VASE, in Oak, Mahogany, Walnut, or Ebonized, handsome brass mountings and hand scoop, with strong loose lining, complete, 21s. A large assortment of handsome Wood Coal Boxes on view in the Show-Rooms, from 15s. 6d. to 5 guineas. Illustrations sent post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

"NEO-CLEOPATRA" TOILET-SERVICE (Registered). Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S New Registered Shape and Designs, manufactured exclusively for them, and is of the most artistic design and decorations. Ewer, Basin, &c., complete, from 8s. 6d. per set. Illustrated Price-List post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 379 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths and Patentees of the Electro-Plate, can at all times Provide Purchasers with every variety of Table and Decorative Plate, Tea and Coffee Services, Salvers, Cruet Frames, Soup Tureens, &c., in Old English, Early English, Queen Anne, Jacobean, Corinthian, and every style of Art, both in Silver and in Electro-Plate. Spoons and Forks of the Old English Rat-Tail Pattern. Drawings and Prices free by post on application. Address: ELKINGTON and CO.,
22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 63s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

ETZENSBERGER'S PATENT CAFETIERE is economical, cleanly, and safe; makes an excellent cup of coffee, strong and fragrant; is made in two sizes for the breakfast table, pint and quarts, in block tin, nickel plated, electro-plate, and German silver. Coffee and Tea Filters, for bars, hotels, coffee and tea palaces, of any size.

THE WILFRID is an Ornament for the counter. Can supply coffee and tea, hot water and milk, all at the same time, and with little cost and trouble.
R. ETZENSBERGER and CO.,
No. 13, St. Andrew's-street, Holborn-circus,
E.C. London.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

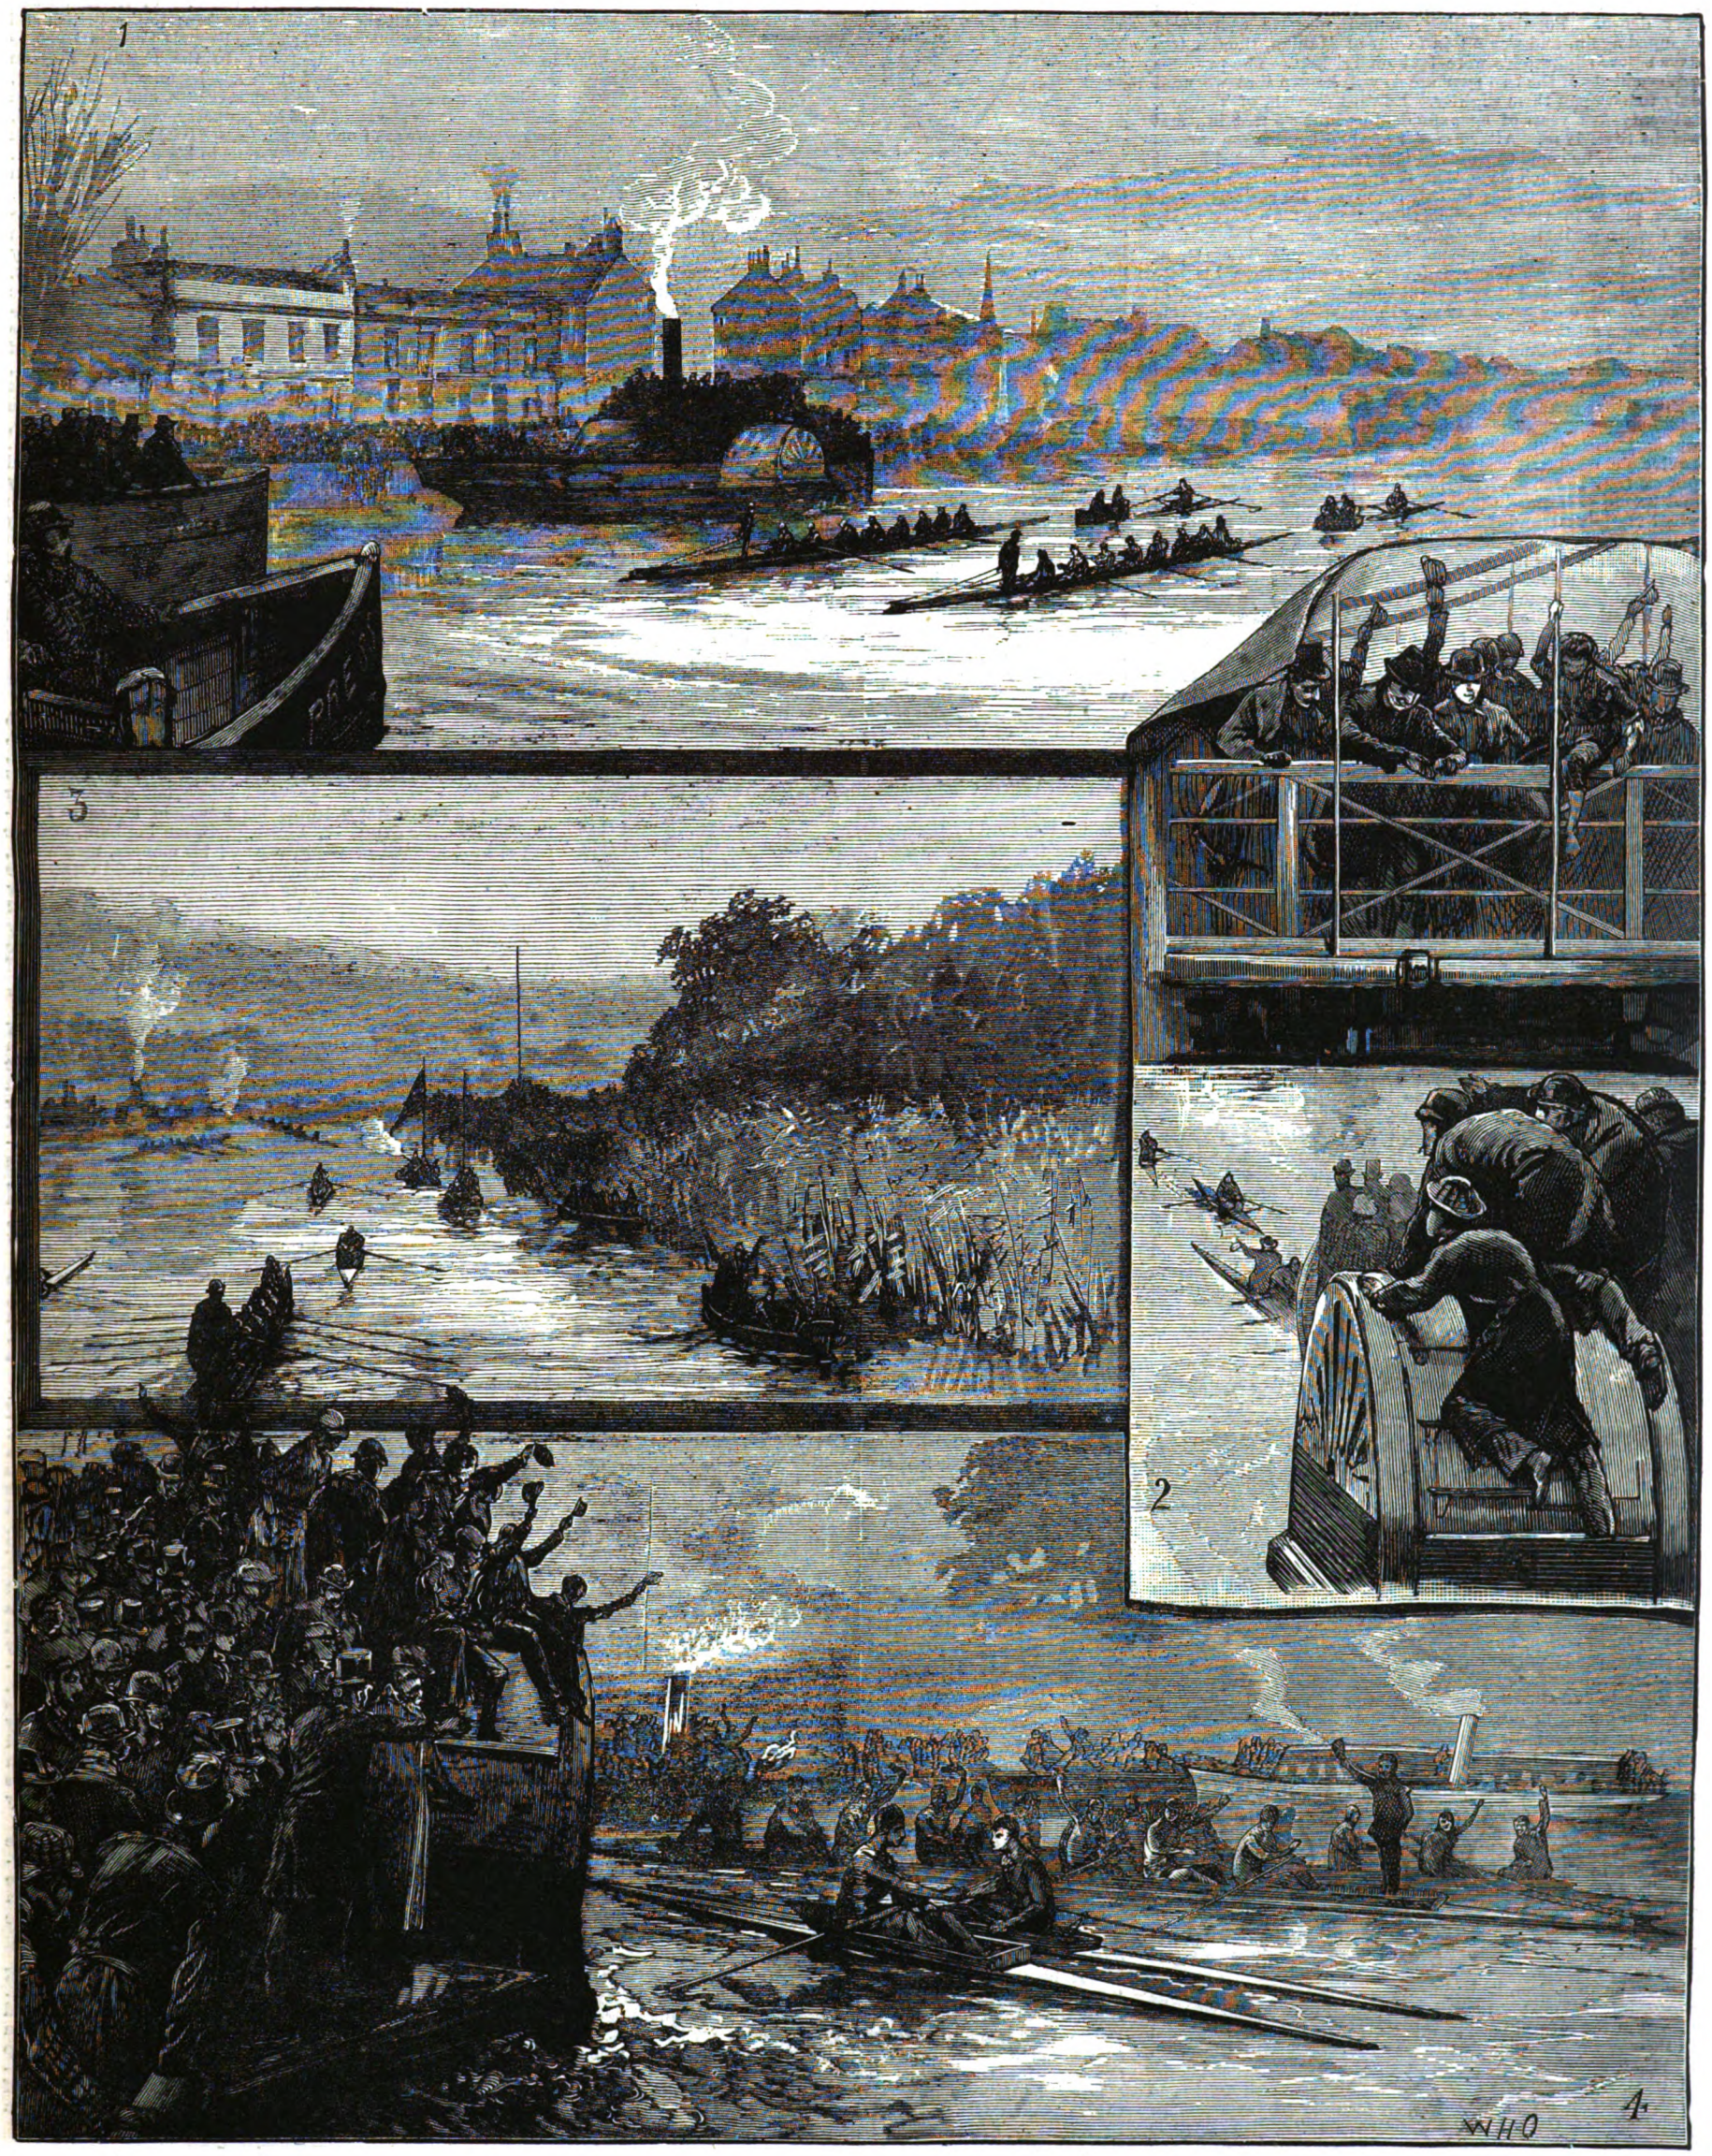
CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO. By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. | SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of the last 18-carat watches, accurate time-keepers. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.
C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

OROIDE GOLD ALBERT CHAINS, 5s., 2s. 6d., 10s. 6d. Links, Solitaires, or Studs, 2s. 6d. Brooches, 4s. 6d. to 8s. 6d. Earrings, 3s. 6d. to 7s. 6d. Lockets, 4s. 6d. to 12s. 6d. Free by post. Opinions of the Press and Price-Lists post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.



DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1880.

Digitized by Google

SCULLING-MATCH FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP ON THE THAMES LAST MONDAY.

SEE NEXT PAGE.

1. The Start. 2. Hammersmith Bridge: "Mind your heads 3. The Finish. 4. Hanlan and Trickett shaking hands after the Race.

Digitized by Google

CHAMPIONSHIP SCULLING-MATCH.

Except on the occasion of an Inter-University Boat-race, or of the famous contests between Oxford and Harvard Universities, and the London and Atalanta Rowing Clubs, we never saw so many people between Putney and Mortlake as were assembled there on Monday morning. The weather was singularly uninviting, as it was decidedly raw and cold, and a drizzling rain fell at intervals; but the towing-path was well patronised for the whole distance, whilst at Hammersmith, Barnes, and one or two other favourite places, the crowds were very dense. Popular feeling seemed to have completely changed again, and was all in favour of Hanlan, though two days before slight odds were laid on Trickett. The previous achievements of the two men are so well known that we need only touch upon them slightly. Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, is twenty-five years of age, stands just under 5 ft. 9 in., and weighs 10 st. 12 lb. After a career of almost unbroken success in America, he came to England last year, and defeated Elliott and Hawdon in such style that it appeared hopeless for him to get any more matches in this country. He has carried off other prizes in America since then, but cut up very badly in the Hop Bitters Regatta, his explanation being that he was taken ill during the race. Edward Trickett, of Sydney, New South Wales, is four years older than his late opponent, is not less than 6 ft. 3½ in. in height, but, being of spare frame, only weighs 12 st. 5 lb. in strict training. He has beaten all the best men in his own country, and, in 1876, he came to England and made a sad example of Joseph Sadler, who, though champion of England at the time, had undoubtedly seen his best day. Both men have been located on the banks of the Thames—Trickett at Putney and his rival at Barnes—for some weeks past, and their practice has been watched with very great interest. The race was fixed for twelve o'clock, but it was past that time before the competitors put off from the shore. Harry Kelley piloted the Australian, and Bright performed the same office for Hanlan, who looked wonderfully well and full of spirits and confidence, while his opponent, whose face is naturally rather haggard and careworn, seemed very anxious. There was little or no tide, but the river was perfectly smooth, and Trickett gained scarcely any advantage from winning the toss and selecting the Middlesex station. There is little to say relative to the race itself, as it was really all over before they reached Hammersmith Bridge. Trickett began with a faster stroke than Hanlan, but he was sliding very short, and seemed to trust mainly to his immense strength to drive his boat along. The Canadian, whose style is simply perfect, and has never been approached by that of any other sculler, at once took a slight lead, and appeared to wait in front until nearing Hammersmith Bridge, when he began to open out a gap between himself and Trickett, and the latter being in evident trouble, though persevering as gamely as possible, the contest was virtually at an end. Hanlan was not long in finding out the state of affairs, and consequently could not resist from indulging in a series of wild antics, similar to those he went through on his previous visit here, during his matches with Elliott and Hawdon; and, had he lost the race in consequence, he would have had but few sympathisers. Just below the Doves, he put in "half-a-dozen" to show the spectators how much he had in hand, and then, clumsily dropping his sculls into the water, threw himself flat on his back in the bottom of the boat, and lay there for a second or two, the act occasioning great excitement amongst the large number of spectators who witnessed it, for they naturally imagined that something terrible had befallen him; however, he was soon up and at work again, laughing heartily. The Canadian made at least half a dozen further stoppages before Barnes Bridge was reached, on each occasion going through a little performance, such as washing his face, kissing his hand, and cheerfully waving his handkerchief to different friends on the bank, and he eventually won at his leisure by three lengths, which he could have made a quarter of a mile had he so chosen, the time being 26 min. 12 sec. It is a pity the winner indulged in the clowning business to the extent he did, for though possibly he was only giving vent to his satisfaction at finding himself master of the situation, still consideration for the feelings of his plucky opponent ought to have kept him from showing anything but respect for a beaten man. Apart from this, Hanlan's exhibition was splendid, and his superiority established beyond doubt. It is poor consolation for the second to know that in a match some one must lose, but let us hope that Trickett's next engagement may help to make amends for his recent defeat.

We are glad to find it stated that the Chichester training-ship is not to be given up. It seems that the little demand for trained sailors, owing to the increase in steam-ships, has induced the committee to reduce the number of lads to 300, retaining for their benefit the Arethusa as the home and the Chichester as the drill and exercise-ship.

A pastoral letter from Cardinal Manning was read on Sunday at mass in the Roman Catholic churches and chapels of the metropolis announcing that three reverend gentlemen—Father Nugent, of Liverpool; Father Canty, of North Hyde; and Father Sedden, one of his own inspectors of schools—had lately returned from an expedition to Canada, where they had been able to arrange with the Roman Catholic Archbishops of Toronto and Quebec for the reception of about 560 children into temporary homes, under the management and supervision of the Catholic priesthood in Canada, where they will be provided for temporarily until industrial employment or situations in domestic service can be obtained. The Cardinal stated that the expense of sending out each child would amount to about £5, at the same time recommending "the faithful" to join in subscriptions to aid so good and useful a work. He added that his own and his brethren's best thanks were due to the Canadian Episcopate for the interest which they had taken in the matter.

On Monday the opening meeting of the fiftieth session of the Royal Asiatic Society was held at the offices of the institution—Major-General Sir C. H. Rawlinson, president and director, in the chair. The chairman said, at the commencement of a new session he had to congratulate the society on the progress it had made—progress which he hoped would be continued in the future, both in the gaining of new members and in the securing of valuable papers for their journal. He would add that, for variety and solid Oriental knowledge, the papers of the last session were as good as they had had for some time past. Professor Monier Williams, Sanscrit Professor in the University of Oxford, read a paper on "Indian Theistic Reforms," in which he pointed out that Theism was really the original form of religion in India, and had never been wholly lost sight of by the people, however gross might have been the idolatry preached in some times or places. The old hymns of the Rig-Veda showed what the ancient faith was, and the Brahma Samaj, or modern Theistic Church of Bengal, was, in fact, only a revival of the ancient belief in one God. Professor Williams then gave a detailed account of the modern revival and revivalists, of which the most eminent, he said, was Rammohun Roy. A short discussion followed.

A RELIC OF THE HITTITES.

Considerable interest has of late been felt in what appears to be the discovery of an ancient civilization, and the characters of an unknown language. We refer to the hieroglyphic inscriptions at first supposed to be Hamathite, but recently named by Professor Sayce, Hittite. The "Hamath stones," as they were called, were first noticed by Burckhardt in 1812, but it was not until 1863 that casts arrived in England through the efforts of the Palestine Exploration Fund. The site of Carchemish, the capital of the Hittite nation, was formerly believed to correspond to the classical circesium; but the mention of the city of Garganus in the records of Assyria, and other circumstances, have led certain scholars to the conclusion that it is to be sought for on a little Tel, or mound, on the Euphrates, about sixteen miles south of Birejik, now called Jerablus or Jerabis. Excavations have been from time to time carried on at this spot by the authorities of the British Museum, and two of the original stones, bearing inscriptions somewhat similar to those formerly at Hamath, have been sent to London. The re-discovery, if it may so be called, of a silver boss, first published by Mordtmann in 1862, but since then strangely overlooked by cuneiform scholars, containing, as is supposed, a bilingual cuneiform and Hittite inscription, has added a new interest to the study. Should this supposition be correct, doubtless we have in this little silver ornament, measuring scarcely over one inch and three quarters in diameter, the foundation of the interpretation of the language. For some years past Professor Sayce has devoted attention to the deciphering of the characters, and at the opening meeting of the present session of the society added to the paper read by him in July last another on the same subject entitled "The bilingual Hittite and Cuneiform Inscription of Tarkondêmos," which, owing to the unavoidable absence of the author, was read by the secretary. Mr. Sayce mentioned that Mordtmann, writing in 1862, tells us that the boss was at that time in the possession of M. Alex. Jovanoff, of Constantinople, and had been obtained by him at Smyrna. Made of very thin silver, circular in form, like half an orange, it might probably have originally served to ornament the top of a staff or hilt of a dagger. The outer surface, as is common in seals, is divided into two surfaces, the contents of which need not be here described, as a reference to the carefully-executed woodcut will make them evident. Dr. Mordtmann in describing what are now understood to be Hittite characters round the centre figure of a warrior, calls them "symbols," and compares the double obelisk-like character to the curious volcanic rocks situated west of Cæsarea and Cappadocia. It may be pointed out that the Hittite inscription is repeated on each side of the figure. Having come across Mordtmann's description and plate, Professor Sayce was not satisfied as to the authenticity of the object until he had obtained other copies, one from M. Lenormant, and the other from an electrotype in the British Museum. This comparison at once satisfied him that the copy is as good as the original itself. The cuneiform legend running round the outer edge he read as follows:—"Tarrik Timme, King of the Country of Erme;" and was of opinion, from a comparison with other inscriptions, that the form of the characters agreed well with the age of Sargon, King of Assyria—a date which he thought would also well agree with historical probabilities, when, about B.C. 717, the Hittite capital, Carchemish, was taken by that King, and the last relics of the power of the nation broken. The Hittite inscription, he stated, was to be read from the top, beginning with what he took to be a horse's head, which, with the next character, would mean Tarrik, or Tarku Timme, the tall obelisk, corresponding to King; then, reading upwards, the double obelisk, country, the curious angular sign being er and the two sets of lines me. The side stroke following the last of these characters, also found in the other inscriptions, appearing to denote the end of a sentence or paragraph. Much interesting and valuable information was added, on the various hieroglyphs, and also on the position of the Hittites in the ancient world. The second paper, by Mr. Thomas Tyler, M.A., was on the same subject. The author agreed with Professor Sayce in some points, but in place of reading the fourth sign "country," he proposed to read it "men," or "people." The four little lines ending the inscription he took to be the numerals 2 and 100, or, if read phonetically, Zume, the name of the country represented by the ideograph beneath. The two inscriptions from Jerablus were considered, and there were, in the opinion of Mr. Tyler, strong grounds for considering them to be records of one or more campaigns against the Zuzim (Gen. xiv. 5). The combination of symbols, one of which is the eagle, occurring on these inscriptions he indentified as the name of Carchemish, and considered that bird as the probable symbol of the city.

The meeting was well attended, and remarks were added by Dr. Birch, Dr. Hyde Clarke, the Rev. C. J. Ball, and Mr. R. Cull, F.S.A. In replying to a question by the Rev. W. Wright, who himself made the casts of the Hamath inscriptions sent to England, the secretary, Mr. W. H. Rylands, stated that photographs of the two inscriptions from Carchemish had been taken, and would be published by the Society in a future part of the "Transactions," together with lithographic plates, drawn from the casts of the Hamath Stones. A large quantity of Hittite type was also in course of production for the Society, so that in a short time all the inscriptions would be made available for comparison and study; with regard to the "boss," he thought it ought not to be forgotten that when the original was in this country it had been pronounced to be a forgery, and that, in his opinion, there was some considerable amount of evidence bearing out this decision. Under any circumstances, the date, 717 B.C., would appear to be much too early; the same might be said of the other inscriptions, particularly the clay seals brought from Kouyunjik by Sir Henry Layard, which would seem to point to a much later date.

After a disappearance of several weeks, the statue of Robert Raikes is restored to its pedestal in the Embankment gardens.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will, dated March 11, 1880, of Mr. John Messer Knight, J.P., a partner in the firm of Messrs. Knight, Bevan, and Sturge, of London and Northfleet, late of Northfleet House, Northfleet, Kent, who died on Sept. 4 last, was proved on the 11th inst. by Caleb Rickman Kemp, the executor, the personal estate being affirmed under £500,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Hannah Knight, £500 and all his plate, jewellery, furniture, carriage, and effects; to his son, John Rickman Knight, his freeholds in the city of Rochester and town of Strood and the adjoining parishes; to the British and Foreign Bible Society, £1000; to the Friends Foreign Missions in Madagascar and India, £500; to the Friends Foreign Missions in Syria, £200; and there are legacies to his sisters, nephews, nieces, old and present servants, and late foreman and clerk. As to the residue of his property, real and personal, he gives the income of one fourth (less £1000 per annum until his youngest child attains twenty-one) to his wife for life, and, subject thereto, the whole of such residue is to be held upon trust for all his children in equal shares.

The will (dated Jan. 10, 1879) of Mr. Richard Gibson, late of Coldbeck, in Ravenstonedale, Westmorland, who died on Aug. 25 last, has been proved at the Carlisle district registry by Anthony Metcalfe and John Fothergill, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £250,000. The testator devises all his real estate, whatsoever and wheresoever, to the said Anthony Metcalfe, his heirs and assigns for ever, charged, however, with the payment of annuities of £50 each to his housekeeper, Anne Garside, and his housemaid, Mary Alderson, for their respective lives; and he declares that the said devisee is to assume and take by Royal license the surname of Gibson in addition to his surname of Metcalfe, but so that the former shall be his last and principal name. All his furniture, plate, linen, china, books, and household effects he gives to Mr. Metcalfe. The residue of the personalty he leaves to his executors for their own use, subject to the payment thereout of his debts, funeral and testamentary expenses, and the following legacies—viz., £5000 each to William Noble, the said John Fothergill, and George Mansfield Browne; £500 to Thomas Dent; £100 each to Henry Beck and Robert Haygarth, and a further sum of £100 to be distributed among the poor persons in the parish of Ravenstonedale, as his executors shall think most in need. It appears that the deceased was the surviver of five brothers, all of whom were careful men: each remained unmarried, and each left to his surviving brothers his wealth.

The will (dated May 17, 1873) with a codicil (dated Feb. 20, 1880) of Mr. Francis Leyborne Popham, late of Hunstrete, Somersetshire, who died on July 20 last at Puckaster, Niton, Isle of Wight, was proved on the 4th inst. by George Charles Cherry, the executor, the personal estate being sworn under £100,000. The testator leaves his leasehold house in Park-lane to his elder daughter, Elizabeth Susan Popham, and the rest of his leasehold property, with all his manors, messuages, lands, tenements, hereditaments, real and copyhold estates, he settles upon his eldest son in tail male. There are many legacies to his nephew, godchildren, trustees, friends, and others, and the residue of the personalty is to be equally divided between all his children, except his eldest son. The deceased will be best remembered by having been the owner of Wild Dayrell, the winner of the Derby in 1855, which colt he also bred.

The will (dated Jan. 20, 1880) of the Rev. James Henry Bower, late of The Larches, East Sheen, Surrey, who died on Sept. 9 last, at Teignmouth, Devon, was proved on the 9th inst. by Richard Ffolliott Eliot and the Rev. Edward Eliot, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £45,000. The testator leaves his real estate in Cornwall and elsewhere to his nephew James Bower Marsh Dunn, conditionally on his taking the name of Bower, and he also leaves him £10,000; to his nephew Richard Marsh Marsh Dunn £10,000, in addition to other bequests; to his niece Fanny Elizabeth Marsh Dunn £5000; and there are bequests to his sisters, trustees, and servants. The residue he gives to his nephew James, conditionally on his taking the name of Bower.

The will (dated Aug. 10, 1874) of the Hon. Humphrey de Bohun Devereux, late of Highwood House, Yarpole, Herefordshire, who died on May 19 last at No. 63, Sloane-street, was proved on the 1st inst. by General the Hon. George Talbot Devereux, R.A., the brother, Herbert Edmund Frankland Lewis and Hugh Lindsay Antrobus, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife, the Hon. Mrs. Caroline Devereux, his furniture and effects, horses and carriages absolutely, and for life his plate and plated articles; at her death they are to go to his nephew, Henry de Bohun Devereux. The residue of the personalty is to be held upon trust for his wife for life; and then, as to one moiety, for his said brother for life, and, subject thereto, for his nephews and nieces, the children of his late sister the Hon. Mrs. Bradshaw, and of his late brothers, Robert Viscount Hereford and Admiral Devereux.

The will (dated Feb. 19, 1875) of the Rev. Sir John Hobart Culme-Seymour, Bart., Rector of Northchurch, Herts, and a Canon of the Cathedral Church of Gloucester, who died on Sept. 17 last at Gloucester, was proved on the 5th inst. by Captain Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, Bart., R.N., and Lieut.-Colonel John Hobart Culme-Seymour, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £15,000. The will does not dispose of the whole of the testator's property; it simply gives to his second son, John Hobart, certain meadows and cottages, and his stock in the New Three per Cents, in addition to what he will become entitled to under his mother's marriage settlement. The remainder of testator's property will pass to his heir and next of kin according to law.

The will (dated May 1, 1879) of General Sir Fortescue Graham, K.C.B., Royal Marine Artillery, late of East Stonehouse, Devon, who died on the 9th ult., was proved on the 29th ult. by Fortescue Arnett Graham, the nephew, James Money Lowcay, and Charles Simpson, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £12,000.

The Edinburgh Daily Review announces the following legacies:—The late Mr. Ellice, who represented the St. Andrew's Burghs for upwards of forty years, has bequeathed £10 each to a number of gentlemen to buy a mourning ring in token of his grateful remembrance of disinterested friendship and support during the long period of his political connections with their burghs; and he also bequeaths, as a mark of remembrance, £5 each to any other of those who voted for him at his first election, in 1837.

The anniversary festival of the Builders' Benevolent Institution was held at the Freemasons' Tavern on the 11th inst.—the president, Mr. Thomas F. Rider, in the chair, supported by upwards of 250 other supporters and friends of the institution. The festival was a very successful one, the new subscriptions and donations reaching £1014, of which sum the president's list accounted for £662. The institution has now an invested fund of £21,000, and has lately considerably increased the amount of its pensions.

Digitized by Google

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

SPAIN.

The Archduchess Isabella of Austria, who has been staying with her daughter, Queen Christina, since the middle of August, before the birth of the Infanta Mercedes, left Madrid on the 11th inst. for Valencia, en route for Austria. The King and Queen, the three Princesses, the Ministers, and the Austrian Legation, were on the platform of the Southern Railway Station, where Queen Christina took an affectionate leave of her mother, both exhibiting visible emotion at parting.

A numerously attended meeting of the partisans of Free Trade was held on Sunday at the Opera House Madrid, with the object of obtaining a reduction of the Customs tariffs.

At Barcelona and Alicante hostile demonstrations have been made by the populace against the landing of some French monks. At the former place the monks were compelled to take refuge in the cathedral, and, subsequently, to re-embark in the vessel which had brought them.

ITALY.

The King and Queen arrived at Rome early on Monday morning, and were received at the railway station by the Ministers and the civil and military authorities. A large number of persons had assembled near the station, which was illuminated by Bengal lights.

The Chambers met on Monday, when the resignations of Garibaldi and his son were formally announced. The House, however, refused to accept them, and granted the two deputies three months' leave of absence. Among the bills presented to the Chamber of Deputies by the Ministers was that for the abolition of the forced currency. Resolutions were passed by both Houses, ordering the members to go into mourning for twenty days on account of the death of Baron Ricasoli.

The Pope signed on Wednesday a Papal brief appointing Cardinal Jacobini Pontificial Secretary of State, in place of Cardinal Nina, who lately resigned that office.

Serious disasters have been caused in various parts of Italy by the floods consequent on the heavy rain.

SWITZERLAND.

A new Great Council was elected at Geneva on Sunday, M. Carteret and the anti-Catholic Extreme Radical party were returned by a large majority.

BELGIUM.

On Monday the birthday of the King was celebrated in Brussels with the usual demonstrations.

The death of M. Frere Orban, the President of the Council of Ministers, is announced.

By 32 votes against 26, the Senate on Tuesday passed a resolution declaring that, until it be otherwise determined, the Senate will abstain from attending in its corporate capacity any religious ceremonies whatever.

GERMANY.

The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says that "the German Crown Princess, in a letter to a distinguished personage," censures the anti-Jewish agitation as devoid of all self-respect and respect for others, and contrasts the vulgarity manifested with the dignified silence preserved by the parties affected. Her Imperial Highness refers to the painful impression produced abroad, and hopes for a speedy subsidence of the feeling aroused.

General von Goeben, who obtained considerable distinction during the war between Germany and France in 1870, died at Coblentz on Saturday, at the age of sixty-four. An Imperial order has been published in which the Emperor expresses his profound sorrow at the death of General von Goeben, and orders the officers of the 8th Army Corps to go into mourning for three days, and the officers of regiments of which the deceased was the commander for seven days.

The Lower House of the Prussian Diet on the 11th inst. discussed the receipts and expenditure of the financial year 1879-80. In the course of the debate Herr Bitter, Minister of Finance, expressed his conviction that the commercial depression of the last few years would soon come to an end. He added that the revenue for the last six months had considerably improved as compared with the same period last year.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

At the sitting of the Austrian Delegation on the 11th inst. an agreement was recorded in the decisions of the two Delegations respecting the Budgets of the Ministry of Finance, the Upper Court of Accounts, the customs receipts, the naval estimates, and the final account of the Budget of 1878. The Hungarian Delegation has adopted the remaining items of the ordinary war expenditure without modification, as well as the extraordinary estimates of the War Department, according to the proposals of the Committee. After approving the extraordinary expenditure for the forces occupying Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Delegation proceeded to discuss the Estimates of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs.

Count Szapary, Hungarian Minister of Finance, on Saturday last laid a series of bills before the Lower House of the Diet, concerning, among other questions, an alteration in the Stamp Tax, the Usury Laws, and the taxes on sugar, coffee, spirits, and beer. The Upper House adopted, without debate, the compromise with Croatia.

A great meeting of the Austrian-German Constitutional party was held in Vienna on Sunday. The largest public hall in the city, capable of containing 4000 persons, was not sufficiently capacious to contain all who wished to be present. The object of the meeting was to protest against the Federalist tendencies of the Government. Resolutions were passed declaring that those tendencies were a danger to Austrian unity, constitutional freedom, and the progress of the nation.

Fresh shocks of earthquake were experienced at Agram on Wednesday and Thursday last week, destroying many houses and otherwise doing considerable damage. The shock on Thursday was of such a violent character that the Hall in which the Diet was assembled was severely shaken. Three more shocks of earthquake were felt in Vienna yesterday week, but they were less intense. In Agram the results have been disastrous, and nearly half the population has fled in panic. About five miles from Agram a number of fountains of hot water burst from the earth, but their duration was only temporary.

There were altogether nine shocks felt between midnight on Monday and five o'clock on Tuesday morning. Monday night is said to have been a night of "indescribable terror," and ladies and children, even of the wealthier classes, had to pass the night on the bare ground. Subscriptions are everywhere being collected for the relief of the inhabitants.

TURKEY.

The Sultan sent one of his aides-de-camp on Monday to Count Hatzfeldt, the German Ambassador, to announce to his Excellency the speedy surrender of Dulcigno. His Majesty repeated the same assurance to Mr. Goschen during the dinner at Yildiz Kiosk the same day.

The Representatives of all the European Powers at Constantinople have signed a note demanding the carrying out of the sentence, passed in May, upon the murderer of Colonel Commeraoff.

The Turkish Feast of Bairam began on Sunday.

Mr. W. H. Smith, with Mr. Pender, M.P., Mr. Edward Fitzpatrick, and Hobart Pasha, were received in audience by the Sultan on Sunday.

GREECE.

The debates in the Chamber on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne are still proceeding, and the struggle is said to be a passionate one for pre-eminence between two parties who are at one in their objects.

AMERICA.

General Sherman, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, in his annual report issued on Tuesday, makes an earnest appeal for impartial treatment of coloured officers and privates in the service.

Mr. Boutwell, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, has been appointed counsel for the United States before the Franco-American Claims Commission.

The New York papers contain elaborate reports of the reception of Sarah Bernhardt in that city. The inevitable reporter was at hand, and has given the fullest details of the incidents of her voyage and her first impressions of America.

The lunatic asylum at St. Peter's, Minnesota, was burned down on Monday night. The weather at the time was intensely cold, and several of the unfortunate inmates were burned or frozen to death. A Reuter's telegram states that the number of lives lost was thirty or forty, but the Times' correspondent says that some estimates make the loss of life 500. The 656 patients who were in the building were all let loose when the fire began.

CANADA.

A large meeting has been held at Victoria, British Columbia, at which it was resolved that separation would be the best course for the colony if the Dominion Government failed to carry out its obligations with regard to the Pacific Railway.

A disastrous colliery explosion has occurred in Nova Scotia. A coal-mine at Stellarton has taken fire, and thirty or forty men are imprisoned in it. Eight men have been taken out of the pit in a dying state.

A telegram from Ottawa says that the Minister of Agriculture is stated to have proposed a plan to the Imperial Government for the removal from the distressed districts in Ireland of any families who may desire to emigrate to the north-west of Canada.

The Marchioness of Ripon and suite left Brindisi on Monday morning, on board the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Thibet, direct for Port Said.

A Standard telegram from Candahar states that it is reported from Herat that Ayoob Khan is still bent upon action; but that, although his popularity among the Pathans of Western Afghanistan is undoubted, his hold on the Heratees appears precarious. From Ghuznee there comes news that the Ghilzai tribe has definitely pronounced against Abdur Rahman and in favour of the Yakoub faction. Colonel St. John reports that the Kaka tribesmen are again assembling, and that attacks upon convoys and isolated parties may be expected. In the neighbourhood of Kutch the natives have already become troublesome.

AUSTRALIA.

The New South Wales Parliament was dissolved on the 9th inst. Sir Henry Parkes, the Premier, in his address to the electors of East Sydney, declares himself in favour of free trade, the extension of municipal government, and a vigorous railway policy. The revenue returns of the colony for the last five months show an increase of £500,000 over the corresponding period of last year.

The bushranger Kelly, who was captured a few months ago, was hanged at Melbourne on the 11th inst.

SOUTH AFRICA.

The Cape Town correspondent of the Times, telegraphing on the 13th, says:—Colonel Clarke's column has captured Makwassburg. The rebels attacked a small force occupying Lerothodi's village, and the troops were obliged to evacuate it. The men were under arms eighteen hours before returning to camp. The casualties were:—Six killed, the bodies being frightfully mutilated; seven wounded, two missing. Mr. Welsh and the Europeans at Tsolo have been safely relieved, the Pondos of 'Nquiliso assisting. Umquikela is also friendly. The emigrant Tembus along the Indive and Thomo rivers are in rebellion. Colonel Wavel with a force has moved against them. Eight thousand colonial troops will shortly be on the frontier.

A Times telegram from Durban, dated Nov. 15, says:—Four hundred Boers at Potchefstrom have assaulted the Sheriff and seized a waggon about to be sold in execution for arrears of taxes. Troops have been ordered from Rustenburg. Suasion having failed, an armed force was the only remedy. The Transvaal Assembly opened yesterday.

Two telegrams were on Tuesday received at the Colonial Office from the Cape—one of them reporting a collision between the rebels and the Transkei militia, the rebels being repulsed, with a loss of ten killed.

Telegrams from Cape Town report that Umhlonhlo has been defeated by a colonial force, under Mr. Hawthorn, who captured 600 head of cattle.

INDIA.

Lord Ripon yesterday week, at Lahore, returned the visits made by the Rajahs to his Excellency on the previous day. The municipality gave a grand fête to his Excellency at night in the Shalimar gardens, which were brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. There was a display of fireworks. The telegram states that the Viceroy was enthusiastically received by the large concourse of people assembled to witness the festivities. His Excellency reviewed at Lahore on Saturday about 10,000 troops encamped there, including the 92nd Highlanders and several other regiments that had returned from Afghanistan. At the close of the review the Viceroy made a long speech eulogising the conduct of the troops during the late campaign. On Monday Lord Ripon held a Chapter of the Order of the Bath at Lahore, at which General Stewart was invested with the Grand Cross. The ceremony was followed by a Grand Durbar, which was attended by the Punjaub chiefs and a large and brilliant gathering.

Telegrams of Monday's date from Teheran report that the Kurds in the neighbourhood of Soojbulagh have submitted to the Persian military authorities.

The German actors attached to the Court Theatre at Meiningen have entered into an arrangement to appear at Drury Lane Theatre for six weeks from May 30, 1881.

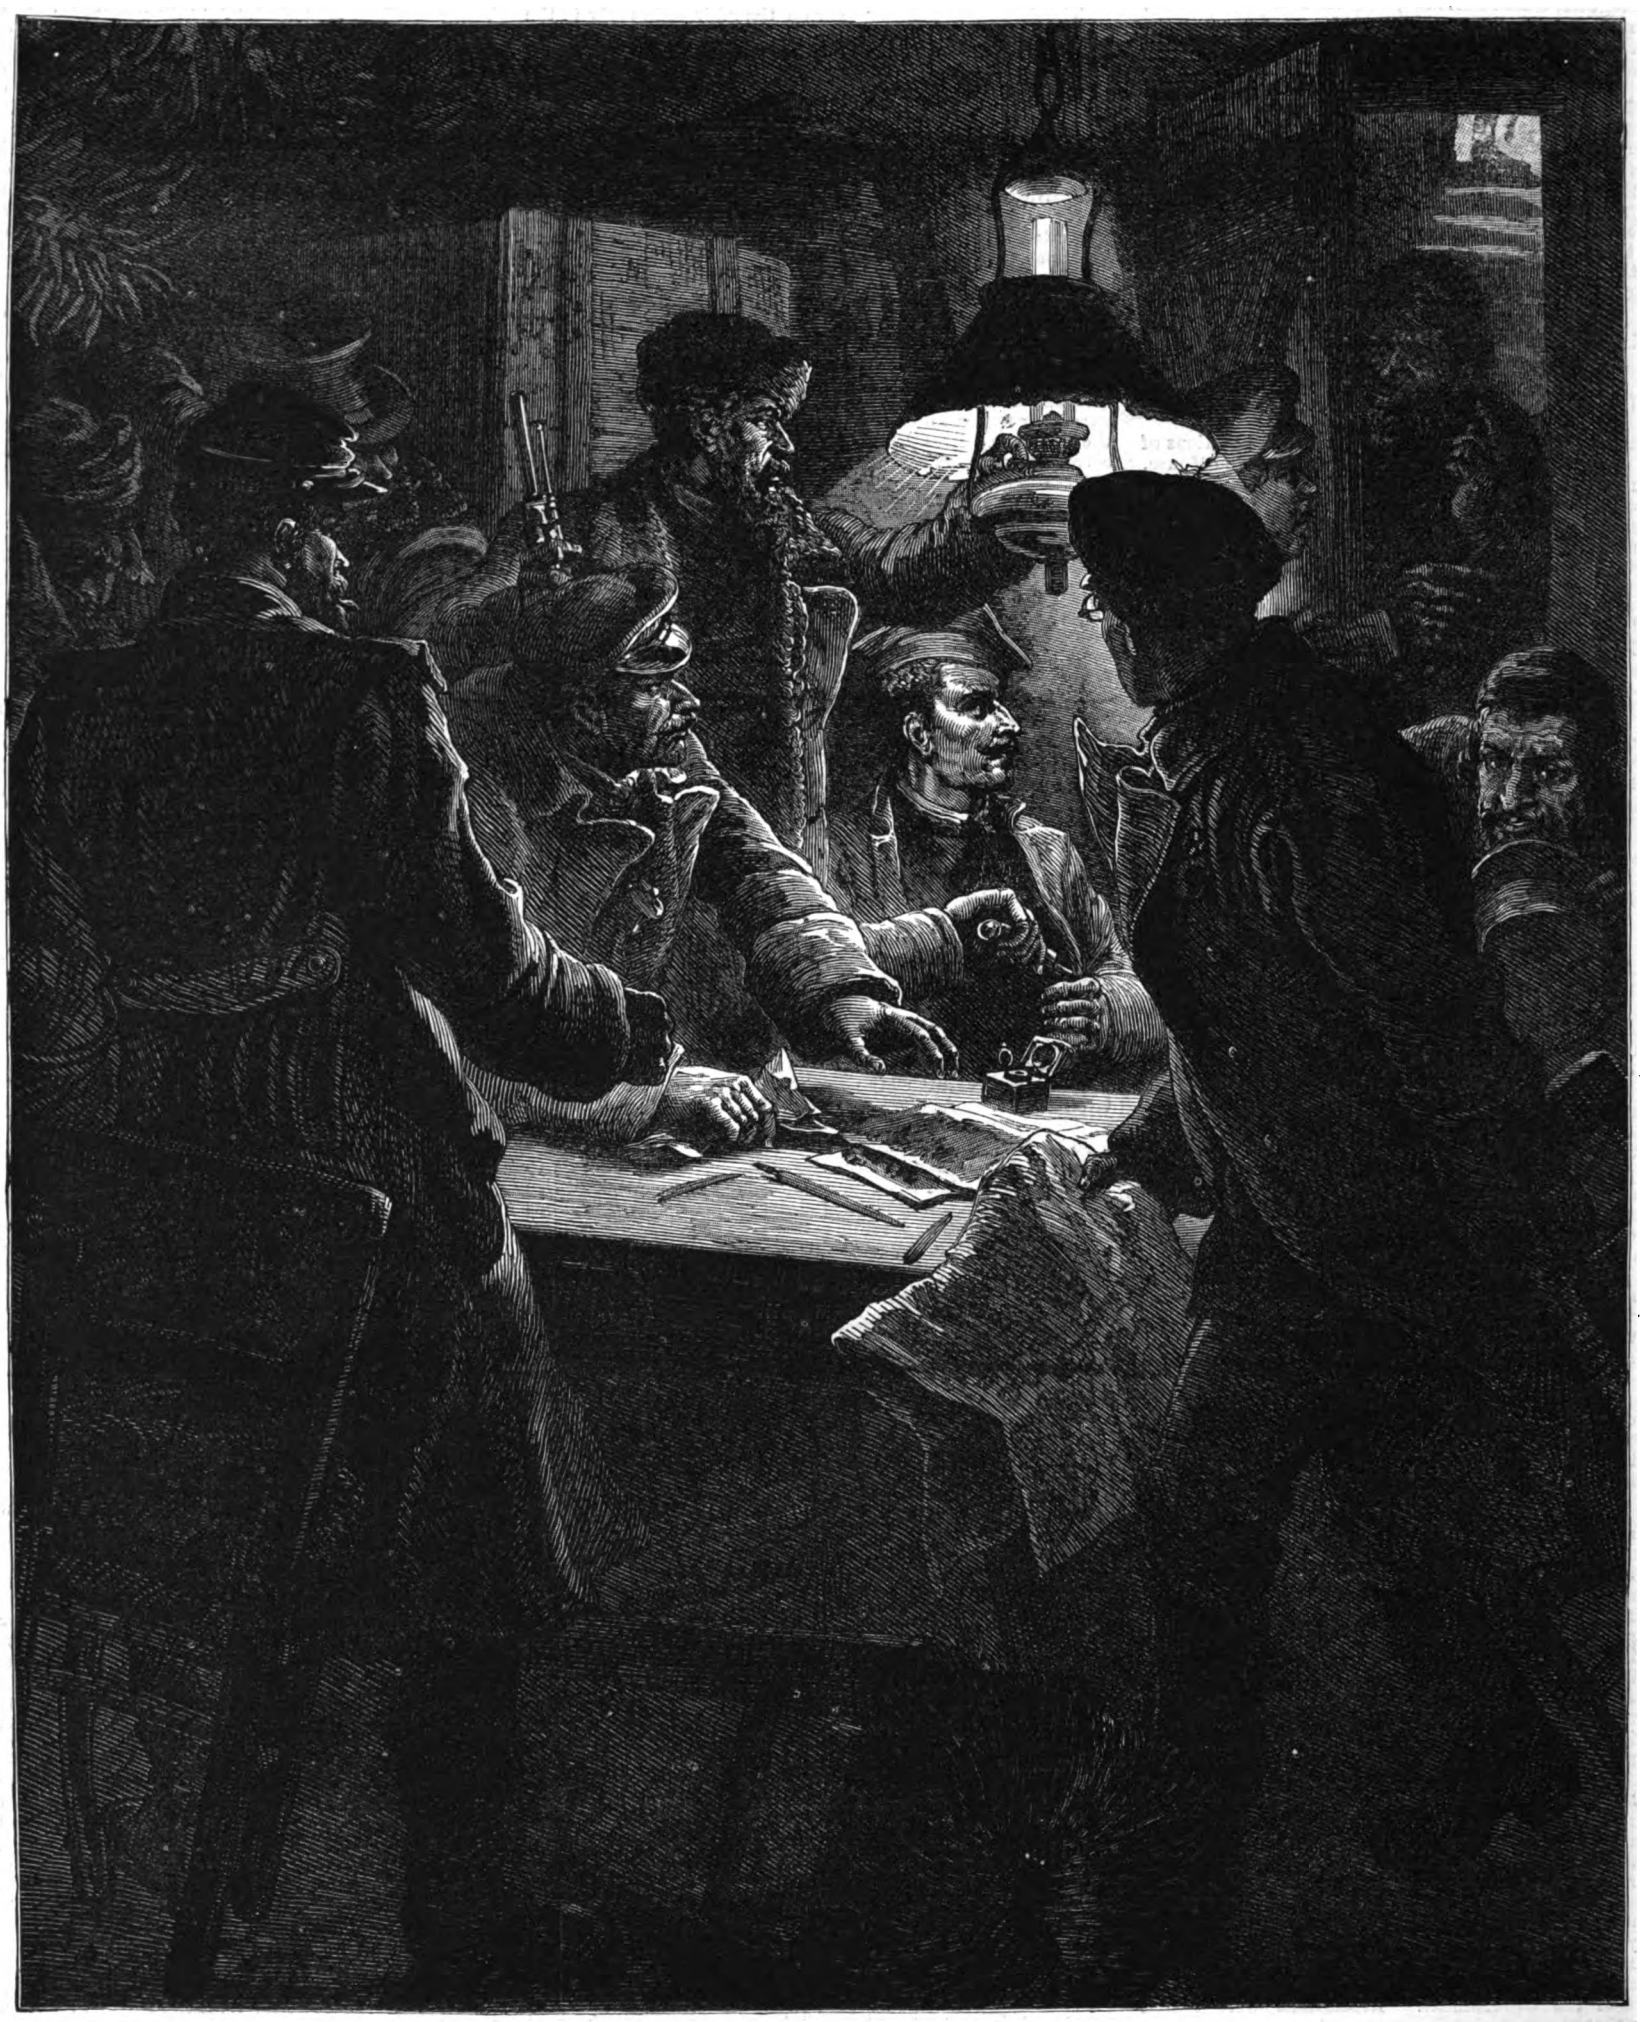
Sir R. Biddulph, the High Commissioner at Cyprus, held a reception at Nicosia last Saturday, which was generally attended by the native inhabitants, who unanimously expressed loyalty to her Majesty the Queen.

The Queensland Government has arranged for a direct four-weekly service of steamers, which will commence next February between London and Brisbane, viâ Suez Canal, and touching at Colombo, Batavia, and the Queensland ports of Cooktown, Townsville, and Rockhampton.

VARIETIES OF RUSSIAN LIFE.

The vast extent of the Russian Empire in Europe, let alone Asia, comprises many different races of people; Slavs, including Russians, Poles, and Lithuanians; Germans and Jews; Finns, Tartars, Calmucks, and Samoiedes, besides detached fragments of other nations, transplanted by the policy of conquerors from their original abode. Some of the marked varieties, to be found in passing from one region or province to another; as in Russian Poland and West Russia, which has a large Polish population; in Little Russia, or the Ukraine, and among the Cossack military peasantry of the south-eastern border, towards the Black Sea and the Caucasus, are delineated in our Illustrations. There is, however, a certain degree of monotony in their social condition and habits, nearly all of them being exclusively occupied in the rudest agricultural drudgery, or in the pastoral care of their flocks and herds. The shops and taverns in a country town or village are generally kept by Jews; and the artisans who make such furniture and utensils, or articles of clothing, as rustic needs may require, are very apt to be of German birth. Most of the domestic trade of Russia is transacted by foreign merchants, who come to the great yearly fairs of Nijni-Novgorod, Berditchev, Kursk, and Lublin in Poland; but the women in every house practise spinning and weaving, and make dresses for the family. The want of intellectual culture among the rural population allows the clergy to possess greater social authority in Russia than in any other country of Europe. They are much divided, however, amongst themselves, by the jealousy that prevails between the parish priests and the monks, the "White" and the "Black" clergy, and by sectarian distinctions of a recondite theological nature, which we cannot pretend to explain.

STEAM-BOATS FOR SOUTH AMERICAN RIVERS.



Messrs. Yarrow and Co., Poplar, the well-known builders of swift torpedo-boats, have been recently building two shallow draught stern-wheel steamers, intended for the conveyance of the mails on the River Magdalena, for the Government of the United States of Columbia. These vessels are put together temporarily in the yard at Poplar, and are then taken to pieces and shipped out to their destination. Each vessel is 130 ft. long, has 28 ft. breadth of beam, and draws 16 in. of water when without cargo and having the steam up, but 26 in. with 90 tons of cargo aboard. The hull is built of steel varying from 3-16 in. to ¼ in. in thickness. It is divided into eighteen water-tight compartments, so as to localise any damage through being penetrated by rocks or snags. All the forward part of the vessel below water is treble riveted, as an extra precaution. The boiler, which is of the locomotive type, is placed on the main-deck forward, and the engines on the main-deck aft, and thus easily accessible. To obtain the greatest economy of fuel, the engines are made on the compound surface condensing system, and for the sake of lightness all the working parts are of steel. They are probably the first compound engines ever fitted to stern-wheel steamers. The cylinders lie one at each side of the vessel, and work direct with a connecting rod on cranks at each end of the axle of the wheel. They are expected to develop 350 to 400 horse power, and have some peculiar arrangements to adapt them for the service. The vessels have what may be termed spoon bows; the sterns retain their full breadth, rounding up gradually from the flat bottom to above the water-line, and thence upwards square. There are three rudders at the stern before the wheels, the centre one being a balanced rudder and the other two of ordinary form, the shaft or rudder-head extending up from the centre one, and the side rudders moving parallel to the middle rudder by means of a connecting link. In the bow, before the boiler, there is fitted a steam capstan for heaving or working the vessel, if necessary, past a a rapid. Alongside the boiler, in connection with the fan-engine, is to be fitted a circular-saw for cutting up the wood fuel. A speed of between fifteen and sixteen miles an hour, at least, on a continuous run, is anticipated from these boats. This, considering the extremely light draught of water, will be a very remarkable result.

THE PORT OF ATHENS.

Considerable anxiety has lately been excited by the political and military attitude of Greece, with regard to its claims of territorial extension and to the cession of Thessaly and Epirus proposed to the Sultan by the Berlin Conference a few months ago. These circumstances give more interest to a view of the Piræus, the port of Athens, which appears in our Journal this week. The Piræus is the largest and most important of three harbours, the others being Munychia and Phalerum, within a short distance of the capital of the Greek kingdom. The town here enjoys a good shipping trade, and has some thriving manufactures of cotton, iron, glass, and pottery, with a population of 22,000. It is connected with Athens, four miles and a half distant, by a line of railway, the only piece of railway that has yet been constructed in modern Greece. Some Government establishments, the College of the Euelpides for the training of military officers, and the Hellenic Schools, a gymnasium, and a museum and public library, have been placed here; and this port is frequented by several lines of mail-steamers in the Levant. It will, perhaps, be remembered that during the Crimean War, from 1853 to 1856, the allied British and French naval squadrons lay at the Piræus, in order to compel the King of Greece to observe a strict neutrality, as between Russia and Turkey. Our view of the harbour and town is sketched from a neighbouring eminence called "the Seat of Xerxes," where the ancient Persian conqueror is said to have gazed on the naval battle of Salamis and the defeat of his grand Armada.

The award of medals for the present year made by the President and Council of the Royal Society are as follows:—The Copley medal to be awarded to Professor James Joseph Sylvester, F.R.S., for his long-continued investigations and discoveries in mathematics; a Royal medal to Professor Joseph Lister, F.R.S., for his contributions on various physiological and biological subjects published in the Philosophical Transactions and Proceedings of the Royal Society and elsewhere, and for his labours, practical and theoretical, on questions relating to the antiseptic system of treatment in surgery; a Royal medal to Captain Andrew Noble, F.R.S., for his researches (jointly with Mr. Abel) into the action of explosives, his invention of the chronoscope, and other mathematical and physical inquiries; the Rumford medal, to Dr. William Huggins, F.R.S., for his important researches in astronomical spectroscopy, and especially for his determination of the radial component of the proper motions of stars; the Davy medal to Professor Charles Friedel, of Paris, for his researches on the organic compounds of silicon, and other investigations. The presentation will take place at the anniversary meeting of the society on the 30th inst.

Digitized by Google

CONSPIRACY IN RUSSIA: A NIHILIST MEETING SURPRISED.

THE NIHILISTS IN RUSSIA.

The trial at St. Petersburg of the sixteen men and women charged with various murders, attempts to murder, and other crimes, in the Nihilist conspiracy to destroy the Emperor and his Government, came to an end yesterday week. The indictment was made to contain the following points:—(1) The murder of Prince Krapotkin, Governor of Kieff; (2) the attempt of Solovieff on the life of the Czar on April 14, 1879; (3) the attempt to blow up the Imperial train near Moscow; (4) the laying of mines at Alexandrovsk and Odessa; (5) the explosion in the Winter Palace; (6) connection with a secret printing-press in St. Petersburg, and armed resistance to its suppression; (7) armed resistance on the arrest of a suspected person in the Vassily Ostrof Alley last July; and, finally, the Nihilist Congress at Lipetsk, at which, among other things, it was deliberated how funds might be supplied to the revolutionary party.

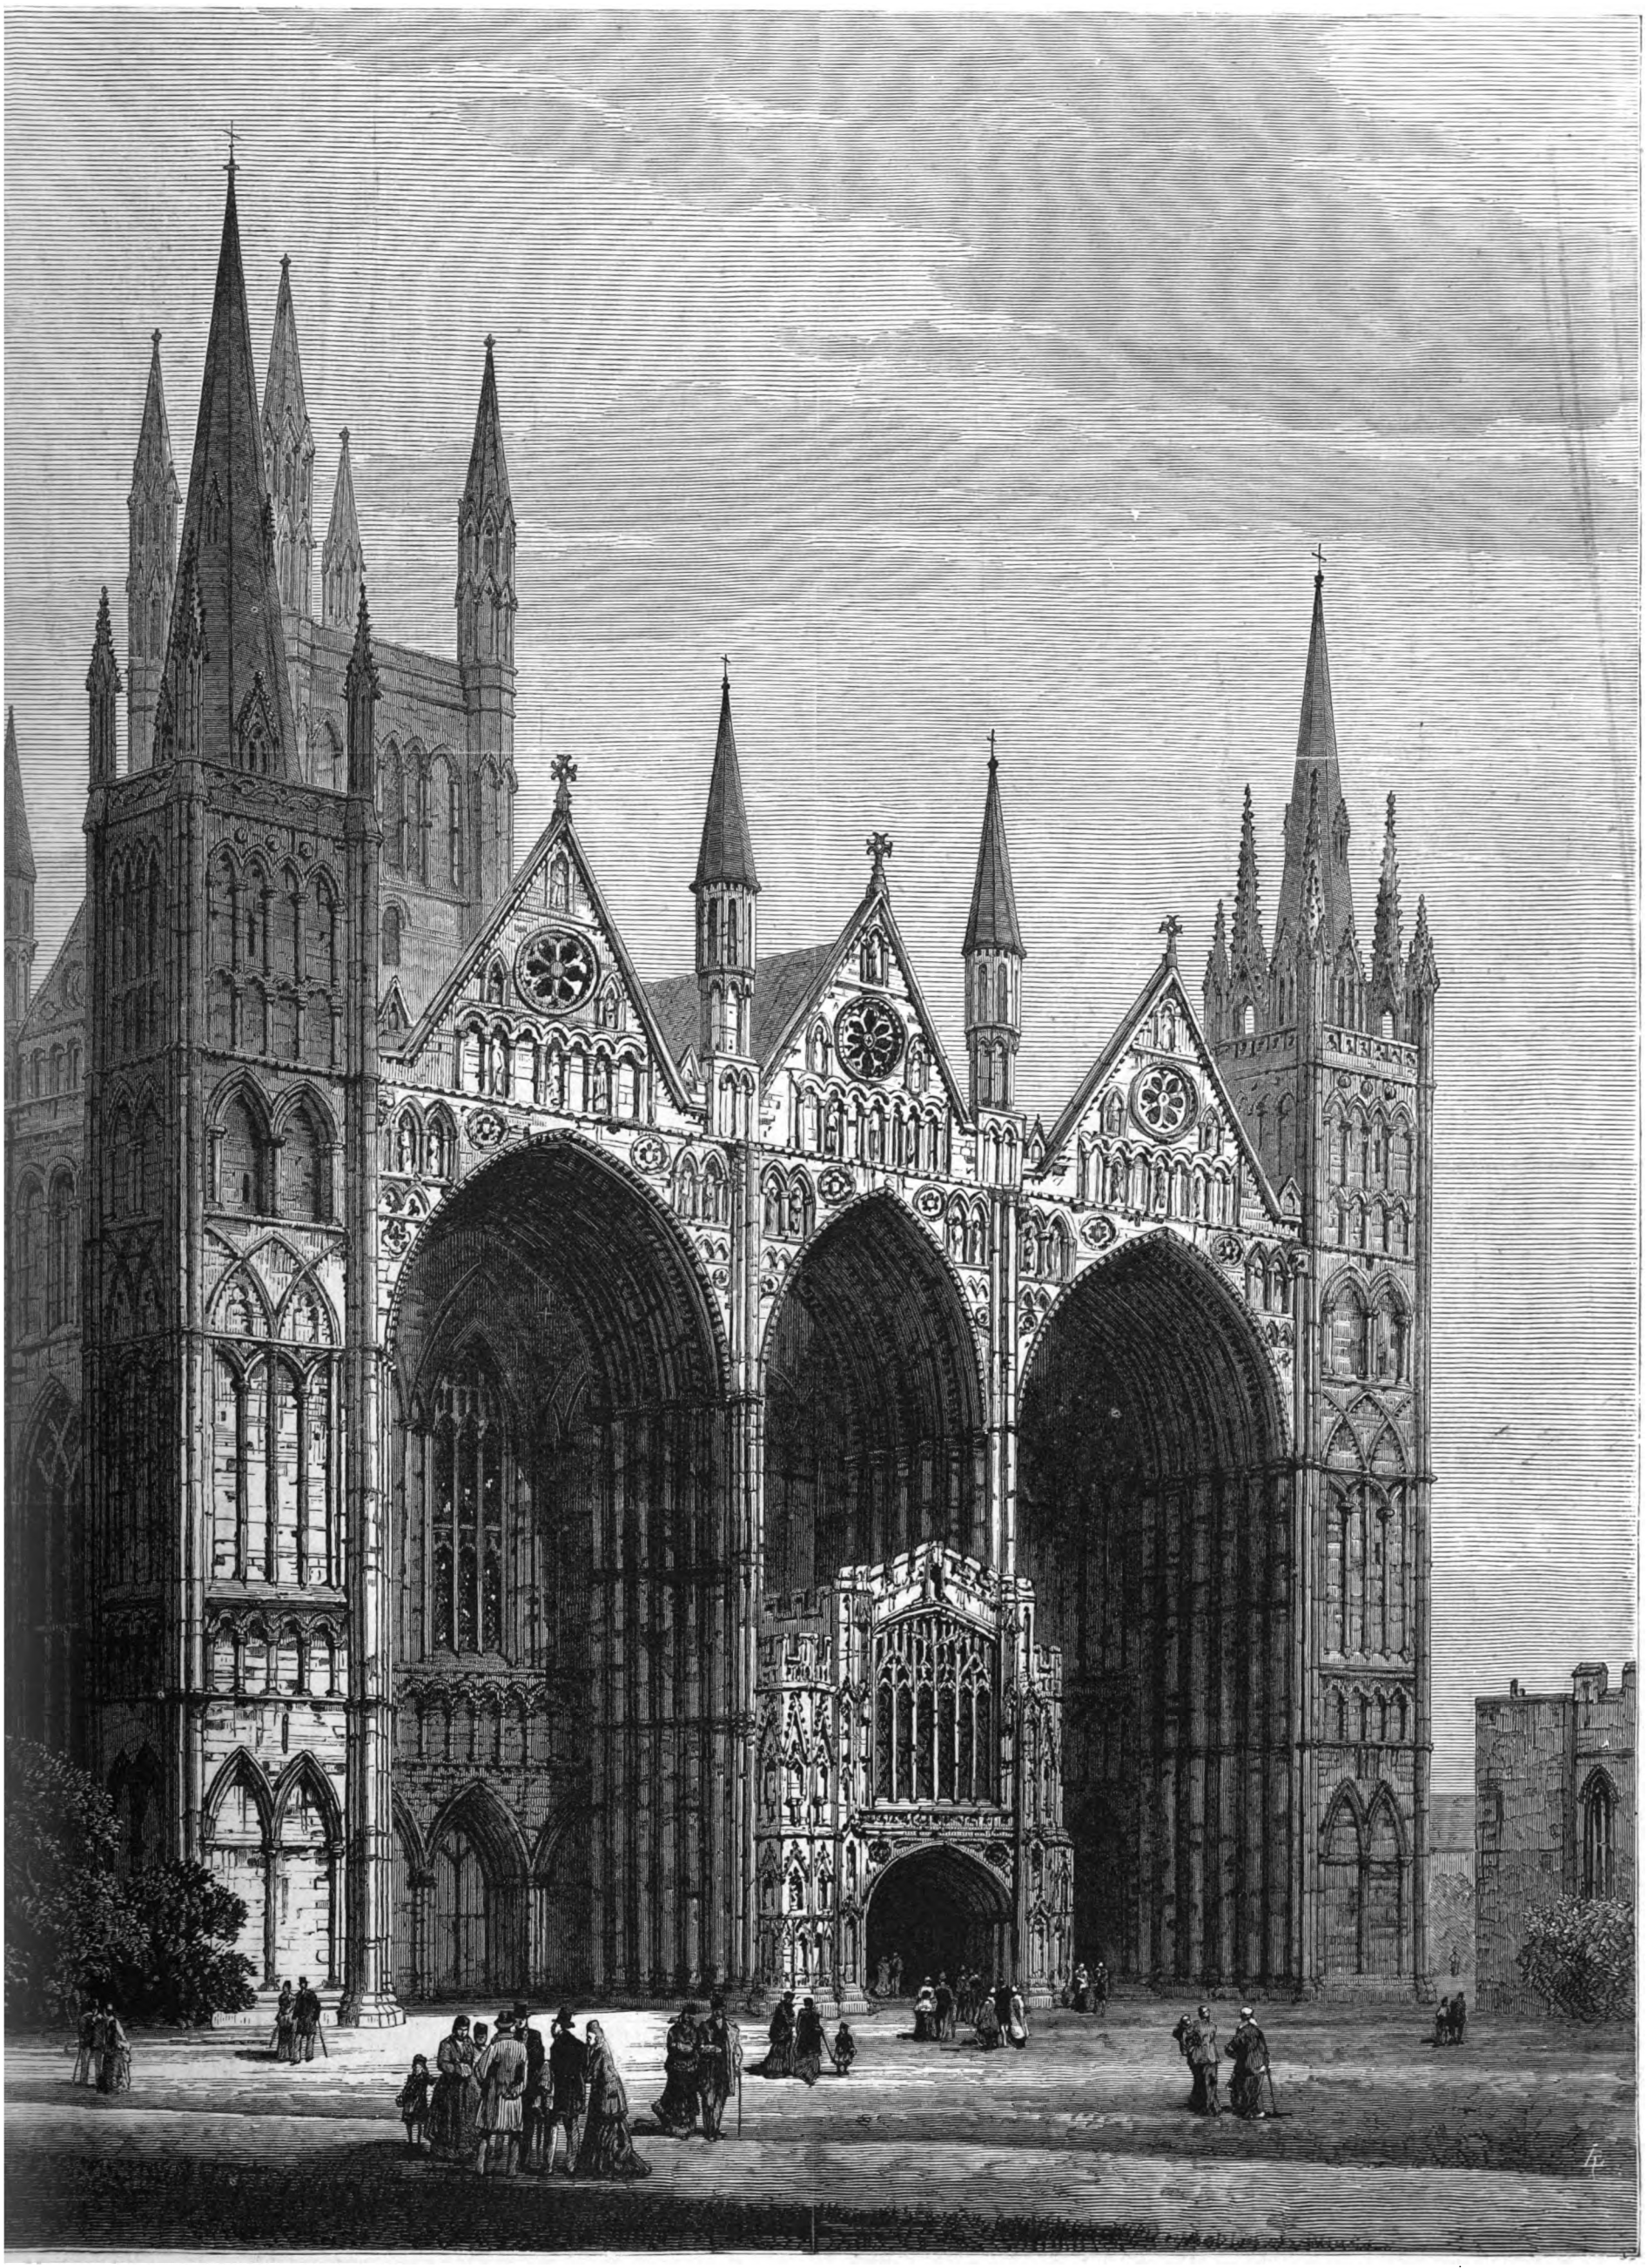
The proceedings of this trial were by court-martial. The ordinary members of the court were Major-General Leicht, president; Councillor of State Schetkowsky, and Colonel Babst; while the following officers, commanding regiments of the Guard, acted as special assessors:—Colonel Hesse, of the Preobajenski Regiment; Colonel Alexejeff, of the Semenoff Regiment; Colonel Stolitza, of the Jaegers; Colonel Krassovsky, of the Moscow Regiment; and Colonel Amtschkoff, of the Pawlow Regiment. The Military Procurator, M. Achscharomoff, with three assistants, conducted the prosecution, and the prisoners were defended by MM. Margolin, Appolonoff, Dsenziol, Kisslitschny, and Chodneff. The accused, when they appeared in court, were attired in their ordinary civil dress. Amongst the articles produced in evidence against some of the prisoners were specimens of the dynamite used in the several explosions.

The chief prisoner, Kviatkovsky, twenty-seven years of age, of noble birth, and of a superior education, was accused of taking part in the conspiracy to blow up the Winter Palace. There was next, Shiraieff, the son of a peasant farmer, but intelligent and well-informed, who was charged as the accomplice of Hartmann in the Moscow railway plot. Among the others were Zuckermann, who had spat at the police when they seized a secret printing press; Zundelevitch, a renegade Jew; Bulitch, who conveyed money to the conspirators; Kobilansky, a Catholic Polish nobleman, who instigated the assassination of Prince Krapotkin; Martinoffsky; Priesniakoff, and three women; the younger of these, Ivanovna, the daughter of a Major in the army, had lived with Kviatkovsky as his wife. Most of them, when found guilty upon the evidence, avowed their share in the Nihilist conspiracy, but Kviatovsky denied that he had taken part in the plot to blow up the Winter Palace, or in any murder or assassination.

The Court pronounced judgment on Friday, the 12th, after some hours' deliberation. Five of the prisoners—namely, Kviatkovsky, Shiraieff, Teckhonoff, Okladsky, and Priesniakoff—were sentenced to be hanged. The remaining eleven prisoners were condemned to deprivation of civil rights and hard labour in the mines, Zundelevitch for an unspecified term; Kobilansky, Buch, and Zubkofsky for twenty years; Zuckermann, Bulitch, Martinoffsky, and Drigo for fifteen years. The three women—Ivanovna, Griaznova, and Figner—are condemned to fifteen years' penal servitude on the Government works. The Court announced, however, that it would address a recommendation in the proper quarter for the following mitigation of the sentences—namely, the terms of penal servitude of Zuckermann and the woman Ivanovna to be reduced to eight and four years respectively, and the prisoners Bulitch, Drigo, Figner, and Griaznova to be commuted from hard labour in the mines to deportation to Siberia, where they will be settled as colonists.

The sentences have already been carried into execution

Digitized by Google



Digitized by Google

PETERBOROUG

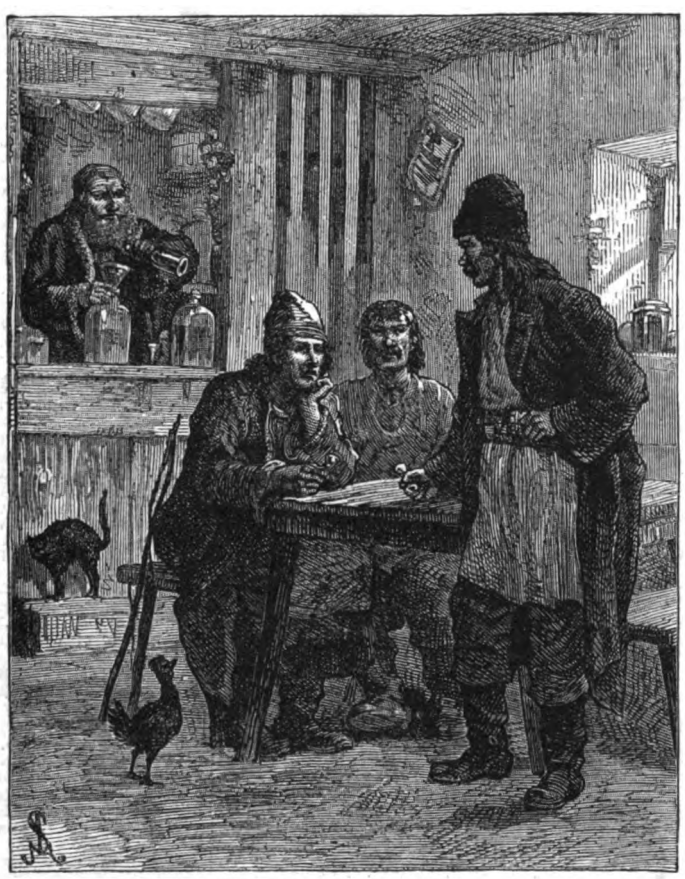
DRAWN

Digitized by Google

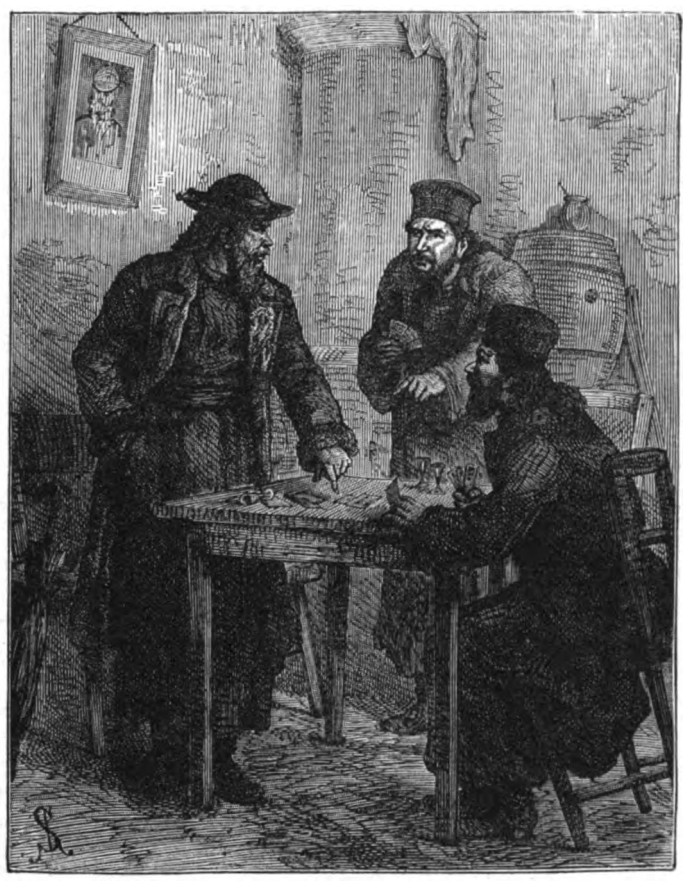
CATHEDRAL.

S. READ.

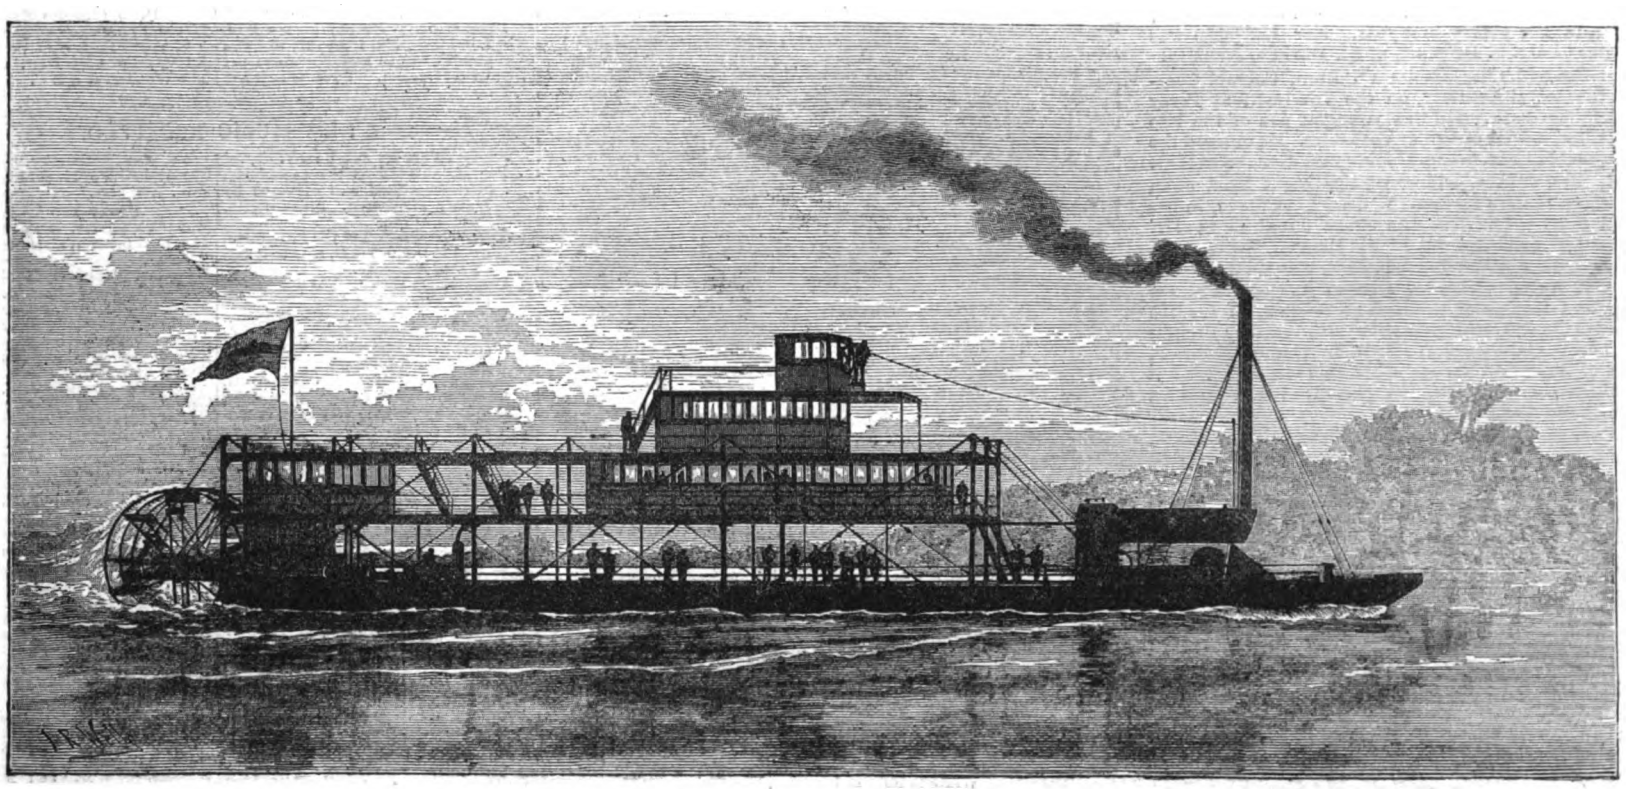
Digitized by Google



Digitized by Google



RUSSIAN FRONTIER COSSACKS.



PEASANTS OF RUSSIAN POLAND.

RUSSNIAKS OF LITTLE RUSSIA.

RUSSIAN LOW ORTHODOX CLERGYMEN.

STERN-WHEEL STEAMER OF STEEL FOR RIVER MAGDALENA, SOUTH AMERICA.—SEE PAGE 507.

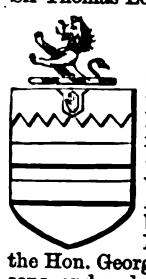
Digitized by Google

against Kviatkovsky and Priesniakoff, who were hanged at the fortress of St. Petersburg on Tuesday morning. Some of the other sentences have been mitigated.

It is stated that Halturin, the carpenter to whom the explosion in the Winter Palace is attributed, has been arrested within the last few days.

Our Illustration represents the scene at a Nihilist meeting suddenly entered and surprised by the Russian police.

OBITUARY.



COUNT EYRE.

John Lewis, Count Eyre, of the Papal Dominions, died on the 11th inst., at his residence, 25, Manchester-square, in his ninety-second year. He was fifth son of Mr. Vincent Eyre, of Highfield and Newbolt, in the county of Derby, by Catherine, his wife, only child of William Parker, Esq., of Rainhill, and was a descendant of the old Derbyshire family of Eyre, of Holme. The title of Count was conferred upon him by his Holiness the Pope. Count Eyre married, first, August, 1811, Sarah, daughter of Mr. William Parker, of Kingston-upon-Hull, and by her, who died May 13, 1825, had five sons and four daughters, several of whom are dead. All the sons, with the exception of one, Thomas Joseph, of Uppercourt, in the county of Kilkenny, took holy orders in the Church of Rome, the eldest surviving being Charles Eyre, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Glasgow. Count Eyre married, secondly, Augustine Cécile Pulchérie, daughter of Armand Dumesniel, Marquis de Sommery, but by her, who died Feb. 20, 1876, he has left no issue.

THE LADY ELIZABETH BULTEEL.

The Lady Elizabeth Bulteel died on the 8th inst., at 52, Green-street, Grosvenor-square, aged eighty-two. Her ladyship was second daughter of Charles, second Earl Grey, K.G., the Prime Minister, by Mary Elizabeth, his wife, only daughter of William Brabazon, first Lord Ponsonby, and was consequently sister of the present Earl Grey. She married, May 13, 1826, Mr. John Crocker Bulteel, of Flete and Lyncham, M.P., and by him, who died Sept. 10, 1843, had issue, John, now of Pamflete, county Devon; Mary Elizabeth (Hon.), late Maid of Honour to the Queen, married in 1861 to the Right Hon. Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Ponsonby, Private Secretary and Privy Purse to her Majesty; Georgiana Frances and Louisa Emily Charlotte.

SIR T. LEIGH HARE, BART.

Sir Thomas Leigh Hare, Bart., died on the 14th inst., at Stow Hall, near Downham Market, Norfolk. The deceased Baronet was the only son of Sir Thomas, the first Baronet—who assumed the surname of Hare, and, as the representative of that ancient family, was created a Baronet in December, 1818, the last Baronet of the Hare family, Sir George, dying in 1764, the baronetcy (created in 1614) became extinct—by his second wife, the Hon. Anne Elizabeth, daughter of Admiral Thomas, first Lord Graves. He was born July 18, 1807, and married, Oct. 1, 1864, Miss Angelina Norman Vaughan, daughter of the Hon. George L. Vaughan, by whom he leaves issue three sons and a daughter. The deceased Baronet was formerly Captain in the 2nd Life Guards, and afterwards Captain in the West Norfolk Militia, but resigned in 1852. He was a magistrate and Deputy Lieutenant for Norfolk, and had served the office of High Sheriff of the county. He succeeded to the baronetcy in February, 1834, on the death of his father, who had served with distinction in the American War. The late Baronet is succeeded by his eldest son, George Ralph Leigh, born March 16, 1866.

GENERAL BROWN-GREIVE, C.B.

General John Tatton Brown-Greive, C.B., died recently at Orde House, near Berwick, in his eighty-fifth year. He entered the Royal Marines in 1811, and attained the rank of full General in 1867. He served on the coast of Syria 1840 and 1841, and received the war and Turkish medals. General Brown-Greive married, first, Ruth, daughter of Mr. John Butler; and secondly, Jane, only daughter of Mr. Alexander Kellock, of Berwick-on-Tweed. On his second wife succeeding to the estate of Orde House in right of her mother, he assumed the additional surname of Greive.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Major-General Twysden, late Indian Army, on the 5th inst., at Harrogate, aged sixty.

Mr. Pilfold Medwin, solicitor, and Registrar of Horsham County Court, aged eighty-seven. He was a cousin of Shelley, the poet, with whom he was on most intimate terms.

General Thomas Brooke, Colonel 28th Regiment, on the 4th inst., at 13, Manson-place, Queen's-gate, aged sixty-four. He was the second son of Sir Richard Brooke, Bart.

Lady Morris (Elizabeth Martha), widow of General Sir Edmund Finucane Morris, K.C.B., on the 5th inst., at Ryde, Isle of Wight, in her eighty-first year. Her Ladyship was second daughter of Mr. S. Delpratt, of St. David's, Jamaica.

Lieutenant-General Charles James Dalton, Colonel Commandant of the Royal Artillery, on the 7th inst., at Percy House, Twickenham Park. He was youngest son of the late Rev. James Dalton, Rector of Croft, Yorkshire. He entered the Royal Artillery in 1829, and became Lieutenant-General in 1877.

Rosamond, Mrs. Croker, widow of the Right Hon. John Wilson Croker, on the 7th inst., at Kensington Palace, in her ninety-second year. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. William Pennell, Consul-General in the Brazils, was married in 1806, and had one son and one daughter, who died young.

Mary Harriet Anne, widow of George Augustus Cranley Onslow, Esq., and mother of the Earl of Onslow, on the 7th inst., at Clandon Park, Guildford. She was eldest daughter of the late Lieutenant-General W. F. B. Loftus, of Kilbride, in the county of Wicklow, was married in 1848, and was left a widow in 1855. Her only son, the present Earl of Onslow, succeeded his grand-uncle in 1870.

Mr. William Henry Edward Wood-Wright, of Golagh, county Monaghan, J.P. and D.L., and High Sheriff of that county in 1877, at his seat near Monaghan, aged twenty-seven. He was only child of the late Rev. William Henry Wood-Wright, of Golagh, by Jane Elizabeth, his wife, only daughter of Nathaniel Stewart, of Shellfield, county Donegal, and represented an ancient family that settled at Golagh in 1653.

Abatements of rent have recently been made as follows:—At the half-yearly audit of the Duke of Wellington estates in the Baughurst and Kingsclere district, his Grace returned to all his tenants 30 per cent of their rentals. The Earl of Sheffield, who remitted 25 per cent at the last two half-yearly audits of his Sussex estates, has made a reduction of 15 per cent in the rents due at Michaelmas. Most of the landowners of the Weald of Sussex have made reductions ranging from 10 to 15 per cent.

CHESS.

W B (Stratford).—The Problem No. 1 is marked for insertion. The other, although very neat, is too simple.

P J (Broadmoor).—Your problems are under examination.

G M (Eton).—The position is certainly unconventional, and, if found correct, it shall have a diagram.

C E T (Bristol).—Both excellent in conception, suggesting, indeed, the old saying, "too good to be true." They shall be carefully examined, however, and, if proved to be sound, shall soon appear.

C L C (Clapham).—Your two-move problem can, we think, be solved by way of 1. P to K 5th (ch) and 2. Q or B takes P, mate. The other shall be examined in due course.

W J P (Kingston).—The game can be drawn by perpetual check in the position described. The rule is to the effect that if a player persists in making the same move, or series of moves, the adversary may call upon him to consent to a draw after fifty moves on each side have been played.

J A (Broadmoor).—Your method of stating the solutions is very full, clear, and concise.

S F H (Donegal).—When castling on the King's side, the King should be placed on K Kt sq, and the Rook on K B sq.

Orima (Rostoff).—In Problem No. 4, after L c 8 to a 6, if Black play T h 8 to f 8, followed by T f 8 to f 4, how is the mate given on the next move?

E L G (Blackwater).—The solution is acknowledged in the usual place this week.

A H (Swansea).—The game referred to has not been overlooked; but, upon further consideration, we did not think it a fair specimen of the player's skill. The MS. shall be returned to you, if you desire it. We are much obliged for your courtesy.

S W (Liverpool).—The misprint is a ludicrous one, and we regret its occurrence. Please to accept our thanks for the information.

Problems received from Pierce Jones and T B Rapp.

A Hindoo Youth (Calcutta).—Your solutions of Nos. 1908, 1909, and 1910 are correct.

Any Amateur desirous of playing a game of chess by correspondence may address A Schobloch, 32, Albert-Strasse, Leipzig.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1914 received from L Chapelle (Malta), Louis Spence, James Atkinson, Orima (Rostoff), P S Shenele, and E L G.

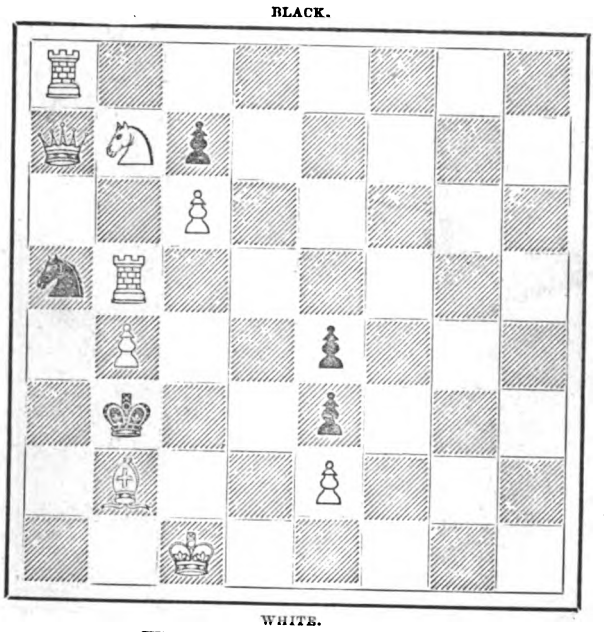
Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1915 received from Glymm Grylls, Jane Nepven, H de Groot, A Snellen, James Atkinson, T Guest, J Brelly, J Glossop, P S Shenele, S F Fitzhenry, Hampsteadian, L Chapelle, Alfred W Hale, N M C, W M Curtis, J Burnstead, H J Grant, and Vice-Admiral Somerville.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1916 received from H B, East Marden, Shadforth, Julia Short, E L G, Gustavus, Norman Rumbelow, P S Shenele, F Littleloy, James Dobson, C L Combe, Cant, Alpha, Louis Spence, Hereward, Owlet Junior, Smutch, Lulu, Thomas Guest, E P Vulliamy, Wogglepoll, J E Smith, R Johnson, R H Brooks, James Glossop, W Riddle, S F FitzHenry, T Greenbank, L Sharswood, Ernest Sharswood, S Farrant, G Fosbrooke, D Templeton, C S Coxe, C Darrach, Ben Nevis, Elsie, E Elsbury, Kitten, H Langford, C Oswald, C W Burton, R Jessop, G L Mayne, H Barrett, N Cator, R Ingersoll, M O'Halloran, Nerina, R Gray, Jupiter Junior, Helen Lee, B L Dyke, An Old Hand, D W Kell, H Brewster, H Blacklock, Pierce Jones, T R Rapp (Munich), Cucumber, Hampsteadian, E Louden, H Stebbing, John Tucker, W Owen (Tallan), A Chapman, Alfred W Hale, Semaj, and W M Curtis, T Guest.

Correct Solutions of Mr. Taylor's Problem received from Louis Spence and T Guest.

Correct Solutions of the Suimate Problem received from Louis Spence, J Brelly (Breteuil), and Pierce Jones.

Correct Solutions of Count Pongracz's Problem received from East Marden, Alpha, C L Combe, T Guest, Pierce Jones, T Greenbank, Ernest Sharswood, D Templeton, C S Coxe, Ben Nevis, E Elsbury, C Oswald, C W Burton, R Jessop, R Ingersoll, M O'Halloran, Jupiter Junior, An Old Hand, D W Kell, H Blacklock, E Casella (Paris), Otto Fulder (Ghent), and R Johnson.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1915.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Q to K 2nd	Any move
2. Mates accordingly.

PROBLEM No. 1918.

By D. Fawcett (Leeds).

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in two moves.

It has given us much pleasure to note that many of our regular solvers have been interested in the three-move problem by Count Arnold Pongracz, quoted in our issue of the 6th inst. Before dismissing it with the solution, which it is proposed to give here, it may amuse some of our younger readers if we tell them that to this very fine composition there hangs a tale. The problem is, to all appearance, a piece of finished workmanship; and the observations appended to the solutions received prove that it has been so considered by our readers. One correspondent, indeed, describes it as "thoroughly thought out," and expresses a desire that other problem-makers—who are, of course, nameless—would bestow similar pains upon their work before submitting it to the public. In the chorus of praise we heartily join; but the commendation of labour is in this instance curiously misplaced, if there is any truth in the story of the problem as related when it first appeared, about eight years ago. It should be premised that in the chess world the Count's pseudonym, "The Hermit of Tirnau," is better known than his title. According to the Illustrirte Zeitung of Leipsic, where the problem was originally published, a number of young players were assembled one evening in the Casino at Tirnau studying a chess problem when the Hermit entered the room

"Tell us," said one of them, respectfully addressing the old man, "how chess problems are constructed—how we may learn the Art?"

"You must first," replied the Hermit, "think of what combination of the pieces you desire your problem to illustrate, then decide upon the number of moves required to effect it; and lastly, by repeated examination, prove that it can be solved only in the way you propose."

While speaking, he advanced to a chess table and, arranging eight pieces on the board, in a fortuitous way, became lost in profound meditation, gazing intently at the position. After a pause, another of the youngsters observed, rather flippantly, "Perhaps this affair will be a chess problem some time." The Hermit regarded the board for a few seconds longer and then replied, "It is one now, mate in three moves." "Well, that cannot be a very difficult problem," was the laughing response, and thereupon the whole party set to work to solve it. The problem, a mere waif of fancy, required a longer siege than was anticipated, and it was not until the following night that one of the party (Herr A. von S.) succeeded in producing a solution.

Here, then, is a problem, embodying a brilliant combination, and difficult of solution, conceived and constructed in the space of a few minutes. We don't profess to know what moral, if any, is to be deduced from this tale, except the rather stale one that appearances are deceptive, to which, perhaps, may be tacked the aphorism that chess writers sometimes "tell stories." The following is the solution:—1. Kt to Q B 2nd, K to Q B 3rd; 2. B to B 5th, K takes B; 3. Q to Q B 7th, mate. If Black play 1. K to K 4th, White continues with 2. B to Kt 8th (ch) and 3. Q to Q 5th, mate.

A match between the Ladies' College and the Excelsior Chess Clubs was played on Tuesday, the 9th instant, each side being represented by seven members. The representatives of the Ladies' College won with a score of 5½ to the adversaries' 1½, Mrs. Zanzig defeating Mr. Gastineau after a gallant struggle.

At the annual meeting of the City and County of Dublin Chess Club, held at the club-room in Molesworth-street, the report of the committee was adopted unanimously. Mr. J. B. Pim was elected vice-president of the association, and the retiring members of the managing committee were re-elected. Captain Mclnado is the honorary secretary.

A problem tournament organised some time ago by the editor of the Canadian Spectator has just been brought to a conclusion by the award of the judge, Mr. Charles A. Gilberg, of Brooklyn. The first prize for the best set and the special prizes for the best problems have been awarded to those bearing the motto "Gemini," whose author is Mr. William Atkinson, of Montreal. We quote the two-move position from the Turf, Field, and Farm, of New York:—

White: K at Q R 3rd; Q at Q Kt 4th; R at K B 6th; B's at Q 3rd and 6th; Kt at K B 8th. (Six pieces.)

Black: K at Q 4th; R at K 3rd; Kts at K Kt 5th and K B 8th; Pawns at K B 2nd, K 2nd; and Q Kt 3rd. (Seven pieces.)

White to play, and mate in two moves.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

Allen and Co.
Sketches of Army Life in Russia. By Lieutenant F. V. Greene.

Bentley and Son.
The Niger and the Benneh. Travels in Central Africa. By Adolphe Burdo, From the French by Mrs. George Sturge.
A Lady's Tour in Corsica. By Gertrude Forde. 2 vols.
Studies in English Art. Second Series. By Frederick Wedmore.
Tent Work in Palestine. A Record of Discovery and Adventure. By Claude Reignier Conder. With Illustrations. New Edition.

Blackie and Son.
Switzerland, Its Scenery and People Pictorially Represented by Eminent Swiss and German Artists. With Historical and Descriptive Text.

Blackwood and Sons.
Foreign Classics for English Readers: Cervantes.

Bogue.
Unconscious Memory: a Comparison between the Theory of Dr. Ewald Hering and "The Philosophy of the Unconscious" of Dr. Edward von Hartmann. By Samuel Butler.
British Painters of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries. With Eighty Examples of their Work Engraved on Wood.

Bradbury, Agnew, and Co.
Echoes from the Counties.

Cassell, Petter, and Galpin.
Pictures To Paint. For Little Folks With Stories and Verses by George Weatherly.
The Ferryman of Brill and Other Stories. By W. H. G. Kingston.
Faith's Father. By F. Morell Holmes.
In Mischief Again. By the Author of "Hugh's Heroism."
Familiar Garden Flowers. Figured by F. Edward Hulme and described by Shirley Hibberd. First Series. With Coloured Plates.
The Favourite Album of Fun and Fancy. With Illustrations by Ernest Griset and Others.
Peggy Ogilvie's Inheritance. By the Author of "Round the Court."
Tim Trumble's "Little Mother." By C. L. Matéaux
What Girls Can Do. By. P. Browne.

Chapman and Hall.
Social Sinners. A Novel. By Hawley Smart. 3 vols.
The Two Dreamers. A Novel. By John Saunders. 3 vols.

Chatto and Windus.
The Rebel of the Family. By E. Lynn Linton. 3 vols.
The Wooing of The Water-Witch. A Northern Oddity. With 125 Illustrations by J. Moyr Smith.
A Simple Treatise on Heat. By Dr. Mattieu Williams. Illustrations.

Dean and Son.
The Children's Variety Entertainment. By Thomas Holden. Verses by Eric Wells.

De la Rue and Co.
The Story of Prince Hildebrand and the Princess Ida. By Major T. S. Seccombe. With 110 Illustrations.

Gardner and Darton.
Sunday Reading for Young and Old. With 200 Illustrations.

Griffith and Farran.
The Bird and Insects' Post Office. By Robert Bloomfield. With Illustrations. Third Thousand.
A Life's Atonement. A Novel. By David Christie Murray. 3 vols.

"Hand and Heart" Office.
The Fireside Annual, 1880.
Home Words for Heart and Hearth.
The Day of Days Annual.
Nehemiah Nibbs' Goose. By Charles W. Bardsley.

Hatchards.
The Story of Jesus for Little Children. By Mrs. Morton. Illustrations.
Holiday Times. By H. L. Hamilton.
The Forty Shires, Their History, Scenery, Arts and Legends. By C. M. Mason. Illustrations.

Isbister.
Andrew Harvey's Wife. By L. T. Meade.
Far Out. Rovings Re-told. By Lieut-Col. W. F. Butler.

Low and Co.
Peasant Life in the West of England. By F. G. Heath. New Edition.
Northern Fairy Tales. Translated from P. C. Asbjörnsen's Norwegian Fairy Tales and H. C. Andersen's Danish Fairy Tales. By H. L. Brækstad. With Illustrations.
Men of Mark. Fifth Series.
Parliamentary History of the Irish Land Question, from 1829 to 1869; and the Origin and Results of the Ulster Custom. By R. O'Brien.

Macmillan and Co.
Guide to the Study of Political Economy. By Dr. Luigi Cossa. Translated from the Italian
Studies in Deductive Logic. A Manual for Students. By M. Stanley Jevons.

Nelson and Sons.
With the Birds. Poems by Mary Howitt. 90 Illustrations.
The Wilds of Florida. A Tale. By W. H. G. Kingston. 37 Engravings.
Frank Powderhorn. A Book for Boys. By J. Sands. 24 Illustrations
Shakespeare's Stories Simply Told. By Mary Seamer. 130 Illustrations.
In Bible Lands. By the Rev. Richard Newton. 60 Engravings.
The Eastern Archipelago. By the Author of the Arctic World. 60 Illustrations.
Little Lottie's Picture Gallery. 100 Illustrations.
Little Clara's Picture Gallery. 100 Illustrations.
Papa's Picture Album, 100 Illustrations.
Jenny and the Insects. 26 Illustrations.
California and Its Wonders. By the Rev. John Todd. 17 Illustrations.
Songs of Animal Life. Poems by Mary Howitt. 90 Illustrations.

Nimmo and Bain.
Modern Foreign Library: Quisisana; or, Rest at Last. From the German of F. Spielhagen. By H. E. Goldschmidt.
The Count of Talavera. From the Dutch of J. van Lennep. By A. Arnold.

Nisbet and Co.
Heather and Harebells. A Story for Children. By Emma Marshall.
Roger Willoughby; or the Times of Benbow. W. H. G. Kingston.

Reeves and Turner.
Vane's Story, Weddah, and Om-el-bonain, and Other Poems. By James Thomson.

Religious Tract Society.
Cottager and Artisan. 1880.
Child's Companion and Juvenile Instructor. 1880.
Away on the Waters.
The Old Endeavour. A Book for Boys. By Crona Temple.
Glimpses Into the Secrets of Nature. By Mary E. Beck.
Aunt Milly's Childhood.

Routledge and Sons.
Amateur Acting. By J. Keith Angus.

Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.
Not Quite a Peck of P—s. By Sator.

Smith, Elder, and Co.
The Poetry of Astronomy. By Richard A. Proctor.

Sonnenschein and Allan.
Asgard and the Gods. Adapted from the Work of Dr. W. Wagner, by M. W. MacDowall, and Edited by W. S. W. Anson. Illustrations.
Field-Marshal Count Moltke. 1800-1878. By Professor W. Müller, of Tübingen. Translated, with the Author's Sanction, by Percy E. Pinkerton, and Edited by Captain H. M. Hozier. Second Edition.

Stevens.
Album and Catalogue of Postage Stamps. Revised by Dr. Viner.

Stock.
Morning, Noon, and Night. A Pocket Manual of Private Prayer. Edited by the Rev. Edward Garbett.

Sunday School Union.
Excelsior. Helps to Progress in Thought and Action. Vol II.
The Boy Who Sailed With Blake and The Orphans. By W. Kingston.
Caught in the Toils. A Story of a Convent School. By Emma Leslie.

Vizetelly and Co.
The Story of the Diamond Necklace. A Sketch of the Life of the Countess de la Motte. By Henry Vizetelly. Third Edition, Revised.

Ward and Co.
Hilary's Love Story. By Georgiana M. Craik. Illustrated.

Warne and Co.
His Father; or, a Mother's Legacy. By Silas K. Hocking. Illustrations.

Lansdowne Poets.
Reliques of Ancient English Poetry. By Thomas Percy. New Edition. Edited by E. Walford.
Ditto, Chandos Classics.
The Poetical Works of Gray, Beattie, and Collins. Reprinted from the Best Authorities.
Ditto, Chandos Classics.
Gems of National Poetry. Edited by Mrs. Valentine.
Ditto, Chandos Classics.
Life and Letters of Edward Gibbon: With his History of the Crusades.
Aunt Louisa's Modeller. Cinderella.
The Wonderful A B C.

NEW MUSIC RECEIVED.

Ashdown and Parry.
Popular Classics for the Pianoforte. Selected, Edited, and Fingered by Walter Macfarren. Sixth Series. Nos. 61 to 72.
Three Sonatinas. For the Pianoforte. No. 1 in C, No. 2 in D, No 3 in B flat. By Carl Reinecke.
Caprice in E Major. For the Pianoforte. By Robert Schumann.
Trois Morceaux de Salon. Pour Piano. No. 1, Gavotte; No. 2, Berceuse; No. 3, L'Espiègle. Valse Impromptu. Par Joachim Raff.
Music of the Heart. By Ciro Pinsuti.
'Twas on a Market Day. By the same.
Ashdown and Parry's Fifth Album of Dance Music.

Goddard and Co.
The Children of Our Native Land. By Mrs. Campbell.

Hopwood and Crew.
It Can Never Be. Ballad. Music by Chas. Jackson.

Howard and Co.
Leisure Hours, No. 1—Evensong. Duet for Violin and Piano. By Max Schröter.
The Florrie Galop. By Wm. Smallwood.
Ye Infant's Polka. By Alphonse Cary.
Ye Lovyer's Waltz. By the same.
Ye Soldyer's Marche. By the same.
Ye Justyce. A Funnye Quadrille. By the same.
Ye Leane and Slippered Pantaloone. Good-night Polka. By the same.
Ye Second Childhood. The Last Dance. By the same.

Marriott.
Gavotte in G. For Pianoforte. By Fred. W. Williams.

Patey and Willis.
Mona Schottische. By J. H. Sykes.
The Kinkfisher Waltz. By Ernst J. Reiter.
Madeline. Song. By Hugh Conway. Music by Jules de Sivrai.
The March of Time. Song. By Hugh Conway. Music by J. L. Roeckel.
After the Rain. Song. By Sarah Doudney. Music by Henriette.
Clover Blossoms. Ballad. By J. P. Douglas. Music by J. B. Boucher.
Casabianca. Song. By Mrs. Hemans. Music by Frederic H. Cowen.
Grace Darling. Scena. By Hugh Conway. Music by Joseph L. Roeckel.
The Voice of My Love. Song. Words by F. E. Weatherly. Music by Ciro Pinsuti.

Smith, Exeter.
Deux Polonaises. Pour le Piano, à quatre mains. By R. Bowerman.

B. Williams.
The Challenge. A Sequel to "The Gauntlet." Music by H. J. Stark.
Across the Field of Barley. By Arthur Henry Brown.
Laurita Polka. Par Ben Tayoux.
Wooden Shoes Polka. By O. Seydel.
Our Trusty Steed of Steel. Bicycle Song. By Farley Newman.
Faith. Song without Words. For the Organ. By F. Mirus.
Ice King Quadrilles. By A. H. Brown.
Waltzer. "Weit Von Dir." By Oscar Seydel.

Digitized by Google

AN ALARMING DISEASE AFFLICTING A NUMEROUS CLASS.

The disease commences with a slight derangement of the stomach, but, if neglected, it in time involves the whole frame, embracing the kidneys, liver, pancreas, and, in fact, the entire glandular system, and the afflicted drags out a miserable existence, until death gives relief from suffering. The disease is often mistaken for other complaints; but, if the reader will ask himself the following questions, he will be able to determine whether he himself is one of the afflicted: Have I distress, pain, or difficulty in breathing after eating? Is there a dull, heavy feeling, attended by drowsiness? Have the eyes a yellow tinge? Does a thick, sticky mucus gather about the gums and teeth in the mornings, accompanied by a disagreeable taste? Is the tongue coated? Are there pains in the sides and back? Is there a fulness about the right side, as if the liver were enlarging? Is there costiveness? Is there vertigo or dizziness when rising suddenly from a horizontal position? Are the secretions from the kidneys scanty and highly coloured, with a deposit after standing? Does food ferment soon after eating, accompanied by flatulence or a belching of gas from the stomach? Is there frequent palpitation of the heart? These various symptoms may not be present at one time, but they torment the sufferer in turn as the dreadful disease progresses. If the case be one of long standing, there will be a dry hacking cough, attended, after a time, by expectoration. In very advanced stages the skin assumes a dirty brownish appearance, and the hands and feet are covered by a cold, sticky perspiration. As the liver and kidneys become more and more diseased, rheumatic pains appear, and the usual treatment proves entirely unavailing against this latter agonising disorder. It is most important that the disease should be promptly and properly treated in its first stages, when a little medicine will effect a cure, and even when it has obtained a strong hold the true remedy should be persevered in until every vestige of the disease is eradicated, until the appetite has returned and the digestive organs restored to a healthy condition. This disease is called liver complaint, and the surest and most effectual remedy for this most distressing complaint is "Seigel's Curative Syrup," a vegetable preparation made in America, and sold by A. J. White, Limited, 21, Farringdon-road, London, E.C., and Chemists and Medicine Vendors, at 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. per bottle. This syrup strikes at the very foundation of the disease and drives it, root and branch, out of the system.

The following Testimonials prove the efficacy of the Medicine in cases of Dyspepsia, &c.:—

DISORDERED LIVER.

"Prospect House, Bridport, Dorset, Dec. 22, 1879.

"My dear Sir,—I have for years suffered more or less from (to me) an unknown cause, but which from diagnosis I imagined to arise from a disordered liver. Digestion was extremely difficult, and consequently my appetite was much affected. Various medicines (so called) I have repeatedly tried, but failed to derive anything beyond a temporary benefit. I was induced by your agent to give your 'Curative Syrup' a trial, and after taking the contents of one bottle I invested in another, which is yet scarcely finished. I am more than happy to be able to testify to the curative properties of the compound. That languid feeling, which formerly unfitted me for business, I have not since experienced, and, indeed, feel altogether a different being.

"I am, Sir, yours very faithfully,

"A. J. White, Esq. RICHARD EBDON, Journalist."

"Mr. J. Longbotham, Chemist and Druggist, of Chester-le-Street, in the county of Durham, writes, Dec. 19, 1879:—"I should like to have more of your almanacks, with my name printed on them. Please send them as early as possible. We have sold an immense quantity (many dozens) of the Syrup, and the sale is still on the increase; in my long experience (fifty years) I have never known a patent medicine sell so rapidly, and the result so satisfactory."

The attention of readers is directed to the following letter from a highly respectable Chemist at Landport, Hants:—

"323, Commercial-road, Landport, Feb. 9, 1880.

"Dear Sir,—I should say that the sale is increasing very fast. This is the second supply we have had since Christmas, when we ordered half a gross—in fact, we sell more of 'Seigel's Syrup' than any other patent medicine. The secret of the demand is, in my opinion, due to the beneficial effects produced by the medicine. A friend of ours who visits the sick has come across some remarkable cases of cure produced by taking the Syrup.—Yours, very faithfully, W. J. TUCK, Chemist.

"To A. J. White, Esq."

Would it be possible for this gentleman to make such a statement unless his customers really derived benefit?

SEVERE CASE OF RHEUMATISM.

"Cowper-street, California, Ipswich, July 27, 1878.

"Mr. A. J. White.—Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in informing you that after taking 'Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup' I am quite restored to health, after suffering for four years from the most excruciating pains. At times I could not move in my bed from rheumatism and dropsy; but now, although I am now sixty-three years of age, I am able to work and walk free from pain. I send you this that you may let my fellow-sufferers know the great benefit I have received after taking your valuable medicine. I found great relief after taking for two days, and I am sure no one could have been a greater sufferer than myself.—Yours truly. CHAS. SLATE."

"36, Pitfield-street, Hoxton, London, N., March 24, 1880.

"My dear Sir,—I think if the following case was published in your next issue it might prove of advantage to the public generally. I have sold some hundred bottles of Mother Seigel's most excellent Syrup, but, though well acquainted with its wonderful efficacy in Stomach and Liver Complaints, did not know until a day or two back that in South America it is largely taken for Ague. My informant was Mr. Morris, of 42, Haberdasher-street, Hoxton, N., who came for a bottle, and stated that he and his wife and friends always took 'Mother Seigel's Syrup' when in America for what they call there the Chills and Fever, but what we term Ague. He was very glad to find I sold it, and subsequently returned, in the course of the day, and said that it had the usual effect, and that his wife was already much better. He has been a great traveller, and never knew of so speedy and successful a remedy.—I remain, my dear Sir, yours truly,

"H. W. HORTON, Chemist."

Mr. J. B. Crosby, 22, Fowler-street, South Shields, writes, Nov. 25, 1879:—"I have sold several dozens of your 'Mother Seigel's Syrup.' When parties have come back the second or more times for a fresh supply, I am in the habit of asking them what they think of the medicine, and if it has done them good, and the invariable testimony is that it is a most excellent medicine, and they have derived great benefit from it. Wishing you the success you deserve, I am, yours truly, J. B CROSBY."

NOTE.—No person would buy a second bottle of a worthless medicine, so that the fact of people coming back to Mr. Crosby again and again proves, as he says, that the medicine is excellently adapted to meet the end in view—viz., to relieve sufferers from Dyspepsia and kindred complaints.

Mr. W. C. Hall, Chemist and Mineral Water Manufacturer, Bridge-street, Newark, writing under date of Nov. 27, 1879, says: "Mother Seigel's Syrup has certainly a wonderful effect on the human system. You have certainly not overrated its value. If I did not hear from my customers personally what an efficacious medicine it is, I could not, nor would not, believe it. Although I have sold a large quantity, I have never heard it spoken of other than in terms of praise. If any sufferer writes to me I will certainly give them a satisfactory reply. Make what use of this you like."

"Methley, near Leeds, June 10, 1879.

"Dear Sir,—I suffered from bad Indigestion and Liver Complaint for years, during which time I used various remedies, but all to no purpose. I tried all the medical men, and got no relief. I afterwards went to the Infirmary, but left as 'incurable.' As a last resource, I was induced to try the 'Curative Syrup,' and to my great joy it has a most made a new man of me. I can now do what I had not been able to do for a long time past—viz., I can eat a good dinner without the pain that was formerly so great.

"I have much pleasure in recommending the medicine to suffering humanity, as the best and cheapest in the world.

"I remain, your humble servant, WILLIAM HEWITT."

Methley, near Leeds."

DR. DE JONGH'S

(KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM, KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR)

LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL.

THE PUREST. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.
THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.

Proved by thirty years' medical experience to be

THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL

which produces the full curative effects in

CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.

"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest.

"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by Dr. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."

JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surg., Army, Prof. of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of Dr. DE JONGH all places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.

SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

ASTHMA

and

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

INSTANTLY RELIEVED AND ULTIMATELY CURED by using

OZONE PAPER

and

CIGARETTES.

Of all Chemists.
Paper, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.; by post for 33 and 54 stamps.
Cigarettes, 2s. 6d.; by post for 30 stamps.
This Remedy is advertised in the "Lancet" and "British Medical Journal." It is therefore known to members of the Medical Profession by whom it is recommended.
Prepared by R. HUGGINS, Chemist, 199, Strand, London.

DATURA TATULA FOR ASTHMA. SAVORY AND MOORE.

A remedy which speedily relieves ASTHMA, DIFFICULT BREATHING, and all affections of the Respiratory Organs. In all forms for Smoking; pastilles and powders for Inhalation.
143, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON;
and of Chemists everywhere.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
FOR CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

PEPTOMALT.

NUTRITIVE. DIGESTIVE.
An agreeable combination of Pepsine with Malt Essence, invaluable in all forms of weak or impaired digestion, affording nourishment and digestive power; equally useful to children or adults. To be obtained through any respectable Chemist, or direct from the Manufacturer, T. S. JOHNSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, Malvern. In Bottles, price 4s. and 7s. 6d.

COLDS CURED BY

DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.

ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.

IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.

THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

TOOTH-ACHE.

INSTANT CURE.

FORMS A STOPPING.

SAVES THE TOOTH.

J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport writes:—"I consider BUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of Chemists, 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S
Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.

Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram

PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."

Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.

Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.

Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,

THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.

Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

WARM and SEASONABLE DRESSES,

IN BLACK.
Nancine Cloth, all wool, 1s. per yard.
Vigogne, extra wide (47 inches), beautifully soft, 2s. 9d.
Cachemire, 47 inches wide, 1s. 11d.; well worth 2s. 6d.
English Wool Poplin, 8½d., 1s., and up to 2s. 6d.
Flannel Serge, 1s. 4½d. to 3s. 6d.
Stout, Warm, Charity Homespun, 9½d., 1s., 1s. 2½d.
Damassé, new patterns (silk and wool), 2s. 6d.
Indian Cachemire, very soft, light, and warm, 2s. 6d. to 9s. 6d.
Velveteen (rich fast pile), 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d. up to 5s. 11d.
Patterns free.—Address as follows—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6d.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.

FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.

Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 23s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

FASHIONABLE SILKS FOR THE AUTUMN.

Black Brocaded Velvets, from 6s. 11d. to 21s.
Stamped Velvets, for draping and trimming, at 4s. 6d. to 6s. 6d.
Black Silk Plush, plain and fancy, from 6s. 6d.
Lyons Velvets, all pure Silk, 9s. 9d.; usual price, 14s. 9d.
Black Silk Velvets, for trimmings, from 3s. 11d. to 6s. 6d.
Satin Brocades, richest qualities, 4s. 11d. to 7s. 11d.
Black Satins, from 1s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Satin de Lyon, exceptional value, at 3s. 11d.

A special bargain in Lyons Velvet.—A Full Dress of 16 yards for £3 8s.

The above are to be obtained only at
PETER ROBINSON'S REGENT-STREET SHOP,
Nos. 256 to 262, Regent-street.
For Patterns, please be careful in the address.

NICHOLSON'S NEW COSTUMES,

50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW MANTLES,

50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW WINTER DRESS FABRICS.

Patterns post-free.

VELOUR CLOTH, at 10½d., 18½d., and 1s. 11½d. per yard.
NEW SERGES, at 15½d., 18½d., and 23½d. per yard.
GRAMPIAN HOMESPUNS, 1s. 7½d. per yard.
NEW POPLINS, from 6½d. per yard.
NEW MELTON CLOTHS, 2s. 3d. per yard.
FRENCH MERINOS, at 1s. 11d., 2s. 9½d., and 3s. 3d. per yard.
BLACK VELVETEENS, from 1s. 9½d. to 5s. 11d. per yard.
COLOURED Ditto, from 2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED Ditto, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

Patterns of Black and Coloured Silks post-free.

D. NICHOLSON and CO.,
50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the

LOUIS VELVETEEN

"LOUIS." in Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an insufficient recommendation.
It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition. Many ladies have adopted the

LOUIS VELVETEEN,

in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."
Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both "LOUIS." Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, folding-marks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.

WHOLESALE AGENTS,

"LOUIS." who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—
J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

GIFTS from the EAST.

LIBERTY and CO.

LIST POST-FREE.

JAPAN and CHINA TOYS, 6d. to 5s.
BAMBOO BASKETS, 2s., 5s., 12s. 6d.
SHANGHAI EMBROIDERED HAND SCREENS, 2s. 6d., 5s., 10s. 6d., 21s.
AWAJI FANS, 5s., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 25s., £5.
CHINA FLOWER VASES, 3s. 6d., 5s., 7s. 6d., 21s.
INDIA TEAPOTS, 1s., 2s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 21s.
KIOTO TOILET TRAYS, 1s., 2s., 3s., 5s.
JAPAN CARD TRAYS, 7s. 6d., 12s. 6d., 30s.
AWAJI ARTISTIC POTTERY.
PEKIN GROTESQUE ANIMALS, 3s. 6d. to £5.
BIZEN CIGAR HOLDERS, 8s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
INDIAN SCENT JARS, 12s. 6d., 25s., £5.
NANKIN FLOWER POTS, 7s. 6d., 15s., 40s.
ARABESQUE VASES, for Halls, £10.
TOKIO TEA SETS, 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 21s., 63s.
VASES, SALVERS, CARD TRAYS.
ENAMELS, TRANSLUCENT and OPAQUE.
JAPAN LACQUER WARES.
WAITERS and TEA-TRAYS, 2s., 5s., 7s. 6d.
JEWEL and CIGAR CABINETS, 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 21s., 42s.
KERCHIEF and GLOVE BOXES, 1s., 5s., 10s. 6d., 21s., 42s.
INDIAN CANE CHAIRS, 25s., 35s., 50s.
BAMBOO WALL-BRACKETS, 21s., 42s., 63s.
FOLDING SCREENS, Embroidered and Painted, 21s., 42s., 105s.
BURMESE GONGS and STANDS, 21s., 42s.
CEYLON Carved CABINETS, £15, £25, £50.
CAMPHOR-WOOD TRUNKS, 35s., 50s.
CEYLON BLACK WOOD Carved TABLES.
PERSIAN CARPETS, from £5.
INDIA HEARTH RUGS, 8s. 6d., 10s. 6d.
MOORISH RUGS, 25s., 30s., 42s.
INDIAN DURRIES, 3s. 6d.
ARAB PORTIERES, 15s., 21s., 30s., 42s.
BYZANTINE HANGINGS, 5s., 7s. 6d. yard.
INDIAN CHINTZ, 1s. 6d., 2s., 2s. 6d. yard.
DAMASCUS TABLECOVERS, 21s., 42s.
INDIAN SHAWLS, 21s., 42s., £100.
CANTON SILK SHAWLS, 21s., 25s.
NAGPORE SILK DRESSES, 25s., 35s.
RUMCHUNDER SILK DRESSES, 35s., 70s.
UMRITZUR CASHMERE, 21s., 25s.
NAGASAKI POCKET HANDKERCHIEFS, Ten for 12s. 6d.
CARVINGS IN JADE, IVORY, and PRECIOUS STONES.
ANCIENT, ARTISTIC, and RARE MSS.
BRONZES, INLAID WITH SILVER, 21s.
BUDDHIST BRONZE TEMPLE VASES.
BENARES BRASS ENGRAVED TRAYS, 12s. 6d., 15s., 42s., 105s.
SILK and GOLD EMBROIDERIES, 7s. 6d., 15s., 42s.
EMBROIDERED FIRE SCREENS, 7s. 6d.

ILLUSTRATED LIST POST-FREE.

LIBERTY and CO.,
INDIA, CHINA, & JAPAN MERCHANTS,
218, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

PLATE.—GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE,

Limited, Manufacturing Silversmiths,
11 and 12, Cornhill, London.
The best wrought SILVER SPOONS and FORKS.
Fiddle Pattern, 7s. 2d. per ounce; Queen's Pattern, 7s. 6d. per oz.
Many other patterns, plain or highly ornamented.

Fiddle Pattern.	oz.	£	s.	d.	Queen's Pattern.	oz.	£	s.	d.
12 Table Spoons	30	10	15	0	12 Table Spoons	40	15	0	0
12 Dessert ditto	20	7	3	4	12 Dessert ditto	25	9	7	6
12 Table Forks	30	10	15	0	12 Table Forks	40	15	0	0
12 Dessert ditto	20	7	3	4	12 Dessert ditto	25	9	7	6
2 Gravy Spoons	10	3	11	8	2 Gravy Spoons	14	5	5	6
1 Soup Ladle	9	3	11	8	1 Soup Ladle	10	3	15	0
4 Sauce ditto	10	3	16	8	4 Sauce ditto	12	4	16	0
4 Salt ditto, gilt		1	0	0	4 Salt ditto, gilt		2	2	0
1 Pair Fish Carvers		4	18	0	1 Pair Fish Carvers		6	2	0
12 Tea Spoons	10	3	16	8	12 Tea Spoons	14	5	12	0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs		0	15	0	1 Pair Sugar Tongs		1	2	0
Set of Fiddle Pattern		£57	6	4	Set of Queen's Pattern		£77	9	0

A Pamphlet illustrated with 150 Engravings, containing the prices of articles required in furnishing, gratis and post-free on application.
For the use of committees a work has been published, with large lithographic drawings of plate kept ready for presentation.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO?

Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 42s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON.

Fifty best quality, 2s. 6d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 40 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office)

send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris, 1878.

FOR ARMS and CREST

send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

TURKISH PASTILS.

"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghiles at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

PALACE SOAP.

PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 3s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Melange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 15s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

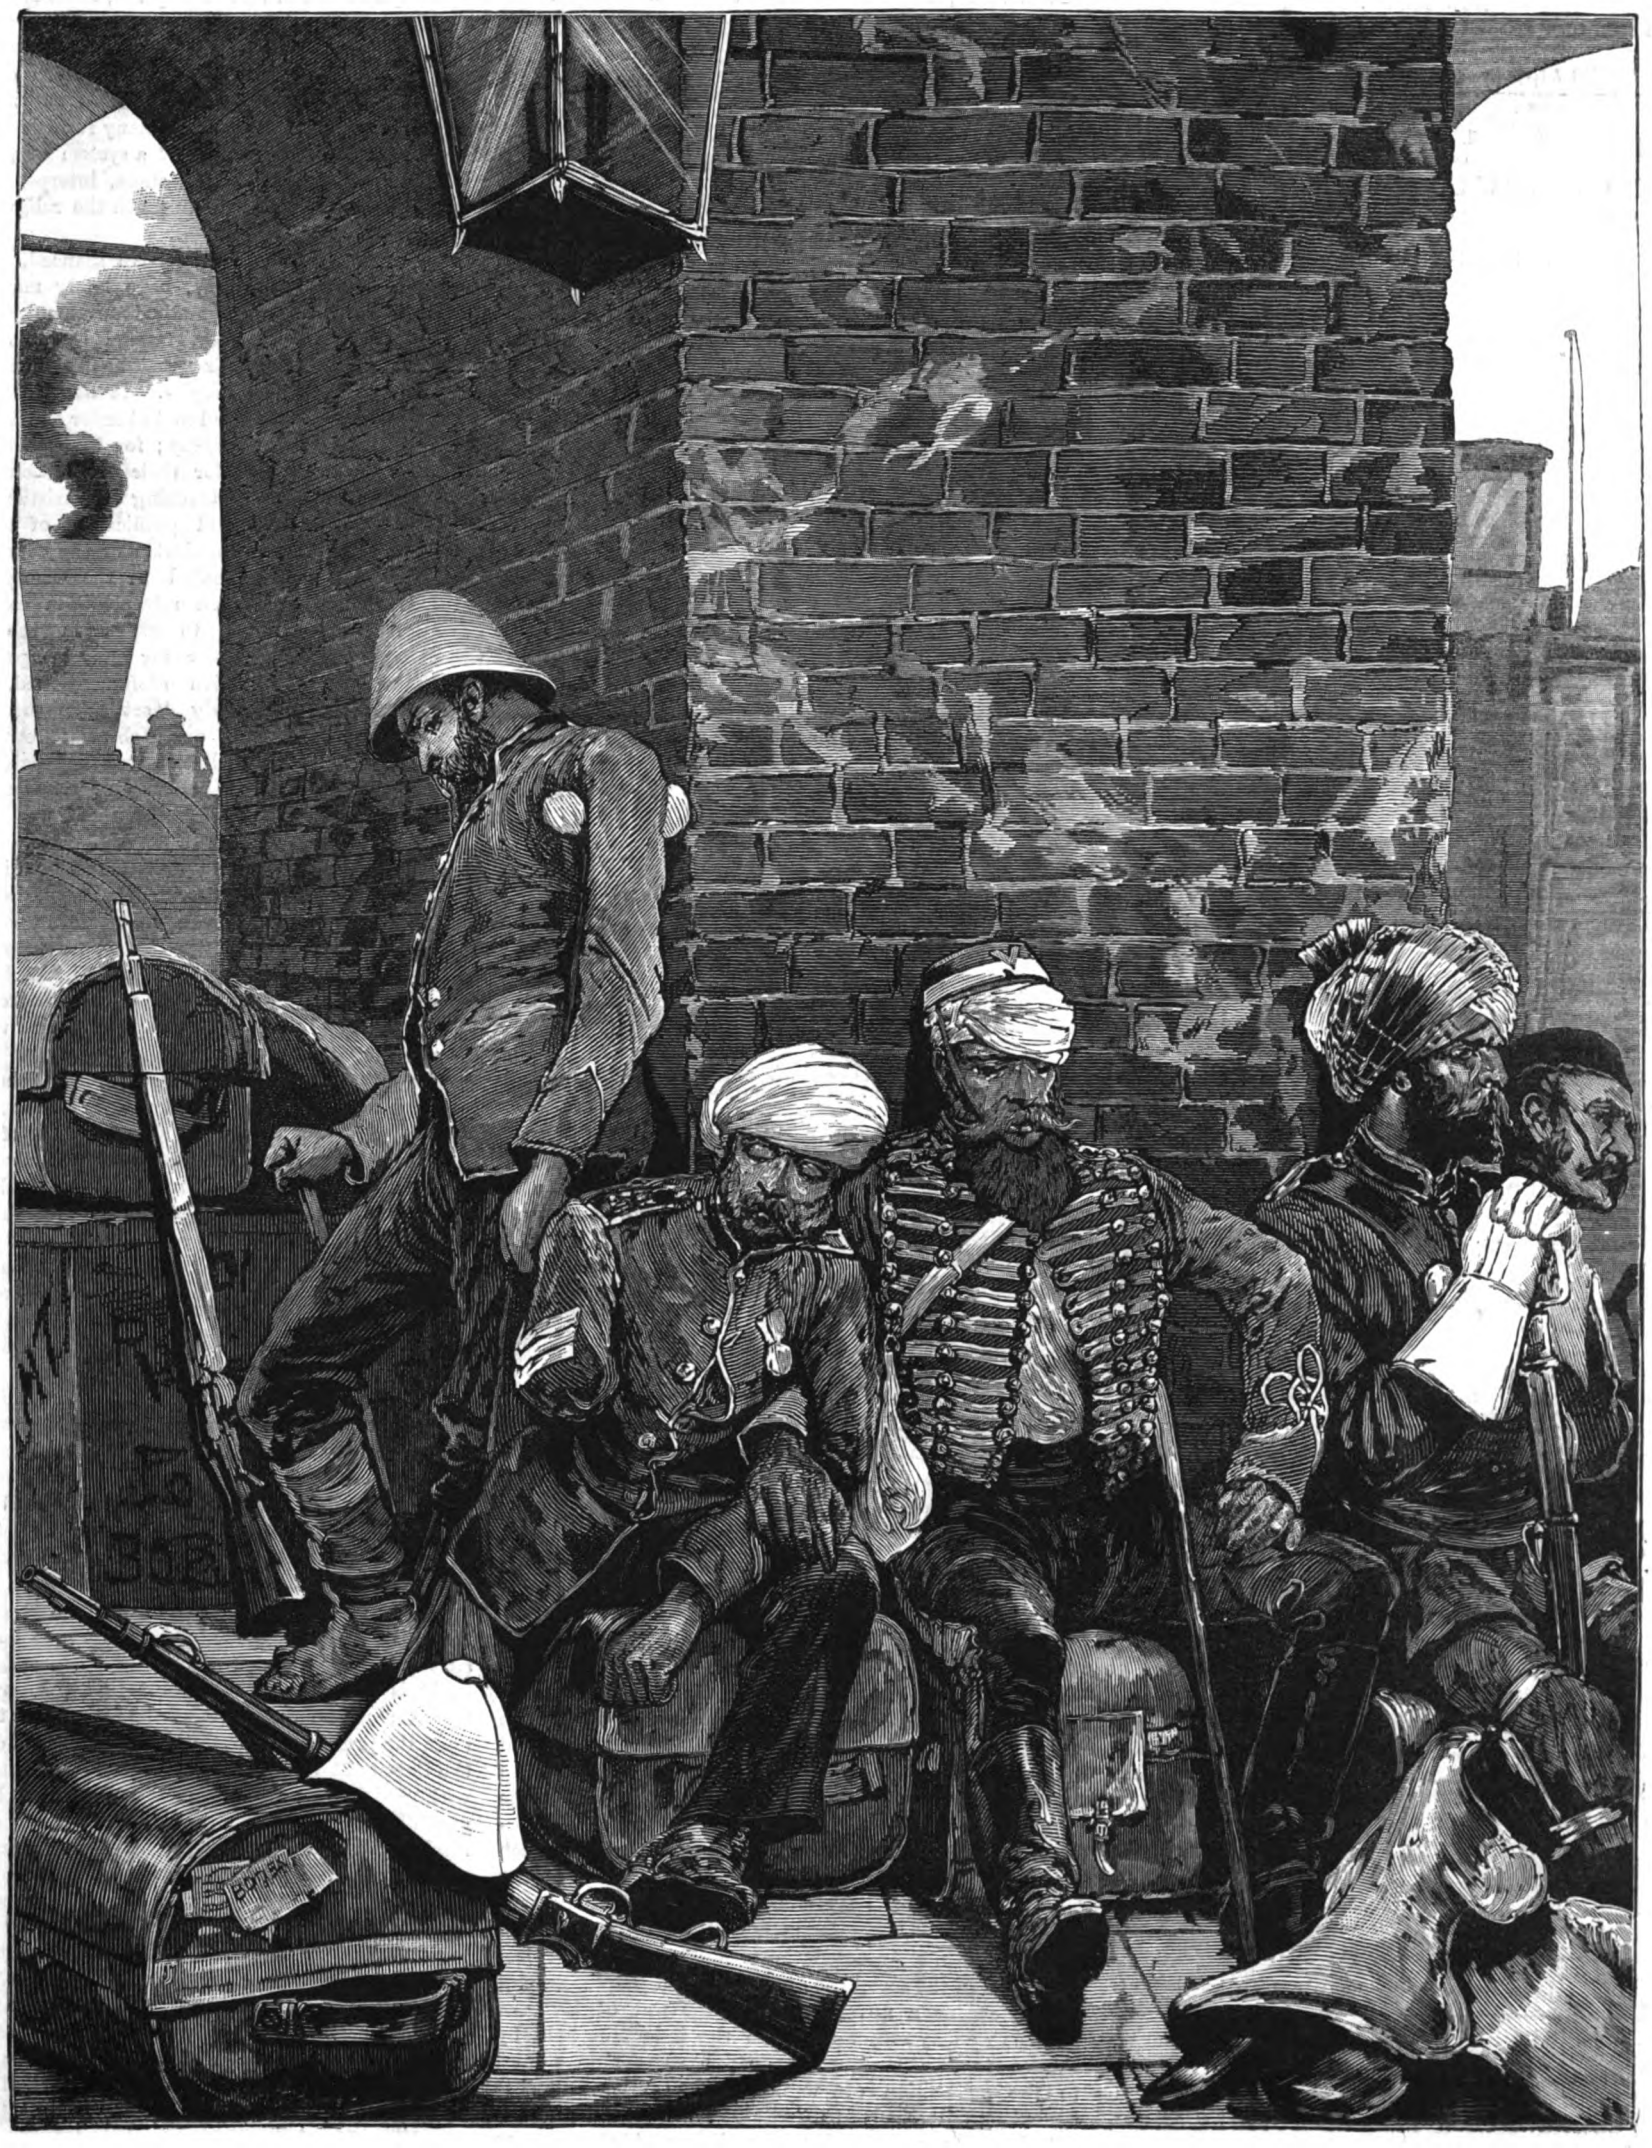
SWEET SACHETS.

PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a tasteful and pleasing perfume without being pungent. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET.

Fresh as the flower itself. Price 2s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle. Sold at all Chemists and Perfumers throughout the Universe, or Breidenbach and Co., Distillers of Wood Violet to the Queen, 157B, New Bond-street, W. Trade-Mark, the "Wood Violet."

Digitized by Google



THE PIRÆUS AND PORT OF ATHENS, FROM THE SEAT OF XERXES.—SEE PAGE 507.

Digitized by Google

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2165.—VOL. LXXVII. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1880. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

ON THE WAY HOME FROM THE AFGHAN WAR: WOUNDED SOLDIERS AT THE ALLAHABAD RAILWAY STATION.—SEE PAGE 518.

Digitized by Google

BIRTHS.

On the 17th inst., at Ridgelands, Wimbledon, the wife of Lieutenant-Colonel L. W. Longstaff (late 1st East York Rifles) of a daughter.

On the 23rd inst., at 19, Chesham-place, the Lady O'Hagan, of a daughter.

On the 16th inst., at Charleville, Bray, Ireland, the Hon. Mrs. Royse, of a daughter.

On the 21st inst., at the Comptroller's House, Dublin Castle, the Countess of Ranfurley, of a daughter.

MARRIAGE.

On the 20th inst., at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, by the Hon. and Rev. R. Liddell, Luigi dei Marchesi Vanni-Pasqua, of Leonesse, Province of Aquila, to Isabel, only daughter of the late J. Lindsey-Brougham and Mrs. Lawson, Littlethorpe, Yorkshire.

DEATHS.

On the 13th inst., at Oxford, William Francis Forbes, of Christ Church eldest son of William Forbes, of Callendar, N.B. Friends are requested to accept of this intimation.

On the 16th inst, at Stuttgart, Agnes Christian Simson, second daughter of George Simson, late of Pitcorthie, and Brunton, Fife.

On the 20th inst., at Woodside, Moffat, Eleanor Montgomerie, eldest daughter of the late Mathew Montgomerie, of Kelvinside, Writer in Glasgow.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

NOW READY,
PRICE ONE SHILLING (INLAND POSTAGE, 2½d.),
THE
ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK
FOR
1881,
CONTAINING
SIX COLOURED PICTURES;
PRINTED BY LEIGHTON BROTHERS' CHROMATIC PROCESS,
FROM ORIGINALS BY EMINENT ARTISTS.
TWELVE FINE-ART ENGRAVINGS;
ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENA;
TWELVE DIAGRAMS OF THE DURATION OF MOONLIGHT;
The Royal Family of Great Britain; the Queen's Household; her Majesty's Ministers; Lists of Public Offices and Officers; Bankers, Law and University Terms; Fixed and Movable Festivals; Anniversaries; Acts of Parliament passed during the Session of 1880; Revenue and Expenditure; Obituary of Eminent Persons; Christian, Jewish, and Mohammedan Calendars; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Government Duties; Times of High Water; Post Office Regulations; together with a large amount of useful and valuable information, which has during the past thirty-eight years made the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK the most acceptable and elegant companion to the Library; whilst it is universally acknowledged to be by far the cheapest Almanack ever published.
The unprecedented demand for the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK year after year stimulates the Proprietor to still greater exertions to secure for this Almanack a reception as favourable as that which has hitherto placed its circulation second only to that of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.
The ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is inclosed in an elegant cover, printed in colours by the same process as the COLOURED PLATES, and forms a useful and pleasing ornament to the drawing-room table.
The SHILLING ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is published at the Office of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, 198, Strand, and sold by all Booksellers and Newsvenders.

THE BRIGHTON SEASON.
Frequent Trains from Victoria and London Bridge.
Also Trains in connection from Kensington and Liverpool-street.
Return Tickets, London to Brighton, available for eight days.
Weekly, Fortnightly, and Monthly Tickets, at Cheap Rates,
Available to travel by all Trains between London and Brighton.
Cheap Half-Guinea First Class Day Tickets to Brighton
Every Saturday, from Victoria and London Bridge,
Admitting to the Grand Aquarium and Royal Pavilion.
Cheap First Class Day Tickets to Brighton every Sunday,
From Victoria at 10.45 a.m., and London Bridge at 10.55 a.m.
Pullman Drawing-Room Cars between Victoria and Brighton.
Through Bookings to Brighton from principal Stations
On the Railways in the Northern and Midland districts.
A Special Train for Horses, Carriages, and Servants,
From Victoria to Brighton, at 11.15 a.m. every Weekday.

GRAND AQUARIUM AND PAVILION.—Military and other Concerts EVERY SATURDAY AFTERNOON, for which the above Saturday Cheap Tickets are available.

NEW ROUTE to WEST BRIGHTON by the DIRECT LINE, PRESTON PARK to CLIFTONVILLE.
A Morning Up and Evening Down Fast Train Every Weekday between London Bridge and West Brighton.

PARIS.—SHORTEST, CHEAPEST ROUTE.—Via NEWHAVEN, DIEPPE, and ROUEN.
CHEAP EXPRESS SERVICE Every Week Night—First, Second, and Third Class.
From Victoria 7.30 p.m., and London Bridge 8.0 p.m.
Fares—Single, 35s., 24s., 17s.; Return, 55s., 39s., 29s.
Powerful Paddle-Steamers, with excellent cabins, &c.
Trains run alongside Steamers at Newhaven and Dieppe.
SOUTH OF FRANCE, ITALY, SWITZERLAND, &c.—Tourists' Tickets are issued enabling the holder to visit all the principal places of interest.
HAVRE.—Passengers booked through by this route every week night from Victoria and London Bridge as above.

TICKETS and every information at the Brighton Company's West-End General Offices, 28, Regent-circus, Piccadilly; and No. 8, Grand Hotel Buildings, Trafalgar-square; also at the Victoria and London Bridge Stations. (By Order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

GREAT AND UNMISTAKABLE SUCCESS OF THE NEW PROGRAMME.
ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
THE NEW PROGRAMME PRESENTED BY THE
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS
on the 15th inst. having been received with the warmest marks of approbation
BY CROWDED AUDIENCES EVERY NIGHT DURING THE PAST WEEK, will be repeated
EVERY NIGHT, at EIGHT, and on MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, and SATURDAY, at THREE and EIGHT.
The enormously successful Musical and Terpsichorean Sketch of
THE OLD KENTUCKY HOME,
will be given at every Performance until Christmas.
The inimitable MOORE, together with the powerful phalanx of Comedians, Charles Foster, Walter Howard, John Rendle, Sully, Cheevers, Ernest Linden, all take part in the New Programme.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.
ST. ANDREW'S NIGHT, TUESDAY NEXT, NOV. 30, a Special Concert of SCOTTISH SONGS
by the
MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS.
"The Macgregor's Gathering," "Mary of Argyle," "Bonny Eloise," "Rose of Allandale," "Annie Laurie," "When Jamie comes over the Sea," "Ye Banks and Braes," "The Scottish Blue Bells," "Auld Lang Syne," &c., sung by the following eminent members of the company:—Charles Henry, E. Florestein, Vernon Reed, Ralf Hunter, Herbert, Frank Perceval, V. Richards, and H. De Brenner. Assisted by the splendid Choir.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—Conductor, Sir Michael Costa.—The FORTY-NINTH SEASON will COMMENCE at ST. JAMES'S HALL on FRIDAY, DEC. 3, with Beethoven's Mass in C, Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion" and "Christus." Principal Vocalists, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Hancock, Mr. H. Guy, Mr. F. King, Mr. C. Henry. Organist, Mr. Winning. Subscription for series of Nine Concerts, £2 2s., 2½, and 3 guineas each. Tickets, 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., and 2s. 6d., now ready, at Society's Office, 7, John-street, Adelphi; Austin's, St. James's Hall; and principal Musicsellers'.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS Every Night at 8.30—Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. At 7.30, BYGONES, by A. W. Pinero. Doors open at 7. Special Morning Performances of THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, Saturdays, NOV. 27 and DEC. 4 and 11, at 2.30. Box Office (Mr. Hurst) open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. THE TURQUOISE RING, Mr. Corney Grain's New Musical Sketch. THE HAUNTED ROOM and A FLYING VISIT. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday Evenings at Eight: Thursday and Saturday Afternoons at Three. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s. and 5s.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place.

THE BIRMINGHAM CATTLE and POULTRY SHOW.
The THIRTY-SECOND GREAT ANNUAL EXHIBITION of FAT CATTLE, SHEEP, PIGS, DOMESTIC POULTRY, CORN, ROOTS, and IMPLEMENTS will be held in BINGLEY HALL, BIRMINGHAM, on MONDAY, NOV. 29, Admission, 5s.; Tuesday, Nov. 30, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 1 and 2, 1s.
For Excursion Trains and other special railway arrangements, see the advertisements and bills of the various Companies.

THE
CHRISTMAS NUMBER
OF
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,
1880,
WHICH WILL BE ISSUED ON DEC. 13,
COMPRISES
A LARGE PICTURE IN COLOURS,
ENTITLED
"IN WONDERLAND,"
From a Painting by FRANK HOLL, A.R.A.;
With a Seasonable Article by GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA;
FOUR COLOURED ILLUSTRATIONS:
FIRST STEPS, THE EVENING PARTY, ROSES AND LILIES,
by KATE GREENAWAY;
And THE FANCY-DRESS BALL, by HARRY FURNISS;
AND THE FOLLOWING
CHRISTMAS ILLUSTRATIONS AND STORIES.

ENGRAVINGS.
Catarina. By Luke Fildes, A.R.A.
Winter. By L. Rossi.
The Rival Suitors (Two Pages). By F. Barnard.
The Vicar's Daughters. By A. Hunt.
In Sight of Home on Christmas Morning. By A. Emslie.
Games for Old and Young. By G. Cruikshank.
Hark! the Herald Angels Sing. By A. Hunt.
Woodleigh Grange. By S. Read.
The Careless Nurse. By M. E. Edwards.
Dick's Dilemma. By A. Hunt.

TALES.
Fernande. By M. Betham-Edwards.
At the Twelfth Hour. By R. E. Francillon.
The Little Town by the Seine. By Katharine S. Macquoid.
Margaret Donnan. By Mrs. J. H. Riddell.
AND VERSES
By William C. Bennett, Savile Clarke, John Latey, Edward Rose, Clement Scott, George R. Sims, J. Ashby-Sterry, Byron Webber, and others.

The whole inclosed in a Handsome Coloured Wrapper, and published apart from the Ordinary Issue.

Price One Shilling: Postage Twopence-halfpenny.

TO ENSURE A SUPPLY, ORDERS SHOULD BE GIVEN AT ONCE TO THE NEWSAGENTS.

No more Advertisements for this Christmas Number can be received.

OFFICE, 198, STRAND, W.C.

THE SIXTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS is NOW OPEN, at THOMAS McLEAN'S GALLERY, 7, Haymarket, next the Theatre. Admission, including Catalogue, One Shilling.

FRENCH GALLERY, 120, Pall-Mall.—The 28th ANNUAL EXHIBITION of PICTURES, by British and Foreign Artists, including Luminais' celebrated picture, "Les Enervés de Jumièges," is NOW OPEN. Admission 1s.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

THE ANNUAL WINTER EXHIBITION of High-class PICTURES, by British and Foreign Artists, is NOW OPEN at ARTHUR TOOTH and SONS' GALLERY, 5, Haymarket, opposite Her Majesty's Theatre. Admission, One Shilling, including Catalogue.

THE NATIONAL DOG SHOW.—The TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION will be held in Curzon Hall, Birmingham, on Nov. 29 and 30, and Dec. 1 and 2.
The PRIVATE VIEW on MONDAY NEXT, Nov. 29. Admission from 9.30 to Three o'clock, 5s.; from Three till Five, 2s. 6d.; after that hour, 1s. On TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, and THURSDAY NEXT, admission 1s. Children half-price. Entrance Doors closed on the three days at 5.45 p.m., and on the last day at Five p.m.
GEORGE BLACK, Secretary, Temple-row, Birmingham.

SMITHFIELD CLUB SHOW of CATTLE, IMPLEMENTS, ROOTS, &c.

SMITHFIELD CLUB SHOW, AGRICULTURAL HALL, ISLINGTON.
MONDAY, DEC. 6, at Two o'Clock. Admission, 5s.
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, at Nine o'Clock. Admission, 1s.
Agricultural Hall Company, Limited, S. SIDNEY, Secretary.
Barford-street, Islington.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1880.

Whilst the mutual attitude of the Powers and the Porte remains unsettled, and whilst the state of Ireland and the coercive or remedial measures to be applied to it are still somewhat indeterminate, we take advantage of the interim between now and the beginning of next month, when the date for the reassembling of Parliament will in all probability be fixed, to notice an episode in Germany which curiously, but not creditably, reflects the feelings of a large number of the German people—of the Prussians more especially—towards their fellow-subjects of the Hebrew faith. Anti-Semitic prejudices, more or less developed in the social life of the German people, are not by any means a novelty. Since the war of 1870, or perhaps we may rather say since the indemnity paid by France to her Conqueror, Jewish success in regard to the acquisition of wealth and of honours has tended progressively to irritate—sometimes, perhaps, not altogether unnaturally—the dislike of Germans to their Jewish brethren. They are regarded as interlopers, and as interlopers of an alien race, not to say religion, upon which last fact, however, comparatively little stress is laid. Their main offence is that in all money dealings they are more acute and more uniformly successful than those with whom they enter into competition. They become affluent more surely and more easily, at least so far as is made appreciable to outside observation. What they get they ostentatiously spend, especially in the large towns. They are the Plutocrats of the country. They swallow up, it is thought, too large a proportion of the good chances falling within the reach of those who are striving and struggling to get gain. They are said to take their success not too modestly; to be given to display; to exhibit an encroaching disposition; to combine together in coteries for mutual encouragement and aid; to elbow the population amid which they live something too rudely;—in a word, not merely to put money into their purses, but to shake their purses in the faces of those from whom they have won them. There may be some truth in this description, there is also not a little exaggeration. The truth, so far as it is truth, may be readily accounted for. The exaggeration is chiefly local, arising from the accidental infusion of a fresh passion into old prejudices. Be this as it may, the prevalent state of feeling in Germany furnishes abundant material for the construction of a system of persecution which, beginning at a social stage, interpenetrates the political, and even threatens to touch the religious life of the people.

The elements at which we have glanced, subtle and evasive in the first instance, have lately matured with significant rapidity into a practical movement. A petition to the Imperial Chancellor, framed by an Association called "the Anti-Semitic League," has been circulated for signature through the Empire. It asks for an authoritative intervention of the law to hinder the immigration of Foreign Jews into Germany; for their exclusion from all offices of authority; for their prohibition from discharging the functions of teaching in Christian Schools; and for the collection and publication of statistics in regard to the Hebrew population of the country. This document, not yet presented to the Chancellor, constituted the ground of an interpellation calling upon the Berlin Government to state, in the Prussian Chamber of Deputies, how far they sympathise with the objects of the petition aforementioned, which it was said would completely "set aside the legal and constitutional equality of our Hebrew fellow-subjects." The debate on this interpellation was anticipated with the eagerest curiosity. The galleries of the Chamber were densely crowded. The Chamber itself was filled with Deputies. There were two days' debate. The first, carried on with calm and statesman-like dignity—the second, given up to the Anti-Semitic Party, distinguished by tumultuous proceedings and discreditable personalities. Nothing came of the interpellation; no vote was taken upon the question. Count Stolberg intimated, on the part of the Government, that no restrictive measures against the Jews were in contemplation, and walked out out of the House.

The entire controversy seems to have absorbed the attention of the German Press, and, in some respects, we are compelled to add, to have defaced some of its higher qualities. There can be no doubt as to the strong feeling which the affair has elicited from the Berlin public, and in most of the great centres of population in Germany. The Emperor is believed to take a keen interest in it. Prince Bismarck, it is surmised of course, has had somewhat to do with it, or, at any rate, behind it. The Court Chaplain, Herr Stöcker, the founder, we believe, of the Anti-Semitic League, was amongst the most emphatic of the speakers against the Jews of Germany on the second day of the debate. All parties alike disclaim religious intolerance. The political emancipation of the members of the Hebrew faith is in no visible danger. Such hatred as is found to be active springs rather out of difference of race than of religion, but it is not exclusively fed from that source. It is social in its scope, but, even in this respect, it is also partial. It evinces an unsound tone of moral culture, and, unquestionably, it has broken out into a sore disfigurement of national character, while it points to a future danger which one had believed to be an impossibility in the German Empire.

It is with very serious regret that this novel state of things must be contemplated by all who set their hearts upon the progressive development of Liberal opinions on the Continent of Europe. Possibly, there may be facts with which we are as yet ill-conversant, but which, partially at least, explain, if they cannot excuse, the result that has now become notorious, and that is so deeply to be deplored. Even if it be so, we are none the less disappointed with the spectacle thus exhibited. Our chief hope now is that it may prove to be but "a passing show;" a sort of "No Popery" cry which will rage itself away; an ebullition of national temper soon to be dispersed by the force of national good sense and conviction. There is, however, special need for watchfulness in the German Empire. The wheels of society there are getting to be cranky and dislocated. Excessive mechanism has tended to obstruct the play of free life. Moral forces are weakened by disuse, and the knots which patience and perseverance might untie are sought to be cut by some coercive instrumentality.

Digitized by Google

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

The very nomenclature of Lord Beaconsfield's "Endymion" suggests matter for an exhaustive analytical essay. A few of the names, it is true, turn up with as odd an air of incongruity about them as did that of "Sir Peregrine Pickle" in Sir Archibald Alison's account (in the "History of Europe") of the funeral of George Canning. However did "Sir Peregrine Pickle" get into that "galley"—of compositors' type? Lord Beaconsfield has called one of his characters (an advanced Liberal whom the Standard thinks is meant for Mr. Bright, while the Pall Mall more than hints that it is meant for the late Mr. Cobden) Job Thornberry. Now, Job Thornberry, or rather Thornbury, is a conspicuous character in a well-known last-century comedy.

Prince Florestan, again, would seem to be suggested by the sovereign of the principality of Monaco in M. Sardou's "Rabagas." If I err not, "Prince Florestan" was also the nickname given by Granville, in his political caricatures, to the Duke of Orleans, eldest son of Louis Philippe, who, on his part, was usually dubbed by the caricaturists "l'Ordre des Choses." The Marquis of Vallombrosa is good (Mr. Thackeray would have made him a "shady" nobleman; and Mr. Jawett, the Radical, is (for Lord Beaconsfield's pungent but polished pen) an almost offensive personality. If ever I write a novel I will put a Tory "spouter" in it and call him "Mr. Overcheek." I have somewhere read of a Rev. Sampson Jawbone, and of Mr. Mucklejaw, a Scotch lecturer; but names with the maxillaries as a basis are always open to an imputation of incivility.

But the very best name, so far as subtle ingenuity of allusion is concerned, in the book, is Mr. Vigo—the fashionable tailor, who subsequently develops into a Railway King, and whom some of the critics declare to be a portrait of the late Mr. George Hudson, who was originally, I believe, not a tailor, but a linendraper at York. Anyhow, he was a very remarkable man, not too generously dealt with in his reverses by the fashionable folk who had eaten his dinners and drunk his wines, and danced at the grand entertainments which he used to give in the days when he could say Yo el Rey at his colossal mansion at Albert-gate, now the French Embassy. Some old friends made a purse for him at last; and, after many years' exile in Paris, he came home and made a comfortable end of it, being hailed by acclamation permanent chairman of the smoking-room at the Carlton Club. Mercilessly abused when he was "down," he had done many generous and not a few noble things in his time, this dethroned Railway King, George Hudson.

Nugee, Stultz and Buckmaster, Crellin and Chambers, were the leading fashionable tailors in the days when the action of "Endymion" takes place. Poole was rising, but had not yet become quite a Sartorial Sultan. There is nothing in any of these names associative with Vigo; and the majority of Lord Beaconsfield's names are directly associative. One must be a thorough cockney to understand the subtle propriety of Vigo as an appellation for a West-End tailor. Vigo Street, or Vigo Lane, as I remember it some forty-three years ago, was the very centre of Tailorland. It was not precisely that many eminent tailors had their officinæ in the narrow thoroughfare in question; but the street was full (as it may be full now) of wholesale warehouses, whither the great tailors of Bond Street and Sackville Street, and Clifford Street and Savile Row sent for their cloth and stuff for linings, their trimmings, and their buckram. The gold and silver lace and bullion sashes came chiefly from Warwick Street, Regent Street; and military equipments, such as shakoes, busbies, helmets, sabretasches, and the like, from a warehouse at the north-eastern corner of Bond Street and Piccadilly. London is being so rapidly and so sweepingly transformed that it may be worth while to recall these fading landmarks.

For example, one entire side of Coventry Street, from the Haymarket to Prince's Street, is clean gone. Great Windmill Street, Haymarket, has also been wondrously transformed within the last few years; and I should be puzzled to pitch on the exact spot where there was once a School of Anatomy, where annual lectures used to be delivered on the stuffed corpse of Jeremy Bentham. The skull of the philosopher became disintegrated in process of time, and it was replaced by a wax mask, modelled (I think) by Miss Margaret Gillies, the miniature-painter. In its turn, the School of Anatomy gave place to M. Dubourg's Museum of Waxwork. There was a permanent exhibition of dummies in a loggia outside as a gratuitous sample of the further wonders to be seen inside; and among these dummies was the effigy of an Italian brigand who used to wag his head, roll his eyes, and bring his carbine to the "make ready" in most melodramatic fashion. This was about 1838; and I have always fancied that the wax brigand outside the museum in Great Windmill Street gave Charles Dickens the first embryonic idea of Mrs. Jarley's waxwork show.

It has occurred to an ecclesiastical association in London to send to his Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop of Paris an address expressive of deep sympathy with the monastic communities recently expelled from the territory of the French Republic. The exemplary Paris Figaro, commenting upon and highly commending the sympathetic address, adds that it has arrived at the melancholy conclusion that true toleration and respect for religious liberty exist only among Protestants. Most naïf of Figaros! The witty barber erst of the Plaza San Tomaso, Seville, is evidently not an attentive student of the English newspapers; else he might have learnt by this time that we have already got one Protestant clergyman in gaol for persistent rebellion against the powers that be (precisely the offence which led to the French monks being turned into the street), and that we have three more Anglican priests who have incurred the perils of a significavit, and are hourly expecting incarceration. I am afraid that we are all fond of a little bit of persecution now and then. Even the mild and genial Sydney Smith confessed that he would like to roast "just one Quaker."

But in the Rev. Ward Beecher, of Brooklyn, New York, the world may behold and applaud one tolerant clergyman. The Rev. Beecher has positively shaken hands on a public platform with the notorious Colonel "Bob" Ingersoll. Col. Ingersoll (he is a lawyer by profession) is a very fluent gentleman, who goes up and down the United States delivering lectures, in which he enlarges on his own very peculiar theological opinions. An English gentleman, who was a fellow-passenger of mine on board the Hecla from New York to Liverpool, had been at the pains of collecting all Colonel "Bob" Ingersoll's printed lectures, and was so kind as to lend them to me. I read them through, and own that I thought them but sorry stuff.

Take Tom Paine, and dilute with a good deal of water. Add scraps of the very worst English translation of Voltaire that you can get hold of. Mix in a small quantity of Richard Carlile and season with some fragments of humour of the "Josh Billings" or "Danesbury Newsman" order; and there you have a fair recipe for the concoction of a theological lecture à la "Bob" Ingersoll. That the Rev. Ward Beecher should have fraternised with Colonel "Bob" I take to be rather an illustration than otherwise of Mr. Beecher's shrewdness and savoir faire. Always be civil to your foes. There is a story told of the author of the "Age of Reason" having remarked that Dr. Watson, Bishop of Llandaff, did no good service to his cause when he neglected to treat his antagonist "like a gentleman." The good Bishop was a somewhat haughty prelate. In replying to the objectionable chapters in the "Decline and Fall," he addressed himself to "Edward Gibbon, Esquire;" but no such courtesy did he extend to the "rebellious needleman" and ex-Custom House officer, whose name (for political not theological reasons) is yet a tower of strength in the Great Republic. "To Thomas Paine," wrote, in contemptuous loftiness, Bishop Watson.

History repeated itself very curiously a few days ago at the Worship-street Police Court, where a couple of vagabond lads were charged with burglary. The prosecutor stated that, on a previous occasion, they had broken into his house, and flourished pokers over the head of his son; and a sergeant of police added that the poor lad, who was of weak intellect, and had for years been incapable of speech, had, in his extreme terror, become articulate, and that he could now speak as well as his father could. The magistrate remarked that this was an extraordinary and fortunate circumstance.

The physiological aspect of the case I leave to the Lancet and the British Medical Journal. I am concerned only with the curious repetition of history in the Worship-street case. Turn up Herodotus;—Clio, LXXXV., and you will refresh your memories of the interesting account given by the Father of Storytellers of the dumb son of Crœsus, King of Lydia. That opulent Monarch had exhausted, but in vain, every possible means of curing his son of his mutism. He had even consulted the Oracle of Delphi, an authority which charged very high fees for its opinion. What said the Oracle in the case of the dumb Prince? "Lydian, King of many peoples, insensate Crœsus, nourish not the hope of ever within thy palace hearing the voice of thy son. It would be better for thee didst thou never hear him; for on the day when he begins to speak that day also thy misfortunes shall begin."

The scene changes to the siege and storming of Sardis. A Persian warrior overcomes the Lydian King in single combat, and is about to cleave him from the nave to the chaps, when the dumb Prince, who has been fighting by his father's side, shrieks "Man, Kill not Crœsus!" Extremity of terror for his parent's life had restored the faculty of speech, which he continued to preserve during his life.

The commentators and the scholiasts have knocked their heads together to a tremendous extent over this story in Herodotus. The earlier translators held that the Prince was deaf as well as dumb. How then, ask the modern critics, could he, when he recovered his speech, pronounce words which he had never before heard? Readers of the Greek text will remember that he also respected the laws of grammar by putting the name of Crœsus in the accusative, and that of the Persian soldier in the vocative case; but perhaps he had been taught grammar by a system of signs devised by some Lydian precursor of the Abbé de l'Epée. The modern conclusions are mainly to the effect that the son of Crœsus was not deaf, but only "tongue-tied."

Touching a "system of signs," I have just lighted on what seems to me a very curious item in the History of the Electric Telegraph. In a long-forgotten and defunct magazine called "The Satirist" (not by any means the ill-famed journal erst conducted by Barnard Gregory) for July, 1813 (Vol. X., page 201), I read the following:—On the report that it is in contemplation to substitute an electrical mode of communication with the outposts (by means of wires laid underground) for the present telegraphic system.

Our Telegraphs, just as they are, let us keep:
They forward good news from afar;
And still may send better—that Boney's asleep,
And ended oppression and war.

Electrical Telegraphs all must deplore,
Their service would merely be mocking;
Unfit to afford us intelligence more
Than such as would really be shocking.

Mark the years. In 1800 the illustrious Volta invented the pile which bears his name; and shortly afterwards the decomposition of water by means of this pile was discovered by Nicholson and Carlisle. In 1811 Soemmering, of Munich, proposed to transmit the current transmitted from the Voltaic pile through any one of thirty-five insulated letters, to indicate the several letters of the alphabet and the numerals; but it was not until the year 1837 that Professor Morse in America and Professor Wheatstone in England produced a practical electric telegraph. Morse's first really official letter on the subject is dated Sept. 27, 1837. Wheatstone's first patent for an electric telegraph had been sealed three months before, on June 12.

What was the "Electrical Telegraph" alluded to in the "Satirist" of July, 1813, and the wires of which were to run underground to Portsmouth and Plymouth. Was it the device of Soemmering of Munich, or of Schweigger, or of Mr. Ronalds of Hammersmith, who employed the divergence and collapse of pith balls to denote the letter to the observer? But Ronalds's experiments were not made public until 1816.

In any case, it is strange that electric telegraphy should have made such very slow progress to public acceptance. The transmission of the electric current through a wet packthread was demonstrated by Du Fay so far back as 1733; yet we had to wait until 1837 for a really practical instrument for electric telegraphy. On the other hand, gaslighting sprung up almost as fully armed as did Minerva from the head of Jove. In 1786 the ingenious Lord Dundonald (father of the naval hero) had burned in pipes (but only for the amusement of his friends) the gas generated by his coke furnaces in Scotland; and in 1792 Mr. Murdock employed coal gas for lighting up his house and offices at Redruth in Cornwall. In 1811 Winsor was laughed at for declaring that coal gas could be used for the illumination of whole cities; but the ridicule and opposition very soon died away, and in 1812 gaslighting in London became an accomplished fact. I remember my mother telling me that she saw one side of Pall-mall so lit with gas; and that the crowd very carefully kept on the other side of the way, lest there should be a general blow-up.

It was quite accidentally that I found the verses which I have quoted in the "Satirist." I went to the pages of the defunct magazine for quite another purpose. I had been reading about the enormous sums received and to be received by Sarah Bernhardt for her performances in the United States, and I remembered to have read something in the "Satirist" about the vast pecuniary gains in America of the English tragedian, George Frederick Cooke. Surely enough, I found the following:—

At Philadelphia the actor boldly plunged into every sort of eccentricity—got drunk, abused and treated his American friends as though they were beings of an inferior order; but played sixteen nights and netted seventeen thousand five hundred and sixty dollars—a sufficient pabulum for all his contumelious usage. More than two hundred pounds a night; and (whisky being cheap) Mr. George Frederick Cooke's personal expenses did not probably exceed twenty pounds a week.

Some years ago I remember to have seen at the Haymarket Theatre a somewhat poor play, which was said to be a free adaptation of a French piece called "Le Roman d'un Jeune Homme Pauvre," by M. Octave Feuillet; and on reference to the admirable "Biographie Nationale des Contemporains" (Paris, Glaeser and Co., 1880), I find that M. Feuillet's play, dramatised from one of his own novels, was produced at the Vaudeville Theatre, Paris, in 1858. But in the dramatic column of the Times of Wednesday I read that, on the withdrawal of "William and Susan" at the St. James's, there will be presented a piece, by Mr. Coghlan, called "Good Fortune," being "a version of M. Feuillet's 'Roman d'un Pauvre Jeune Homme.'" I was not aware that the distinguished French dramatist ever wrote a play under that title.

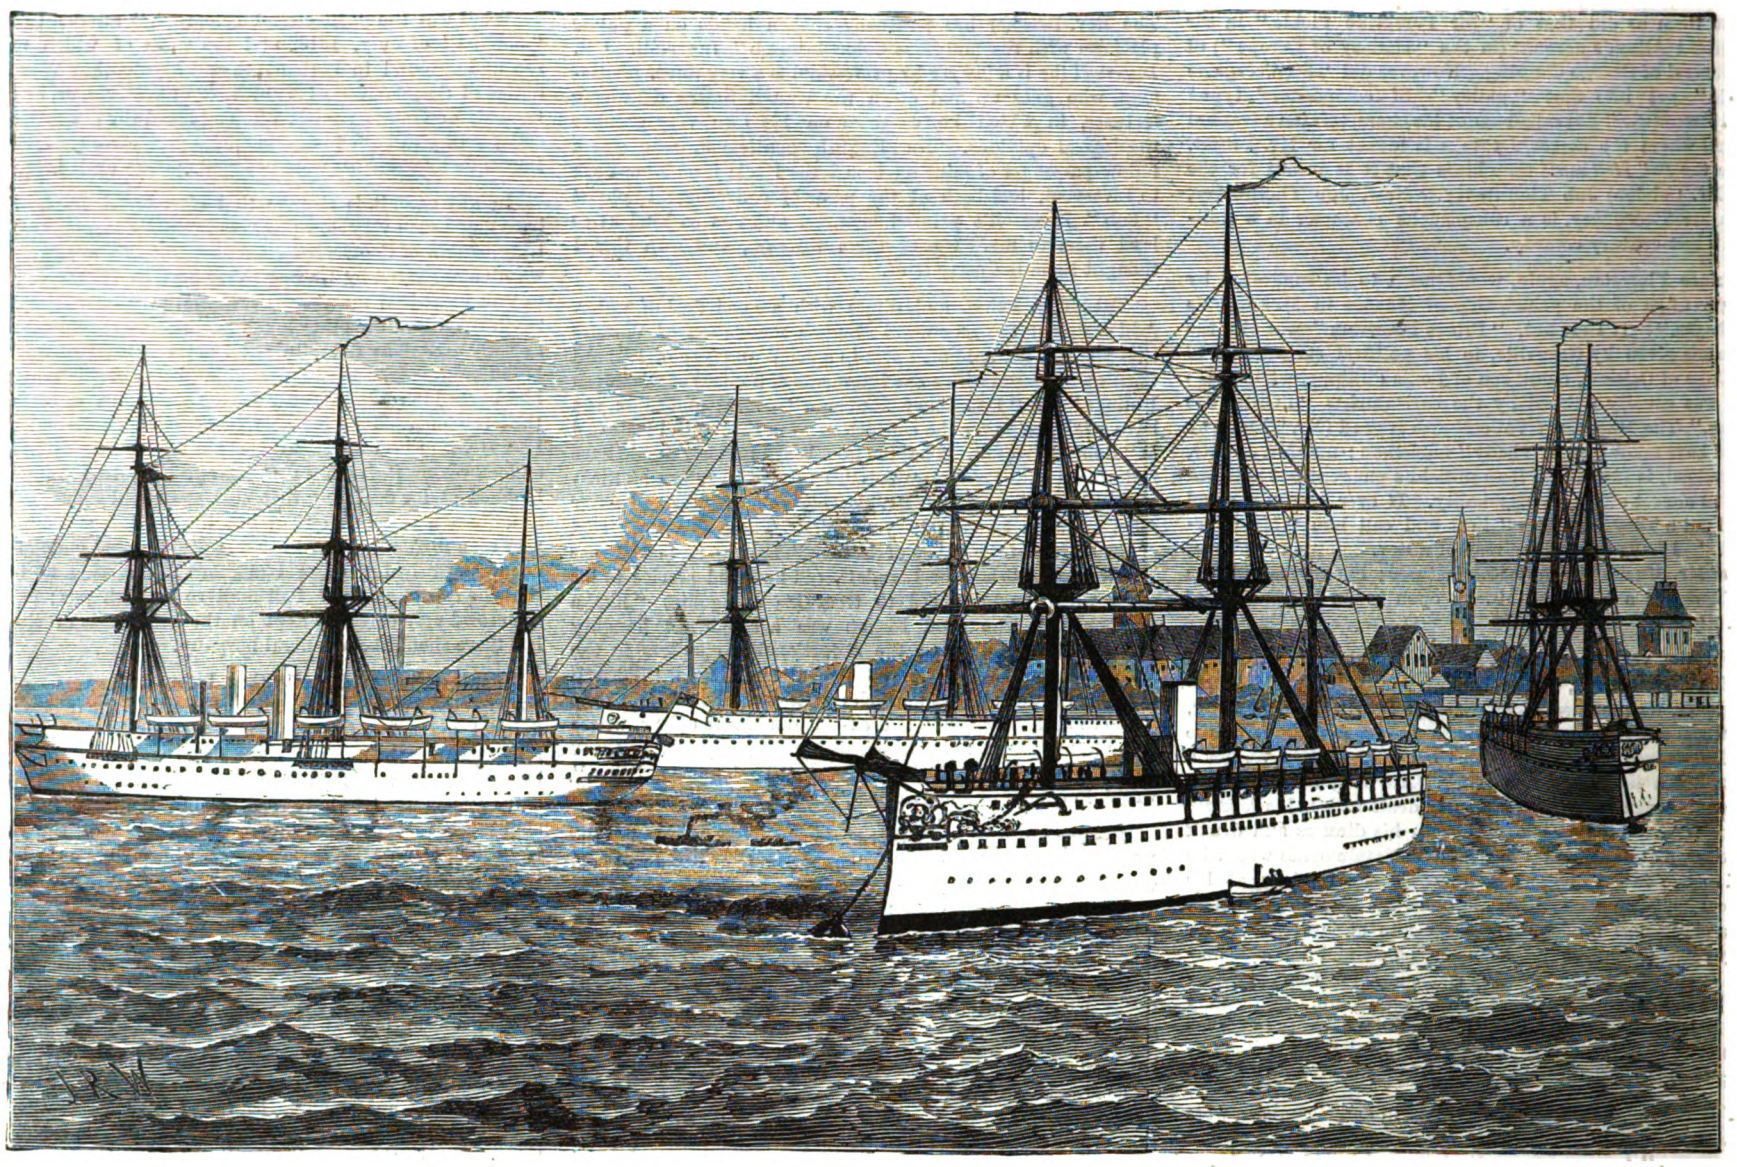
"Fleas are not Lobsters," Sir Joseph Banks (according to that wicked wag, Peter Pindar) once remarked. If the gentleman who attends to the dramatic criticism in the Times will refer to Molière's "Le Tartufe," Act I., Scene V., he will at once discern the idomatic difference which exists between "un pauvre homme" and "un homme pauvre."

On Wednesday next, the 1st December, at Willis's Rooms, King Street, St. James's, at three in the afternoon, will be held a meeting of the members of the Greek Committee and their friends "to express sympathy with the Greek nation, and with the Greeks of Epirus and Thessaly." Tickets are obtainable from the Hon. Sec. of the Committee, Mr. Lewis Sergeant, 10, Addison Road North, Notting Hill, W. The attendance of ladies at the meeting is, I understand, earnestly desired. Neither tea, nor vocal nor instrumental music will be provided, nor will any member of the Committee (so far as I have understood) recite "Maid of Athens, ere we part," or "The Isles of Greece," or the celebrated Romaic war-song, beginning—

Theleis kharin kai timethin kai zesen kai ploutesein
Kai tous ekthrous tou ston laimon theleis kapatesein;

the metre of which Lord Byron compared with that of the old ditty,

A Captain bold, of Halifax, who lived in country quarters.



What is the next line? I am sure I cannot tell. For aught I know, it may be,

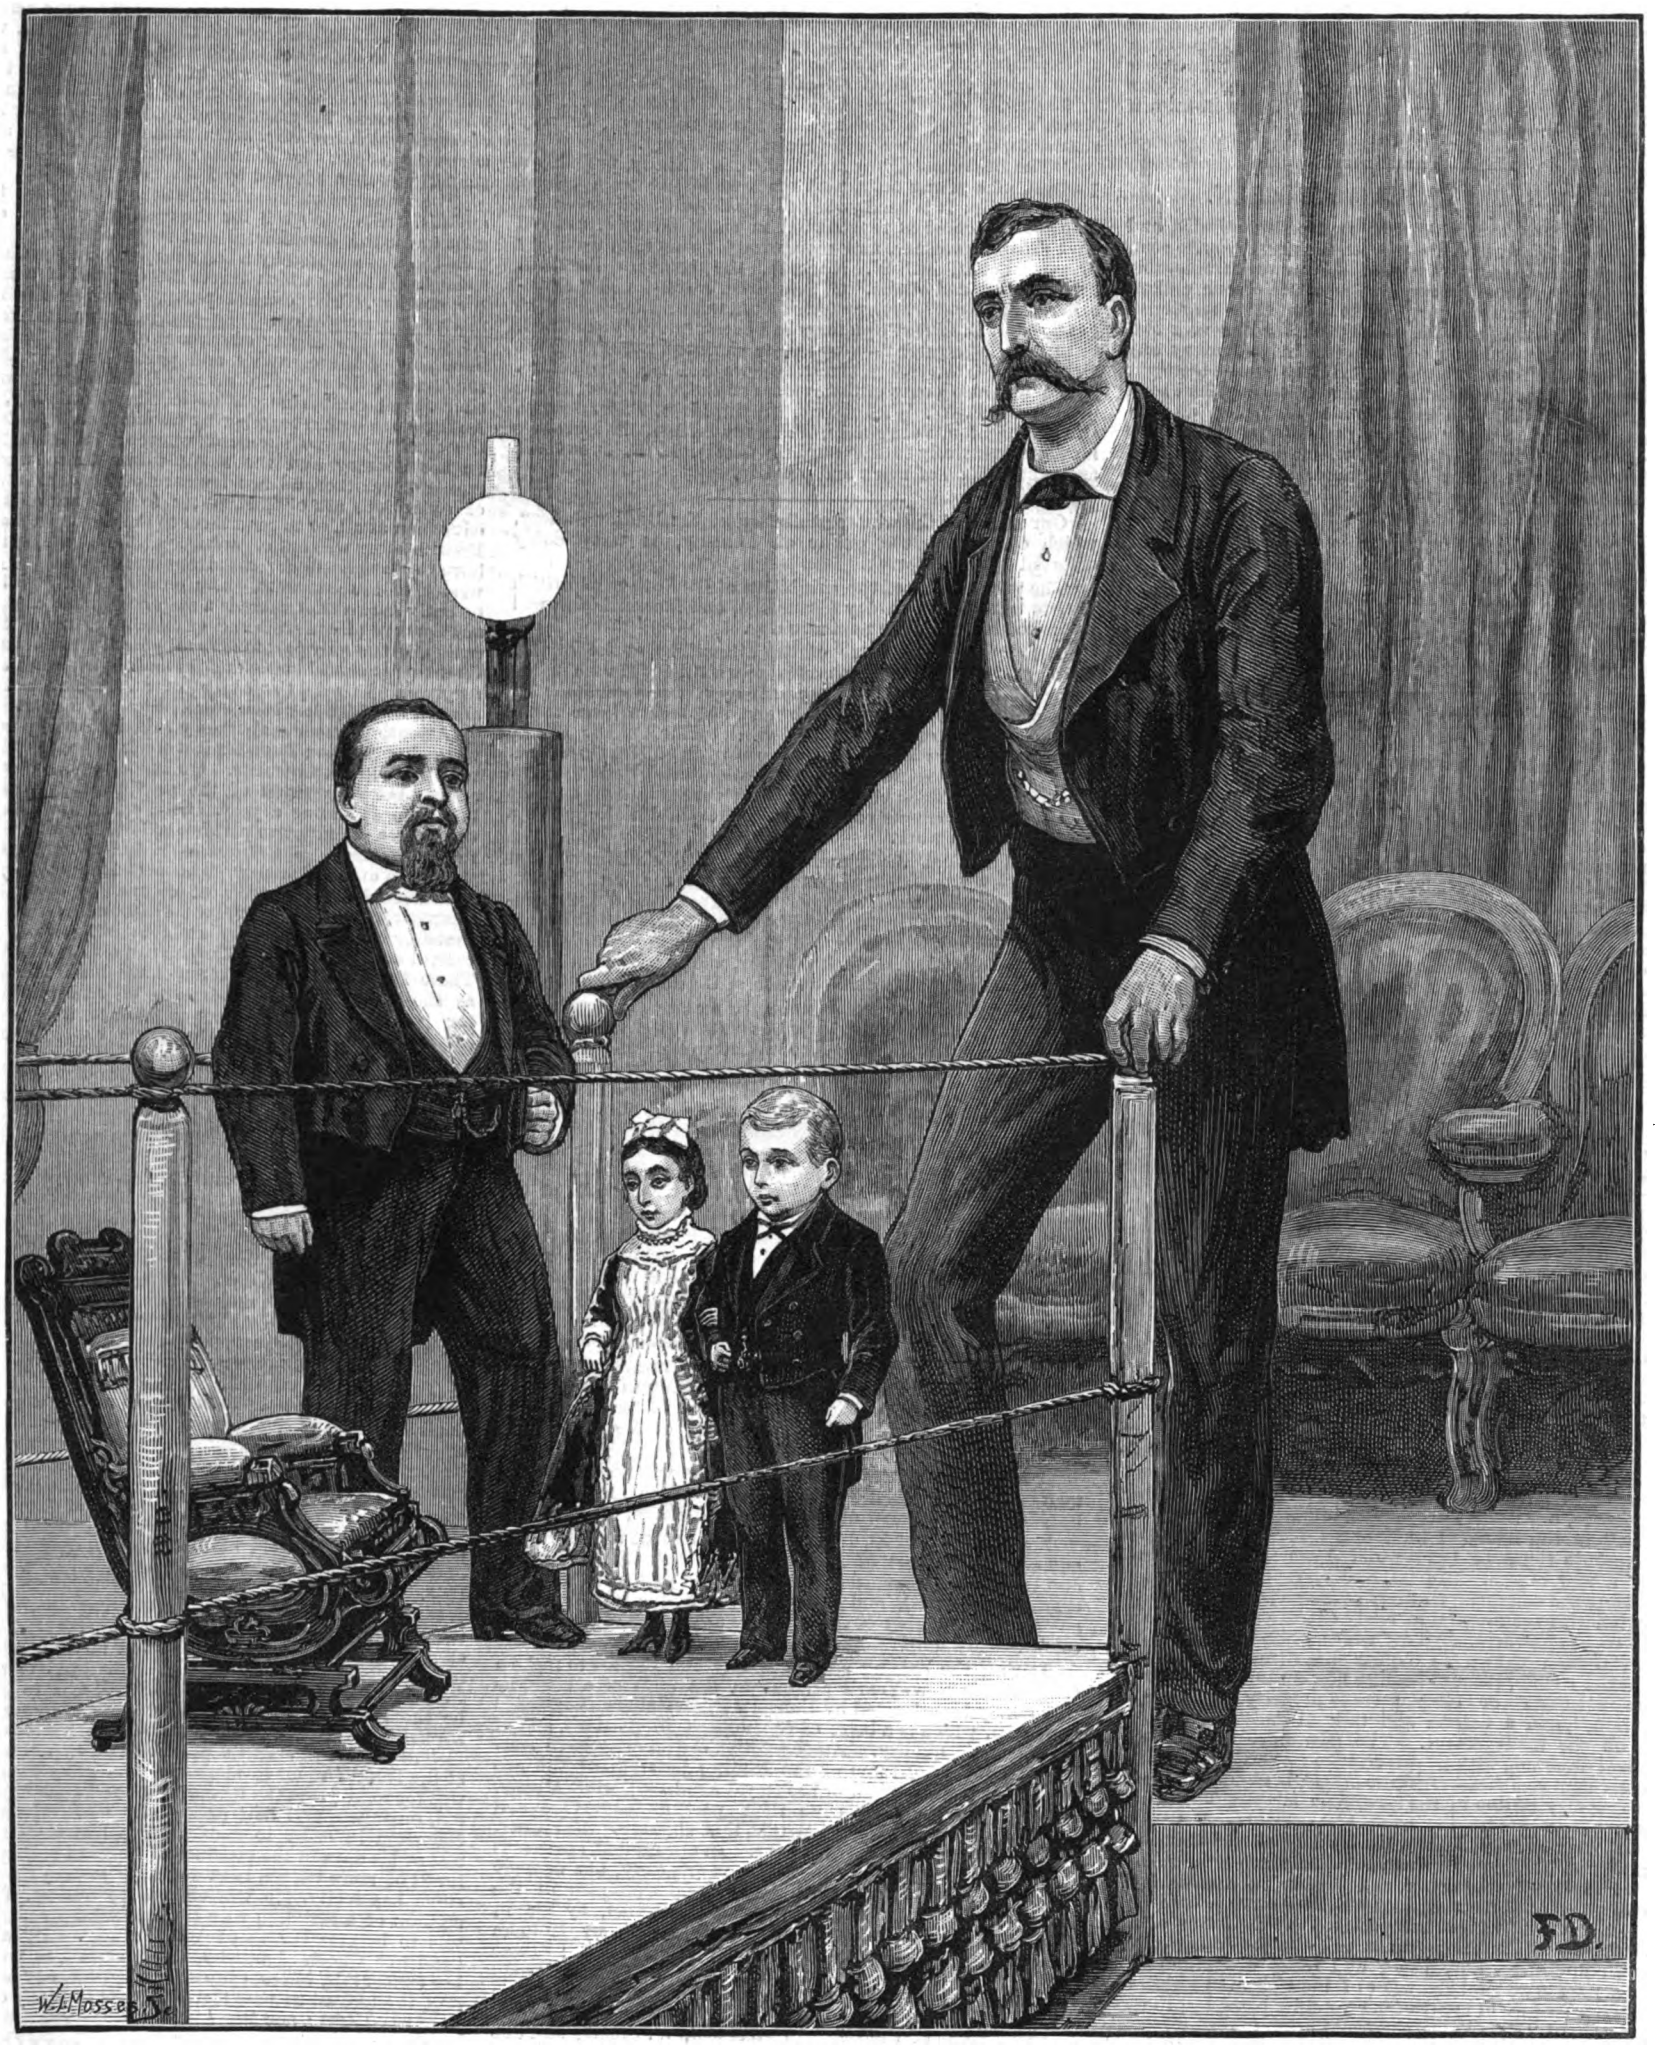
Had five-and-twenty sons-in-law, and twice as many daughters.

The entertainment at the meeting of the Greek Committee will be only so much speechmaking; still, I fancy that the oratory on Dec. 1, at Willis's Rooms, will be as good as it was at the meeting of the Committee last year, when Sir Charles Dilke was in the chair, and the Earl of Rosebery, the Marquis of Lansdowne, and Mr. Shaw Lefevre were among the speakers. At the coming meeting, Lord Rosebery will preside. Ladies, come in your thousands (comparatively speaking), and bring all your five-buttoned gloves with you. Applause from des mains bien gantées sounds very sweetly indeed.

Absolutely the very last novelty in feminine fashions. By mentioning it, let us see whether we cannot for once steal a march on the milliners and dressmakers. A lady who was present at the first performance of the revival of M. Alexandre Dumas' "Père Prodigue" tells me that a number of the younger ladies among the audience wore a jabot de fleurs, a river, or rather cascade, of violets, descending perpendicularly from neck to waist between two ruffled falls of lace. But could they have been Republicans, these fair wearers of the jabot de fleurs? The violet is pre-eminently the emblem of Bonapartism. Well, the Legitimist ladies might wear jabots of lilies, the Orleanists of cockscombs (le vaillant Coq Gaulois), and the Radical Republicans of red camellias. G. A. S.

Digitized by Google

TROOP-SHIPS ORONTES, JUMNA, MALABAR, AND EUPHRATES AT BOMBAY, WAITING TO BRING HOME TROOPS FROM THE AFGHAN WAR.



1. Wrecks of three steam-vessels in harbour.

2. Burning of the Lord Northbrook, when run ashore.

SHIPPING DISASTERS AT ST. MICHAEL'S, AZORES.

Digitized by Google

THE PIGMIES IN PICCADILLY: LUCIA ZARATE AND GENERAL MITE, WITH THE EXHIBITOR

(General Tom Thumb introduced into this Illustration to show their relative size.)

SHIPPING DISASTERS IN THE AZORES.

The port of St. Michael's, in these pleasant and productive islands of the Mid Atlantic, has lately witnessed several different maritime disasters of a rather unusual kind. On the night of Sept. 30, three steam-vessels from New Orleans, bound to France with cargoes of grain, had come in for a supply of coal to pursue their voyage. In fair weather, it is usual for ships visiting the port on this account to lie outside the breakwater. But a gale was coming on, and these steamers, the Stag, the Robinia, and the Benella, were moved partly into the harbour. Unfortunately, they did not go inside far enough to be safe; and in the night, when the storm became violent, their anchors gave way; they broke loose, and drifted into collision with each other. They were so much injured that the Robinia sank, at three o'clock in the morning, the Benella at nine o'clock, and the Stag was run ashore to prevent her sinking. In some newspaper reports the gale is spoken of as a hurricane, and it is said that great damage was done to the island. The only damage which really took place on shore is that the staging at the end of the breakwater was carried away. The mail-boat, together with some thirty sailing-vessels, were lying in the harbour, but, being properly secured, took no harm. It is to be hoped the Board of Trade inquiry will apportion the blame to the right parties.

The second disaster was that of the Lord Northbrook, which was run ashore on fire, at this port, on Oct. 21. The Lord Northbrook, of 1400 tons, was on her way from Calcutta. She put in for refuge, her cargo having been on fire for sixteen days. The captain wished to scuttle her inside the breakwater, and so save the vessel. But the authorities of the town, seeing that they had already three vessels lying sunk in their harbour, naturally objected to a fourth such incumbrance. It was then decided, as there were no hopes of saving the ship, to run her ashore in a sandy bay about three miles to the east of the town. This was done on the 22nd ult. As everything had been battened down, there were no outward signs of fire about the ship. However, on the night of the 30th the fire burst out, and she continued burning many days. These two disasters represent a loss of over £200,000.

We are indebted to Mr. C. Michell, of St. Michael's, for two sketches of the incidents above described.

THE PIGMIES IN PICCADILLY.

The "American Midgets," as they are called, whom Mr. Frank Uffner has placed on exhibition, in the Piccadilly Hall, opposite St. James's Church, daily from two to five and at half-past seven o'clock, are the smallest persons, nearly adult, ever seen in London. One is a young woman of nearly eighteen years; the other is a lad of sixteen. She stands twenty inches high, and weighs much less than an ordinary new-born babe; his weight is nine pounds, but his stature is only twenty-one inches. Mademoiselle Lucia Zarate was born on Jan. 2, 1863, at San Carlos, near Vera Cruz, in Mexico, of Mexican parents, who attend at Piccadilly, and are swarthy people of Spanish or mixed Spanish and Indian race and of ordinary size. They have other children of ordinary size. Lucia is rather like a monkey; she is dark in complexion, and her features are of the Aztec type; but she is lively, quick, and intelligent, and speaks a few words of English. She has been known in the United States these ten years past. The young gentleman, who is called General Mite, was born Oct. 2, 1864, of American parents, in Shenandoah County, New York. He is a fair-haired, well-formed, intelligent, good-looking little fellow, with a great idea of dignity. It is stated that at birth he was 9 in. long, a mere "midget," and that he grew till he reached the age of eight years, since which time he has been stationary in size. He has been exhibited six years in America. The two little people are shown in company with two other dwarfs, Miss Jenny Quigley, of Glasgow, and Commodore Foot, a citizen of the United States, who are more than twice as big. We have preferred, however, to introduce into our Illustration, by way of a comparative view, the well-known General Tom Thumb.

Digitized by Google

TROOPS FROM AFGHANISTAN.

Allahabad, the most central station in Northern India, and the place where the various lines from the north, south, east, and west join, has lately witnessed scenes of considerable interest. It was the temporary resting-place of our gallant troops returning from the Afghan War to their respective Indian stations south of Allahabad, and for the sick and wounded on their way home to England. Almost every day regiments and batches of wounded men have passed through, for whose comfort and accommodation a rest camp had been established on the Maidan or common bordering on the Cawnpore road. The weary soldiers could there rest awhile during the sultry hours of the days, which, even in October, were uncommonly hot, the thermometer being as high as 88 deg. in the tents.

We are indebted to Mr. Henry Piercy, assistant to the Accountant-General, for sketches of the scene at Allahabad upon this occasion.

Besides the ordinary rank and file, Allahabad has had an influx of general officers. In one day the principal hotel received not less than seven Generals—namely, General Sir F. Roberts, Hume, Cobbe, Macpherson, Hill, Hugh Gough, and Baker. Sir F. Roberts was honoured with a perfect ovation at his departure by the Bombay mail. He was not only attended to his carriage by all the other Generals named and leading military officers in Allahabad, but a voluntary guard of honour was formed by the East India Railway Volunteers. He was cheered on his homeward journey by an immense crowd of Europeans.

The troop-ships waiting in Bombay harbour, for the conveyance home to England of soldiers returning from the Afghan War, are the subject of another Illustration. It is supplied by a sketch with which Lieutenant F. Gilbert Jones, R.N., of H.M.S. Malabar, has favoured us. On the 23rd ult., these ships had been in the harbour for the past six weeks. They were about to commence their homeward voyages, the Euphrates on Oct. 26, the Orontes on the 31st, the Malabar on the 5th inst., and the Jumna on the 9th. The last-named ship had meanwhile gone to Kurrachee with the 61st Regiment, en route for Candahar.

FINE ARTS.

THE HANOVER GALLERY.

At this gallery in Bond-street (the corner of Maddox-street), where Makart's great picture of the "Entry of Charles V. into Antwerp" was shown in the summer, a winter exhibition of oil-pictures by British Artists—the first of its kind here—has been organised by Mr. Deschamps, who was the means of introducing to the London public many excellent French pictures at another gallery in Bond-street.

The present collection comprises 144 oil-paintings, two pieces of charming ideal sculpture by Mr. F. N. M'Lean, and a large gathering of the original drawings and sketches for the illustrations in Punch. The latter, of course, presents a rich fund of amusement; many pleasant impressions are recalled, and often deepened; for while seeing that the draughtsman is obviously indebted much and frequently to the engraver, the visitor will also feel that many of the more delicate, suggestive, and spirited touches of the original designer are blunted, if not lost, in the more mechanical reproduction. We get the jokes at first hand here, with all their fresh flavouring of character expression, humour, and fancy. Admitted to closer acquaintance, our respect deepens for John Tenniel, the best "stylist" in the realm of humorous design and caricature. Du Maurier's sense of beauty and grace in female figures affords a new charm. Charles Keene, especially, gains on recognising the delightful subtlety of his facial expressions, as contrasted with the rough-and-ready execution (so much more easy to copy) elsewhere. And even Linley Sambourne's quaint fancies, though drawn in bolder lines than Keene's or Du Maurier's faces, seem to acquire new meaning.

The selection of oil-pictures—properly speaking, a "selection," and a careful and tasteful one—reflects much credit on the management. The advantage of competent individual direction, with no prescriptive rights of diploma distinction, committee membership or clique, is at once apparent. Something may be due to the handsome appointments of the gallery; but, whatever the cause, it presents, though ill-lighted, an air of refinement which is an agreeable surprise in an exhibition of English pictures. The aim seems to have been to represent the newer and less vulgar tendencies of British Art, as at the Grosvenor; but here there is very little eccentricity or ambitious incapacity. Though few of the works are of sufficient importance to claim the critical notice we shall, doubtless, have other and fuller opportunities of offering, yet the general character of the collection testifies to the superior culture of many of our younger painters—to their appreciation of "style" and classical purity, to their reference to the French and Dutch schools in the rendering of "tone." This last remark is, perhaps, best borne out by the landscape-painters, Messrs. Mark Fisher, Leslie Thompson, J. E. Grace, A. Parsons, J. Knight, E. J. Waterlow, the brothers Wyllie, the Misses Montalba, and others, but also in figures by E. A. Gregory, R. B. Browning, and G. Clausen. W. H. Bartlett has again struck a rather new and a brilliant note, as the French say, in "A Widow's Holding, Connemara" (19). H. Moore's sea studies are, as usual, sui generis. The picture by Mr. Browning, the largest here, and a work of high promise, represents an Antwerp magistrate of 1570 surrounded by monks of the Spanish Inquisition, delivering a female heretic, who stands bound before him, to the "Secular Arm." The group to the left is admirable, but the dramatic interest is scarcely sustained sufficiently by the condemned one and her guards.

Four of the leaders in the classical movement are represented—Sir Frederick Leighton, Messrs. Watts, Alma Tadema, and Albert Moore. Sir Frederick's small head, from an ill-favoured model for once, has more of nature than he has accustomed us to expect, but the execution is not less refined for that. The President has also sent some of his small exquisitely delicate landscape studies. Sir Frederick has followers in Mr. H. T. Schafer, who contributes two decorative female figures on a light ground, very sweet in colour and graceful in feeling, and J. R. Weguelin, whose "Labour of the Danaids,"—ably drawn and impressive in tone—seems to deserve a better place. Mr. Watts sends his well-known noble portraits of Robert Browning and the Duke of Argyle, and "The Temptation," a small figure of Eve listening to the serpent in the apple-tree, which is new to us. Alma Tadema's "Mirror," is in almost his best manner, and shows a girl stooping over her reflection in a marble fountain, with cipollino columns in the background. "A Prize" depicts a figure with the victor's wreath, bearing a strigilled silver vase—and is to be presented, the catalogue informs us, and appropriately so, as a prize to the Artists' Corps. J. Collier has a picture of a "Tired Model" in an artist's studio, which in treatment closely resembles the last-named painter. A. Moore's study of a Greek maiden is a replica of, or very similar to, a picture we have previously reviewed.

"The Bridesmaid," by Mr. Millais, is a study, probably a portrait, of a young lady, with the light falling from behind on her profile: it is hardly one of the painter's happier efforts. The Scotch school is represented in small pictures, marked with greater reticence, and more completeness than usual, by Messrs. Pettie, R. W. Macbeth, the brothers Burr, J. MacWhirter, and others. O. Scholderer's well-toned "Fruit-seller," and the still better painted fruit, will find admirers. One or two of J. D. Linton's pictures had been previously exhibited, but "The Trumpeter"—very fine in characterisation, but not free from the besetting blackness—we had not seen before. There are also contributions (some of them not new to the public) by F. W. W. Topham, H. S. Marks, P. R. Morris, G. H. Boughton, Val Prinsep, W. Dendy Sadler (who addresses himself exclusively to the angling world), E. F. Brewtnall, and other artists of mark and promise.

Our notice of the winter exhibition at the Dudley Gallery, which opened to the public on Monday, is unavoidably deferred until next week.

The private view of the exhibition of the Society of British Artists takes place to-day (Saturday), and the exhibition will be opened to the public next Monday.

A few seasons ago one of the attractions at the Dudley Gallery exhibition of oil-pictures was a little girl with a big dog entitled "He won't hurt you," by Mr. Heywood Hardy. This picture we engraved at the time, and now a large steel-plate engraving of it has been issued by Mr. Arthur Lucas, 37, Duke-street, Piccadilly. It is the work of Mr. George H. Every, who has succeeded very happily in reproducing the delightful expression of the little girl as she stands by the side of her stalwart canine companion. The plate is altogether a most successful work.

The botanical department of the British Museum has acquired a series of 928 water-colour drawings, bound in five volumes, entitled "Drawings of the leaves, stalks, and ramifications of plants for the purpose of ascertaining their several species." They were executed for the Earl of Bute, in the years 1783 and 1784, by John Millar, who was the author of "Illustrations of the Sexual System of Linnæus."

The late Siamese Ambassador, being greatly struck with the grandeur of the Albert Memorial, intrusted Mr. Benson, of Ludgate-hill, with an order for a large copy in silver, to be presented by his Excellency and suite to the King of Siam as a memento of their visit. Mr. Benson has completed his task, and has produced the largest piece of plate ever made, standing, with its pedestal, seven feet high. The lines followed are those of the architect, the late Sir Gilbert Scott, with the details of the decorations modified. The figure of the Prince Consort is replaced by a spirited model of the King in a standing position.

"The Sentinel," painted by the well-known French artist, Auguste Bouchet, which attracted a great deal of notice when exhibited at the Paris Salon, has been sent to London for exhibition, and is on view at Mr. Lloyd's Gallery, 32, Cornhill.

Mr. Boehm's statue of Earl Russell was placed in position in the central hall of the Palace of Westminster last Saturday.

A terra-cotta bust of Lord Aberdare (from the studio of Mr. Henry Harvey), presented to his Lordship as President of the Royal Historical Society by members of that body, was unveiled on Thursday week at a meeting of the members in their rooms in Albemarle-street.

A marble bust of Sir John Brown, who was the first chairman of the Sheffield School Board, has been placed in the board-room of the new offices in Leopold-street, Sheffield.

Mr. Batsford, of 52, High Holborn, has sent us the fourth and concluding part of A Grammar of Japanese Ornament and Design, by Thomas W. Cutler. The plates are well and carefully executed, and appear to do ample justice to the acknowledged ability of the Japanese as masters of design and colour.

During the coming season, if any one desires to make a Christmas or New-Year's present in the form of a book, he will surely be attracted by Dalziel's Bible Gallery (Routledge and Sons), which is a book of the noblest proportions, and of most artistic quality. Amongst the artists who have contributed to it are some of the leading painters of the age (including the President of the Royal Academy), while Messrs. Dalziel have evidently done their part as engravers and printers with a determination that this should be the crowning work of their successful career. In our limited space it is not possible to go through the book critically, but we may direct attention to the following as good examples of the pictures in this Bible Gallery:—Cain and Abel, by Sir F. Leighton; Eliezer and Rebekah at the Well, by Holman Hunt; Isaac Blessing Jacob, E. Armytage, R.A.; Isaac Meeting Jacob, G. F. Watts, R.A.; Joseph's Coat, F. Madox Brown; Pharaoh Honours Joseph, E. J. Poynter, R.A.; Jacob Hears the Voice of the Lord, F. Sandys; Cashi Brings to David News of the Death of Absolom, W. Small; and Job Receiving the Messengers, by W. Small.

The Lord Mayor, Mr. Sheriff Waterlow, and a number of the members of the City Government, visited last Saturday the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind, at Upper Norwood. A special concert was given, under the direction of Mr. F. J. Campbell, Principal of the college.

The Registrar-General's weekly return states that during last week 5433 births and 3564 deaths were registered in London and twenty-two other large towns of the United Kingdom. In London 2348 births and 1489 deaths were registered. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 235, and the deaths 232 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 10 from smallpox, 41 from measles, 66 from scarlet fever, 12 from diphtheria, 16 from whooping-cough, 17 from different forms of fever, and 22 from diarrhœa; thus to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class 184 deaths were referred, against 186 and 224 in the two preceding weeks. These deaths were 73 below the corrected average number from the same diseases in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had steadily increased from 124 to 421 in the ten preceding weeks, declined to 332 last week, and were no less than 112 below the corrected weekly average: 195 were attributed to bronchitis, and 97 to pneumonia.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Nov. 23.

During the past week the proceedings of the Chamber have been taken up with the debate on the bill for the reform of the magistracy. The tendency of this important bill, which it is impossible to discuss at length within the limits of this letter, is rather to a replacement of the magistracy than to a reorganisation. The keystone of the bill was in article 8, which suspends the principle of irremovability, or life tenure of office, which has been hitherto in force. This article was adopted yesterday by 275 votes against 169. The ensemble of the bill was then adopted by 294 votes against 169.

The principal business in the Senate has been the debate on M. Camille Sée's bill for the creation of high schools for girls under the surveillance and responsibility of the State. This bill was adopted by a large majority in the Chamber last session. It is one which meets the demand of a majority of the country. The clerical party, however, has made it a matter of protestation. The case is, in reality, very simple. At present the higher education of girls is practically the monopoly of the convents, and particularly of the Sisters of the Sacred Heart. In some of the large towns private educational establishments do exist, precariously, it is true. But they are bound together by no common organisation, and the public has no standard whereby to direct its choice. In the country and the small towns those who, for one reason or another, do not approve of the conventual system of education, are obliged either to give their daughters no education at all, or to send them to the convents, faute de mieux. Besides being without organisation, the private lay institutions have to struggle under disadvantages against the established wealth of the convents. The universal suffrage having sufficiently shown that there is a majority in the country who do not approve of convents and of the conventual system of education, it was only just to give satisfaction to that majority by establishing schools which might do for girls what the lycées do for boys. This is the object of M. Camille Sée's bill, the ensemble of which has been adopted by the Senate.

Attention was unexpectedly called to the question of the method of electing Deputies last week by two incidents which took place in the Chamber. On Thursday the Chamber voted against the suppression of the provincial Tribunals judging less than 150 cases a year. On Friday the Twenty-second Committee of Initiative pronounced M. Bardoux's bill for the re-establishment of the scrutin de liste unworthy of the consideration of the Chamber. This decision, really only a manifestation of ill-will, will, of course, be overruled by the Chamber, and the bill will be discussed in due course, and probably adopted, for M. Gambetta is in favour of it; and careful calculations show that he can obtain a majority for it. These two incidents, however, have been much discussed, as showing the filial tenderness of the present Chamber for the method of voting to which it owes its existence. In order the better to enable the reader to understand this important question, I may state that the National Assembly voted the Scrutin d'Arrondissement, by which each administrative district elects a deputy, and rejected the scrutin de liste, by which a whole department elects a certain number of deputies. The former, the uninominal ballot, has the disadvantage of sending to the Chamber deputies who are ready to sacrifice the general interests of the country to merely local needs, and to prevent the formation of powerful currents of public opinion. It also gives an undue advantage to local influence—witness the matter of the tribunals referred to above, and enables a number of mediocrities to enter Parliament. Naturally, these mediocrities have but a small chance of being re-elected when their constituents are not merely the voters of a restricted district, but, to a certain extent, the voters of a whole department. Hence the two incidents that took place in the Chamber on Thursday and Friday last.

The sitting of the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon was very stormy. The subject of discussion was the report of the Committee of Initiative pronouncing in favour of the nomination of a Parliamentary Committee to inquire into the conduct of General de Cissey. The origin of this report is the famous Jung-de Woestyne-Cissey-Kaulla case, which has been occupying public attention for the past six weeks.

On Sunday Louise Michel was presented at a private political meeting held at Montmartre, under the presidency of the august and venerable Citizen Gambon, a vieille barbe of 1848. Citizen Gambon delivered an eloquent panegyric of Jeanne d'Arc, and ended by saying that Louise Michel was the Jeanne d'Arc of modern times. Louise Michel lauded the efforts of the Russian Nihilists, and announced that she did not ask for vengeance, but for justice. All she asked of her friends, on whose support she counted, was to be allowed to be the first to strike. She concluded by crying Vive la Révolution Sociale et Universelle! Vivent les Nihilists!

The sale of Bressant's pictures and bibelots will take place at the Hôtel Drouot to-morrow. The great stage lover, who was for forty years the favourite of the Parisian public, is now old, forgotten, and half paralysed. He is obliged to sell his collection in order to enable him to live comfortably for the rest of his days in the provinces. Bressant perhaps turned the heads of more women than any jeune premier that the French stage has had. He was obliged to quit St. Petersburg on account of a flirtation with the beautiful Princess Olga, who was to become Queen of Wurtemburg. By a strange coincidence Queen Olga, who, like Bressant, is now a wreck of her former self, bitter, cynical, and caring only for her poodle-dog, is expected to pass through Paris in a day or two. Tout passe; tout casse; tout lasse!

In the month of October, 1802, Goethe wrote to Schiller—"I expect you at Weimar; we will talk of literature and of France. I have had a dream that one day that nation which has so much helped my reputation will be the first to break the pedestal that it has raised to me." Goethe had a presentiment of the iconoclastic critic Barbey d'Aurevilly, who has just published a volume called "Goethe et Diderot," which strives to demolish both those writers in a most picturesquely violent manner. Barbey d'Aurevilly is a dandy and a literary critic, who has a horror of the common-place. His book is amusing, if it is not convincing.

The theatrical week has consisted of two premières and a dernière. The first première was that of Jules Verne's "Michel Strogoff," at the Châtelet, a panorama of Russian and Oriental life in I know not how many tableaux. The art of the scene-painter and the costumier has said its last word in this dazzling spectacle. The only thing superfluous in the piece is the dialogue, which might be advantageously replaced by rapid pantomime. The theatre of the future will be the spectacle-panorama. The second première was that of a revival of Dumas's "Père Prodigue," at the Vaudeville. The dernière was the inauguration of the bust of Offenbach at the Variétés last Thursday. It was a sort of review of Offenbach's immense repertory in which the artistes who created the most famous rôles came and sang in honour of the maestro. It was a performance that will not readily be forgotten, and a touching tribute to Offenbach's memory.

T. C.

Digitized by Google

THE PLAYHOUSES.

The substitution of "Richelieu; or, the Conspiracy," for "Hamlet" at the Princess's must not by any means be taken as evidence that Mr. Edwin Booth, as the impersonator of the Prince of Denmark, had failed to obtain general acceptance at the hands of a British audience. On the contrary, I believe that "Hamlet" as interpreted by Mr. Booth was rather growing than increasing in popularity when, in accordance with a long-settled programme, it had to be withdrawn to make way for Lord Lytton's curious gloss on the history of the Court of France during the reign of Louis XIII.—a picture as unreal, affected, and "stagey" as the "Cinq Mars" of Alfred de Vigny is realistic, dignified, and natural. Beyond the bald fact that a number of French nobles, jealous of the pride and power of Richelieu as the Prime Minister of a weak King, conspire to overthrow, and, if need be, to assassinate him, and that they are at last completely foiled, baffled, and jockeyed by the wily Cardinal, who, to quote his own pet saying, ekes out the lion's skin with that of the fox, the play of Richelieu can scarcely be said to have a plot at all. The people who surround the chief actor are so many puppets. Julie de Mortemar is a very pale and weak heroine, and her bridegroom, Adrien de Mauprat, a most uninteresting swain; and what interest can the public be expected to take in a pair of sweethearts who are united in wedlock before the piece is two acts old? It may be pleaded that a similarly premature marriage is the main incident in "The Lady of Lyons;" but then Claude and Pauline are a very lovable pair of sweethearts; whereas Julie (called by the majority of the company at the Princess's "Jooly") looks like a mere schoolgirl who is not even sufficiently lovesick; and De Mauprat is a not very reputable soldier of fortune, ready to become the tool of Richelieu to save his head, and as ready to turn bravo and attempt to murder his benefactor when he fancies that he has been betrayed by him. There is the feeblest of phantoms of a comic character in "Richelieu" in the foppish and gluttonous courtier who is so fond of raised pies; but he is not equal in foppishness and gormandising propensities to Glavis in "The Lady of Lyons." The lion's share of the comic as well as the tragic "business" in "Richelieu" falls to the Cardinal himself; and it is for that reason, perhaps, that the part is such a favourite one with many-sided tragedians. Macready, the original, and the best Richelieu that ever I saw, had a great deal of grim humour in him. So, in varying degrees, had Charles Kean and Samuel Phelps. It is the privilege of Mr. Edwin Booth to be endowed not only with marked tragic power, and with a distinct and racy humorous faculty, but likewise with much facility of sympathetic and pathetic expression: to all which are superadded a subtly artistic by-play which is all his own. In the first act a quill pen plays a conspicuously useful part in this by-play; and I doubt whether "Nature's noblest gift a gray goose-quill" was ever turned to more felicitous account than it was by Mr. Edwin Booth on the stage of the Princess's last Saturday night.

Carefully reviewing the performance of the eminent American tragedian in "Richelieu," and weighing the numerous and conflicting criticisms which have appeared on his version of the character, I come to the conclusion that Mr. Edwin Booth's Richelieu is, throughout, a nobly superb impersonation. Lord Lytton appears to have forgotten the surname of his hero, or perhaps it is the actor himself who deviates from his author's text in proclaiming himself "Armand de Richelieu." As well might the victor of Blenheim have called himself "John of Marlborough," or the hero of Waterloo adopted "Arthur of Wellington" as a signature. The name of the great minister of Louis XIII. was "Armand Jean Du Plessis, Cardinal of Richelieu; and when one thinks of him in his nominative totality one is more inclined to the persuasion that Mr. Edwin Booth gives us more than a stage Richelieu, and that we have before us (so far as the cunning of the actor's art can extend) the entire historic man, Armaud Du Plessis—haughty, disdainful, aristocratic to the finger-tips, revengeful, full of Machiavellian wiliness, bloodthirsty upon occasion; but, on the other hand, witty, accomplished, refined, generous, fond of arts and artists, players and music, a patron of letters (he founded the French Academy), and fond, occasionally, of dabbling in letters himself. Nay, even the choregraphic art was not beneath the attention of this most versatile of Cardinals. Did he not once travesty himself in an absurd costume and dance a saraband before Anne of Austria. And this many-sided man Mr. Edwin Booth, to my mind, places before you with eloquent directness. Not only in look, but in mien and gesture, and general port and bearing, his Richelieu seems to step out of the canvas of history on to the stage just as the Cavaliers and prelates of Vandyck or Velasquez might be imagined to step from their grand pictured canvasses.

In divers quarters I have seen it objected to Mr. Booth that there is inequality in the manner in which he portrays physical suffering, and that at one moment he seems hale and vigorous as a mousquetaire, while at another he is a frail and quavering old man racked by the pangs of pulmonary or bronchial disease. A fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind; and, arguing from some mournful experiences of mine own, I should say that Mr. Booth has elected to represent Richelieu as afflicted with chronic bronchitis and spasmodic asthma, maladies which alternately, and capriciously give the patient the aspect of having nothing whatever the matter with him, and then of being close to death's door. The dramatist, too, was in error in dwelling so frequently on Richelieu's age and infirmities. He was born in 1585, and when the action of the play is supposed to occur he could not have been more than fifty-five years of age. No age at all, to speak of, in the opinion at least of the late Lord Lyndhurst, who told his private secretary, Mr. Benjamin Disraeli, that Byron was "a mere boy" when he died.

I unhesitatingly pronounce that in Richelieu, according to my lights, Mr. Edwin Booth is quite the compeer of Samuel Phelps—that is to say, one of the two best interpreters of the character that have been seen on our stage since the days of William Charles Macready; and this opinion a crowded and enthusiastic audience seemed unanimously to share. American critics say that Mr. Booth is as fine in Iago, and finer still in the "Fool's Revenge." We shall see. In "Richelieu" he was so inefficiently supported (save by Mr. Leathes in the King, and Mr. John Ryder in Father Joseph) that in charity it would be expedient to say nothing about a group of ladies and gentlemen who (on this occasion only, let it be hoped) made a peculiarly unfortunate concourse of atoms; but who (it is also to be hoped) will try to do better next time. In justice, however, to that excellent actor, Mr. Thomas Swinbourne, it must be noted that he undertook, at the very briefest of notices, the important and troublesome part of Baradas, as a substitute for Mr. Redmund, who was suffering from illness.

An extraordinary galimatias of feeble extravagance and absurdity, called "Captain Cuttle," a dramatic sketch, purporting to be founded on the "Dombey and Son" of Charles Dickens, was produced at the Gaiety Theatre on Saturday afternoon last. Mr. W. J. Florence is really admirable in the part of "Ed'ard Cuttle, Mariner" (who, to all appearance, seems to have been resident for a lengthened period, not at Rotherhithe or in any other quarter of maritime London, but rather in some New England town; say, Salem, Massachusetts); but when he was off the stage the "Dramatic Sketch," which spread itself over three acts, became, from its want of purpose and imbecility, more than painful. It was pitiable to see so good an actress as Mrs. Leigh condemned to go through a sorry caricature of the character of Dickens's "Cleopatra," Mrs. Skewton; and Miss Gilchrist was most disagreeably out of place as Florence Dombey. Mr. Shine tried to make something out of the ghost of Mr. Toots; and Mr. Shine is an actor who always tries to do his best; but of the apparition of Toots he could make nothing. Mr. W. J. Florence, in fine, has such a capital appreciation of the character of Captain Cuttle that I should respectfully counsel him to have a short piece written in which, relatively speaking, the Captain shall be, like Eclipse, "first, and the rest nowhere." Let him throw Dombey and Son overboard as far as he can, and give us Captain Cuttle at home with the family of Mrs. MacSinger. That austerest of landladies is altogether banished from the "Dramatic Sketch" at the Gaiety.

G. A. S.

MUSIC.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

The production of the new opera "Maria di Gand"—composed by Signor Tito Mattei—was postponed from Saturday to Tuesday last, and was again deferred to the following Thursday; too late for our notice until next week. There is, consequently, little that calls for comment now. Madame Amadi—whose recent first appearance here has already been recorded—repeated her performance as Maffio Orsini, in "Lucrezia Borgia," on Saturday afternoon, and sang with enhanced effect. She possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of good quality and extensive compass; her chief fault being an occasional tendency to strain it in the more declamatory passages.

Signor Mantrini—who lately made his first appearance here when almost incapacitated by illness and the fatigue of hurried travelling—sang with more effect as Gennaro in Saturday's repetition of "La Traviata," which was otherwise cast—as was "Lucrezia Borgia"—as recently noticed.

Yesterday (Friday) week "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was repeated, with the transference of the character of Rosina to Mdlle. Bressolles, who was not heard to as much advantage as in her previous performance as Margherita di Valois in "Les Huguenots." The part of Figaro, the mercurial Barber in Rossini's sparkling opera, was again excellently sustained by Signor Aldighieri, the subordinate character of Berta having been raised to unusual prominence by the effective singing of Mdlle. Bauermeister.

On Monday "Faust" was given again, with the cast mostly as in recent performances, an important exception having been the assignment of the character of Margherita to Mdlle. Rosina Isidor, who fully sustained the very favourable impression previously made by her in other operas. In Tuesday's representation of "Il Trovatore," Madame Colombo suddenly replaced Madame Zacchi as Leonora, in consequence of the frequent rehearsals of Signor Mattei's opera, in which this lady sustains the principal part.

The Crystal Palace Concert of last Saturday brought forward a charming orchestral piece by Dr. Ferdinand Hiller, entitled "The Sentinel," an adaptation, we believe, of a pianoforte movement of his own. On the same occasion, Madame Isabel Fassett (from America) made a highly successful first appearance here, having sung with great effect an air from Handel's "Semele" and Liszt's "King of Thule" song. Madame Sophie Löwe was the other vocalist, and the programme included fine pianoforte performances by Madame Frickenhaus, Haydn's symphony in B flat (the fourth of the "Salomon" set), some of Beethoven's "Egmont" music, and the "Pas de Lutteurs" and "Marche Triomphale" from Berlioz's "La Prise de Troi."

Berlioz's music to "Faust" was performed at St. James's Hall on Saturday evening, conducted by Mr. Charles Hallé. We have before spoken of this remarkable composition in detail—on the occasion of its rendering (with the original French text) at M. Pasdeloup's concert at Her Majesty's Theatre in 1878, and when given under Mr. Charles Hallé's direction at St. James's Hall in May this year. It was again finely rendered on Saturday, with an excellent band and chorus, numbering about 300 performers, the solo parts having been very efficiently sung by Miss M. Davies (Margaret), Mr. E. Lloyd (Faust), Mr. Santley (Mephistopheles), and Mr. Pyatt (Brander). The Hungarian March and Ballet of Sylphs (for orchestra) were encored, as was the Serenade for Mephistopheles (with chorus). Herr Straus was the leading solo violinist, and Mr. Frantzen the director of the chorus.

At this week's Monday Popular Concert, Mr. Eugene D'Albert appeared, for the first time there, and obtained a special success by his fine performance of Schumann's elaborate and difficult variations for the pianoforte in C sharp minor, entitled "Etudes symphoniques." The young pianist has obtained the Queen's Scholarship at the National Training School for Music, at the concerts of which institution he had already distinguished himself by his excellent playing. At Monday's concert Mr. D'Albert also gave a brilliant "Etude" by Chopin, and was associated with Signor Piatti in Beethoven's sonata in A major for piano and violoncello. Mozart's serenade in C minor for wind instruments was admirably rendered by MM. Dubrucq, Horton, Lazarus, Egerton, Mann, Standen, Wotton, and Haveron. Madame Leonora Braham sang, with great taste and refinement, Mr. Sullivan's "Orpheus with his Lute," and Mendelssohn's "Frühlingslied," well accompanied by Mr. Zerbini.

The Borough of Hackney Choral Association began a new season, at the Shoreditch Townhall, on Tuesday evening, when the first of a series of four concerts took place. The programme comprised Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," Schumann's "Hymn to Night," Mrs. Meadows White's choral "Ode to the North-East Wind," and other more familiar items. The ode was given for the first time with orchestra, and proved very effective. Tuesday's performances, conducted as usual by Mr. E. Prout, were efficient in all their details, orchestral, choral, and solo, the principal singers having been Miss Anna Williams, Madame C. West, and Mr. H. Guy. The second concert of the series takes place on Jan. 25.

That excellent pianist Mdlle. Janotha gave a recital at St. James's Hall on Wednesday afternoon, when her programme comprised solo pieces by Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, and Mendelssohn.

Mr. John Boosey's fifteenth season of the London Ballad Concerts opened at St. James's Hall on Wednesday evening, with a programme of strong and varied interest. The solo singers announced were Madame Antoinette Sterling, Misses M. Davies and C. Samuell, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. J. Maas, Mr. Santley, Signor Foli, and Mr. Maybrick, a new feature being the introduction of a choir of about sixty voices selected from the South London Choral Association, directed by Mr. Venables. Mr. Sidney Naylor is again the conductor of the concerts.

The Blackheath Musical Society, conducted by Mr. G. F. Geausseat, gives the first concert of its fifth season on Tuesday evening next. The choir associated with the performances numbers about two hundred voices. Of the sterling nature of the programmes good evidence is offered by the selection announced for Tuesday's concert, which includes a motett of Bach, for double choir, Schubert's "Song of Miriam," Rubinstein's first sonata for pianoforte and violin, and other interesting features. The solo vocalists engaged are:—Miss M. Davies, Mr. F. Boyle, and Mr. W. Webster—Mr. Geausseat being the pianist, and M. Musin the violinist. The society is doing good work in its locality.

Under the title of "The People's Concert Society," a series of performances of chamber music is being given at the Bishopsgate School Hall, Skinner-street, the first of which took place last week, the remaining five concerts being announced for the following five months. The programme (vocal and instrumental) of the opening concert was of a very substantial as well as of a varied character.

Mr. Frederick H. Cowen's second orchestral concert will take place this (Saturday) evening, at St. James's Hall; Madame Patey and Signor Foli being the vocalists and Madame Frickenhaus the pianiste. There will be an orchestra of sixty performers, led by Mr. V. Nicholson.

The first of Mr. W. Carter's six grand National Concerts at the Royal Albert Hall takes place next Tuesday evening. The programme comprises a selection of Scotch music, the date being that of St Andrew's Day, which will also be celebrated at St. James's Hall by a concert of a similar description.

The directors of the Brighton Aquarium announce four grand orchestral concerts in the concert-room of that building on Saturday afternoons, beginning on Nov. 27; and an evening performance of "The Messiah" on Dec. 22.

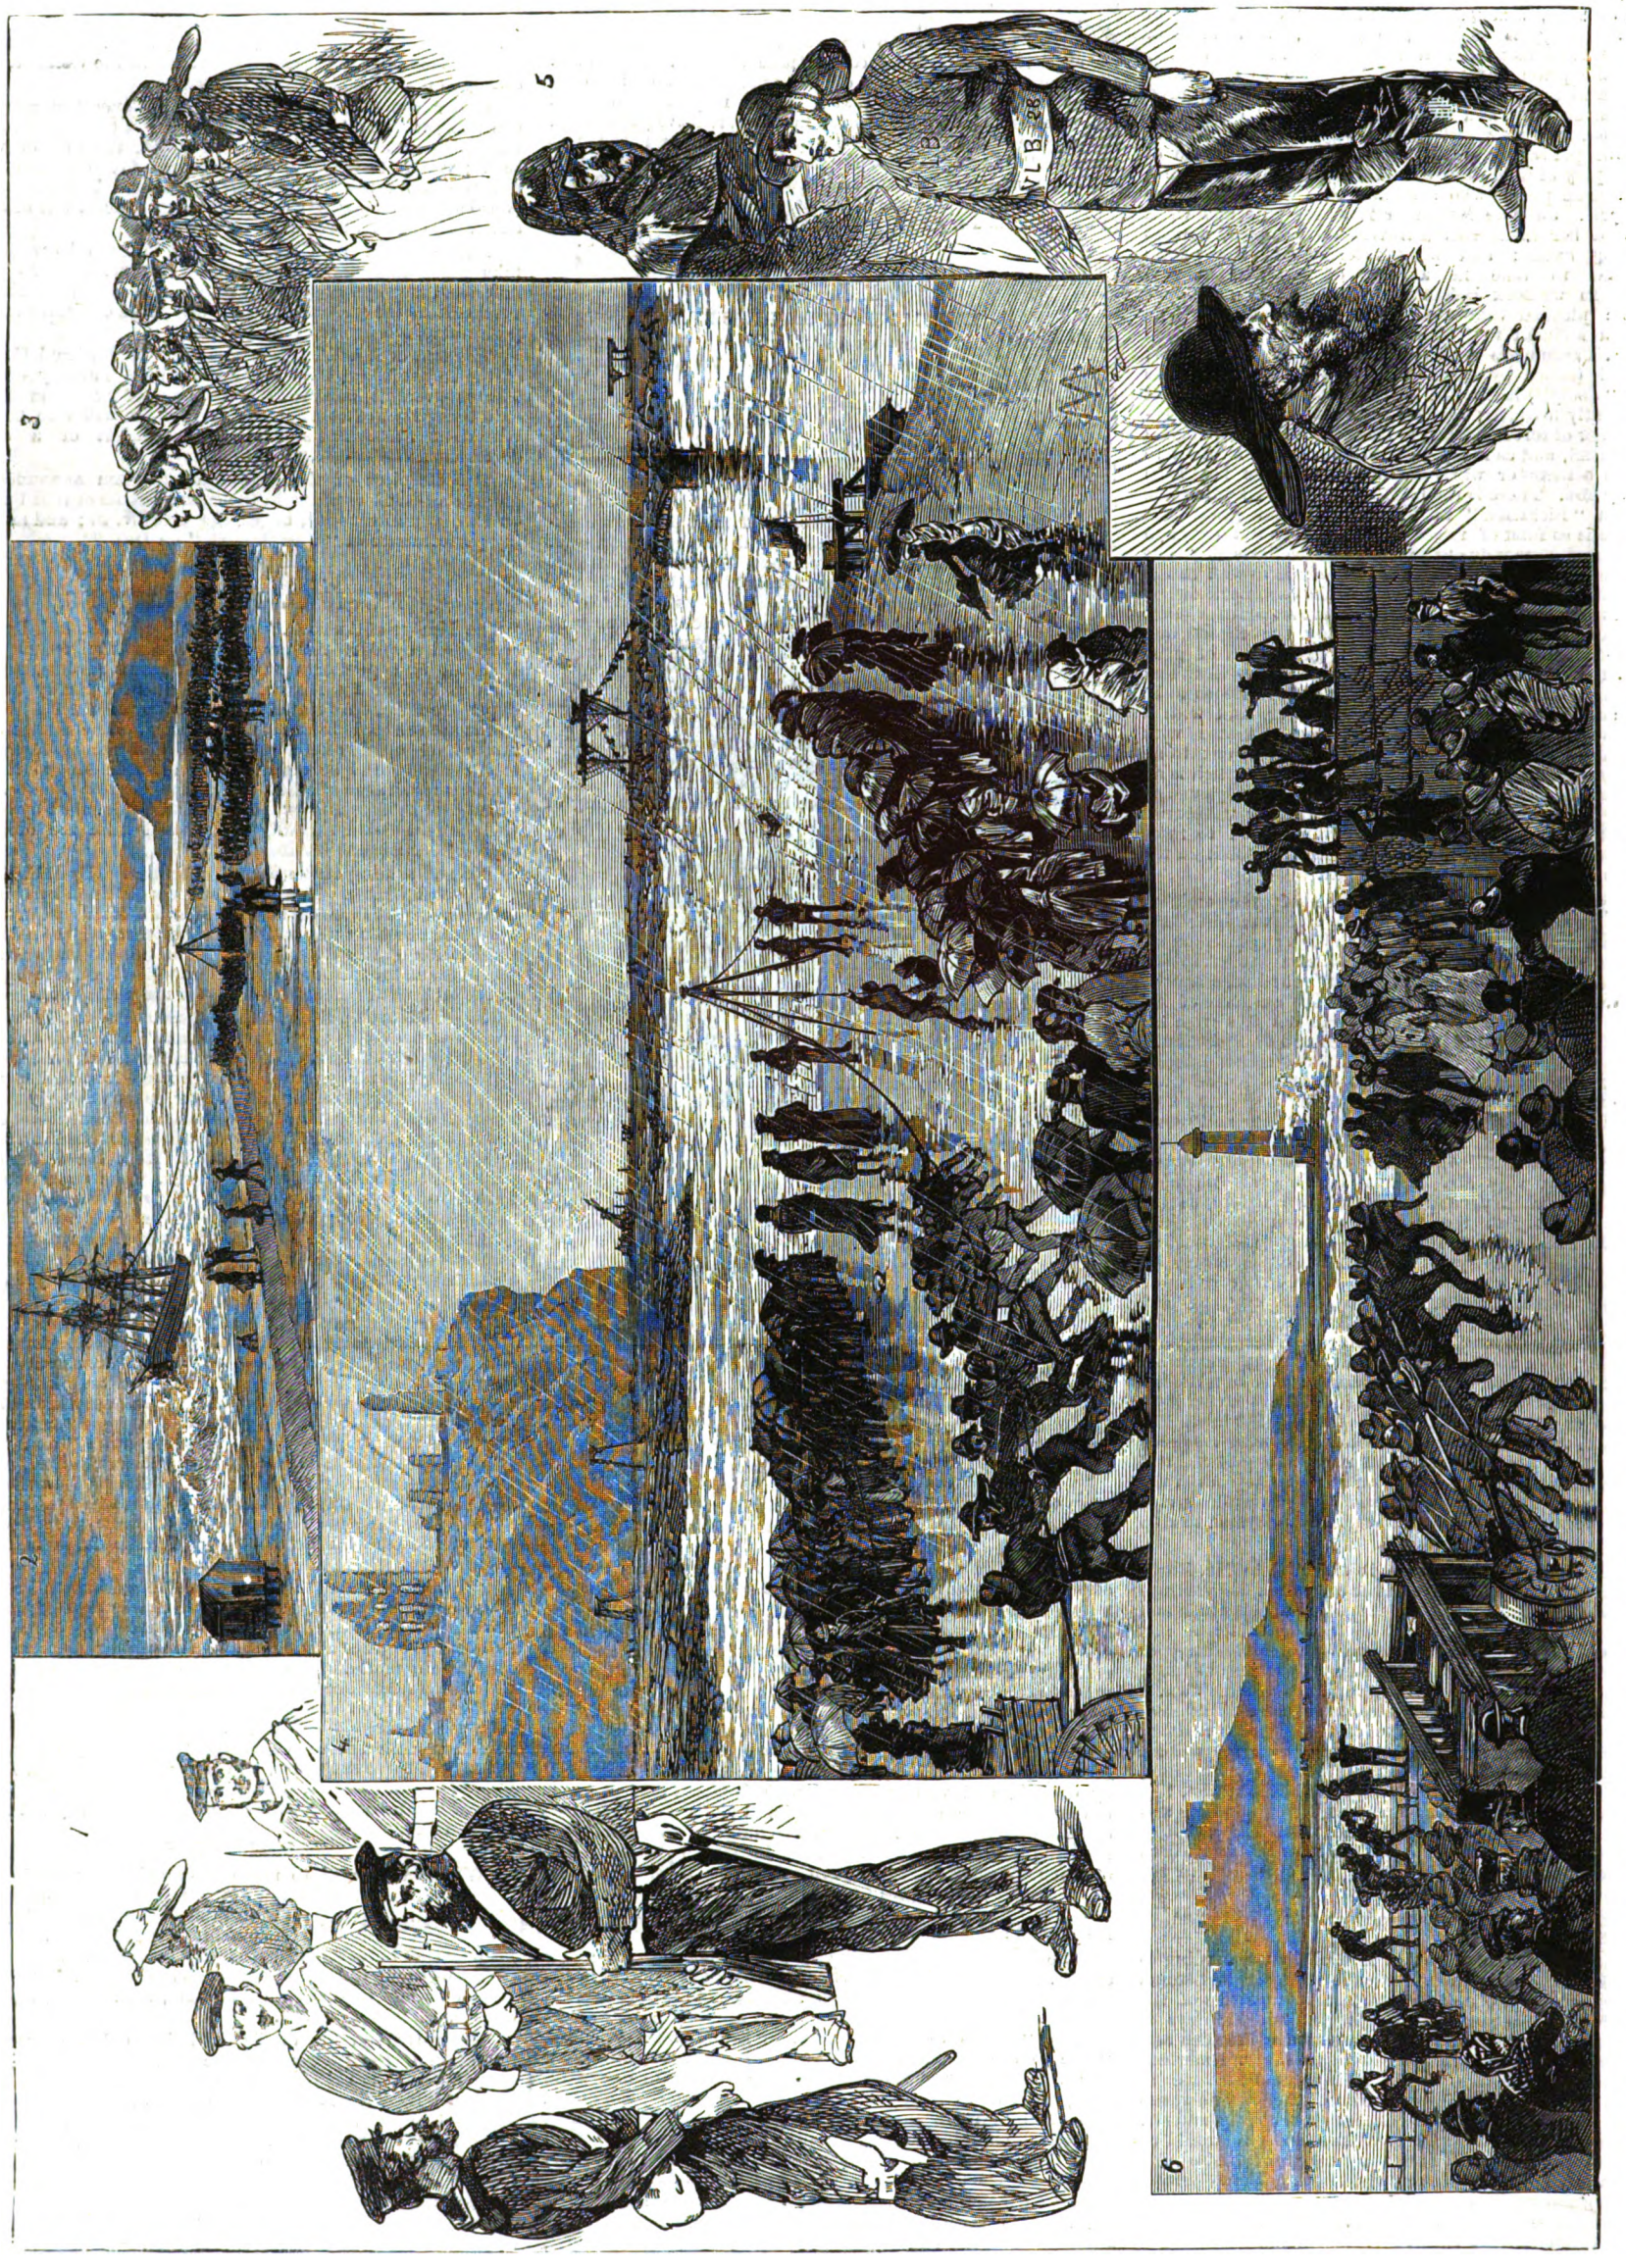
MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

"The Martyr of Antioch." This "Sacred Musical Drama," composed by Mr. Arthur Sullivan for the recent Leeds Festival, and produced there with great success, has just been published by Messrs. Chappell, in a handy and inexpensive form. As stated in our notice of the Festival, the words are selected from Milman's poem. The merits of the music have already been recognised and recorded, and will soon again have to be commented on in reference to the promised performance of the work at the Crystal Palace. The pianoforte accompaniment in the edition published by Messrs. Chappell has been skilfully compressed from the orchestral score by M. Eugène d'Albert.

"The Building of the Ship." Cantata. By J. F. Barnett (Patey and Willis). The great success obtained by this work on its first performance at last month's Leeds Festival was chronicled at the time, and we have now merely to record the publication of this effective setting of Longfellow's text in a portable and inexpensive form, with a well-arranged adaptation of the orchestral accompaniments for the pianoforte.

Messrs. Novello, Ewer, and Co. have added to their valuable and extensive series of "Music Primers" a treatise on composition, by Dr. Stainer. The work is intended for beginners, but it contains many useful hints for masters as well as pupils; and, considering its small dimensions, is surprisingly comprehensive in its contents. The didactic instructions are clearly conveyed, and these are associated with numerous illustrations, in music type, many being extracts from the works of the great masters, with analytical remarks. The same publishers have issued (also as one of their "Music Primers") a useful abridgment of the "Dictionary of Musical Terms," by Dr. Stainer and Mr. W. A. Barnett. Most of the special information contained in the large volume has been reproduced in this shilling pamphlet, the compression having been judiciously made by Mr. K. M. Ross.

Handel's "Samson," Cherubini's second Mass (Messrs. Novello, Ewer, and Co.). These two masterpieces form recent additions to the long list of sacred compositions issued, by the eminent firm of Berners-street, in cheap and handy large octavo form. The oratorio is given with the omission of those few pieces which are usually left out in performance; two, however—the songs, "With plaintive notes" and "Great Dagon hath subdued our foes" having been retained, as they were in the recent performance of "Samson" at the Leeds Festival, for which occasion this edition was specially prepared. The pianoforte accompaniment has been revised from that of the German Handel Society. The Mass is that in D minor.

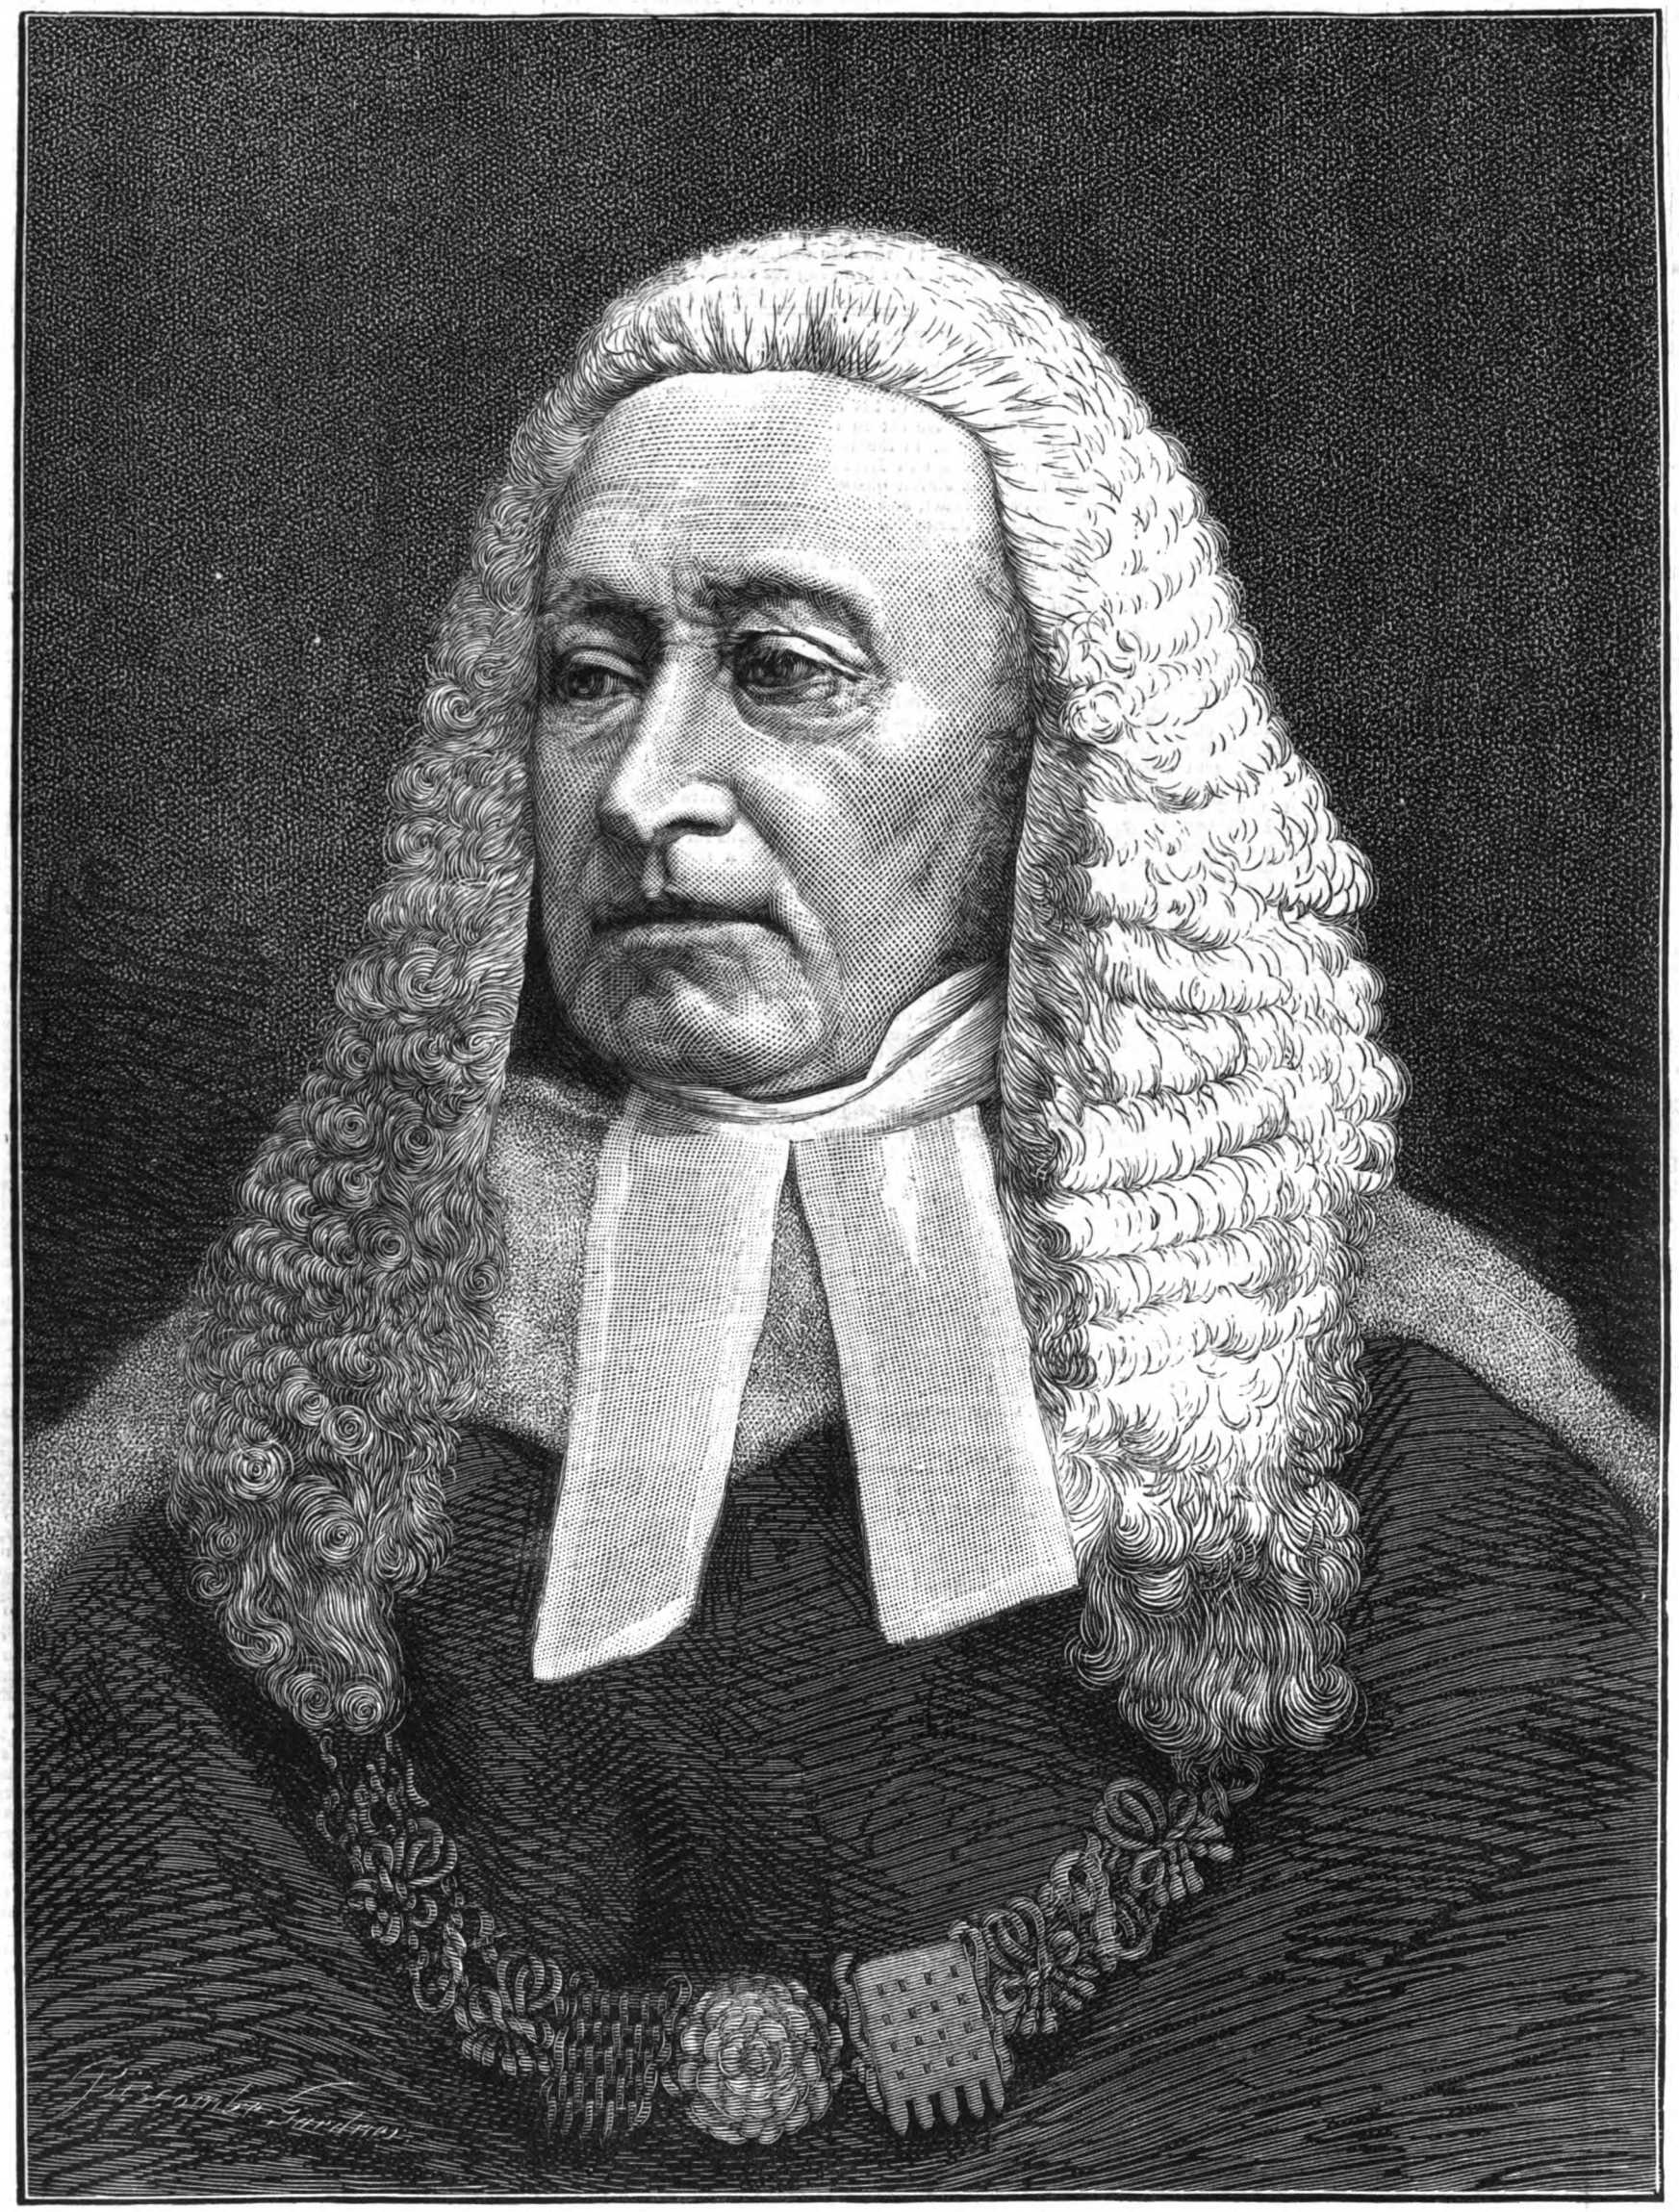


"Third Sonatina," by Stephen Heller (Forsyth Brothers). This is a recent production by the best of living composers for the pianoforte; and, although comparatively easy of execution, is full of the grace and charm which more or less distinguish all Heller's music. The intention of the series of pieces of which this forms one is to prepare young pupils for the study of the sonatas of the great masters—a purpose for which they are admirably calculated. The same publishers have issued an edition of the charming "andantino" belonging to the first of these sonatinas, and a pleasing valse (op. 188), by Dr. Ferdinand Hiller, in which there is much individual character in association with the marked dance rhythm implied by the title.

We are requested to make known that applications from English families for foreign governesses during the Christmas holidays will be gladly received at the Home in connection with the French Protestant Church at Bayswater, of which M. le Pasteur Du Pontet de la Harpe is the president. These holiday engagements have been a great boon in the past. Applications should be addressed to the directress, Mrs. Ryffel, 16, Powis-terrace, Westbourne Park.

Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts has accepted the invitation of the Stewards of the 216th Anniversary Festival of the Scottish Corporation to attend the banquet on St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30, when the Earl of Fife will preside.—Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts has signified his acceptance of the offer of the Madras command, and will leave England early next year to relieve Sir Neville Chamberlain, who will be appointed Commander-in Chief, should his health permit him to accept the post.

Sir Bartle Frere gave a lecture last Monday to the members of the Royal Geographical Society on "Temperate South Africa, Considered as a Trade Route to the Central Equatorial Region." He described the configuration of the country, and expressed his opinion that South Africa was admirably fitted to become the home of white men. There was no difficulty in penetrating to the Zambesi from the Transvaal, and if a traveller only proclaimed himself a countryman of Livingstone the Chiefs would cordially welcome him and forward his objects.



Digitized by Google

1. Coast Guardsmen. 2. South Shields Rocket Apparatus thrown to a Wreck. 3 and 5. Men of Volunteer Brigade 4. Tynemouth Rocket fired from Spanish Battery to Pier opposite. 6. Bringing out the Rocket Apparatus at the Pier, Sunderland.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH INSPECTING NAVAL VOLUNTEERS AT TYNEMOUTH, SHIELDS, AND SUNDERLAND.—SEE PAGE 522.

Digitized by Google

THE LATE RIGHT HON. SIR ALEXANDER J. E. COCKBURN, BART., LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND.

REPRINTED FROM THE "ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS" OF MARCH 27, 1875.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

THE COURT.

A Council was held by the Queen at Balmoral last Saturday, there being present the Right Hon. Lord Young, the Right Hon J. G. Dodson, Lieut.-General the Right Hon. Sir Henry Ponsonby, and Mr. Charles L. Peel, Clerk of the Council. Parliament was further prorogued to Dec. 2. The members of the Council dined with her Majesty the previous evening.

Divine service was performed at the Castle on Sunday by the Rev. A. Campbell, the Queen and Princess Beatrice attending. Mr. Campbell dined with her Majesty.

The last day or two of the Queen's residence at Balmoral were occupied by her Majesty and the Princess in paying farewell visits to those residents in the district who have the honour of the Queen's friendship and interest. Princess Beatrice visited Mrs. Campbell at the Manse on Monday, her Majesty having previously called upon her.

After a three-months' stay on Deeside, the Court left on Tuesday for the south. Notwithstanding that snow was heavily falling, her Majesty and the Princess drove in an open carriage from Balmoral to Ballater. A guard of honour of the 71st Highland Infantry was in attendance at the station. The special train left a few minutes past two and reached Perth shortly after six, when the Royal travellers dined, and afterwards proceeded on their journey to Windsor, where they arrived on Wednesday morning.

Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. Edward George Percy Littleton and Captain Henry Hallam Parr have been appointed Companions of St. Michael and St. George; and the "Albert Medal of the First Class" has been conferred on Seedie Tindal Farabani, serving in her Majesty's ship Wild Swan.

Sunday was the fortieth anniversary of the birthday of the Crown Princess of Germany. The usual honours at Windsor were observed on Monday.

The Curator of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Manchester has received a letter from the Queen expressing her willingness to patronise the international horticultural exhibition which it is proposed to hold next year, and intimates that she will contribute £25 towards the fund.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales returned to Sandringham yesterday week from his visit to Mr. E. Birkbeck, M.P., and the Hon. Mrs. Birkbeck, at Horstead, near Norwich. The Duke of Edinburgh, who was engaged on a visit of inspection of the Coastguard and Naval Reserves on the east coast, arrived the same day; and also the Russian Ambassador, the Swedish Minister, Earl and Countess Granville, and the Right Hon. W. E. and Mrs. Gladstone. On Sunday the Prince and Princess, with their daughters, and the Duke of Edinburgh and their guests, attended Divine service at Sandringham church, where the Rev. F. Hervey and the Hon. and Rev. E. Carr Glyn, Vicar of Kensington, officiated. The Royal party separated on Monday, and the Prince and Princess left Sandringham on a visit to Lord and Lady Hastings at Melton Constable. Their Royal Highnesses travelled from Wolferton to Great Ryburgh by a special Great-Eastern Railway train. At Great Ryburgh they were met by Lord Hastings, and drove with him to his residence. The intended visit of the Prince and Princess to Lord and Lady Aveland, at Normanton Park, Rutlandshire, this week was put off in consequence of the death on Saturday of Mrs. Heathcote, widow of the late Mr. H. W. Heathcote, of North Luffenham Hall, Stamford, uncle of Lord Aveland. Their Royal Highness's visit to the Marquis and Marchioness of Exeter at Burghley House, which was expected to be made at the close of this week, has also been deferred.

The Prince has made frequent inquiries as to the state of Mr. Mark Firth. Prince Leopold has also telegraphed his sympathy.

At the dinner to be given to Sir Frederick Roberts at the United Service Club, the Prince will be present, and the Duke of Cambridge will preside.

The Detached Squadron, under the command of Rear-Admiral the Earl of Clanwilliam, left St. Vincent, Cape de Verde, last Saturday, for Montevideo. Princes Albert Victor and George, on board the Bacchante, Captain Lord Charles Scott, are well.

The Duke of Edinburgh, as Admiral Superintendent of Naval Reserves, inspected the coastguard stations at Mundesley, Bacton, Hasbro', and Great Yarmouth on Monday, and left Yarmouth in the evening on a visit to Mr. Tyssen-Amherst, M.P.

Princess Christian has accepted the presidency of the ladies' committee which has been formed by the Society of Arts for the purpose of holding a congress on domestic economy in London during the coming season. Her Royal Highness has consented to open a bazaar, which is to be held in the spring, on behalf of Mrs. Hilton's Crêche and Orphan Home in Stepney-causeway.

Prince William of Prussia concluded his visit to Prince and Princess Christian at Cumberland Lodge, Windsor, yesterday week. He, with Prince Christian, dined at the German Embassy, Carlton House-terrace, and left in the evening for Germany.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH AT NORTH PORTS.

His Royal Highness, who holds the appointment of Admiral Superintendent of her Majesty's Naval Reserves, visited the ports of Tynemouth, Shields, and Sunderland, on Tuesday, the 16th inst., for his official inspection of the Naval Reserve and Naval Volunteers, the Coast Guard, and the Life Brigade. He arrived by the night train at Newcastle early in the morning, and was met by the Mayor and Corporation, and by the officers of the Trinity House, with addresses of welcome. He immediately went down the river in a steam-launch, the Conservator, belonging to the Tyne Commissioners. It was very bad weather, raining hard, and with a nasty fog. In Shields Harbour, at half-past ten, the Royal Duke went on board H.M.S. Wellesley, training-ship for boys, which displayed only the Union Jack at the bowsprit and the Union Jack at the stern. The Duke, Sir Hedworth Williamson, the Mayor of Newcastle, and other gentlemen who accompanied him, were received by Mr. C. G. Nicholls, acting superintendent on board the ship, Captain Pocock being ill. With him were Mr. James Hall, of Newcastle, the Chairman of the Wellesley Committee, and a number of local gentlemen. Then followed a passing examination of the ship and a brief inspection of the lads, who in drill, swimming, and fire-extinguishing exercises acquitted themselves admirably. His Royal Highness expressed himself well pleased with what had come under his observation. He afterwards visited the training-ship Castor, and inspected the Royal Naval Reserve Volunteers, with whom he was equally pleased. The Duke on leaving Shields went over to Tynemouth, and inspected the Coastguard, after which he had presented to him an address by the Mayor and Corporation of Tynemouth. He afterwards presented the Royal Humane Society's medal to J. W. Moore for saving the life of Robert Pearson while bathing. His Royal Highness subsequently inspected Tynemouth and Cullercoats Volunteer Life Brigade, and witnessed the working of the apparatus. At the conclusion he addressed the volunteers, and expressed himself in complimentary terms on their efforts and the noble work in which they were engaged in saving the lives of shipwrecked seamen. He proceeded to South Shields, where, after being presented with an address by the Mayor and Corporation, he inspected the Coastguard and members of the Volunteer Life Brigade, who showed the working of the apparatus; and, in addressing them, he expressed himself much pleased with their efforts. The Duke afterwards visited Sunderland for the purpose of inspecting the Coastguard and Life Brigades. On arriving at the docks there, his Royal Highness was met by Alderman Gourley, M.P., Sir Henry Havelock-Allan, Bart., M.P., and Mr. James Laing. After inspecting the sailors of Sunderland and Hartlepool, the Prince visited the Durham training-ship, and afterwards inspected the life brigade, subsequently returning to Whitburn, where he was the guest of Sir Hedworth Williamson. Next day his Royal Highness was to visit Seaham and the Hartlepools, and then go on to Whitby, for similar inspections. Our Illustrations represent the proceedings at Tynemouth, Shields, and Sunderland, in the exhibition of the rocket and line apparatus. At Tynemouth, a rope was cast by these means from the Spanish Battery to the opposite pier; at South Shields, one was thrown over the wreck of a vessel that got aground in the late destructive gales. The scene at Sunderland is that of bringing the rocket apparatus to the pier.

DEATH OF THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE.

The sudden death, last Saturday night, of the Lord Chief Justice of England, Sir A. J. E. Cockburn, Bart., though in the seventy-eighth year of his age, has caused both surprise and sincere regret. He sat in court at Westminster Hall, with four other Judges, in the morning of that day, and walked home to his house in Hertford-street, where he dined, but went to bed at eleven o'clock in the evening, was seized with spasms of the heart, and died before midnight.

Alexander James Edmund Cockburn, born Dec. 24, 1802, was fourth son of Mr. Alexander Cockburn, British Envoy in Columbia; his mother was a French lady of rank. He was nephew to the late Very Rev. Sir William Cockburn, Bart., Dean of York. He was educated at Trinity Hall, Cambridge, where he gained prizes for Latin and English composition, and a Fellowship of his college. Having studied law in the Middle Temple, he was called to the Bar in February, 1829. He went the Western Circuit, but it was some years before he gained there any considerable professional reputation, though he was personally a social favourite in Devonshire, and constantly attended the Exeter Sessions as well as the Assizes. In the meantime, he was appointed by the Whig Government, in 1833, to serve on the Municipal Corporations Inquiry Commission, and practised before Parliamentary Committees, especially in the trial of election petitions. The first case where his characteristic genius for advocacy in the defence of an accused person, with a strong moral presumption in favour of innocence, which gave all the eloquence of genuine earnestness to the counsel's speech, occurred at Exeter just forty years ago. It was that of an excise officer named James Heartzoake. He in a drunken frolic, toying with a pistol to frighten a woman who had locked him out of his lodgings at night, unluckily caused her death, and was indicted for wilful murder. Cockburn's speech for this man, with the comments of local journalism upon it, excited high admiration, and won him a good position on the Western Circuit. In 1843, at the Central Criminal Court, he achieved a success of wider renown by his defence of M'Naughten, the insane assassin, who had shot Mr. Drummond, private secretary of Sir Robert Peel, mistaking Drummond for the Prime Minister himself. Cockburn's sensibility to humane compassion was peculiarly vivid and keen, and he engaged with a passionate zeal in the task of conducting any case where it appeared to him that there was risk of a person being sent to the gallows who might possibly not be guilty of murder. This sentiment had prompted him, at a still earlier period, to join in the efforts that were made, in an instance where he was not professionally employed, to obtain a free pardon for Edmund Galley, convicted on insufficient evidence of a murder with highway robbery, and having had his capital sentence commuted to transportation for life. It is but a year or two since that Sir Alexander Cockburn, with Mr. Thomas Latimer, of Exeter, and others, having renewed their appeal on behalf of Galley, who is proved not to have been concerned in the crime, were enabled to procure the remission of this sentence, passed above forty years ago. Nothing was more characteristic of the late Lord Chief Justice than his voluntary devotion—often without fee or reward—to the investigation and advocacy of such cases as these.

As a robust and determined Liberal politician, though he seldom or never appeared on the platform of public meetings, the rising barrister soon won a seat in Parliament for the borough of Southampton. He gained additional popularity in the West of England by his defence of Mr. Latimer, the proprietor of the Western Times, when tried for a libel on the late Bishop Phillpotts, connected with the Totnes chapel business, and the imprisonment of the Rev. James Shore. He held the Recordership of Southampton, and afterwards that of Bristol. In 1850 a famous party fight in the House of Commons, upon the vote to negative the censure of the Lords regarding Palmerston's violent and high-handed dealings with Greece in the Pacifico compensation claims, afforded him an opportunity of doing the Whigs a signal service. Cockburn made the most effective speech in that debate, except Lord Palmerston's own speech, and got the Solicitor-Generalship for his reward a very few days after. He was knighted, of course, and became Attorney-General in the following year. He again held that office from 1853 to 1856, conducting the law business of the Crown, and many notable cases, both in the civil and the criminal courts, with unsurpassed ability. No counsel was more dexterous in cross-examination, without ever being harsh or peremptory, and none was more persuasive in his speech and manner; with a genial presence, a charming voice and expressive countenance, and somehow reminding one of the tone and effect of Charles Dickens as a public speaker, his advocacy gave real pleasure to the audience of a trial. Among the cases which he then conducted were the defence of the Rev. Dr. J. H. Newman, now Cardinal, for a libel on the Rev. Dr. Achilli; the prosecution of William Palmer, a surgeon, for poisoning several persons at Rugeley; and two famous will cases, the Hopwood and the Swynfen case, which turned upon the alleged insanity of the testators.

In November, 1856, Sir Alexander Cockburn was appointed Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, and in June, 1859, Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench. There were, no doubt, among his contemporaries on the Bench, more learned and profound lawyers, even in the science of common law; but scarcely at any time an abler, shrewder, more attentive, more upright and industrious Judge. In the most important and difficult cases, his elaborate written judgments were compositions of the highest literary excellence, as well as masterly reviews and critical discussions of the arguments and facts at issue. They ought to be carefully edited in a form convenient for general reading, and not confined to the ordinary law reports. Our space will not admit of recapitulating the circumstances even of the most remarkable trials at which the late Lord Chief Justice presided. There was the Lord Cardigan libel case; that of Mrs. Olivia Ryves, claiming to be a Princess of the Royal Family; that of the prosecution of Governor Eyre after the Jamaica massacres; that of "Saurin v. Starr," concerning the Roman Catholic Sisters of Mercy; the trial of the Tichborne claimant for perjury, in 1873; that of Henry Wainwright, for murder, in 1875; and others, which greatly affected the public mind at the time. Beyond his judicial duties, Sir Alexander Cockburn rendered valuable service to the country, in 1872, as its leading representative in the arbitration of the Alabama claims at Geneva. He afterwards set forth, in a powerful separate exposition, his arguments for a view of that question different from that of the majority of arbitrators. Pamphlets or letters treating of several grave matters of law reform, naturalisation of foreigners, constitution of the judicature, and the jurisdiction of the Ecclesiastical Court, have been published by him within the last ten years. He was writing at the time of his death a series of essays in the Nineteenth Century upon the history of English laws of the chase, or game laws. In general accomplishments, as a scholar, a linguist, a connoisseur of art and of music, and a most agreeable social companion, Sir Alexander Cockburn greatly excelled. But those who personally knew the man esteemed him, above all, for his generous, kindly, even chivalrous disposition, and his ardent enthusiasm to vindicate any cause of public or private right. He never married, and declined the offer of a Peerage, but succeeded to the Baronetcy at the death of his uncle, in 1858.

We republish this week the Portrait which appeared in our Journal on March 27, 1875.

LORD BEACONSFIELD'S NEW NOVEL.

The greatest of political novelists, if not, by any means, of modern statesmen, has used his enforced release from Ministerial cares to write a last clever story of English public and fashionable life in aristocratic circles of society. "Endymion" is nothing more or less than a return to the line which Mr. Disraeli took in "Coningsby," or rather, which he pursued between "Vivian Grey" and "Sybil," during his first attempts to win Parliamentary distinction. But this story is comparatively free from that importation of paradoxical and mystical theories of the history and philosophy of politics, which characterised two of those novels, as well as "Tancred," and the trick of which remained perceptible in some passages of "Lothair." That the noble author has, in his old age and vast practical experience, outlived the propensity to indulge in a romantic and visionary ideal of public affairs, we cannot safely affirm, having recently beheld the grandiose Oriental style of his policy in the foreign and Indian transactions of this kingdom. Imperial splendours of a magnificence almost unearthly, at any rate far beyond the needs and means of England as she actually is, will continue to haunt the mind of Lord Beaconsfield to his dying day. Whether he still retains his formerly professed fond faith in the destiny of the Jewish and Arabian nations to work out the social redemption of Europe by an infusion of Asiatic moral sentiment, we cannot pretend to say. The Semitic race is thus spoken of by a Baron Sergius. There is little to these effects in the story of "Endymion," which has come out in three volumes, published by Messrs. Longmans, in the present week. Ten thousand copies of the first edition have already been sold, four thousand of which were at once taken by Messrs. Mudie and W. H. Smith, and by the Grosvenor Library, to be lent to a multitude of eager readers in London.

"Endymion," though it has a sound of heathen Greek, is the Christian name of a young gentleman whose surname was Ferrars, and who has no connection with the shepherd of Latmos, beloved of the Moon-Goddess on Mount Ida. This young fellow was the son of a Mr. Ferrars who, fifty years ago, was disappointed of an official place by the death of Canning, and secondly by the advent of the Reform Bill Whigs to power. Endymion and his sister Myra are the hero and heroine of a tale of social adventure and successful ambition, the spirit of which pervades all that the author has ever written, from "Vivian Grey" onwards, and may, in his view of human life, be regarded as the great motive to public effort.

Several of the real personages who filled an eminent position between 1830 and 1846, the time of Mr. Disraeli's restless and aspiring determination to achieve political renown, are very thinly disguised in the superficial portrait-sketches here met with. Lord Melbourne, very grossly caricatured, figures by the name of "Lord Montfort;" the late Lord Strangford, then Mr. George Smythe, appears as "Mr. Waldershare;" Lord Palmerston is "Lord Roehampton;" Mr. Sidney Herbert, afterwards Lord Herbert of Lea, is "Mr. Sidney Wilton;" Prince Louis Napoleon, destined to become the late Emperor, shows off as "Prince Florestan," in a tournament like that of Eglintoun Castle; and some of the ladies, if it were proper to mention them, could be identified with as little trouble. We are not quite satisfied that it is right in this way to play with the characters of men and women not very long departed, and for whom many still living entertain feelings of personal affection and esteem. It is just that every public man, as well after his death as before, should have his real actions, opinions, and sentiments freely discussed by his countrymen. It is not fair that an imaginative writer of fiction mingled with fact—in what proportion no reader of Lord Beaconsfield, perhaps not every listener to his speeches, can easily distinguish—should invent sayings and doings for his contemporaries or predecessors. Atque ita mentitur, sic veris falsa remiscet, is a well-approved Horatian precept for the composer of an epic poem dealing with subjects of antique heroism, like those of Homer and Virgil; but we do not care to see this method applied to those of recent English history. It makes a story of modern life, no doubt, more interesting to readers whose chief pleasure in reading is to gratify personal curiosity. But it is far from being consistent with the principles of moral and social discretion, or with the true aims and proper means of literary art.

Enough about "Endymion" for to-day. It would be spoiling, perhaps, the enjoyment of some readers, before they can get hold of the book itself, to give them even the merest outline of this story. We do not say whether its plot has any dramatic or narrative interest, apart from the exciting allusions to great personages and great events, and the descriptions of splendid scenes and figures, which everybody has heard of, and which some remember to have seen. We do say that the book is very clever, amusing, entertaining, capital fun, "as good as a play" in the modern light-comedy vein, and therefore sure to be acceptable to a hundred thousand people of the upper and middle classes. Let them receive it and enjoy it in peace, without any needless criticism of the structure, the tone, or the tendency of this diverting tale, which is a decided literary success, inasmuch as it provides a good deal of diversion. But we earnestly beg the younger readers of this day, and would beg those of the next generation, if the author were likely then to be read, not to believe, for instance, that Mr. Cobden resembled "Job Thornberry;" or that the best and worthiest men, as well of the Conservative as of the Liberal party, about the years 1840 to 1846, were intimately known and fairly appreciated by the Mr. Disraeli of that time. It was far otherwise, indeed; and the virulent attacks he then made upon the characters of those men, especially upon that of Sir Robert Peel, should disentitle Lord Beaconsfield now to draw their portraits in the colours of fantastic imagination. That is all that need be said, upon this occasion, to qualify the general admiration of his great literary ability; of which "Endymion" is the last, and not the least brilliant, example.

Digitized by Google

Among the reprinted books of popular interest, which are likely to find an enlarged circle of readers, Mr. Henry Vizetelly's Story of the Diamond Necklace deserves a word of approval. That celebrated piece of Court scandal, nearly a hundred years ago, had really such a mischievous influence upon the position of Queen Marie Antoinette on the eve of the Great Revolution, as Carlyle has shown, that it claims the serious attention of students of French history. It is, besides, as narrated here by Mr. Vizetelly, a tale which has the fascination of intrigue and adventure in such a degree as to invite fresh perusal for the sake of mere entertainment. This edition, in a small cheap volume, will therefore command ready acceptance at the present day.

Chief of the divers right pleasant heralds that announce the coming of Christmas are the annuals. Miss Braddon's Mistletoe Bough, with its eighteen sprigs—stories and verses on various themes, by sundry authors, with engravings, filling more than a hundred pages—will be eagerly seized, and not readily let go. Routledge's annual appears this year under the title of The Green Room, a most appropriate title, having in view its contents. It is edited by Clement Scott, and has already been noticed in our columns. The Round Table annual, published at the Judy office, gives the stories of Four Flirts, and how they played their cards. It is edited by Ernest Warren, and the illustrations are by Nat Ludlow. Then we have the Christmas Number of London Society, well illustrated, with a good batch of tales. Warne's Illustrated International Annual contains original contributions by English and foreign authors, and is edited by Joseph Hatton. Mrs. Oliphant writes the tale, "No. 3, Grove-road," in "Good Cheer," the Christmas Number of Good Words; and the tale "High-Water Mark," for the Christmas Number of Tinsley's Magazine, is by Richard Dowling. As we were going to press yet another annual, Messrs. Grant and Co.'s Christmas Number, came to hand. It is entitled Under Slieve-Ban, a Yarn in Seven Knots; and a glance here and there into the tale shows that it is powerfully told. It has coloured illustrations; and is edited by Mr. R. E. Francillon, who has written a tale for our Christmas Number. Among the publications that welcome Christmas with jocund humour are Hood's Comic Annual, Judy's Annual, the Fun Almanack, and Funny Folks' Annual, all well stored with quips and cranks, and provocative of wreathed smiles.

Yearly volumes of illustrated popular magazines have already made their appearance. There is none more pleasant and wholesome than the Leisure Hour. The Girl's Own Annual and the Boy's Own Annual, both issuing from the Leisure Hour office in Paternoster-row, contain large stores of entertainment for the young of both sexes. A good store of writings, by authors of approved position, for the instruction as well as harmless gratification of sober minds, is found in Good Words (Isbister and Co.), still edited by the Rev. Donald M'Leod, brother of its genial and gifted first editor. The Sunday Magazine, produced in Ludgate-hill by the same publishers, is rather more distinctly religious, if not in its tone, at least in its choice of topics. Of the same character, and of considerable merit, is the Sunday at Home, issued by the Religious Tract Society. With similar aims and purposes, for the younger class of readers, Messrs. Wells Darton and Co. publish a weekly magazine entitled Sunday: the volume of which contains above two hundred engravings. Children may be kept quiet, by such means, on that day of the seven, when they are forbidden, in some families, to work or to play. There is also the Fireside Annual, edited by the Rev. Charles Bullock, in connection with Hand and Heart, which deserves equal commendation.

Mr. Herbert Fry has issued the eighteenth annual edition of his "Guide to the Charities of London," published by David Bogue, 3, St. Martin's-place, Trafalgar-square. The book contains a mass of most useful information connected with the numberless charitable institutions of this great metropolis.

A SHARK AT MAURITIUS.

Our Illustration represents the capture and cutting up of a shark, 14 ft. long, which had been harpooned during its attack on the dead bullock floated for bait. The scene was alongside of the light-ship Beacon, at Port Louis, Mauritius. That vessel is shown, with the monster secured by the tail and neck in a pendent position, so giving a good view of its proportions. The first thing that strikes an observer is the ugly mask-like head, so short in the snout that it seems all jaw. When the shark opens its mouth, only one row of teeth appears set up; four others are behind, in the gums, but the shark has an immense number of teeth. The harpoon has struck through the liver, for the striker had a convenient choice of place afforded him by the closeness of the fish when it was engaged in dragging and sawing the flesh of the bullock. This female shark was about to have a progeny of twenty-eight, which resembled spotted dog-fish. The amateur shark-shooting and harpooning club at Mauritius have had good sport. The one which our Artist, Major H. G. Robley, of the 91st Highlanders, has sketched, was the fourth they accounted for, not including the young ones, up to Sept. 30, in this harbour; these were of sizes from 9 ft. to 15 ft. in length. The teeth of the shark are very fine ivory, and the French or native fishermen judged the age of this one between thirty and forty years. A favourite bait for these monsters is the carcase of a dog. Several sharks were shot immediately under stern of the light-ship in the act of turning over to gorge. All the sharks killed or wounded with a rifle, on their sinking, were eaten by the others. This fact was revealed by the débris of meat and liver coming to the surface on those occasions. The flesh of a big one sells in the native bazaar for about £2, the liver giving an oil that is used medicinally, also for harness. The young are a tit-bit for the Asiatics in this island. The smell of the skin, however, is very strong, and objectionable to a European nose.

The Hon. Sir Ashley Eden has appointed Babu Ambika Churn Sen, M.A., and Synd Sakhawat Hossein, B.A., to the two Scholarships of £200 a year each recently created by the Bengal Government, to be held at the Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester.

HOME NEWS.

The Lord Chancellor has issued an order permitting the closing of the offices of County Courts on Dec. 24, 27, and 28.

The Earl of Mexborough has returned 20 per cent of his rentals to his agricultural tenants.

Sir A. T. Galt, High Commissioner of Canada, who has been on a visit to the colony, has returned to London.

Sir James M'Garel-Hogg, M.P., has been re-elected chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Works, at a salary of £2000.

Last Saturday the carcase of a whale eighty feet long was cast ashore on the north coast of Scotland.

The improvement in Mr. Mark Firth's condition continues, but it is stated that his progress to convalescence will be slow.

Mr. J. Colmer has been appointed Secretary of the Emigration Branch of the Office of the High Commissioner for Canada in London.

For the year 1881 the meeting of the British Medical Association will be held at Ryde. Mr. Benjamin Barrow, of Ryde, has been appointed President-elect.

Lady Burdett-Coutts has granted £2850 to the Cape Clear fishermen to enable them to embark in the mackerel fishing during the coming season.

The Missions to Seamen Society has received £100 from Mr. Thomas Brassey, M.P., towards its chaplaincy for fishermen at Hastings.

The designs for the Afghan medal have been submitted to her Majesty for approval. The colour of the ribbon will be green and red.

On Tuesday afternoon the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and Countess Cowper left Dublin, to pay a short visit to the Marquis of Drogheda at Moore Abbey, Monasterevan.

On Monday morning the twenty-eighth shelter erected by the committee of the Cabmen's Shelter Fund was opened at Portland-road Station cab-stand. It is the gift of the residents of Richmond, for which place it was originally built.

On Tuesday afternoon the foundation-stone of a new townhall for Bermondsey was laid in Spa-road by Mr. Churchwarden Porter, assisted by the Rev. J. Lawrence, Rector of St. Mary Magdalen.

The Shrewsbury Shirehall and Guildhall, which was erected in 1837, at a cost of £13,000, was yesterday week destroyed by fire. Several persons were injured in removing the valuable pictures from the grand jury room.

Mr. T. Brassey, M.P., who sat last week as umpire in the Staffordshire potters' wages dispute, has made his award. The men prayed for a return to the old rate of wages, which were reduced a year ago 8½ per cent. Mr. Brassey regrets that justice compels him to decide against the workmen, as trade does not appear sufficiently prosperous to justify an increase of wages.

Mr. E. Clark, Q.C., M.P., on Saturday last, at the theatre of the University of London, distributed the prizes and certificates to the candidates at the London and Streatham Centres of the Oxford Local Examinations. He incidentally mentioned that in 1858 he was a candidate at the first of the Oxford Local Examinations, and that he was the first Associate of Arts which that University had made.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the second week in November was 88,987, of whom 50,124 were in workhouses, and 38,863 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in the years 1879, 1878, and 1877, these figures show an increase of 2854, 9692, and 9102 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 897, of whom 670 were men, 192 women, and 35 children.

The programme for 1881 of the City and Guilds of London Institute for the advancement of technical education has been issued by the Council, the chairman of which is the Lord Chancellor, the chairman of the executive committee being Mr. J. F. Bramwell, with Sir S. H. Waterlow, M.P., as treasurer. The programme, which follows shortly upon the issue of the report, indicates a rapid increase in the activity of the institute compared with the first programme, that of January in this year. The present work contains many improvements and a great deal of additional matter.—The Cutlers' Company have arranged for a course of lectures upon subjects intimately connected with the materials used in the manufacture of cutlery, to be delivered at the hall of the company during the ensuing winter season.

A CRICKET-MATCH AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Wherever English gentlemen reside or sojourn, in every region of the globe, they may be found playing cricket; in Australia or India, in the Arctic Circle, or in the spice islands of tropical seas, they contrive, at some hour and season, to enjoy the display of skill in batting and bowling, which few men of other nations have attempted to imitate with any degree of success. Among those connected with the British Embassy at Constantinople, and others of our countrymen dwelling in that city, members of the Pera Club, with some military and naval officers who may be there on duty, this pastime has occasionally been resorted to, as is shown in our Illustration. The cricket-ground is on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, nearly opposite the residence of her Majesty's Ambassador at Therapia, which is some miles north of the city. A match was played, on the 9th ult., by eleven selected equally from members of the Embassy and from among the officers of H.M.S. Antelope, the despatch-boat in attendance on the Embassy, against eleven of all-comers from the rest of the world. The former won easily; but we have not been furnished with the scores. It is Major the Hon. J. Colborne who has sent us a Sketch of this pleasant scene, which is laid in an open glade of a park, surrounded with ash and lime trees, behind which the hills of Anatolia rise in the distance; and there is a shady avenue to the left hand. His Excellency the Ambassador, and Envoy Extraordinary, the Right Hon. G. J. Goschen, has come out with his daughter at five o'clock in the afternoon, notwithstanding the endless bother of the Dulcigno negotiations, to refresh himself with a breath of the open air, and with this agreeable spectacle, to which a company of some two hundred ladies and gentlemen have also been attracted.

A STEEPLECHASE.

Aspirants to the fame of equestrian prowess in this country have sometimes, in the last resort, when the opportunities of fox-hunting do not yield them a sufficient amount of renown, been induced to appear among the gentlemen-riders in local sweepstakes or premium matches, over ditch and hedge, and all existing fences, perhaps with some additionally raised for the purpose, on a course marked out for the race. This sort of thing is called a "steeplechase," because it is said to have been first essayed by undertaking to ride straight across country, leaping every intervening barrier, to a distant landmark afforded by the conspicuous church-spire of the village two or three miles away. There are some parts of England, and even not far from London, where it could be done, and is done, in fact, upon stated occasions, with tolerable facility and safety. One hedge or ditch, in many agricultural or pastoral districts, is very much like another; the height or width has been prescribed by immemorial usage, and by common experience of the farmers for generations past; and if the horses running in the race have been accustomed to take the field in that neighbourhood, there is a fair chance of all doing pretty well.

We do not see that any particular comment is requisite to explain or enhance the interest of those lively Sketches, with which our artist, Mr. R. H. Moore, has illustrated the moving accidents of this kind of sport. The important preliminary operations of buckling the saddle-girths as tight as possible, and liquoring the horse's mouth, are, in the first place, here delineated, after which the amateur champion is seen taking off his overcoat, and receiving the homage of two lady friends. In mounting a restive horse, he is put to some trouble by the animal rearing, plunging, and bolting, as though to say, "I don't like it," in active protest against the dangerous career before him. We next see three competitors in the race at a formidable compound obstacle, consisting of a rail and a broad ditch, over which two of them have leaped, one pitching on the horse's head, and breaking the poor beast's neck. The third horse refuses, as they say, to "negotiate"—that is, in bill-discounters' phrase, "to accept," the ugly-looking "bit of timber" and the annexed "ducking-pond" which his master has been called on to approach. This rider may presently dismount, if he will, though he more probably will not, to offer his kindly help to the gentleman seated on the ground, who seems to be hurt, beside the dead body of his unlucky steed. It is questionable whether men have any moral right, or should be permitted by law, to engage in a pastime that brings much greater danger of cruel injury to the noble brutes they ride than is voluntarily incurred by the human performers.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING DEC. 4.

SUNDAY, NOV. 28.

First Sunday in Advent.
Alphonso XII., King of Spain, born, 1857.
Morning Lessons: Isaiah i.; 1 Peter i. 22—ii. 11. Evening Lessons: Isaiah ii. or iv. 2; John xi. 1—17.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Very Rev. Dr. Church, the Dean; 3.15 p.m., Rev Prebendary Gregory; 7 p.m., Rev. Prebendary Hole.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. F. F. Goe, Rector of St. George's, Bloomsbury; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Farrar.
St. James's, noon, probably Rev Prebendary Kempe.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. W. F. Erskine Knollys; 3 p.m., Rev. Francis Garden, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. John Langhorne, Head Master of the King's School, Rochester.
Temple Church, 11 a.m. uncertain; 3 p.m., Rev. Alfred Ainger, the Reader.

MONDAY, NOV. 29.

Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Institute of Actuaries, 7 p.m. (Mr. A. H. Bailey will deliver his Presidential Address in the Quadrangle, King's College).
Institute of British Architects, 8 p.m. (Mr. E. C. Robins on Sanitary Science in its Relation to Modern Architecture).
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Professor Marshall on the Skeleton of the Horse).
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m (Professor A. H. Church on the Scientific and Artistic Aspects of Pottery and Porcelain).
Birmingham Cattle and Poultry Show (three days).

TUESDAY, NOV. 30.

St. Andrew, apostle and martyr.
Royal Society, anniversary, 4 p.m., annual dinner.
Institution of Civil Engineers, 8 p.m. (Discussion on the New Zealand and Ceylon Government Railways).
Races: Croydon Steeplechase.
Scottish Corporation, annual festival (the Earl of Fife in the chair).
South-place Institute, 7 p.m. (Mr. W. C. Coupland on Ethical Principles); 8.30 p.m. (Dr. E. B. Aveling on Biology).
Yacht Racing Association, council meeting, Langham Hotel, 11.30.
Zoological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Albert Hall, Scotch Festival, 7.45 p.m.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 1.

The Princess of Wales born, 1844.
Agricultural Society, noon
Amateur Mechanical Society, conversazione, 8 p.m
British Archæological Association, 8 p.m. (Rev. Dr. Hooppell on the Roman station of Vinarium (Binchester); Dr. Wake Smart on Roman Remains at Nursling, Hants).
Obstetrical Society, 8 p.m.
Pharmaceutical Society, 8 p.m.
Entomological Society, 7 p.m.
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Professor Marshall on the Superficial Muscles of Man)—and on Friday.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Professor Graham Bell on the Photophone).
Geological Society, 8 p.m.

THURSDAY, DEC. 2.

New moon, 2.56 a.m.
Sun partially eclipsed; invisible at Greenwich.
Accession of Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria, 1849.
Pedro II., Emperor of Brazil born, 1825.
Archæological Institute, 4 p.m.
Society of Antiquaries, 8.30 p.m.
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Albert Hall Choral Society, 8 p.m. (Mendelssohn's "Elijah").
Linnean Society, 8 p.m. (Frederick Townsend on an Enythræa new to England; Dr. Maxwell Masters on the Conifers of Japan).
Chemical Society, 8 p.m. (papers by Mr. W. Ramsay, Miss Laura M. Passavant, and Mr. W. J. Hamilton).

FRIDAY, DEC. 3.

South Kensington Museum, 2.30 p.m. (Professor Ernst Pauer on the History of Pianoforte Playing).
City of London College, 6 p.m. (Dr. N. Heinemann on Political Economy—Normal Values).
Philological Society, 8 p.m. (Professor Graham Bell on Visible Speech).
St. Anne's, Soho, special advent service, 8 (Mozart's Requiem, &c.).
Sacred Harmonic Society, St. James's Hall, 7.30 p.m. (Beethoven's Mass in C; Mendelssohn's "Lauda sion" and "Christus").
Geologists' Association, 8 p.m. (Dr. H. Hicks on Recent Researches Amongst British Pre-Cambrian Rocks).
Architectural Association, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. C. G. Vinall on Furniture.)

SATURDAY, DEC. 4.

Mohammedan year 1298 begins.
Society of Schoolmasters, 2 p.m.

THE WEATHER.

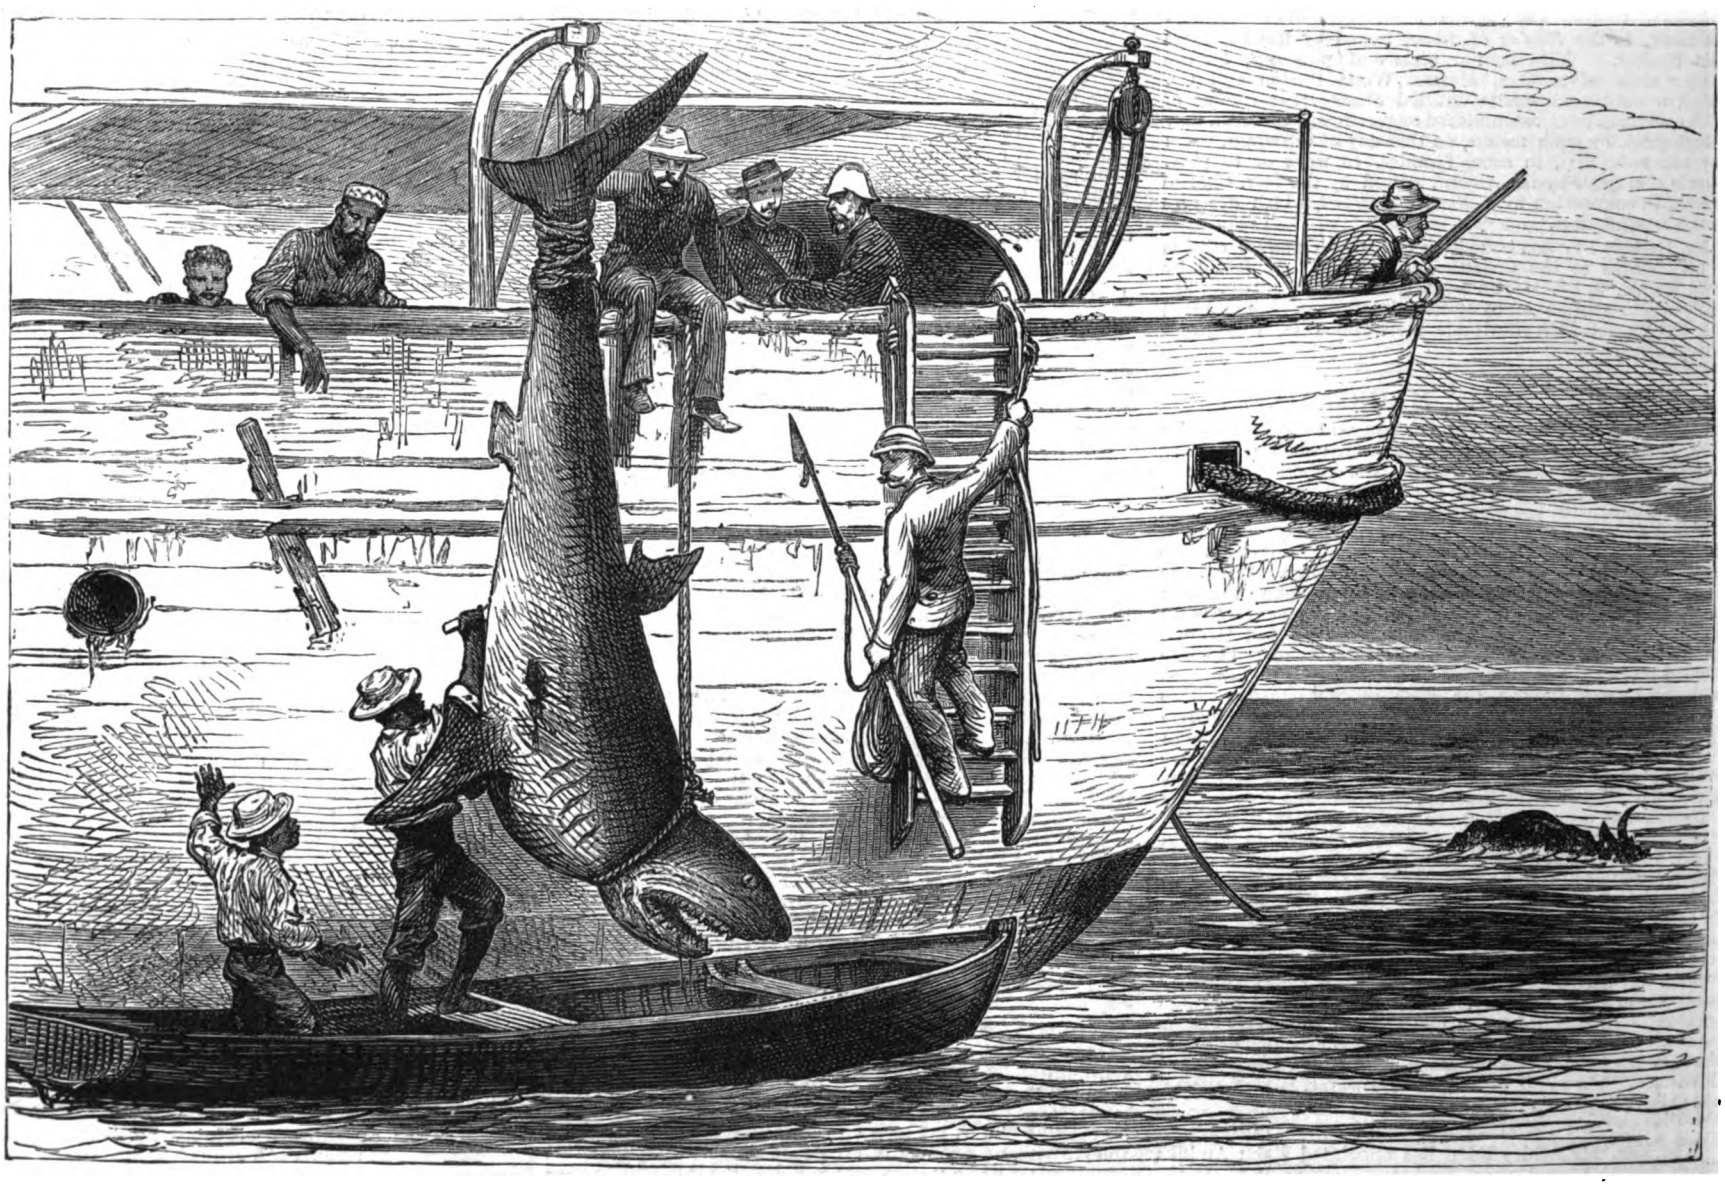
RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	WIND. General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Nov. 14	29·286	54·7	49·8	·83	9	56·8	53·0	SW.	626	0·185
15	29·596	39·2	37·3	·93	10	54·6	40·6	N. NNW. W.	220	0·440
16	28·786	46·3	39·0	·73	7	53·1	39·6	S. SW.	553	0·020
17	29·159	38·1	32·0	·80	3	44·4	33·0	WSW. WNW.	184	0·000
18	29·009	33·1	31·0	·94	10	38·3	26·7	WSW. NE.	328	0·560
19	29·523	37·9	31·6	·80	5	42·8	34·3	N. NNW. NNE.	340	0·000
20	30·237	34·0	27·7	·80	5	40·9	30·0	NNE. ENE.	183	0·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	29·384	29·721	28·806	29·114	29·187	29·329	30·118
Temperature of Air	45·9°	41·9°	50·3°	40·0°	32·1°	32·6°	35·8°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	44·4°	39·0°	46·4°	38·3°	31·6°	30·5°	32·2°
Direction of Wind	SW.	NNW.	SSW.	WNW.	WNW.	NW.	NNE.



TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 4.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
10 10	10 42	11 12	11 40	—	0 6	0 30	0 55	1 20	1 43	2 7	2 30	2 57	3 2

Digitized by Google

A CRICKET-MATCH AT CONSTANTINOPLE.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

CUTTING UP A SHARK AT PORT LOUIS, MAURITIUS.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

Digitized by Google

STEEPLECHASE SKETCHES.—SEE PAGE 523.

Digitized by Google

SUBSCRIPTION TO
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

Twelve months (including Christmas Number), £1 9s. 3d.
Six months, 14s. Christmas Half-Year, 15s. 3d.
Three months, 7s. Christmas Quarter, 8s. 3d.

Copies will be supplied direct from the Office to any part of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands, for any period, at the rate of 6½d. for each Number, paid in advance.

ABROAD.

The yearly subscription abroad is 36s. 4d. (on thin paper, 32s.), with the following exceptions:—

To Aden, Borneo, Ceylon, India, Java, Labuan, Mozambique, Penang, Philippine Islands, Sarawak, Singapore, and Zanzibar, 41s. (thin paper, 34s.)

To the Hawaiian Islands, Madagascar (except St. Mary), and Paraguay, 45s. (on thin paper, 36s. 4d.)

Subscribers are specially advised to order the thick paper edition, the appearance of the engravings in the thin paper copies being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication, irrespective of the departure of the mails.

Subscriptions must be paid in advance, direct to the Publishing Office, 198, Strand, in English money; by cheque crossed the Union Bank of London; or by Post-Office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to George C. Leighton, of 198, Strand, London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW NOVELS.

SARAH DE BERANGER. New Novel. By JEAN INGELOW. Three vols.

A SAILOR'S SWEETHEART. By W. CLARK RUSSELL, Author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," "John Holdsworth," &c. Three vols.

ERRANT: A Life Story of Latter-Day Chivalry. By PERCY GREG, Author of "Across the Zodiac," &c. Three vols.

LISA LENA. By EDWARD JENKINS, Author of "Ginx's Baby." Two vols.

A PLOT OF THE PRESENT DAY. By KATE HOPE. Three vols.

BLACK ABBEY. By M. CROMMELIN, Author of "Queenie," &c. Three vols.

FLOWER O' THE BROOM. By the Author of "Rare Pale Margaret." Three vols.

THE GRANDIDIERS. A Tale of Berlin. Translated from the German by Captain WM. SAVILE. Three vols.

FANCY FREE. By C. GIBBON. Three vols.

THE STILLWATER TRAGEDY. By J. B. ALDRICH.

PRINCE FORTUNE AND PRINCE FATAL. By Mrs. CARRINGTON, Author of "My Cousin Maurice," &c. Three vols.

THE NEW ADDITIONS TO LOW'S STANDARD SIX SHILLING NOVELS are—

MARY ANERLEY: A Yorkshire Story. By R. D. BLACKMORE, Author of "Lorna Doone." Small post 8vo, cloth extra, price 6s.

JOHN HOLDSWORTH (Chief Mate). By W. CLARK RUSSELL, Author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," &c. Cheap Edition. Small post 8vo, cloth extra, price 6s.

A STORY OF THE DRAGONNADES: or, Asylum Christi. New and Cheap Edition. Price 6s.

"A book of remarkable promise."—Spectator.

London: SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, SEARLE, and RIVINGTON.

NEW STORIES.
NOTICE.—The CORNHILL MAGAZINE for JANUARY, 1881, will contain the First Parts of Two New Stories.
One entitled—

A GRAPE FROM A THORN. By JAMES PAYN, Author of "Lost Sir Massingberd," "By Proxy," &c.
The other—

LOVE THE DEBT. By a New Author.
The Stories will be Illustrated by Mr. Du Maurier and Mr. W. Small.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

On Nov. 29 (One Shilling), No. 252,

THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for DECEMBER. With Illustrations by George du Maurier and W. Small.

CONTENTS.

Fina's Aunt. Some Passages from Miss Williamson's Diary. (With an Illustration.) Chapters I.—VII.
Rambles among Books. No. I.—Country Books.
Mrs. Van Steen.
Lyme Regis: a Splinter of Petrified History.
Buddhists and Buddhism in Burma. By Shway Yoe.
My Faithful Johnny. (With an Illustration.) Chapters V.—VIII.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready, price 7d.,

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for DECEMBER, forming the FIRST PART of a NEW VOLUME,
CONTAINING:—

THE PROBATION OF DOROTHY TRAVERS. New Serial Story, commenced in this Part.
THE TROUBLE IT BROUGHT. New Serial Story, commenced in this Part.
PLEASANT WORK IN THE HOME.
HOW TO ENTERTAIN AT CHRISTMAS.
WHAT TO WEAR. By our Paris Correspondent.
CHRISTMAS DINNERS.
THE CHIFFONNIERS OF PARIS AT HOME.
POISONS AND THEIR ANTIDOTES.
A HOLIDAY IN SAVERNAKE FOREST.
HER CHILD. Short Story.
NEW MUSIC: The Parting Hour.
OUR LEARNED SOCIETIES.
THE SAILOR-BOY'S RETURN.
GARDENING IN DECEMBER.
ONLY A COMMON FLY. By Dr. Andrew Wilson.
FAITHLESS MARGARET. A Christmas Story.
THE GATHERER: A Chemical Lung—Refuge Caves for Miners—A Steep Railway—Making Paper Waterproof—New Sea-Sounders—The Telephone in Mines—Cooking Burners—Prize Double Acrostics—Double Acrostic Competition, Special Notices, &c.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

Part I. now ready, price 7d.,

CASSELL'S OLD AND NEW EDINBURGH. A Narrative of its History, its People, and its Places. With ORIGINAL ILLUSTRATIONS, specially executed for the Work.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

Now ready, Part I., price 6d., of
A NEW AND THOROUGHLY REVISED EDITION OF

CASSELL'S POPULAR EDUCATOR, embodying
A COMPREHENSIVE SYSTEM OF SELF-EDUCATION
within the means and capacity of all.

With PART I. is issued a Large PRESENTATION PLATE, entitled THE CRADLE OF THE PEOPLE'S LITERATURE.
The Right Hon. ROBERT LOWE (now Lord Sherbrooke), in his speech on Education at the Halifax Mechanics' Institute, said: "NOW, THE FIRST BOOK WHICH I WILL RECOMMEND IS 'CASSELL'S EDUCATOR.' A man who has read and thoroughly knows the contents of this, is a man who will understand the greatest part of what is going on around him, which is a great deal more than can be said of the best Greek or Latin scholar, or even the accomplished lawyer."
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

CAPITAL CHRISTMAS OR NEW-YEAR'S PRESENT.

LETTS'S POPULAR ATLAS. Completion of First Series. An entirely original and complete work of Thirty-six Maps (17 by 14), printed in Colours from steel plates, with Consulting Index of 23,000 Names. "The best ever published at any price. Half morocco or calf, 17s. 6d.; cloth, bevelled boards, 12s. 6d.; stiff boards, 10s. 6d. Indestructible Edition, on cloth, 31s. 6d. and 25s. respectively.
For details of every map, notices of the press, and prospectus of next year's issue, apply to any bookseller.

Price 2s. 6d., cloth gilt; post-free, 2s. 9d.,

PARTY-GIVING ON EVERY SCALE; or, The Cost of Entertainment, with the Fashionable Modes of Arrangement. By the Author of "Manners and Tone of Good Society," "Society Small Talk," "The Management of Servants."—F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!!—250 lovely-coloured embossed Scraps, Fruits, Flowers, Birds, Figures, &c., 1s. 1½d.; larger size, 2s. 3d., honestly worth double.—Address: ROBOR SPALDING and Co., Importers of Fine Arts, Ipswich.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

Second Edition, at all Libraries and Booksellers', of
THE

LIFE OF SIR ANTHONY PANIZZI, K.C.B., late Principal Librarian of the British Museum, Senator of Italy, &c. By LOUIS FAGAN. Two vols., demy 8vo, handsomely bound, with Frontispiece and numerous Illustrations, 25s.

"Mr. Fagan has made good use of the materials bequeathed to him, and has produced a work of great and probably lasting interest."—Athenæum.

"A singularly interesting work."—Daily News.

"Interesting throughout and from every point of view."—Examiner.

"While the portion of Mr. Fagan's volumes devoted to the British Museum will possess the more enduring interest for posterity, their fund of political correspondence and anecdote will be more eagerly scanned by the readers of the day."—St. James's Gazette.

"The life of such a man cannot fail to be full of interest."—Scotsman.

"A valuable contribution to contemporary history, and its value is much enhanced by the many etchings with which it is adorned."—Literary World.

"A Panizzi biography, should Mr. Fagan accomplish his task, would have an importance hardly inferior to any of the works added during this last half-century to the heavily-burdened shelves of our great book repository."—The Times.
REMINGTON and Co., 133, New Bond-street, W.

A NEW STORY, by JUSTIN McCARTHY, M.P., entitled "THE COMET OF A SEASON," will be begun in the January Number.
Price One Shilling,

THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for DECEMBER.

CONTENTS.

Queen Cophetua (End). By R. E. Francillon.
Charles Kingsley as a Fisherman. By Rev. M. G. Watkins, M.A.
The Captive of Castile. By Alex. C. Ewald, F.S.A.
Charles Kean. By Dutton Cook.
After Eight Months. By the Member for the Chiltern Hundreds.
Shakespeare as a Prose Writer. By J. Churton Collins.
Science Notes. By W. Mattieu Williams.
Table Talk. By Sylvanus Urban.
Now ready, Vol. CCXLVI., cloth extra, price 8s. 6d.

A NEW STORY by D. CHRISTIE MURRAY, entitled JOSEPH'S COAT, will be begun in the January Number.
Price One Shilling, Illustrated,

BELGRAVIA for DECEMBER.

CONTENTS.

A Confidential Agent (end). By James Payn. Illustrated by Arthur Hopkins.
Our Old Country Towns.—XII. With Four Illustrations. By A. Rimmer.
Colnages of the Brain. By Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E.
Justice in the Punjaub. By Alfred Harcourt.
Cruel Barbara Allen. By D. Christie Murray.
In China Town. By Iza Duffus Hardy.
The Leaden Casket (end). By Mrs. Alfred W. Hunt.
A Madrigal. By Austin Dobson.
A ROMANCE OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY, by the Author of "The New Republic," will be begun in the January Number.
Now ready. 1s. XLII., cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.
CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

Just ready, 96 pp., price 1s.,
THE GRAND DOUBLE

CHRISTMAS NUMBER of SYLVIA'S HOME JOURNAL, containing, in addition to the usual Stories, Fashions, and Needlework, Four Extra Supplements, consisting of Large and Beautifully Illuminated Cards, designed for both use and ornament in the household. The Number also contains a Large Coloured Plate of the Latest Fashions, a Cut-Out Paper Pattern of Lady's Walking Dress, several complete Stories, and a variety of useful and interesting articles, including a Practical Paper on Christmas Decorations. Price complete, including all Supplements, 1s.; post-free, 1s. 2d.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Just ready, in Picture Wrapper, price 1s.,
BEETON'S CHRISTMAS ANNUAL.—21st SEASON,
Entitled

THE FORTUNATE ISLAND.

Containing contributions by Max Adeler (Author of "Out of the Hurly Burly," &c.), Henry Frith, G. R. Emerson, J. G. Montefiore, &c. Humorously Illustrated by ATHELSTAN RUSDEN.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

In Weekly Numbers, 1d.; Monthly Parts, 6d.,
WARD and LOCK'S

UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR; or, Self-Culture for All. Profusely Illustrated. Parts I. and II. now ready. With PART I. is PRESENTED GRATIS a Valuable Chart of the History of the World, printed in Colours.
The "Athenæum" says:—"The work is excellent, and it is to be hoped it may meet with the popularity it deserves."
Prospectus post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

In Monthly Parts, price 6d. each,
WARD and LOCK'S

WORTHIES OF THE WORLD. A Series of Original Biographical Sketches of the Notable Men of all Countries and all Times. With Portraits. Parts I. and II. now ready. Prospectus post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

In Monthly Parts, price 6d.,

WARD and LOCK'S FARM BOOK.—A complete Guide to Farm Management in all its branches. With Coloured and other Illustrations. Parts I. and II. now ready. Prospectus post-free.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

A COMPANION WORK TO "MRS. BEETON'S BOOK OF HOUSEHOLD MANAGEMENT."
In Monthly Parts, price 6d. each,

WARD and LOCK'S HOME BOOK. A Domestic Cyclopædia. With Coloured and other Illustrations. Parts I. and II. now ready. Prospectuses post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

In Monthly Parts, price 6d. each,
Part I. now ready. Complete in 13 Parts.
WARD and LOCK'S

EVERY MAN HIS OWN MECHANIC. A Complete Guide to all Operations in Building, Making, and Mending that can be done by Amateurs in the House, Garden, Farm, &c. With Hundreds of Engravings.
The most complete and useful Book hitherto produced for Amateurs in Carpentry and the Constructive Arts.
Prospectus post-free on application.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Just published, Illustrated, post-free, 1s. 8d.,

DECORATIVE PAINTING. A Practical Guide to Decorating the Walls of any Apartment, Painting Panels, Screens, and Terra Cotta. By W. B. HARRISON.—WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

Price ONE SHILLING, Picture Cover,

WARNE'S ILLUSTRATED ANNUAL. Twenty-four distinct Tales, &c., written by twenty-four popular Authors, fully Illustrated.
Edited by JOSEPH HATTON.
F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

1d. Weekly; Monthly Part, 5d.,

GARDENING ILLUSTRATED. — Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening. Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All Newsagents. Copy by post, 1½d. Vol. I., 7s. 6d.
37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

GOOD-BYE. COTSFORD DICK'S New Song. The Poetry by G. J. Whyte-Melville. "There is a charm about this song which will gain for it a wide acceptance; there is no bar to its achieving considerable popularity."—Queen. Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

THE KING'S CHAMPION. New Song, for Baritone or Bass. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON. Sung by Mr. Thurley Beale. Editions in D and E flat.
Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

DE LA RUE AND CO'S.
ANNOUNCEMENTS.
BUNHILL-ROW, LONDON, E.C.

Now ready, in Two Handsome Volumes, Demy 8vo, price 32s., with a Portrait by Paul Rajon, and other Illustrations.

THE LIFE OF SIR ROWLAND HILL, K.C.B., and the HISTORY OF PENNY POSTAGE. By Sir ROWLAND HILL and his Nephew GEORGE BIRKBECK HILL, D.C.L., Author of "Dr. Johnson: his Friends and his Critics," &c.

Now ready, in Royal 4to., cloth, extra gilt, price 6s.,
NEW ILLUSTRATED CHILDREN'S BOOK.

THE STORY OF PRINCE HILDEBRAND AND THE PRINCESS IDA. By Major T. S. SECCOMBE. With upwards of 110 Illustrations by the Author.

Now ready, crown 8vo, cloth, price 7s. 6d.,

VOYAGES OF THE ELIZABETHAN SEAMEN. A Selection from the Original Narratives in Hakluyt's Collection. Edited, with Historical Introduction, by E. J. PAYNE, M.A., Fellow of University College, Oxford.

Shortly. Demy 8vo, cloth, with Maps and numerous Original Etchings on Stone,

THE SHORES AND CITIES OF THE BODEN SEA. Rambles in 1879 and 1880. By SAMUEL JAMES CAPPER, Author of "Wanderings in War Time," &c.

Shortly, new Work by Dr. Guy, F.R.S, crown 8vo,

THE FACTORS OF THE UNSOUND MIND. With Special Reference to the Plea of Insanity in Criminal Cases, and the Amendment of the Law. By WILLIAM A. GUY, M.B., F.R.C.P., F.R.S.

Shortly, crown 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

HISTORY OF GERMANY—POLITICAL, SOCIAL, AND LITERARY. Brought down to the Present Day. By the Rev. Dr. E. COBHAM BREWER, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Author of "History of France," "Guide to Science," &c.

Shortly, a new and improved Edition, cap 8vo, cloth, price 3s. 6d.,

LAWS OF SHORT WHIST, and a Treatise on the Game. By JAMES CLAY.
THOS. DE LA RUE and Co., London.

CHRISTMAS DOUBLE NUMBER OF MYRA'S JOURNAL. Ready Nov. 26. Price 1s., post-free 1s. 3d.

USUAL AND UNUSUAL CONTENTS—

MYRA'S JOURNAL is the Cheapest Fashion Journal in the World.

CHRISTMAS DOUBLE NUMBER of MYRA'S JOURNAL contains a splendid Coloured Picture, entitled

"HIS FIRST RIDE."

The Picture is alone worth 1s. A Beautifully Coloured Fashion Plate; a Full-sized Cut-out Paper Pattern of the New Princess Beatrice Polonaise—this class of Pattern usually costs 1s.; a Large Diagram Sheet, containing full-size Models for cutting out the Lamballe Pelisse and the Rob de Rome Parure; an Extra Sheet of Parisian Fashions. MYRA'S JOURNAL gives—

All the New Bonnets. | All the New Mantles.
All the New Dresses. | All the New Needlework.

Besides the usual information, is given a
SUPPLEMENT: "His First Ride." Epochs of Life, Housekeeper's Guide to Good Things. Calendar, Almanac, and Lectionary for 1881. A Guide to the Theatres and other Sights of London. Table of Income and Wages, of Money, Weight, &c.

THE CALENDAR FOR 1881,

With Notes on the Year, its Eclipses, Seasons, Fixed and Moveable Feasts and Festivals, Principal Articles of the Calendar, Memoranda for the Year; a Calendar of Lessons for Sundays and Holy Days throughout the Year; THE QUEEN, the Chief Officers of State, Postal and Telegraph Regulations, Useful Information upon Legal Formalities necessary on the Great Epochs of Life—Births, Marriages, and Deaths; Thrift, its necessity and its outcome; How to Invest; The House—How to take and keep it.
The whole inclosed in a Coloured Wrapper. Price One Shilling. Post-free, 1s. 3d.

GOUBAUD and SON, 39 and 40, Bedford-street, Covent-garden.

Now ready, 25th Edition, 8vo, cloth, pp. 1102, price 16s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Completely rearranged, revised, re-written, annotated, and brought down to the present time, with a copious Introduction, by R. S. Gutteridge, M.D. The present edition contains many important new chapters and sections, with new features and matter pertaining thereto, including the specific characteristic effects of all the new American remedies, the symptoms and treatment of all general diseases, including those of women and children. Diseases of Tropical Climates are fully considered, and the volume may be pronounced of the greatest value to families, emigrants, and missionaries.

Of this work a Physician of high standing writes:—
"I have gone pretty well through your Edition of Laurie's Domestic Homœopathic Medicine, and I can truly say that it is the most perfect work of its kind ever published; in fact, it is, to my mind, too good for the general public, as it enlightens them too much in the art and mystery of medicine and surgery. For young medical beginners such a work is invaluable, as it would save them a great amount of reading. It is really superior to any Domestic yet published. I have the First and Second Editions of Laurie, and your Edition only shows what the work has developed into."

Just out, Thirtieth Edition, post 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

EPITOME OF THE ABOVE WORK.
By R. S. GUTTERIDGE, M.D.
This edition contains notices of most of the new medicines, and is brought down to the present time.
LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard; and 9, Vere-street, W.

Third Edition, 1s., post-free,

THE new ELECTROLYTIC TREATMENT of CANCER and of simple Tumours. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.—NELSON and Co., 23, Duke-street, Grosvenor-square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free, Two Stamps.

DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s.
London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

NOSE and THROAT DISEASES, and their Local Treatment by Medicated Sprays. By GEORGE MOORE, M.D. 1s.; by post, on receipt of 12 stamps.
BRONCHITIS AND ASTHMA. 1s., or 12 stamps.
London: JAMES EPPS and Co., 170, Piccadilly.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 26s. and 20s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHY NOT MAKE YOUR OWN LANTERN SLIDES?
(TRANSFER PROCESS.)
A Box containing a sheet of Twelve 3¼-inch VIEWS, Glasses, Roller, Brushes, Varnishes, New Frame, Masks, and Book containing full Instructions, 14s. Particulars and Price-Lists post-free.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

CONSUMPTION AND WASTING DISEASES

IN "NOTES on CONSUMPTION and WASTING DISEASES SUCCESSFULLY TREATED with HYDRATED OIL, with Cases showing the immediate increase in weight by it," see Book published by Diprose Bateman, and Co., Lincoln's-inn-fields. The ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, will send a copy free on application.

G. OVEREND DREWRY, M.D., Physician to the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, Author of "Common-Sense Management of the Stomach," &c., referring to cases treated at the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases says that "'Hydroleine' (or Hydrated Oil) produces an effect such as neither cod-liver oil nor any preparation of it with which I am acquainted even faintly approaches, and patients are unanimous in their statement that the appetite is much increased by taking 'Hydrated Oil,' and that, so far from possessing the unpleasant taste of ordinary cod-liver oil, the taste of 'Hydrated Oil' is agreeable rather than the reverse, and is described by some as resembling Devonshire cream. These, I submit, are very important points in cases usually attended by great irritability of stomach. The general improvement in strength shown within a fortnight was in many instances surprising, even to myself, who had seen already in private practice many startling results from its use. My experience, however, shows that in cases where cod-liver oil or an emulsion of it has been depended upon, increase of weight is rarely obtained."—Page 16.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil),
Equal to Ten times the quantity of Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Entirely supersedes plain Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Produces rapid increase in flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is certain in result, and is pleasant to take.

TRY YOUR WEIGHT!!

TRY YOUR WEIGHT.—HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has proved of the highest value as a food in consumption and all wasting diseases, invariably producing increase in flesh and weight. This preparation of Hydrated Cod-Liver Oil is tonic, digestive, and ten times more strengthening and nourishing, as well as far more pleasant to taste, than plain cod-liver oil. Hydroleine may be described as partially digested oil, which will nourish and produce increase of weight in those cases where oils or fat, not so treated, are difficult or impossible to digest. All tendency to emaciation and loss of weight is arrested by the regular use of Hydroleine, which may be discontinued when the usual average weight has been permanently acquired. Of all Chemists, 4s. 6d.; or sent direct, carriage paid, to any address in England for 5s.—Sold wholesale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London.

READ the following Extracts from a few among the hundreds of letters received, showing that HYDROLEINE will nourish, and cause young or old to increase in weight where plain cod-liver oil will not; the original letters, with many others, may be seen at our Office.

DR. AUSTIN, of Sunnyside, East Grinstead, writing on May 13, 1880, says:—
"I recommended one patient to get it, and he gained 8 lb. weight in a week; left it off next week, and lost 4 lb. This speaks well."

MR. JAS. STEWART, Chemist, of Dalkeith, writing April 28, 1877, says:—
"I weighed only 116 lb. on March 26, took the Hydroleine very irregularly I must confess, and on April 19 weighed 120 lbs. I found it very pleasant to take, never experienced the least approach to eructation, and rather think it acted very much as a tonic."

WRITING of Hydrated Oil on May 14, 1877, Mr. KENNETH M'DONALD, of Dunkeld, says:—
"I had been taking cod-liver oil all winter myself, and thought I would first experiment on myself with the Hydroleine, and I must say, whether it is that or not, I am much better: in fact, all right again, and I certainly give it the credit, and will recommend it to all in preference to the ordinary oil—it is much easier taken."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been favourably received by all classes of people, as well as the press, as the following extracts will show:—

MRS. ELLEN COOKE, Weston-super-Mare, in a letter dated May 24, 1879, says:—
"I think the last bottle you sent me has saved the life of a little boy three years old."

MR. J. H. GREGORY, Master of Caxton Workhouse, Cambs., writing on March 12, 1879, says:—
"The effect of the bottle I received from you was marvellous, as I increased nearly 4 lb. in weight, and felt better in every way."

MRS. MARYATT, Bayswater, W., writing on Jan. 22, 1877, speaks of the Hydrated Oil in the following terms:—
"My little boy (aged five and a half years) is so extremely fond of it that he will take it just as it is, without the ginger or orange wine, and will smack his lips after it. As for myself, I can never sound its praises too loudly. I consider it a perfect life-giver."

MR. JOHN MILTON, writing from Liverpool on May 7, 1877, says:—
"Five weeks ago a small pamphlet was handed to me descriptive of your Hydroleine, and since that time my wife has been taking just one bottle a week, with certain benefit."

MR. A. BOYCE, Chemist, Hayward's-heath, writing on July 9, 1877, says:—
"I have given it to several consumptive cases, and am pleased to inform you with very good result. The effect of it on two persons (children) has been wonderful. I am trying to make it known everywhere I can."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is not a patent medicine.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Has the formula upon every bottle.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is used to increase flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
May be relied upon to increase weight.

THE CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES upon which HYDRATED OIL is prepared were first described in a treatise on the Assimilation and Digestion of Fats in the Human Body, by H. C. Bartlett, Ph.D., F.C.S., published by Messrs. J. and A. Churchill, New Burlington-street (Fat in the Human Body, page 41):—"Nothing appears to restore the healthy functions of the liver and pancreas in these cases except the frequent ingestion of oil or liquid fat, so treated artificially that it is already partially transformed by fermentation and the reaction of bile. Seized on with avidity by the absorbents, it is insensibly assimilated by the digestive organs, until they gradually become strengthened, not only to provide their own nourishment, but to transform a sufficient quantity of fat to supply the inevitable waste throughout the body."

ALL persons taking HYDROLEINE are particularly urged to keep an ACCOUNT from WEEK to WEEK of their WEIGHT, that the gain and improvement may be shown. The makers, having devoted special attention to perfecting a process by means of which uniformity in the production of HYDRATED OIL is secured, desire to direct the attention of the medical profession and the public to this preparation, to distinguish which the name of HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been registered under the Trade-Marks Acts. Ask your Chemist for it. If your Chemist has not the "Hydroleine" in stock, a bottle will be sent from the Factory (carriage paid) to any part of England, on receipt of Post-Office Order, 5s. Sold wholesale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London. Pamphlet sent free to any address.

Digitized by Google

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S
Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6d.— COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Brussels, Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

FASHIONABLE SILKS FOR THE AUTUMN.
Black Brocaded Velvets, from 6s. 11d. to 21s.
Stamped Velvets, for draping and trimming, at 4s. 6d. to 6s. 6d.
Black Silk Plush, plain and fancy, from 6s. 6d.
Lyons Velvets, all pure Silk, 9s. 9d.; usual price, 14s. 9d.
Black Silk Velvets, for trimmings, from 3s. 11d. to 6s. 6d.
Satin Brocades, richest qualities, 4s. 11d. to 7s. 11d.
Black Satins, from 1s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Satin de Lyon, exceptional value, at 3s. 11d.

A special bargain in Lyons Velvet.—A Full Dress of 16 yards for £8 8s.

The above are to be obtained only at
PETER ROBINSON'S REGENT-STREET SHOP,
Nos. 256 to 262, Regent-street.
For Patterns, please be careful in the address.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.
MOURNING.
MESSRS. JAY'S experienced DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS travel to any part of the Kingdom, free of expense to purchasers. They take with them Dresses and Millinery, besides Materials, all marked in plain figures, and at the same price as if purchased at the warehouse in Regent-street. Funerals at stated charges conducted in London or country.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW MANTLES, Lined with Plush and other Seasonable Donnitures.—These Mantles are noticeable for their special neatness and convenient arrangements. Messrs. JAY confidently trust their selections will ensure a continuance of the reputation which their Mantle Department has so long maintained in the fashionable world.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW SHORT COSTUMES and GRACEFUL DINNER DRESS.—Messrs. JAY respectfully invite their clientèle to the choice Collection of Pattern Costumes of the newest type of fashion, which are imported from Paris and Berlin.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK VELVETEENS.—Almost equal in appearance to good Black Velvet. As Black Velveteen is much worn, Messrs. JAY have had manufactured special qualities of Black Velveteens, fast colour. These Velveteens are confidently recommended to their customers.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season, perfectly fast colour, will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up in costumes In various qualities, 40 in. wide, from 5s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES,
FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.
CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS,
DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.
CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES,
CHESTS, BOXES, &c.
CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS
POST-FREE.
CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.
Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 42s.—The reason why the price is so low (being, indeed, less than cost) is that the market has been suddenly overstocked.—TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 45s., carriage paid to any railway station in England. There is now the opportunity of purchasing for 42s., or, carriage paid as above, for 45s., a splendid carpet, about 3¼ to 3½ yards long.
TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.
A Catalogue of the Best Floor Coverings post-free.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill,
INVITES INSPECTION of all that is new and beautiful in useful and ornamental CHINA and GLASS, including

	s.	d.
Dinner Services ("Cottage"), 50 pieces	13	6
Dinner Services for 12 persons (108 pieces)	35	0
China Dessert Services for 12 persons, Gilt, 17s., Ungilt	14	0
Gilt China Tea Services, 40 pieces, 12s. 28 pieces	8	6
China Breakfast Ser for 6 persons, 11s. for 4 persons	7	0
Toilet Services (for washstands), 6s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and	3	9
White Stone Jugs, "The Grecian," set of three	1	3

All really excellent patterns.

Quart Decanters, good cut glass, 5s. per pair plain	4	0
Claret Decanters (with handle), 4s. each and	3	0
Plain light Claret Glasses, well made, 8s. per doz. and	4	6
Wine Glasses, plain or cut, Ports and Sherries, per doz.	1	9
Engraved Wine Glasses do. do. do.	3	6
Hock Glasses, ruby bowl, 6s. per doz. green bowl	3	0
Tumblers, cut, 3s. 3d.; plain, 2s. 9d. moulded, per doz.	1	6
Plain light Finger-Glasses, taper shape per doz.	6	6

Other articles proportionately cheap.
Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, LUDGATE-HILL. Established 1760.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE at DEANE'S.
Catalogue, with priced Furnishing Estimates, post-free.
1. Table Knives, Ivory, per doz., 13s., 16s., 19s., 24s., 32s., 40s.
2. Electro Forks—Table, 24s. to 64s.; Spoons, 24s. to 98s.
3. Electro Tea and Coffee Sets, Cruets, and Liqueurs.
4. Dish-Covers in Sets—Tin, 22s.; Metal, 65s.; Electro, £11 11s.
5. Fenders—Bright, 4s. to £15; Bronze, 3s. to £8.
6. Baths—Hot and Cold Water, Gas, Travelling, &c.
7. Bedsteads—Brass and Iron, with Bedding.
8. Gaseliers—2-light, 16s.; 3-do., 50s.; 5-do., £4 4s.
9. Kitcheners, from 3 ft., £3; to 6 ft., £33
10. Kitchen Utensils—Copper, Tin, and Iron.
Deane and Co., 46, King William-st., London Bridge. A.D. 1700.

ETZENSBERGER'S PATENT CAFETIERE is economical, cleanly, and safe; makes an excellent cup of coffee, strong and fragrant; is made in two sizes for the breakfast table, pint and quarts, in block tin, nickel plated, electro-plate, and German silver. Coffee and Tea Filters, for bars, hotels, coffee and tea palaces, of any size.

THE WILFRID is an Ornament for the counter. Can supply coffee and tea, hot water and milk, all at the same time, and with little cost and trouble.
R. ETZENSBERGER and CO.,
No. 13, St. Andrew's-street, Holborn-circus,
E.C. London.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY
and
ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES,
(MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT,
COLOMBO, CEYLON.

JEWELLERY.—The GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE (Limited) respectfully solicit an inspection of their extensive STOCK, which contains a beautiful assortment of the following articles:—
Bracelets, from £6 to £200 | Pendants, from £2 to £500
Brooches, from £2 to £200 | Chains, from £3 to £50
Lockets, from £2 to £200 | Pins, from £1 to £50
Earrings, from £1 to £200 | Studs, from £1 to £50
To obviate the difficulty which is so often experienced in choosing suitable gifts, the Goldsmiths' Alliance (Limited) have prepared a new edition of their Illustrated Pamphlet, and will be happy to forward the same gratis and post-free on application.—11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank of England.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO.
By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE.
SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES,
Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of the last 18-carat watches, accurate time-keepers. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.
C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

OROIDE GOLD ALBERT CHAINS, 5s., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d. Links, Solitaires, or Studs, 2s. 6d. Brooches, 4s. 6d. to 8s. 6d. Earrings, 3s. 6d. to 7s. 6d. Lockets, 4s. 6d. to 12s. 6d. Free by post. Opinions of the Press and Price-Lists post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 3s. 4d.; Households, for Bread making, 3s. 8d.; Wheaten Meal for Brown Bread, 3s.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 2s.; American Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d., Barley Meal, per 48 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 1 lb. tin, 8d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O.O. and Cheques payable to George Young.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 203, Regent-street, W.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
The Most Wholesome of all Spirits.
DUBLIN WHISKY distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., JOHN POWER and SON, and GEORGE ROE and CO., can be obtained in Wood by Wholesale Merchants and Dealers, direct from their respective Distilleries.

WILLS' "THREE CASTLES" TOBACCO.
In 1 oz., 2 oz., and 4 oz. Packets, lined with tinfoil.
WILLS' "THREE CASTLES" TOBACCO.
"There's no sweeter Tobacco comes from Virginia, and no better brand than the 'THREE CASTLES.'"—Vide "The Virginians." Only in Packets and Cigarettes, protected by the Name and Trade-Mark.
WILLS, W. D. and H. O.

HOMŒOPATHIC Home Hospital (Select) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-rd., Surrey. Estd. 1857. A Home for the Cure of Internal and External Tumours and other Diseases of Women without cutting. Treatise of successful cures post-free. Physicians—David Jones, M.D.; Horace Lowther, L.R.C.P. Dr. Jones attends at his residence, 15, Welbeck-street, London, daily, 11 till 1 (except Tuesday and Friday). Dr. Lowther attends daily, 9 till 11, at Bolton House, where, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and evenings, the fee is 2s. 6d.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER
THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 6s., 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 91 and 95, City-road, E.C. London. Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

A MASS of CURLS is assured by regularly using two or three times a week COX'S CURLING FLUID, warranted harmless. Protected by Government stamp, signed John Robert Cox. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, with full directions, of all Chemists, or forwarded by L. N. MARSHALL, 35, St. Mary's-square, Kennington, London, S.E., on receipt of amount.

HER GRACE THE LATE DOWAGER DUCHESS OF SOMERSET'S EXTENSIVE and HISTORICAL WARDROBE having been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. LEWIS DAVIS, of 2, Crawford-street, Baker-street, W., will be SOLD by AUCTION, by Messrs. LEWIS DAVIS and SONS, at the Grand Galleries, 3, Princes-street, Leicester-square, W., on DEC. 7, 8, 9, and 10, 1880; on view four days prior. The Wardrobe and Jewels comprise the most extraordinary ever displayed to public notice, consisting of magnificent Silk Velvet Coronation Robes, Jewelled Coronets, and Head-Dresses, antique Court Suits, artistically embroidered; Steel and other Court Swords; costly Indian Shawls; Spanish, Point, and other fine Laces; old Brocaded Velvet and Silk Court Trains; beautifully Embroidered Satchels, mounted in gold and silver; magnificent Lace Handkerchiefs, Silk Hose, Bonnets, Feathers, Flowers, &c., too numerous to mention (900 lots), of the most recherché description. The nobility and gentry are respectfully invited to view the above by Catalogue, 1s.; by post, 13 stamps, of Mr. and Mrs. LEWIS DAVIS, 2, Crawford-street, Baker-street, W.

MACMICHAEL'S NEW PATENT FOOT-WARMER, to hold the patent fuel. No smell and smokeless. One cake will last five hours. Price 10s. 6d.
MACMICHAEL, Stationer to the Queen.
42, South Audley-street, W.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS
ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Ladies' Attendant,
J. F. PRATT,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

SUFFERERS FROM CONSUMPTION and Wasting Diseases will find SAVORY and MOORE'S Pancreatic Emulsion a Medicinal Food that arrests the waste and loss of power, while it nourishes and strengthens the system. Descriptive pamphlets on application
143, New Bond-street, London; and of Chemists.

ALLEN AND HANBURYS'
"PERFECTED" COD-LIVER OIL
is free from disagreeable taste and smell, and causes no nausea, or after-taste. Of all Chemists, in capsuled bottles only.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT.
The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT.
Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 493, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

CHILBLAINS, RHEUMATISM, &c.
Chilblains are prevented from breaking and their tormenting itching instantly removed by WHITEHEAD'S ESSENCE OF MUSTARD. Guaranteed by an extensive and successful experience of nearly a century. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, of BARCLAY and SONS, 95, Farringdon-street; and all Medicine Venders.

THROAT IRRITATION.—Soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, become actively healing. Sold only in Boxes, 7½d. and 1s. 1½d., labelled "James Epps and Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London." A letter received:—"Gentlemen,—It may, perhaps, interest you to know that, after an extended trial, I have found your Glycerine Jujubes of considerable benefit (with or without medical treatment) in almost all forms of throat disease. They soften and clear the voice. In no case can they do any harm.—Yours faithfully, GORDON HOLMES, L.R.C.P.E., Senior Physician to the Municipal Throat and Ear Infirmary."

THROAT AFFECTIONS, COUGHS, AND COLDS are immediately relieved by DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS. Nothing else gives such a sound, refreshing night's rest. They taste pleasantly.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and only genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester. Established 50 years." PEARLY WHITE and SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rosy brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are all insured by the use of this most perfect Dentifrice. Pots, 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists.

SHIPWRECKS.—LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.
During the recent Storms the Life-Boats of the NATIONAL LIFE-BOAT INSTITUTION saved One Hundred and Fifty-two Lives from various Shipwrecks, and Seven Vessels from destruction. CONTRIBUTIONS are thankfully received by Messrs. Coutts and Co.; by all London and Country Bankers; and by the Secretary, RICHARD LEWIS, Esq., at the Institution, 14, John-street, Adelphi.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £550,000.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and eighty-two other towns and places throughout the Colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES.
AUSTRALASIAN AGENCY and BANKING CORPORATION (Limited).
Capital £1,250,000. In 125,000 Shares of £10 each.
Subscribed in the Australian Colonies, £982,330; in London, £400,000. Reserve Fund, £25,000.
LONDON DIRECTORS:
Abraham Scott, Esq. | Harry Hankey Dobree, Esq.
Frank C. Capel, Esq. | Joseph Cockfield, Dimsdale, Esq.
BANKERS:
Messrs. Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard, and Dimsdales.
SOLICITORS:
Messrs. Freshfields and Williams.
The Company are now issuing Debentures at the above rate for four, five, or six years. Forms of application can be obtained at the Office of the Company, 64, Austin Friars.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1881.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office, Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 20s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON.
Fifty best quality, 2s. 8d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris, 1878.

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES for Painting, Fern Painting, and Decalcomanie, Blotting-Books, Card Plates, Cigar-Cases, Screens, &c. Priced List free.
WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

CHARMING CRAYON PORTRAITS.
Send Photo and 10s. 6d. to A. and J. BOOL, Artists (from Royal Academy, National Medallist), 86, Warwick-street, Pimlico, London, who will return photo with faithful Crayon Drawing from 15, 15 by 10 inches, post-free, home or abroad. 100 testimonials. Tinted Crayons, 21s.; Water-colour, 21s.; Oil, two guineas; Life-size highly-finished Crayon, £5 5s. On Parle Français.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
All the novelties by the most eminent publishers. Descriptive Catalogue sent post-free.
THOMAS CHAPMAN, Stationer, 54, Leicester-square.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Merry Maidens, Dancing Girls, Maidens Fair. The set of nine on receipt of P.O.O. for 5s.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Fully assorted packets of all the novelties, 40s., 20s. Any not approved of can be exchanged.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
De la Rue's, Marcus Ward's, Prang's, Hildisheimer's, Rothe's, &c., conveniently arranged for choice.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for LADIES.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for GENTLEMEN.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for BOYS.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX for GIRLS.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX, suitable for everybody.
JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET.
Fresh as the flower itself. Price 2s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle. Sold at all Chemists and Perfumers throughout the Universe; or Breidenbach and Co., Distillers of Wood Violet to the Queen, 157a, New Bond-street, W. Trade-Mark, the "Wood Violet."

EAU DE COLOGNE.—The Best and only Genuine, invented 1685, manufactured by JOHANN ANTON FARINA, Zur Stadt, Mailand, Cologne-on-the-Rhine. By appointment Purveyor to several Royal and Imperial Courts, and owner of the Original Recipe. Prize Medals: Düsseldorf, 1852; Trier, 1854; Paris, 1855; London, 1862; Stettin, 1865; Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; and the only State Medal awarded at the Düsseldorf Exhibition, 1880. Sole Agents for Great Britain: ZERKOWSKY and REIMERS, 1, Finsbury-square, London, E.C. Purchasers should ask for the Eau de Cologne manufactured by Johann Anton Farina (Red and Blue Label), as this is the Best and only Genuine.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

Now ready.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

VOCAL SCORE	6s.
PIANOFORTE SOLO	2s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE LANCERS. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE QUADRILLE. D'Albert	4s.
THE POLICEMAN'S SONG AND CHORUS	4s.
I AM A PIRATE KING	4s.
THE MODERN MAJOR-GENERAL	4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

COME, MARGARITA, COME! The favourite Song from Arthur Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch." Sung by Mr. Edward Lloyd. Price 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

Vocal Score	8s. net.
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 6d. ,,
Olivette Lancers. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Polka. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Galop. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Song	2s. ,,
Bob Song. Sung by Miss St. John	2s. ,,
Romance—"Nearest and Dearest."	2s. ,,
Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs	2s. ,,

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PONTIA WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready.

CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES. Volume II., handsomely bound in cloth and gold. Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs.; Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 50 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 5 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 25 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

		s.	d.
1.	The Pianoforte	2	0
2.	The Rudiments of Music — W. H. Cummings	1	0
3.	The Organ — Dr. Stainer	2	0
4.	The Harmonium — King Hall	2	0
5.	Singing — A. Randegger	4	0
6.	Speech in Song — A. J. Ellis, F.R.S.	2	0
7.	Musical Forms — E. Pauer	2	0
8.	Harmony — Dr. Stainer	2	0
9.	Counterpoint — Dr. Bridge	2	0
10.	Fugue — James Higgs	2	0
11.	Scientific Basis of Music — Dr. Stone	1	0
13.	Church Choir Training — Rev. J. Troutbeck	1	0
14.	Plain-Song — Rev. T. Helmore	2	0
15.	Instrumentation — E. Prout	2	0
16.	The Elements of the Beautiful in Music — E. Pauer	1	0
17.	The Violin — Berthold Tours	2	0
18.	Tonic Sol-fa — J. Curwen	1	0
19.	Lancashire Sol-fa — James Greenwood	1	0
20.	Composition — Dr. Stainer	2	0
21.	Musical Terms — Stainer and Barrett	1	0

(To be continued.)
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

Just published.

COMPOSITION. By Dr. STAINER. No. 20 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 2s.
MUSICAL TERMS. By STAINER and BARRETT. No. 21 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 1s.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITIONS.
One Volume, 518 pp., folio, handsomely bound, cloth, gilt edges, price 21s.; ditto, 8vo, paper, 7s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 10s. 6d.
MENDELSSOHN'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, including the "Lieder Ohne Wörte," an entirely new and carefully revised edition.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

LIEDER OHNE WORTE. Cheap Editions. Octavo, paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.; folio, paper, 5s.; cloth gilt, 8s. Also, superior edition, octavo, paper, 4s.; cloth gilt, 6s.; folio, cloth gilt, 12s.
The only Complete Editions, containing Books 7 and 8.

One Shilling each.

ELLIOTT'S VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM. In six sets, price One Shilling each; or in two volumes, cloth gilt, Four Shillings each. List of contents may be had on application.

Just published, price One Shilling each.

NOVELLO'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS. Nos. 1 and 2, each containing Twenty Compositions by BACH, edited by Berthold Tours. List of contents may be had on application.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.
The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

NEW MUSIC.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS IN MUSIC.

THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS. Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 4s. each.
Now ready.

SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.	BEETHOVEN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND.	MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF IRELAND.	SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
SONGS OF WALES.	SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF FRANCE.	RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF GERMANY.	RUBINSTEIN'S DUETS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS.	DUETS FOR LADIES.
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. 2 vols.	SACRED SONGS.
	HUMOROUS SONGS.

Also, THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone. Price 7s. 6d. each, handsomely bound, gilt edges.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S NEW SONGS.

SONGS. By HUBERT PARRY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling at the Ballad Concert.
A SEA DIRGE.
A SPRING SONG.
The Poetry by Shakspeare. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MY ONLY LOVE. By KUHE. Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin with great success at Dublin and Brighton. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A SUMMER SHOWER. By the Composer of "Twickenham Ferry." Sung by Miss Mary Davies at the Ballad Concert. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co, 295, Regent-street.

HENSCHEL'S New Song. SING HEIGH HO! The poetry by Charles Kingsley. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concert. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FACE IT! By Sir JULIUS BENEDICT. Sung by Mr. Santley at the Ballad Concert. The Words by Weatherley. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MY OLD COMRADE. By BEHREND. Sung by Mr. Maybrick at the Ballad Concert. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY. By ARCHER. Sung by Mr. Edward Lloyd at the Ballad Concert. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A CLUSTER OF ROSES. By Mr. C. VINCENT. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE ZEELAND TOLL. Sung in "Anne-Mie." Words by Clement Scott.
"I like the song; it should be sung in all country houses."—Truth. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BABY AND THE FLY. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

HER NAME. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Mr. Maas throughout the Provinces. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

TIME WAS. Lady ARTHUR HILL'S popular Ballad. Sung by Miss Mary Davies. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Löffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAVOURITE CANTATAS.
HENRY HOLMES' CHRISTMAS DAY. Words by Keble. 2s. 6d.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S PRODIGAL SON. 2s. 6d.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S ON SHORE AND SEA. 2s. 6d.
F. H. COWEN'S ROSE MAIDEN. 2s. 6d.
F. H. COWEN'S CORSAIR. 3s. 6d.
F. HOWELL'S LAND OF PROMISE. 2s. 6d.
F. HOWELL'S SONG OF THE MONTHS. 2s. 6d.
KAPPEY'S PER MARE, PER TERRAM. 2s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

RECOLLECTIONS OF MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM. By WEHLI. This popular Fantasia will be performed by Mr. Kuhe at Brighton on the 29th.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

LILLIE'S SECOND MUSIC-BOOK, containing Instructions, Exercises, and Pieces, in continuation of the "First Music-Book." Fifty-six pages, illustrated, price 2s. 6d. Also, LILLIE'S MUSIC-BOOK, complete, containing the two books in one volume, with 21 Illustrations (120 pages), forming a handsome book for presentation. In cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

PIANOFORTE NUMBERS OF

BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET. Price 1s. each.
212. BOOSEYS' MARCH ALBUM. 35 Marches.
203, 210, 213. RUBINSTEIN'S 3 ALBUMS. 25 Pieces.
214. ROBERT SCHUMANN'S ALBUMBLATTER.
204. BRAHMS' PIANOFORTE ALBUM.
190. FIELD'S NOCTURNE ALBUM. 10 Nocturnes.
114. BEETHOVEN'S WALTZ ALBUM. 45 Waltzes.
200. LAMOTHE'S WALTZ ALBUM. 6 Waltzes.
201. WALDTEUFEL'S WALTZ ALBUM. 8 Waltzes.
Booseys' Musical Cabinet also contains Beethoven's, Mozart's, Schubert's, and Dussek's Sonatas; Chopin's Waltzes, Mazurkas, and Nocturnes (each complete for 1s.); Mendelssohn's, Schumann's, Heller's, Weber's, and Hummel's works. The cheapest and best editions published. A full Catalogue on application.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

STANDARD PIANOFORTE MUSIC IN THE

CAVENDISH MUSIC-BOOKS.
28. RECOLLECTIONS OF THE OPERA. (26 celebrated airs.)
26. CLASSICAL READINGS FOR THE PIANOFORTE. (17 short and beautiful pieces.)
27. SACRED READINGS FOR THE PIANOFORTE. (20 movements from the works of the great masters.)
29. ALBUM OF 12 GAVOTTES by Handel, Bach, Corelli, Rameau, Gotthard, Martini, &c.
34. ALBUM OF 19 MINUETS.
37. CALLCOTT'S HANDEL ALBUM. Part I. (51 Sacred airs.)
38. CALLCOTT'S HANDEL ALBUM. Part I. (61 Operatic airs)
Price 1s. each Book.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and Short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New System of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT ERLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

THE BEST NEW WALTZ.

DAS WUNDERSCHON (Most Beautiful) WALTZ, by CARL ROSENGARD. Played with great success at the Prince of Wales's Ball at Abergeldie Castle, Oct. 4. A really pretty and melodious waltz."—Graphic. Post-free, 2s.
REID BROS., 189, Oxford-street, London.

LA PREMIÈRE VOLÉE POLKA. By A. T. TOLLER. "This excellent and very original polka is always well received, and will shortly become very popular." Post-free, 1s. 6d.
REID BROS., 189, Oxford-street, London

NEW MUSIC.

DEAR ENGLAND.—The Popular Song, always encored when sung by Signor Foli. Written by Charles Mackay; the Music composed by LOUIS DIEHL. 2s., post-free at half-price. As a part-song, post-free, 2 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.—High-class MUSIC for students and others, for all instruments. To be had gratis and post-free, a List of 400 Classical Works, including church music, oratorios, organ music, violin quartets, quintets, trios, duets, &c., bound, at greatly reduced prices.
London: Published only by ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL.—In one handsome volume, folio, cloth, pp. 235. Louis Spohr wrote to the publishers, saying:—"I have carefully looked over this English Edition of my 'Violin School,' and have no hesitation in recommending it as a faithful translation of the original work." Price 21s.; offered at 15s. 9d.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

J. B. VUILLAUME'S scarce and inimitable COPIES of the OLD MASTERS' VIOLINS. A few remain in the hands of his Sole Agents,
ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, London.

OTHER DAYS (Autrefois). An Allegretto for the Pianoforte. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. This is considered by many to be his best original composition. Post-free for 18 stamps.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, and IRELAND. Three Fantasias on National Airs, for the Pianoforte, by JOHN PRIDHAM. No. 1, English Airs; No. 2, Scotch Airs; and No. 3, Irish Airs. 3s. each; post-free at half-price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SIX SONGS for LITTLE SINGERS. Composed by ALFRED SCOTT GATTY. No. 1, "The Poodle;" No. 2, "Puff;" No. 3, "The Walrus and the Carpenter;" No. 4, "The Whiting and the Snail;" No. 5, "The Sparrow on the Tree;" No. 6, "May Day." 2s. 6d. each; post-free at half price in stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
ALL MUSIC POST-FREE AT HALF PRICE.

FOLI'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

THE RAFT. Descriptive Fantasia. By PINSUTI. In E and G; free, 24 stamps. Now being sung by Signor Foli with the greatest success at all his concerts. Decidedly the finest baritone (or bass) song extant.

I LOVE MY LOVE. PINSUTI'S most celebrated Song, in A flat and B flat; free, 24 stamps.
This, the most effective Drawing-room Song ever written, is continually sung by all the leading vocalists, both soprano and contralto.

THREE JOLLY BRITONS, or the ENGLISH, IRISH, and SCOTCH.
New National Song.
"Long may our good Queen on her Throne
O'er her subjects keep a watch,
For the three will fight for her as one,
Though English, Irish, and Scotch.
Words and Music, G. WARE. Post-free, 18 stamps.

SHALL I WEAR A WHITE ROSE? New Song. By EMILY FARMER; poetry by Savile Clark. This charming Song is now being sung by Madame Trebelli at her Provincial Concerts with perfect success. Published in E flat and G, for soprano or contralto. Post-free, 24 stamps.

JOHN GILPIN. Cantata. By GEORGE FOX. 2s. 6d. net. Easy and effective. A liberal discount allowed to choral societies for copies.

LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE.
Vocal Score, English Words, 10s. net, and 4s.
Piano Score, complete, 2s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 1000th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS,
24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

AUGENER and CO.'S UNIVERSAL CIRCULATING MUSICAL LIBRARY, to which is added Lonsdale's Library, is now the largest in Europe. Annual subscription from two guineas.—81, Regent-street. Prospectuses gratis.

F. H. COWEN'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME. By COWEN.
In Keys for all voices.
London: W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, N.

JUST PUBLISHED.—THE LILLY OF THE VALLEY, Polka Mazurka, for Piano. Of all Musicsellers. Price 3s. 6d. net; by post, of C. E. BROOKMAN, 5, Carey-place, Watford, Herts.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLE'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready.
Catalogues and all particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LAST PUBLICATION.
FIFTEEN MELODIES OF SCHUBERT.
Transcribed for the Pianoforte.
Charming short pieces specially adapted for teaching. Price 2s. each.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, Sole Agents for the Dominion Organ Company, Canada.
New Organ, "PRINCESS LOUISE," the best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom,
FORSYTH BROTHERS, Manchester and London.

PIANOFORTE SOLOS. By FREDERIC N. LOHR.
FLEUR-DE-LIS. A Mazurka de Torcau. 4s. (Second Thousand).
MAUD. A Romance. 3s.
TWILIGHT. An Idyll. 3s.
FORSYTH Bros., 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' Newly-Patented SOSTENENTE GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOS have gained the two First Prizes and only Special Mention above all competitors at the Sydney International Exhibition, 1879-80 Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London, W.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE. In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.

Class 0, £14	Class 2, £20	Class 4, £30	Class 6, £35
Class 1, £17	Class 3, £23	Class 5, £27	Class 7, £40

American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'

IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS. "The best and most substantial instrument produced."
3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £360. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

SECONDHAND PIANO SALE.—PIANOS, £15; Broadwood Pianos, £25; Erard Pianos, £20; Collard Pianos, £28; Harmoniums, £4; American Organs, £10.
THOMAS OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE.—Purchasers who can pay cash will do well to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of obtaining thoroughly good instruments at extraordinary low prices.

BROADWOOD PIANOS, 24 guineas. Full compass Pianofortes, in handsome cases, good condition, fine tone, at above moderate price, for cash only.
At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

COLLARD PIANOS, 28 guineas. Full-compass COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fine full, rich tone, perfect condition. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Madame Tussaud's).

ERARD PIANOS, 38 guineas, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Trichord COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, in handsome ebonised and gilt cases, fine full, powerful tone. Cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE. — The PIANOFORTE HIRE and THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM BUSINESS carried on as usual during the Sale.—THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., opposite Madame Tussaud's.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road, London, CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.
OETZMANN and CO.

THE "CANTERBURY" EARLY ENGLISH DINING-ROOM SUITE, 20 Guineas, in solid American Walnut or Oak, consisting of a Sideboard with two drawers and cupboards, with bevelled plate-glass back; an extending Dining-Table, Six Chairs, and Two Arm-chairs, seats stuffed, all hair, and covered in leather or Tapestry. Illustrations of this Suite post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.—Stout Tapestry Brussels Carpet, 1s. 3½d.; handsome pattern ditto, from 1s. 9d. to 2s. 5d. per yard. Good Brussels, new designs, from 2s. 4d. upwards. Good Axminster, from 4s. 9d. Good Wilton, super quality, from 5s. 11d. per yard. These prices are much below value. Kidderminster Carpets, all wool, 1s. 11d. per yard. Patent Rock-Dye Felt Carpeting, handsome designs, double-width, 1s. 9d. per yard. Excellent Stair Carpet, from 6d. per yard; all-wool ditto, 1s. per yard.—OETZMANN and CO.

THE "QUEEN ANNE" BORDERED TAPESTRY CRETONNE CURTAINS.—A handsome Early English design in black and gold, dull red, peacock blue, sage, and other fashionable shades, lined throughout with Twilled Cretonne Lining, and bound with the new Cretonne Binding, 3 yards long by 36 inches wide, 3s. 9d. per pair; 3½ yards long, 10s. 11d.; 4 yards long, 12s. 6d.; 5 yards long by 42 inches wide, 14s. 9d.; 3½ yards long, 16s. 9d.; 4 yards long, 18s. 9d. Patterns sent post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

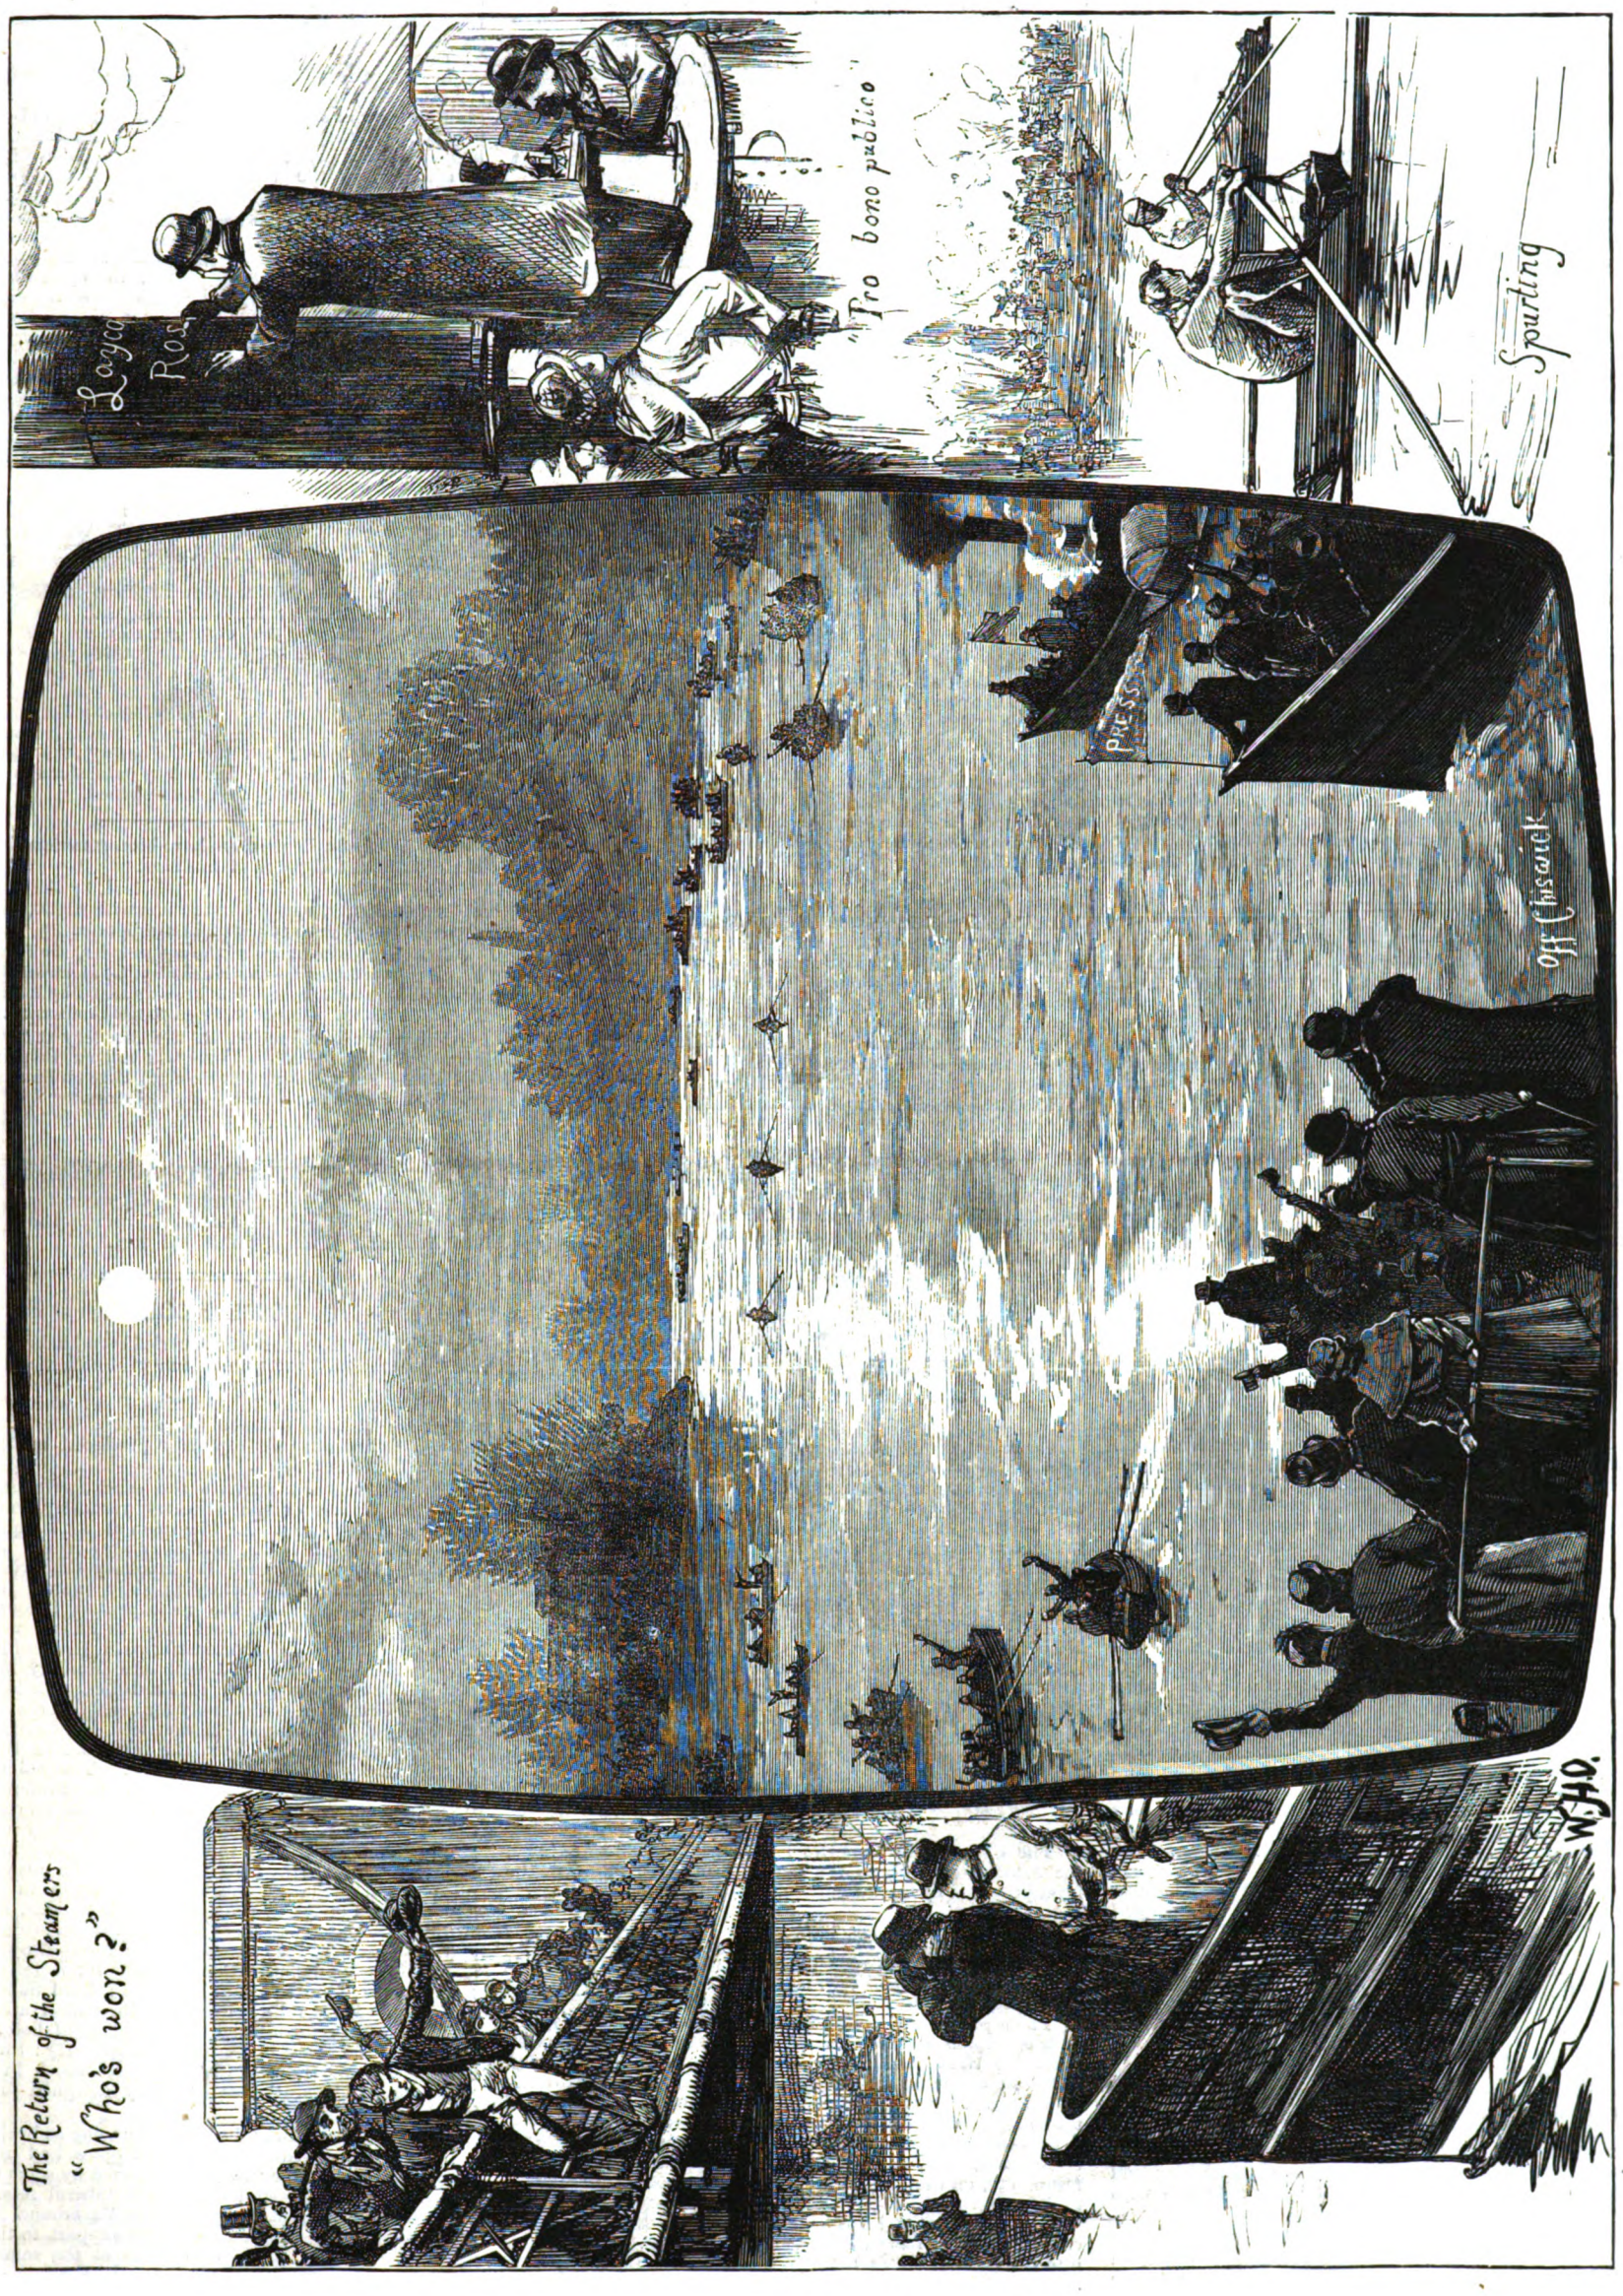
FURNISHING IRONMONGERY DEPARTMENT.—Superior Electro-Plate Tea and Coffee Pots, Spoons, Forks, Cruets, &c. (quality guaranteed); best warranted Table Cutlery, handsome Coal Vases, from 3s. 11d. upwards; Dish Covers, Japanned Toilet Sets, full size bath, pail, and can, various neat designs in colours, 3s. 11d. per set. Kitchen Ironmongery of every description. Mats, Matting, Brooms, Brushes, Pails, &c. Bronze Umbrella Stands, from 3s. 9d. Table Lamps, complete, good style, 3s. 11d.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 379 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

GARDNERS' DINNER SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs of unequalled value, from £3 3s. the set for twelve persons, complete. Cash discount 15 per cent. Coloured lithographic sheets of the newest designs, post-free.

GARDNERS' CROWN WARE DINNER SERVICES, of pearly whiteness, and nearly rivalling porcelain, £3 13s. 6d. the set for twelve persons, complete, in Bronze, Green, Blue, Black, and other colours, in Enamels, £8 8s. A Coloured Design of this speciality set sent post-free on application. Cash discount, 15 per cent.



GARDNERS' TABLE GLASS SERVICES, of the best crystal, plain light stem, 65s; engraved, 89s.; richly cut, 105s.; the Service, for twelve persons, complete. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photos showing the designs en suite, post-free.

GARDNERS' GASELIERS, Gasfittings, and Lamps in Brass and Iron.
GARDNERS', in connection with their Manufactory, 112, St. Martin's-lane, are OPENING a new SHOW-ROOM for the display of their own DESIGNS in the above Branches, at prices the most moderate. Estimates and Designs post-free from their Show-Rooms and Offices, 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO-PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths and Patentees of the Electro-Plate. Revised Illustrated Pattern-Book of New Designs in Table Plate of all kinds, and new qualities in Spoons and Forks, forwarded free by post on application. Testimonial Plate in Solid Silver, in great variety, always in stock; and Committees provided with Designs and Photographs to suit all occasions.
Address—Elkington and Co., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1880.

Digitized by Google

THE WORLD'S REGATTA ON THE THAMES LAST SATURDAY.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

THE WORLD'S REGATTA ON THE THAMES.

The "Hop Bitters" regatta, promoted by an American company who gave the very handsome sum of £1000 in prizes, did not promise very well at first, as there was a very needless delay in the arrangement of all the preliminaries; indeed, nothing was definitely settled until about three weeks ago. Then, however, a thoroughly representative committee was formed, and the members of it worked so well that not a single hitch occurred from start to finish. It was a series of sculling races, for prizes of £500, £300, £150, and £40, between professional oarsmen of all countries. So much care was exercised in the arrangement of the heats that the element of chance was quite eliminated; and when Laycock, Ross, Hosmer, and Warren Smith came together in the final heat on Saturday last, they afforded a complete example of the "survival of the fittest." The withdrawal of Hanlan from the contest was a general matter of regret. Still, we can quite understand that the champion did not wish to run the least risk of defeat through any accident that may so easily occur when four men scull together in a comparatively narrow river; and, if he only accepts Laycock's plucky challenge, the question of supremacy will be satisfactorily settled. There is not much to note with respect to the trial heats, which took place on the Thursday and Friday. England, as was generally felt must be the case, cut a very poor figure. Boyd is the only man we possess who is anything like a champion, and he did not compete. Elliott, who was not half fit, made a wretched show; and, though Hawdon and Nicholson sculled fairly well, and got into the second round, they have never ranked as first-class men. The great surprise of Friday's racing was the easy defeat of Trickett by Laycock and Warren Smith. It is now quite evident that the ex-champion is utterly out of form; and this makes it more than ever desirable that Hanlan should waive his right to a longer notice, and consent to meet Laycock. The final heat produced one of the grandest struggles in the history of boat-racing. Smith was out of it when they had gone a little more than a mile, but the other three kept close together right up to Chiswick Church. For the greater part of this distance Ross showed the way, and odds of 2 and 3 to 1 were betted on his winning. Shortly after passing the church, however, he was fairly worn down by Laycock, and a slight foul occurred as the indomitable Australian rowed up to him. This, however, did not affect the result in any way, and Ross's claim was very properly disallowed by Mr. Ireland, the umpire. At Barnes-terrace Laycock had taken a decided lead, and, going right away, won cleverly by nearly ten lengths, in 26 min. 44 sec., while Ross was about half that distance in advance of Hosmer, who had shown wonderful pluck throughout. The victory of the Australian was very popular, and he met with a great reception as he journeyed back to Putney on the umpire's boat.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

After all, it appears likely that the flat-racing season of 1880 will run its allotted course, instead of being brought to an abrupt close by frost. On Monday last skating was carried on not very far from London, and it seemed more likely that we should be engaged in that pastime to-day, than that we should witness the decision of the Kempton Park November Handicap. At the time of writing, however, there is a south-west wind, rain is falling heavily, and it seems probable that the Manchester and Warwick Meetings will only suffer from the postponement of a single day. The Shrewsbury fixture last week was fairly successful, though, with the exception of the two chief handicaps, most of the events were not far removed from the regions of plating. Prestonpans (9 st. 1 lb.) started a wonderful favourite for the Great Shropshire Handicap; but, though he ran prominently, his heavy weight and the deep state of the ground proved too much for him, added to which a mile course is not long enough to show his fine staying powers to the greatest advantage. The race fell to Misenus (7 st. 10 lb.), who is far too great a rogue to be trusted with any money, and it was not forgotten that he was defeated in a hurdle-race only a week previously. It happened, however, that on this occasion he was on his best behaviour, and ran as gamely as possible in a capital finish with Speculation (7 st 12 lb.). The victory of Antient Pistol (7 st. 5 lb.) in the Shrewsbury Cup did not by any means compensate Mr. Gretton for the defeat of Prestonpans in the shorter race, as the former had been "bottled up" for so long that little or nothing was known of his form, and, owing to some mistake, his owner's commission was not executed. He only just managed to beat The Star (6 st. 6 lb.) by a short head, and the pair finished right away from the rest of the field, Rhidorroch (8 st. 9 lb.) and Out of Bounds (8 st. 12 lb.) cutting up very badly. Athol Lad added another to his long list of recent successes in selling races, and it cost 510 guineas to retain him rather a long price at the end of the season. A noticeable feature of the meeting was the good fortune which attended Tom Cannon, as he secured something like half a dozen events with his small team. The meetings at Derby and Alexandra Park, which were brought off at the end of the week, do not require special notice.

The Altcar Club Coursing Meeting was scarcely so successful as usual. This was entirely due to the bad weather; snow lay very deep in places; the ground was so hard that many of the dogs could not show their true form; and, on the Wednesday particularly, hares ran very badly. The management was perfect; and Mr. Hedley as judge, and Wilkinson as slipper, got through their duties without the slightest mistake. The Sefton Stakes, for dog puppies, was divided between Cedric, by Enterprise—Glent, and Casuist, by Gamble Change; and the Earl of Haddington made a clean sweep of the Croxteth Stakes for puppies of the opposite sex, as the last three left in all belonged to him. These were Honour Bright and Honeymead, both by Fugitive—Honeydew, and Hawthorn Bloom, by Crœsus—Hawthorn. They are three good puppies, Honour Bright being perhaps the most promising, as she won all her courses in rare form. Debonnaire began wonderfully well in the Altcar Club Cup, but fell off considerably after his first spin, and was eventually put out by Deborah in the third ties, the latter then dividing the stake with Snuffbox. The capital form shown by the Earl of Sefton's kennel was a matter of general congratulation; and the victory of Lord Lurgan in the Molyneux Stakes with Master O.W. was thoroughly popular.

An account of the "Hop Bitters" World's Regatta appears elsewhere; so we need only note that the gallant victory of Laycock has made everyone most anxious to see a match between him and Hanlan. The Australian is eager for the fray, and, as he has met the champion with regard to date, we hope that a meeting will be arranged, as the race would excite immense interest, public opinion being so much divided as to the respective merits of the pair.

The Earl of Sheffield offers a prize of the value of 30 guineas, in the Cricketing Season of 1881, to the gainer of the highest batting average in the county matches against other clubs.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

A monument in memory of the late King Victor Emmanuel has been unveiled at Vicenza by the Duke of Aosta. Deputations from many of the Venetian communes were present at the ceremony.

The Chamber of Deputies began on Saturday last the discussion of the Budget Estimates for 1881. The Minister of Grace and Justice stated that a compromise had been come to with the Vatican with regard to sees in the gift of the Crown. The intended nominees of the Pope would first apply for the Royal nomination, and this would be granted if inquiries concerning them proved favourable. Menotti Garibaldi has written to the President of the Chamber, in his own and in his father's name, persisting in their resignation of their seats.

The funeral of Baron Ricasoli took place on Monday at Florence, in presence of the Duke d'Aosta, the King's brother, representatives of the two Chambers, the Premier, and delegates of all the great bodies of the State.

The activity of Vesuvius has considerably augmented. Lava is descending in large volumes on the Naples side in a direction parallel with the railway.

SPAIN.

King Alfonso attended the opening of the lectures on Jurisprudence at the Madrid Academy last week, and addressed the students. His Majesty said that with the help of the rising generation, who were animated by a love of law and justice, he hoped it would be proved that the system of Constitutional Monarchy offered a solid guarantee of order, and formed the most practical path of progress.

HOLLAND.

The Second Chamber has rejected by forty-five votes against nineteen the proposal of the Minister for the Colonies, M. van Goltstein, to fix by law the proportion of the expenses of the East Indian Colonies which the Netherlands shall pay. The Chamber has unanimously voted the estimates of the East India Budget for 1881.

GERMANY.

The Emperor William, a Berlin telegram says, hunted and killed eighteen wild boars on Saturday, and returned to Berlin well and hearty. His Majesty has since suffered from a cold.

All Germany was en fete on Sunday in honour of its being the birthday of the Crown Princess.

In the Lower House of the Prussian Parliament last Saturday the debate on the Jewish agitation was begun. In answer to the first speaker, Count Stolberg, the Vice-President of the Cabinet, said the petition of which so much had been said had not been presented, and the Government did not contemplate any change in the law affecting the rights of Jews. The debate was resumed and concluded on Monday. Herr Richter made the chief speech of the day. The Rev. Mr. Stöcker made a brief defence, and was followed by Herr Löwe, the only Jew who spoke, and who showed that Herr Stocker's statements were full of inaccuracies. There was no division.

The German Commercial Diet has met at Berlin for the discussion of several important questions, among them being those of the currency and of a modified railways goods tariff.

A Royal decree has been issued at Berlin ordering the establishment of a Prussian Politico-Economical Council, to consist of seventy-five members, chosen for five years.

The Prussian Government has decided upon taking steps to suppress betting on racecourses.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Budget debate in the Hungarian Diet was closed yesterday week, and the report of the Ways and Means proposed by the Minister of Finance to meet the expenses of the State for next year was accepted by a large majority.

Count Karoly, who some time ago killed Count Zichy in a duel, was last week sentenced to three months' imprisonment, and the seconds to three weeks' imprisonment.

Slight earthquake shocks were felt at Agram on Monday, but on Tuesday the streets were again lit with gas.

The Czarewitch, accompanied by his family, returned to St. Petersburg on Monday from Livadia. His Imperial Highness was received at the railway station by the principal authorities.

RUSSIA.

General Loris Melikoff left St. Petersburg on Tuesday for Livadia, to accompany the Czar on his return to St. Petersburg. The authorities have taken all conceivable precautions to protect the life of the Czar on the journey.

The Czarewitch, accompanied by his family, returned to St. Petersburg on Monday from Livadia. His Imperial Highness was received at the railway station by the principal authorities.

DENMARK.

Yesterday week the King received in audience Nagaoka Meringoshi, who presented his credentials as Japanese Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary.

SWEDEN.

Professor Nordenskjöld has been elected a member of the Second Chamber of the Swedish Legislature. He was supported by the party of the Bourse, and headed the poll with 1552 votes. His opponent obtained only 1190 votes, although he was the candidate of the labourers' party.

GREECE.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed, by 103 votes to 80, the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne in the form proposed by the committee, with certain modifications.

AMERICA.

Congress is urged, in the annual report of the Secretary of War, to make grants sufficient to maintain the strength of the American army at 30,000 men, and to assimilate the Militia to the regular Army.

The report of the Indian Bureau exhibits a steady progress of the Indians towards civilisation. They number 256,000, excluding those in Alaska. All of them, with the exception of 18,000, are more or less under the control of the Government agents. Increased grants are asked for the education of the Indians, which is progressing satisfactorily.

According to the official investigation into the origin of the fire which occurred at the lunatic asylum, at St. Peter's, Minnesota, on the 15th inst., thirty-two persons were burnt to death.

The Government has received a telegram announcing the conclusion of a treaty on the subject of Chinese immigration into the United States between the American Commissioners and the Chinese Government.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Times says that intensely cold weather has spread over the United States and Canada, the temperature falling below zero in many places. Several persons have been frozen to death. The navigation on the lakes and canals has been closed much before the usual time; and barges containing 10,000,000 bushels of grain are fast frozen in the Erie Canal, causing a sharp advance in prices. The heavy frosts in the Gulf States have also imperilled the sugar and cotton crops

SOUTH AFRICA.

Telegrams from the Cape report severe fighting between the Basutos and the Colonial forces, the Basutos, who were the attacking parties, being in all cases beaten back with heavy loss.

A telegram from Sir G. C. Strahan, Administrator, Cape Town, was received on Monday at the Home Office, reporting the occurrence of several encounters with the Basutos, the emigrant Tembus, and the Pondomise. The telegram adds that no effective check has yet been made to the outbreak.

INDIA.

Lord Ripon arrived at Simla last Saturday morning, and left the same afternoon for Kurrachee. The Viceroy had held a grand durbar at Jacobabad, at which the Khan of Khelat was invested with the Grand Cross of the Star of India. The same honour was conferred upon the Nawab of Bahawulpur.

On Monday the Viceroy arrived at Kurrachee, and on Tuesday inspected the harbour works and breakwater. The Municipality and Chamber of Commerce presented addresses to him, urging the completion of railway communication with the Punjaub by bridging the Indus, and representing the necessity of harbour improvements, the establishment of a daily post with Bombay, and the reduction of the octroi duties. Lord Ripon was to start for Bombay on Wednesday evening.

The Times weekly telegrams state that there is very little news from Cabul or Candahar, but that "a general feeling of uneasiness prevails in India as to Ayoub's intentions." The weather and crop reports from the North-West Provinces state that rain is still wanted in many districts, but there is little or no distress anywhere except at Cawnpore and Rao Bareilly. There is no further news respecting the rising in Cashmere.

AUSTRALIA.

A telegram dated Nov. 17, received from Sydney, states that at the General Election in New South Wales the members returned for East Sydney, including the Premier, Sir Henry Parkes, are all Freetraders.

We learn by a telegram from Brisbane on Monday that the Queensland Parliament has been prorogued. The Government, which is now stronger than at the commencement of the Session, succeeded in passing the bill for the construction of the Trans-Continental Railway, the Pacific Islanders Labour Bill, and other Ministerial measures. The contract with the British India Steam Navigation Company, commencing in February next, for the conveyance of the mails and immigrants via Torres Straits, has also been passed. Sir Arthur Kennedy, the Governor, has returned to Brisbane. The railway extensions to Roma and Withersfield respectively have been opened.

The Manitoba Legislature have been summoned to meet on Dec. 16, for the dispatch of business.

Audience was given on the 18th inst. by the Pope to the Bishop of Meath, who presented him with £1600, the proceeds of the Peter's Pence collected in his diocese.

Contrary to the orders of the commander, the Persian troops have destroyed twenty-five Kurdish villages around Charvaran. The Sheikh Abdul Kader has been attacked by a body of 1500 Persian cavalry. The Kurds fled to the mountains.

The monument erected in the cemetery at Evera to the memory of the French soldiers who fell on Belgian territory during the Franco-German war of 1870 was on Sunday unveiled in presence of a large crowd of spectators.

All uncertainty about the occupation of Dulcigno seems to be at an end. A telegram from Constantinople, dated Wednesday, states that Dervish Pasha has entered Dulcigno, after a slight engagement with the Albanians. The Montenegrins will sign the convention with the Turkish authorities, and on the departure of Dervish Pasha will occupy the place under the protection of the international fleet.

THE RECESS.

The political atmosphere of the period even has been propitious for "Endymion," the publication of which novel has been one of the events of the week. Cabinet Councils have been held by Mr. Gladstone in Downing-street with a frequency which would have satisfied the superior personages whose exalted sentiments are copiously produced in the Earl of Beaconsfield's new story.

The Government survives the caustic criticism lavished upon the actions of the Ministry yesterday week by the Marquis of Salisbury. As Chairman of the banquet, held at the Cannon-street Hotel, to inaugurate—if Mr. Bright will excuse the use of the word—the Hackney Conservative Club, the late Foreign Secretary plainly meant his words to reach further than the metropolitan borough, which has returned to Parliament two members who occupy posts in the present Administration. His Lordship, with characteristic point, agreed with the Ministry in so far as they followed "the policy of Lord Beaconsfield's Government;" but had plenty of irony for the "International Naval Review," and jeers for the notion that the mere assemblage of the fleet could bring about the surrender of Dulcigno by the Albanians to the Montenegrins. The noble Marquis, however, did not fail to qualify these ironical references to the "European Concert" with an expression of an earnest hope that the Sultan would now fulfil his treaty obligations. "What is the condition to which the Ministry has brought Ireland?" next asked his Lordship. The answer he supplied was that the speeches of Mr. Gladstone in Midlothian and of Mr. Forster in the House of Commons, and of Mr. Bright at Birmingham, had encouraged the appeals to violence and intimidation in Ireland, which had resulted in the shooting at landlords and had latterly called for a Boycott Relief Expedition. The trenchant address of Lord Salisbury was, in a word, a lively rally delivered to the Conservative Party at large; and his Lordship had the advantage of being seconded by some of the ablest lieutenants of the Party: Sir Hardinge Giffard and Mr. Edward Clarke, whose speech in proposing "Church and State" was evidently designed to make an impression.

The Liberals of Bristol were on Tuesday as lively and confident as if the Cannon-street philippics had never been delivered. A monster "soirée," attended by some thousands, was given by the Bristol Operatives' Liberal Association in the Colston Hall: and the speeches of Mr. Samuel Morley and Mr. Henry Broadhurst accorded loyal support to the Government. Mr. Mellor, Q.C., who spoke at the same meeting, indulged in the prediction that Mr. W. Rathbone (who will on Tuesday next contend with Mr. J. Ellis Nanney for the representation of Carnarvonshire) will be returned by "a larger majority than that secured by Mr. Watkin Williams."

From Ireland come the usual reports of "houghing" cattle, reinstating evicted tenants, and appeals to violence by members of the Irish Land League. The Crown Prosecution of Mr. Parnell and his associates meantime reached a further stage on Tuesday, when the Similiter was lodged in the Crown Office, Dublin.

Digitized by Google

THE PRINCE OF WALES IN NORFOLK.

As the proprietor of Sandringham, and a frequent resident there, his Royal Highness is quite a Norfolk country gentleman. He seldom omits to visit every institution of that great agricultural county. On Thursday of last week he went to look at the annual fat cattle show at Norwich. The Prince drove over from Horstead Hall, where he had been staying with Mr. E. Birkbeck, M.P. He was accompanied by Lord Hastings, Lord Coke, Mr. Birkbeck, M.P., and Colonel Ellis as Equerry in Waiting. His Royal Highness was heartily cheered as he passed through Norwich. The streets were plentifully decorated with bunting. At the cattle show the Prince was received with a Royal salute by a guard of honour composed of the 1st Norfolk Rifle Volunteers. On alighting from his carriage he was received at the door of the hall by the Mayor (Mr. S. Grimmer) and the president (Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P.). Several noblemen and gentlemen were present. Lord Stafford, Mr. R. T. Gurdon, M.P., Sir R. J. Buxton, M.P., Mr. W. A. Tyssen-Amhurst, M.P., the honorary director of the show (Mr. Chambers), the Sheriff of Norwich (Dr. Eade), and the Deputy-Mayor of Norwich (Mr. H. Bullard). The Prince was conducted through the show by the hon. director and the president. He arrived just in time to witness the award of the champion prizes, in which he took much interest. The cattle classes at this show contained sixty-seven entries, and included some grand animals. Her Majesty the Queen was an exhibitor, and won the first prize for shorthorn heifers with an animal bred at Windsor, and the first prize for shorthorn cows. The Prince of Wales was an exhibitor in the cross-bred cow class, the Norfolk and Suffolk red-polled classes, and the class for steers of any breed, winning several prizes and a "highly commended." Among other exhibitors were Mr. J. J. Colman, Sir R. Beauchamp, R. Wortley, and other well-known breeders. Mr. J. J. Colman won the £100 Plate for the best beast in the yard; also the £20 Plate for the best ox or steer with a magnificent shorthorn, bred by Mr. H. Overman; the Champion prize for the best Norfolk red-polled beast, and the first prizes in three classes of South Down sheep. On leaving the show his Royal Highness drove to the residence of Mr. J. J. Colman, at Carrow House, where he took his luncheon. Among those invited to meet the Prince were Viscount Coke, Lord Hastings, Lord Stafford, Sir R. J. Buxton, M.P., Mr. Tyssen-Amhurst, M.P., Mr. R. T. Gurdon, M.P., Mr. J. H. Tillett, M.P., Mr. E. Birkbeck, M.P., Mr. H. Birkbeck, the High Sheriff of Norfolk (Mr. H. Lestrange), the Mayor of Norwich, the Sheriff of Norwich, the Deputy Mayor of Norwich, the Rev. Canon Heaviside, Colonel Boileau, Mr. C. S. Read, Mr. R. Leeds, and Mr. J. A. Colman. Subsequently the Prince went through the extensive mustard and starch mills of Messrs. J. and J. Colman. In the evening he returned to Horstead Hall. We present some Illustrations of his visit to Norwich.

THE EARTHQUAKE AT AGRAM.

We present more than a dozen Illustrations of this extraordinary and destructive visitation of nature, some accounts of which have already been published. It was on the 9th inst. that the earthquakes began throughout Southern Austria, from Vienna to the Adriatic and the frontier of Bosnia. In the capital a rather violent shock was felt, and at Serajevo, Derbend, Brod, Pola, Trieste, Zilli, Klagenfurt, Fünfkirchen, Odenburg, Marburg, Laibach, and Gross-Kanisch. At Agram, the capital of Croatia, three shocks of earthquake occurred that day, but the first, at 7.14 a.m., was the most formidable, and lasted ten seconds; the second, also severe, occurred at 7.30; while the third, which was the weakest, took place at 8.28 a.m. The first shock is described as circular. It was followed by violent oscillations from north-north-east to south-south-west. After it the whole town was covered by a dense cloud of dust caused by the falling down of chimneys, walls, and houses in every direction. Two churches—the cathedral and the Church of St. George—fell in, and there is scarcely a house in the whole town which has not been more or less injured. The larger and more massive buildings seem to have suffered most. The residence of the Archbishop and most of the public buildings, though they have not actually fallen, have become uninhabitable. The first shock on the 9th inst. affected principally the upper town. The old fortress, situated on a hillock which projects into the Valley of the Save, and containing the State buildings, greatly suffered, as well as the cathedral, numerous parts of the Archbishop's palace, the public schools, and other edifices. There was another violent earthquake two days later, on the 11th, and this more affected the lower town, which is built on the plain and inhabited by shopkeepers, manufacturers, and artisans. The scenes of dismay and confusion were both sad and strange. All the offices, schools, and most of the shops were closed, the numerous coffee-houses and wine shops alone being densely crowded. Thousands soon left the town by rail. Others encamped during the night in the piercing cold and dense fog around the watch-fires in the two spacious squares, while the remainder fled far away into the open country. High officials and rich merchants, with their families, sought refuge in cabs or in the open air. The whole population was agitated with one fear lest the earth should open and swallow them up. The misery was indescribable. It is only to be compared to that which reigned in Szegedin last year at the time of the floods. The inhabitants of that city were as little prepared for such an event as people in London or Paris, and yet the havoc has been almost as disastrous as that of many similar convulsions in South America. Agram is a town of 20,000 persons, nearly 300 miles south of Vienna, and 100 miles inland from Trieste.

The Ban or Governor of Croatia, Count Pejacsevics, at once appeared on the spot and went through the town trying to calm the excited population, and taking the necessary measures to secure safety, where this was possible, and to establish order. The Government engineers were placed at the disposal of the town authorities, and masons and workmen were brought to remove the buildings that were threatening to fall and to support those which could still be saved. Other shocks of earthquake, accompanied by a tremendous thunderstorm, took place last week, on the night of Friday, and on Saturday night and Sunday last.

Nearly half the population of Agram had fled from the city in panic. But the actual loss of life was less than a score of persons. Among the minor inconveniences consequent upon the disaster, the total suspension of lighting by gas was severely felt. The inhabitants were deprived not only of light by night, but of fire by day. The chimneys of most dwelling-houses had fallen down; and, though the cold was very severe, the citizens could not venture to light their fires as usual.

The damage to the Cathedral is so great that the tower at least will have to be pulled down and rebuilt from its foundations; but it is feared that the nave is also irremediably ruined. The Agram Cathedral is one of the oldest and most interesting ecclesiastical structures in the Austrian Empire. It was consecrated so long ago as 1217. One of its most valuable art treasures, a Crucifixion, had been sent to Vienna for the purpose of restoration. The loss and damage in works of art and antiquities in the city is very great.

A wonderful natural phenomenon was observed at Resnick, about seven miles from Agram. There a number of fountains of hot water and mud burst out from the earth. These geysers, which resembled the well-known hot springs in Iceland, were, however, only temporary. It was also noticed that all the rivers and streams within a certain distance round Agram suddenly rose more than a yard above their previous and usual level.

Our Illustrations are supplied by the photographs of Messrs. Krajek and Fikert, of Agram, and Sketches taken on the spot by Mr. Wallsee.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Abbey, Alfred James; Perpetual Curate of Marazion Chapel, Cornwall.
Adams, R.; Assistant-Chaplain at St. Bartholomew's Hospital.
Aitkens, Albert; Chaplain, Bath United Hospital.
Atkinson, Arthur; Honorary Canon of Chester Cathedral.
Bacon, James Henry; Rector of Great Gonerby.
Baldwin, Octavius de Leyland; Chaplain of the Chorley Union Workhouse.
Burnside, Henderson; Curate-in-Charge, St. Saviour's, Forest-gate, London.
Carr, William Henry; Vicar of Kimberworth.
Chapman, George; Minister of the District of the Annunciation, Brighton.
Chase, Charles Henry; Vicar of Bishop's Lydeard.
Chatto, J. T. C.; Vicar of Stourton Caundle, Dorset.
Dodd, Henry Russell; Honorary Canon of Chester Cathedral.
Estridge, Loraine; Vicar of Lodsworth, Sussex.
Fertel, William Joseph; Vicar of Willoughby-with-Wysall.
Fleming, Sydney Hall; Rector of East Chinnock.
Forbes, Arthur Fraser; Vicar of Matfen, Northumberland.
Foster, C. H.; Curate of Bonne Bay, Newfoundland.
Furley, E. M.; Perpetual Curate of St. Matthew's, Guernsey.
Garrett, William Whitehall; Vicar of Cramlinton, Northumberland.
Girling, John Colk; Rector of Cottishall, Norfolk.
Gretton, Henry; Minister of the District of All Saints', Crowborough.
Grigson, Edward; Perpetual Curate of Rosliston.
Hall, Webster; Rector of Dalby.
Hanbury, John; Curate of West Malvern.
Hinde, C. L. M.; Vicar of Flockton-cum-Wenby Grange.
Hines, Roger; Vicar of Shepreth.
Hulme, James; Perpetual Curate of New District of Woodside.
Hunt, H. G. Bonavia; Chaplain of Trinity College, London.
Jenkins, John; Vicar of Capel Curig.
Joy, Frederick Walker; Curate of Crakehall.
Kelly, William Frederick; Vicar of Lacey Green.
Loyd, Lewis Haig; Vicar of St. Lawrence, Northampton.
Mason, John Williams; Rector of Meldon, Northumberland.
Morgan, John; Rector of Trefdraeth.
Moxon, George Henry; Chaplain of the Guild Chapel, Stratford-on-Avon.
Osborne, Henry Trimmer; Vicar of Riseley.
Paine, Jesse; Perpetual Curate of Rowton.
Payne, C. L.; Chaplain at St. Pierre, Miquelon, Newfoundland.
Pennington, P.; Vicar of Bolton, Westmorland.
Phillips, John William Heigham; Rector of Little Whelnetham.
Piggott, Thomas; Minister of St. Stephen, Upper Holloway.
Pryce, John; Vicar of Bangor, Carnarvonshire.
Pudsey, Charles Douglas; Perpetual Curate of Newton-on-Rawcliffe.
Riddle, A. E.; Perpetual Curate of Rydal, Westmorland.
Riley, Henry F.; Curate of St. James's, Hereford.
Roberts, Edward Dale; Minister of the New Church of St. Paul, Lozells.
Robins, George Augustus; Rector of Eccleston.
Ruxton, Augustus Frederick Dashwood; Curate of Well.
Sanderson, J. S.; Missionary at Random, Newfoundland.
Saxby, G. F.; Curate-in-Charge of Felton and Long Framlington.
Smith, C. E.; Curate of Harbour Grace, Newfoundland.
Smith, Edward Snowden; Rector of St. Mary's, Wavertree.
Spencer, Walter; Vicar of Sapiston.
Temple, J. W.; S.P.G. Missionary, White Bay, Newfoundland.
Tew, E. L. H.; Provincial Grand Chaplain of the Freemasons of North and East Yorkshire.
Upperton, Charles Stuart; Honorary Canon of Chester.
Wade, Frederick; Rector of Tatenhill.
Walker, A. M.; Rector of St. Stephen's, near San Fernando, Trinidad, W.I.
Walker, Augustine Harley; Perpetual Curate of Kingskerswell.
Walker, John; Rector of Whalton.
Whiteley, Charles Edward; Chaplain at Madras.
Wilkie, David; Assistant-Chaplain, Rue d'Aguesseau, Paris.
Willson, E. N.; Vicar of St. Paul's, Southwark.
Wilson, Robert Wetherell; Perpetual Curate of Shotley, Northumberland.
Woolmer, C. E. Shirley, Vicar of Deal; Vicar of Ramsgate.
Young, William Frederick, Curate of Edlington.—Guardian.

The Revisers of the authorised version of the New Testament completed their labours on the 11th inst., having sat upwards of four hundred days.

The Church of St. Stephen, Edge-hill, Liverpool, is being removed from one side of the street to another for a railway improvement. It was built from designs by Sir G. Scott.

A diocesan conference has been held in the Isle of Man, under the presidency of the Bishop, who, after explaining the Burials Act, warmly advocated the erection of a cathedral, towards forwarding which object a committee was formed.

The Bishop of Lichfield says that £50,000 has been subscribed, out of the £74,000 required, for the establishment of the new Southwell bishopric, and he hopes that at the end of next year all will be collected.

A meeting of those interested in the maintenance of Whitechapel church was held on the 11th inst., when it was reported that Mr. Coope, M.P., was prepared to undertake the greater part of the responsibility which would be incurred in rebuilding the church.

The Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's Cathedral have started a movement for obtaining a large bell. A bell of twelve tons weight would cost about £2500; of this sum the Dean and Chapter have already collected half, and they ask for public subscriptions to complete the amount.

The Rev. Carr John Glyn, who for fifty years past has filled the office of Vicar of Witchampton and Stanbridge, Dorset, has been presented with a handsome silver salver and tea-kettle, of the value of £150, and also with a purse containing £175, the latter to be forwarded by him to the British and Foreign Bible Society, of which he has long been an active member.

A painted window, the gift of the Freemasons of the neighbourhood, has been inserted in All Saints', Llanelly, in memory of the Rev. Arthur H. P. Trewman, late curate of the church, who died in 1876.—Through the munificence of Mr. James Gray, beautiful stained glass has been put into the fine east window at East Garston, Berks. The work was intrusted to Messrs. Lavers, Barraud, and Westlake.

On the 2nd inst. the Bishop of St. David consecrated the new church of Llangwyryxon, a small town upon the hills nine miles from Aberystwith. The present Vicar, the Rev. Morgan Evans, has worked so efficiently in his parish that a larger church has become necessary to accommodate the parishioners. Mr. Loxdale, of Castle Hill, has given liberally, in addition to his gift of the site, and permission to raise building stone from his lands; yet, though the Vicar is promised a grant from the Incorporated Church Building Society, and he himself has given most generously to the funds, there remains a heavy sum for which he is responsible.

The parish church of East Barnet has recently been much improved by the addition of a new chancel. The oldest part of the building dates from 1100 A.D.; it was originally a small structure of Norman architecture, which has been added to at different times. The new chancel, from designs by Mr. Rowland Barker, has been built by Mr. H. Francis Church, a chief clerk in Chancery, and churchwarden of the parish, in memory of his wife. A handsome east window, the tracery of which is copied from the Lady Chapel of St. Albans Abbey, is the gift of Mr. Frederick S. Parker, of the Grange, East Barnet, the parish churchwarden.

The Bishop of Salisbury on the 9th inst. consecrated the sumptuous church of St. Mary-the-Virgin, which has been built at South Tedworth by Sir John Kelk. The designs were made by Mr. Johnson; but, that gentleman dying before the work was begun, they have been carried on by Mr. Gordon, son of the Hon. and Rev. Canon Gordon, of Salisbury. The church, which has cost £12,000, is in the Early English style, and will accommodate 160 worshippers. The reredos, which represents the Via Dolorosa, has been beautifully carved by Messrs. Farmer and Brindley. The south transept is screened off, and is treated as the Kelk chapel.

Lord Penzance gave judgment last Saturday at the House of Lords in the cases of the Rev. W. Enraght, of Bordesley, and the Rev. S. F. Green, of Miles Platting. The cases were similar to that of Mr. Dale, and in each instance Lord Penzance pronounced the defendant in contempt, and directed notice to that effect to be given to the Court of Chancery.—Mr. Dale's sympathisers met in large numbers on the 18th inst. in St. James's Hall, the platform being occupied by delegates from one hundred and five district unions and local branches of the English Union. Letters were read in support of the attitude maintained by Mr. Dale from Dr. Pusey and Canon Liddon.

The Extra Supplement.

ALBANIAN SKETCHES: MONTENEGRIN HOSTAGES OF WAR.

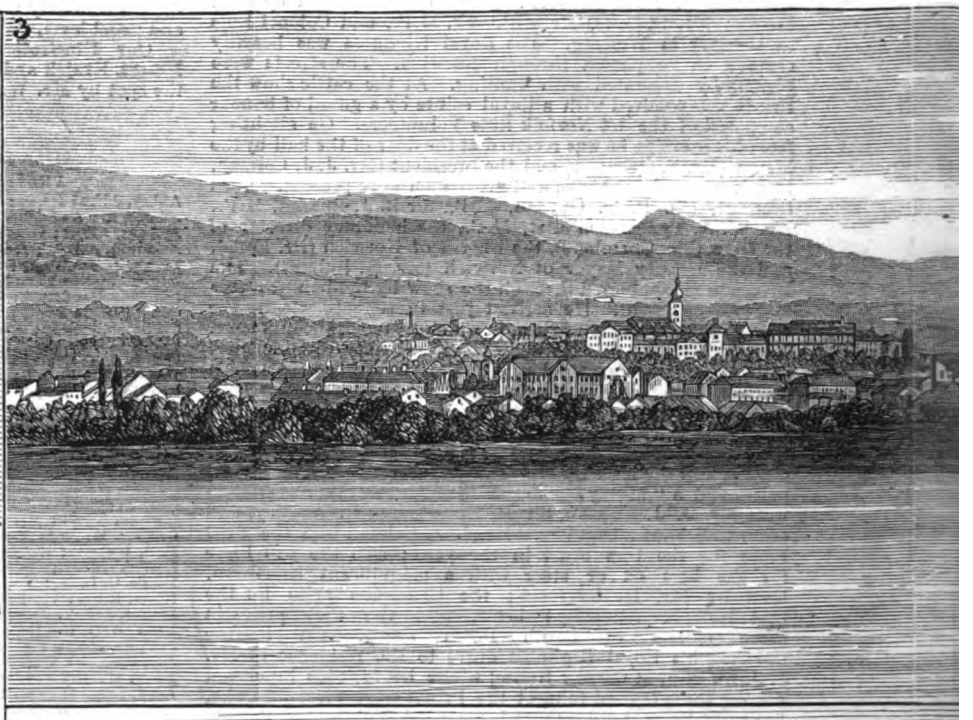
Until within very recent times, it was the invariable practice of both the Arnauts and Montenegrins to decapitate all enemies, conquered either in battle or raid, and to spare only those who surrendered before the conflict, the property which they took from an adversary being always looked upon as their own, and as a reward for courage. M. Broniewski has left a graphic account of the ferocious appearance of a Montenegrin warrior of some fifty years since. "It was a terrible spectacle," he says, "to see the Montenegrins rushing forwards, with the heads of slaughtered enemies suspended from their necks and shoulders, and uttering savage yells." Ten years later it was no uncommon sight to see the warriors of Tzernagora enter Cettinje, each man bearing in triumph the heads of the Turks he had vanquished; or to behold the Vladika, in his dual capacity of Prince and Bishop, surrounded by all the Senate, call out these conquerors one by one, and, embracing each, hang round his neck a silver medal in acknowledgment and reward for the sanguinary tokens he brought. Sir Gardner Wilkinson mentions a conversation he had with this Vladika respecting the barbarous custom adopted by his people and the Turks, of cutting off the heads of their enemies and exposing them on stakes as trophies of victory and revenge. But although the Vladika appeared to be fully alive to the evil results of this practice and desirous of its discontinuance, he added, "It is impossible for us to be the first to abandon it, or to propose that it should be abolished; for the Turks would inevitably attribute our humane intentions to fear, and, in their usual way, requite us with increased vexations. Our making any propositions of the kind would almost be tantamount to an invitation to invade our territory; and I must continue to regret what I cannot venture for own security to discontinue." Happily, to-day, the humanising influences of outer civilisation have penetrated even to the rocky fastnesses of the Albanian borders; and, although raids and forays and wars are almost as endless now as they were in the Vladika's reign, the sanguinary trophies no longer disfigure the tower at Cettinje or grimly ornament the stakes around the Pashalic of Scutari. Indeed, the value which the Albanians now set upon the lives of their Montenegrin prisoners is infinitely higher than they ever got for their heads, and many an incursion is made by the Clementi Arnauts into the Black Mountain, solely to carry off captives. Our Illustration shows a party of Arnaut mountaineers returning from such an expedition. "The moon is up and yet it is not night," as the swift, high-prowed Londra moves across the Lake of Scutari from the Montenegrin frontier towards the Clementi highlands, rising in dun and purple masses from the burnished waters of the eastern shore. The boat is full of armed men returning from a successful foray "over the border." The clansmen stand to their oars and chant to the rhythm of each stroke the weird war-song of their tribe, whilst the chief mounts guard over the dejected group of Montenegrin male and female Hostages of War.

ATHOL MAYHEW.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

The annual prize distribution and regimental ball of the 10th (late 19th) Middlesex was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on the 18th inst. Colonel Oxley, referring to the state of the regiment, mentioned that the battalion was now 1000 strong, the efficients for this year being 895, and of the 105 non-efficients forty are recruits, most of whom joined in October last. Application had been made to the War Office to increase the strength to twelve companies. The regiment is now wholly clothed in scarlet, and is to be congratulated in having for its honorary Colonel that distinguished soldier General Sir Daniel Lysons. The detachment sent to Aldershott last summer fully sustained the credit of the regiment, and he (Colonel Oxley) hopes to be able to take the whole battalion there next summer. Mrs. Oxley then distributed the prizes. The hall was afterwards cleared for the ball.

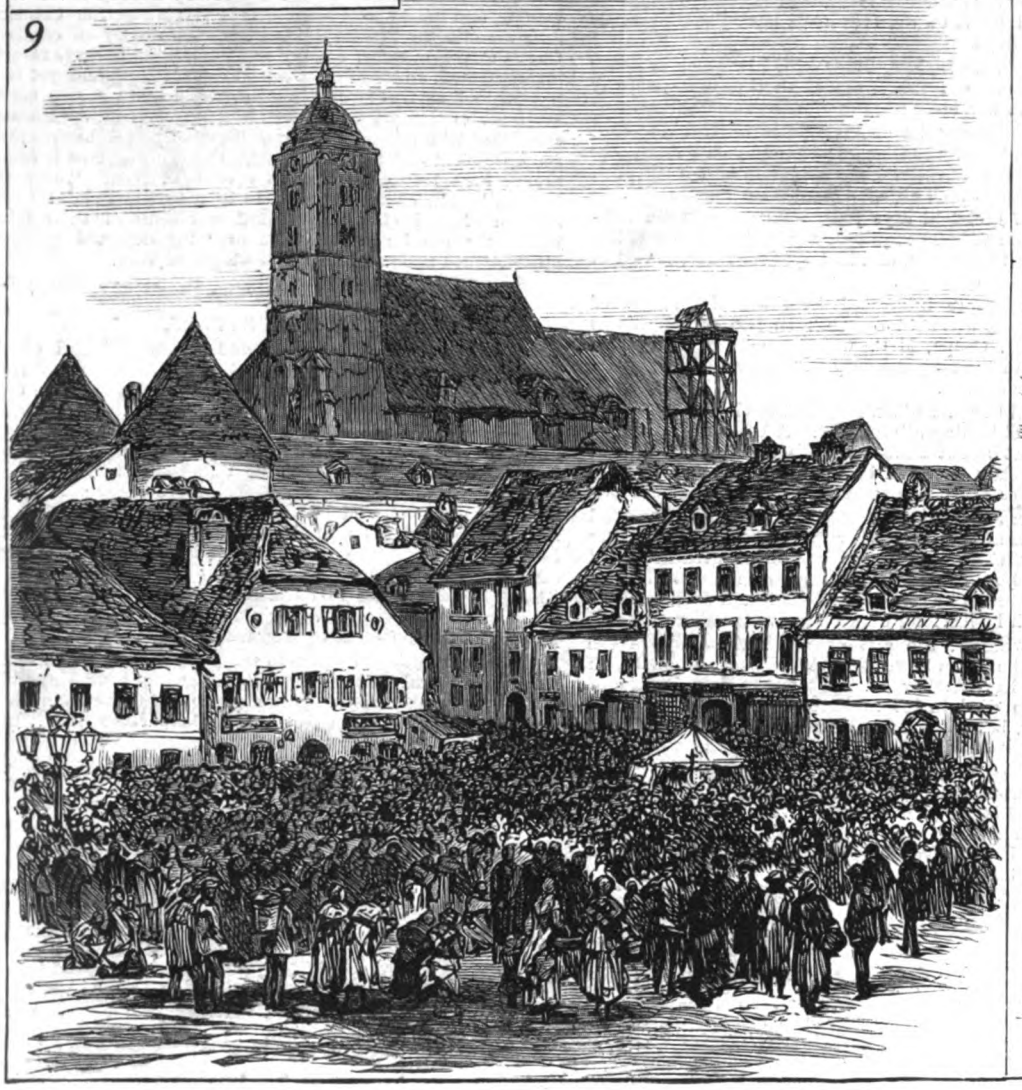
The distribution of prizes to the London Rifle Brigade took place last Saturday at the Crystal Palace, the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs, as usual, attending in state to do honour to the ceremony. The Lady Mayoress, on account of a domestic affliction, was unable to be present; but her place was kindly assumed at a moment's notice by Lady Waldegrave. The prize-list for the year showed an aggregate of 176 marksmen, the gold medal as the best shot being taken by Private Fleet of the O company, whilst the non-commissioned officers of the K company were awarded the distinguishing badges of cross rifles and crown as the best shooting company.

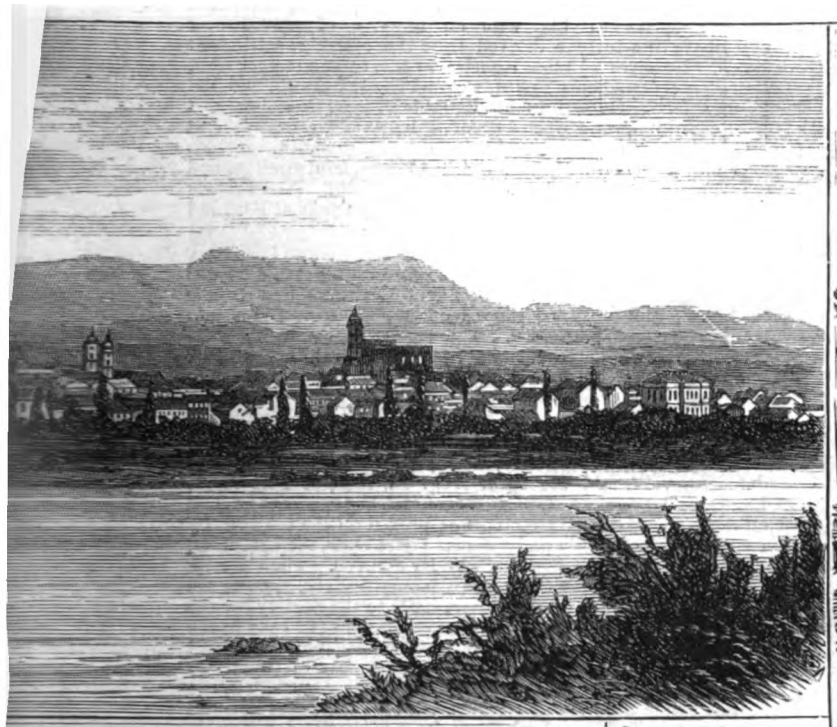


Lieutenant-General Willis, C.B., commanding the northern district, distributed the prizes to the members of the 5th L.R.V. (Liverpool Rifle Brigade) at the Philharmonic Hall on Friday evening last. The corps was drawn up in the building under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Tilney, and received the General with a salute. There was a large number of spectators present to view the interesting proceedings. Lieutenant-General Willis addressed the men at some length. He stated that there are over 200,000 enrolled in the United Kingdom, of whom 95 per cent are efficient.

On Tuesday afternoon the annual contest for the championship of the Queen's (Westminster) was brought to a close at the Government Rifle Ranges, Wormwood-scrubs, and resulted in a fine struggle for the much-coveted honour among several of the best shots of the regiment. Colour-Sergeant Brooking, one of this year's Queen's Sixty, won the badge, having made the best aggregate in all the contests.

Digitized by Google



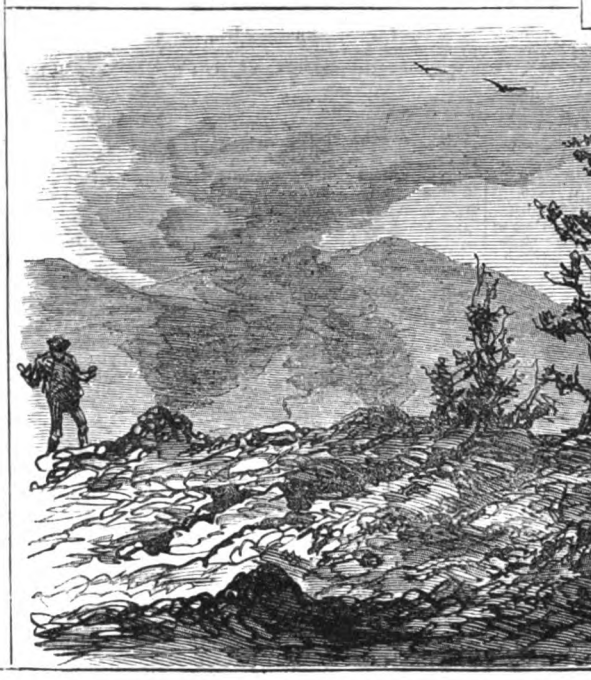


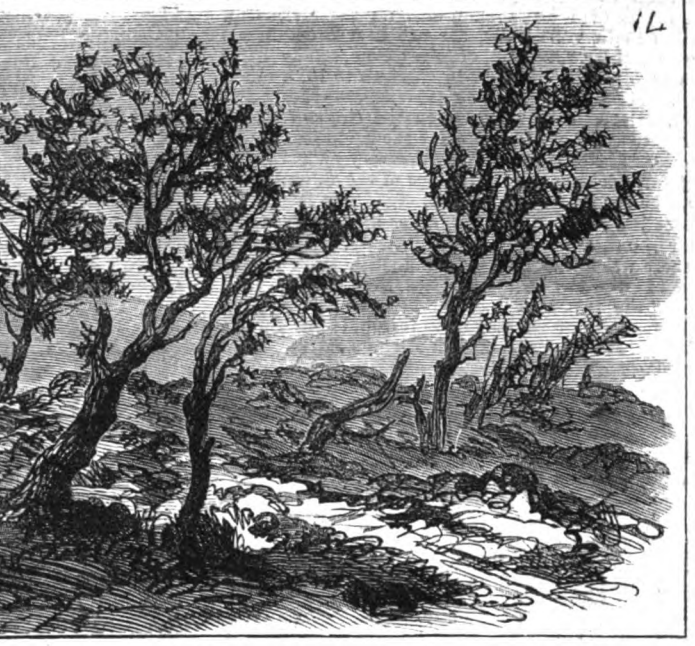
1. Tomb in Cathedral. 2. Franciscan Church, damaged. 3. Agram, before the earthquake. 4. Interior of Cathedral, ceiling fallen. 5. Cathedral Tower. 6. Commercial Bank of Croatia. 7. Clergy Resi

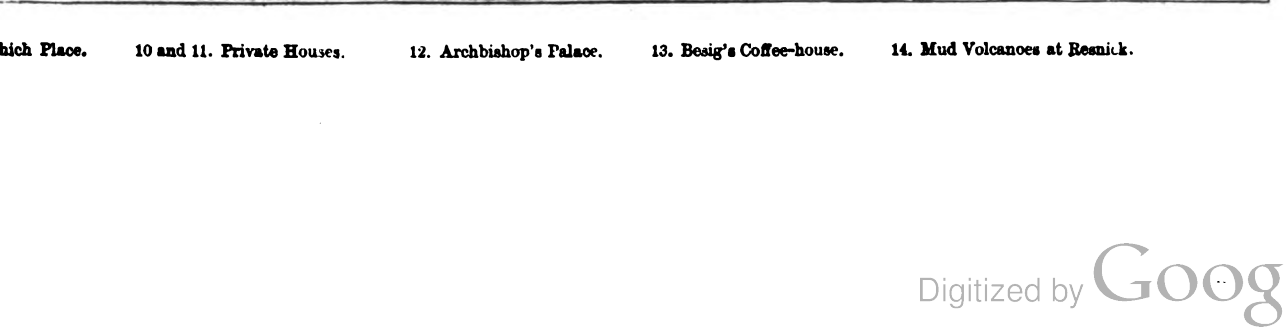
EFFECTS OF THE EARTHQUAKES AT A

SEE PRECEDI

Digitized by Google







ace. 8. St. Catherine's Church. 9. Divine Worship in the Jellachich Place. 10 and 11. Private Houses. 12. Archbishop's Palace. 13. Besig's Coffee-house. 14. Mud Volcanoes at Resnick.

RAM, THE CAPITAL OF CROATIA.

PAGE.

Digitized by Google

OBITUARY.

FIELD MARSHAL SIR CHARLES YORKE.

Field Marshal Sir Charles Yorke, G.C.B., Constable of the Tower of London, Colonel s cond battalion Rifle Brigade, and Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the Tower Hamlets, died on the 20th inst. He was born in 1790, the son of Colonel Yorke, Lieutenant of the Tower, by Juliana, his wife, daughter of Mr. John Dodd, of Swallowfield, Berks. He entered the Army in 1807, and attained the rank of Field Marshal in 1877. He served in the Peninsula with the 52nd Regiment, being present at the Battles of Vimiera, Fuentes d'Onor, Salamanca, Vittoria, Pyrenees, Nivelle, Nive, and Orthes, and at the sieges of Ciudad Rodrigo and Badajoz; at Nivelle, Orthes, and Badajoz he was wounded, and received the war medal and ten clasps; he subsequently, still in the army of his old commander, shared in the crowning victory of Waterloo. We may add that he was Assistant-Quartermaster-General at Cork in 1842 and in the North of England 1842 to 1851, and Military Secretary to the Commander-in-Chief from 1854 to 1860. Previously to his transfer to the Rifle Brigade, he had the Colonelcy of the 33rd Regiment. The portrait of Sir C. Yorke was given in our Number of June 16, 1877.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Sir Alexander Cockburn, Bart., Lord Chief Justice of England, on the 20th inst. A portrait and a memoir of Sir A. Cockburn are given in this Number.

The Rev. John Power, D.D., Master of Pembroke College, J.P. He was formerly Proctor of the University of Cambridge, and was three times elected Vice-Chancellor.

Colonel Charles Darby, late of the 86th Regiment, at Leamington, in his fifty-ninth year. He entered the 2nd Regiment in 1839, and served in India in 1845, and in 1857 and 1858. He attained the rank of Colonel, 1870.

Colonel Peard, who was well known twenty years ago as "Garibaldi's Englishman," on the 21st inst., at his residence, Trenythoon, near Fowey, Cornwall. Colonel Peard shared the adventures of the Italian Liberator during several of his arduous campaigns, especially that of 1860, when he was warmly thanked by Garibaldi for his services.

Lady Janet Walrond, sister of the late Earl of Rosslyn, and widow of Bethell Walrond, M.P. (Marquis de Vallado), of Dulford House, Devon, at Frankfort-on-the-Maine, on the 6th inst., in her eightieth year. She became a widow in 1876, having one son, Henry Walrond, now of Dulford House, Marquis de Vallado, and one daughter, Harriet.

Dr. Alfred Hudson, one of Her Majesty's Physicians in Ordinary for Ireland, a very eminent and esteemed physician of Dublin, on the 21st inst. He practised orginally in Navan, and on removing to Dublin soon took a leading position, and became, after the death of Sir Dominic Corrigan, the first consulting physician there. He was at one time President of the King and Queen's College of Physicians in Ireland.

Mr. Robert Lingen Burton, of Longner Hall, Shropshire, J.P. and D.L., on the 17th inst., aged forty-four. He was eldest son of the late Mr. Robert Burton, of Longner Hall, by Catherine, his second wife, eldest daughter of the Rev. Herbert Oakeley, of Oakeley, and represented in the male line the very ancient family of Lingen, of Radbrook, county Gloucester, and Sutton Court, county Hereford. His greatgrandfather, Robert Lingen, on succeeding to Longner and the other estates of his maternal ancestors, assumed the surname of Burton.

Major Charles Hall, of Weston Colville, Cambridgeshire, D.L., formerly 1st Life Guards, on the 15th inst., at 17, Lowndes-square. He was born in 1802, the son of Mr. John Hall, D.L., of Weston Colville, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Mr. Carter, and was brother to the late General John Hall, whom he succeeded in 1872. He married, 1832, Anne Towry, daughter of Mr. George Towry West, of Twickenham, Middlesex. His sister's son, Mr. William Henry Hall (formerly Bullock), of Sixmile Bottom, county Cambridge, succeeds Major Hall.

CATTLE SHOWS.

The thirty-second annual exhibition of fat cattle, sheep, pigs, corn, roots, poultry, and implements of husbandry, &c., at Bingley Hall, Birmingham, will be opened to-day (Saturday). The sum of £2700 will be awarded in prizes in the various departments. The cattle, though not quite so numerous as last year, in consequence of the classes for aged oxen being omitted, will, in point of merit, fully make up for the deficiency in numbers. Sheep are a fair show, and pigs are an increase upon last year. The entry of roots is the largest ever made. The poultry and pigeons entered number to 3062 pens. The Prince of Wales has entered cattle and sheep.

The Hull and East Riding Christmas Fat Stock Show was opened at Hull last Saturday. Although the entries were not quite so numerous as on the last occasion, the quality of the exhibits was better than in any previous year. The prizes were very substantial. The Queen was a first-prize taker for pigs, and the Prince of Wales took a second prize for sheep. The Corporation Plate, value £200, for the best beast in the show, was won by Mr. J. Reid, of Greystone. The same animal took a £100 prize as the best in classes 5 to 10, a silver cup value £10, and the first prize in a sweepstakes class. Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P., took first prize in the class of three-year-old shorthorns, and a £100 cup for the best beast in the first four classes. Lord Walsingham was very successful in sheep, taking for one pen two silver cups of the value of ten guineas each, and the first prize in class.

Lord Tredegar's Agricultural Show was held at Newport, Monmouthshire, on Tuesday and Wednesday. In every department there was a marked improvement, both in regard to entries and likewise as to the quality of the animals. The prize offered for the best male horned beast in the yard was won by Mr. Rogers' Hereford bull Grateful, and that for the best female by Mr. Stratton's shorthorn Mirthful.

The supply of live stock and fresh meat from the United States and Canada landed at Liverpool last week was an increase of both cattle and fresh meat, and a large decrease in sheep; the totals being:—1702 cattle, 470 sheep, 12,361 quarters of beef, 963 carcases of mutton, and 592 pigs.

The opening meeting of the new session of the British Archæological Association was held last week at their rooms, in Sackville-street. The Rev. S. M. Mayhew presided; and after Mr. Lotus Brock, F.S.A., had read a short communication on the recent discovery of Roman remains at Winchester, illustrated by a coloured drawing of some of them, some interesting exhibitions were made.

With reference to our Illustration of the fire at Christiansand, in Norway, on the 18th ult., we are glad to learn from Mr. D. M. Crichton-Somerville, of Kingstown, who has written to us, that the destruction of houses and property in that town was not so great as was reported. The Cathedral, indeed, was destroyed, but only about twenty other houses, which were built of wood. The damage is estimated at £225,000, and that is covered by insurance.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and bear the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

HEMPSTEADIAN.—All the leading variations of the solution of a problem should be stated. Your proposed solution of No. 1917 (1. B to Q 7th) will not answer.

CAPTAIN T (Warwick-st.).—The diagram, we regret to say, is unintelligible; but in any case, or at any time, we are not likely to require problems "for next week's issue."

J B (Bretenil).—The author's solution of No. 1904 is 1. Q to Q Kt 4th, K to Q 4th; 2. Q to Q B 4th (ch), K moves; 3. Kt mates. It was announced at the date of publication, November, 1874, that the White Pawn at K B 4th in the diagram should be placed at K B 5th.

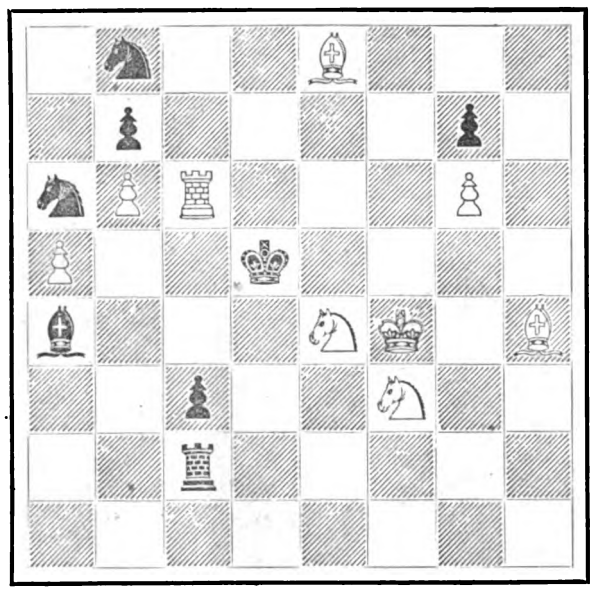
WALDENBURG (Bavaria).—The games referred to appeared in a Paris journal, and the general reader does not care for tales twice told, unless they are exceptionally good. The problem shall be examined and reported on shortly.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1915 received from B O A Boys, C B Carlon, B C M S, Franklin Institute, G C Baxter, and Ch Pompé.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1916 received from Waldenburg, L Chapelle (Malta), Maddalodi (Italy), J Bumstead, Frank E Purchas, G C Baxter, Emile Frau, Dr F St, John Player, W T R, H de Groot, M H Moorhouse, J W Waugh, and H Nemet (Heidelberg).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1917 received from H B, Waldenburg, James Rodney (Reigate), Alfred W Hale, Louis Falcon (Antwerp), Otto Fulder, Ben Nevis, Elsie, N Cator, H Blacklock, C Firmingham, Helen Lee, W Warren, R Jessop, D W Kell, East Marden, Shaftorth, Julia Short, A C, F R Jeffrey, C S Cox, E Elsbury, R Ingersoll, T Barrington, C Darragh, G Fosbrooke, F E Purchas, J W W, Worgie-pell, R H Brooks, G C Baxter, Emile Frau, Dr F St, F Reyner, T Greenbank, R Oswald, A Kentish Man, G L Mayne, H Langford, S Farrant, An Old Hand, B Dyke, H Brewster, C C E, D Templeton, L Sharswood, Ernest Sharswood, Glyn Grylls, E P Vulliamy, Norman Rumbelow, Alpha, Ch Pompé, R B Duff, W Biddle, M H Moorhouse, James Dobson, Lulu, A L F Littleboy, Frank Littleboy, Z Ingold, H Nemet (Heidelberg), E L G, E Louden, Smutch, C L Combe, and Cant.

CORRECT SOLUTION OF COUNT PONGRACZ'S PROBLEM received from Waldenburg, F E Purchas, E L G, F R Jeffrey, G Fosbrooke, G L Mayne, C Darragh, T Barrington, A Kentish Man, S Farrant, Elsie, L Sharswood, and Norman Rumbelow.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1916.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Q to B 8th	Any move
2. Mates accordingly.

PROBLEM No. 1919.

By H. E. KIDSON.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

It is with sincere regret that we record the death of Dr. W. J. Wilson, of Clay Cross, an old and valued contributor to this column. The deceased came to London, as we are informed, for the purpose of consulting an eminent physician on the state of his health, which, for some time past, has been a source of anxiety to his friends, and, during a temporary visit to Brighton, died there, very suddenly, on the 19th inst. Dr. Wilson was a player of considerable force, possessing a lively imagination as well as correct perception of position, and might have achieved the highest honours in the little world of chess had he chosen to prefer a small ambition to the duties of an arduous profession. His pleasant face and cheery greeting will be missed by London chessplayers as keenly as by the miners of Derbyshire, to the care of whose wants and ailments so many years of his useful life have been devoted. The game that follows, a fair specimen of his attacking style of play, was received from him a short time ago.

WHITE (Dr. W.)	BLACK (Serjeant N.)	WHITE (Dr. W.)	BLACK (Serjeant N.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	7. B takes P (ch)	K to K 2nd
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P	8. R takes P	Kt to K B 3rd
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th	9. R takes Kt	K takes R
4. B to B 4th	P to Kt 5th	10. B to K Kt 5th (ch)	K takes Q B
5. P to Q 4th	P takes Kt	11. Q to R 5th (ch)	K to B 5th
6. Castles	P takes P	12. Q to B 5th (ch)	K to K 6th
		13. Q to B 2nd (ch)	K takes P
		14. Kt to B 3rd.

The "Ghulim Kassam" attack in the "Muzio" is considered unsound, but Black's last move is not at all calculated to prove it so.

Mate.

In the following little Game, played very recently at Bath, Mr. E. THOROLD yields the odds of Pawn and two moves.

(Remove Black's K B P from the Board.)

WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Mr. T.)	WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Mr. T.)
1. P to K 4th / P to Q 4th	P to Q B 4th
This sacrifice of the second Pawn, if not quite sound in theory, is very often effective in practice, or was, at all events, in the hands of the late Mr. Devere.		A capital stroke, and quite in Mr. Thorold's dashing style.
2. Q to R 5th (ch)	P to Kt 3rd	15. B takes Q	R takes P (ch)
3. Q takes B P	Kt to Q B 3rd	16. K to R 3rd
4. P to Q 5th	P to K 4th	Apparently his best move; for if he plays the King to Kt square, then follows 16 R takes B, threatening 17. Kt to Kt 4th, and mate on the next move.
5. Q to B 4th	P to Q Kt 4th	16.	R takes B
6. Q takes P	Kt to Q 5th	17. R to K B sq	Kt to Kt 4th (ch)
7. Q to Q 3rd	P to Q R 4th	18. K to Kt 4th	Kt to K 5th
8. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q R 3rd	19. Kt to Q 2nd	P to K R 4th (ch)
9. Q to Q sq	B takes B	20. K to R 3rd	Kt to Kt 4th (ch)
Black has contrived, by the sacrifice of another Pawn, to drive the Queen home again, and to prevent White castling by the exchange of pieces.		21. K to R 4th	R takes P (ch)
		22. K takes Kt	K to Kt 2nd
10. K takes B	Kt to Kt 4th	Threatening mate in two moves. All this is very finely played by Black.
11. Kt to K 2nd	Kt to K B 3rd	23 Kt to K 4th	B to K 6th (ch)
12. B to Kt 5th	B to B 4th	24. Kt to B 4th	R to K B sq
13. P to K Kt 3rd	Castles	25. P to K Kt 4th	R takes Kt
14. K to Kt 2nd	Kt takes K P	26. P takes P
		Black mates in two moves.

The winter season has set in, and has brought in its train the usual matches between the several metropolitan chess clubs. On the 10th inst. the Alexandra and East London Clubs met at Poplar, six on each side, and the play resulted in a victory for the latter with a score of 5½ to 3½. The Athenæum and Greenwich Clubs, also represented by six members each, met on the 11th inst. at Mouflet's Hotel, Newgate-street, when Greenwich won by 5 to 3; and on the 13th a match was played between Kentish Town and Bermondsey, eight a side, which resulted in a drawn battle, each team having won four games. At Huyton, a suburb of Liverpool, a match between five members of the Working Men's Chess Club and a second class team selected from the Young Men's Christian Association was played on the 17th inst., and was won by the latter. We desire to thank the honorary secretaries of the associations mentioned, Messrs W. H. Coombes, Henry Banks, W. H. Barker, and J. C. Harvey, for reports of the proceedings of their respective clubs.

Mr. Blackburne's tour of the provincial chess clubs has been highly successful, not only from his point of view, but from the pleasure opposing him over the chess-board appears to have afforded our country cousins. In the first week of November he visited Luton and contested on several occasions a number of games, sans voir and simultaneously, without losing a solitary partie; and at Manchester on the 12th inst. he played twenty-two games simultaneously, losing one, drawing three, and winning all the others. The blindfold play of the following day against eight members of the Athenæum Club resulted in Mr. Blackburne winning four games, losing one, and drawing two; one, in which he had a superior position, being left unfinished.

The annual match between the chessplayers of Manchester and Liverpool will be played at the rooms of the latter, the Palatine Hotel, on the 27th inst.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Dec. 21, 1876) of Mr. Martin Tucker Smith, late partner in the firm of Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smiths, has been proved by the executors, his two eldest sons, Mr. Martin Ridley Smith and Mr. Francis Nicholas Smith. The personal estate was sworn under £350,000. After giving certain specific and pecuniary legacies, the testator leaves to his wife an annuity of £2000 over and above the income derived from the marriage settlement funds. He gives suitable legacies to his three younger sons, Mr. Francis Nicholas Smith, Colonel Gerard Smith, and Mr. Charles R. Smith, and to his daughters, Mrs. Gascoigne and Mrs. Newman, and various small legacies to friends and servants. His eldest son, Mr. Martin Ridley Smith, succeeds him in the firm of Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smiths, and takes his residuary estate. His second son, Mr. Francis Nicholas Smith, succeeds him in the country banks at Hull and Derby, in which he was a partner.

The will (dated March 20, 1879) of Mr. George Cochrane, late of Scarborough, Yorkshire, who died on the 9th ult., was proved on the 9th inst. by William Cochrane and Brodie Cochrane, the brothers, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £70,000. The testator gives to his wife, Mrs. Harriet Cochrane, his plate, jewellery, furniture, effects, horses, carriages, and £500, and for life the annual income to be derived from the investment of £30,000; to his daughters, £10,000 each, but part of this is not to be payable until the death of his wife; and the residue of his property to his sons.

The will (dated Feb. 18, 1879), with three codicils (two dated Aug. 24, and the other Aug. 26, 1880) of Miss Jessie Landseer, late of No. 6, Kensington Park-gardens, who died on Aug. 29 last at Folkestone, was proved on the 8th inst. by Arnold William White and Thomas Hyde Hills, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testatrix bequeaths £500 to the Church Missionary Society, £300 to the British and Foreign Bible Society, £200 to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, £100 each to the Royal Life-Boat Institution, John-street, Adelphi, the Royal Humane Society, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Drinking-Fountain and Trough Association, the British Home for Incurables, Clapham-rise, the Royal Hospital for Incurables, West Hill, Putney, the Home for Female Orphans, Grove-road, St. John's-wood, the Cripples' Home for Girls, Northumberland House, Marylebone-road, St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, the Hospital for Consumption, Brompton, the Middlesex Hospital, the Metropolitan Free Hospital, the Artists' Fund, the Artists' General Benevolent Institution, and the Society of Lady Artists, Great Marlborough-street; £50 each to the Home for Lost and Starving Dogs at Battersea, the Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond-street, the Blind School, Avenue-road, St. John's-wood, the Home Teaching Society for the Blind, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, the West London Hospital, Hammersmith, the Westminster Hospital, the London Fever Hospital, the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, the Clergy Provident Fund, the United Kingdom Beneficent Association, Berners-street, and the Royal Albert Orphan Asylum; and there are numerous legacies to relatives and friends, including the gift of "the Otter Chair," with monogram "E. L." carved at back, formerly the property of her late brother, Sir Edwin Landseer, to Charles Lutyens. All the residue of her real and personal estate she leaves to her sister, Mrs. Emma McKenzie.

The will (dated May 10, 1879) with a codicil (dated Jan. 16, 1880) of Mr. George Smith, late of Melmoth Lodge, Ryde, Isle of Wight, who died on Sept. 26 last at Coblentz, was proved on the 9th inst. by John Thomas Campbell, John Shaw, John Peake Knight, and Thomas Phillips, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator makes specific bequests of various stocks and shares to his wife and each of his children, and gives legacies to others. The residue of his property he leaves to his wife, Mrs. Hectorina Moncrieff Smith, his daughter, Mrs. Rose Emily Wilkinson Peacocke, and his sons, Ernest Tyler Smith and William Stanley Smith.

The will of Mr. Edmund Cundall, late of Black Swan-yard, Bermondsey-street, morocco and japan leather dresser and merchant, and of No. 7, St. John's-road, Brixton, who died on the 9th ult., was proved on the 8th inst. by Mrs. Louisa Cundall, the widow, and Thomas John Cundall, the brother, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator leaves to his wife an immediate legacy of £1000 absolutely; he also leaves to her all the residue of his real and personal estate, and he states that he relies on her, at her discretion, making due and proper provision for his children.

The will (dated April 22, 1880) of Mr. Henry Martin Blair, late of No. 11, Stanhope-place, Hyde Park, who died on the 16th ult., was proved on the 6th inst. by Arthur Kindersley Blair, the son, and Edward Tompson, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £20,000. The testator gives £300 to Miss Annie Macpherson for the benefit of the Home of Industry, Spitalfields; and there are bequests to relatives and others. The residue he gives to his said son.

The will and codicil (both dated July 26, 1880) of Mr. Frederick Herbert Hemming, late of No. 104, Gloucester-place, Portman-square, who died on the 9th ult., was proved on the 15th inst. by Henry Kimber, Nathaniel Geach Burch, and Harry Baird Hemming, the great-nephew, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £12,000. Among other legacies, the testator bequeaths to the trustees of the National Gallery, Trafalgar-square, the two portraits, painted by Sir Thomas Lawrence, of his late wife and himself.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

BENTLEY AND SON.
The Mystery in Palace Gardens. A Novel. By Mrs. J. H. Riddell. 3 vols.

CASSELL, PETTER AND GALPIN.
The Magazine of Art. Illustrated.
Familiar Friends. By Olive Patch. Illustrated.
Little Folks. A Magazine for the Young. New and Enlarged Series.

CHAPMAN AND HALL.
South America. By A. Galienga.

CHATTO AND WINDUS.
Songs and Poems. From 1819 to 1879. By J. R. Planché.

GRIFFITH AND FARRAN.
Our Boys' Little Library. Twelve Books.
Our Girls' Little Library. Twelve Books.

KENT AND CO.
The Works of Shakespeare. Edited from the best Texts. Twelve Volumes in Case.

MACMILLAN AND CO.
The Church of the Future. By the Archbishop of Canterbury.
A Christmas Child. A Sketch of a Boy-Life. By Mrs. Molesworth. Illustrated.

JOHN MURRAY.
Duty. By Samuel Smiles. With Illustrations.
The Gardens of the Sun; or, a Naturalists' Journal on the Mountains and in the Forests and Swamps of Borneo and the Sulu Archipelago. By F. W. Burbidge. With Illustrations.
Siberia in Europe: A Visit to the Valley of the Petchora, in North-East Russia, with descriptions of the Natural History, Migration of Birds, &c. By Henry Seebohm. With Map and Illustrations.

PICKERING AND CO.
Spare Minutes, or Resolved Meditations and Premeditated Resolutions. By Arthur Warwick.
A Compendious Ecclesiastical History. By the Rev. William Palmer. New Edition.
St. Augustine's Manual, or Little Book of the Contemplation of Christ.

SMITH, ELDER, AND CO.
Lyrics and Elegies. By Charles Newton Scott.

TINSLEY BROTHERS
Under St. Paul's. A Romance. By Richard Dowling. 3 vols.

Digitized by Google

BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

Crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students."

Extract from Preface:

"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simply than in text-books on Zoology; For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena; and I have been more careful to sketch in bold outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.

I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lasso-Throwers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Mailed Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect Suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies within their Coats.
XII. Intelligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "A Short History of Natural Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students," &c.

"Her methods of presenting certain facts and phenomena difficult to grasp are most original and striking, and admirably calculated to enable the reader to realise the truth. As to the interest of her story, we have tested it in a youthful subject, and she mentioned it in the same breath with 'Grimm's Fairy Tales.' We are sure any of the older children would welcome it as a Christmas present; but it deserves to take a permanent place in the literature of youth."—Times.

Second Edition, post 8vo, cloth, 4s. 6d.,

DOMESTIC ECONOMY AND HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE. Adapted for Home Education, and for Schoolmistresses and Pupil-Teachers. By ROBERT JAMES MANN, M.D., late Superintendent of Education at Natal.

"Mr. Mann's directions are practical and judicious, and frequently he says a good deal that is worth attention in a few words. The little volume is one in which most people who have, or are likely to have, anything to do with household cares, will find some hints worth noting."—Saturday Review.

Post 8vo, cloth, 3s. 6d.,

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE: Readings in Necessary Knowledge for Girls and Young Women. Edited by Rev. J. P. FAUNTHORPE, Principal of Whitelands Training College. Dedicated by permission to his Grace the Duke of Westminster, K.G.

CONTENTS:—Domestic Economy—Food and its Preparation—Clothing and its Materials—The Dwelling: its Warming, Cleaning, and Ventilation—Washing Materials and their Use—Rules for Health—The Management of the Sick Room—Cottage Income and Expenditure.

Fcap folio, each 7s. 6d.,

INSTRUCTIVE PICTURE-BOOKS: A Series of Volumes Illustrative of Natural History and of the Vegetable World, with Descriptive Letterpress.

No. I.—NATURAL HISTORY OF ANIMALS. By ADAM WHITE. With 24 folio Coloured Plates. Tenth Edition.
No. II.—LESSONS FROM THE VEGETABLE WORLD. By the Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." With 31 Double-page plates. Fifth Edition.
No. III.—GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION OF ANIMALS. 60 Folio Coloured Plates. Third Edition.
No. IV.—PICTURES of ANIMAL and VEGETABLE LIFE in ALL LANDS. Second Edition. Forty-eight folio Coloured Plates.
No. V.—PICTORIAL LESSONS on FORM, COMPARISON, and NUMBER, for Children under Seven Years of Age. Eighth Edition. Thirty-six oblong folio Coloured Illustrations.

"These volumes are among the most Instructive Picture-Books we have seen, and we know of none better calculated to excite and gratify the appetite of the young for the knowledge of nature."—Times.

Fcap folio, 7s. 6d.,

THE INSTRUCTIVE ATLAS OF MODERN GEOGRAPHY. Intended for the use of Young Pupils. Containing 17 Coloured Maps, each 17 inches by 14.

"This new atlas cannot fail to become a popular one. It is evidently designed with a view to making it not so much a work of reference as an aid to the teacher. The individual maps, of which there are seventeen, are beautifully bold in outline, are not crowded with a host of unnecessary names, and are so clear and distinct that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in deciphering any single name. All the maps are brought down to the present date. Western Europe and South Africa especially receiving careful attention."—Schoolmaster.

Second Edition, crown 8vo, with 77 Illustrations, cloth, 7s. 6d.,

A SHORT HISTORY OF NATURAL SCIENCE, and of the Progress of Discovery from the Time of the Greeks to the Present Day. For the Use of Schools and Young Persons. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairyland of Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students," &c.

"Guides to literature abound; guides to science, similar in purpose and character to Miss Buckley's 'History' are unknown. The writer's plan, therefore, is original, and the execution of the plan is altogether admirable. . . . She sees clearly what she describes and the interest felt by the author is imparted to the reader. Diagrams and illustrations of the letterpress add to the value of the compendium."—Pall Mall Gazette.

SIMPLE LESSONS. By Eminent Writers.

CONTENTS: Our Bodily Life—How and Why we Breathe—Food—Drink—Cookery—Plain Needlework—Clothing—Air and Ventilation—The Sicknesses that Spread—Weather—Astronomy—Birds—Flowers—Money.

18mo, cloth, 2s. 6d.

The Simple Lessons are also published separately, 3d. each, or 16s. per 100, assorted. The Set of 14, in card case, 3s.

"Couched in clear, straightforward language, these papers cannot fail to be understood by children; and, collected together in their present form, will be as useful for home teaching as for regular school instruction."—Graphic.

STUDIES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE. By JOHN DENNIS.

Editor of "English Sonnets: a Selection from 1547," &c. Crown 8vo, cloth, 7s. 6d.

CONTENTS:—Pope—Defoe—Prior—Steele—The Wartons—John Wesley—Southey—English Lyrical Poetry—English Rural Poetry—The English Sonnet.

"One of the best books upon poetry which we have had for a very long time."—Westminster Review.

"An excellent book. It has the charm—quite captivating in these days—of being entirely void of affectation, extravagance, or any 'trick of singularity;' and it displays sound judgment, both moral and æsthetic, and a thorough mastery of the subjects with which it deals."—Spectator.

With 32 full-page Illustrations, post 8vo, cloth, 4s.; a few copies, with the Illustrations hand-coloured, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 14s.,

BOTANY FOR CHILDREN. An Illustrated Elementary Text-Book for Junior Classes and Young Children. By the Rev. GEORGE HENSLOW, M.A., F.L.S., F.G.S., Author of "Floral Dissections."

"Just such an elementary text-book of botany as might be put into practical use in schools without the slightest doubt that children would take to it."—Science Gossip.

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Second Edition. Post 8vo, cloth, with Forty Illustrations and Maps, 1s.,

GEOGRAPHY FOR LITTLE CHILDREN. By ANTONIA ZIMMERN.

"In a very simple and interesting way attempts to show the use of a map and teach some of the elementary points of physical geography. Its numerous attractive and quite original illustrations are an important feature."—Nature.

"An admirable first book for young children. By maps and illustrations the configuration and physical geography of the world are taught in a very popular and attractive style. It will prove a suitable gift-book for little folk."

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Please direct all Letters and Orders for

PETER ROBINSON,

SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833.)
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

SILKS AND VELVETS.

Now on Sale. All Patterns free.
The entire Manufacturer's Stock, comprising
RICH BROCADED SILKS, SATINS, and VELVETS,
in every variety of colour for the fashionable combination Dresses. Per yard.

In all the new shades and mixture of OLD GOLD, &c., for Promenade Wear. In Delicate Tints, for Evening and Dinner Wear. In White, Ivory, and Cream, for Bridal Wear; also in Black.	3s. 6d. / 4s. 6d. / 5s. 6d. / 6s. 6d.

RICH COLOURED VELVET BROCADES.

In splendid variety of New Shades and Mixture, for making up with Silk, Satin, or other fabrics	5s. 11d. / 6s. 11d. / 7s. 6d.

BLACK VELVET BROCADES.

In very handsome designs for Dresses and Mantles, much under price	7s. 6d. to 21s. 0d.
400 Pieces Coloured Satin striped Velvets, in every Shade	3s. 9d.
Italian Silk Velvets in every Shade	4s. 11d., 6s. 9d. to 8s. 9d.
Black Lyons Silk Velvet	9s. 6d. to 21s. 0d.
Coloured Lyons Silk Velvet, in all New Shades	11s. 9d. to 16s. 9d.

PLUSHES AND SATINS.

The New Dress and Mantle Plush, in Black and all New Colours	7s. 6d. to 10s. 9d.
Lyons Dress Silks, in every shade of colour	2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., to 4s. 6d. / 5s. 11d.
Extra Double Warp
Rich Duchesse Satin, in Black and all the New Shades, 23 inches wide	5s. 3d.
Silk-faced Satins, in all Shades	2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d.

PETER ROBINSON,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET.
Patterns post-free.

WINTER DRESSES.

New Materials in New Colours, Cashmir d'Italie, Grain de Poure, Cachmere de la Reine, Angola Poule, &c. All pure wool, and dyed by the most eminent Paris dyers in Black and every new colour. Prices, the Full Dress, from	Each. 14s. 6d. to 25s. 0d.
Also, in Black and the same colours, several thousand pieces of Cashmere and Cashmere Merinos, very wide	per yard. 2s. 2d. to 3s. 6d.
Estamene, Witney, Devonshire and other All-Wool Serges, in Navy, Dark Brown, Prune, Bronze, Black, &c.	1s. 0d. to 2s. 9d.
Cashmere, Merino, and Cashmere, de Paris, in Rich Colourings, very soft and fine, 44 to 47 inches wide, per yard	2s. 6d., 2s. 9d. to 3s. 3d.
Also, Black	1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Rich Velvet-Velveteens, Black, White, and all the new colours in Plain, Striped, and Embossed	1s. 0d. to 4s. 9d.
Also the New Black, as advertised, very wide	2s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
The New Plush Velveteen, in Black and Colours, 27 in. wide	4s. 9d.

EVENING DRESS MATERIALS.

In Plain and Damassé Grenadines	Per yard. 1s. to 2s. 6d.
Tinsel Gauze in great Variety	6½d. to 1s. 9d.
Rich Japanese Silk in Plain and Damassé, at one price	1s. 11d.
The New Gros Grain Japanese, 22 inches wide	2s. 9d.
Light Shades in Merinos, Cashmere, &c.

Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the

"LOUIS." LOUIS VELVETEEN

In Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an insufficient recommendation.

It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition. Many ladies have adopted the

"LOUIS." LOUIS VELVETEEN,

in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."

Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, folding-marks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.

"LOUIS." WHOLESALE AGENTS,

who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—

J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.;
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

ULSTER CLOTHS, Sealskins, and other Materials for Ladies' Jackets, at very moderate prices, for ready money only.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO., Woollen Warehouse, 5, Holborn-circus, corner of Hatton-garden, London

WINTER DRESSES—THE BEST VALUE IN LONDON.—Vecuna Foule Serges, the Fashionable Material for the Season. Price 8½d. per yard. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

ARRASENE.
A New Material in Silk and Wool, for Artistic Embroidery.
Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks.
Can be procured of Berlin Wool Repositories.
Wholesale only, R. G. GEACH, 137, Cheapside.

"THE AMARANT VELVETEEN"
supersedes all others for durability and silk-like appearance.
Is not Spotted by RAIN, nor Injured by HEAT.
It is of PERFECT MANUFACTURE and PATENTED FINISH
Unfading in Colour, Unequalled in Value, Firm in Pile
To be had in all Colours and Prices.
Ask for it, and see that the word "AMARANT" is stamped GOLD on the FACE SELVAGES.
Patterns and Show Cards supplied to the Trade
RAWSON BROTHERS, Sole Agents,
2, Blue Boar-court, Friday-street, London, E.C.

THE LONDON GLOVE COMPANY'S GLOVES.

Ladies 2 Button Kid Gloves from	6s. 0d.	per half-dozen.
" 4 " "	8s. 6d.	"
" 6 " "	10s. 6d.	"
Gentlemen's Kid Gloves	6s. 0d.	"

Single Pairs Sold.
Detailed list of all Makes post-free.
THE LONDON GLOVE COMPANY, 45A, Cheapside, E.C.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Presentation Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Loose Cut Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

CHLORODYNE.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
COUGHS, ASTHMA,
COLDS, BRONCHITIS, &c.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

This wonderful remedy was discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne, and the word Chlorodyne coined by him expressly to designate it. There never has been a remedy so vastly beneficial to suffering humanity, and it is a subject of deep concern to the public that they should not be imposed upon by having imitations pressed upon them on account of cheapness and as being the same thing. Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a totally distinct thing from the spurious compounds called Chlorodyne, the use of which only ends in disappointment and failure.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the whole story of the defendant was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—See the "Times," July 13, 1864.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a liquid medicine which assuages pain of every kind, affords a calm and refreshing sleep without headache, and invigorates the nervous system when exhausted.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the GREAT SPECIFIC for CHOLERA.

DYSENTERY,
DIARRHŒA.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla to the effect that cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the only remedy of any service was Chlorodyne.—See "Lancet," Dec. 31, 1864.

The General Board of Health, London, reports that it acts as a charm. One dose generally sufficient.

Dr. Gibbon, Army Medical Staff Calcutta, states:—"Two doses completely cured me of diarrhœa."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE rapidly cuts short all attacks of

EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC,
PALPITATION, HYSTERIA.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the true palliative in

NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER,
TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.

From Dr. B. J. Boulton and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct sedative and anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

IMPORTANT CAUTION.

The immense sale of this remedy has given rise to many unscrupulous imitations.

N.B.—Every bottle of genuine Chlorodyne bears on the Government stamp the name of the inventor.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE.

Sold in Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.
J. T. DAVENPORT,
33, Great Russell-street, W.C., Sole Manufacturer.

HIS GRACE
THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND,

a most distinguished authority, when addressing the students of the Newcastle College of Medicine, particularly impressed the following upon their minds:—

"Be patient of NEW ideas and NEW doctrines, prove before you condemn, avail yourselves of NEW discoveries, and recollect it is not HOW, but WHETHER, you CURE your patients."

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
is a new application of a very old idea—viz., that of curing disease through the medium of the pores of the skin.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
is worn upon the pit of the stomach, its healing, purifying, and tonic properties being absorbed therein.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
acts most beneficially upon the liver. We quote from one of our correspondents, who has derived great benefit from the use of the pad:—"My liver now not only never troubles me, but appears to me to act as a medicener, by a spontaneous passing of superfluous bile."

We submit the following testimonial, and shall be pleased to forward many others, with full information, free by post:—

CAPT. H. C. COTTON writes to a friend as follows:—

"The Hall, Wem, Shropshire.

"I have been staying with a cousin of mine, who was in Norway this autumn, and came back very ill. He consulted all sorts of physicians, but without effect, when a friend of his said, 'Why don't you try this new treatment by absorption—the Holman Liver Pad?' At first he laughed at the idea; but, being unable to eat or sleep, he thought he might as well try anything likely to do him good. He sent for one of these Pads, and in a few days felt so much better that he could eat anything, and has been perfectly well ever since. He has also persuaded other people to try the Pad, and with the same success. I therefore send you the address of the Proprietor in London of the Holman Pad, and I strongly advise you to try this vegetable treatment, which will give you no trouble and requires no medicine."

Children's Pads, 7s. 6d.; regular size, 10s.; special size, 15s. For sale by all Chemists, or sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom on receipt of stamps or P.O. Order, payable to CHARLES CRISTADORO, Vere-street, Post-Office, W.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.,
10, Argyll-street, Regent-street, W
Paris Agency: Beral, 14, Rue de la Paix.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
For CONSTIPATION,
BILE,
HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

PEPTOMALT.
NUTRITIVE DIGESTIVE
An agreeable Combination of Pepsine with Malt Essence, invaluable in all cases of weak or impaired digestion, affording nourishment and digestive power; equally useful to children or adults. To be obtained through any respectable Chemist, or direct from the Manufacturer, T. S. JOHNSON, Pharmaceutical Chemist, Malvern. In Bottles, prices 1s. and 7s. 6d.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application.
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

SOLD only in tin-lined Packets by all Grocers. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
A choice prepared Cocoa, most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

GUARANTEED PURE.
FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
Pure Cocoa only, the superfluous oil extracted.
J. S. FRY and SONS.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.

The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE.
Product of a special refining process, it is Chocolate developed of its over richness and substance only, sugarless, and, when made, of the consistence of coffee. An entire meal. Chocolate. Sold only in packets labelled JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle-street, London.

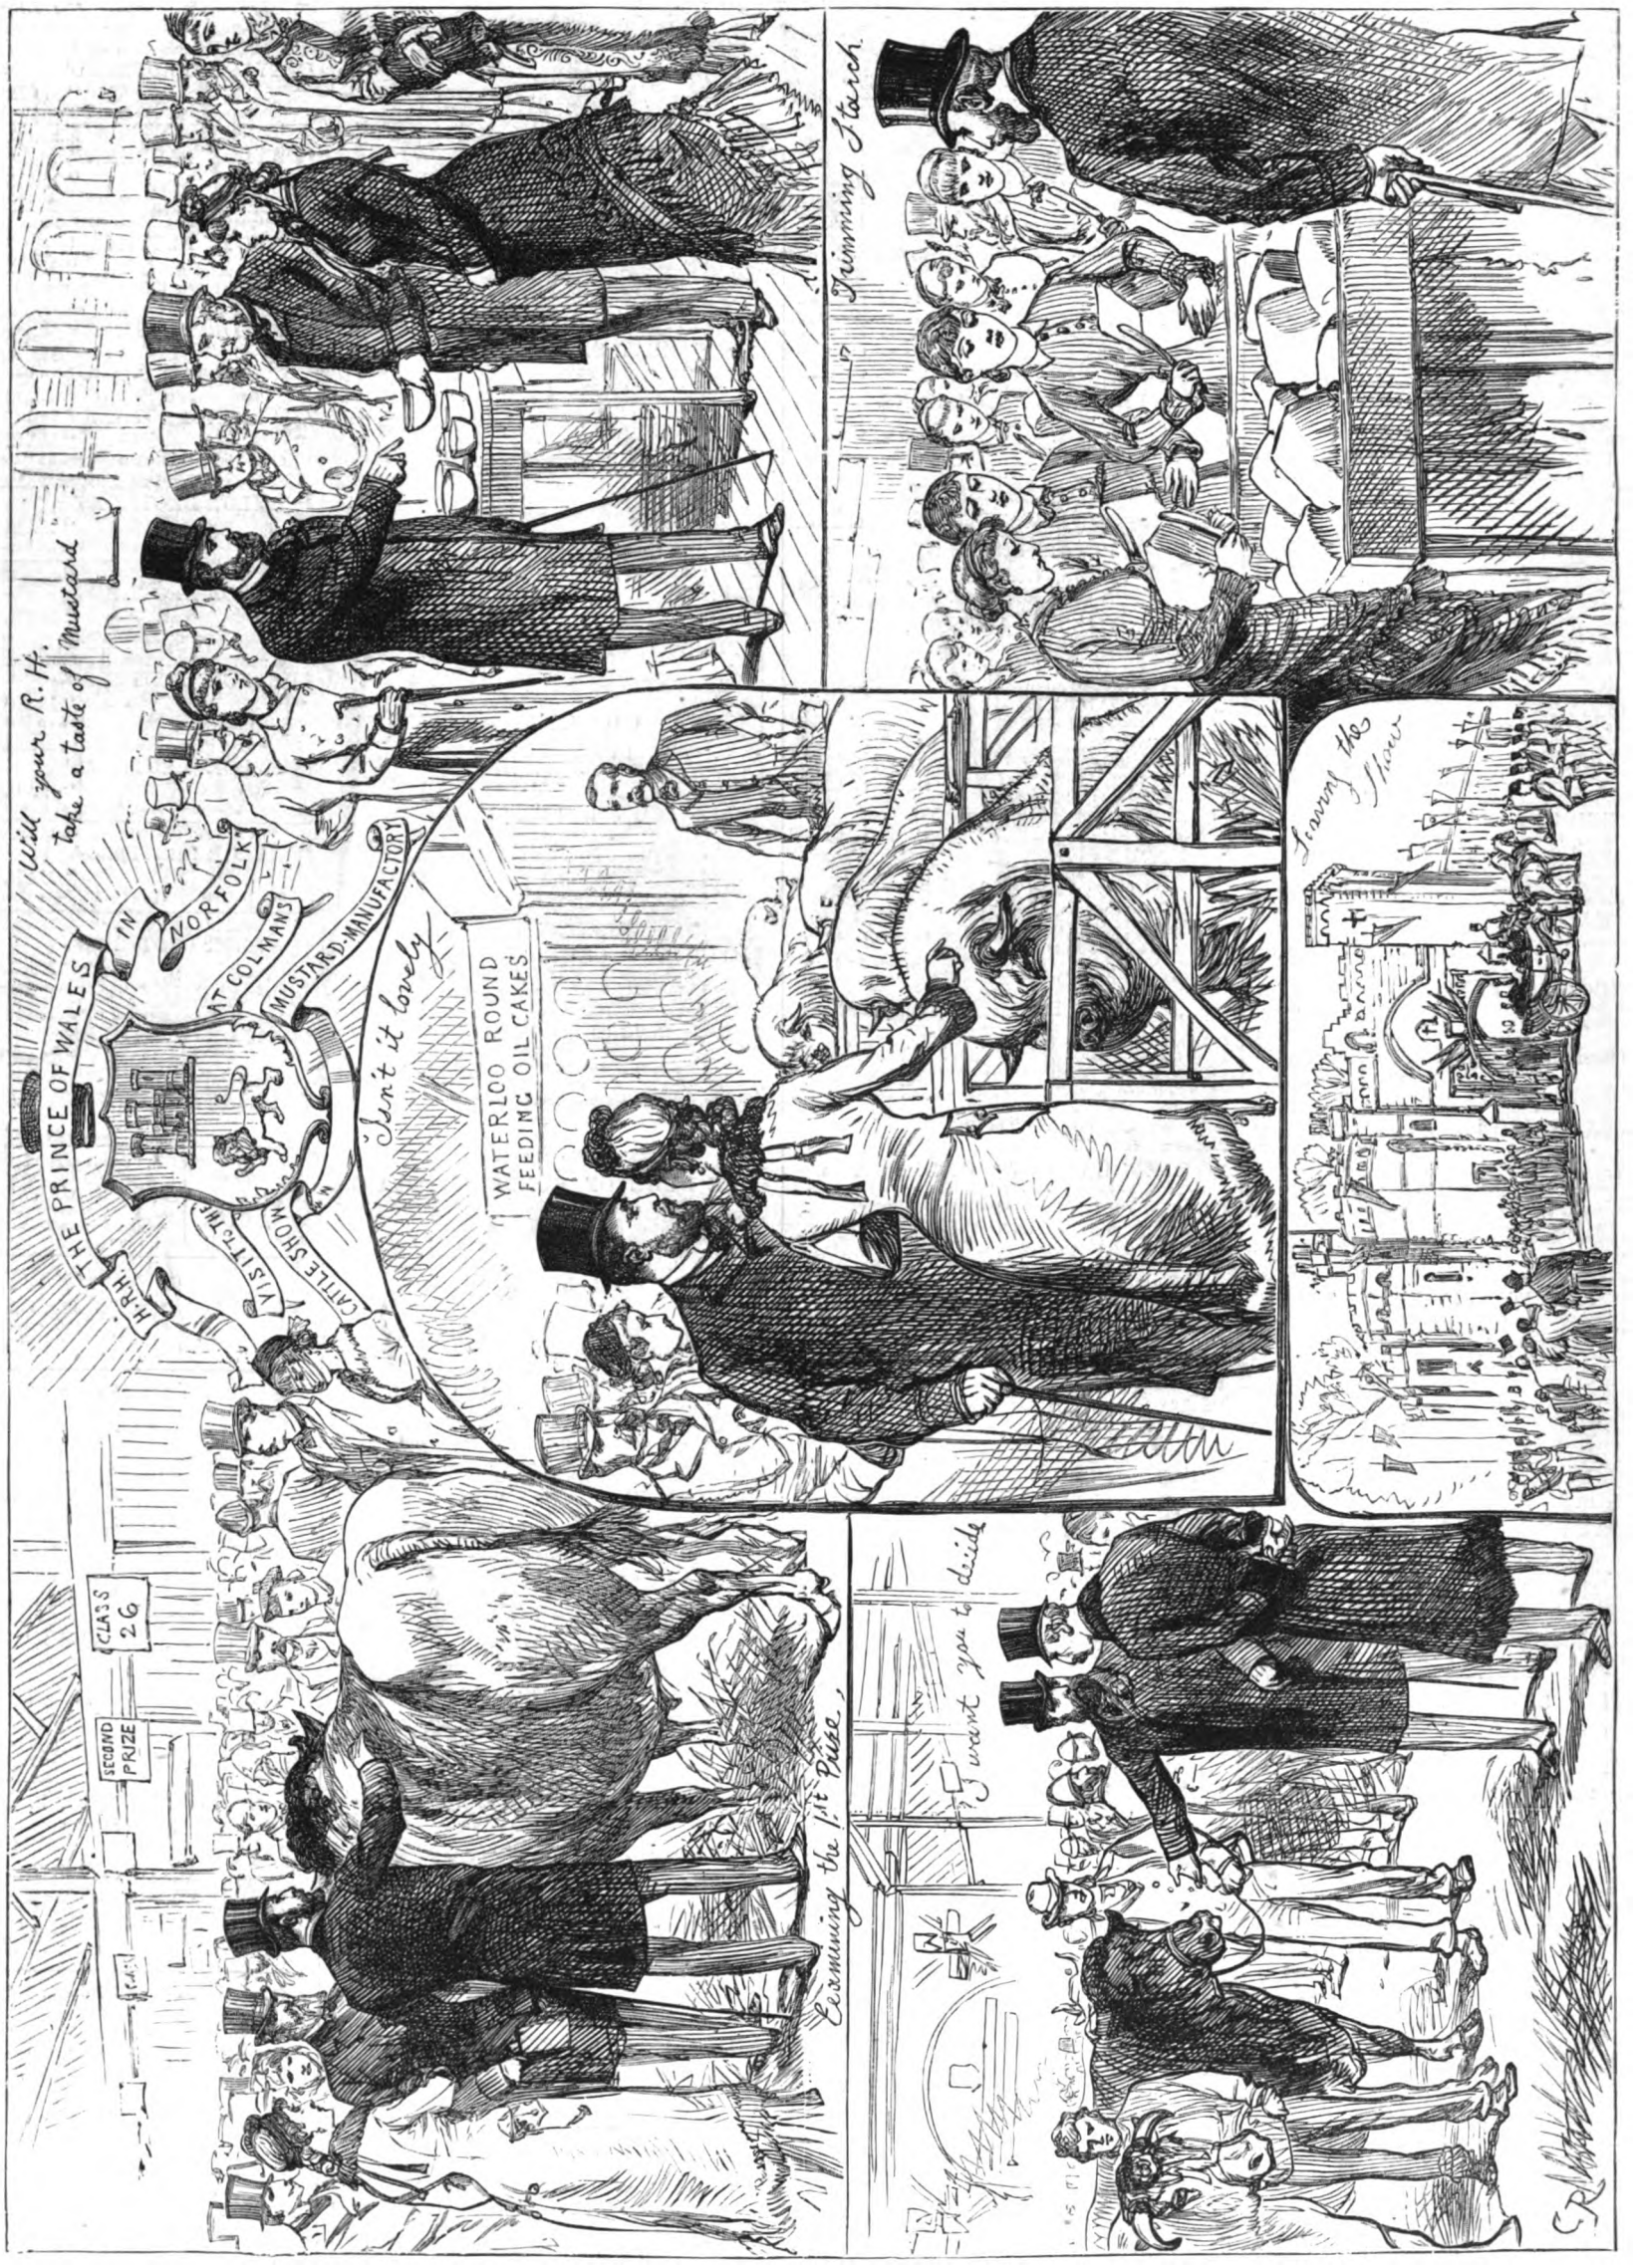
CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Light PRIZE MEDALS Consumption enormously exceeds 18,000 cwts.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

TURKISH PASTILS.

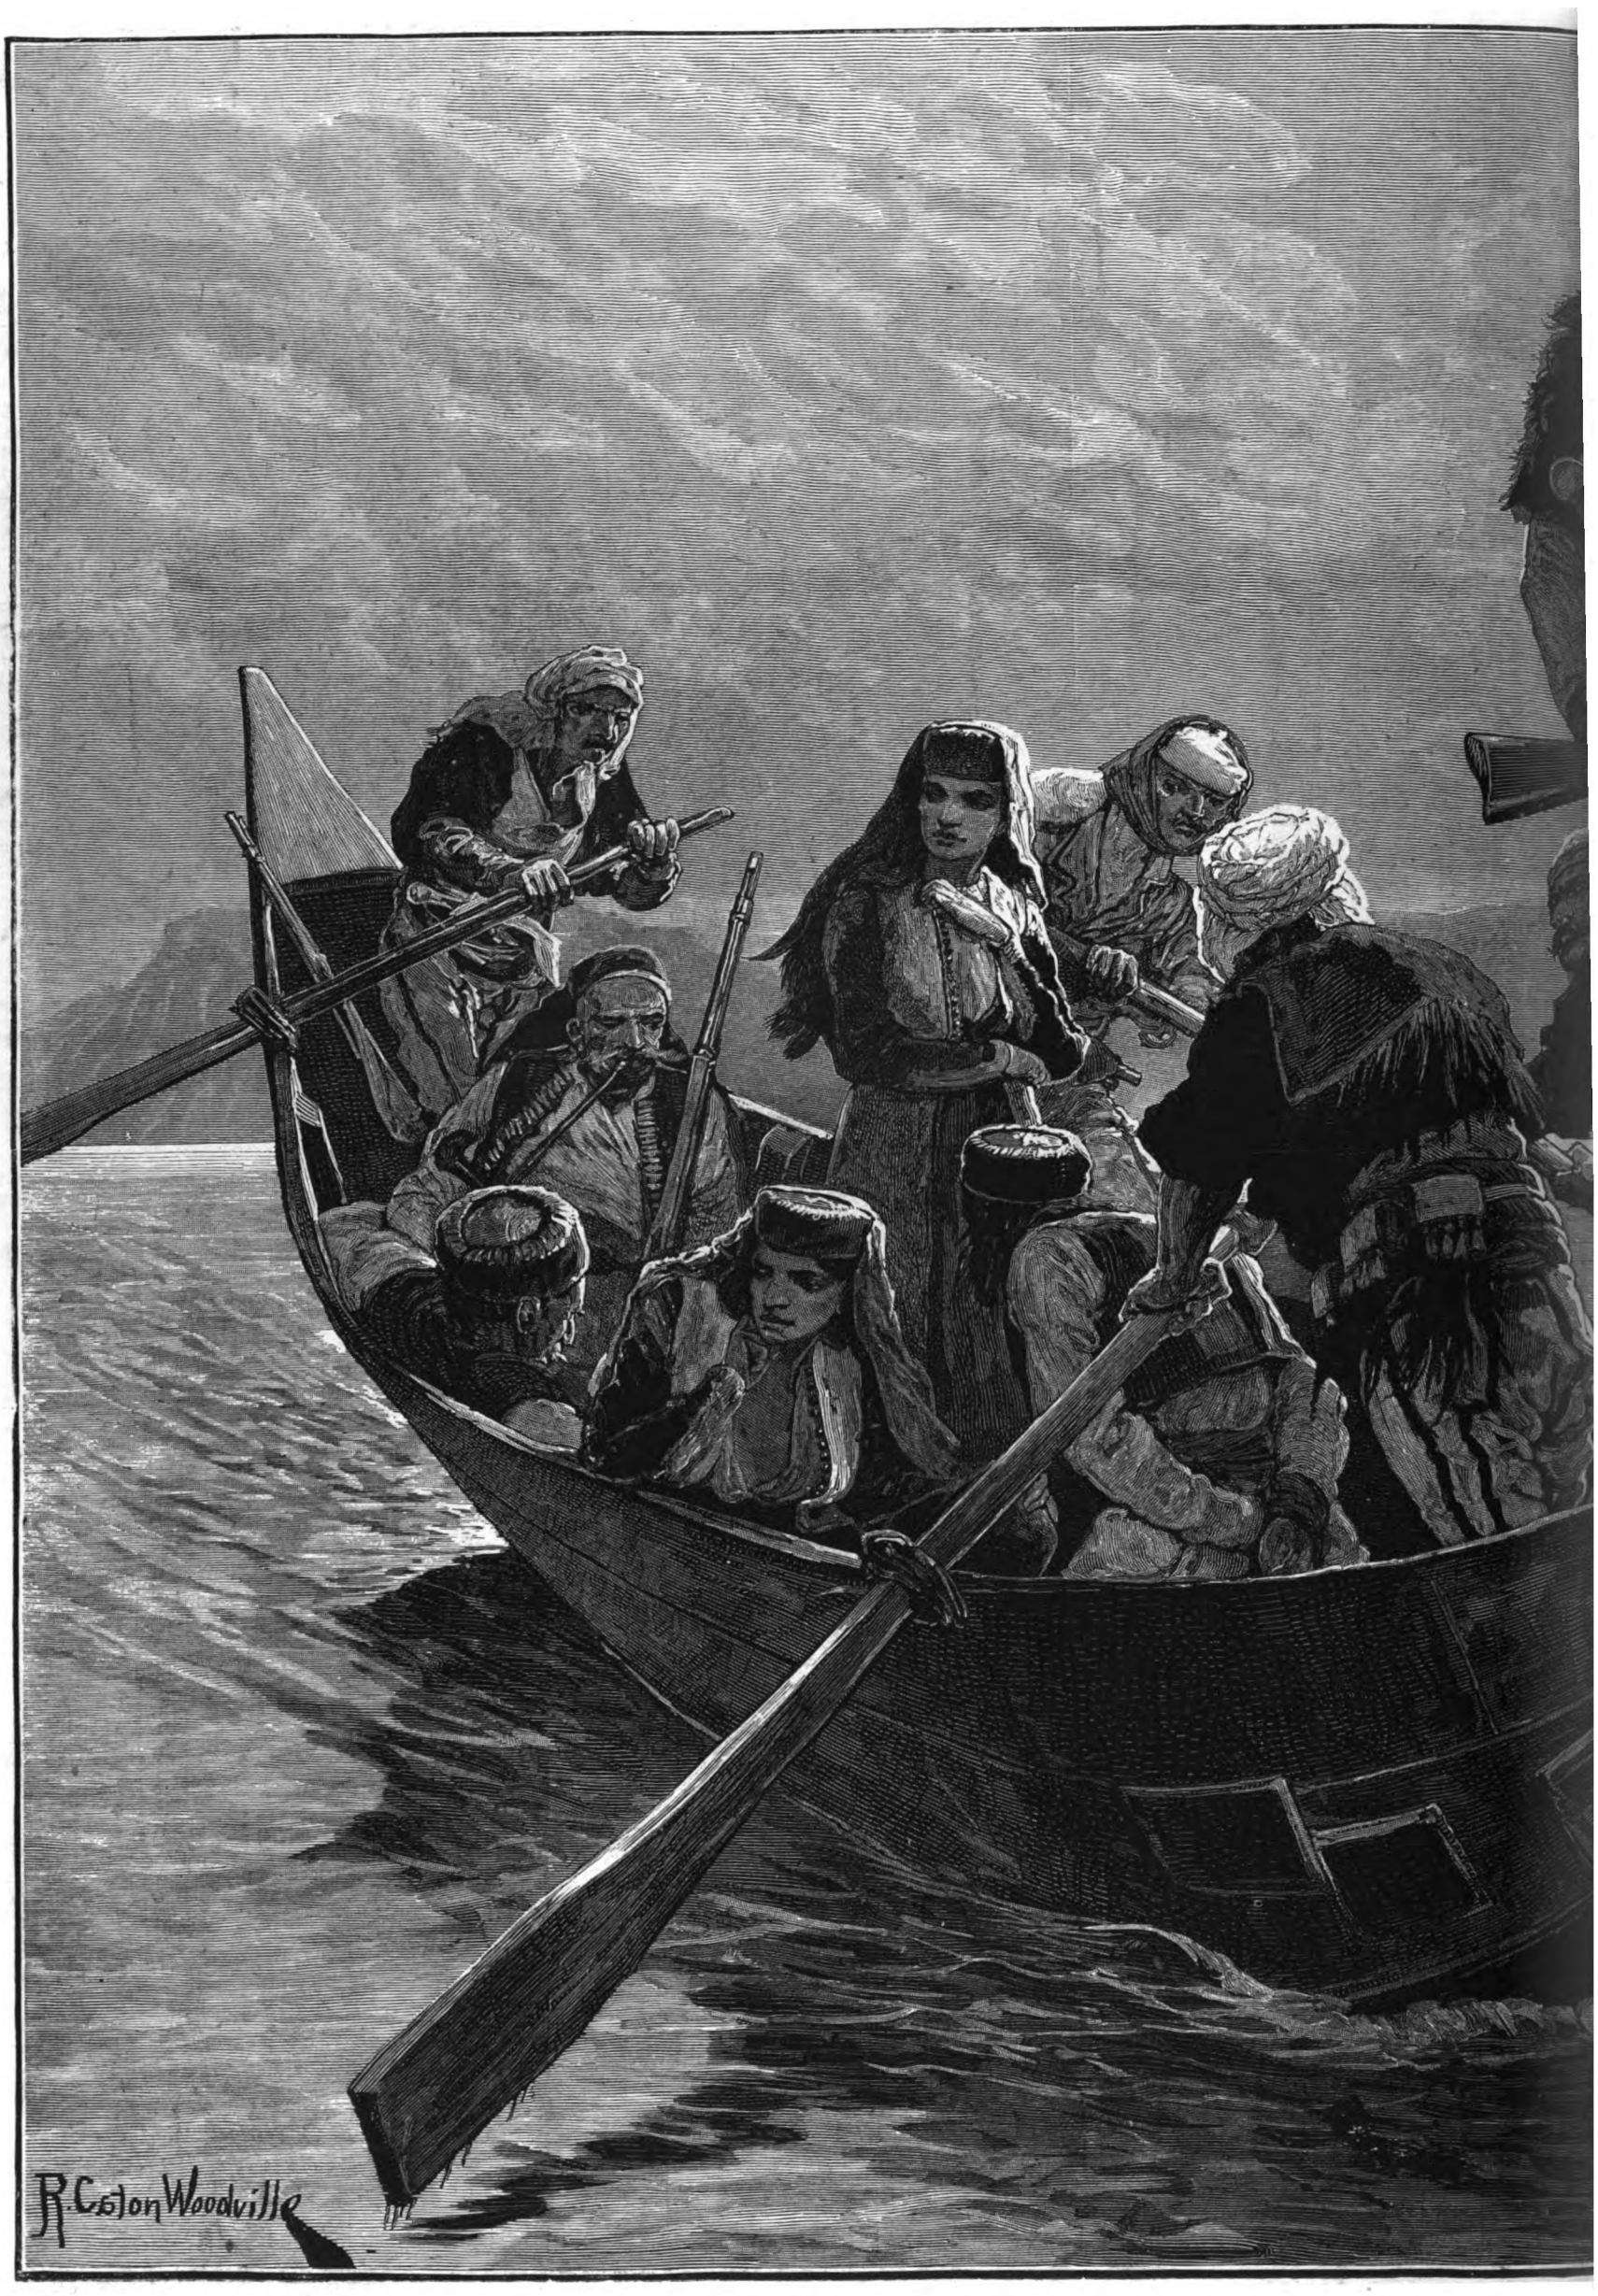


"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Nargilehs at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.

In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

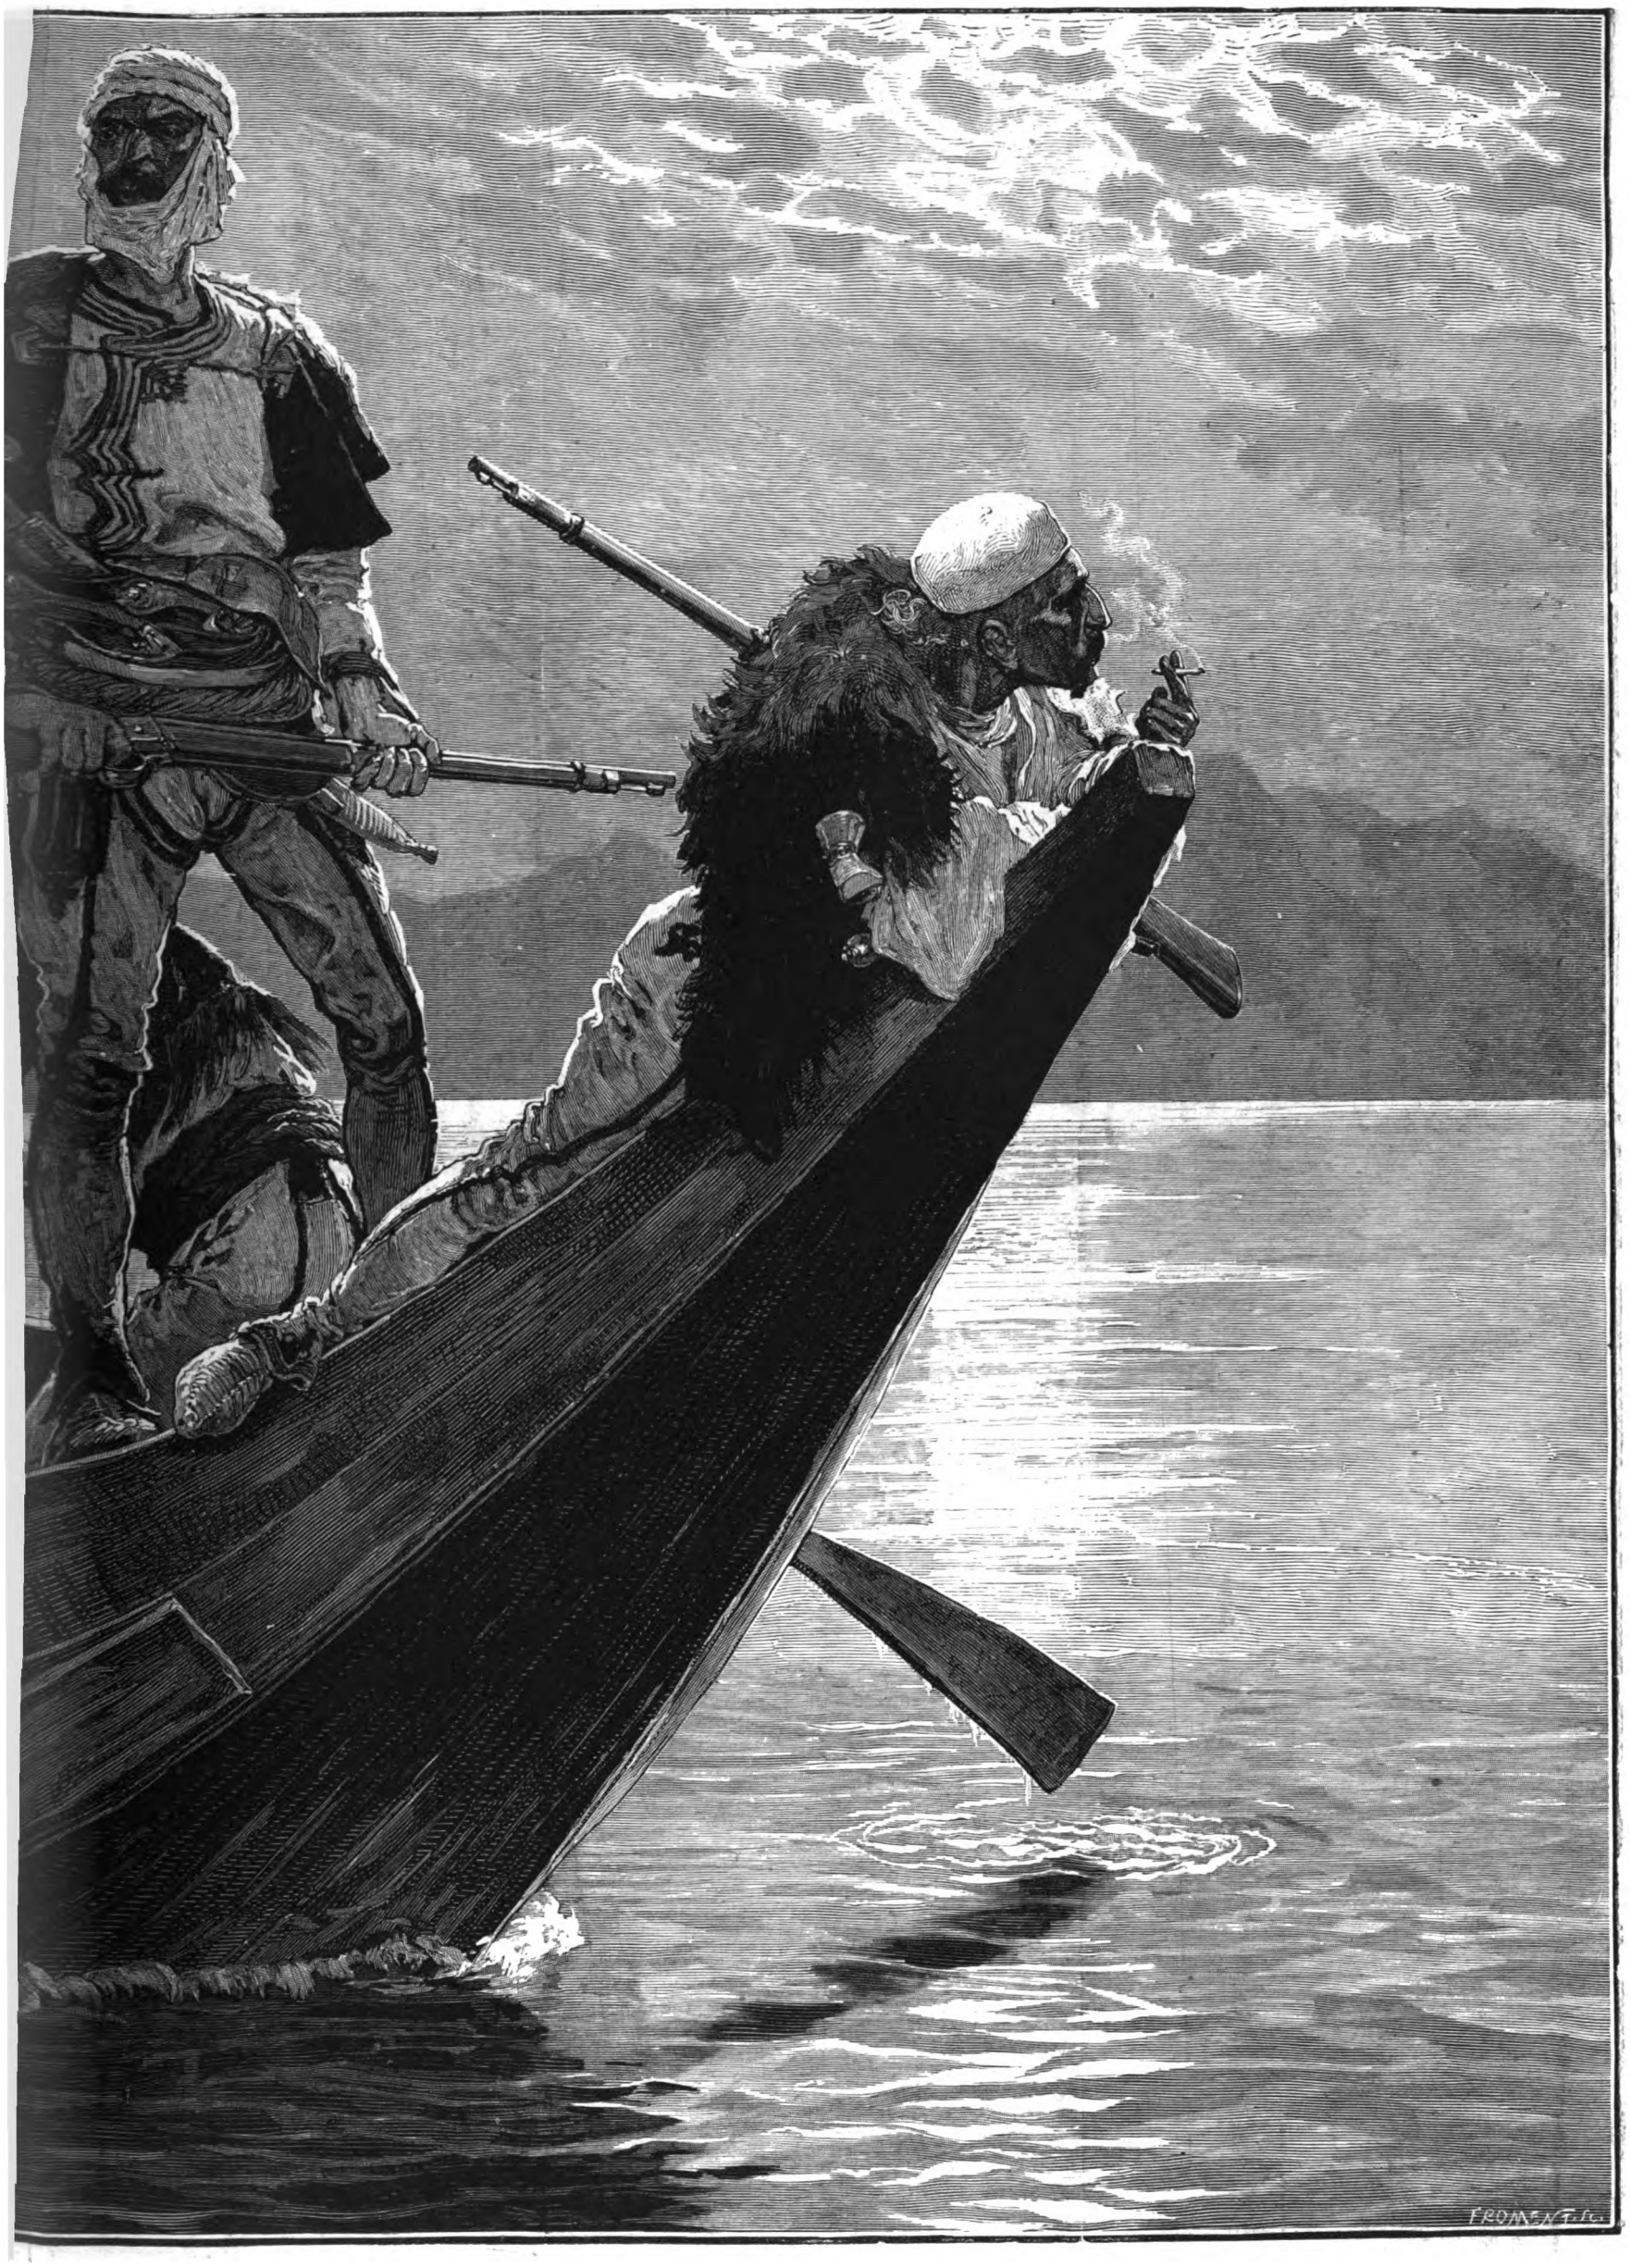
PALACE SOAP.
PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 5s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Mélange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 14s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, closet, or travelling-bag, they impart a delicate and pleasing perfume without being pronounced. [illegible]



Digitized by Google

THE PRINCE OF WALES IN NORFOLK: AT THE NORWICH FAT CATTLE SHOW: AT MESSRS. COLMAN'S MUSTARD AND STARCH MILLS.—SEE PAGE 531.



Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

ALBANIANS WITH MONTENEGRIN PI

Digitized by Google

SONERS ON THE LAKE OF SCUTARI.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2166.—VOL. LXXVII. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1880. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS } SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½D.

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

DEPARTURE OF THE BOYCOTT RELIEF VOLUNTEERS FROM LOUGH MASK HOUSE, MAYO.

MARCH OF BOYCOTT RELIEF VOLUNTEERS FROM LOUGH MASK TO BALLINROBE.—SEE PAGE 540.

Digitized by Google

BIRTHS.

On the 28th ult., at Bredenbury Court, Herefordshire, the wife of W. Henry Barneby, Esq., of a daughter.

On the 29th ult., at Birchyfield, Bromyard, Herefordshire, the wife of Hon. Beauchamp M. St. John, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 25th ult., at St. Michael's, Lambourne, Berks, by the Rev. J. Murray, M.A., Rector of Rugby, assisted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Edgell, Thomas White Walding, of Rugby, to Elizabeth (Bessie), third daughter of James Waldron, of Lambourne. No cards.

On the 27th ult., in the Chapel Royal, Savoy, John Jardine, Esq., Bombay Civil Service, Judicial Commissioner of British Burma, third son of the late William Jardine, Esq., J.P., of Dunstable, to Minnie Dunbar, daughter of Jabez Hogg, Esq., 1, Bedford-square.

DEATHS.

On the 24th ult., at Rothesay, Bute, Mary Ann, the widow of the late John Wyndham Bruce, Esq., eldest son of the late John Bruce Pryce, Esq., of Duffryn, Glamorganshire, and the third daughter of the late Lieut.-Colonel N. P. Cameron, of Dunyraig, in the same county.

On Oct. 12, at Geraldton, Western Australia, Louisa, the beloved wife of George Eliot, Esq., Resident Magistrate, eldest daughter of the late Marshall Waller Clifton, Esq., F.R.S. and M.L.C., formerly Secretary of H.M. Victualling Board, and Chief Commissioner of Australia.

On Oct. 6, in the Island of Mauritius, Louisa Fyers, aunt and godmother of the above, widow of the late General Fyers, Commanding Royal Engineers, eldest daughter of the Rev. Francis Clifton, great-great-grandson of the first Sir Gervase, of Nottingham, in her 96th year.

On Dec. 3, 1879, at Bedford Lodge, Hampstead, Harry Maple, the much-beloved younger son of John Maple, in his 29th year. In memoriam.

On the 27th ult., Charlotte, widow of the late Ven. Archdeacon Glover, and second daughter of the late Rev. Sir Robert Affleck, Bart., Durham Hall, Newmarket.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

NOW READY,
PRICE ONE SHILLING (INLAND POSTAGE, 2½d.),
THE
ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK
FOR
1881,
CONTAINING
SIX COLOURED PICTURES;
PRINTED BY LEIGHTON BROTHERS' CHROMATIC PROCESS,
FROM ORIGINALS BY EMINENT ARTISTS.
TWELVE FINE-ART ENGRAVINGS;
ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENA:
TWELVE DIAGRAMS OF THE DURATION OF MOONLIGHT:
The Royal Family of Great Britain; the Queen's Household; her Majesty's Ministers; Lists of Public Offices and Officers; Bankers, Law and University Terms; Fixed and Movable Festivals; Anniversaries; Acts of Parliament passed during the Session of 1880; Revenue and Expenditure; Obituary of Eminent Persons; Christian, Jewish, and Mohammedan Calendars; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Government Duties; Times of High Water; Post Office Regulations; together with a large amount of useful and valuable information, which has during the past thirty-eight years made the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK the most acceptable and elegant companion to the Library; whilst it is universally acknowledged to be by far the cheapest Almanack ever published.

The unprecedented demand for the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK year after year stimulates the Proprietor to still greater exertions to secure for this Almanack a reception as favourable as that which has hitherto placed its circulation second only to that of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

The ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is inclosed in an elegant cover, printed in colours by the same process as the COLOURED PLATES, and forms a useful and pleasing ornament to the drawing-room table.

The SHILLING ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is published at the Office of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, 198, Strand, and sold by all Booksellers and Newsvenders.

THE BRIGHTON SEASON.
Frequent Trains from Victoria and London Bridge.
Also Trains in connection from Kensington and Liverpool-street.
Return Tickets, London to Brighton, available for eight days.
Weekly, Fortnightly, and Monthly Season Tickets.
Available to travel by all Trains between London and Brighton.
Cheap Half-Guinea First Class Day Tickets to Brighton
Every Saturday, from Victoria and London Bridge,
Admitting to the Grand Aquarium and Royal Pavilion.
Cheap First Class Day Tickets to Brighton every Sunday,
From Victoria at 10.45 a.m., and London Bridge at 10.55 a.m.
Pullman Drawing-Room Cars between Victoria and Brighton.
Through Bookings to Brighton from principal Stations
On the Railways in the Northern and Midland districts.
A Special Train for Horses, Carriages, and Servants,
From Victoria to Brighton, at 10.55 a.m. every Weekday.

GRAND AQUARIUM AND PAVILION.—Military and other Concerts EVERY SATURDAY AFTERNOON, for which the above Saturday Cheap Tickets are available.

NEW ROUTE to WEST BRIGHTON by the DIRECT LINE, via PRESTON PARK.
A Morning Up and Evening Down Fast Train Every Weekday between London Bridge and West Brighton.

PARIS.—SHORTEST, CHEAPEST ROUTE.—Via NEWHAVEN, DIEPPE, and ROUEN.
CHEAP EXPRESS SERVICE Every Week Night—First, Second, and Third Class.
From Victoria 7.50 p.m., and London Bridge 8.0 p.m.
Fares—Single, 34s., 24s., 17s.; Return, 55s., 39s., 30s.
Powerful Paddle-Steamers, with excellent cabins, &c.
Trains run alongside Steamers at Newhaven and Dieppe.
SOUTH OF FRANCE, ITALY, SWITZERLAND, &c.—Tourists' Tickets are issued enabling the holder to visit all the principal places of interest.
HAVRE.—Passengers booked through by this route every week night from Victoria and London Bridge as above.

TICKETS and every information at the Brighton Company's West-End General Offices, 28, Regent-circus, Piccadilly; and No. 8, Grand Hotel Buildings, Trafalgar-square; also at the Victoria and London Bridge Stations. (By Order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

CATTLE SHOW WEEK.
ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
THE MOST BRILLIANT AND ATTRACTIVE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN IN LONDON DURING THE COMING WEEK is that of the world-famed
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS,
the acknowledged supreme head of
EVERY MINSTREL COMPANY IN ENGLAND OR AMERICA, now comprising no less than
FORTY ARTISTS OF EMINENCE.
SPECIAL AND ILLUMINATED DAY PERFORMANCES will be given during the Cattle Show Week on MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, and SATURDAY, at Three o'Clock, in addition to the regular Performances,
EVERY NIGHT, at EIGHT.
Omnibuses run direct from the Angel at Islington (two minutes' walk from the Agricultural Hall) direct to the doors of St. James's Hall.

EVANS'S MUSIC AND SUPPER ROOMS will be REOPENED CATTLE SHOW WEEK with an Entirely New Entertainment.
Musical Director, Herr Jonghmans. Proprietor, J. B. Aron.

EVANS'S.—CATTLE SHOW WEEK.—"ASTARTE," the Beautiful Nymph of the Air, Harriet Vernon, Sisters Leamar, Charles Coburn, Mons. Kaouly, Messrs. Pierce and Monaghan, Herr Jonghmans, and Choir now rehearsing.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS Every Night at 8.30—Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. At 7.30, BYGONES, by A. W. Pinero. Doors open at 7. Special Morning Performances of THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, Saturday, DEC. 4 and Saturday, DEC. 11, at 2.30. Box Office (Mr. Hurst) open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. THE TURQUOISE RING, Mr. Corney Grain's New Musical Sketch. THE HAUNTED ROOM and A FLYING VISIT. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday Evenings at Eight. Thursday and Saturday Afternoons at Three. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s. and 5s.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Will close after Saturday, Dec. 18. Reopen on Boxing Day, at Three and Eight, with an entirely new Holiday programme.

SMITHFIELD CLUB SHOW of CATTLE, IMPLEMENTS, ROOTS, &c.

SMITHFIELD CLUB SHOW, AGRICULTURAL HALL, ISLINGTON.
MONDAY, DEC. 6, at Two o'Clock. Admission, 5s.
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, at Nine o'Clock. Admission, 1s.
Agricultural Hall Company, Limited, S. SIDNEY, Secretary.
Barford-street, Islington.

THE CHRISTMAS NUMBER
OF
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,
1880,
WHICH WILL BE ISSUED ON DEC. 13,
COMPRISES
A LARGE PICTURE IN COLOURS,
ENTITLED
"IN WONDERLAND,"
From a Painting by FRANK HOLL, A.R.A.;
With a Seasonable Article by GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA;
FOUR COLOURED ILLUSTRATIONS:
FIRST STEPS, THE EVENING PARTY, ROSES AND LILIES,
by KATE GREENAWAY;
And THE FANCY-DRESS BALL, by HARRY FURNISS;
AND THE FOLLOWING
CHRISTMAS ILLUSTRATIONS AND STORIES.

ENGRAVINGS.
Catarina. By Luke Fildes, A.R.A.
Winter. By L. Rossi.
The Rival Suitors (Two Pages). By F. Barnard.
The Vicar's Daughters. By A. Hunt.
In Sight of Home on Christmas Morning. By A. Emslie.
Games for Old and Young. By G. Cruikshank.
Hark! the Herald Angels Sing. By A. Hunt.
Woodleigh Grange. By S. Read.
The Careless Nurse. By M. E. Edwards.
Dick's Dilemma. By A. Hunt.

TALES.
Fernande. By M. Betham-Edwards.
At the Twelfth Hour. By R. E. Francillon.
The Little Town by the Seine. By Katharine S. Macquoid.
Margaret Donnan. By Mrs. J. H. Riddell.
AND VERSES
By William C. Bennett, Savile Clarke, John Latey, Edward Rose, Clement Scott, George R. Sims, J. Ashby-Sterry, Byron Webber, and others.

The whole inclosed in a Handsome Coloured Wrapper, and published apart from the Ordinary Issue.

Price One Shilling: Postage Twopence-halfpenny.

THE SIXTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS is NOW OPEN, at THOMAS McLEAN'S GALLERY, 7, Haymarket, next the Theatre. Admission on presentation of Address Card.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS.
WINTER EXHIBITION NOW OPEN, from Ten to Five.
Daily, at the SUFFOLK-STREET GALLERIES, Pall-mall East. Admission, 1s.
THOS. ROBERTS, Secretary.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.
The FIFTEENTH WINTER EXHIBITION of Sketches and Studies WILL OPEN on MONDAY NEXT, DEC. 6. H. F. PHILLIPS, Secretary.
Gallery, 53, Pall-mall, S.W.

THE ANNUAL WINTER EXHIBITION of High-class PICTURES, by British and Foreign Artists, is NOW OPEN at ARTHUR TOOTH and SON'S GALLERY, 5, Haymarket, opposite Her Majesty's Theatre. Admission, One Shilling, including Catalogue.

FRENCH GALLERY, 120, Pall-Mall.—The 28th ANNUAL EXHIBITION of PICTURES, by British and Foreign Artists, including Luminais' celebrated picture, "Les Énervés de Jumièges," is NOW OPEN. Admission 1s.

BERLIOZ'S FAUST.—REPETITION on SATURDAY EVENING NEXT, DEC. 11.—ST. JAMES'S HALL.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1880.

The mist which, for some time past, seemed to have settled down upon public affairs in this country is gradually lifting, and the political atmosphere is becoming clearer in consequence. Parliament has been summoned by Royal Proclamation to meet on Jan. 6 "for the dispatch of business." This implies that, in the judgment of her Majesty's Ministers, there is no immediate necessity for asking of the Legislature further repressive powers for the protection of life and property in Ireland—"immediate necessity," we say, because before the time appointed for the Meeting of Parliament comes round the internal condition of Ireland may be changed for the worse, and the distasteful duty may be imposed upon the Irish Government to seek additional means for the maintenance of order before unfolding their plan for the permanent quiet of that part of her Majesty's dominions. A Land Bill, partly perhaps extending Peasant Proprietorship, but mainly directed towards the settling upon some broader basis of the relations of Landlord and Tenant, is understood to have been determined upon, and it seems likely that it will be introduced into the House of Commons without any considerable delay. Nor, perhaps, will delay be found needful. Evidence of all the facts, collected by the two Commissions now sitting on the subject, will, of course, be in the hands of the Government as these inquiries proceed; and it is rather upon the facts themselves than upon the opinions which the Commissioners may form of them that the policy of Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet must be ultimately founded. Whatever the measure proposed may be, it is nearly certain to be met with antagonism, more or less obstructive in its character. The object to be aimed at by her Majesty's Government is not a Party one, nor is it likely to be pursued, we should imagine, in a Party spirit; but if we are to draw our inferences from certain speeches lately delivered by leading members of the Opposition, advantage will probably be taken by the body of members sitting on the left-hand side of the Speaker's chair for throwing every impediment in the way of a successful issue of the Ministerial project. We may be over hasty, or we may be utterly mistaken. The aspect of things is altering every day. Men's minds naturally change with the change of circumstances, and it may happen that some of the largest land proprietors in Ireland may see it to be their interest to accept measures in January or February next, which in August or September last they would have regarded as utterly inadmissible. The Session, then, may not prove to be so stormy as is generally expected. Lively, no doubt, it will be—lively and laborious; but it may also be fruitful of results, permanent as well as immediate, beneficial to the population of Ireland.

The Cession of Dulcigno to the Montenegrins, which has come at last, and which has now shifted from a speculation into a "fait accompli," will keep the course pretty clear, during the earlier part of the Session at least, from Debates on Foreign Affairs. It is less likely now than ever that public attention will become so absorbed by what is going on abroad as to diminish the interest felt in matters of domestic policy. The efficacy of the European Concert, in breaking down Turkish opposition, has at length been proved. The Naval Demonstration has done its work sufficiently at least to indicate in the judgment of "Monarchs and Statesmen" its adaptation to obtain their ends in South-Eastern Europe without the shedding of blood. It is, no doubt, a cumbrous machinery in operation. It requires great patience and not a little national self-restraint. The ships of war now gathered in the waters that wash the Coast of Dalmatia may, or may not, be forthwith dispersed; but it has become clear to the common-sense of European Governments that in resolute combination they possess an instrument of coercion against Turkish recalcitrancy which may be used for the settlement of the Eastern Question without danger of precipitating a general war, and without fear of destroying, or disturbing, the respective interests each of the Powers may have in that part of the world. Greece, it is true, may force the hand of the Signatary Powers. But there is room for hope that the same combination which compelled the Cession of Dulcigno will, in the end, obtain for Greece the extended frontier laid down for her by the Conference at Berlin, in pursuance of the recommendations agreed to by Congress.

South African affairs will probably engage the early notice of both Houses of Parliament. The Government at Capetown has not been fortunate in its policy. The rebellious spirit of the Native Tribes on the frontier is evidently contagious, and the Colonists will find enough to do to hold their own. With them, however, rests the responsibility of the course they seem resolved to pursue. It will be for them to adopt such measures of pacification as may be best calculated to allay Native discontent, or to suffer the inconveniences consequent thereupon. There is not, however, much room for discussion where there is no opportunity afforded for practical conclusions. Both the great parties at home agree in condemning the new Colonial War. Both have formally warned the Government at the Cape of its heavy and undivided responsibility in this matter. There are few, if any, who advocate any extension to South African Colonists of military aid for the accomplishment of their objects; and perhaps the safest method of dealing with them will be that of leaving them to their own resources.

Of course, other great and important issues besides that of the Land question in Ireland will come under Parliamentary notice, and, perhaps, under practical treatment. The Trading classes cry aloud, and not without reason, for some amendment of the Bankruptcy Law. Steps must be taken for putting a stop to "corrupt practices" at Elections. The Ballot Act will need to be revised, and changed from a temporary into a permanent measure. Legislation will probably be attempted for the settlement of certain Judicial Reforms. Another Budget will perhaps place upon an equable footing the laws relating to the importation of Light Wines, and the Liquor Traffic is sure to be keenly discussed under various phases. The Municipal Government of Counties will be the subject of at least preliminary debates. We can fully sympathise with Parliamentary Representatives on the curtailment of their usual Recess. We anticipate for them a trying and exhausting Session. They have much lee-way to make up. They will, perhaps, encounter a great deal of obstruction, possibly even of factious obstruction. But their country generally looks upon them as equal to the emergency, and in the satisfaction of its legitimate claims they will, doubtless, seek for, and find, their surest and richest reward.

Lord Coleridge, the new Lord Chief Justice of England, took the oaths and his seat in the Queen's Bench Division on Wednesday morning.

Digitized by Google

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

It is the lot—and apparently a lot which is inevitable and at which there is no use in repining—of the writer of this page to make a number of very estimable people very angry every week. Perhaps if I confined myself to quotations of the prices of vegetable produce in Covent-garden market, or to giving careful abstracts (without comments) on the proceedings in the different metropolitan County Courts, or to recording the arrivals and departures of ocean mail-steamers, or to tabulating the statistics of births, deaths, and marriages which have occurred during the week, I might produce a page of "Echoes" which should be wholly inoffensive. Nobody ever quarrels with my venerable contemporary the London Gazette, or resents as libellous the records of feminine costume penned and depicted in Myra's Journal and the Ladies' Gazette of Fashion. And who would think of indignantly apostrophising the Editors of Boyle's Court Guide and the Post Office London Directory?

Fortunately, or unfortunately, I have to talk about all kinds of things; and my gossip is read by all kinds of people, all over the world. I have from the beginning resolutely set my mind against chronicling Society Small Beer in the shape of paragraphs reciting the latest achievements at baccarat of Ferdinand Count Fathom, the approaching marriage of Beau Didapper to Lady Kitty Crocodile, or the recent recovery from that painful malady, the mumps, of Miss Carolina Wilhelmina Amelia Skeggs. I choose, instead, to gossip about public people and public things. I have my own opinions; my correspondents have theirs; and the consequence is that somebody—now at Peckham and now at Patras, now at Twickenham and now at Trincomalee—is continually and vehemently irate with a poor old feuilletoniste, who does his best never to speak one word louder than another, and to keep the peace "all round."

Several of my correspondents (seemingly with Jingo sympathies of the intolerant kind) are enraged because a week or two since I remarked on the over partiality of the upper classes in Turkey to raki before dinner. The Ottoman, I am hotly told, is essentially a teetotaller. I am perfectly well aware that the Armenian hammals or porters of Pera are total abstainers; that the Turkish caïkjees or boatmen of the Bosphorus and the Golden Horn are the soberest of fellows; and that the Turkish peasant and the Turkish soldier are, as a rule, models of temperance. Still, I stick to my text as regards champagne and raki imbibing among the upper classes in Turkey.

While recurring to this particular phase of international manners, I ought in justice to say something about the Americans. Am I wrong in stating that, notwithstanding the amazingly large consumption of whisky and lager beer in the United States (remember there are fifty millions of people there), the cause of total abstinence, especially among the educated classes, is making strides quite amazing throughout the Union. Over and over again have I glanced around the vast dining-hall of the Grand Pacific Hotel, Chicago, without noticing a single glass or bottle containing anything stronger than water on any one of the tables; while for a whole week we made one of a party of eight ladies and gentlemen who dined together at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, without consuming one single drop of fermented liquor. M. Hardy, the chef of this palatial establishment (he has a salary of a thousand guineas a year), sent us up every evening a dinner worthy of Delmonico's, worthy of the Café Anglais or Bignon's, worthy of Dominique's at St. Petersburg, or of the Grand Midland Hotel, St. Pancras; yet I am old enough and shameless enough to own that, ere the week was half over, my gorge rose at M. Hardy's long-drawn succession of dainties, and that I would have willingly given five dollars for a dinner of cold meat and pickles, and a pint of Allsopp.

I was talking to an eminent New York physician on this wonderful dinner-table temperance, and congratulating him on the extraordinary change which had taken place in the national habits since I first visited the States in '63, in the midst of the war, and when whole Niagaras, so to speak, of champagne (at from eight to ten dollars a bottle) were drunk at Northern hotels and in Northern Society. He smiled, and advised me not to jump hastily at conclusions. Such hasty conclusions I am anxious to avoid; but I can only record what I have seen. I traversed the American continent from north to south and from east to west; but so universal was the absence of wine, or even beer, at the hotel dinner-tables that we often felt positively ashamed to order our modest pint of St. Jullien or "Extra Dry" (come, Sir Wilfrid, that was not inordinate for two persons) in view of the vast array of shining cut glass containing only water and pellucid ice. I grew, at last, to like iced water in the depth of winter; principally, perhaps, because the hotel tea and coffee were, as a rule, so extremely nasty.

From Sandymount, Dublin, I receive an exuberant letter, signed "One of a Large Family," and which, in my humble judgment, seems brimful of genuine Irish humour. The writer says that she is one of a large family "who are in the habit of discussing any and every subject with great energy, and even violence." "Violence" tickles me. In my mind's eye I see the "family" fighting tooth and nail over the thinly veiled allusions to real personages in "Endymion;" the drawing-room chandelier smashed into a thousand shivers owing to the "family" inability to come to an agreement on the Darwinian theory of the Origin of Species, and the works and keyboard of the grand pianoforte wrenched from their case and flung out of window because one member of the "family" maintained that Horne Tooke was the author of "Junius," while another asserted that Single-Speech Hamilton was the real old original "Stat nominis umbra."

The "member of a Large Family" wants to know whether it be orthographically orthodox to write "cocoa nut" for "coker nut." It seems that an English grocer, in the neighbourhood of Sandymount, has displayed, in huge letters, in his shop window, a recommendation of his "best coker nuts." At first, the "family" felt inclined to reproach the grocer for importing cockney vulgarisms into the Green Isle; but, on referring to their dictionaries, they found that Walker (1851) gives only "cocoa" and "cocoa nut," and Webster merely gives "cocoa" and "coco;" but, under the word "nut," he mentions the "cocoa" or "coker;" and in Spiers' English-French dictionary the mention is "coker, vide cocoa."

Looking up my own authorities, I find Nicol Scott's large edition of Bailey's Dictionary giving "coco" and "cocoa" as the name of a nut-bearing palm, and as derived from the Spanish cacaotal, written more properly "cacao." But the Spanish "cacao" (the Theobroma Cacao of Linnæus) is not a palm, but a small tree known to the Mexicans as cioccolalti, from the seeds of which the beverages known as chocolate and cocoa are prepared. Bailey quotes the poet Thomson,

Give me to drain the cocoa's milky bowl.

But Bailey subsequently becomes hopelessly hazy; for, after stating that chocolate is a substance made from the fruit of the cacao-tree (which is correct), and quoting Dr. Arbuthnot—"Chocolate is much the best liquor; its oil seems to be rich, alimentary, and anodyne"—he goes on to say that chocolate is a drink made from the Indian cocoa-nut (Thomson's "milky bowl"), which is manifestly incorrect. After careful reference to Dr. Lindley's Vegetable Kingdom, under the head of the order Byttneriaceæ, I can but come to the conclusion that "coker-nut" is a vulgarism, but that we ought to write "coco," and not "cocoa" nut, because to write it "cocoa" is productive of the confounding of the nut with the milk in it, with the cocoa of modern commerce, which is an inexpensive and wholesome preparation of the seed of the "cacao." "Cocoa" as a term for a beverage was probably, in the origin, appropriated by the grocers, or rather the manufacturers of the product, in blissful ignorance of, or utter indifference to, the difference existing between the "coco" nut palm and the "cacao" tree.

Mem.: I may as well mention that I know absolutely nothing about the science of botany. Perhaps, too, my correspondent is a gentleman, and not a lady. In any case, it was imperatively necessary to give some kind of answer to "the family." It is their "violence" that I dread.

In justice to Professor Skeat, I give his final contention in the matter of the antiquity of the literal proverbial locution "Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child." The learned Professor states that Butler's "Hudibras" was never heard of until 1663, but that the sentence "Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child" appears in that precise form as an old proverb in a collection called Clarke's "Paræmiologica," published in 1639. This information is given in Hazlitt's "Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases," p. 343. Professor Skeat has not verified the reference to Clarke; but he has little doubt that Hazlitt is right; and he expects that Bohn's Book of Proverbs says the same. It also occurs in Ray's collection. The Professor finally remarks that how he came to take an interest in the matter was because he once had to write notes on the proverbs of Hendyng, a collection made as far back as 1303. The nearest approach to "Spare the Rod," &c., in this collection is "Lief child lore behoveth"—i.e., "A dear child needs teaching;" this Hendyng explains to means that the dear child must be occasionally beaten. At least, in closing this question, I may congratulate myself first on having brought the most learned philologer in England into the arena of disputation; and, next, that I have shown that King Solomon never said literatim et verbatim "Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child." Within the next six months I confidently expect to be told that he did say so, word for word and letter for letter.

The current number of Punch contains a very clever parody on Mr. Longfellow's "Excelsior," applied to Lord Beaconsfield's "Endymion." One verse seems to me exceptionally pungent—

"Tempt not the Press," Lord Rowton said;
"Of critics have a timely dread.
They skinn'd you when you wrote Lothair."
He answered with his nose in air,
"Endymion!"

It is passing strange, nevertheless, that the facile versifier who penned this good-natured piece of banter should have overlooked the circumstance that there is another beauteous poem by Mr. Longfellow called "Endymion," which would lend itself much more appropriately to the purposes of burlesque in this particular case. Travesties of "Excelsior" have reached the "ancient and fishlike" stage. Surely the parodist could have made something of the stanzas over which we have all sighed, and many of us have wept, when we were young—

No one is so accursed by Fate,
No one so utterly desolate,
But some heart, though unknown,
Responds unto his own.

Responds—as if, with unseen wings,
An Angel touch'd its quivering strings,
And whispers in its song,
"Where hast thou stayed so long?"

I do not think that we should protest too loudly against sparkling parodies of famous poems. They only cause us to return, with renewed eagerness and joyfulness, to the beautiful originals.

With reference to the early history of the Electric Telegraph, "W. H. P.," Wimbledon, writes as "an old Telegrapher" to inform me that the person who was principally instrumental in introducing Electric Telegraphy in England was the late Sir William Fothergill Cooke; and that Professor Daniell, in 1841, in an award on the question, observed:—

While Mr. Cooke is entitled to stand alone as the gentleman to whom the country is indebted for having practically introduced and carried out the Electric Telegraph as a useful undertaking promising to become a work of national importance, and Professor Wheatstone is acknowledged as the scientific man whose profound and successful researches have already prepared the public to receive it as a project capable of practical application; it is to the united labours of gentlemen so well qualified for mutual assistance that we must attribute the rapid progress which the important invention has made during the five years of their being associated.

My correspondent proceeds to the inference that the "Electrical Telegraph" referred to in the Satirist must have been Soemmering's, which became known in England in 1812. By a curious coincidence, on the morning of my receiving the courteous communication of "W. H. P." I was turning over the leaves (oh! worst and most ruinous of habits) of Messrs. Reeves and Turner's last catalogues of books, and therein I saw marked a "Catalogue of Books and Papers relating to Electricity, Magnetism, the Electric Telegraph, &c., including the Ronalds Library." Straightway I sent for this catalogue, a corpulent octavo of some six hundred pages; and under the head of Soemmering, or rather Sömmering, I found, "Uber Einen Elektrischen Telegraphen, 4to, 2 plates, 14 pp. München, 1811."

There is a great deal more to repay perusal in this catalogue. Attached to it is a short biography of the late Sir Francis Ronalds, F.R.S., who, it will be remembered, demonstrated in 1816 the possibility of an electric telegraph, and showed that electricity could be practically used for conveying messages over long distances. But the gem of the biography is Sir Francis (then Mr.) Ronald's correspondence with the Admiralty with reference to his invention. He had asked for an interview, which Lord Melville, the then First Lord, had promised him. He received the following official reply from the Secretary to the Admiralty:—

Mr. Barrow presents his compliments to Mr. Ronalds, and acquaints him, with reference to his note of the Third instant, that Telegraphs of any kind are now wholly unnecessary, and that no other than the one now in use will be adopted.

Admiralty Office, August 5, 1816.

"Got rid of that fellow!" I fancy I can hear the bygone Secretary to the Admiralty say complacently to himself, as he settled down comfortably in his arm-chair to the perusal of the Courier. I really think that, had Mr. Ronalds lived in the reign of Charles the Second, he would have got a more intelligent reply from the Clerk of the Acts, Mr. Samuel Pepys. Can you not imagine such a passage in the Diary as the following:—

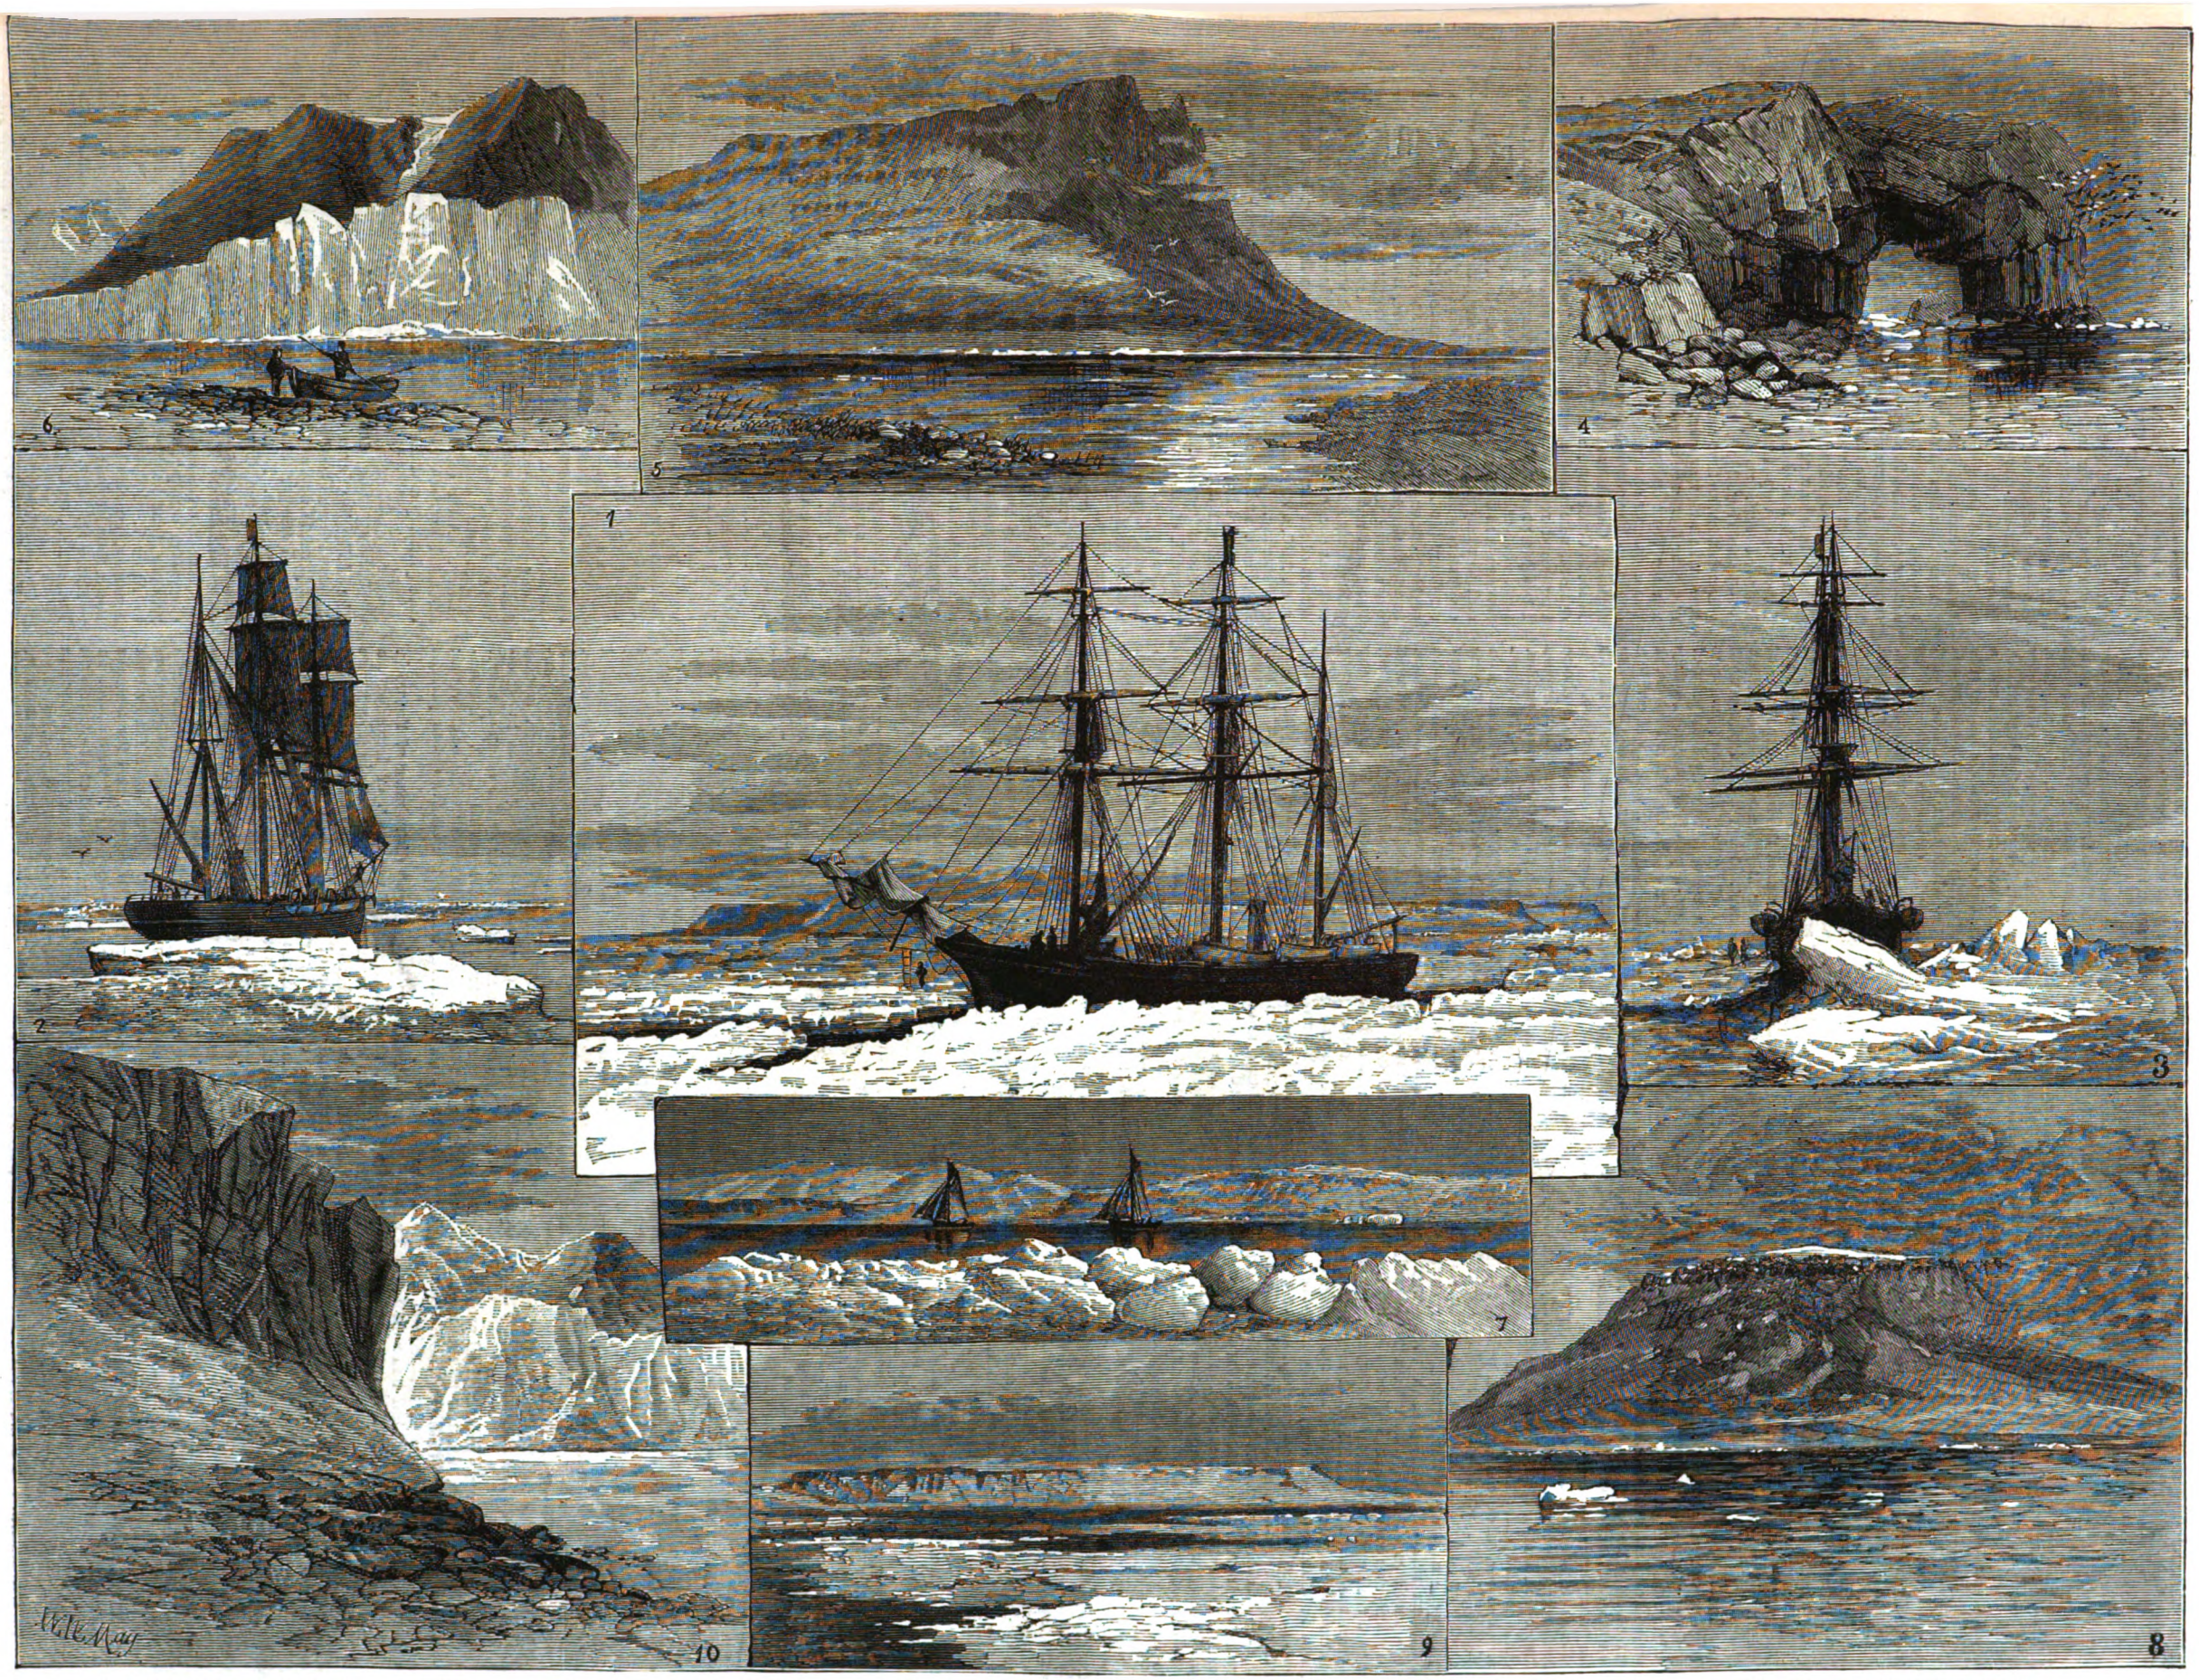
"To Hammersmith by water, with my wife and Knipp, and the poor wretch singing madrigals all the way, which so vexed my wife I thought she would have had Knipp into the water; but I mighty pleased both with the music and the mischief. And so to see the Ingenious Machine invented by Mr. Francis Ronalds that is one of our Fellows of His Majesty's Royal Society; and most curious it is to see how he proposes to carry wires underground for Electrical Communing between London and Sheerness or Portsmouth or Plymouth and the like; and how he has dug a trench in his garden, five hundred and twenty feet in length and four foot deep; in which he lays a trough of wood, two inches square, well lined inside and out with pitch; and within the trough thick glass tubes, through which the electrified wires run. He thinks that such an Electrical Telegraph would be of great advantage to us of the Navy Office; and, indeed, I am of that mind myself, and shall speak to the Duke of York about it when we are through with Tangier business. Yet do I fear that if the Commons grant any money for Electrical Telegraphs the King will get hold of it, and give it to my Lady Castlemaine or Nellie. And so home, and did throw a halfpenny to a boy that stood on his head in the mud by the water side; but the halfpenny fell into a pool, and he could not find it, and so burst out a crying, which made rare sport; only that the halfpenny should be lost vexed me." Thus the potential entry in the diary of the Clerk of the Acts.

The Prefect of the Seine has just been applied to for the necessary authorisation for the erection of a phenomenal theatre near the Madeleine. It is to comprise four separate and independent sections under one roof. First, a theatre in which comedies and operettas are to be played; next, a colossal restaurant combined with a music-hall; thirdly, a permanent Kermesse, in which all sorts of games and shows are to be carried on; and, finally, a saloon with an orchestra of one hundred musicians, and which is to be used alternately as a ball-room and a skating-rink. The projector of this tremendous scheme appears to have "dreamed a dream," in which our Alhambra and Criterion, with the Holborn Restaurant and the Agricultural Hall, Islington, coalesced to produce a gigantic nightmare. But the contemplated establishment near the Madeleine would be scarcely complete without a score of billiard-rooms in the basement, a Turkish Bath in the rear, and an Aquarium and an exhibition of wax-works in the attics.

Referring to History repeating itself in the case of the dumb son of Crœsus, King of Lydia, and the tongue-tied lad who recently recovered his speech through extreme terror when some boy burglars flourished pokers over his head, a correspondent draws my attention to the old and favourite farce of "Shocking Events," which treats of a doctor who undertakes to make the dumb or the tongue-tied to speak by a systematic administration of "shocks." "When I throw him into the horse-pond," explains the doctor, "if I can only hear him exclaim, 'O dear, I shall be drowned!' I shall consider that my fortune is made." "But, supposing that he is drowned," remarks the doctor's daughter. "Why, then, my dear," remarks the sage medico, "he must be regarded as a necessary victim to science."

Under the title of "The Poet and the Muse," Mr. Walter Herries Pollock has just published an exquisitely graceful and polished version of Alfred de Musset's "La Nuit de Mai," "La Nuit d'Août," and "La Nuit d'Octobre." The criticism of contemporary poetry is foreign to my attributes; but I delight in Alfred de Musset (who does not?), and, so far as my imperfect lights go, it seems to me that the tuneful French lyrist has never been in more skilful and accomplished hands than those of Mr. W. H. Pollock. He has taken the first, the third, and the fourth of the four famous "Nuits," omitting the second, the "Nuit de Décembre," for the very good and sufficient reason that it is "cast" in a manner entirely different from that of the other three; and for the rhymed metres of the original Mr. Pollock has wisely substituted very ringing and dramatic English blank verse. His own original introduction to the versions, which, with commendable conciseness, gives a résumé of De Musset's poetic characteristics, is also in blank verse, and is a model of dignified expression and harmonious composition. That there is boldness, even audacity, in this treatment of the author of "Les Nuits" seems clear enough; but youth is the season for deeds of happy hardihood. Mr. W. H. Pollock should try his hand at Lamartine's "Jocelyn" in blank verse. G. A. S.

Digitized by Google



THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

SKETCHES OF PEASANTRY AND TENANT FARMERS.

The recent extraordinary proceedings on the Lough Mask estate of the Earl of Erne, near Ballinrobe, County Mayo, were described a fortnight ago. Captain Boycott, resident agent for Lord Erne, and farming the land adjacent to Lough Mask House, was pursued with great enmity by the neighbouring tenantry under the influence of the Land League. They would allow no labourers to work for him in getting in his crops, and he was threatened with entire ruin, after having invested above £5000 in the farm. A band of fifty volunteers from the counties of Cavan, Fermanagh, and Monaghan, therefore, came to Lough Mask, as we have related, to perform this work gratuitously for Captain Boycott. The Government sent a large military force to protect them, as well as to protect that gentleman and his family, and a regular encampment was formed in his grounds. The party of Ulstermen, mostly sons of farmers, under the leadership of Captain Somerset Maxwell, and the soldiers, hussars, infantry, and sappers, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel W. L. Twentyman, 19th Hussars, have borne many days of fatigue, worry, and exposure to bitter wintry weather, in an exemplary spirit. No attempt has been made to molest them; and the work of reaping and digging the various crops, and of threshing the corn, has been duly finished. On Saturday last, at two in the afternoon, the camp was broken up; and the Ulster party, taking leave of Captain and Mrs. Boycott, marched to Ballinrobe. Our Special Artist furnishes two or three Sketches of the scenes at their departure, and of the subsequent journey of Captain Boycott and his family, with the military escort, who started early on Sunday morning for Claremorris. They were in a covered ambulance cart, and Captain Boycott carried a favourite parrot in a cage. Captain Boycott and his family proceeded to Dublin by railway, the infantry of the escort going to the Curragh Camp. The

Digitized by Google

1. Furthest Point reached by the Eira. 2. Ship among loose Ice on her way to Franz Joseph Land. 3. Eira attempting to force her way north, August 9. Stopped by the Ice. 4. Rocks on Jan Mayen Island. 5. Cliff, 1400 feet high, North End of Eira Harbour.
6. Portion of Glacier in Magdalena Bay, Spitzbergen. 7. Norwegian Walrus-Hunters, Spitzbergen. 8. Hill on Island, forming Eira Harbour, Franz Joseph Land. 9. First land seen, part of M'Clintock Island. 10. Glacier in Spitzbergen.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION BY MR. LEIGH SMITH'S YACHT IN THE FRANZ JOSEPH ARCHIPELAGO, SIBERIAN OCEAN.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

expedition had lasted seventeen days. It is satisfactory to learn that Captain Boycott's wheat, oats, potatoes, mangold, and other crops, safely reached Dublin, and fetched good prices in the market there; but he will be a heavy loser, and does not expect to be able to resume his agency, or the occupation of his farm. He was accompanied to town by Colonel Bruce, Assistant Inspector-General of Constabulary, and Mr. Hamilton, of the magistracy, who have distinguished themselves throughout the whole business, with Mr. Beckett, Mr. M'Sheehy, and Mr. D. Harrell, magistrates of Mayo.

Tuesday, Dec. 28, has been fixed by the Queen's Bench in Dublin for beginning the trial of the State prosecutions against Mr. Parnell, M.P.; Mr. Dillon, M.P.; Mr. Biggar, M.P., and other leaders of the Irish Land League, whose meetings continue to be held in different parts of the country.

A variety of Sketches of Irish peasantry, and the class of poor tenant farmers in the western districts, are engraved for this Number of our Journal.

MR. LEIGH SMITH'S ARCTIC DISCOVERIES.

Mr. Leigh Smith is already well known as a most adventurous and determined explorer in the frozen seas north of Spitzbergen. But it was some years since he had made a voyage in that direction, when, last winter, he gave orders for the construction of a steamer suitable for ice navigation, at Peterhead. The new steamer was named the Eira, and she was admirably adapted in all respects for the work for which she was intended. Mr. Leigh Smith's intention was to reconnoitre the edge of the ice in every direction, and to push forward wherever he found an opening leading northward. He had an excellent crew of north countrymen, and was accompanied by Mr. Grant, from whose series of photographs our illustrations are taken. Leaving Lerwick, in the Shetland Islands, on June 20, the Eira (a word meaning snow) was first steered to the volcanic island of Jan Mayen, where it was hoped that the lofty peak of Beerenberg might be explored. But the dense fogs to some extent thwarted the explorers, although a few admirable photographs were taken.

Mr. Leigh Smith next made a persevering attempt to penetrate through the ice towards the east coast of Greenland, and, failing there, he tried the northern coast of Spitzbergen, with a similar result. The ice was packed closely down upon the land. But several of the grandest points of this coast were visited, and furnished excellent opportunities for the display of Mr. Grant's photographic skill. Finding that the season was not favourable for exploration on the western side of Spitzbergen, a course was shaped round the southern extremity, and then northward, with a view to making an attempt to reach Franz Joseph Land. In the first trial the ice was too closely packed, and it was necessary to turn the Eira's head southward to get clear. But, after encountering a gale of wind, she was again steered northwards, and in the morning of Aug. 14 the long-desired land was sighted. From that time until the end of the month the Eira was engaged upon most important work, discovering a new coast-line extending westward beyond the furthest point seen by the Austrian Expedition, with islands and capes and harbours, vast stretches of glaciers; and, in short, a previously unknown country with numerous points of interest. But a still more momentous discovery was the navigability of the route to this new coast-line, which will hereafter be the base of operations for future Polar exploration.

One remarkable circumstance connected with this newly discovered region was the existence of very large icebergs, quite unlike those met with in Baffin's Bay. The Franz Joseph Land berg is a vast mass, from 150 ft. to 250 ft. high, and of great extent, with a perfectly level top. Breaking off from the glaciers which line the coast, these do not float southwards, and the direction of their drift is one of the problems which are waiting for solution. The new country was forbidding enough. It was covered with a glacier extending down to the sea. Even the off-lying islands had their caps, and the land was only visible at long intervals in black precipitous masses, rising up between the icy expanses; yet animal life was abundant. Two right whales were seen; there were great numbers of walrus and seals, and the ivory gulls were breeding on one of the islands.

On Aug. 18 the Eira was anchored in a snug harbour formed by two islands, in 80 deg. 8 min. 25 sec. N. latitude, which appropriately received her name. Here the lofty cliffs formed a vast amphitheatre, and below there was a flat plain where many hyperborean plants were growing. But the surrounding scenery was wild and desolate in the extreme. Nearly the whole coast was occupied by glacier after glacier rolling down to the sea, with black headlands abruptly rising through the ice at long intervals.

The Eira succeeded in advancing westward along the coast, through loose ice, on the 24th, and reached the furthest point in this direction, where she was stopped by ice. This position was in latitude 80 deg. 20 min. N., and 40 deg. E. longitude; and land was seen trending away north-west, the furthest point seen being over forty miles away. The extent of the newly discovered coast-line thus discovered and explored was 105 miles, while the extent seen, to the most distant point, was at least 150 miles. The great size of the icebergs and the extent of glacier are indications that Franz Joseph Land is of vast extent.

Having reached this extreme point, and all progress in that direction being, for the time, blocked by the ice, Mr. Leigh Smith turned his steamer's head to the east, and, again running along the coast previously discovered, reached the spot where the Austrian exploring-ship Tegetthoff had wintered and was abandoned, fast locked in the ice. Now there was open water on the same spot.

In returning southwards, Mr. Leigh Smith made an attempt to reach Wiches' Land, to the east of Spitzbergen, but there was a continuous line of closely packed ice, which stopped his progress, although, from Sept. 1 to 10, he persevered in a search for an opening. The weather then became bad, with strong gales, and the nights were getting dark. A course was, therefore, shaped for Stor Fjord, in the south of Spitzbergen, and on the 22nd the voyage home was commenced. Peterhead was reached on Oct. 12.

Mr. Leigh Smith's voyage is the most successful and the most important summer voyage that has ever been made in the Arctic Regions, and his discoveries will certainly form a new starting-point for future Polar discovery.

At a meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Works yesterday week the drawings submitted by Mr. C. J. Phipps, on behalf of Mr. R. D'Oyly Carte, for the construction of a new theatre, to be called the Beaufort Theatre, on the site of the west side of Beaufort-buildings, Strand, were approved.

Nearly one hundred Carmelite nuns, in company with several priests, all recently expelled from France, arrived in Hereford on Thursday week, and took up their residence in the mansion formerly occupied by the late Dr. Brown, Bishop of Newport and Menevia. This house they intend to make their head-quarters, owing to its proxmity to Belmont Pro-Cathedral, the great seat of Benedictine learning in England.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Nov. 30.

"I adore a reception at the Academy," said one immortal to another. "Yes," was the reply, "but the worst of it is that one of us must die before a reception can take place." Happily, this sad reflection does not touch the public, and the reception of a new member to a fauteuil at the French Academy is always very much of an event here. On Thursday last the amphitheatre of the Institute presented a particularly brilliant appearance. One might almost have thought oneself at a "first night" at the Français, so charming were the toilets of the ladies, and so illustrious in the world of art, science, letters, and fashion were the names of the visitors. The ceremony was the reception of M. Labiche, the celebrated vaudevillist, who has amused Paris for the past forty years, and whose genial wit reconciled even the most recalcitrant to the fastidious and tiresome composition known as an academical discourse. If Alfred de Musset had been present he would have erased his famous hemistich, ni comme le discours d'un académicien. If Heine had been there he might, perhaps, have modified some of the terrible pleasantries which he used to launch against the venerable and enlightened company. Indeed, Labiche's speech was charming, and M. John Lemoinne's reply was courteous, if not particularly brilliant.

The fine connoisseurs of art have been talking much of late about the wonderful revival of the art of pastel, to which we owe our most vivid representations of the life and manners of the eighteenth century. I hear that Edmond de Goncourt intends to write a book about it. The author of the revival is M. de Nittis, whose pictures of London must be familiar to my readers. His work bears upon it the vivid imprint of modernité. It is living in every sense of the term. Besides the pastels to which I have referred, M. de Nittis is at work on a picture of the races at Longchamps, which will create a sensation when he exhibits it next spring. It is a complete representation of life on a Paris race-course, with all its elegance, its luxury, its animation, and its eccentricities.

The Chroniqueur of life in Paris has not a very wide choice of subjects this week, and unfortunately those which impose themselves upon his attention are of an unpleasant nature. The great topic of the past week has been the Cissey-Rochefort-Laisant trial, which lasted three days, and was concluded on Saturday. My readers are familiar with the details of the De Cissey scandal. The present trial was brought by M. de Cissey for defamation of character against MM. Rochefort and Laisant, whose journals, the Intransigeant and the Petit Parisien, have been most violent in their attacks upon him, and most prodigal in their charges of treason, malversation, and fraud. MM. Laisant and Rochefort did not succeed in bringing any proofs of their charges. It is true that a technical difficulty prevented them from producing their witnesses. The judgment rendered by the Tribunal after three hours' consultation is not flattering to M. de Cissey, and not severe enough towards his calumniators to satisfy the public that their charges are groundless. However, this is not the moment to discuss the case once more; it will shortly be examined by a Parliamentary committee, and the defendants may appeal against their sentence. The judgment opens by stigmatising M. de Cissey as the author of two letters revealed in the Jung-de-Woestyne case, by which "Courtot de Cissey, in mixing himself up in the disputes of the couple Jung, committed the grave fault of bringing his ministerial authority to bear upon a subordinate in order to induce him to give authorisations which the latter believed to be contrary to his dignity as a husband and a father." It then goes on to condemn MM. Rochefort and Laisant each to pay 4000f. fine and 8000f. damages. When the defendants left the court they were greeted with cries of "Vive Rochefort!" "Vive Laisant!" and Rochefort's cab was followed by the crowd to his home.

This trial has become almost a party question in the Press, and the "irreconcileables," far from considering the judgment as a warning to them to be careful in future about bringing forward groundless accusations, consider it almost a triumph. The Court estimates M. de Cissey's honour at 16,000f.? That is all. Encouraged by this success, Rochefort announces that he intends to expose, not only the abuses and malversations of General de Cissey, but also of the whole Ministry of War; while Blanqui, in his journal, Ni Dieu ni Maitre, proposes to examine the conduct of the councils of war that judged the Communists.

Alas! the ghost of the Commune is constantly crossing the stage in these latter times, and the survivors of that fratricidal struggle, who have returned from a long exile, have returned too often with thoughts only of vengeance. They have no programme, it is true; they have no raison d'être. Amongst the irreconcileables there is, perhaps, less fraternity than there is amongst any other class in this age of individualism. But the cry of misery is not keenly discriminating, and the returned Communists, taking their stand on the social question, influence a large mass of the people. There is no knowing when their scatter-brained visionaries may lead them to acts that will compromise liberty and unsettle the Republic. On Sunday last, for instance, a most unedifying skirmish took place in the cemetery of Levallois-Perret. It was the ninth anniversary of the death of Ferré, member of the Commune, who lies buried there. A manifestation had been organised, and speeches were to be delivered; but the police interfered, and in the scuffle eleven persons were arrested.

This was not the only significant disturbance of the week. On Monday, the anniversary of the death of Lacordaire, a funeral mass to his memory was celebrated in the Eglise Saint-Augustin. Hitherto this mass has been celebrated in the conventual chapels of the Dominican order; but these having been closed, by virtue of the religious decrees of March 19, the Dominicans had to celebrate the mass elsewhere. The clerical journals had begged their readers to come to the mass. In short, a manifestation was desired. The congregation comprised all the celebrities of the Royalist and clerical parties, and all the expelled Dominicans. Père Monsabré delivered a discourse—anti-Governmental, I need hardly say—which was applauded, in spite of the sacredness of the place in which it was delivered. As the congregation came out a cry of "Vive la liberté!" was uttered. Then a rush was made by the crowd outside the church, and further cries of "Vivent les pères!" "A bas les crocheteurs!" were heard. In short, the scenes that took place at the time of the dispersion of the unauthorised religious orders were repeated, the police were assaulted and insulted, and ten persons were arrested.

Apart from these incidents there is little new at Paris, unless it be the rehearsals of the new ballet, "La Korrigane," at the Opéra, and the projects of raising statues to Lakanal, Alexandre Dumas, and Pierre Dupont. Apropos of statues, I may add that Rochefort is having a petition signed to raise a monument in Paris to the memory of the heroes of the Commune. Happily, I can quit politics for this week with this announcement, for neither in the Chamber nor in the Senate have the proceedings been of deep interest. The Chamber has been chiefly occupied with the educational question. T. C.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

The complete departure of the frost during the early part of last week was an intense relief to the lessees of race meetings, and capital gatherings at Warwick, Manchester, and Kempton Park, brought the season of 1880 to a close with great éclat. Nothing very noteworthy took place at Warwick. Œnone, who was quite invincible during the early part of the year, beat a large though indifferent field in the Grendon Nursery, and Sir George Chetwynd also won a welter race with Lord Clive, who has disappointed him so terribly since he gave a long price for him about two years ago. The horse is now for sale by private contract, and from his splendid breeding—by Lord Clifden from Plunder—and grand appearance, ought to make a successful sire, despite the sad falling off in his racing capabilities since his three-year-old days. The everlasting Advance (9st.) started favourite for the Midland Counties Handicap but ran badly, and though Lord Clive (8st. 4lb.) appeared to be winning easily at the distance, Playfellow (6st. 7lb.) proved too good for him in the last hundred yards. Old Woodcock appeared in winning colours in a Hunters' race, and in another similar event the two cracks—Blue Danube and Glen Jossa—succumbed to Spreading Sail, a son of Paul Jones. Turning to Manchester, we find Misenus making such a rare race with Madame du Barry for the November Cup that his success in the Great Shropshire Handicap is well accounted for, and it is clear that, when in the humour to struggle, he is a very fair horse. War Horn (6 st. 8 lb.) took the Lancashire Cup from a capital field of thirteen, which included such speedy horses as Charibert (9 st. 6 lb.), Valentino (7 st. 3 lb.), and Misenus (7 st. 12 lb.); and this was actually the first time that the Oaks form has been confirmed in any way ever since Jenny Howlet, Bonnie Marden, and War Horn ran home in front of the worst field that ever ran for the "ladies' race." The distance—seven furlongs—was a quarter of a mile too far for Charibert, but Valentino ought to have done better. On the following day, over five furlongs, Charibert ran a great horse, but could not quite give 17 lb. to Centenary, a half-brother to The Palmer and Rosicrucian, who possesses a good deal of the speed of his distinguished relatives. The £1000 added to the Manchester Handicap proved successful in bringing a field of fifteen to the post. Sideral (6st. 3lb.) and Schoolboy (6st. 5lb.) were equal favourites at 4 to 1, and Retreat (7 st. 4lb.), Stockmar (6 st. 4lb.), and Unready (6 st.) were also well supported. The three-year-olds ran very badly, and Sideral could only get third to Madame du Barry (8 st. 2 lb.) and old Adamite (7 st. 7 lb.). The victory of the former was easily achieved, and, considering the style in which she has been running of late, it is surprising that she was allowed to start at 12 to 1. The attendance at Kempton Park was not very large on either day, nor was the racing particularly interesting. Mr. Pickwick won a couple of events, and was bought in for 460gs. Theophrastus was beaten by Abbot of St. Mary's over hurdles on the first day, but carried 12 st. 2 lb., a very big weight for a three-year-old, successfully on Saturday. There were fourteen runners for the November Handicap, and, at the finish, Sir Joseph (8 st.) supplanted Belfry (7 st. 1 lb.) in the quotations. The latter ran unaccountably badly, but Sir Joseph, as usual, flattered his supporters until reaching the distance, where he was beaten, and Beauchamp II. effected a great coup for the ring.

The steeplechasing season was inaugurated very successfully at Croydon on Tuesday. Rocket defeated a moderate field in a Hunters' flat race, and Burley took the Steward's Steeplechase. The Grand National Hurdle-Race was, of course, the event of the day, though the ten runners were scarcely as good class as those that usually contest this race. Charles I. (11 st. 5 lb.) and Fair Wind (10 st. 5 lb.) were in equal demand at 5 to 2, and ran almost as close in the race as they did in the betting, for P'Anson had to ride the former desperately hard to beat Fair Wind by a head. The winner is a son of Prince Charlie, and ran unsuccessfully in the big race at Kempton Park on the previous Saturday.

For the seventh year in succession Archer heads the list of winning jockeys with a score of 121, a really wonderful result when it is remembered that he was disabled from riding for several weeks during the season. Fordham's total of 105 is a marvellous performance for a jockey who has been riding for about a quarter of a century, and Cannon is a fair third with 79. Wood's 71 is not a good average, as he has had no less than 441 mounts; and, of the rising talent, Kellett comes out brilliantly with 45, a score that will probably be doubled next season.

Mr. R. J. Streatfield has resigned his position as Master of the Southdown Foxhounds, which he held for nearly ten years past. At a meeting of the supporters on Saturday, the resignation was accepted with regret; and Mr. Charles Brand was appointed master. The Burton Hunt met at Hackthorne Hall on Tuesday, when a testimonial was presented to Mr. Foljambe, M.P., on the occasion of his retirement from the mastership of the hunt.

The sculling-match between Edward Trickett (ex-champion) and Wallace Ross, of New Brunswick, over the championship course, which took place on Monday, unfortunately resulted in a foul, and the men have to scull again to-day (Saturday) at half-past two o'clock. Trickett came in first, but neither was in good condition, and the form displayed was by no means first class. The stake at issue is £400, and, as both have wisely taken a rest, they may be in better trim to-day. After considerable difficulty, a match has been arranged between Hanlan and Laycock. It will be for the championship and £500 a side, and will take place on Jan. 17.

ROYAL INSTITUTION.

The following arrangements have been made for the lectures before Easter:—Professor Dewar, six lectures (adapted to a juvenile auditory) on Atoms, on Dec. 28, 30; Jan. 1, 4, 6, 8. Professor Schäfer, twelve lectures on the Blood, Tuesdays, Jan. 18 to April 5. Mr. Francis Hueffer, four lectures on the Troubadours, on Thursdays, Jan. 20 to Feb. 10. Professor Ernst Pauer, two lectures on the History of Drawing-room Music, on Thursdays, Feb. 17, 24. Rev. William Houghton, two lectures on the Picture Origin of Cuneiform Writing, on Thursdays, March 3, 10. Mr. H. H. Statham, four lectures on Ornament, on Thursdays, March 17 to April 7. Professor Sidney Colvin, four lectures on the Amazons, on Saturdays, Jan. 22 to Feb. 12. Mr. R. Stuart Poole, four lectures on Ancient Egypt, on Saturdays, Feb. 19 to March 12. Rev. H. R. Haweis, four lectures on American Humourists, on Saturdays, March 19 to April 9.

Earl Cairns presided over the annual meeting of the subscribers and friends of the Belfast Nurses' Home and Training School, which took place at Belfast yesterday week.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat landed at Liverpool last week from the United States and Canada were greatly below those of the preceding week. There was not a single live sheep arrived, a circumstance which has not occurred since April last. The total reached 467 cattle, 7802 quarters of beef, 1023 carcases of mutton, 385 live pigs, and 250 dead pigs.

Digitized by Google

THE PLAYHOUSES.

There is scarcely anything in the way of actual novelty to recall at the Playhouses this week. At most of the theatres it is a case of old lamps relacquered. That the lacquering is very handsome, and, in many cases very tasteful, I at once admit; still, one would like something that was really new; and the paucity of original dramas on our stage at the present time is most melancholy. To be sure, we have "The World" at Drury Lane, which some evenings back celebrated a triumphant run of a hundred nights; and, but for the imminent Christmas pantomime, to which it is bound to give place, would probably run for a hundred nights more. I thought that I discovered when I first saw "The World" that there was "money in it," and my forecast seems to have been amply verified. Like the "Beggars' Opera," which made Gay (its author) rich, and Rich (the Covent-Garden manager) gay, "The World," unless I am misinformed, has proved a very Pactolus to the author, the manager, the entrepreneur, and, at least, of the actors engaged in its production; still, granting the skilful construction, the strong dramatic interest, and the forcible dialogue of this remarkable spectacle, the play of Messrs. Meritt, Pettitt, and Augustus Harris can scarcely be regarded as a contribution to English dramatic literature. It has had an immense and a well-deserved success. Yet, the success has been one of the "combination" kind, to which authorship, stage management, scene-painting, ballet dancing, elaborate machinery, and pyrotechnics have contributed in equal proportions.

At the Haymarket on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, recruited in health and energy by a long and richly-earned holiday, resumed their trim sceptres as the Ferdinand and Isabella of a dramatic Castile and Aragon. But there was no novelty in the way of entertainment. The sparkling little gem, "The Vicarage," and the always delightful "School," were the staple of enjoyment provided. That the first-named piece is an adaptation from the French "Le Village," and that the second was (in part) suggested by a German play, called "Aschenbrödel," does not, at this time of day, matter, any more than it does that Goldsmith's irresistibly comic ballad of "Madame Blaise" is a free translation from the French of De la Monnoye. The skill of the English dramatist and the consummate art of Mrs. Bancroft have long since naturalised "The Vicarage" as a thoroughly English piece; and the foreign element in "School" is so very slight (not going much beyond the, to us, somewhat anomalous circumstance of a male usher officiating in a ladies' boarding-school) as to be scarcely perceptible. But were "School" as direct a translation from the German as Kotzebue's "Stranger" is, the wit and humour of the late Mr. Robertson's dialogue, and the ingenuity of the situations, would amply atone for the partial foreign parentage of "School." At the Haymarket on Saturday the part of the obtrusive man of the world, George Clarke, in "The Vicarage," was played by Mr. Bancroft; and in "School" Mr. Brookfield replaced Mr. Forbes Robertson as the repulsive usher, Krux. We are promised novelty at the Haymarket in the shape of a new comedy by Mr. F. C. Briareus—I mean Mr. Burnand.

At the Criterion also on Saturday was produced for the first time positively a "novelty," called "Where's the Cat?"—the strange title referring to the skin of a defunct tabby, erst the property of an old fortune-teller, and which catskin is by sundry persons, the legatees of the soothsayer, converted into a kind of savings-bank or strong box of a Mutual Investment Association. The intrigue of the piece (which was entirely successful) hinges on the mistakes, equivoques, and other complications arising from attempts to discover the individuality of the custodian of the catskin treasury; and a surprising amount of fun of the "touch-and-go" order seems to have been evolved out of very slight materials by the drollery of Mr. Charles Wyndham, and especially of Mrs. John Wood, whose inherent waggishness is of such a sustaining influence that, so to speak, it would save a water-logged ship, deep-laden with grain, and all her pumps broken, from sinking.

"William and Susan," most superbly mounted, excellently acted, and incurably tearful of variations (in the minor key) on Douglas Jerrold, has terminated its lachrymose career at the St. James's, and on this present Saturday will be replaced by Mr. Coghlan's new version, called "Good Fortune," of M. Octave Feuillet's "Roman d'un Jeune Homme Pauvre." Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and Mr. John Clayton are in the cast. Not so Mr. Hare. That model of self-denying actor-managers contented himself with one of the smallest parts, that of the Admiral, in "William and Susan;" while from "Good Fortune" he is, to the general regret of his many admirers, altogether absent. At the New Sadler's Wells, the unanimous verdict of the press as to the excellence of Mr. Charles Warner's Harry Dornton in "The Road to Ruin" has been endorsed by nightly crowded audiences; while at the Folly those who come to laugh remain to shriek (but always with laughter) at the fantastic humours of Mr. J. L. Toole as the dancing-master Slithery in Mr. Byron's diverting interlude "The Light Fantastic." Mr. Toole is capitally supported; and in particular does Miss Roland Phillips show sprightliness and intelligence in the small but highly comic part of Slithery Junior, the son and heir of the Professor of the Hall of Terpsichore, Old Kent-road. And the "Upper Crust" has not yet gone under, nor does it exhibit any signs of doing so. Never was there a crust for such continuous "rising." But it is no crust of "puff" paste; being too good in itself to need any puffing.

I went on Monday to the Adelphi to see the dear old "Green Bushes; or, a Hundred Years Ago." It is not quite a hundred years since I saw the "Green Bushes;" but it is certainly more than thirty. There are especial reasons why I should keep the Playhouses "short" this week; as it happens that Christmas is coming, and that we are desperately pressed for space in these columns; so I will refrain from enlarging on the "Green Bushes" of the past in comparison with the "Green Bushes" of the present. Suffice it, then, to say that a large audience received an old familiar friend with the utmost enthusiasm, and that the drama went, from first to last, most effectively. Mr. Henry Neville was Conner O'Kennedy, and Mr. Shiel Barry, Wild Murtogh. Mrs. Bernard Beere was most graceful and pathetic as the deserted wife, Geraldine, and Miss Bella Pateman threw much energy and intensity into Madame Celeste's old, splendid part of Miami, the huntress of the Mississippi; Jack Gong and Muster Grimmidge, once played by Paul Bedford and Wright, and afterwards by Paul and Toole, were respectively satisfactorily impersonated by Mr. R. Pateman, who was duly stentorian, and Mr. J. G. Taylor, who is a funny comedian, but lacks physique. The "Bushes" were preceded by the rare old farce of "The Illustrious Stranger" (from the French "Veuve du Malabar"), in which Mr. J. G. Taylor played Benjamin Bowbell with much appreciation of the comic, but still with the same deficiency of oral vigour.

At the Gaiety on this same Monday the "regular" company returned to winter quarters at their legitimate home. Mr. Edward Terry made a triumphal rentrée as the old servant in Mr. Boucicault's play of "Kerry," and Mr. Terry and Mr. Royce convulsed a crowded audience as Mr. Proser and Mr. Humphrey Smirke in Mr. Burnand's "Musical Box." And everywhere in the midnight sky, as I was driven home in a hansom, did I seem to see, faintly twinkling, the words "Adapted from the French." "Billee Taylor" is coming to the Gaiety. That fine young fellow is, at least, not of Gallic extraction. G. A. S.

MUSIC.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

After two postponements—for the sake of extra rehearsals—Signor Tito Mattei's opera, "Maria di Gand" was produced on Thursday week. The composer has been for some years resident here, and is highly esteemed as a cultivated musician and a brilliant pianist. He now appears in a more ambitious capacity; in a work of the romantic and tragic school, occupying four acts.

The libretto is by Signor G. T. Cimino, the English version by Mr. Hersee. The action—partly at Brussels and partly in the neighbourhood of Lacken—is founded on incidents connected with the struggles of the Netherlands against Spain under Philip the Second. Mary of Ghent, wife of Count George, had a former lover, her husband's friend, Count Richard Orley, who goes to Brussels in disguise, endeavouring to persuade George to join a conspiracy against Spain. At a meeting of conspirators, Mary warns Orley that a Spanish captain is on their track, and effects the escape of her husband's friend. The proclamation of the Duke of Alva putting in force an obsolete edict condemning heretics to death rouses the indignation of George, whose threatened arrest is opposed by Orley. His destruction of the placard, and consequent arrest following George's endeavours to rescue his friend are met by information that the latter has been aided by a lady who came from the house of the former. The avowal of Mary's confidant, Anna, that it was she, leads to her imprisonment; sentence of execution on her and Orley following. Mary, learning this, writes to the Duke of Alva avowing herself the guilty party. The letter, falling into the hands of her husband, determines him to poison his wife. Repenting, however, at the last moment, he snatches the fatal draught from her and swallows it himself, pardoning Mary with his dying breath.

The opera is preceded by a short orchestral introduction in lieu of the usual overture. The music throughout the work is full of animation and vigour, in several situations being characterised by grace and expression. It cannot be said to be anywhere original, or to possess distinctive individuality. It is, however, free from servile plagiarism, and is extremely well written for the singers, for whose respective voices it is, in each case, admirably suited. The orchestral effects are generally of the brilliant and resonant kind which prevail in modern Italian opera, several of the more sentimental vocal pieces being accompanied with delicate instrumental effects. With some compression of the music, the opera will gain in effect. Among the most successful solo movements were Mary's romanza, "A te, ben mio," in the first act; and her scena and romanza, "Eletto spirto," in the last act; the romanza, "Al sospirato" for Orley, and the scena and aria, "Mia speme è delusa" for George. The duet and trio ("Tu promettesti") for the three characters just named; the duet, "Che Maria," for Mary and Orley, that for the latter and George ("Per figli"), and the final duet (Dunque nel cor") for this character and Mary, were especially effective among the concerted pieces. Some of the choral music is very bright and spirited, the martial movement (with military band on the stage) in the scene of the Proclamation having produced such an impression that it had to be repeated, involving an absurd premature exeunt and return of the performers. In this act is some of the best writing in the opera, comprising some lively ballet music, the action including the skilful solo dancing of Mdlle. Paladino. Madame Zacchi as Mary, Signor Runcio as Richard Orley, and Signor Aldighieri as George, acted and sang with great effect; the subordinate characters of Anna Andrea Van Heysen, the Duke of Alva, and Marco (a Spanish captain) having been efficiently filled, respectively, by Mdlle. Barnadelli, and Signori Bonetti, Pro, and Ordinas. The opera has been extremely well placed on the stage as to costumes, appointments, and scenery, the latter including beautiful representations of a hall in the palace of George of Ghent, the ruins of Orley's Castle, and the square in front of the Hôtel de Ville at Brussels.

The composer conducted the performance, and he as well as the principal singers were called before the curtain more than once. "Maria di Gand" was given again on Saturday and Wednesday evenings, and was to be repeated this (Saturday) evening.

Last Monday's repetition of "Il Trovatore" included Madame Zacchi's very effective performance as Leonora, the cast having been, in other respects, the same as recently. Verdi's "Aïda" was announced for Thursday last, "Don Giovanni" for next Tuesday, and "Maritana" for Wednesday.

The opening performance of the fifteenth season of the London Ballad Concerts included many favourite vocal pieces, and some of more recent origin. Among the latter were: two characteristic Shakspearean songs, "Full Fathom Five," and "It was a Lover and his Lass"—set by Mr. C. H. Hubert Parry—effectively sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling; Mr. T. Marzials' "A Summer Shower," rendered by Miss M. Davies, and encored; "Face it," a new song by Sir J. Benedict, effectively given by Mr. Santley; and another new song by Mr. Molloy, entitled "The Baby and the Fly," which Madame Sterling had to repeat. Other pieces, too well-known to need specification, were successfully sung by the singers already named, and Miss C. Samuell, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. J. Maas, Signor Foli, and Mr. Maybrick. The fine singing of about sixty members of the South London Choral Association (directed by Mr. L. C. Venables) was successfully displayed in several part-songs. This is a new and important feature in the arrangements for the present series of concerts. Mr. Sidney Naylor continues his efficient fulfilment of the duties of accompanist.—The programme of the second concert—which took place this week—was of similar interest.

Last Saturday's Crystal Palace concert included a fine performance, by M. Hollman, of a dry and uninteresting concerto for violoncello, composed by M. Saint-Saëns. A melodious "Adagio," from a "Divertimento" by Mozart, was also given—for the first time here—the solo violin and viola parts having been excellently rendered, respectively, by Mr. Jung and Mr. Krause. Beethoven's overture to "Coriolan," Brahms's first symphony (in C minor), and some Ballet music from Ponchielli's opera, "Le due Gemelle," completed the instrumental selection. Mr. E. Lloyd sang the Prayer from Wagner's "Rienzi" with fine expression, but was unable, from indisposition, to give the second song set down for him.

The second of Mr. F. H. Cowen's Saturday evening concerts at St. James's Hall (last week) brought forward an effective and cleverly-scored "Dramatic Overture," composed by Mr. W. Shakspeare; and a set of six charming orchestral movements, by Mr. Cowen, entitled "The Language of the Flowers." Each piece is distinguished by the name of a particular flower, with its supposed representative sentiment or embodiment and an appropriate poetical quotation. Every number pleased greatly and was loudly applauded, No. 5 having been encored. Madame Frickenhaus gave an artistic performance of Goetz's pianoforte concerto and Chopin's Impromptu in F sharp; and a symphony of Haydn, and Weber's overture to "The Ruler of the Spirits," were well played by the orchestra. Vocal solos were effectively rendered by Madame Patey and Signor Foli. Mr. Cowen conducted with his usual efficiency. The third concert takes place this (Saturday) evening.

St. Andrew's Day was celebrated on Tuesday evening at the Royal Albert Hall and St. James's Hall, an attractive concert of Scottish music having been given at each place.

The second concert of the tenth season of the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society took place on Thursday evening, when "Elijah" was given, Madame Albani and other eminent vocalists having been announced in the programme.

The Sacred Harmonic Society entered on its forty-ninth season last evening, when the performances were removed from Exeter Hall, where they have been given for many years, to St. James's Hall. The programme for the opening concert comprised Beethoven's first Mass (in C), Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," and the fragments of his unfinished oratorio "Christus." The solo vocalists announced were Mrs. Osgood, Miss Hancock, Mr. H. Guy, Mr. F. King, and Mr. C. Henry. Sir M. Costa retains the post of conductor, which he has held for so many years, and Mr. Willing is still the organist.

Dr. Sloman's cantata, "Supplication and Praise," was performed by the Norwood Choral Society last week, with much success, at the Institute, Lower Norwood.

On Tuesday afternoon the final meeting of the Leeds Musical Festival Committee was held. The total receipts were £9300, against £7896 in 1877; the expenses, £6928, against £7100; and the profits, £2371, against £800. The total attendance was 14,854—an increase of 1454 over the previous festival. The committee recommend that £2000 should be divided amongst the four Leeds medical charities.

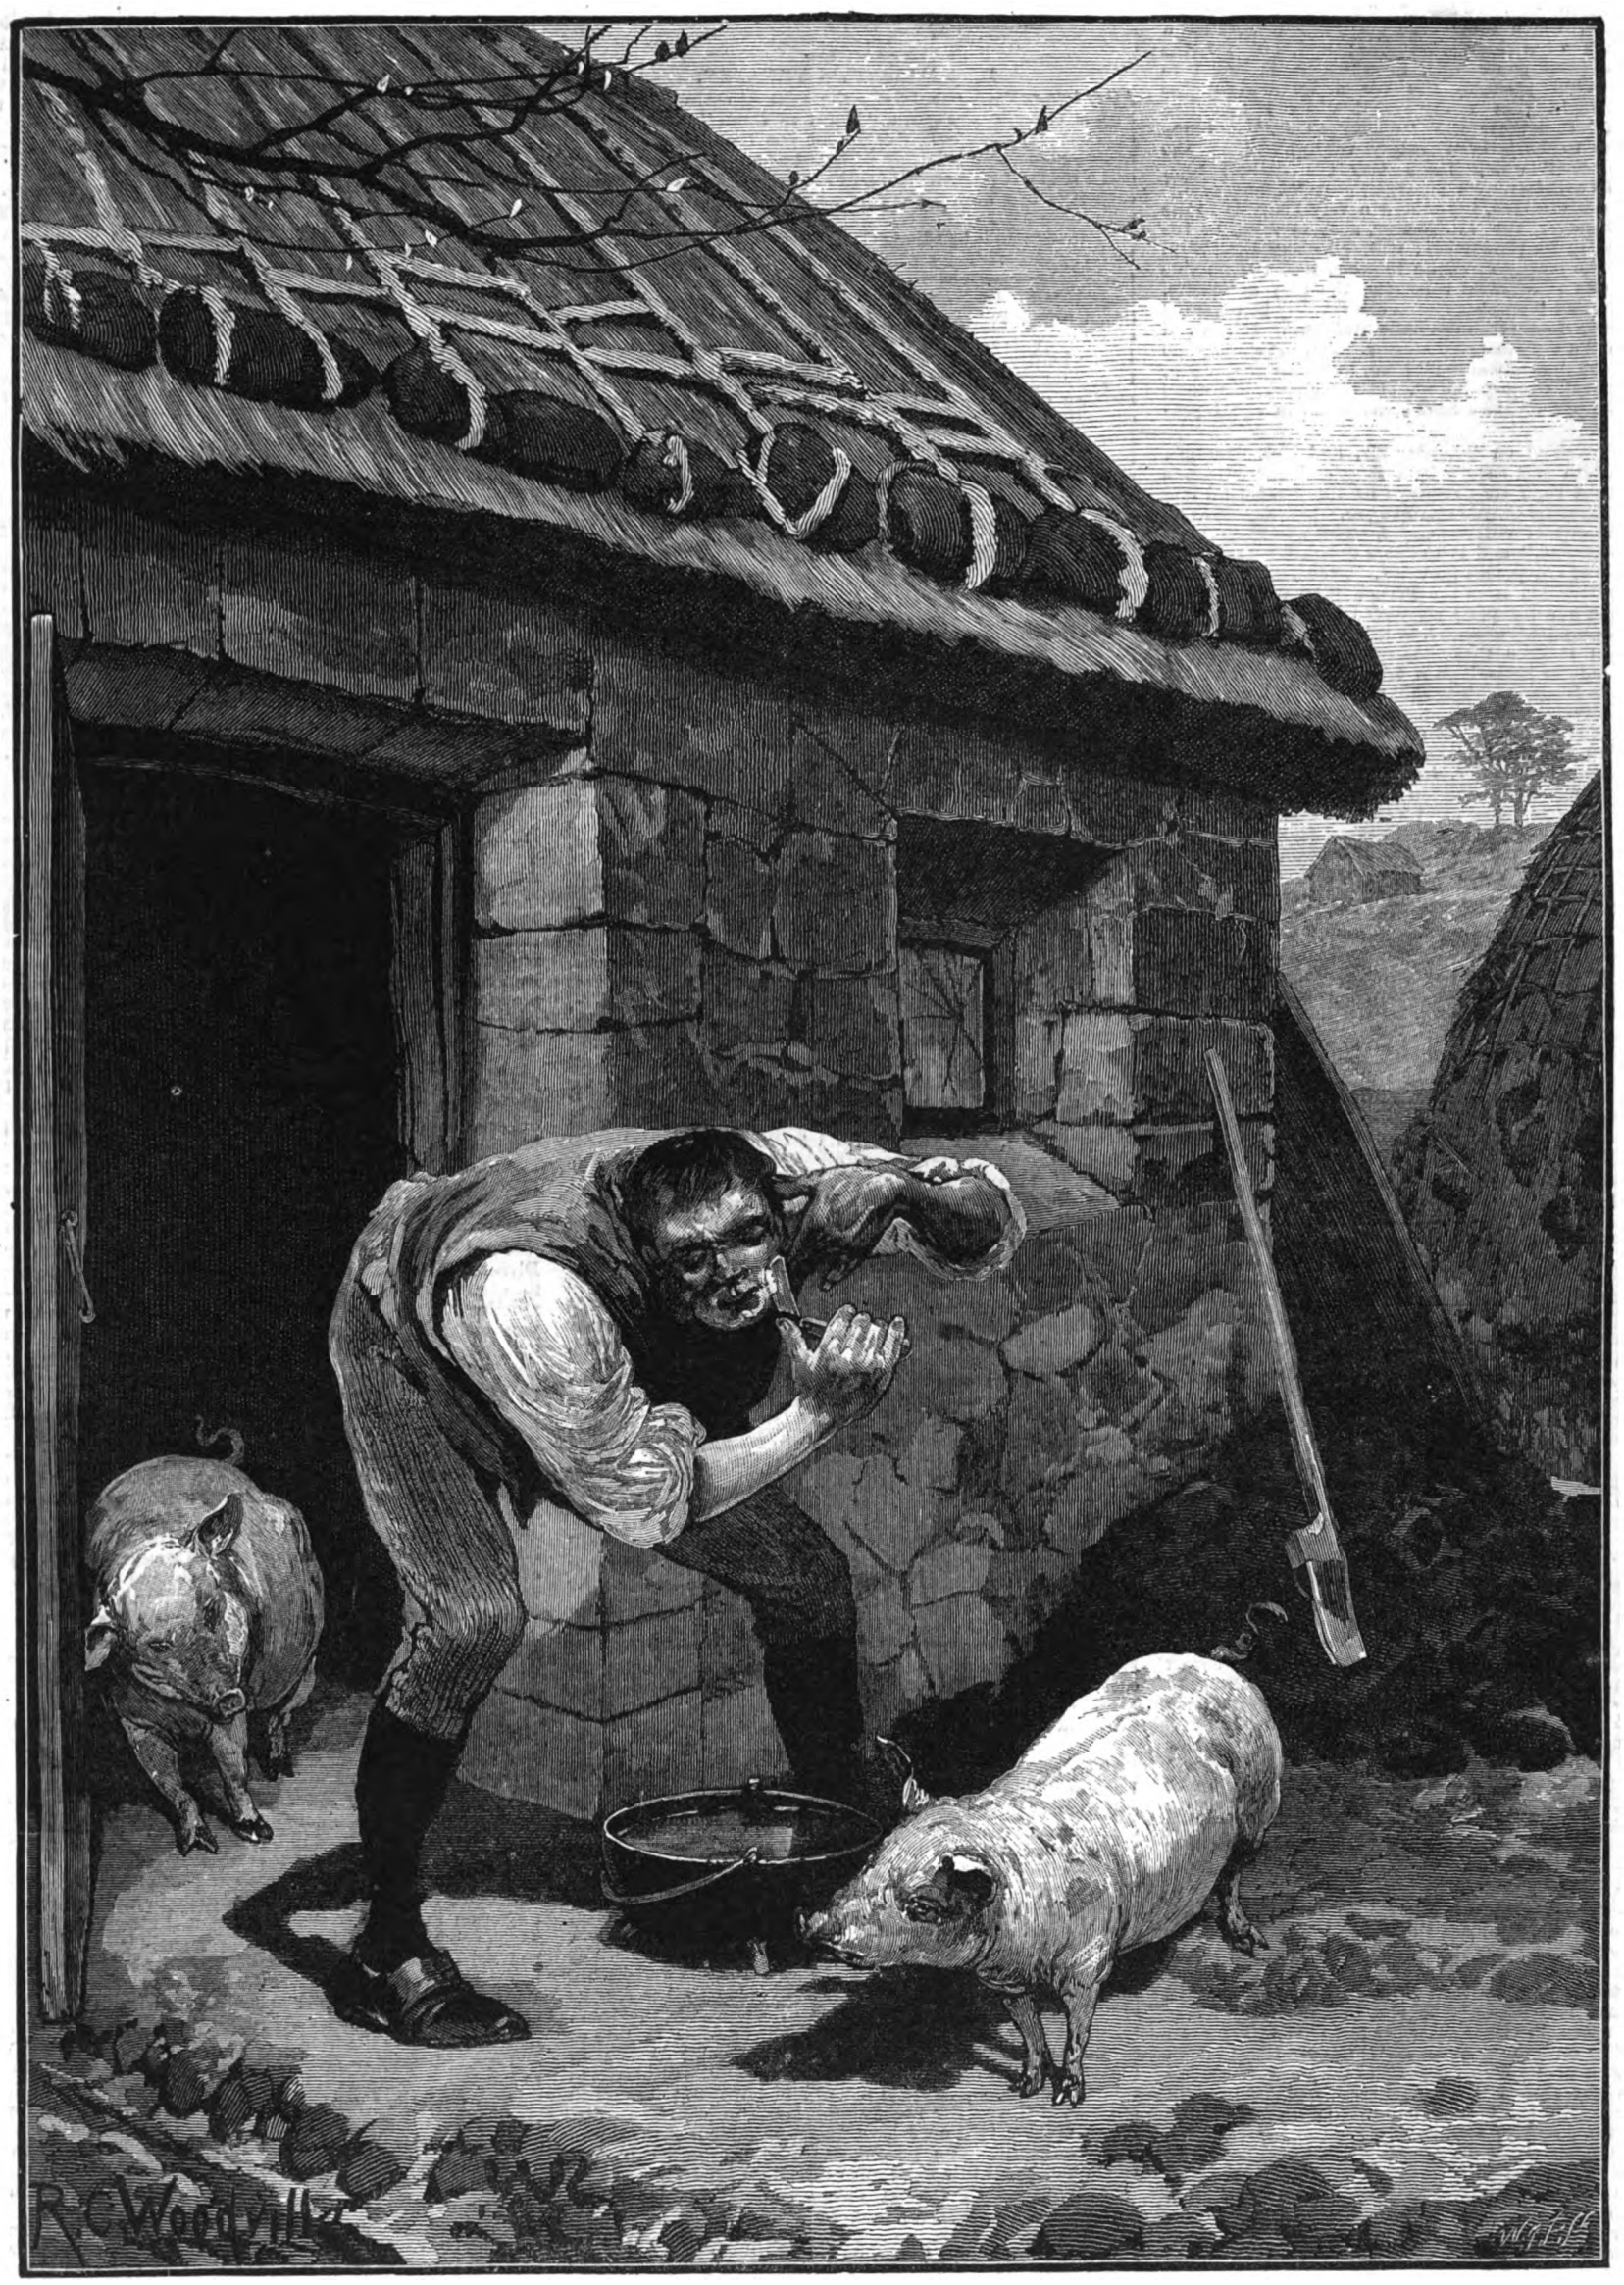
The Royal Albert Hall Amateur Orchestral Society will, on Dec. 18, give a concert for the benefit of the French Hospital and Dispensary, at which the president of the society, the Duke of Edinburgh, will assist as one of the executants.

The discussion on the curious engraved seal of the ancient Hittite Monarchy, an account of which, with an Illustration, we gave a fortnight ago, took place at the Society of Biblical Archæology.

The Irish Land Tenure Committee (consisting of Lords Emly, Powerscourt, Monck, and a number of other Irish landowners, members of Parliament, &c.) have issued a preliminary report containing suggestions and resolutions as to "requisite legislation." They recommend, amongst other schemes, that tenants may acquire the "fee of their holdings, and the fee of their farm interests, subject to a fixed rent," also the conferring on the tenants of "fixity of tenure at variable rents."

Upon the conclusion of the business at the law courts last Saturday afternoon, all the Judges adjourned to Lord Redesdale's room in the House of Lords, and assembled as a deliberative council for the first time, in accordance with the provisions of the Judicature Act. The object of the meeting was to consider the vacancies in the judgeships of the Court of Exchequer and the Court of Common Pleas, and also several suggestions that have been submitted as to the best means of facilitating the hearing of cases and the reduction of costs.

Lord Coleridge, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas Division, has been appointed Lord Chief Justice of England, in succession to the late Sir Alexander Cockburn.—The remains of the late Lord Chief Justice of England were yesterday week interred in the family vault in Kensal-green Cemetery, in the presence of the Lord Chancellor, the Lords Justices of Appeal, the Judges of the Common Law Divisions of the High Court of Justice, the Law Officers of the Crown, a large number of members of the Bar, and a representative gathering of the public.

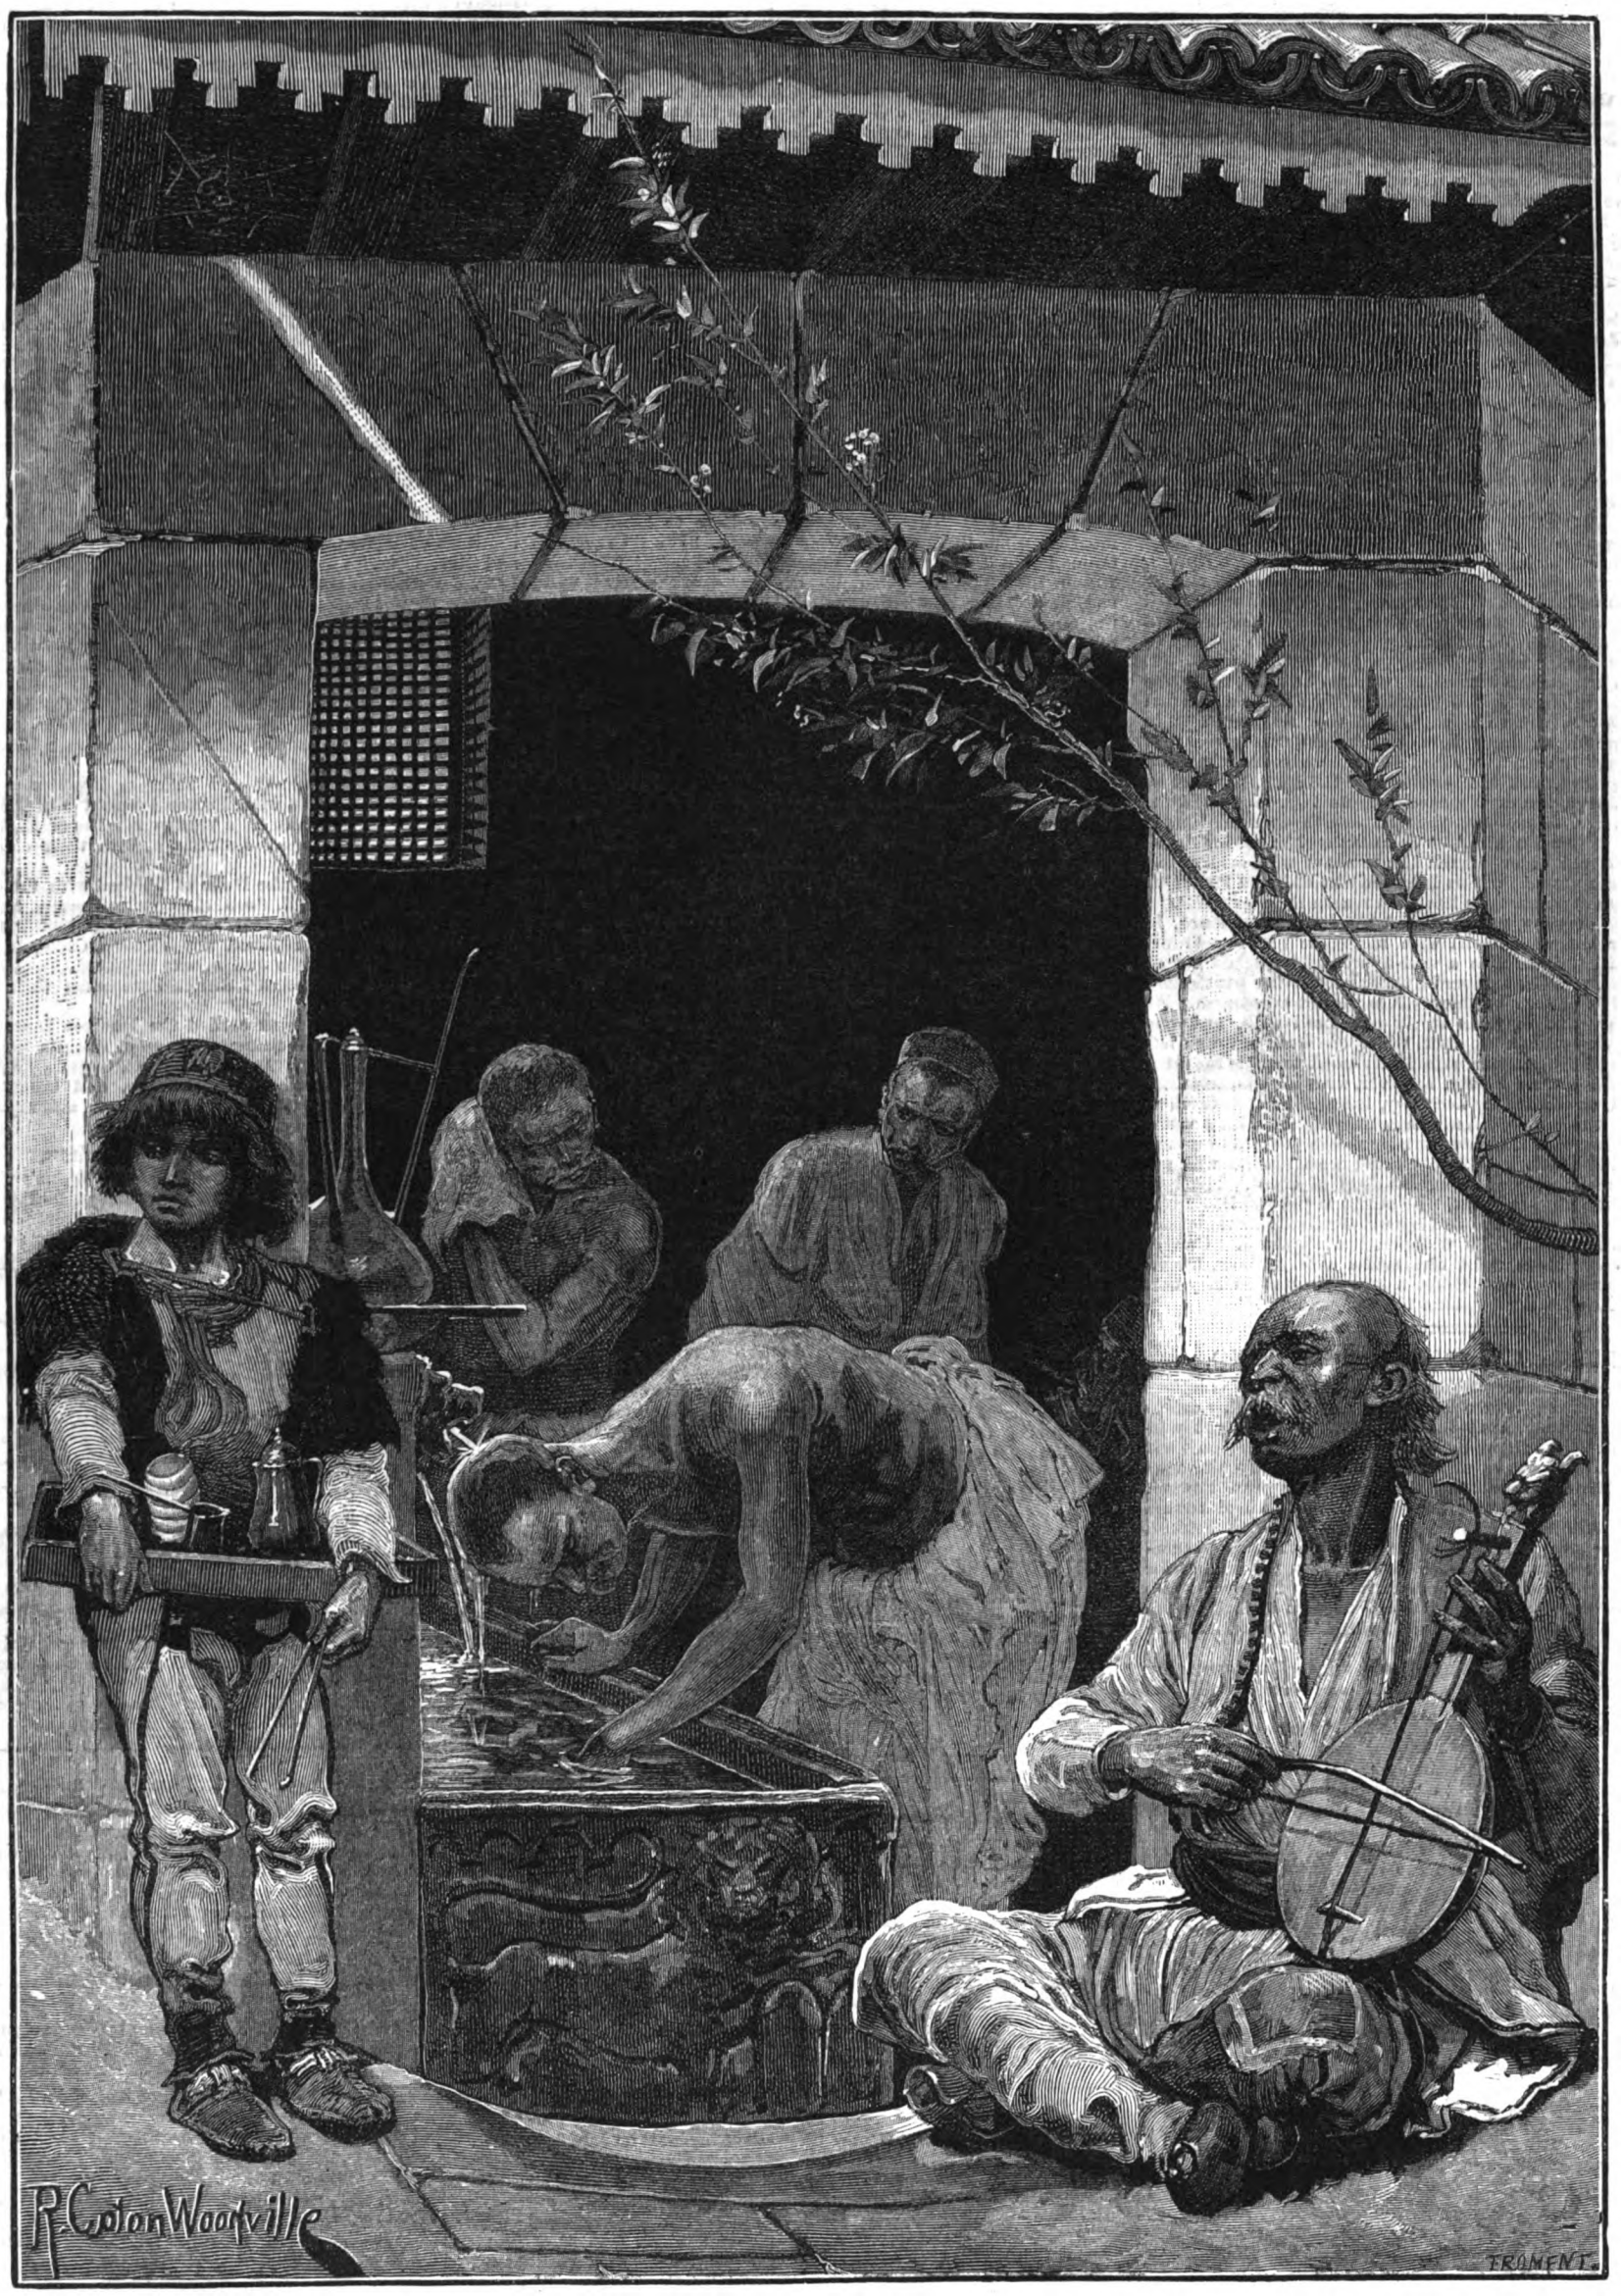


At the half-yearly communication of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown held on Tuesday night, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Lord Henniker, Provincial Grand Master for Suffolk, was nominated as Grand Master of the Mark Degree for the ensuing year, in succession to the Earl of Lathom. On the same day the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Scotland held its annual meeting in Edinburgh for the installation of office-bearers previously nominated. Mr. Mackintosh Balfour, Grand Master of all India, presided. Sir Michael Shaw Stewart was installed for the eighth time as Grand Master Mason of Scotland. The Grand Lodge afterwards celebrated the festival of St. Andrew.

The twenty-sixth annual meeting of the Royal Hospital for Incurables was held yesterday week at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, for the purpose of receiving the annual report of the board of management and electing twenty-five applicants to the benefits of the institution. The meeting was presided over by Mr. John Derby Allcroft, the treasurer. The secretary read the report in connection with the institution for the past year, which stated that the financial retrospect of the year was encouraging, though the time had been one of some difficulty. An appeal was made early in the year for participation in the Metropolitan Hospital Sunday Fund, from which the hospital had hitherto been excluded. That appeal had been unsuccessful, the constitution of the hospital not being in harmony with one of the rules of the Hospital Sunday Fund. The annual dinner in connection with the charity took place in April last, under the presidency of the chairman, and realised £4322 to the funds. The erection of the new wing had been liberally responded to. The total cost would amount to £25,000.

The Society of Antiquaries held its first meeting for the present winter session on Thursday week at its rooms in Burlington House, Piccadilly, Mr. Edwin Freshfield in the chair. Mr. John Evans read a paper on the recent congress at Lisbon of students of prehistoric ages. He explained the subjects of inquiry at the several meetings which he had attended, and enumerated the places visited with the view of carrying out excavations calculated to throw light on the interments of primitive mankind. Mr. C. D. E. Fortnum next read a paper on the diamond signet of Henrietta Maria, wife of Charles I., which was known to have been cut for that unfortunate Queen in her early married days, and which she probably carried abroad with her into exile. The Rev. J. E. Warren also read a paper descriptive of the Stowe Missal, for some parts of which he claimed as early a date as the ninth century, though other portions were certainly later. The Mayor and Corporation of Coventry having lent their curious tapestry from St. Mary's Hall in that city for exhibition to the society, it was exhibited in the upper room of the society's house, and was explained by Mr. Scharff.

Digitized by Google



DOMESTIC SCENES IN

A PRIVATE SHAVE IN COUNTY GALWAY.

Digitized by Google

DISTURBED DISTRICTS.

A PUBLIC WASH AT DULCIGNO.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

A PRIVATE SHAVE IN GALWAY.

Amidst very much that is shameful and sorrowful, even tragical and terrible, in the social condition of Western Ireland, Paddy is still Paddy—Heaven help him! and he is a droll fellow in his milder moods. Lover and Lever, and other patriotic Irish humourists, have long taught us to enjoy, without a shade of scorn, the grotesque and comical side of the popular character. It is not in an unkindly or contemptuous spirit that we relieve the sad display of shiftless misery and barbarous ferocity, among a population capable of higher and better life, with some lighter sketches, taken by our Artists in different counties, in Meath and Kildare, pastoral districts which have not shared the recent distress of the western provinces, as well as in Roscommon, Mayo, and Galway. The small farmers, cottiers, labourers, and other peasantry, are not all wretched; and it is only in certain parts of the country that many have been seduced and excited by the Land League agitation to an alarming conspiracy against the rights of property. Let this great social evil, in hopes of a just legislative and judicial remedy, be forgotten one moment in looking at some of the more amusing incidents of their rural and domestic habits, which appear in two pages of our Illustrations this week.

"A Private Shave," early in the Sunday morning, outside a cottage door in Connemara, though in a locality that must be included with other "disturbed districts," will strike the readers of our Journal simply as odd and funny. Our friend Pat—if he will allow us to call him so—has a becoming idea of making his face clean and smooth for the day before he goes to worship at the Catholic chapel of his village. The house in which he lives is a substantial stone building, whether or not provided by the landlord; its well-thatched roof is protected against the stormy Atlantic gales by a peculiar arrangement of binding ropes, secured to heavy stones, which may also be seen in the Hebrides and the Isle of Man. But the furniture within must be of a simple and scanty description. Pat is never much of a carpenter and joiner, and will readily put up with an inverted tub for a table, and an old sack, filled with straw or turf, instead of a stool or chair. He does not possess even a small bit of looking-glass for the aid of his toilette; but it may be questioned, on good English authority, if he wants it upon this occasion. William Cobbett, no sloven or friend to idleness and beggarliness, lays down a Spartan rule, in his "Advice to Young Men," that no man ought to have any use for such an article of effeminate vanity.

"I once," he says, "heard Sir John Sinclair, the great Scotch improver, ask Mr. Cochrane Johnstone, whether he meant to have a son of his, then a little boy, taught Latin. 'No,' said Mr. Johnstone, 'but I mean to do something a great deal better for him.' 'What is that?' said Sir John. 'Why,' said the other, 'teach him to shave with cold water, and without a glass.' Which I dare say he did, and for which benefit, I am sure, that son has good reason to be grateful."

The loss of time, patience, and manly independence, in waiting for hot water, even with numerous female servants and punctual early fires in a well-appointed household, or at a good hotel, must be deplored by many a shaving gentleman, and Cobbett's picture of this nuisance is not overdrawn. As for the mirror, it may be safely dispensed with, and one may shave very well in the dark, when the sense of touch has been rendered, by practice, sufficiently exact to guide the razor in a dexterous hand. Paddy, however, with his characteristic mother-wit, or assisted by necessity, the mother of invention, has devised a very effective mirror, consisting of a little water in a black iron pail. Like another Narcissus, he looks into the water, and sees his own lovely face; we trust he will get through his task without losing one drop of blood. His best and dearest friends, the pigs, who ought to pay the landlord's rent, if they can, without standing out for Griffith's valuation, watch Paddy's operations with critical approval. One of these animals, indeed, must himself be a lazy fellow, for his attitude reminds us of "Crabb's dog, who was so lazy that he used to lean his head against the wall to bark!"

A PUBLIC WASH AT DULCIGNO.

We announce, with a sensation of great relief from vexatious and rather anxious expectation, repeatedly checked by delays and disappointments, that the Montenegrins have got possession of Dulcigno; and that without any fighting on their own part, and without requiring any active naval operations by the combined squadrons of the Great European Powers. On Friday, yesterday week, Dervish Pasha, who had turned out the Albanians, and taken possession, with his Turkish troops, of the town, the fortress, and the Mazura heights commanding the road from Antivari, withdrew to make room for the Montenegrin troops under General Bozo Petrovich, who peaceably occupied the whole place before six o'clock in the evening. Few or none of the Mussulman townsfolk have thought it needful to quit their abode.

The Montenegrins, having thus got into Dulcigno, may proceed to make themselves a little more comfortable, as shown in our Artist's Sketch, than they can have felt in their rude forest encampment on the hills of Sutorman, during the past two or three months. Judging from personal appearances, the bath is not a Montenegrin institution; but, with the followers of the Prophet, cleanliness is assuredly next to godliness; and the fact of there being public wash-houses in Dulcigno is alone sufficient to show the distinctly Mohammedan character of the town. It is not in every village or hamlet along this coast that such a scene could be witnessed as the one Mr. Woodville has drawn. But the Montenegrin minstrel squatting by the wall of the public lavatory is a familiar figure enough, although he is the only professional mendicant to be met with throughout the length and breadth of the land. Here they are at Dulcigno, where convenience is provided, as we see for "a Public Wash." The Montenegrin capital is to be removed from Cettinje to Podgoritza.

At a meeting of the governors of Guy's Hospital, held last week, Dr. Charles Hilton Fagge, the senior assistant-physician, and Mr. Davies-Colley, F.R.C.S., the senior assistant-surgeon, were elected respectively to the posts of physician and surgeon to the hospital, in the vacancies caused by the resignations of Dr. Habershon, F.R.C.P., and Mr. Cooper Forster, F.R.C.S.

The annual distribution of the prizes to the 2nd Middlesex (Custom House) Artillery took place last Saturday evening, at the Cannon-street Hotel, the Earl of Morley (the Under-Secretary for War) performing the ceremony. The noble Earl, in distributing the prizes, began by presenting a medal for long service and good conduct, awarded by the Duke of Cambridge, to Sergeant-Instructor Taylor, R.A., with whom, before pinning the medal on his breast, his Lordship warmly shook hands, amid hearty applause. The various detachments that had won prizes at Shoeburyness were greatly cheered, especially that of Sergeant Lidbury, which had won the Lords' and Commons' prize, Lord Londesborough's prize, and the third aggregate prize in the Queen's competition. The corps has eight batteries and 639 men, of whom 602 are efficient, and 259 are entitled to a place on the prize-list.

The Extra Supplement.

THE RELIC VENDOR.

The Roman Catholic rural population of many districts in Southern Germany, Austria, and the Tyrol, retain their fond reverence for a variety of articles certified by those who dispense them, brethren of certain monastic orders, to be associated with the memory of the Saints; and likewise for those of a symbolic or emblematic character, such as the crucifix, which are recommended by some of their clergy as serving to fix the thoughts upon the ideas of religious faith. The scene depicted by a German artist in this picture, which forms the subject of our large Engraving presented for the Extra Supplement, is at the table of a "Relic Vendor," set in the open street of the country village, where men, women, and children have assembled to receive from two reverend fathers, according to prescribed routine, the tickets, issued at a small price, entitling each to share the chance of a prize in the proposed distribution. It is merely as an artistic study of figures, costume, and grouping, with a strong local colouring in the aspect of the transaction, that it has seemed worthy of a place among the Illustrations put before our readers, who may, of course, have their own judgment to pass, in a charitable spirit, on the propriety or expediency of such modes of cultivating a devotional sentiment in the present age. Those who are acquainted with Chaucer, and other English writers before the Reformation, will be at no loss to recollect many instances of a similar custom among our ancestors a few hundred years ago.

THE RECESS.

The die is cast. The Legislature will have to assemble a month earlier than usual. Her Majesty, by an Order in Council issued on Saturday, prorogued Parliament from the 2nd inst. to Thursday, Jan. 6. On that date the recess will end, noble Lords and hon. members having then to meet "for the dispatch of divers urgent and important affairs." The recent deliverances of Ministers, from the outspoken speech of Mr. Bright at Birmingham to the softened address of the Foreign Minister at Hanley, all point to Ireland as being likely to occupy by far the larger share of attention in the forthcoming Session.

The hand of steel which Mr. Gladstone assures us Earl Granville possesses beneath his glove of velvet, was used with much dexterity by the Foreign Secretary on Saturday; and the ease and neatness with which the noble Earl parried the reckless thrusts of the Marquis of Salisbury, and polemically disabled his political antagonist by announcing the occupation of Dulcigno by the Montenegrins, received cheering recognition at the hands of the Stoke-on-Trent Liberals who thronged the Hanley Circus. Lord Granville's well-balanced statement with regard to the suppression of lawlessness in Ireland and the introduction of well-considered measures of reform touching the tenure of land, also met with cordial approval. The meeting, which began with a couple of good speeches from two of the members for Stoke, was brought to a rather interesting close by Earl Granville's introduction of his nephew, Mr. George Leveson-Gower, one of Mr. Gladstone's private secretaries, and a promising speaker, to boot.

The Marquis of Salisbury, from the first suspected of having a fatherly interest in the infinitesimally small group of self-assertive Conservatives who sit in a group below the gangway of the House of Commons, on Tuesday assuredly did not disavow the political parentage of the trio, who somehow remind an impartial observer of the three—was it statesmen?—of Tooley-street. Lord Randolph Churchill, Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, and Mr. Gorst, the trio in question, who form the "Fourth Party," may be said to have entered Woodstock on Tuesday as recruiting sergeants, with ribbons gaily flying from their jaunty caps, and the noble Marquis as their captain. The avowed object of their visit was to "inaugurate," by a banquet, of course, the Woodstock Conservative Association. But there can be little doubt the real purpose was to stimulate Lord Salisbury to deliver a stinging party address, which he did in his old ironic style, and trust to his rousing animadversions on the Eastern and Irish policies of the Government to draw a few more members to the vigorously waved standard of the "Fourth Party."

Sir Stafford Northcote in the meantime is not disposed to allow the official leadership of the Opposition to go out of his hands. Speaking yesterday week at a banquet given in Brecon to the unsuccessful Conservative candidate, Mr. Gwynne Holford, the right hon. Baronet even perpetrated an epigram; he spoke of the three F's of the Irish Land League as "Force, Folly, and Fraud." As presumably became a prominent Liberal not yet included in the pale of the Administration, Mr. Courtney dashed his congratulations on the solution of the Montenegrin Difficulty with a grain of censure on the Ministerial action against the Land League. On Tuesday, Mr. Mundella held forth to a Keighley audience on the advance of England in scientific education, for which he gave the credit to the late Prince Consort. The Radical member for Salford, Mr. Arthur Arnold, in opening a new Liberal Club the other day, disclosed to the world the fact that the late Government prepared a convention with Persia to sanction the Shah's occupation of Herat.

The strong political influence wielded by Mr. Parnell in Ireland has been exemplified afresh by the election of his private secretary, Mr. T. M. Healy, for Wexford. At last, Mr. Balfour, Solicitor-General for Scotland, has, it is to be hoped, a safe seat: that for Clackmannan and Kinross, to which he was returned, unopposed, on Monday. The same day saw Mr. Crum, also a Liberal, returned without opposition for Renfrewshire. On Tuesday the polling took place for Carnarvonshire; but it was not made known till Wednesday that Mr. Rathbone, the Liberal candidate, had beaten the Conservative, Mr. Nanney, by 1029 votes—Rathbone, 3180; Nanney, 2151. Where is the "Conservative reaction," Sir Stafford Northcote saw, after dinner, at Brecon?

Parliament will meet for the dispatch of business on Jan. 6.

Rear-Admiral G. O. Willes has been selected to succeed Vice-Admiral Coote, as commander-in-chief on the China station, and the Swiftsure is to be fitted out as his flagship.

Mr. Shaw Lefevre, Secretary to the Admiralty, has been appointed First Commissioner of Works, in the room of the Right Hon. W. P. Adam; and Mr. G. O. Trevelyan, it is said, will succeed Mr. Shaw Lefevre at the Board of Admiralty.

An influential committee, including the Earl of Jersey and Mr. Talbot, the "father" of the House of Commons, has been formed with a view to urge upon Government the construction of a harbour of refuge for the Bristol Channel at Mumbles Head, near Abernethy. Over 8,000,000 tons of shipping pass up the Channel annually, or one sixth of the whole tonnage of the United Kingdom. The estimated cost is £400,000, and it is calculated that a toll of ½d. per ton annually would provide the capital required.

THE COURT.

Earl Granville had an audience of the Queen at Windsor Castle upon her return from the north; and Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts, who was accompanied by Major-General Hills, was knighted and invested by her Majesty with the insignia of the Military Grand Cross of the Bath, Princess Beatrice being present. The Right Hon. W. P. Adam kissed hands on his appointment as Governor of Madras, Lord Sandhurst having previously kissed hands on his appointment as Lord-in-Waiting to the Queen. Her Majesty's dinner party the same evening included Princess Beatrice, Lady Abercromby, the Hon. Frances Drummond, the Hon. Ethel Cadogan, Lady Cowell, Lord Sandhurst, the Right Hon. W. P. Adam, Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts, Major-General Hills, Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir Henry Ponsonby, Lieutenant-General Lord Charles Fitzroy, Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. H. T. Fraser (Scots Guards), and Captain Edwards.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, with their children, Prince Alfred and Princesses Marie, Victoria, and Alexandra, arrived at the castle yesterday week; the Earl and Countess of Dufferin arriving the same day. The Royal dinner circle included, with the guests, Lady Abercromby, Lord Charles Fitzroy, and the Master of the Household.

The Queen held a Council last Saturday, at which were present Earl Spencer, Earl Sydney, the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, and the Right Hon. W. E. Forster, each of whom had audiences of her Majesty. Parliament was further prorogued to Jan. 6 next, to meet on that day for the dispatch of business. In the afternoon, the Duke of Edinburgh, president, and the members of the Royal Albert Hall Amateur Orchestral Society performed a selection of music before the Queen and the Royal family, in the Waterloo Gallery, under the direction of Mr. George Mount, the conductor of the society. The Royal household and the Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley, the Hon. and Rev. Canon Courteney and Lady Caroline Courteney, Lady Cowell, Mrs. Edwards, Miss Liddell, Miss Biddulph, and the Rev. Canon Pearson were present. After the concert the Duke of Edinburgh presented Mr. Mount to the Queen. Prince and Princess Christian and Princesses Augusta Victoria and Caroline Matilda of Schleswig-Holstein dined with her Majesty and the Royal family.

Divine service was performed on Sunday at the castle by the Rev. Thomas Rowsell. The Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley and the Dean of Westminster joined the Royal dinner circle.

On Monday her Majesty and Princess Beatrice went to Claremont, and lunched with Prince Leopold and Princess Louise of Lorne, who was on a visit to his Royal Highness. The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, with their children, returned to Kent.

Her Majesty invested the Duke of Bedford with the Order of the Garter, while Sir E. Reed, Sir Charles Herries, and Sir Henry Loch were made K.C.B.'s. Lieutenant Scott, of the Cape Mounted Rifles, received the Victoria Cross, and Mr. Watkin Williams, the new Judge, was knighted.

The Queen and Princess Beatrice have taken their usual daily drives.

Lady Abercromby has succeeded the Duchess Dowager of Roxburghe as Lady in Waiting. The Hon. Horatia Stopford has arrived at the castle. Lord Sandhurst, Captain Edwards, Lieutenant-General Lord Charles Fitzroy, and Colonel the Hon. Henry Byng have arrived as Lord, Groom, and Equerries in Waiting to her Majesty.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

At the close of the Prince and Princess of Wales's visit to Lord and Lady Hastings at Melton Constable yesterday week, his Royal Highness came to London, and was present at the dinner given by the members of the Senior United Service Club to Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts, returning the next day to Sandringham. The Princess travelled direct from Melton Constable to Sandringham. The Duke of Sutherland, the Earl and Countess of Lytton, Sir Bartle and Lady Frere, Sir Richard Temple, and Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts arrived on Saturday on a visit. Their Royal Highnesses, with their daughters and their guests, attended Divine service on Sunday at Sandringham church. The Rev. F. Hervey and the Rev. Canon Duckworth officiated. The Duke of Cambridge, the Marquis of Hartington, and other visitors joined the party at Sandringham on Monday. The thirty-sixth anniversary of the Princess's birthday was celebrated on Wednesday.

The Prince telegraphed his sympathy to Mrs. Mark Firth on the loss of her husband.

Mr. Cockerell and Colonel the Hon. W. J. Colville attended the funeral of the late Lord Chief Justice of England at Kensal-green as representatives of the Prince and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh have entertained a large party this week at Eastwell Park, Prince Christian and Princesses Victoria and Caroline of Schleswig-Holstein having been among the guests. The Duke will assist at a concert to be given by the Royal Albert Hall Amateur Orchestral Society on the 18th inst. for the benefit of the French Hospital and Dispensary.

The Prince of Cumberland was baptized at Münden, in presence of the ex-Queen and Princess Mary of Hanover—Sir Charles Wyke, on behalf of the child's English relatives, being also of the party. Among the sponsors of the child—which received ten Christian names—were the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, the Kings of Denmark and Greece, the Duke of Brunswick, and the Czarewitch.

A ball was given on Tuesday night by Colonel Fraser and the officers of the 1st Life Guards at the Cavalry Barracks, Windsor, the principal residents of the neighbourhood being present.

The Earl and Countess of Stamford and Warrington were on Tuesday presented with a congratulatory address and a service of glass, on the occasion of their silver wedding.

The marriage between Mr. de Lisle, of Garendon Park and Grace Dieu Manor, and the Hon. Violet Sandys, youngest daughter of the Dowager Lady Sandys, was solemnised at St. Mary's, Cadogan-terrace, last Saturday. The bride was given away by her brother; the bridesmaids were Lady Violet Nevill, Miss Keith Fraser, Miss Filmer, and Miss Daisy Filmer. Mr. F. de Lisle was best man.

Marriages are arranged between Lord Wentworth and Miss Mary Stuart-Wortley, eldest daughter of the Right Hon. James Stuart-Wortley; and between Mr. J. A. Hay, eldest son of Sir Robert Hay, Bart., of Flagstower and King's Meadows, Peebleshire, and Miss Napier, eldest daughter of Sir Robert Napier, Bart., of Milliken, Renfrewshire.

At a public banquet, which took place at the Star and Garter Hotel, Richmond, last week, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., High Sheriff of Surrey, was presented with a valuable piece of plate subscribed for by the inhabitants of Richmond, in recognition of his succession to the family title and as a token of regard and respect.

Digitized by Google

FINE ARTS.

THE DUDLEY GALLERY.

The Winter gathering of cabinet Oil Pictures now on view at this gallery scarcely equals in interest those of recent years, although the exhibition has received considerable development since its modest beginning. Probably many of the better class of works which would have been seen here have found their way to the newly established similar exhibition at the Hanover Gallery (reviewed by us last week). The oil exhibition at the Dudley was originally but an interlude, and started simply to utilise the gallery during the months that it would not be wanted for the water-colour exhibition. At all events, it had not and has not now the raison d'être of the spring "general" water-colour exhibition, which has enabled so many young artists of merit to attract the public eye long before they could win admission to the ranks of the societies.

On this occasion it seems to us that fewer works than usual afford adequate, fair, or profitable ground for criticism, either as representative of their respective exhibitors or as indicative of the newer tendencies of our school. It is, we think, to be apprehended that these ever increasing winter exhibitions—whether of "cabinet pictures," so called, or described, less ambitiously, as consisting merely of "sketches and studies"—furnish too ready an apology for displaying incomplete and imperfect work, and thus tend to lower the pictorial standard alike with artists, critics, and the public. Certain it is that the French and other schools have very few such minor exhibitions as we now have in bewildering number; though, on the other hand, each of those schools has one annual exhibition far more comprehensive than that of our Royal Academy, and wherein every moderately competent artist may count on finding one or two of his best efforts on the same footing as a like number of works by the greatest of his compatriots.

It is not easy to give a general idea of this heterogeneous assemblage of over 450 small and almost invariably unimportant paintings. Some of the best-known contributors are represented only by studies for exhibited works, such as Mr. P. R. Morris's "Première Communion—Dieppe" (95), which gives but a faint idea of the finished picture; or Mr. Beavis's "Charcoal Burners" (329), which, however, is fully equal to his large version of the same subject; or Mr. F. W. W. Topham's "Foraging in Venice" (115), which may be a reduced replica; or by sketches for a picture in contemplation, as Mr. Armitage's "After the Arena" (423)—the body of a Christian martyr being lowered to his relatives and friends in a cell of the Coliseum, beneath the blood-stained sand above; but in this instance the sketch is too small for one to form an opinion as to the "large picture." Mr. Armitage also sends a "souvenir" of his recent sojourn in Algeria (273) in the shape of a native male head, lifesize. This, if, as usual, a little dry in quality of colour, is firmly drawn and modelled—in short, scholastic, though not partaking of the eclectic grace of the painter's master, Delaroche. Most of the other exhibitors of any note limit themselves to single-figure subjects, with little novelty in some cases—as, for instance, Mr. Burgess's "Spanish Lady" (61), to recommend them. Exception may, however, be made in favour of Mr. H. S. Marks, and Mr. G. D. Leslie. Mr. Marks's "Jester" (211), in red motley, sitting on the knarled roots of an oak studying, in a solitary part of his lord's demesne, the jokes which later he will lead up to and let off in the hall as "impromptus," is very droll; but more so in conception, perhaps, than in the actual realisation of expression and gesture. The landscape has an opacity from which the artist's painting is seldom entirely free; and the execution has a careful, we had almost said plodding, prosaic uniformity which at first blush seems strangely at variance with the painter's bright and genial humour, but which in reality may, like a jest or witticism made with a serious face, enhance its effect. Much superior, indeed excellent in painting, is the miller of No. 228, illustrating the ballad of "The Miller of Dee," looking out from the hatch-door of his mill, his cap carelessly stuck on one side, munching a straw, and his face all aglow with health and contentment. But we should have expected, though the thought may be conventional—a more rotund, a still jollier, and certainly a whiter miller. Mr. Leslie's cook-maid performing the mysterious art of making "Apple Dumplings" (150)—a feat which, according to Peter Pindar, so puzzled King George III., as to how the whole apples got inside; and the pendent more lady-like figure—a daughter of the house, it may be—gracefully exercising the higher art of constructing "Cherry Pie" (162), both exposing their extraordinarily plump but decidedly ill-drawn arms, are not devoid of the painter's charms of naïveté (albeit more self-conscious than usual), and of homely and old-English association. Yet there is danger of such charms cloying—they smack of passing fashion like "Queen Anne" architecture, and neutral-green decorations. At all events, we had not seen painting so weak and inefficient from this artist's hand. Another Academy painter, Mr. MacWhirter, has a picture of "A Summer Storm, Venice" (255), so striking and vigorous that it goes far to remove the impression of sketchy carelessness conveyed by some recent works. One of those sudden squalls which the autumn visitor seldom witnesses, but that rush down late into summer from the Alps and the Dolomites, is seen in full swing; a flash of lightning throws into vivid relief a fringe of the palazzi above the dark blue troubled waters of the Grand Canal, and against the low driving slate-coloured rain-clouds. Mr. Heywood Hardy's picture, at the head of the room, of an old squire trotting along on a sturdy hack, with his "favourite" little grandson on an Arab by his side, which the squire holds in check by an extra rein, is pleasant in subject and agreeable in execution. Unaffected fidelity to nature distinguish "Le Dejéûner" (200), and "Le Calvaire de Mont St. Père" (200), by L. Lhermite; and the truth of lighting goes far to compensate for the absence of colour.

A few works by younger less-known artists should not be overlooked. J. W. Waterhouse has made a marked advance in a Pompeian "Flower Stall" (336) with several girlish figures; it is well drawn, full in colour, and effective in light and shade. F. G. Cotman's old "Lace Maker" (89) at work in the strong light of her garret window; "Chota Harzarel, 5 a.m., India" (117) by F. Villiers; a "Seller of Matches, Cairo" (293), by E. Humphrey; "An Incident of the War in Afghanistan" (2), by W. Fane (the distinguished general of that name we believe), and contributions by F. Brown; S. E. Waller; C. W. Nichol, T. Walter Wilson, G. Hindley, F. E. Cox, J. C. Dollman, and W. Maclaren are among those of fresher interest. "The Ended Tune" (370) by T. M. Rooke, representing, with quasi mediæval accessories, a young lady risen sadly from a harpsichord at deepening twilight, has, it may be, a morbid tendency in the sentiment and degradation of colour, but it would be unjust not to recognise the delicate precision of the painting of face and hands under the reflected light of the dying day. It deserves, indeed, a better place. Of more familiar character is H. Macallum's couple of urchins by a sea pool, trying to lure a tide-left conger to the hook (75), in which, however, the figure-painting betrays lack of study. R. W. Macbeth's "Way down the Cliff" (280), a mere fragment in point of subject; and "Counting her Chickens" (104), by J. White, another Scotch painter; the flowery meadows and stretches of weald of Frank Walton; M. Fantin's "Panier de Fleurs d'Automne" (53), a bunch of gladioli, with the customary rather mannered grey background; and Frank Dillon's "Lock and Mill" (296).

Of several landscape-painters who have lately risen into Academic or popular favour, there are small but characteristic samples—including Alfred Parsons, whose "On the Kennet" (62) has a nice grey morning tone, though possibly there is some mannerism or self-iteration in the frequent recurrence of a similar key of colouring and similar glassy liquidity of water; E. A. Waterlow, whose studies of spring-time are natural, fresh, and pleasing, though slight; together with J. Aumonier, J. L. Pickering, Tom and R. M. Lloyd; W. H. Bartlett, W. F. Stocks, Percy Macquoid, and W. Biscomb Gardner. C. Napier Hemy is more acceptable in the small landscape, "The Pool by the Mill" (245), than in some of his large marine pieces, powerful as these are; the break of light in the sky is as true in aspect as it is striking in effect. The solidity of this artist's work is derived from study in the Antwerp school; and is easily distinguishable from the paintiness and abuse of the palette-knife that prevails in a section of the Scotch school. Some of our English artists, we are sorry to see, are resorting to the means for securing the cheap effectiveness to which we allude; and among them we shall have to include C. E. Holloway, judging by his "Mouth of the Yare" (234). We trust, however, he will return to the more painstaking spirit of some excellent recent contributions to the Grosvenor. Joseph Knight has often painted just such a stretch of uninteresting moor as we see in 274, with its sandy tracks, and tufts of coarse grass, a gleam of light through a rainy sky serving at once to mass the simple elements and to focus the interest on one or more wayfarers; yet always they come in an exhibition with a welcome sense of repose. Monotonous they may be, and are, and we should not claim them to be more conscientious than their neighbours; but of this, as of the others, we may say, that it has perfect unity of impression, it fills and satisfies the mind; and so much can hardly be said of any other landscape in the room. The great error of the contemporary landscapist is that he is content to be a mere collector of material, a grammatical recorder of fact; the digestive process to which our early masters of landscape owe their unrivalled influence over our minds hardly begins, and hence the absence from current landscape of the sentiment, pathos, poetry, sublimity, which distinguish art from handicraft.

A notice of the winter exhibition of the Society of British Artists is unavoidably postponed till next week.

The private view of the Winter Exhibition of Sketches and Studies of the Institute of Painters in Water Colours takes place to-day. The gallery will open to the public on Monday.

The Society of Painters in Water Colours intend to include about fifty drawings by their late member, Mr. Dodgson, in their forthcoming winter exhibition, the private view of which takes place to-day; the gallery opening to the public next Monday.

The approaching Winter Exhibition of the Royal Academy promises to be of fully average interest, and will include selections from the galleries of Mr. Hope, Lord Carnarvon, and Lord Cowper; together with a large collection of drawings by Flaxman.

Mr. Whistler, who has been absent from England more than a year, has returned from Venice, where he executed a series of etchings, which are now on view at the Fine-Art Society's Gallery, New Bond-street.

Until further notice, the public will be admitted to the National Gallery after twelve o'clock on students' days (Thursdays and Fridays) by payment of sixpence.

The twenty-second annual meeting and prize distribution in connection with the Ceramic and Crystal Palace Art-Union were held last Saturday. Mr. George Erlam read the report of the council, which referred to the progress of the society, the increased merit of the works issued, and the augmentation in the number of the prizes—sixty-three.

Christmas and New-Year's Cards are more abundant and daintier this season than in any previous year. Those issued by Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswoode are entitled to warm praise for their variety and beauty. The folding calendars of this firm are charming, particularly the Corbould Warren series. From Mr. Arthur Ackermann, of Regent-street, we have received a selection of Prang's American cards, of which he is the sole importer, and a specimen of Miss Thomson's fairyland cards, both being too well known to need commendation. Those issued by Mr. Herman Rothe, of King-street, Covent-garden, are of great variety, and marked by the good taste which characterises his productions. The floral designs printed on white satin laid on card are very delicate. Specimens showing great skill and care in their production have also been received from Mr. W. Leeks, of Bedford-street, Covent-garden; and from Messrs. Philipp Brothers, of Silk-street, E.C. Mr. Kingsbury, of South Kensington, also exhibits special activity in this field.

St. Andrew being the patron saint of Scotland, his festival was brilliantly celebrated on Tuesday night by the Scottish Corporation, under the presidency of the Earl of Fife. The subscriptions amounted to £5150, which included sums of 100 guineas from her Majesty, the Duke of Buccleuch, the Duke of Argyll, the Earl of Dalhousie, and 50 guineas from the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, as well as a list of 400 guineas sent in by the Caledonian Society. The annual court of the governors of the Scottish Corporation was previously held in Crane-court, Fleet-street—Sir J. Heron Maxwell presiding. The report stated that there had been a substantial increase in the subscriptions and a large increase in the donations of the year. The Prince of Wales was re-elected president.

The anniversary meeting of the Fellows of the Royal Society for the presentation of the medals awarded by the council at its last meeting, and for the election of officers and council for the ensuing year, took place on Tuesday at Burlington House. The president, Mr. Spottiswoode, in his address, gave a summary of the work of the society during the year. The medals were presented as follow:—The Copley Medal to Professor James Joseph Sylvester, F.R.S., for his long-continued investigations and discoveries in mathematics; a Royal medal to Professor Lister, F.R.S., of King's College, for his contributions on various physiological and biological subjects published in the "Philosophical Transactions and Proceedings of the Royal Society," and for his labours, practical and theoretical, on questions relating to the antiseptic system of treatment in surgery; a Royal medal to Captain Andrew Noble, F.R.S., for his researches into the action of explosives, his invention of the chronoscope, and other mathematical and physical inquiries; the Romford Medal to Dr. William Huggins, F.R.S., for his researches in astronomical spectroscopy; the Davy Medal to Professor Charles Friedel, of Paris, for his researches on the organic compounds of silicon and other investigations.

ROYAL NATIONAL LIFE-BOAT INSTITUTION.

At a meeting of this institution held on Thursday at its house, John-street, Adelphi, rewards were granted to life-boat crews for services rendered during the storms of November. The silver medal of the institution has been presented to Lieutenant Torrens, of the 2nd Dragoon Guards, and double the usual reward to the crew of the Poolbeg life-boat, for going off in the boat and saving, at great risk of life, two of the schooner Robert Brown, of Warrenpoint, which was wrecked near Pigeon House Fort, during a heavy gale from the east, on Oct. 28. The thanks of the institution, inscribed on vellum, have been voted to Dr. H. L. Cox, of the Army Medical Department, in acknowledgment of the valuable services he rendered on that occasion. Rewards were granted to the crews of shore-boats for saving life from wrecks on our coasts, and payments amounting to upwards of £3000 were made on life-boat establishments. The receipt of various contributions was announced. The late Miss Nicholls had bequeathed the institution £800 stock; Miss Landseer, sister of the late Sir Edwin Landseer, R.A., £100; General Luard, £50; and Miss A. M. Dobson, of Pall-mall, and Miss Bartram, of Hull, £19 19s.

The Earl of Carnarvon has granted the tenants on his Hampshire estates a remission of ten per cent on their rentals.

The general committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund met on Tuesday in the Jerusalem Chamber of Westminster Abbey. The Dean of Westminster presided. Among those present were Mr. J. Glaisher, chairman of the executive committee; Professor Palmer, the Rev. Dr. Ginsburg, Colonel Warren, R.E., Lieutenant Conder, R.E., Mr. Eaton, and Mr. John Macgregor. Reports were received, and resolutions were passed, with a view to presently commencing a new series of researches in the countries east of the Jordan, Gilead, Bashan and the Hauran, and Moab, where it is believed there exist abundant materials for archæological researches of great and fresh interest. Subscriptions in aid of these operations are now desired.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING DEC. 11.

SUNDAY, DEC. 5.

Second Sunday in Advent.
Morning Lessons: Isaiah v.; 2 Peter ii. Evening Lessons: Isaiah xi. 1—11 or xxiv.; John xiv.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary A. Wilson; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Liddon; 7 p.m., Rev. J. S. Pollock.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.
St. James's, noon, Rev. W. H. Bliss; and 3 p.m., Rev. V. H. Stanton.
Whitehall, 11 a.m.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Charles C. Mackarness, Chaplain of King's College.
Temple Church, 11 a.m., uncertain; 3 p.m., Rev. A. Ainger, the Reader.

MONDAY, DEC. 6.

Royal Institution, general monthly meeting, 5 p.m.
London Institution, 5 p.m. (Mr. Leslie Stephen on the Relation of Morality to Literature).
Society of Engineers, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. Frank W. Grierson on the National Value of Cheap Patents).
Victoria Institute, 8 p.m. (Rev. G. Blencowe on the Modern Science of Religion).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor A. H. Church on the Scientific and Artistic Aspects of Pottery and Porcelain).
Musical Association, 5 p.m. (Mr. W. H. Cummings on a Neglected Musical Benefactor; and on Handel).
Smithfield Club Show, Agricultural Hall (five days).

TUESDAY, DEC. 7.

Christian Knowledge Society, 2 p.m.
Institution of Civil Engineers, 8 p.m. (Mr. Theophilus Seyrig on Erecting Iron Bridges).
Obstetrical Society, 8 p.m.
Pathological Society, 8.30 p.m.
South-place Institute, 7 p.m. (Mr. W. C. Coupland on Ethical Principles; 8.30 p.m., Dr. E. B. Aveling on Biology).
Horological Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. S. Rigg on Friction).
Society of Biblical Archæology, 8.30 p.m. (M. E. Lefébure on the Book of Hades in the Soane Museum; Mr. T. G. Pinches on a New List of Babylonian Kings).
St. Paul's Cathedral, special service, 7 p.m. (Spohr's "Last Judgment" to be sung).

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 8.

Moon's first quarter, 6.38 p.m.
Agricultural Society, general meeting, noon.
Literary Fund, 3 p.m.
Society of Telegraph Engineers, anniversary, 8 p.m.
Institute of Chemistry, 8 p.m. (Professor Redwood on Standards of Strength and Purity of Drugs).
Amateur Mechanical Society, 8 p.m.
Gaelic Society, anniversary, 8 p.m.
Graphic Society, 8 p.m.
Microscopical Society, 8 p.m. (Dr. Hudson on Floscularia Trifolium; Mr. Stewart on Echinometridæ; &c.).
Hunterian Society, 8 p.m.
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Professor Marshall on the Superficial Muscles of Man).
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Dr. A. Carpenter on London Fogs).

THURSDAY, DEC. 9.

Grouse-shooting ends.
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Dr. Lionel S. Beale on the Germination and Propagation of Disease).
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Society of Antiquaries, 8.30 p.m.
Royal Society Club, 6.30 p.m.
Westminster Play, 7 p.m. (Terence's "Andria").
Mathematical Society, 8 p.m.
Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.
Post Office Orphan Home, evening concert, at St. James's Hall.

FRIDAY, DEC. 10.

Accession of Leopold II., King of the Belgians, 1865.
Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society, evening concert, City Terminus Hotel, 11 a.m., elections, &c.
City of London College, 6 p.m. (Dr. N. Heinemann on Political Economy—International Values).
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
Astronomical Society, 8 p.m.
New Shakspere Society, 8 p.m.
Philological Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. A. J. Ellis on the Dialects of the South of England).
Clinical Society, 8.30 p.m.
South Kensington Museum, 2.30 p.m. (Professor Ernst Pauer on the History of Pianoforte Playing).

SATURDAY, DEC. 11.

Physical Society, 3 p.m.
Botanic Society, 3.45 p.m.

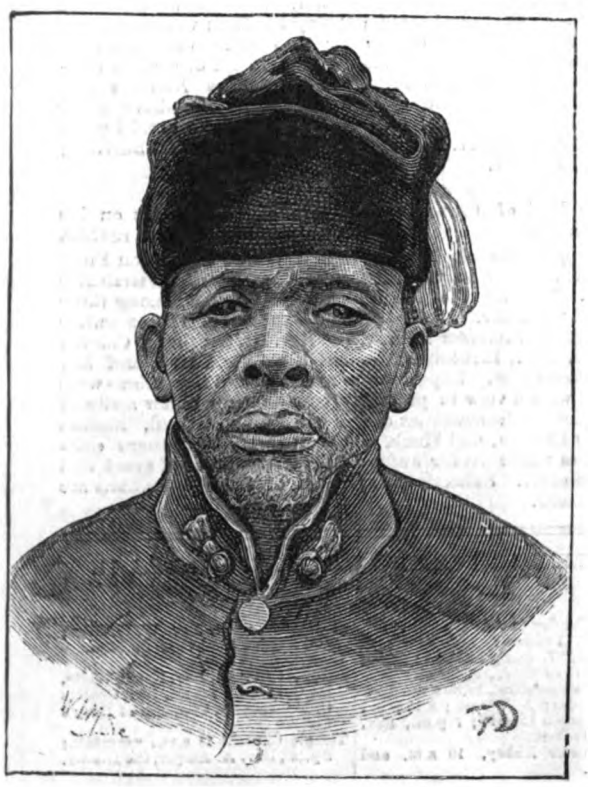
THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM.: Maximum, read at 10 p.m.	Minimum, read at 10 p.m.	WIND: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Nov. 21	30·293	31·1	—	—	0	37·0	26·5	NNE. NE.	126	0·000
22	29·926	29·1	23·1	80	2	33·9	25·1	NNE. WNW.	83	0·000
23	28·877	37·1	33·4	88	7	43·9	28·9	SE. S.	225	0·010
24	29·855	45·4	45·5	91	9	53·1	41·3	SSW.	496	0·110
25	29·740	48·6	42·2	80	5	56·1	43·0	SSW. SW.	523	0·130
26	29·613	49·8	46·9	90	8	56·0	41·0	S. SSW. SW.	540	0·070
27	30·111	45·8	39·6	80	2	52·9	40·5	SW. WSW.	299	0·010

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—



Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·406	29·948	29·871	29·879	29·627	29·583	30·020
Temperature of Air	29·4°	29·1°	35·2°	49·6°	53·9°	55·1°	47·8°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	28·4°	26·5°	33·9°	46·8°	50·0°	48·8°	44·6°
Direction of Wind	NNE.	NNW.	SSE.	SSW.	SW.	SSW.	SW.

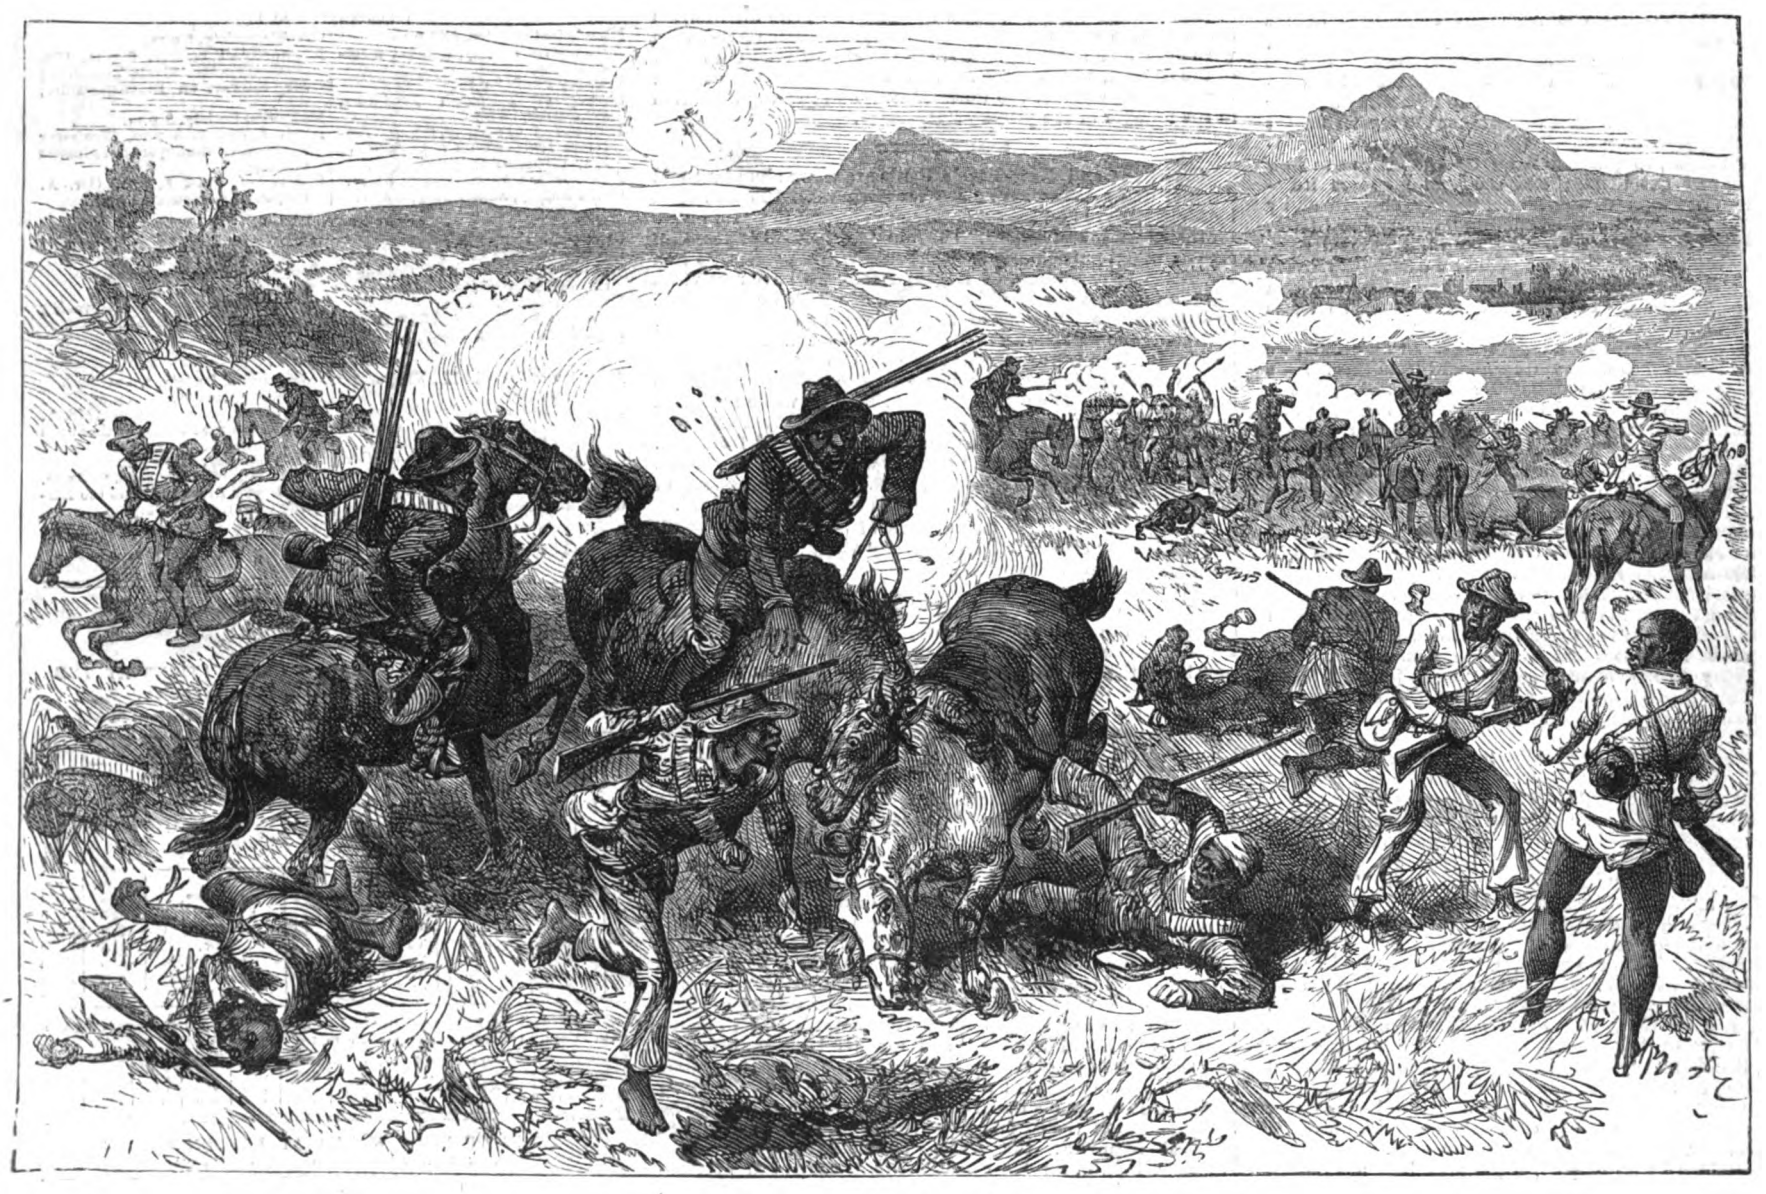
TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 11.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday
M.	A.	M.	A.	M.	A.	M.	A.	M.	A.	M.	A.	M.	A.
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
3 45	4 10	4 35	5 2	5 25	5 52	6 18	6 46	7 13	7 42	8 12	8 43	9 20	9 56

Digitized by Google

THE BASUTO WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

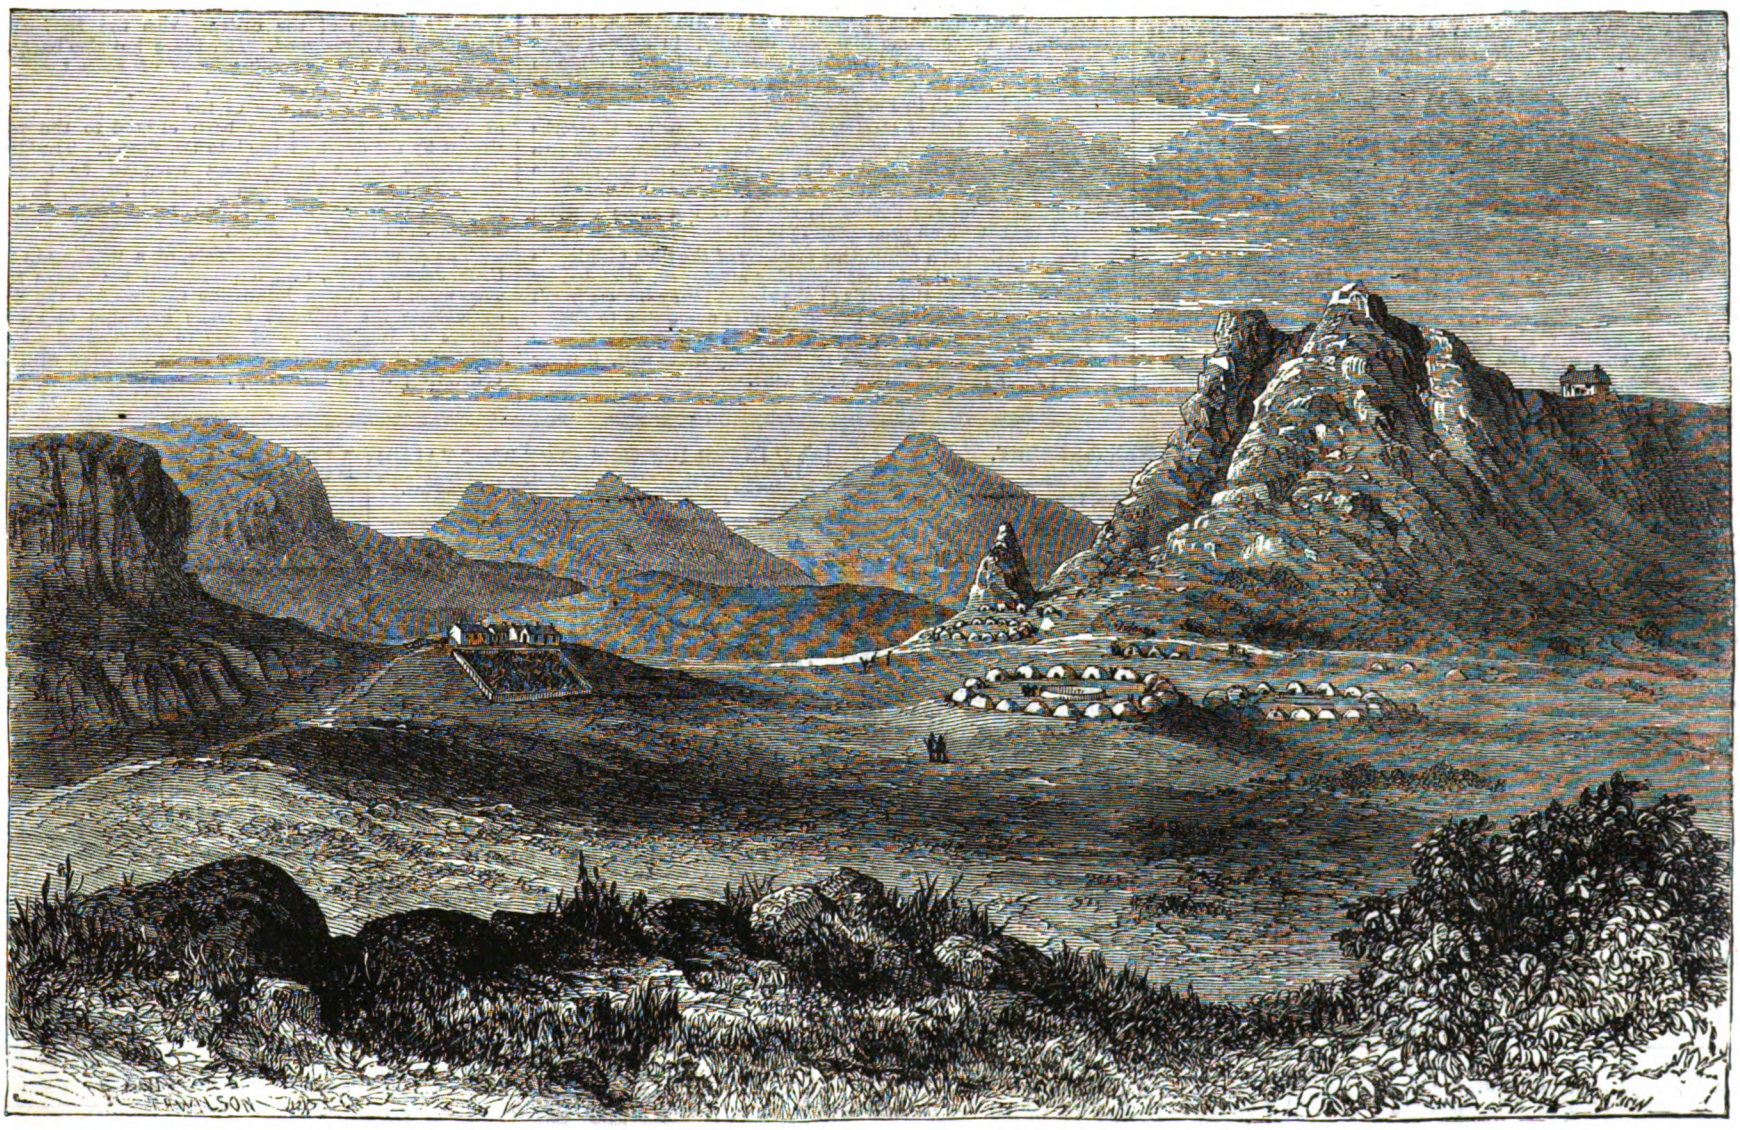
MASUPHA, THE HOSTILE BASUTO CHIEF.



A BASUTO WARRIOR.

MASUPHA'S WIFE.

The most recent news of this rash and unjustifiable military enterprise, for which the Colonial Ministry of Mr. Gordon Sprigg, at the Cape, is solely responsible, seems to be rather alarming. The operations of the forces engaged, which consist entirely of local troops, Cape Mounted Rifles, Volunteers, Burgher Militia, and Native levies, are much impeded by heavy rains. Brigadier-General Mansfield Clarke, C.B., the Colonial Commander-in-Chief, with these heterogenous and partly undisciplined forces, has to divide his attention between the attempted advance into the rugged mountain country of North Basuto Land, on the border of the Dutch Free State, and the not less difficult task of checking a general insurrection of the Kaffir nations, Tembus, Tambookies, Pondomise, and others, all over the eastern territories, with the mixed population of East Griqualand. At least half a million of different people, spreading over country not less than 200 miles in length and breadth, without any European settlements but the residencies of magistrates and missionaries, have been provoked to sudden rebellion. This disastrous position of affairs only proves the



BASUTOS REPULSED IN ATTACKING A VILLAGE.

Digitized by Google

THE BASUTO WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

RECOVERY OF CATTLE FROM BASUTOS.

THABA BOSIGO, THE STRONGHOLD OF MASUPHA.

Digitized by Google

truth of the warnings repeatedly addressed, but in vain, to the Cape Government by the Secretary of State for Colonial Affairs, and likewise by Sir Garnet Wolseley, whose despatch of March 10 this year contained predictions that have been immediately verified. Sir Garnet Wolseley remonstrated earnestly, in opposition to Sir Bartle Frere and Mr. Sprigg, against the unwise, unjust, and futile demand that the Basutos and other "quiet and orderly" native tribes, "the finest race in South Africa, now loyal and contented," who had so "cheerfully assisted" us in the Zulu War, should be compelled to deliver up their fire-arms. He denounced this policy as "fraught with danger to the peace of our Colonies." It was calculated, he said, "to raise the bitterest of feelings against our rule, to array against us the native sentiment in every part of South Africa, from the Zambesi to Cape Agulhas; and the war would probably swell to dimensions unknown to us in our previous military experience there."

These remonstrances, and those of Lord Kimberley at the Colonial Office, were disregarded by the Ministry holding office at Capetown; and that Colony, without the aid or sanction of the Imperial Government, is now engaged in a provincial war of races throughout all the eastern portion of South Africa. The separate provinces of Natal and the Transvaal, respectively administered by Sir W. O. Lanyon and Sir G. P. Colley under the direct orders of the Home Government, are to hold aloof from this deplorable contest, so long as they can preserve a pacific attitude. It appears, however, that Captain Barker and fourteen men have recently been killed in a fight somewhere on the Natal frontier. The colonial forces already called out, numbering from 9000 to 11,000, have done little more, as yet, than to relieve detached garrisons in the frontier settlements of Mafeteng and Maseru, and to destroy two or three Basuto villages. They cannot at present deal with the formidable revolt in East Griqualand, or stop the apprehended rising of the Pondos, towards the eastern seacoast.

We present several Illustrations of the Basutos and their country, which is about 150 miles long and eighty miles broad, watered by the upper streams of the Orange and Caledon rivers, with their tributaries. Its eastern boundary is the almost impassable range of the Drakensberg; and the northern part of Basuto Land is exceedingly mountainous. Thaba Bosigo, the stronghold of Masupha, who is chief ruler of the most warlike portion of the Basutos, is a place of extraordinary natural difficulty to force an entrance to its inner and upper recesses. It is situated on the Little Caledon, a day's ride from Maseru. The mass of rock, 400 ft. above the plain, with a flat table top, and with almost precipitous sides all round, can be scaled only by three or four steep winding paths, or rather clefts in the stone, which are barricaded and flanked by numerous ramparts; the summit, entirely sheltered by its rocky walls, is grassy, affording pasture for cattle to feed the native garrison. Thaba Bosigo was besieged without success by the Dutch Boers, in their wars against the Basutos many years ago. Our view of this natural fortress is copied from a vignette engraving on the letter-paper, supplied from Capetown, which is used by Lepoquo Moshesh, eldest son of Masupha; this young chief having received a European education at Zonnebloem, and having learned to speak and write English fairly well. A lithograph reproduction of this engraving is published by the Cape Times. Masupha himself, whose portrait, with that of one of his wives, appears in our Journal this week, is an illiterate heathen native, but of great repute, both as a warrior and politician. Another son of his, named Lerothodi, is the principal active leader of the present war, hitherto mainly defensive, against the forces of the Cape Colony. Some incidents of the recent campaign are shown among our Illustrations. Many of the Basutos wear more or less clothing of European make, similar to the common dress of the Boers, or to that of English colonial travellers, farmers, or hunters; they have good rifles, and ride hardy little ponies, with which they easily get away from pursuit.

The Berlin correspondent of the Morning Post says that Lord Granville's speech at Hanley has produced a very favourable impression in Germany. His Lordship's friendly reference to the pacific policy of the German Empire is particularly appreciated.

A telegram has been received at the Admiralty from Adelaide giving the intelligence that Lieutenant Bower and five of the crew of her Majesty's schooner Sandfly had been murdered by the natives of the Solomon Islands while the party was engaged in surveying. Sub-Lieutenant Bradford landed, recovered the bodies, and destroyed a village.

Christmas annuals continue to pour in. Since our last issue we have received those of the Monthly Packet, Becton's, the St. James's Magazine, the Gentleman's, the Belgravia, the Quiver (entitled The Golden Mark), All the Year Round (Over the Sea with the Sailor), and Harry Etherington's Christmas annual (Danger).

HOME NEWS.

Sir Bartle Frere gave an interesting lecture yesterday week at Wimbledon on South Africa as a field for colonisation. On the platform were the Duke and Duchess of Teck.

The Goldsmiths' Company have granted £50 in aid of the funds of the Royal Hospital for Children and Women, Waterloo Bridge-road.

The Wesleyan thanksgiving fund amounts to £294,000, and it is expected that the required amount, £300,000, will be raised by the end of this year.

The City Press states that the gross annual income of about eight hundred of the London charities amounts to a sum approaching four millions and a quarter sterling.

The British Medical Journal says it is reported that Guy's Hospital, which has 180 beds closed to the public, is £10,000 deficient financially on the results of the year's operations.

The Goldsmiths' and Jewellers' Annuity and Asylum Institution held their thirteenth annual festival at the Guildhall Tavern on Monday, at which £220 was subscribed.

The good-service pension of £200 a year for general officers Royal Marines, vacant by the death, on the 4th inst., of General J. T. Brown-Grieve, Royal Marine Infantry, has been awarded to General G. A. Schomberg, C.B.

The City Press announces that the much-needed repairs and restoration of the Printers' Almshouses at Wood-green have been completed, and that internally and externally the building is now in a satisfactory condition.

The Gas Light and Coke Company have informed the Metropolitan Board of Works that the Company intend to reduce their charge for common gas to three shillings and twopence per thousand cubic feet at the new year.

Plans in respect of 126 railway and other bills, and seventy-six provisional orders, have been deposited at the Board of Trade, an increase of twelve and nine respectively on the number last year.

Slight shocks of earthquake were felt on Sunday evening in Scotland—at Inverary and Callender. In the north of Ireland, during Sunday evening and also the earlier hours of Monday morning, earthquake shocks were experienced, especially in Londonderry and its vicinity.

The Western Mail states that the Marquis of Bute has asked the managing trustee of the Bute estate at Cardiff, Mr. Boyle, to resign. His Lordship has resolved to take the management of his vast estates into his own hands, preparatory to leaving them to a public trust, if such is formed.

The charge against Mr. P. Callan, M.P., of libelling Mr. A. M. Sullivan, M.P., after a protracted trial, came to an end on Tuesday, when a verdict was found of guilty of publishing the libel, and that the libel was not fair comment. Mr. Justice Hawkins ordered Mr. Callan to enter into recognisances to come up on Dec. 15 for judgment.

At the last meeting of the Royal Society of Literature Mr. F. G. Fleay read a paper entitled "The Living Key to English Spelling Reform now found in History and Etymology." The object of Mr. Fleay's paper was to show that the objections to spelling reform are principally founded on an exaggerated estimate of the amount of change required.

Nether Hall, Pakenham, the seat of Mr. Greene, M.P., was entered on Monday night by burglars. The plate-closet was cleared out, and some gold candlesticks were taken from the library.. A box of papers was emptied on the lawn, and a number of foreign securities were taken. The total loss is estimated at £6000.

With the object of taking into consideration the present state of the law concerning the treatment and punishment of juvenile offenders, both under the general criminal statutes and the Reformatory and Industrial Schools Acts, a conference of managers of reformatory and industrial schools was held on Tuesday at the offices of the School Board of London.

Lady Claude J. Hamilton, wife of the junior member for Liverpool, was on Monday presented, at the Athenæum, King's Lynn, with a handsome diamond bracelet, in acknowledgment of the many acts of kindness shown by her Ladyship to the people of Lynn during the time that her husband represented that borough in Parliament.

The Brush system of electric lighting was shown at the works of the Anglo-American Electric Company yesterday week to a number of gentlemen interested in the progress of the electric light. This light is produced by the electric arc, and the carbons are regulated by the automatic action of the same electric current as that which produces the light.

It was stated at a committee meeting of the Sick Children's Hospital, Brighton, held last Saturday afternoon, attended by the ladies who kept the stalls of the recent fancy bazaar in aid of the building fund, that the net profits amounted to £2240, and Doctor Tauffe said he should be able to present a cheque for £100 out of the proceeds of the fancy dress ball, leaving £3000 to free the institution from debt.

Mr. Alfred Kirby presided on Thursday week at the annual festival of the Licensed Victuallers' Protection Society of London at St. James's Hall. The subscriptions announced during the evening reached nearly £1200, of which the chairman and his friends contributed nearly £400. This being the society's fiftieth or jubilee year, the proceedings were of an unusually interesting character.

At a meeting of the School Board for London there has been a long discussion as to the enforcement of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, and authority has been given to the Bye-Laws Committee to apply for distress warrants in suitable cases where fines have been inflicted by the magistrates, but have not been paid, and a letter to the Education Department as to the subject was agreed to.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the third week in November was 89,905, of whom 50,528 were in workhouses, and 39,377 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in the years 1879, 1878, and 1877, these figures show an increase of 2426, 9229, and 9418 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 888, of whom 679 were men, 181 women, and 25 children.

Earl Granville received at the Foreign Office yesterday week a deputation consisting of shipowners from all parts of the kingdom, the object of which was to discuss the proposed system of bounties on French shipbuilding. The conference was of a private nature; but before the reporters were desired to withdraw the Foreign Secretary expressed a fear that it would be impossible for him to convey any assurances that would make it likely that the Government would propose, or the present House of Commons would consent to, our going into anything like a war of tariffs in order to countervail those of the French Government.

Last week there were 2432 births and 1521 deaths registered in London. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 57 and the deaths 221 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 19 from smallpox, 37 from measles, 83 from scarlet fever, 11 from diphtheria, 15 from whooping-cough, 15 from different forms of fever, and 18 from diarrhœa; thus to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class 198 deaths were referred, against 224 and 184 in the two preceding weeks. These deaths were 49 below the corrected average number from the same diseases in the corresponding week of the last ten years. In Greater London 3013 births and 1822 deaths were registered. The mean temperature of the air was 42·4 deg., and 1·4 deg. below the average.

THE UNIVERSITIES.

At Oxford the result of the examination for the vacant scholarships and exhibitions at Balliol have been announced as follows:—The Brackenbury modern history scholarship was not awarded. Mr. W. Waite, unattached student, was elected to an exhibition in modern history. The Brackenbury natural science scholarship was awarded to Mr. William Stroud, from Owens College, Manchester, and University College, Bristol. An additional scholarship for natural science was awarded to Mr. A. D. Hall, from Manchester Grammar School. Messrs. J. J. Hart, from Manchester Grammar School, and J. Marsh, commoner of Balliol College, were distinguished in the examination. The Hebrew scholarship was not awarded. The classical scholarships were awarded as follows:—1. Mr. Ralph Beaumont Benson, from Harrow School and of Balliol College; 2. Mr. A. W. Jose, from Clifton College; 3. Mr. Ernest Henry Couchman, from Rugby School. The classical exhibitions were awarded as follows:—1. Mr. F. S. Boas, from Clifton College; 2. Mr. A. H. Hawkins, from Marlborough College; 3. Mr. S. H. Nash, from Clifton College; 4. Mr. Kalisch, from King's College School.

At Cambridge, the Rev. Edward William Blore, M.A., one of the Senior Fellows of Trinity, has been appointed to the Vice-Mastership of the college, vice the Rev. Henry John Hotham, M.A., resigned. Mr. Blore has also been appointed a member of the Governing Body of Eton College, in the place of Dr. W. H. Thompson, resigned. The Rev. Charles Edward Searle, M.A., one of the Senior Fellows and Tutor of Pembroke College, has been elected to the mastership, vacant by the death of the late Dr. Power. The Carus Greek Testament prizes have been awarded as follows:—The Bachelor's prize to William Edmund Smyth, B.A., scholar of King's College; the prize for undergraduates to J. Robinson, of Christ's College.

The Aberdare Nonconformists, at a meeting in which Mr. C. H. James, M.P., took a prominent part, have resolved to urge upon the Welsh Education Commission the desirability of making the endowed schools available to all sects and classes of Welshmen, and also to recommend the establishment of three Welsh colleges, to be affiliated with a degree-conferring Welsh University.

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S MUSICAL BOX.—Caprice for the Pianoforte. By I. LIEBICH. "An agreeable and clever piece, which is very popular among amateurs."—Vide Musical World. Free by post for 24 stamps.
London: New Burlington-street.

THE MERMAID'S EVENING SONG. Trio for three female voices. By STEPHEN GLOVER. 3s.; post-free, half price.
QUEEN OF THE NIGHT. Trio for first and second Sopranos and a Bass. By HENRY SMART. 4s.; post-free at half price.
THE PILGRIM'S REST. Trio for first and second Sopranos and a Bass. By HENRY SMART. 3s.; post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CLARKE'S CATECHISM OF THE RUDIMENTS. 220th Edition. In paper cover, 12 stamps; in cloth, 18 stamps.
SUTTON'S THEORY OF MUSIC, for Schools and Training Colleges. In cloth, 24 stamps.
WEST'S QUESTIONS ON THEORY OF MUSIC. In paper cover, 12 stamps; in cloth, 18 stamps.
HAMILTON'S DICTIONARY OF 3500 MUSICAL TERMS. A New Edition. By JOHN BISHOP. 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.
A NEW DICTIONARY OF MUSICIANS, PAST AND PRESENT. In paper cover, 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

HAND-IN-HAND SCHOTTISCHE, for the Pianoforte. By J. PRIDHAM. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps.
THE GIPSIES' FESTIVAL. Descriptive Fantasia for the Pianoforte. By JOHN PRIDHAM. Illustrated Title. 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

THE CHRISTMAS PRESENT.
DRESSING GOWNS for WINTER, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS for LADIES, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS in CARDINAL, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS in BLUE, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS in PINK, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS in POMPADOUR, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS, PATTERNS FREE, 21s.
DRESSING GOWNS, ILLUSTRATIONS FREE.
DRESSING GOWNS, Mrs. BURGESS.
Mrs. BURGESS, Ladies' Outfitter, 65, Oxford-street.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW MANTLES, Lined with Plush and other Seasonable Doublures.—These Mantles are noticeable for their special neatness and convenient arrangements. Messrs. JAY confidently trust their selections will ensure a continuance of the reputation which their Mantle Department has so long maintained in the fashionable world.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW SHORT COSTUMES and GRACEFUL DINNER DRESS.—Short Dresses.—Messrs. JAY respectfully invite their clientele to the choice Collection of Pattern Costumes of the newest type of fashion, which are imported from Paris and Berlin.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

POMPADOUR Transparent GRENADINES, for Evening Wear, 1s. 9d. per yard, fashionable fabrics. These Grenadines are sold at half their value. Patterns free.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK VELVETEENS.—Almost equal in appearance to good Black Velvet. As Black Velveteen is much worn, Messrs JAY have had manufactured special qualities of Black Velveteen, fast colour. These Velveteens are confidently recommended to their customers.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season, perfectly fast colour, will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up in costumes. In various qualities, 46 in. wide, from 5s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

BLACK LOUIS VELVETEEN in all qualities.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERN FREE.
IMPROVED JANUS CORD.—Ladies who at this season of the year wear black dresses from choice will find JANUS CORD, at 1½ guinea the full-dress length, one of the most economical and best fabrics, at the price, ever manufactured for a lady's dress.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

WINTER DRESSES—THE BEST VALUE IN LONDON.—Vecuna Foule Serges, the Fashionable Material for the Season. Price 8½d. per yard. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Bridesmaids' Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Loose Cut Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 26s. and 20s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHY NOT MAKE YOUR OWN LANTERN SLIDES?
(TRANSFER PROCESS.)
A Box containing a Sheet of Twelve 3¼-inch VIEWS, Glasses, Roller, Brushes, Varnishes, New Frame, Masks, and Book containing full Instructions, 14s. Particulars and Price-Lists post-free.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

PRATT'S WATER PAD TRUSSES are the
MOST EFFECTUAL CURE FOR RUPTURES.
PRATT'S ELASTIC STOCKINGS,
for VARICOSE VEINS, &c.
J. P. PRATT,
Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER
THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London. Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

A MASS of CURLS is assured by regularly using two or three times a week COX'S CURLING FLUID, warranted harmless. Protected by Government stamp, signed John Robert Cox. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, with full directions, of all Chemists, or forwarded by L. N. Marsault, 35, St. Mary's-square, Kennington, London, S.E., on receipt of amount.

Digitized by Google

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

C. KEGAN PAUL and CO., Publishers.

MR. TENNYSON'S NEW VOLUME, entitled

BALLADS AND OTHER POEMS,

IS NOW READY, fcap 8vo, cloth, price 5s.

BALLADS and Other Poems.

BY ALFRED TENNYSON, Poet Laureate.

NOW READY, price 5s.,

SONGS and MUSIC.

TENNYSON'S SONGS,

SET TO MUSIC BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

EDITED by W. G. CUSINS.

DEDICATED, by express permission, to

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

ROYAL 4to, cloth extra, gilt leaves, price 21s.; or, half morocco, price 25s.

TENNYSON.—THE ROYAL EDITION.

WITH 25 ILLUSTRATIONS and PORTRAIT.

TENNYSON'S POETICAL and DRAMATIC WORKS.

IN ONE VOLUME, super-royal 8vo, cloth extra, bevelled boards, gilt leaves, price 21s.

C. KEGAN PAUL and CO., 1, Paternoster-square.

DE LA RUE AND CO'S. ANNOUNCEMENTS. BUNHILL-ROW, LONDON, E.C.

Now ready, in Two Handsome Volumes, Demy 8vo, price 32s., with a Portrait by Paul Rajon, and other Illustrations.

THE LIFE OF SIR ROWLAND HILL, K.C.B., and the HISTORY OF PENNY POSTAGE. By Sir ROWLAND HILL and his Nephew GEORGE BIRKBECK HILL, D.C.L., Author of "Dr. Johnson: his Friends and his Critics," &c.

Now ready, in Royal 4to., cloth, extra gilt, price 6s., NEW ILLUSTRATED CHILDREN'S BOOK.

THE STORY OF PRINCE HILDEBRAND AND THE PRINCESS IDA. By Major T. S. SECCOMBE. With upwards of 110 Illustrations by the Author.

Now ready, crown 8vo, cloth, price 7s. 6d.,

VOYAGES OF THE ELIZABETHAN SEAMEN. A Selection from the Original Narratives in Hakluyt's Collection. Edited, with Historical Introduction, by E. J. PAYNE, M.A., Fellow of University College, Oxford.

Shortly. Demy 8vo, cloth, with Maps and numerous Original Etchings on Stone.

THE SHORES AND CITIES OF THE BODEN SEA. Rambles in 1879 and 1880. By SAMUEL JAMES CAPPER, Author of "Wanderings in War Time," &c.

Shortly, new Work by Dr. Guy, F.R.S., crown 8vo,

THE FACTORS OF THE UNSOUND MIND. With Special Reference to the Plea of Insanity in Criminal Cases, and the Amendment of the Law. By WILLIAM A. GUY, M.B., F.R.C.P., F.R.S.

Shortly, crown 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

HISTORY OF GERMANY—POLITICAL, SOCIAL, AND LITERARY. Brought down to the Present Day. By the Rev. Dr. E. COBHAM BREWER, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Author of "History of France," "Guide to Science," &c.

Shortly, a new and Improved Edition, cap 8vo, cloth, price 3s. 6d.,

LAWS OF SHORT WHIST, and a Treatise on the Game. By JAMES CLAY. THOS. DE LA RUE and Co., London.

Now ready, price 10s. 6d.,

THE MAGAZINE OF ART.—VOL. III. With about 300 Illustrations by the first Artists of the day, and Etching for Frontispiece. Handsomely bound in cloth gilt, gilt edges.

The Times of Nov. 30, 1880, says:—"Messrs. Cassell, Petter, Galpin, and Co. publish the Third Volume of their 'Magazine of Art.' The title is no misnomer, for the book, within a convenient compass, contains a very storehouse of art. The illustrations are, of course, numerous, ranging from the freest of etchings and woodcuts up to the most elaborate engravings, the frontispiece containing a particularly good etching after Bonnat. The letterpress is particularly good and varied, being designed to suit all tastes, from the most to the least artistic."

N.B.—The price of Vols. I. and II., each containing about 200 Illustrations, has been raised from 7s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. each.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

Seventeenth Thousand, 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, 24s.; or in morocco, £2 2s.,

THE LIFE AND WORK OF ST. PAUL. By the Rev. Canon FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S., Author of "The Life of Christ," &c.

"We venture to say that it will be many generations before so great and good a book on this Apostle will be given to the world."—Educational Times.

"Not only the author's literary chef-d'œuvre, but is also out of sight the best English work of its class."—British Quarterly Review."

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

Twenty-eighth Edition, now ready, of the Library Edition, 2 vols., 8vo, 24s.; or in morocco, £2 2s., of CANON FARRAR'S LIFE OF CHRIST. The Illustrated Edition is published in one vol., 4to, cloth gilt, 21s.; calf or morocco, £2 2s.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

Now ready, price 12s. 6d. each,

FAMILIAR WILD FLOWERS. First and Second Series. By F. E. HULME, F.L.S., F.S.A. Each Series is complete in one volume, and contains Forty full-page Coloured Plates, with descriptive text.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

Now ready, price 12s. 6d.,

FAMILIAR GARDEN FLOWERS. First Series. With Descriptive Text by SHIRLEY HIBBERD, and 40 full-page Coloured Plates from original paintings by F. E. Hulme, F.L.S., F.S.A.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW STORIES.

NOTICE.—The CORNHILL MAGAZINE for JANUARY, 1881, will contain the First Parts of Two New Stories. One entitled—

A GRAPE FROM A THORN. By JAMES PAYN, Author of "Lost Sir Massingberd," "By Proxy," &c. The other—

LOVE THE DEBT. By a New Author.

The Stories will be Illustrated by Mr. Du Maurier and Mr. W. Small.

London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready (One Shilling), No. 262,

THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for DECEMBER. With Illustrations by George du Maurier and W. Small.

CONTENTS.

Fina's Aunt. Some Passages from Miss Williamson's Diary. (With an Illustration.) Chapters I.—VII.
Rambles among Books. No. I.—Country Books.
Mrs. Van Steen.
Lyme Regis: a Splinter of Petrified History.
Buddhists and Buddhism in Burma. By Shway Yoe.
My Faithful Johnny. (With an Illustration.) Chapters V.—VIII.

London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE, No. 254, for DECEMBER. Price 1s.

CONTENTS OF THE NUMBER.

1. The Portrait of a Lady. By Henry James, Jun. Chaps. XI.—XIV.
2. The New English University. By Professor William Jack.
3. A New Antipodean Periodical.
4. Phœbus with Admetus. By George Meredith.
5. What Can be Done for Ireland? By W. Bence Jones.
6. The Novels of Fernan Caballero. By Miss M. Betham-Edwards.
7. The Ethics of Copyright. By Grant Allen.

MACMILLAN and Co., London.

NEW NOVEL, by the Author of "THE NEW REPUBLIC."

BELGRAVIA for JANUARY, 1881 (price One Shilling), will contain the first parts of Three New Serials—viz.

1. A ROMANCE OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. By W. H. Mallock, Author of "The New Republic."
2. JOSEPH'S COAT. By D. Christie Murray, Author of "A Life's Atonement." With Illustrations by Fred. Barnard.
3. ROUND ABOUT ETON AND HARROW. By Alfred Rimmer. With numerous Illustrations.

CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

NEW NOVEL BY JUSTIN McCARTHY.

THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for JANUARY, 1881 (price One Shilling), will contain the first chapters of a new novel, entitled

THE COMET OF A SEASON. By Justin McCarthy, M.P., author of "A History of Our Own Time," "Dear Lady Disdain," &c.

SCIENCE NOTES. By W. Mattieu Williams, F.R.A.S., will also be continued monthly.

CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

Now ready, at all Newsagents' and Bookstalls, price One Shilling; by post, 1s. 0½d.,

THE FOURTH PARTY.—The WINTER NUMBER of VANITY FAIR, containing a large Chromo-lithographed Cartoon in ten colours of "THE FOURTH PARTY," with Portraits of Lord Randolph Churchill, Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, Mr. Gorst, and Mr. A. J. Balfour, and a Notice by John Junior.

THE SAVIOURS OF SOCIETY. The WINTER NUMBER also contains Portraits of the Duke of Argyll, Lord Granville, Lord Charles Beresford, Sir Robert Peel, Sir John Astley, Sir William Fraser, Lord Henry Lennox, Colonel James Farquharson, Dr. W. H. Russell, the Hon. James Lowther, Major Burnaby, and Mr. Henry Irving; together with a Tale entitled THE SAVIOURS OF SOCIETY, and various Articles by eminent writers.

London: VANITY FAIR Office, 12, Tavistock-street, Covent-garden.

"A portrait will not tell you all you want to know about a man, but it throws important light upon his character, and supplies a clue to much that might otherwise be dark and hidden. It is this which invests the admirable caricatures of 'Vanity Fair' with a kind of historical value. They are an abstract or brief chronicle of the age—a necessary supplement to the 'Times' and the news of the day."—Saturday Review.

NOTICE.

Now ready, at all Booksellers, price Three Guineas,

VANITY FAIR ALBUM. Twelfth Series, 1880. Containing the whole of the Portraits published during the Year 1880; together with the Letterpress Notices thereto relating, by JEHU JUNIOR, and Special Drawings of the Earl of BEACONSFIELD and Lord ROWTON, and the TREASURY BENCH (with Portraits of Mr. Gladstone, Lord Hartington, and Mr. Chamberlain).

A List of the Portraits contained in each Series of the "Album" will be forwarded free on application.

London:

"VANITY FAIR" Office, 12, Tavistock-street, Covent-garden.

Just ready, in Picture Wrapper, price 1s., BEETON'S CHRISTMAS ANNUAL.—21st SEASON, Entitled

THE FORTUNATE ISLAND. Containing contributions by Max Adeler (Author of "Out of the Hurly Burly," &c.), Henry Frith, G. R. Emerson, J. G. Montefiore, &c. Humorously Illustrated by ATHELSTAN RUSDEN.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Nearly 100 pages of Letterpress and Six Valuable Supplements. Price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 3d., THE GRAND DOUBLE

CHRISTMAS NUMBER of SYLVIA'S HOME JOURNAL, containing, in addition to the usual Stories, Fashions, and Needlework, FOUR EXTRA SUPPLEMENTS, consisting of BEAUTIFULLY ILLUMINATED CARDS, of large size, designed for both use and ornament in the household. In addition to these the Number will contain a Large Coloured Plate of Latest Fashions, and a Cut-Out Paper Pattern of a Lady's Walking Dress, several complete Stories, a Review of the Year, a Practical Paper on Christmas Decorations, &c. Price complete, including all Supplements, 1s.; or post-free, 15 penny stamps.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

AN ENTIRELY NEW WORK FOR THE AMATEUR ON CARPENTRY, JOINERY, SMITH'S WORK, BRAZING, SOLDERING, WIRE-WORKING, PAINTING, GLAZING, &c.

WARD and LOCK'S

EVERY MAN HIS OWN MECHANIC. A Complete Guide to all Operations in Building, Making, and Mending that can be done by Amateurs in the House, Garden, Farm, &c. WITH HUNDREDS OF ENGRAVINGS. In Monthly Parts, price 6d. each. Part I. now ready.

This will be found to be the most complete and useful Book hitherto produced for Amateurs in Carpentry and the Constructive Arts. It will give every information required by the Amateur in Household Carpentry and Joinery, Ornamental and Constructional Carpentry and Joinery, and Household Building Art and Practice; and it will be very completely Illustrated with several Hundred Engravings of Tools, Processes, Buildings, &c.

Prospectus post-free on application.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST CHRISTMAS BOX.

CHRISTMAS DOUBLE NUMBER of MYRA'S JOURNAL. Just ready. Price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 3d.

Ask your Bookseller to let you see THE SUPERB PICTURE GIVEN WITH THE CHRISTMAS DOUBLE NUMBER of MYRA'S JOURNAL.

"The most wonderful Shilling's-worth we have seen."—Daily Press.

MYRA'S JOURNAL is the cheapest Fashion Journal in the World. Subscriptions—Yearly, 8s.; Half-Yearly, 4s.

GOUBAUD and SON, 39 and 40, Bedford-street, Covent-garden.

AN OLD STORY RETOLD FROM A CONTEMPORANEOUS RECORD.—THE HISTORY OF THE REBELLION OF 1745, as narrated in the "Newcastle Courant" of that period, will be published from week to week in that newspaper, commencing DEC. 3, 1880.

Office: Clayton-street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW NOVELS AT ALL LIBRARIES.

FOLLY MORRISON. By FRANK BARRETT. 3 vols.

THE MYSTERY IN PALACE GARDENS. By Mrs. RIDDELL. 3 vols.

ADAM AND EVE. By Mrs. PARR. 3 vols.

THE RED RAG. By E. MOUNTENEY JEPHSON. 2 vols.

THE MYSTERIES OF HERON DYKE. By the Author of "In the Dead of Night." 3 vols. [Just ready.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS. Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,

GERALDINE AND HER SUITORS. By Mrs. SIMPSON, Author of "Winnie's History," &c.

LITTLE PANSY. By Mrs. RANDOLPH.

DIMPLETHORPE. By the Author of "St. Olave's."

STRICTLY TIED UP.

LORD BRACKENBURY. By AMELIA B. EDWARDS. THIRD EDITION.

ROY AND VIOLA. By Mrs. FORRESTER, Author of "Viva," &c. THIRD EDITION.

JEANNETTE. By MARY C. ROWSELL, Author of "Love Loyal," &c. [Next week.

HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

BEAUTIFUL GIFT-BOOK. Price £2 2s. net, most elegantly bound,

DRAWINGS OF ANCIENT EMBROIDERY. Thirty Specimens of great beauty and interest, selected by Mrs. MARY BARBER, in the first style of Chromo-lithography. Edited by W. BUTTERFIELD, Esq., Architect. A very limited number still unsubscribed for.

"This most beautiful series of illustrations of fine old embroidery was the work of many years' careful study on the part of the lady author, who prepared it as her contribution to the work of Church restoration. Mrs. Barber having died before her laborious work was published, Mr. Butterfield undertook, at her request, to superintend its issue; and a superb book it is, and most instructive to all who are interested in the wide subject of Church embroidery and the worthy production of Church vestments."—Literary Churchman.

H. SOTHERAN and Co., 136, Strand.

WORK SERIES. By E. M. C.

1. EMBROIDERY and ART-NEEDLEWORK DESIGNS. In Packet, price 2s. 6d., post-free.
2. LADY'S CREWEL EMBROIDERY. Two Series. Each with Twelve Designs. 2s. 6d. each, post-free.

ALSO, BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

Square 18mo. cloth, 1s. 6d.; paper, 1s. each,

KNITTING.	Part 1.	21th Thousand.	30 Patterns.
KNITTING.	Part 2.	12th Thousand.	48 Patterns.
KNITTING.	Part 3.	10th Thousand.	48 Patterns.
KNITTING.	Part 4.	9th Thousand.	42 Patterns.

The Four Knittings in One Vol., cloth gilt, 4s. 6d.

CROCHET.	Part 1.	10th Thousand.	38 Patterns.
CROCHET.	Part 2.	8th Thousand.	44 Patterns.
CROCHET.	Part 3.	5th Thousand.	21 Patterns.
CROCHET.	Part 4.	6th Thousand.	42 Patterns.

The Four Crochets in One Vol., cloth gilt, 4s. 6d.

WORK.	Part 1.	2nd Thousand.	84 Patterns.
WORK.	Part 2.	2nd Thousand.	45 Patterns.
NETTING.	—	3rd Thousand.	36 Patterns.

Also, for Schools, square 18mo, sewed, 6d. each.
Teacher's Assistant in Needlework. 45th Thousand.
The Knitting-Teacher's Assistant. 22nd Thousand.
Over 150,000 of the above Series have been sold.
HATCHARDS, 187, Piccadilly, London.

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

1d. Weekly; Monthly Part, 5d.,

GARDENING ILLUSTRATED.—Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening. Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All Newsagents. Copy by post, 1½d. Vol. I., 7s. 6d.

37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

Price 2s. 6d., cloth gilt; post-free, 2s. 9d.,

PARTY-GIVING ON EVERY SCALE; or, The Cost of Entertainment, with the Fashionable Modes of Arrangement. By the Author of "Manners and Tone of Good Society," "Society Small Talk," "The Management of Servants."—F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

8vo. pp. 724, cloth, 8s.; or half bound, 10s. 6d.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC PHYSICIAN. By Drs. PULTE and EPPS. Revised, with important additions and many new remedies, by WASHINGTON EPPS, L.R.C.P.

CONTENTS:—General Diseases—Casual Diseases—Cutaneous Diseases—Fevers—Affections of the Mind—the Head—the Eyes—the Ears—the Nose—the Face, Lips, and Jaws—the Teeth, Gums, and Mouth—the Windpipe and Chest—the Stomach and Bowels—the Urinary and Genital Organs—Diseases of Women—Treatment of Children—Anatomy and Physiology—Hygiene and Hydropathy—Materia Medica—Domestic Surgery—Medical and Surgical Appliances—Dislocations and Luxations—Fractures.

London: JAMES EPPS and Co., 48, Threadneedle-street.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,

DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics. G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

Fourth Edition, cloth, post-free, 13 stamps,

DR. BARR MEADOWS on Homœopathy. "A clever exposé of the system." G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

Third Edition, 1s., post-free,

THE new ELECTROLYTIC TREATMENT of CANCER and of simple Tumours. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.—NELSON and Co., 23, Duke-street, Grosvenor-square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free, Two Stamps.

DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author. RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s.

London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

SAVE TIME and MONEY by asking your bookseller for LETTS'S Illustrated Catalogue of Diaries and Time-Saving Manufactures and Publications.

LETTS'S DIARIES are the best, the cheapest, the most universal. Hundreds of thousands use them.

SECONDHAND PIANO SALE.—PIANOS, £15; Broadwood Pianos, £25; Erard Pianos, £25; Collard Pianos, £28; Harmoniums, £5; American Organs, £10. THOMAS OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE.—Purchasers who can pay cash will do well to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of obtaining thoroughly good instruments at extraordinary low prices.

BROADWOOD PIANOS, 24 guineas. Full compass Pianofortes, in handsome cases, good condition, fine tone, at above moderate price, for cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

COLLARD PIANOS, 28 guineas. Full-compass COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fine full, rich tone, perfect condition. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Madame Tussaud's).

ERARD PIANOS, 38 guineas, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Trichord COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, in handsome ebonised and gilt cases, fine full, powerful tone. Cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE. — The PIANOFORTE HIRE and THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM BUSINESS carried on as usual during the Sale.—THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., opposite Madame Tussaud's.

DR. RIDGE'S PATENT (COOKED) FOOD.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD, for all persons.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is the best.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD for Custards.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD for Puddings.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is the finest.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD can be used without milk.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is remarkably light.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is digestible and nourishing.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is genuine.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is unadulterated.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is highly nutritious.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD will promote health.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is a blood-purifying food.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—The importance of farinaceous food substances cannot be overstated. The staff of life as we receive it from the baker's hands may be in a very good and easily-digested form for the healthy and strong, but custom has decreed that we must have our bread as white as it can possibly be made. We do not inquire how such a result is brought about, and many, no doubt, do not even know that pure white is not the natural colour of wheat ground into flour. The ordinary form of farinaceous food does not agree with everyone, and we have all sorts of bread made and sent out—as cottage, household, home-made digestive, wholemeal bread, brown bread, &c. The only difference discoverable, save between the white and the brown, being in the shape of the loaves. Even those distinctions failed to be satisfactory to all persons, and specially prepared meals, about 1845, began to attract considerable attention in Paris and elsewhere as being the very best diet for infants and young children. These articles were advertised as a certain cure for dyspepsia, constipation, &c. With the substance itself there was no fault to be found, and some of them met with considerable success. The only objection was the mystery in which they were shrouded; but this was dispelled by an edict of the French Government, which caused a Commission of Inquiry to be made in all secret remedies and nostrums. Chevallier, one of the Professors of Ecole de Pharmacie, analysed two of the most noted articles. One was found to be nothing but the pure meal of the lentil (Ervum lens), the other ordinary treacle, such as is sold in grocers' shops—both excellent in their way, but quite out of the reach of any but the wealthy at the prices at which they were sold. The impetus thus given to the trade in what was supposed to be specially prepared farinaceous food was not, however, stopped by this exposure, and preparations of meal and flour from beans, peas, and cereals of every description became popular. But the necessity for a farinacious food which should have a maximum of nourishment with a maximum of bulk, and which could be immediately prepared and partaken of by persons of weak digestion, infants, and invalids, was still felt, and, to provide for such a want among his own patients, the well-known Dr. Ridge turned his attention to wheat. The knowledge that this cereal contains, in a greater degree, all the constituents for keeping the human body in health and strength was the reason for choosing, before any other, this particular grain. Dr. Ridge's Patent Cooked Food was originally made and cooked one gallon or so at a time, and was given away by the Doctor to his patients and friends. By degrees the demand became so great that a price had to be put upon the article and a patent taken out for it. We have not space here to detail the rapid popularity which this famous Food obtained, and how manufactory after manufactory became too small to compete with the ever-increasing sale. Nor can we particularise on the most interesting processes through which the food passes at the present manufactory at Kingsland; but our readers may form some idea of the enormous sale of Dr. Ridge's Food when we inform them that at the present time thousands of tins and packets are consumed daily, the sale still rapidly increasing. Of all known subjects of alimentation milk alone is acknowledged to contain every element needful for the support of vigorous life; but pure milk cannot always be obtained, and when it is procured is invariably dear; therefore, it is essential to have a cheap, handy, and health-giving substitute that can be used with equal efficiency either with or without milk. Judging by the great success which has attended the efforts of Dr. Ridge, this has been most satisfactorily accomplished by the production of the Patent Cooked Food, which, in addition to the above advantages, can be made ready for use by one minute's boiling (for the sake of mixing), it having been so thoroughly cooked beforehand in its manufacture. It is a well-known fact that all other preparations in general use require from fifteen to twenty-five minutes' boiling."—City Press.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is a bone-forming food.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is a flesh-making food.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is the best of foods.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD can be made in two minutes.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—No trouble in cooking.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Always good and sweet.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Recommended by Doctors.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is satisfying.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD is strengthening.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Directions on Packet.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Directions for Infants' Use.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Directions for Invalids' Use.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—A Pamphlet post-free.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—"Our Baby," post-free.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Read Special Caution.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD.—Caution. Purchasers should be careful to see they get Dr. RIDGE'S PATENT COOKED FOOD, as there are several very worthless preparations now being offered to the public. Dr. Ridge's Patent Cooked Food is inclosed in white wrappers, or in canisters, and the words "Dr. Ridge's Patent Cooked Food" are printed boldly thereon, so that none need be deceived or mistaken.

KALENDAR and DIARY.

KALENDAR and DIARY.

KALENDAR and DIARY.

KALENDAR and DIARY.

KALENDAR and DIARY, Illustrated, for 1881. Just published, post-free, 1½d. Dr. RIDGE and CO., Royal Food Mills, London, N. Every Mother and Nurse in the country should see this book. It contains most valuable hints.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

Now ready,

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

VOCAL SCORE	5s.
PIANOFORTE SOLO	3s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE LANCERS. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE QUADRILLE. D'Albert	4s.
THE POLICEMAN'S SONG AND CHORUS	4s.
I AM A PIRATE KING	4s.
THE MODERN MAJOR-GENERAL	4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

Vocal Score	8s. net.
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 6d. ,,
Olivette Lancers. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Polka. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Galop. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Song	2s. ,,
Sob Song. Sung by Miss St. John	2s. ,,
Romance—"Nearest and Dearest."	2s. ,,
Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs, Solo or Duet	2s. ,,

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PORTIA WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

THE OLD SHIP. Composed by WALTER MAYNARD. Sung by Mr. Kendal in "William and Susan," and encored nightly, is now published. Price 2s. net.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry.

Now ready.

CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES. Volume II., handsomely bound in cloth and gold. Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs.; Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
ALL MUSIC POST-FREE AT HALF PRICE.

BILLEE TAYLOR.—ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA. Sung by J. D. Stoyle. It is one of the funniest things out. Encored six times every night. "The Self-made Man," Sir Mincing Lane's Song. Encored nightly. "The Virtuous Gardener." Price 2s. each. Words by H. P. Stephens; Music by E. SOLOMON.
Shortly will be ready,
VOCAL SCORE complete, 6s.
QUADRILLES by C. COOTE.
WALTZES by CHARLES GODFREY.

FOLI'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

THE RAFT. Descriptive Fantasia. By PINSUTI. In E and G; free, 24 stamps. Now being sung by Signor Foli with the greatest success at all his concerts. Decidedly the finest baritone (or bass) song extant.

I LOVE MY LOVE. PINSUTI'S most celebrated Song, in A flat and B flat; free, 24 stamps. This, the most effective Drawing-room Song ever written, is continually sung by all the leading vocalists, both soprano and contralto.

THREE JOLLY BRITONS, or the ENGLISH, IRISH, and SCOTCH.
New National Song.
"Long may our good Queen on her Throne
O'er her subjects keep a watch,
For the three will fight for her as one,
Though English, Irish, and Scotch.
Words and Music, G. WARE. Post-free, 18 stamps.

SHALL I WEAR A WHITE ROSE? New Song. By EMILY FARMER; poetry by Savile Clark. This charming Song is now being sung by Madame Trebelli at her Provincial Concerts with perfect success. Published in E flat and G, for soprano or contralto. Post-free, 24 stamps.

JOHN GILPIN. Cantata. By GEORGE FOX. 2s. 6d. net. Easy and effective. A liberal discount allowed to choral societies for copies.

LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE.
Vocal Score, English Words, 10s. net, and 4s.
Piano Score, complete, 2s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 1000th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS,
24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

AUGENER and CO.'S UNIVERSAL CIRCULATING MUSICAL LIBRARY, to which is added Lonsdale's Library, is now the largest in Europe. Annual subscription from two guineas.—81, Regent-street. Prospectuses gratis.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published, a New Volume of

MODERN BALLADS. Price 2s. 6d., paper cover; 4s., cloth, gilt edges. Containing Fifty Songs and Ballads by the following eminent composers:—

Arthur Sullivan.	F. H. Cown.
Pinsuti.	J. L. Molloy.
Louis Diehl.	Hamilton Aidé.
A. S. Gatty.	Virginia Gabriel.
Dolores.	Claribel.
Marzials.	Cotsford Dick.

The volume includes the following favourite songs, in addition to a number never before published:—"She wandered down the mountain side," "It was a dream," "Then and Now," "The Fisher," "Who shall be fairest?" "Birds in the night," "As you like it," "He doesn't love me," "Old Cottage Clock," &c.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS IN MUSIC.

THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.
Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 4s. each.
Now ready.

SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.	BEETHOVEN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND.	MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF IRELAND.	SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
SONGS OF WALES.	SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF FRANCE.	RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF GERMANY.	RUBINSTEIN'S DUETS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS.	DUETS FOR LADIES.
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. 2 vols.	SACRED SONGS.
	HUMOROUS SONGS.

Also, THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone. Price 7s. 6d. each, handsomely bound, gilt edges.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S NEW SONGS.

FACE IT! By Sir JULIUS BENEDICT. Sung by Mr. Santley at the Ballad Concerts. The Words by Weatherly. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

SPANISH LOVE SONG. By VALÉRIE WHITE. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MY OLD COMRADE. By BEHREND. Sung by Mr. Maybrick at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MY ONLY LOVE. By KUHE. Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin with great success at Dublin and Brighton. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A SUMMER SHOWER. By the Composer of "Twickenham Ferry." Sung by Miss Mary Davies at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co, 295, Regent-street.

HENSCHEL'S New Song. SING HEIGH HO! The poetry by Charles Kingsley. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A CLUSTER OF ROSES. By Mr. C. VINCENT. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE ZEELAND TOLL. Sung in "Anne-Mie." Words by Clement Scott.
"I like the song; it should be sung in all country houses."—Truth. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

HER NAME. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Mr. Maas at the Ballad Concerts, and throughout the Provinces. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

TIME WAS. Lady ARTHUR HILL'S popular Ballad. Sung by Miss Mary Davies and Miss Marian Mackenzie. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Löffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

LILLIE'S MUSIC-BOOK (complete), containing the First and Second Books in one Volume (122 pages), with 21 Illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and Short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New System of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT ERLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

NEW NUMBERS FOR CHRISTMAS OF

HAMMOND'S MUSIC PORTFOLIO.
PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.
Post-free, 13 stamps.

No. 10.

Elfen Reigen	Waltzes		Gung'l.
Light and Shade	Waltzes		Strauss.
Les Muses	Waltzes		Lamothe.
La Vallette	Waltzes		Percy Beamish.
Aus Freundschaft	Polka		Liebig.
Fairy Fountain	Schottische		Roullson.

No. 11.

Marien	Waltzes		Gung'l.
Les Zephyrs	Waltzes		Lamothe.
Les Cloches de Paris	Waltzes		Lamothe.
L'Alliance	Waltzes		Schiller.
Deutsche Lieder	Quadrille		J. Resch.
Le Verre en Main	Polka		Fahrbach.

N.B.—Cornet and Violin Accompaniments to each Book, 6d. each.
Complete Lists sent on application.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 5, Vigo-street, London, W.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.
The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLE'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready.
Catalogues and all particulars may be had from
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LAST PUBLICATION.
FIFTEEN MELODIES OF SCHUBERT.
Transcribed for the Pianoforte.
Charming short pieces specially adapted for teaching. Price 2s. each.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, Sole Agents for the Dominion Organ Company, Canada.
New Organ, "PRINCESS LOUISE," the best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom,
FORSYTH BROTHERS, Manchester and London.

PIANOFORTE SOLOS. By FREDERIC N. LOHR.
FLEUR-DE-LIS. A Mazurka de Toreau. 4s. (Second Thousand).
MAUD. A Romance. 3s.
TWILIGHT. An Idyll. 3s.
FORSYTH BROS., 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

NEW MUSIC.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for DECEMBER contains:—Limited Liability in Music—The Great Composers: Gluck—The Father of the Symphony—Ponchielli's Opera, "I Promessi Sposi"—Her Majesty's Opera—Monday Popular, Crystal Palace, Saturday Orchestral Concerts—Berlioz's "Faust"—Occasional Notes, Correspondence, Reviews, Foreign and Country News, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for DECEMBER contains:—"A New-Year's Carol," by James Shaw. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

		s.	d.
1. The Pianoforte	E. Pauer	2	0
2. The Rudiments of Music	W. H. Cummings	1	0
3. The Organ	Dr. Stainer	2	0
4. The Harmonium	King Hall	2	0
5. Singing	A. Randegger	4	0
6. Speech in Song	A. J. Ellis, F.R.S.	2	0
7. Musical Forms	E. Pauer	2	0
8. Harmony	Dr. Stainer	2	0
9. Counterpoint	Dr. Bridge	2	0
10. Fugue	James Higgs	2	0
11. Scientific Basis of Music	Dr. Stone	1	0
13. Church Choir Training	Rev. J. Troutbeck	1	0
14. Plain-Song	Rev. T. Helmore	2	0
15. Instrumentation	E. Prout	2	0
16. The Elements of the Beautiful in Music	E. Pauer	1	0
17. The Violin	Berthold Tours	2	0
18. Tonic Sol-fa	J. Curwen	1	0
19. Lancashire Sol-fa	James Greenwood	1	0
20. Composition	Dr. Stainer	2	0
21. Musical Terms	Stainer and Barrett	1	0

(To be continued.)
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

Just published.

COMPOSITION. By Dr. STAINER. No. 20 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 2s.
MUSICAL TERMS. By STAINER and BARRETT. No. 21 of Novello's Music Primers. Price 1s.

THE ONLY COMPLETE EDITIONS.
One Volume, 518 pp., folio, handsomely bound, cloth, gilt edges, price 21s.; ditto, 8vo, paper, 7s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 10s. 6d.
MENDELSSOHN'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, including the "Lieder Ohne Worte," an entirely new and carefully revised edition.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

LIEDER OHNE WORTE. Cheap Editions. Octavo, paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.; folio, paper, 5s.; cloth gilt, 8s. Also, superior edition, octavo, paper, 4s.; cloth gilt, 6s.; folio, cloth gilt, 12s.
The only Complete Editions, containing Books 7 and 8.

One Shilling each.

ELLIOTT'S VOLUNTARIES for the HARMONIUM. In six sets, price One Shilling each; or in two volumes, cloth gilt, Four Shillings each. List of contents may be had on application.

Just published, price One Shilling each.

NOVELLO'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS. Nos. 1 and 2, each containing Twenty Compositions by BACH, edited by Berthold Tours. List of contents may be had on application.—London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

THE KING'S CHAMPION. New Song. By E. OXENFORD and MICHAEL WATSON. This vigorous and soul-stirring Song may be had in E flat, for Baritone, and in D for Bass. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

GOOD-BYE. New Song. The Poetry by G. J. Whyte-Melville; the Music by COTSFORD DICK. "There is a charm about this song which will gain for it a wide acceptance; there is no bar to its achieving considerable popularity."—Queen. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from Steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 46 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the Public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas,
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas,
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE. In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.
Class 0, £14 | Class 2, £20 | Class 4, £30 | Class 6, £35
Class 1, £17 | Class 3, £23 | Class 5, £27 | Class 7, £40
American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'

IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial instrument produced."
3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £240. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 63s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

NOTICE.—SPOONS and FORKS, in SILVER and in ELECTRO-PLATE. ELKINGTON and CO., as the result of important improvements in the above manufactures, are able to offer their guaranteed qualities at such prices as, while fully maintaining their acknowledged superiority, place them within the reach of all classes. Revised Illustrated Price-Lists free by post on application. Purchasers of Silver Spoons and Forks obtain the advantage of any fluctuations in the silver market.
Address—ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-street, London, or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

ETZENSBERGER'S PATENT CAFETIERE is economical, cleanly, and safe; makes an excellent cup of coffee, strong and fragrant; is made in two sizes for the breakfast table, pint and quarts, in block tin, nickel plated, electro-plate, and German silver. Coffee and Tea-Filters, for bars, hotels, coffee and tea palaces, of any size.

THE WILFRID is an Ornament for the counter. Can supply coffee and tea, hot water and milk, all at the same time, and with little cost and trouble.
ETZENSBERGER and CO.,
No. 13, St. Andrew's street, Holborn-circus, E.C. London.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' Newly-Patented SOSTENENTE GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOS have gained the two First Prizes and only Special Mention above all competitors at the Sydney International Exhibition, 1879-80. Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London, W.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
PARIS, 1878.

THE HIGHEST HONOURS—
THE CROSS OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR
Also the GOLD MEDAL, &c., have been accorded to

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
18, WIGMORE-STREET, LONDON, W.,
For the superiority of their Pianos exhibited at the PARIS INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION of 1878.

"There is but one class of Gold Medals for the Exhibition, and the DECORATION OF THE CROSS OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR CONSTITUTES A SUPERIOR RECOMPENSE."
Extract from the Special Report signed by M. A. PETIS, Official Reporter.

The value of this Award is still further enhanced by the fact that the Decoration was CONFERRED ON NO OTHER British Pianoforte Manufacturer.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
The principal of the previous honours gained by the BRINSMEAD PIANOS are:—
THE DIPLOMA OF HONOUR and GOLD MEDAL, South Africa, 1877.
THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOUR and DIPLOMA OF MERIT, Philadelphia, 1876.
THE DIPLOMA OF HONOUR, Paris, 1874, and the HONORARY MEMBERSHIP OF THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF FRANCE.
THE GOLD MEDAL, Paris, 1870.
THE DIPLOMA OF EXTRAORDINARY MERIT, Netherlands International Exhibition, 1869.
THE MEDAL OF HONOUR, Paris, 1867.
THE PRIZE MEDAL, London, 1862, &c.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
SOSTENENTE PIANOS,
for Extreme Climates,
With the Perfect Check Repeater Action,
Patented 1864, 1868, 1871, 1875, and 1879, throughout Europe and America.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"Paris, Nov. 4, 1878.
"I have attentively examined the beautiful pianos of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons that are exhibited at the Paris International Exhibition of 1878. I consider them to be exceptional in the ease with which gradations of sound can be produced, from the softest to the most powerful tones. These excellent pianos merit the approbation of all artists, as the tone is full as well as sustained, and the touch is of perfect evenness throughout its entire range, answering to every requirement of the pianist.
"CH. GOUNOD."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"Paris, Sept. 8, 1878.
"We, the undersigned, certify that, after having seen and most conscientiously examined the English Pianos at the Universal Exhibition of 1878, we find that the palm belongs to the Grand Pianos of the house of Brinsmead.
"NICOLAS RUBINSTEIN,
"D. MAGNUS,
"Chevalier ANTOINE DE KONTSKI, Court Pianist to the Emperor of Germany."

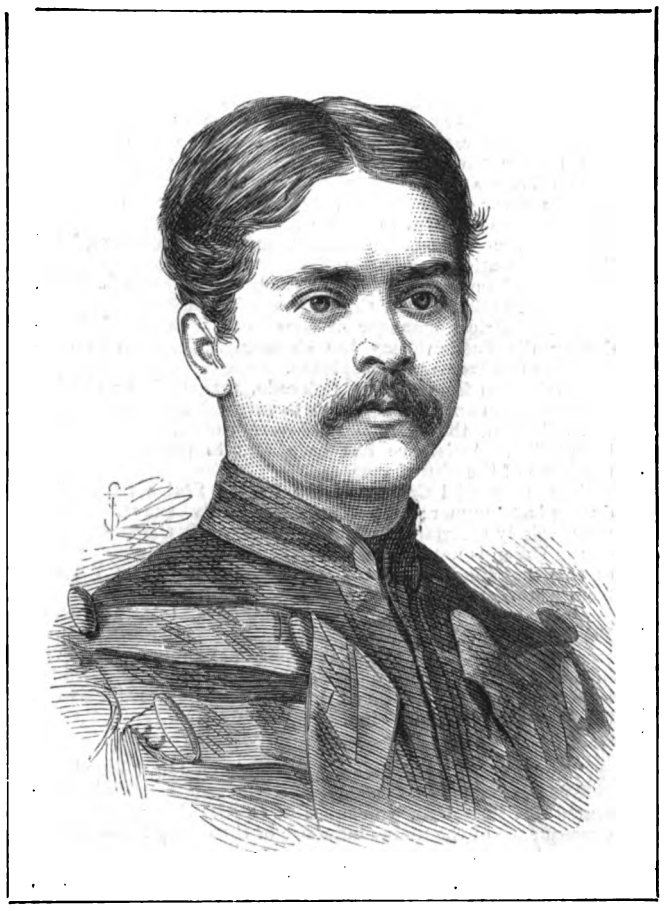
JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"I have pleasure in expressing my opinion that the Paris Exhibition Model Grand Pianofortes of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons are unsurpassed. The tone is deliciously sweet, sustained, and extraordinarily powerful; the touch responds to the faintest and to the most trying strains on it, and the workmanship is simply perfect. W. KUHE."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"Illustrated London News."
"The French papers have been unanimous in their expressions of admiration of these splendid instruments. The grands especially have enchanted the Parisian professors and amateurs of music by their noble sonority their enormous power, and the sympathetically voice-like quality of tone. The touch is so beautifully light, elastic, and certain, that many pianists of every nation, from the Abbé Liszt downwards, who have tried these instruments, have highly complimented the enterprising manufacturers on their success."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"Daily Chronicle."
"In tone the instrument is exceedingly rich and sweet, and in touch the very perfection of lightness. Messrs. Brinsmead may certainly be congratulated upon their success."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"Morning Advertiser."
"The Legion of Honour. In addition to the other distinctions awarded to Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons at the Paris Exhibition of 1878, the founder of the firm has been created Chevalier of the Legion of Honour."

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT SOSTENENTE PIANOS.
"Daily News."
"A new Pianoforte, recently manufactured by Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, claims notice, not only on account of its beauty and richness of tone, but specially for some ingenious mechanical novelties, the most important being the addition of a third pedal, by means of which the sound of any note or notes may be almost indefinitely prolonged at the will of the player. Thus bass notes may be sustained after being struck by the left hand, which may then be taken away, and, with the right hand, may execute the most brilliant staccato passages, thus giving almost the effect of four hands. The patent 'check-repeater action,' a specialty of Messrs. Brinsmead, enables the performer to command with ease the most rapid reiteration of the same note; the facility of the key movement in general being such that glissando passages can be executed with such perfect ease as to render them practicable with the lightest touch. The volume of tone is intensified by a peculiar construction of the sounding-board, another improvement being the system of bridging, by which the vibrations are increased and rendered sympathetic. The Pianoforte is capable of all degrees of delicacy and power, its massive structure rendering it less liable to get out of tune than usual; and the instrument is altogether calculated to extend the reputation of its makers."



JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PIANOS
may be obtained of all the principal Musicsellers.
Prices from 35 guineas to 350 guineas.
18-20, WIGMORE-STREET, LONDON, W.,
and
THE "BRINSMEAD WORKS,"
GRAFTON-ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1880.

Digitized by Google

LIEUTENANT W. C. OWEN.

One of the officers killed by the Afghans in the disastrous defeat of General Burrows's brigade at Khushk-i-Nakhud, or Maiwand, on July 27, was Lieutenant William Charles Owen, squadron officer and acting adjutant of the 3rd (Queen's Own) Bombay Light Cavalry. This promising young officer was the only son of Mr. William Louis Owen, a retired District Superintendent of the Bengal Police, and was grandson of the late Major Arthur Owen, of the 26th Bengal Native Infantry; his family had earned much distinction in the service of the East India Company. He was educated in London and at Sevenoaks, and at the Royal Military College, Sandhurst; in December, 1871, he entered the 3rd (King's Own) Hussars, which he joined at Ahmedabad in November, 1872; but in May, 1878, he passed for and entered the Bombay Staff Corps, and was attached to the 3rd Bombay Light Cavalry, of which the Prince of Wales is Honorary Colonel. He was highly esteemed in the regiment, and letters from his brother officers, describing the cavalry charge in which he fell, speak of his daring courage and perfect coolness in the fight. He has left a widow and an infant child. The portrait is from a photograph which shows him in the uniform of the 3rd (King's Own) Regiment.

THE LATE LIEUTENANT W. C. OWEN, 3RD BOMBAY CAVALRY, KILLED IN THE AFGHAN WAR.

A MAORI PARLIAMENT.

Orakei, a native settlement in the Province of Auckland, New Zealand, became the seat of a Native Parliament, held last Easter, which was largely attended by all the leading chiefs in that part of the North Island. Several great native meetings were also held at Hikurangi, by Tawhiao, and at Parihaka, by Te Whiti; but they seem to have been quite independent, and in rivalry with one another. The Maori, like the Pakeha, or white man, has always numerous grievances; and the programme of the Orakei Parliament included, amongst others, the following:—The course of the Government in dismissing Maori officials who administered the law; the want of friendship and goodwill to the chiefs, displayed in stopping their supply of food, travelling-passes, and medicine; the withholding of trial from the prisoners of Taranaki; the act of the Government, in sending commissioners and soldiers to occupy the native districts together; finally, the appointment of Sir William Fox and Sir Dillon Bell, as commissioners, seeing that it was by them the dispute (war) originated at Taranaki. These were the views of the malcontent party. Our chief Illustration represents the Orakei Parliament, with the chief, Paul Tauhere, occupying the Speaker's seat; immediately below him are two Europeans, the reporter and interpreter, while on his right Hirini Taiwhanga is addressing the House. In the foreground, on the left-hand, is the chief, Te Mongonui. The lower Illustration represents the native settlement of Orakei, with the encampment, and the usual piles of provisions, consisting of kumara, potatoes, dried fish, and partially dried and rotten beef. The building on the left is the chapel and school, but used at present as the Parliament house. The upper Illustration is a view of the bay and native settlement of Orakei, embosomed in peach-groves.

IMPERIAL PROGRESS IN JAPAN.

His Imperial Majesty of Japan has completed an extensive tour through the southern provinces of Niphon, the second occasion on which he has done so, having made the same tour two years ago. The journey was undertaken from a love of the country and its people, and a desire to see them in their everyday labours in the fertile fields and in their busy life in the large towns. The effect of his Majesty's progress through the country will be to strengthen the strong spirit of loyalty which prevails. His Majesty left the Imperial Palace at Tokio, the capital, on June 16, accompanied by a large suite and escort of Lancers. He proceeded by the Tokaido, one of the principal highways, to Otsu, at the south end of Lake Biwa, where, on July 14, he opened a new section of the railway, that between Otsu and Kioto. In the month's journey before reaching Otsu there were many places visited on the way. One principal object of the tour was a visit to the shrines at Ise. Among other important incidents, there was a two-days' sham fight by a large body of Japanese soldiers at Kameyama. His Majesty stayed nearly a whole week at Kioto, the former capital and the home of his youth, where his early days as Mikado were spent in sacred seclusion. He stayed at the old palace of the Mikado. While at Kioto he visited the tombs of his ancestors. From Kioto he came by rail to Kobe, where he spent part of two days, and then sailed in a Japanese man-of-war to Yokohama, arriving there on July 23, and travelling by rail the same day to Tokio. The decorations and illuminations at Kioto were very extensive, a national flag and new paper lantern being hung at every door in the street of the large city. At Kobe (both in the foreign concession and the native town) and likewise at Hiogo the illuminations were of surprising brilliancy.

We are indebted to Mr. W. Macfarlane, of the Hiogo News, and to Mr. Thomas Unett Brocklehurst, who is, with Mr. E. Massie, of Chester, travelling in Japan, for some particulars of the Emperor's journey and reception among his provincial subjects, and some materials for our Illustrations. These are, indeed, partly derived from a native Japanese illustrated newspaper, called the Yeiri Shimbun, of Kioto, which gives a woodcut representing the Emperor's carriage, escorted by a troop of Lancers, and followed by members of his suite on horseback or in carriages, passing through the streets. The houses are decorated with the Japanese national flag. A coloured print was also published and sold at Kobe, representing the Imperial procession there, very much as the Lord Mayor's Show in London is made the subject of an occasional penny publication.

The first of our Illustrations, which is entitled by us "Travelling in Japanese Fashion," is from Mr. T. U. Brocklehurst's sketch, showing the Emperor's palanquin borne with long bamboo poles upon the shoulders of sixteen coolies, all wearing tight black skull-caps, and with straw sandals to their feet; each man with his pipe and tobacco-pouch in his belt. The police, walking on both sides, wore their uniform of dark blue tunics, white trousers, and black caps. This old-fashioned mode of conveyance was preferred by his Majesty on the rough country roads; but in the streets of towns he used a closed carriage, drawn by a pair of horses, and driven by two coachmen sitting on the box, each holding the reins of one horse. The second Illustration, "Travelling in European Fashion," which represents this attempt at a modern style of equipage, is taken from a portion of the Japanese coloured print at Kobe, already mentioned. The escort of Lancers, with their flag, is also here introduced. It should be observed that the use of horses, which were first imported into Japan at a comparatively recent period, is still a novelty and rarity among the natives of that country; and they are chiefly employed for State or military parade. These people do not seem to have acquired much skill in riding and driving.

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION: CAPTAIN BOYCOTT ON THE ROAD TO CLAREMORRIS RAILWAY STATION.—SEE PAGE 540.

Digitized by Google

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

The Chamber of Deputies has been engaged in discussing the interpellations on the foreign policy of the Government. Signor Cairoli, the President of the Council, in one of his replies, said that the concert of Europe had been ridiculed, but the result had proved its utility; and he defended the course taken by the Government in participating in the naval demonstration, on the ground that Italy could not separate herself from Europe.

A monument to Victor Emmanuel has been inaugurated at Vincenza. It is the work of the sculptor Benvenuti. The pedestal, in grey marble, is 21 ft. high. On the step sits a figure in Carrara marble, representing the city of Vincenza. A simple inscription says that the monument was erected, by subscription, by the province and city. The statue is also in Carrara marble.

A new theatre, built by Signor Costanzi, was opened in Rome last Saturday night. The King and Queen were present.

Three out of the number of persons charged with robbing the Italian National Bank of 2,000,000 lire have been sentenced, one to twelve years', and two others to four years' hard labour. The remainder of the accused were acquitted.

SPAIN.

At a dinner given to Señor Romero y Robledo, the Minister of the Interior, last week, by 450 members of the Liberal-Conservative party in Seville, he declared that the Premier, Señor Canovas del Castello, had made Spain one of the freest nations in Europe, and, in conclusion, described the King as the symbol of the happiness, welfare, and progress of the nation.

PORTUGAL.

The Gazette publishes a Royal decree accepting the resignation of the Minister of War, and appointing as his successor Colonel Castro, who is a peer and a military engineer.

A Lisbon telegram announces the death there on Sunday of the Archbishop of Goa, the Roman Catholic Primate of the East.

HOLLAND.

Mynheer F. S. Jacob, former Director-General of the Company for the Administration of State Railways, has been appointed Governor-General of the Dutch East Indies.

GERMANY.

The improvement in the state of the Emperor's health continues. On Sunday the Emperor took a drive in a closed carriage. On Monday his Majesty received in audience Prince Hohenlohe, the German Ambassador to France.

The German Federal Council has unanimously adopted the first and second reading of the proposal of Prussia to prolong, for another year, the minor state of the siege in Berlin, the town districts of Potsdam and Charlottenburg, and the district of Teltow, Lower Barnim, and Ost-Havelland.

The Prussian House of Deputies continues the discussion of the Budget, most of the items being in the end approved.

At Dortmund there was a slight shock of earthquake on the 25th ult., and a smart one on the 27th.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The centenary was celebrated on Tuesday throughout Austria. The festival was thoroughly popular. The Corporations of Vienna, and most of the large cities, celebrated the day officially.

The festivities in commemoration of the Emperor Joseph II. were begun on Sunday in all parts of the Austrian Empire. In Vienna a torchlight procession was formed, which marched, accompanied by great crowds, to the Emperor Joseph Monument. The Centenary was celebrated on Tuesday throughout Austria. The festival was thoroughly popular. The Corporations of Vienna, and most of the large cities, celebrated the day officially.

In Tuesday's sitting of the Lower House of the Austrian Reichsrath the Estimates for 1881 were presented. The expenditure is set down at 441,537,000 fl., and the revenue at 407,125,000 fl.

In Lemberg on Sunday the fiftieth anniversary of the Polish revolution of 1830 was celebrated, while on Saturday last, both at that town and at Cracow, festivities were held in memory of Kusciewicz. A poem written in honour of the occasion was confiscated by the police.

A popular meeting of the Young Czech party was held at Prague on Sunday, but was closed by the Government Commissary on account of the tumultuous proceedings.

By the recent earthquakes at Agram, according to a telegram sent by the Burgomaster of the town to his colleague at Prague, two persons were killed and twenty-three injured. Four hundred families are without shelter, and many of them lack the necessaries of life.

GREECE.

By a despatch from Athens we learn that Herr von Radowitz has had an audience of the King of the Hellenes, and represented the dangers to which Greece would expose herself if she ventured to attack Turkey, or attempted to occupy the territory awarded to her by the Conference. His Majesty, in reply, said he would prefer war with Turkey to internal convulsion.

RUSSIA.

The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Vladimir and their children arrived at St. Petersburg on Tuesday by special train. General von Schweinitz arrived there the same day. The Emperor left Livadia on Tuesday morning for St. Petersburg.

It is officially announced that the Emperor will be present in St. Petersburg at the annual fête of the Order of St. George, which takes place on the 8th inst.

The breaking up of the ice on the Volga, at Nijni Novgorod, in consequence of the sudden warm weather, has destroyed five steamers and more than thirty barges.

A telegram from the Daily News special correspondent in Central Asia states that the Russian forces posted between Tchikisliar and Bami are estimated at 12,000 men. The Tekkes have captured 400 camels laden with stores, and are confident of success.

TURKEY.

Mr. Goschen leaves Constantinople for London on the 8th inst., and will return there in January.

The Ambassadors have received instructions to congratulate the Porte on the surrender of Dulcigno and on the tranquillity of the ceded district.

The surrender of Dulcigno began, in accordance with the agreement, at noon on Friday, the 26th ult., and at six p.m. the Montenegrins had occupied the town as well as the surrounding positions. All passed in the most formal and regular manner like a relief of guards, and Dervish Pasha gave the directions in person. On Saturday Bojo Petrovics entered Dulcigno in state, and was met at the gates by all the head men of the villages and other influential Mussulmans tendering their allegiance. A thanksgiving "Te Deum" service was performed, and at noon the Montenegrin standard was hoisted on the fortress under a salute of twenty-one guns. The Daily News correspondent at Constantinople says that the Prince of Montenegro has telegraphed his acknowledgments to the Sultan for the manner in which the cession of Dulcigno has been accomplished.

AMERICA.

General Garfield has received a deputation of Independent Republicans, who urged him to take into consideration the question of Civil Service reform. In reply, he said he hoped to have the co-operation of Congress in establishing a legal basis for routine appointments to office, thereby placing it beyond the power of anybody, even of the President of the Republic, to remove a capable and faithful officer from his post during the term for which he was appointed. The Chicago Tribune publishes a statement, compiled from the official returns of every State, showing that General Garfield had a plurality of 3401 in the popular vote.

The Franco-American Claims Commission have completed their organisation.

The Alabama Legislature has elected Mr. James L. Pugh, Democrat, as Senator for the State at Washington.

The theatrical manager at New York, who intended producing the Passion Play has abandoned the idea in consequence of adverse public opinion.

A telegram from Denver, Colorado, reports that a riot has been going on among the miners twenty miles from Leadville. Mr. Robinson, the Lieutenant-Governor elect, is said to have been killed. Assistance has been sent to the authorities at the scene of the disturbance.

The Decennial Census of the United States was taken during last summer; and, though the results have not been as yet precisely ascertained, it is estimated that the population of the Union is not less than 50,000,000. An important part of this magnificent national development has been derived from European immigration.

According to advices from Washington, telegrams from Pekin indicate that the new Emigration Treaty with China secures to the United States the control and regulation of the introduction of Chinese labourers according to United States laws. A commercial treaty has also been negotiated between the United States and China.

CANADA.

The Ontario Legislature will assemble on Jan. 13 next.

We hear from Montreal that the Court of Appeals has unseated Mr. Robellard, a member of the local Legislature, in consequence of the undue influence of the clergy in his favour at the election.

INDIA.

The Viceroy left Jacobabad on Sunday week, and arrived at Kurrachee on Monday morning. During his stay there he inspected the harbour and other works, and received addresses from the municipality and the Chamber of Commerce, in which his attention was called to some of the principal wants of Kurrachee, such as the construction of a bridge across the Indus at Sukkur, the extension of the railway system towards Afghanistan, the establishment of a daily post with Bombay, and a direct mail service with Aden. Lord Ripon, in reply, assured the memorialists that these and other matters mentioned by them would have careful consideration. On Tuesday the Viceroy received the Jam of Lus Beyla in private durbar. He arrived at Bombay on Saturday. The Viceroy held a review on Monday afternoon of all the troops in garrison there. His arrival at Calcutta is fixed for the 6th.

Major-General C. C. Johnson has resigned the office of Quartermaster-General in India, and Colonel MacGregor has been appointed to succeed him. The last-named officer, after taking formal charge of the office, has started for England on a three months' leave.

According to intelligence received at Teheran from Herat, Ayoub Khan is in a very embarrassed position, being destitute of means and having few followers.

The Indian telegrams published by the Times on Monday morning states that the latest Cabul news received by the Government is said to be of a generally satisfactory character. The harvest prospects in most of the threatened districts of the North-West Provinces are improving. The latest news of the outbreak in Cashmere is said to be "reassuring." Major Biddulph is safe, and the Maharajah is still pushing forward reinforcements

AUSTRALIA

The general elections in New South Wales are, a Sydney telegram says, proceeding actively, and half the members of the new Legislative Assembly have been returned. The programme of the Government, which includes free trade, extension of the railways, local self-government, and non-sectarian education, appears to have met with acceptance, as the great bulk of the members returned have expressed themselves distinctly favourable to those views.

Sir Arthur Blyth, Agent-General for South Australia, has received the following telegram from the Government in Adelaide, dated the 29th ult.:—"The wheat crops promise favourably, except in the far north." The time occupied in the transmission of this message from Adelaide to Westminster, was 5 hours 10 min.

A fresh extradition treaty has been concluded between the Swiss Government and that of Great Britain.

The Council of Ministers has sanctioned the opening of a custom house at Cairo, thus enabling goods from Europe for that city to pass untouched through the Alexandria customs.

The annexation of Tahiti to France was conditional, it now appears, on a pension of 60,000f. to Queen Pomare, and of pensions to other Royal personages and chiefs, amounting in all to 91,200f.

The recent successful experiment to bring fresh meat from Australia by the Strathearn has induced the formation of a syndicate to provide a weekly delivery of 300 tons of fresh meat in London from Australia.

It is stated that the Government has signified its readiness to accept £250,000 from the Government of Natal in final settlement of all claims against the colony on account of the Zulu war charges.

Prince Charles, in his speech from the throne at the opening of the Roumanian Chambers last Saturday, announced that the relations of the Principality with foreign Powers were very friendly, and referred to the navigation of the Danube, the liberty of which, he said, would be upheld by his Government.

Great shipping disasters are reported from America, where one hundred and twenty-five vessels are stated to be icebound. Off Newfoundland, many casualties occurred during the recent gales.—There are reported to be signs of a partial breaking up of the ice blockade in the St. Lawrence River and the lakes, the temperature having become less severe.

A magnificent lacustrine find has been made in the marshes of Corcelettes, near Consise, in Canton Vaud, Switzerland. It consists of a fine canoe in a perfect state of preservation, 11 mètres 16 centimètres long and slightly more than a mètre broad. It was dug out and drawn from the marsh by sixty men and eight oxen, under the superintendence of the director of the museum of Lausanne, and has been placed in the court of the Lausanne Academy.

GREEK ANTIQUITIES NEAR SMYRNA.

The view of the Valley of St. Anne, and the river Melas, near Smyrna, with the First Aqueduct, is from one of the Sketches and water-colour drawings by Mr. W. Simpson, our Special Artist, mostly illustrative of the topography of Mycenæ, Troy, and Ephesus, which were exhibited in the summer of 1878 at Messrs. P. and D. Colnaghi's, Pall-mall East. The place here represented is within a mile or so of the modern commercial city of Smyrna, and two miles from the sea. In the view, looking southward, it must be imagined that, over the cliff seen to the right hand, which is covered with fragments of masonry, ruins of the ancient city, lie the harbour and the existing town of Smyrna. The aqueduct, as might be guessed from the form of its arches, is a work of the middle ages, but of design and use similar to the Roman aqueducts. In the foreground are more remains of old Byzantine buildings, with a wooden conduit, raised above the valley, for the conveyance of water. To the left hand is the Smyrna and Aidin Railway, with a train coming or going between this city and Ephesus, which is what nobody would have thought of two thousand years ago. The stream that runs through the valley now bears a Turkish name, but was by the ancient Greeks called the "Melas," or "Black." This spot being one of the seven traditional birthplaces of Homer, when the honour of his nativity was disputed between seven cities, the name "Melesigenes," sometimes given to that immortal poet, was ascribed, by a very doubtful etymology, to that of the river. "Homer's Grotto" is generally pointed out to the visitor by the Smyrna guides.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Adams, John, Rector of West Hallam, to be Vicar of Offchurch.
Bates, Percival Walker; Rector of Charles, N. Devon.
Carter, William Collingwood; Vicar of Little Tew, Oxon.
Flynn, J. S.; Missions to Seamen Chaplain, Falmouth Roadstead.
Hill, Arthur F. T.; Incumbent of St. Mary's, Aberdeen.
Hindson, John Hutchinson; Vicar of Wraysbury, Bucks.
Lambrick, S. S.; Vicar of St. John the Baptist's, Newtown, Leeds.
Meredith, John; Rector of Polebrooke.
Milton, William; Vicar of Little Marlow, Bucks.
Moberly, Edward Hugh; Vicar of Chute, Wilts.
Norfolk, Albert S., Chaplain, Dockyard, Woolwich; Chaplain to the Royal Horse Guards and Life Guards, London.
Pratt, Philip Edgar; Vicar of Madley-with-Tibberton.
Ratcliffe, Charles B.; Curate in Charge of Christ Church, Weymouth.
Spencer, Josiah; H.M. Director of Education in Cyprus.
Taylor, Herbert William; Vicar of West Wycombe, Bucks.
Torbett, James English; Perpetual Curate of Hudswell, Richmond.
Whitefoord, Philip; Rector of Aylton, near Ledbury.—Guardian.

The Bishop of Oxford presided on Tuesday at the dedication of the new chapel which has been erected at St. Andrew's Hospital, Clewer.

The Company appointed for the revision of the authorised version of the Old Testament finished their sixty-sixth session yesterday week in the Jerusalem Chamber. The second revision of the historical books was continued as far as the end of Esther ii.

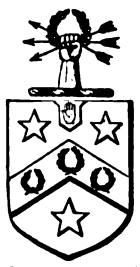
On Sunday night the Bishop of Rochester preached at St. Paul's, Lorrimore-square, Walworth, and announced to the congregation that he had appointed a new Vicar; and that he was determined that whatever was illegal in the manner of conducting the service of the church should be eradicated.

By the munificence of several private donors, Bradninch church has been much improved. Part of the west gallery has been taken down; the elegant tower arch has been thus exposed to view, and the organ has been removed to the north-east corner of the church. The new west window, which is by Messrs. Hardman, is a gift of the late Mr. A. W. Linnington.

The corner-stone of St. Peter's, Keighley, has been laid by Mrs. Lister Marriner. The building is to replace a temporary chapel in which service has been regularly said since the middle of 1872. It is to be in the Early English style, and it will accommodate 750 persons. It will cost upwards of £5000, towards which the Duke of Devonshire has subscribed £1000 and Mr. Lister Marriner £500.

The Rev. R. W. Enraght, the Vicar of Holy Trinity, Bordesley, Birmingham, was arrested last Saturday afternoon on a warrant granted by Lord Penzance for ritualistic practices. The rev. gentleman addressed a number of his congregation from the church steps, and great excitement prevailed. He was taken to Warwick Gaol, where he is confined as a first-class misdemeanant. The services at Holy Trinity church were conducted on Sunday in precisely the same manner as heretofore.

Mr. Charles made an application to the Queen's Bench on Monday for a writ of habeas corpus with a view to the Rev. T. P. Dale being brought up and discharged. He argued that all the proceedings against Mr. Dale were irregular, and therefore void. The argument was resumed on Tuesday. Mr. Justice Field stated that, upon consideration of the various points which had been raised, the Court thought a writ ought to be granted. The writ was made returnable on Monday. Rules nisi were also granted for a prohibition to Lord Penzance, on the ground that all the proceedings were invalid; and for calling upon Mr. Sergeant to show cause why the writ of contumacy should not be set aside.



On Sunday, the 22nd ult., the old parish church of Stow-cum-Quy, near Cambridge, was reopened, after complete restoration, under the direction of Mr. White. The following legend in the north aisle tells its own story:—"This stone was placed as a record of the restoration of the parish church in the month of November, in the year of our Lord God 1880, and in memory of Clement Francis, of the town of Cambridge, and of Quy Hall, in this county, by whom the good work was originated, and, with the willing help of others, was carried on. It had been in his heart to rebuild this house of God as a thank-offering for many blessings received during the course of a prosperous life. He died, March 7, 1880, aged sixty-four, not having been permitted to see the full accomplishment of his desire, which was happily completed by Sarah Francis, who for thirty and two years had been his loving and devoted wife."

A large and richly-coloured window of stained glass has just been inserted in the north transept of St. Nicholas Church, Great Yarmouth, by Mr. Cornelius Harley Christmas, a gentleman who recently invested nearly £16,000 for the benefit of the poor of Yarmouth. It is to commemorate the eighty-sixth year of the donor, and is also in memory of the Rev. Richard Turner, who was upwards of fifty years minister of the parish.—The shattered masonry of a large window in the north transept of Stow Church has been satisfactorily restored by Messrs. Hookham and Son, and filled in with rich, well-executed stained glass by Messrs. Wailes and Strang, at the sole cost of Mrs. Raikes, the relict of the late Major-General Raikes, C.B.—A stained-glass figured window of three long lancet-lights (executed by Messrs. Edmundson) has been put in the chancel of St. Stephen's Church, East Hardwick, near Pontefract; the expense having been defrayed by the pupils of Messrs. Lord and Slack's school.

Digitized by Google

OBITUARY.

SIR BENJAMIN C. BRODIE, BART.

Sir Benjamin Collins Brodie, second Baronet, of Boxford, in the county of Suffolk, F.R.S., M.A., D.C.L., late Professor of Chemistry in the University of Oxford, died on the 24th ult., at Torquay. He was born Feb. 5, 1817, the elder son of Sir Benjamin Collins Brodie, F.R.S., D.C.L. (created a Baronet in 1834), the eminent surgeon, Serjeant-Surgeon to William IV. and Queen Victoria, by Anne, his wife, third daughter of Mr. Serjeant Sellon. The Baronet whose death we record was educated at Harrow, and at Balliol College, Oxford, where he graduated B.A. 1838, M.A. 1859. He was Aldrichian Professor of Chemistry at Oxford from 1855 to 1866, and Waynflete Professor of Chemistry 1866 to 1872. He married, in 1848, Philothea Margaret, daughter of the late Mr. Serjeant Thompson, and leaves five daughters and an only son, now Sir Benjamin Vincent Sellon Brodie, third Baronet, who was born June 19, 1862.

MR. MARK FIRTH.

Mr. Mark Firth, whose serious illness was announced last week, succumbed to his attack of apoplexy and paralysis on the 28th ult., in his sixty-second year. Mr. Mark Firth was the son of a steel melter, who began business in a small way in 1843, being assisted by his two sons, Mark and Thomas. In 1849 the firm of Thomas Firth and Sons erected the Norfolk Works, in which an enormous business was developed. Mr. Mark Firth's first charitable gift of any magnitude was £1000, which he added to a legacy of £5000 left by his brother Thomas for the erection of a college for the training of young men for the New Connexion ministry. In 1869 he erected and endowed the "Mark Firth Almshouses" at Ranmoor, at a cost of £30,000. They accommodate thirty-nine persons, and are left to the poor of the town for ever. His next act of munificence was the gift to the town of Firth Park, which was opened in 1875 by the Prince of Wales. The chief benefit, however, which he conferred on the town was the foundation of Firth College, which was opened by Prince Leopold in 1879. The college was erected and fitted up at a cost of £20,000. Mr. Firth also endowed the college at a further cost of £5000, and gave a chair of chemistry worth £150 a year. The endowment fund now amounts to £20,000. A portrait of Mr. Mark Firth appeared in our number for Aug. 28, 1875.

MR. WHITWELL, M.P.

Mr. John Whitwell, M.P. for Kendal, J.P. and D.L., whose death is just announced, was born Sept. 6, 1812, the second son of the late Mr. Isaac Whitwell, of Kendal, by Maria, his wife, daughter of Mr. William Fisher, of Thorpe Hall, Leeds. He received his education at the Kendal and Darlington Friends' School, and was President of the Chamber of Commerce in the borough for which he sat, and Lieutenant-Colonel First Battalion Westmorland Rifle Volunteers. He was first elected for Kendal, in the Liberal interest, November, 1868. Mr. Whitwell married, in 1837, Anna, daughter of Mr. William Maude, of Horton Grange, Bradford.

MR. EDWIN GUEST.

Mr. Edwin Guest, F.R.S., LL.D., D.C.L., J.P. for Oxfordshire and for the borough of Cambridge, died on the 23rd ult., at his residence, Sandford Park, Oxford. Dr. Guest was the only son of Mr. Benjamin Guest, of Rowheath, King's Norton, Worcestershire, where the family were settled for some generations, and was born in 1800. He graduated at Caius College in the Mathematical Tripos of 1824, when he was eleventh wrangler. He was elected to a Fellowship soon after taking his degree, and was called to the Bar in 1828. In 1852, on the death of Dr. Chapman, he was elected to the Mastership of Gonville and Caius College. He filled the office of Vice-Chancellor in 1854. In 1859 he married Anne, daughter of Joseph Ferguson, Esq., of Morton, Carlisle, sometime M.P. for Carlisle. About 1841 he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society, and also had the honorary degree of D.C.L. conferred upon him. Dr. Guest's principal publication was a "History of English Rhythms," a work which passed through two editions, and is now out of print. He also contributed to the Journal of the Philological Society and the Archæological Journal a number of valuable papers, which, in the interests of science, it is to be regretted he did not live to carry out his intention of republishing in a collected form.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Sir John Milton, C.B., the late Accountant-General of the Army, on the 29th ult., in his sixtieth year.

Mr. Charles John Manning, of Littlehampton Manor, Sussex, brother of Cardinal Manning, at his residence in Prince's-gardens, on the 28th ult., in his eighty-second year.

Mrs. Eden, wife of the Bishop of Moray and Ross, Primus of the Episcopal Church of Scotland. She was youngest daughter of the late Sir James Allan Park, Justice of the Common Pleas.

Lieutenant-General Thomas Beckett Fielding Marriott, Colonel-Commandant Royal Artillery, suddenly, last week, at Avonbank, near Pershore, Worcestershire, aged sixty-seven. General Marriott was a magistrate and Deputy-Lieutenant for the county of Worcester.

The Rev. Richard Wood, B.D., Rector of St. Aiphage, London-wall, on the 22nd inst., in his seventieth year. He was educated at St. John's College, Oxford, of which he became Fellow, and from 1855 to 1879 was Vicar of Christ Church, Paddington.

The Rev. Edward Cooper Woollcombe, Senior Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford, and Incumbent of Tendring, Essex. He graduated at Oriel College, and subsequently became Dean, Tutor, and Lecturer of Balliol College, and public examiner in classics. It was only last year he was appointed to the incumbency of Tendring.

Eleanor, Lady Nicolls, widow of General Sir Edward Nicolls, K.C.B., on the 23rd ult., at New Vanbrugh-terrace, Blackheath, in her eighty-ninth year. Her Ladyship was the daughter of Mr. S. G. Bristow; was married in 1809, and left a widow in 1865.

Mrs. White (Salisbury Anne), of Killakee, near Rathfarnham, for many years one of the leaders of society in Dublin, on the 26th ult., universally esteemed and regretted. She was daughter of Mr. George Rothe, of Mount Rothe, county Kilkenny, and the descendant of a very ancient family in that county. She married, 1821, Colonel Samuel White, M.P., county Leitrim, elder brother of the first Lord Annaly, and was left a widow, without issue, in 1854. The beautiful demesne of Killakee devolves, we believe, on Colonel White's nephew, Lord Massy.

On Thursday week the Master and Wardens of the Carpenters' Company entertained a large company at the opening of their new hall in Throgmorton-avenue. Mr. S. Gibbins presided, and the guests included the Lord Mayor, and the masters and chief clerks of the leading City Companies.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

J C M (Watford).—As the position was published in a manual, its simplicity was probably designed, but it was absurd to dub such a poor composition a problem.

Captain M (Dublin).—We are much obliged by your courtesy. The games shall have due honours.

A Youngster (Hythe).—The "Theory of the Openings" can be obtained only from the author, Mr. Gossip, whose address is Hôtel de Paris, Rue Faubourg Montmartre, Paris.

G M (Eton).—The correction of your problem is noted.

M H (Kensington).—It is a problem from Damiano's work, published in 1512, and is, therefore, over 300 years old. The solution is 1. R to R 8th, K moves; 2. Kt to Q B 2nd, K moves; 3. R mates.

Va (U.S.).—See answer to "A Youngster." 1. B to K 4th will not solve Mr. Shinkman's clever self-mate problem.

Messrs. Barker, Stauffer, E J Lee, and R Lucas will please accept our cordial thanks for reports of the proceedings of their several clubs.

F C C (Great Queen-street).—We shall be pleased to insert the announcement of your tourney if you will condense it into a brief paragraph.

Correct Solutions of the Canadian Prize Problem received from J W Fowler, R B Duff, "Bishop of Ilkley," East Marden, E L G, James Dobson, A Youngster, Norman Rumbelow, F E Purchas, C L Combe, G C Baxter, S Farrant, Elsie, An Old Hand, D Templeton, T Barrington, W Warren, H Blacklock, R Jessop, C C E, A Kentish Man, C Darragh, H Langford, and E Elsbury.

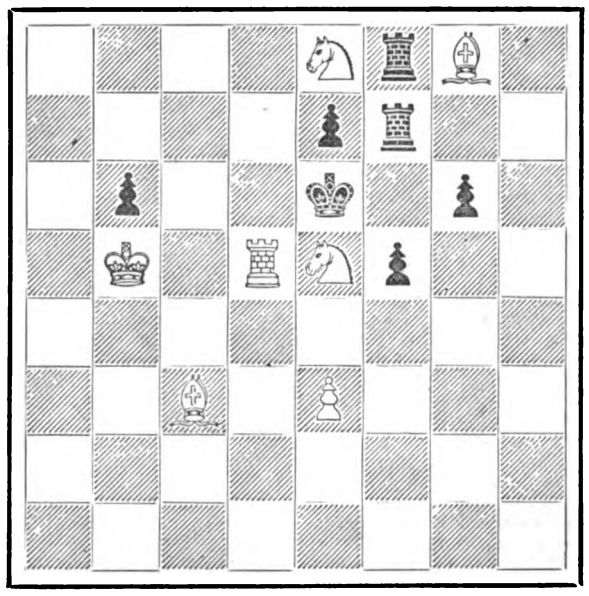
Correct Solutions of Problems Nos. 1912, 1913, and 1914 received from Va (U. S.) and Rev John Wills (Portland, U. S. A.).

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1915 received from W J Eggleston, Lincopensis (Sweden), and Rev. John Wills.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1916 received from N M Carrig, W F Payne, Owlet Junior, A Snelling, James Atkinson, W J Eggleston, and Lincopensis.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1917 received from J Brelly, J Tucker, H de Groot L Chapelle (Malta), W F Payne, W T R, James Atkinson, Philosyntomos, H H H, W J Eggleston, and H Stebbing.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1918 received from H B, J W W, Shadforth, E P Vuillamy, Cant, East Marden, A W Hale, A Chapman, "Bishop of Ilkley," E L G, James Dobson, A Youngster, Norman Rumbelow, R B Duff, F E Purchas, C L Combe, S Farrant, Elsie, An Old Hand, D Templeton, T Barrington, W Warren, H Blacklock, W H Eggleston, Lulu, Joseph Moore, T S Wicksteed, J Tucker, Smutch, J W Waugh, H de Groot, Ch Pompé, Caractacus, J W Fowler, Underwood, E Louden, Hampsteadian, W F Payne, Hereward, Owlet, R Jessop, C C E, Kingussie, Z Ingold, A Kentish Man, C Darragh, H Langford, E Elsbury, R H Brooks, Julia Short, H H H, W T R, J Perez Ventoso, J B (Teddington), C B Carlon, Ben Nevis, R Ingersoll, D W Kell, B Dyke, Woggiepoll, H Stebbing, G C Baxter, Alfred W Pye, Baker Orn, A R, W Scott, W Biddle, Alpha, Frank Littleboy, C S Coxe, C Oswald, L Sharawood, Ernest Sharswood, J G Glossop, J C Mills, and G Fosbrooke.



Solution of Problem No. 1917.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. R to K 4th	B to Q 5th *
2. R takes P (ch)	K, P, or B takes R
3. Q mates accordingly.

* If Black play 1. Kt to B 5th (ch), White replies with 2. K to B 7th, and 1. K to K 3rd, then 2. Q to B 8th (ch), &c.

PROBLEM No. 1920.
By Sergeant-Major MacArthur.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

We are indebted to a Melbourne Correspondent for the record of the following brilliant Skirmish played between Messrs. Goldsmith and Esling, at the Melbourne Chess Club. The notes appended are by Mr. Wisker, and were contributed to the Australasian, a newspaper containing an excellent chess column.

(Philidor's Defence.)

WHITE (Mr. G.)	BLACK (Mr. E.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	P to Q 3rd
3. P to Q 4th	P to K B 4th

"Philidor's Defence" is little practised now in any form, and this variation is a very great rarity. It leads almost always to complicated positions, often of great beauty; but it is unsound, and, with proper care, the first player gets all the fun on his side.

4. P takes K P

The old move, and, undeniably, a good one. Modern analysts, however, give the preference to 4. Kt to Q B 3rd.

4.	P takes K P
5. Kt to Kt 5th	P to Q 4th
6. P to K 6th	B to B 4th

This sortie, first adopted by Morphy in a remarkable game with Barnes, requires careful answering. The object of Black is to gain a strong attack and a Pawn in return for the "exchange."

7. Kt to Q B 3rd

White very properly declines to win the exchange, which is not worth the loss of time involved in the process. 7. Kt takes K P is good play at this stage; but the move in the text, followed up as it is by a remarkable novelty, is, probably, the best course at the first player's command.

7.	Q to B 3rd

WHITE (Mr. G.)	BLACK (Mr. E.)
8. B to Kt 5th (ch)

This is the novelty alluded to in the preceding note. It does the greatest credit to the inventor's chess acumen, and we are satisfied that it gives White, in any case, a winning game.

8.	P to B 3rd
9. Castles	B takes K P

If he captures the proffered Bishop, White gets a winning attack by 10. Kt takes Q P. But 9. Kt to K 2nd looks better than the move in the text.

10. B to Q B 4th

Again finely played. Still, the Bishop cannot be taken, as the reply would be 11. Q Kt takes K P, and White must gain one of the Bishops in return for his own, besides getting a winning game.

10.	P to K 6th
11. Q Kt to K 4th	P takes Kt
12. Kt takes B	P takes P (ch)
13. K to R sq	B to Kt 3rd
14. B to K Kt 5th	Q to Kt 3rd
15. R takes P	Kt to Q 2nd
16. Q takes Kt (ch)

Every move is problematic, and the whole game is a perfect specimen of play on White's part. He now forces mate immediately.

16.	K takes Q
17. R to Q sq (ch)

And Black resigned.

The match between the clubs of Liverpool and Manchester, announced in our last issue, was played at the Palatine Hotel, Liverpool, on Saturday, the 27th ult., and it resulted in favour of Liverpool, whose representatives scored nine games to the adversaries' seven. Four games were drawn. After the play the competitors sat down to what a correspondent who was there describes as "an excellent dinner provided by the Liverpool Chess Club." We learn from the Liverpool Argus that this was the twenty-first match in which the two clubs have opposed each other since the year 1855, and that Liverpool has won twelve matches, with a total score of 123 games; Manchester six matches, 112 games, the remaining three matches being drawn

The "telegraphic" match between Liverpool and Calcutta is progressing satisfactorily, fourteen moves on each side having been made down to Tuesday last. When the games have become a little more advanced we shall publish them at length.

Mr. Blackburne's tour of the provinces led him to Cheadle last week, and his performances appear to have excited a sensation in that little Staffordshire town. The first day was devoted to blindfold play, the Champion opposing ten local amateurs simultaneously, winning eight and drawing two; and the second day to playing against all comers simultaneously, seeing the boards. In this contest he was equally successful, to say the least of it; for he won ten games, drew two, and lost none! Each séance attracted a large number of spectators, and the Cheadle Herald devoted a leader to the subject of chess and the occasion.

A match between the Isleworth Reading-Room Chess Club and the members of the Twickenham Holy Trinity Chess Club was played on the 18th inst., and was won by the first-named association. Bermondsey defeated the Excelsior Club, of Brixton, on the 20th ult., with a score of 5½ out of a possible 7; and, on the 24th, the same club was victorious in an encounter with the North London amateurs, with a score of four games to three.

A new chess club has been organised, under very favourable auspices, at Eastbourne, the members to meet for play every Saturday, from four to eleven p.m.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Sept. 1) with a codicil (dated Sept. 19, 1879) of Alexander de Laski, late of No. 2, Adelaide-crescent, Brighton, who died on Sept. 17 last, at Wiesbaden, was proved on the 18th ult. by William Alexander Rau, the nephew, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife, Joaquina Marques de Souza de Laski, £2000, an annuity of £3000 for life, and all his furniture, plate, pictures, household effects, horses and carriages; to his sisters, Madame Josephine Koch and Madame Marie Langhans, annuities of £200 each for their respective lives; to his eldest son, Alexander, a policy, payable on his attaining twenty-one, for £4000 and £20,000; to each of his other sons, £20,000; upon trust for each of his daughters, £20,000; and the residue of the personalty to his eldest son. All his real estate, including his property in California, is devised upon trust for sale, and the net proceeds are given to his eldest son.

The will (dated April 15, 1879) of the Rev. Charles Harris Alured Barling, late of Brooke, Norfolk, who died on July 6 last, was proved on the 13th ult. by Miss Selina Cecilia Clara Leak Knight, the niece, and Edward Boyce Pomeroy, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator bequeaths £10,000 upon trust for Edith Selina Leak Knight, the daughter of his nephew, George Custance Leak Knight, subject to an annuity thereout to his said nephew; £10,000 to his said niece, Selina Cecilia Clara Leak Knight; and the residue of the personalty to his niece Anna Maria Elizabeth Leak Knight. To his housekeeper, Maria Goldsmith, he leaves an annuity of £100, charged on his real estate; and subject thereto he devises all his real estate to his niece A. M. E. L. Knight for life, with remainder to his niece S. C. C. L. Knight for life, with remainder to his godson, Clarke Hallett Loyd Stoughton.

The will (dated Feb. 8, 1877) with three codicils (dated Dec. 17, 1877; Aug. 19, 1879; and July 19, 1880) of Mrs. Mary Ann Holdway, late of Spring Hill Villa, St. Mary Bourne, Southampton, who died on Oct. 2 last, was proved on the 17th ult. by Thomas Hooper and George Clarkson, the nephews, and John Smith, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. Among other legacies, the testatrix bequeaths £500 to the Vicar and churchwardens of the parish of St. Mary Bourne upon trust to apply the income in the purchase of food, fuel, or clothing, to be distributed among the poor of the said parish at or about Christmas.

The will (dated Dec. 3, 1879) of Mr. William Arden, late of Longcrofts Hall, Yoxall, Staffordshire, who died on Aug. 12 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by George Henry Pinckard, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator devises the Longcroft Hall estate and all other his real estate to his nephew, Alwyn Arden, charged with the payment of £8000 to his niece, Louisa Arden; and he bequeaths the residue of his personal estate to his said nephew.

The will (dated June 23, 1880) of General Henry Richmond Jones, C.B., Colonel of the 6th Dragoon Guards (Carabineers), late of No. 45, Clarendon-square, Leamington, who died on Oct. 3 last, at Brighton, was proved on the 12th ult. by Lieutenant-Colonel Inigo Richmond Jones, the nephew, and Henry Walker, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Jones, his furniture, plate, pictures, household effects, horses and carriages. The residue of his real and personal estate is left for her enjoyment for life, and is then to go to his daughter, Caroline Harriet Margaret Jones.

The will (dated Nov. 16, 1876) of Mr. Evan Matthew Richards, D.L., late of Brooklands, Swansea, who died on Aug. 21 last, was proved on the 17th ult. by William Frederick Richards, Arthur James Richards, and Harry Cornelius Richards, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £20,000. The testator gives to his wife, Mrs. Maria Richards, £500 and an annuity of £200 for life. The residue of his real and personal estate he leaves upon trust for his six children, William Frederick, Arthur James, Harry Cornelius, Lawrence, Florence Maria, and Evan Sloane. He appoints his wife guardian of his children during their minority. The deceased was for six years member of Parliament for the county of Cardigan.

The seventh annual banquet in connection with the Inventors' Institute was held on Thursday week at St. James's Hall. The chair was occupied by Sir Antonio Brady, president of the institute.

There was a large gathering of burgesses in the Plymouth Guildhall yesterday week to discuss the best scheme to be adopted for celebrating the tercentenary of Sir Francis Drake. The first resolution submitted to the meeting, proposing a statue, or group or statues on Plymouth Hoe, was agreed to by a large majority.

Sir Evelyn Wood, speaking at a banquet at Grocers' Hall on Thursday week, said he was aware that certain reforms were necessary in the Army. Against one, however, he must protest; and that was the abolition of regimental colours. It was said that valuable lives were sacrificed in endeavouring to save a mere rag; but that rag was the emblem of honour, around which all rallied in the hour of danger. It was the soldier's star and the consecrated emblem of his devotion. It was true that recently in Afghanistan many valuable lives were lost at Maiwand, and that in one regiment alone 273 fell round the colours. Colonel Galbraith, when last seen on his bended knee, still grasped the colours of his corps, and beside him fell many whose names would live for ever in the hearts of all who served in the 66th. The colours were the standards around which fugitives would rally and brave men die, and it would be about as wise to take away the regimental colours as it would be to abolish the Union Jack in the Navy.

A quarterly court of the governors of the Hospital for Consumption was held on Thursday week in the board-room of the hospital—Mr. T. P. Beckwith in the chair. From the report of the committee of management it appears that, since the last court, the western half of the hospital has been coloured and cleaned, and the wards temporarily closed have been reoccupied. The committee have received from the council of the Hospital Sunday Fund £1050, being a larger grant than in any former year. The committee desire to remind the governors and the public that the extension building will entail an additional expenditure of about £10,000 a year. The committee have to thank some of their friends among the clergy for most valuable help, both rendered and promised, in the shape of collections in their churches. The fourteenth annual season of the entertainments, which have proved so beneficial in enlivening the inmates, began on the 2nd inst. The following bequests have been announced since last court:—Mr. John Holloway, moiety of pecuniary residue; Miss Jessie Landseer, £100, duty free.—In a sermon preached on Sunday morning at Christ Church, North Brixton, by the Rev. Canon Hussey, attention was called to the sick and suffering brethren so well cared for in the Brompton Hospital. A collection amounting to £57 1os. was made.

Digitized by Google

VALLEY OF ST. ANN AND RIVER MELAS, WITH THE FIRST AQUEDUCT NEAR SMYRNA.—SEE PAGE 554.

Digitized by Google

VALLEY OF MT. ANN AND RIVER MEIAM, WITH TIM POINT AT THE RELIC

BY MATTHI

Digitized by Google

VENDOR.

SCHMID.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

NEW ZEALAND SKETCHES: THE MAORI PARLIAMENT AT ORAKEI.—SEE PAGE 553.

Digitized by Google

BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

Crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students."

Extract from Preface:

"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simply than in text-books on Zoology. For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena, and I have been more careful to sketch in brief outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.

I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lasso-Throwers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Maned Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect Suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies within their Coats.
XII. Intelligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," &c.

"Her methods of presenting certain facts and phenomena difficult to grasp are most original and striking, and admirably calculated to enable the reader to realise the truth. As to the interest of her story, we have tested it in a youthful subject, and she mentioned it in the same breath with 'Grimm's Fairy Tales.' We are sure any of the older children would welcome it as a Christmas present; but it deserves to take a permanent place in the literature of youth."—Times.

Second Edition, post 8vo, cloth, 4s. 6d.,

DOMESTIC ECONOMY AND HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE. Adapted for Home Education, and for Schoolmistresses and Pupil-Teachers. By ROBERT JAMES MANN, M.D., late superintendent of Education at Natal.

"Mr. Mann's directions are practical and judicious, and frequently he says a good deal that is worth attention in a few words. The little volume is one in which most people who have, or are likely to have, anything to do with household cares, will find some hints worth noting."—Saturday Review.

Post 8vo, cloth, 3s. 6d.,

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE: Readings in Necessary Knowledge for Girls and Young Women. Edited by Rev. J. P. FAUNTHORPE, Principal of Whitelands Training College. Dedicated by permission to his Grace the Duke of Westminster, K.G.

CONTENTS.—Domestic Economy—Food and its Preparation—Clothing and its Materials—The Dwelling: its Warming, Cleaning, and Ventilation—Washing Materials and their Use—Rules for Health—The Management of the Sick Room—Cottage Income and Expenditure.

Fcap folio, each 7s. 6d.,

INSTRUCTIVE PICTURE-BOOKS: A series of Volumes Illustrative of Natural History and of the Vegetable World, with Descriptive Letterpress.

No. I.—NATURAL HISTORY OF ANIMALS. By ADAM WHITE. With 54 folio Coloured Plates. Tenth Edition.

No. II.—LESSONS FROM THE VEGETABLE WORLD. By the Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." With 31 Double-page plates. Fifth Edition.

No. III.—GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION OF ANIMALS. 60 Folio Coloured Plates. Third Edition.

No. IV.—PICTURES of ANIMAL and VEGETABLE LIFE in ALL LANDS. Second Edition. Forty-eight folio Coloured Plates.

No. V.—PICTORIAL LESSONS on FORM, COMPARISON, and NUMBER, for Children under Seven Years of Age. Eighth Edition. Thirty-six oblong folio Coloured Illustrations.

"These volumes are among the most Instructive Picture-Books we have seen, and we know of none better calculated to excite and gratify the appetite of the young for the knowledge of nature."—Times.

Fcap folio, 7s. 6d.,

THE INSTRUCTIVE ATLAS OF MODERN GEOGRAPHY. Intended for the use of Young Pupils. Containing 17 Coloured Maps, each 17 inches by 14.

"This new atlas cannot fail to become a popular one. It is evidently designed with a view to making it not so much a work of reference as an aid to the teacher. The individual maps, of which there are seventeen, are beautifully bold in outline, are not crowded with a host of unnecessary names, and are so clear and distinct that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in deciphering any single name. All the maps are brought down to the present date, Western Europe and South Africa especially receiving careful attention."—schoolmaster.

Second Edition, crown 8vo, with 77 Illustrations, cloth, 7s. 6d.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 13s.,

A SHORT HISTORY OF NATURAL SCIENCE, and of the Progress of Discovery from the Time of the Greeks to the Present Day. For the Use of Schools and Young Persons. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," "The Fairyland of Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students," &c.

"Guides to literature abound; guides to science, similar in purpose and character to Miss Buckley's 'History' are unknown. The writer's plan, therefore, is original, and her execution of the plan is altogether admirable. . . . She sees clearly what she describes and the interest felt by the author is imparted to the reader. Diagrams and illustrations of the letterpress add to the value of the compendium."—Pall Mall Gazette.

SIMPLE LESSONS. By Eminent Writers.

CONTENTS: Our Bodily Life—How and Why we Breathe—Food—Drink—Cookery—Plain Needlework—Clothing—Air and Ventilation—The Sicknesses that Spread—Weather—Astronomy—Birds—Flowers—Money.

18mo, cloth, 2s. 6d.

The Simple Lessons are also published separately, 3d. each, or 2s. per 100, assorted. The Set of 14, in card case, 3s.

"Couched in clear, straightforward language, these papers cannot fail to be understood by children; and, collected together in their present form, will be as useful for home teaching as for regular school instruction."—Graphic.

STUDIES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE. By JOHN DENNIS, Editor of "English Sonnets: a Selection from 1547," &c.

Crown 8vo, cloth, 7s. 6d.

CONTENTS.—Pope—Defoe—Prior—Steele—The Wartons—John Wesley—Southey—English Lyrical Poetry—English Rural Poetry—The English Sonnet.

"One of the best books upon poetry which we have had for a very long time."—Westminster Review.

"An excellent book. It has the charm—quite captivating in these days—of being entirely void of affectation, extravagance, or any 'trick of singularity;' and it displays sound judgment, both moral and æsthetic, and a thorough mastery of the subjects with which it deals."—Spectator.

With 32 full-page Illustrations, post 8vo, cloth, 4s.; a few copies, with the Illustrations hand-coloured, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 14s.,

BOTANY FOR CHILDREN. An Illustrated Elementary Text-Book for Junior Classes and Young Children. By the Rev. GEORGE HENSLOW, M.A., F.L.S., F.G.S., Author of "Floral Dissections."

"Just such an elementary text-book of botany as might be put into practical use in schools without the slightest doubt that children would take to it."—Science Gossip.

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Second Edition. Post 8vo, cloth, with Forty Illustrations and Maps, 1s.,

GEOGRAPHY FOR LITTLE CHILDREN. By ANTONIA ZIMMERN.

"In a very simple and interesting way attempts to show the use of a map and teach some of the elementary points of physical geography. Its numerous attractive and quite original illustrations are an important feature."—Nature.

"An admirable first book for young children. By maps and illustrations the configuration and physical geography of the world are taught in a very popular and attractive style. It will prove a suitable gift-book for little folk."

LONDON: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.

SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)

OETZMANN & CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,

NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISHTHROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Albion Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.

OETZMANN and CO.

EARLY ENGLISH BRACKETS in BLACK and GOLD, or Walnut and Gold, with Decorated Panels, 10s. 6d.; Ebonised Chippendale Hanging Corner Whatnots, with four bevelled plates, 28s. 6d; Richly-Decorated Early English Bracket Girandole, 3 ft. high, with plate-glass back, 42s.; and a large variety of Decorative Furnishing Items on view in the Show-rooms. Illustrations post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

DRAWING-ROOM SUITES. OETZMANN and CO.—Elegant Drawing-Room Suite, richly-carved Italian Walnut Wood; upholstered very soft and comfortable, in best Rep or Tapestry, consisting of a Couch, two Easy-Chairs, and six Chairs, price 15 guineas; ditto, very handsome design, upholstered in rich Silk Tapestry, made and finished in superior style, 20 guineas; ditto, very elegant design, richly upholstered in finest Satin, and finished in the best possible manner, 33 guineas. Also a variety of other Drawing-Room Suites, in Black and Gold, Early English, and other designs.

OETZMANN and CO.

THE "QUEEN ANNE" BORDERED TAPESTRY CRETONNE CURTAINS.—A handsome Early English design in black and gold, dull red, peacock blue, sage, and other fashionable shades, lined throughout with Twilled Cretonne Lining, and bound with the new Cretonne Binding, 3 yards long by 30 inches wide, 9s. 9d. per pair; 3½ yards long, 10s. 11d.; 4 yards long, 12s. 6d.; 3 yards long by 42 inches wide, 14s. 9d.; 3½ yards long, 16s. 9d.; 4 yards long, 18s. 9d. Patterns sent post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

THE "PORTLAND" COAL-VASE. OETZMANN and CO.'S New Special Designs for the Season; improved shape, much admired, handsomely japanned and gold relieved, has bowl castors, opal handle handscoop, and strong loose lining—a great convenience and saving in the wear. Price, complete, only 10s. 6d. Illustrations post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 379 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.

OETZMANN & CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

DEANE and CO.'S ELECTRO-PLATE. Electro-Silver Plate of warranted quality, sterling Silver Patterns, the best Sheffield Designs and Plating.

	£ s.	£ s.	£ s.	£ s.	£ s.	£ s.	£ s.
Dish-Covers, set of Four	11 11	13 10	13 13	14 5	14 14	16 10
Tea and Coffee Sets	3 7	5 10	7 7	12 0	16 6	18 18
Cruet Stands	0 12	1 1	2 2	3 10	4 15	6 15
Liqueur Frames	2 0	2 18	4 0	4 10	6 6	7 5
Table Spoons, per dozen	1 4	1 13	2 0	2 10	2 18	3 6
Table Forks, per dozen	1 4	1 11	1 18	2 10	2 16	3 4

Dessert and Fish Knives, Biscuit Boxes, Waiters, Dishes, &c.

DEANE and CO.'S TABLE CUTLERY, celebrated for more than 150 years, remains unrivalled for quality and cheapness. The stock, extensive and complete, affords a choice suited to every purchaser.

Ivory Handles.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.
Table Knives, per dozen.	13 0	16 0	19 0	24 0	32 0	35 0	40 0
Dessert ditto	11 0	13 0	15 0	19 0	26 0	29 0	33 0
Carvers, per pair	5 6	6 6	7 0	8 0	9 0	10 6	11 0

Agents for Joseph Rodgers and Sons, Cutlers to Her Majesty.

Deane and Co.'s complete Illustrated Catalogue free by post.

DEANE and CO., 46, King William-st., London Bridge. A.D. 1700.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.

GOLD MEDAL,

PARIS,

1878.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

MALVERN COLLEGE.

The ANNUAL EXAMINATION for SCHOLARSHIPS and ENTRANCE EXHIBITIONS will be held on DEC. 7 and 8.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 20s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 6d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each. 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris, 1878.

SCRAPS for SCREENS and SCRAP-BOOKS (Coloured).—Immense variety of Flowers, Figures Birds, and Landscapes, from 1s. per sheet; 1 doz. assorted, 10s. 6d. London: WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!!—250 lovely embossed Scraps, Flowers, Fruit, Figures, Birds, &c., 1s. 1½d.; same number, much larger, 2s. 3d.; post-free. Cheapest and best ever offered.

GEO. SPALDING and CO., Fine Art Importers, Ipswich.

SAMPLES GRATIS.

PAPIER MARION.—The Finest Writing Paper. Apply to 23, Soho-square, W., for Specimen Sheets and Envelopes. Sent gratis per post. To be had of all Stationers; and wholesale only of the Manufacturers,

MARION and CO., London.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse,

"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.

Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram

PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."

Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.

Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.

Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.

PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,

THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.

Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.

Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.

100 Pieces of handsome

BLACK BROCADED VELVETS,

5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and 10s. 9d. per yard.
Black Velvets for trimming purposes, 3s. 11d. to 6s. 9d.
Black Striped Velvets (best quality), 4s. 9½d. and 5s. 3d.
Black Brocaded Silks and Satins, 3s. 6d. to 6s. 11d.
Black Silk Plush, for Costumes, from 4s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Silk-faced Satin, from 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Duchess Satin in Black and in White, 5s. 3d. to 12s. 6d.
Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets (all Silk), 8s. 11d. to 21s.
Satin de Lyons, in Black, 3s. 11d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d.

Dress Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets,
A Special Bargain,
16 Yards for £3 8s.

Address for Patterns to

PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6D.— COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—

PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the

LOUIS VELVETEEN

in Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an insufficient recommendation.

"LOUIS." It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition. Many ladies have adopted the in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."

LOUIS VELVETEEN,

Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, folding-marks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.

"LOUIS." WHOLESALE AGENTS,

who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—

"LOUIS." J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

NICHOLSON'S NEW COSTUMES,

50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW MANTLES,

50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW WINTER DRESS FABRICS.

Patterns post-free.

VELOUR CLOTH, at 10½d., 18½d., and 1s. 11½d. per yard.
NEW SERGES, at 15½d., 18½d., and 23½d. per yard.
GRAMPIAN HOMESPUNS, 1s. 7½d. per yard.
NEW POPLINS, from 6½d. per yard.
NEW MELTON CLOTHS, 2s. 3d. per yard.
FRENCH MERINOS, at 1s. 11d., 2s. 9½d., and 3s. 3d. per yard.
BLACK VELVETEENS, from 1s. 9½d. to 5s. 11d. per yard.
COLOURED Ditto, from 2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED Ditto, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

Patterns of Black and Coloured Silks post-free.

D. NICHOLSON and CO.,

50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

ARRASENE.
A New Material in Silk and Wool,
for Artistic Embroidery.
Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks.
Can be procured of Berlin Wool Repositories.
Wholesale only, E. G. GEACH, 137, Cheapside.

SUN FIRE OFFICE.
Threadneedle-street, E.C. Charing-cross.
Oxford-street (corner of Vere-street), W.
Established 1710.
Home and Foreign Insurances Effected.
Sum Insured in 1879, £262,492,461.
FRANCIS B. RELTON, Secretary.

GENERAL ASSURANCE COMPANY.
Established 1837.
BOARD OF DIRECTORS.
Sir ANDREW LUSK, Baronet, M.P.

James Abbiss, Esq., J.P.	Lord Gilbert Kennedy.
Principal Angus, D.D.	James Pilkington, Esq., J.P.
Joseph Bolton Doe, Esq., J.P.	Henry Wm. Ripley, Esq.
The Most Hon. the Marquis of Exeter.	Wm. Strang, Esq.
George Pitt, Esq.	Robert Taylor, Esq.

Right Hon. Charles Pelham Villiers, M.P.
Capital and Reserve Funds, £1,720,000.
Claims paid, £1,700,000.
1389 new Life Policies, assuring £482,366, yielding £16,244 premiums, were issued in 1879.
The Head Offices of the Company are now REMOVED to 103, CANNON-STREET, London, E.C.
GEORGE SCOTT FREEMAN, Secretary.

FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES.
AUSTRALASIAN AGENCY and BANKING CORPORATION (Limited).
Capital £1,250,000. In 125,000 Shares of £10 each.
Subscribed in the Australian Colonies, £942,320; in London, £200,000. Reserve Fund, £25,000.
LONDON DIRECTORS:

Abraham Scott, Esq.	Harry Hankey Dobree, Esq.
Frank C. Capel, Esq.	Joseph Cockfield, Dimsdale, Esq.

BANKERS:
Messrs. Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard, and Dimsdales.
SOLICITORS:
Messrs. Freshfields and Williams.
The Company are now issuing Debentures at the above rate for four, five, or six years. Forms of application can be obtained at the Office of the Company, 6½, Austin Friars.

THE BEST ENGLISH WATCHES.
GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE, Limited, request the attention of Purchasers to their PATENT LEVER WATCHES, which, being manufactured on the Premises, are confidently recommended for accuracy and durability.

Prices of Silver Watches.
Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	£4	14	6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and capped	6	6	0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes	8	8	0
Silver Watches in hunting cases, 10s. 6d. extra.
Gold Watches.—Size for Ladies.
Patent Lever Watches, with gold dial, jewelled	11	11	0
Ditto, with richly engraved case	12	12	0
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes	14	14	0
Gold Watches.—Size for Gentlemen.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, seconds, and capped ..	13	13	0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance	18	18	0
Gold Watches in hunting cases, £3 3s. extra.

Lists of Prices, with remarks on watches, gratis, and post-free.
The Goldsmiths' Alliance, Limited, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES.
SPECIALITE REPEATERS. CHRONOGRAPHS, &c.
Special Workmen for Repairs.
London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of
18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY
and
ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES,
(MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT,
COLOMBO, CEYLON.

CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO.
By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.: in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of 18-carat, accurate time-keepers, full jewelled. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes, from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

RODRIGUES' CHRISTMAS PRESENTS,
42, PICCADILLY, LONDON, W.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR,
IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA, BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from .. .. 21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS .. .. 6s. to £50
DRESSING CASES .. .. 21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES .. .. 21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES .. .. .. 4s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS.. 10s. 6d. to £5
STATIONERY CASES AND CABINETS .. 30s. to £5
INKSTANDS .. .. 5s. to £5
CANDLESTICKS (per pair) .. .. .. 7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS .. .. .. 15s. to £5
PORTRAIT ALBUMS .. .. 4s. 6d. to £5
THE NEW "TANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND 105s. to £10
THE NEW "EPITOME" WRITING CASE .. 12s to 35s.
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 14s. 6d., and 16s. 6d.
And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS,
ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES
Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly Illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for LADIES.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for GENTLEMEN.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for BOYS.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX for GIRLS.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX, suitable for everybody,
JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
All the novelties by the most eminent publishers. Descriptive Catalogue sent post-free.
THOMAS CHAPMAN, Stationer, 54, Leicester-square.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Merry Maidens, Dancing Girls, Maidens Fair. The set of nine on receipt of P.O.O. for 5s.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Fully assorted packets of all the novelties, 40s., 20s. Any not approved of can be exchanged.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
De la Rue's, Marcus Ward's, Prang's, Hildesheimer's, Rothe's, &c., conveniently arranged for choice.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square.

Digitized by Google

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
IS A WORLD-WIDE NECESSARY.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE NURSERY.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE SICK-ROOM.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
HAS A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 203, Regent-street, W.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
The Most Wholesome of all Spirits.
DUBLIN WHISKY distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., JOHN POWER and SON, and GEORGE ROE and CO., can be obtained in Wood by Wholesale Merchants and Dealers, direct from their respective Distilleries.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.
Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 42s.—The reason why the price is so low (being, indeed, less than cost) is that the market has been suddenly overstocked.—TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.

A PERSIAN CARPET for 45s., carriage paid to any railway station in England. There is now the opportunity of purchasing for 42s., or, carriage paid as above, for 45s., a splendid carpet, about 3¼ to 3¾ yards long. TRELOAR and SONS, 69, Ludgate-hill.
A Catalogue of the Best Floor Coverings post-free.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES,
FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS,
DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES,
CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS
POST-FREE.

CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghilés at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

PALACE SOAP.
PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 5s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Mélange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 14s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being piquante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

EAU DE COLOGNE.—The Best and only Genuine, invented 1695, manufactured by JOHANN ANTON FARINA, Zur Stadt, Mailand, Cologne-on-the-Rhine. By appointment Purveyor to several Royal and Imperial Courts, and owner of the Original Recipe. Prize Medals: Dusseldorf, 1852; Trier, 1854; Paris, 1855; London, 1862; Stettin, 1865; Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; and the only State Medal awarded at the Dusseldorf Exhibition, 1880. Sole Agents for Great Britain: ZERKOWSKY and REIMERS, 1, Finsbury-square, London, E.C. Purchasers should ask for the Eau de Cologne manufactured by Johann Anton Farina (Red and Blue Label), as this is the Best and only Genuine.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET,
White Rose, Jockey Club, Ess Bouquet, Frangipanni, Opoponax, Chypre, Stephanotis, Moss Rose, New-mown Hay. Price 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle.

BREIDENBACH'S SACHETS in any of the above Odours. Price, Silk Bags, 1s.; Paper Envelopes, 1s. each.
The above articles can be obtained through all Chemists, Perfumers, Stores, and Fancy Dealers in town and country.
BREIDENBACH and CO., Perfumers to the Queen, 157a, New Bond-street, London, W.

ROWLANDS'
ODONTO
Whitens the Teeth, Prevents Decay, and gives a pleasing Fragrance to the Breath. It is the purest and most fragrant Dentifrice ever used, and contains no mineral, acid, or gritty substances.

ROWLANDS'
MACASSAR OIL,
known for the last eighty years to be the best and safest preserver and beautifier of the hair; it contains no lead or mineral ingredients, and is especially adapted for children's hair. Sold by all Chemists, &c., in usual four sizes, 3s. 6d., 7s., 10s. 6d. (family bottles, equal to four small), and 21s.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
FOR CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM, KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR)
LIGHT-BROWN
COD-LIVER OIL.
THE PUREST. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.
THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
Proved by thirty years' medical experience to be
THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL
which produces the full curative effects in
CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."
DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."
DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest.
"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by Dr. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."
JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surg., Army, Prof. of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of Dr. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."
DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

FER BRAVAIS (Bravais' Dialysed Iron). used in every Hospital. Recommended by all Physicians. For Anæmia, Chlorosis, Debility, Exhaustion, &c. FER BRAVAIS (liquid iron in concentrated drops) is the only one entirely free from acid; it is without smell, tasteless, and produces neither constipation, diarrhœa, inflammation, or fatigue in the stomach; it is besides the only iron that never blackens the teeth. It is the Cheapest of all Ferruginous Compounds, as a bottle of it lasts a month. General Depôt in Paris, 19, Rue Lafayette (near the Opera); and at all Chemists. Beware of dangerous imitations, and see that the Trade Mark is on every Bottle, which can be had of all Chemists in the United Kingdom. Sold also at 3, Idol-lane; and Messrs. Barclay and Sons', 95, Farringdon-street, London, where the Pamphlet on "Anæmia and its Treatment" can be obtained.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM,"
NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

CHILBLAINS, RHEUMATISM, &c.
Chilblains are prevented from breaking and their tormenting itching instantly removed by WHITEHEAD'S ESSENCE OF MUSTARD. Guaranteed by an extensive and successful experience of nearly a century. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, of BARCLAY and SONS, 95, Farringdon-street; and all Medicine Venders.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

TOOTH-ACHE.
INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING.
SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider BUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of Chemists, 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

FITS.—EPILEPSY, or FALLING SICKNESS.—SENSATIONS, GIDDINESS, FAINTS.—A Pamphlet addressed to sufferers from these distressing complaints, explaining their treatment and complete Cure. By a Physician of 25 years' special experience. Pamphlet gratis and post-free from Mr. WILLIAMS, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park.

10,000 CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.
PARKINS & GOTTO'S.
DRESSING-CASES, 21s., 42s., 84s., 105s. 210s.
DRESSING-BAGS, 42s., 84s., 105s., 210s.
HAND-BAGS, 6s. 9d., 11s. WAIST-BAGS.
DESPATCH-BOXES, 21s., 42s., 63s., 84s., &c.
WRITING-CASES, 5s., 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 21s.
DESKS, 8s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 21s., 42s., 63s.
STATIONERY-CABINETS, 25s., 50s., 84s.
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTERS.
INKSTANDS for Drawing-Room or Library.
TEA-CADDIES, BOOK-SLIDES.
LIQUEUR-CASES, FLASKS.
LETTER-BOXES for the Hall and Library.
READING-STANDS, POSTAGE-SCALES.
OXYDIZED and ENAMELLED ARTICLES.
ORMOULU WRITING SETS, NIC-NACS.
OAK WARE, Tankards, Biscuit-Boxes, Jugs.
DOULTON WARE, Mounted with Silver, &c.
ELECTRO-PLATED GOODS, for Presents.
BRONZE INKSTANDS, CANDLESTICKS.
JEWEL CASES, for Ladies and Gentlemen.
BRUSH CASES, for Ladies and Gentlemen.
SCENT CASES, for 2, 3, or 4 Bottles.
SPECTACLE CASES, for Waist or Pocket.
GLOVE and HANDKERCHIEF BOXES.
WORK BOXES and BASKETS, 6s. 6d., 10s. 6d., &c.
RETICULES, LADIES' COMPANIONS.
MUSIC CASES and ROLLS, 2s. 6d., 5s.
MUSICAL BOXES, Ditto Albums, all kinds.
CHINA CARD-TRAYS, Ditto Ornaments.
PURSES, POCKET-BOOKS, NOTE-CASES.
CARD-CASES, Diaries for the New Year.
CIGAR-CASES, FUZEE-CASES.
OPERA-GLASSES, FANS, Newest Patterns.
GRAPHOSCOPES, STEREOSCOPES.
SCENT-BOTTLES, Gold and Silver Mounted.
WALTHAM WATCHES, good timekeepers.
SILVER JEWELLERY, at very low prices.
CLOCKS, Carriage, Drawing, or Dining Room.
PENCIL-CASES, Gold, Silver, Aluminium, and Ivory.
INDOOR GAMES, Newest and most Amusing.
CABINETS OF GAMES, 21s., 50s., 84s., &c.
BAGATELLE-BOARDS, 28s. 6d., 50s., 78s. 6d.
BACKGAMMON, CHESS, DRAUGHTS.
PAINT-BOXES, TOOL-CHESTS, Footballs.
PORTRAIT ALBUMS, all sizes.
PORTRAIT FRAMES, Ormoulu, Velvet, Plush, &c.
PLUSH NOVELTIES, all shades of colour.
SCRAP BOOKS, STAMP ALBUMS.
IVORY PAPER-KNIVES, Portfolios.
TWO THOUSAND CHURCH SERVICES.
FAMILY BIBLES, Pocket Ditto, Prayers.
BOOKS for JUVENILES and PRESENTS.
ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.
PARKINS & GOTTO'S,
BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT
TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES,
AND H.I.H. THE CROWN PRINCESS OF GERMANY.
27 and 28, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

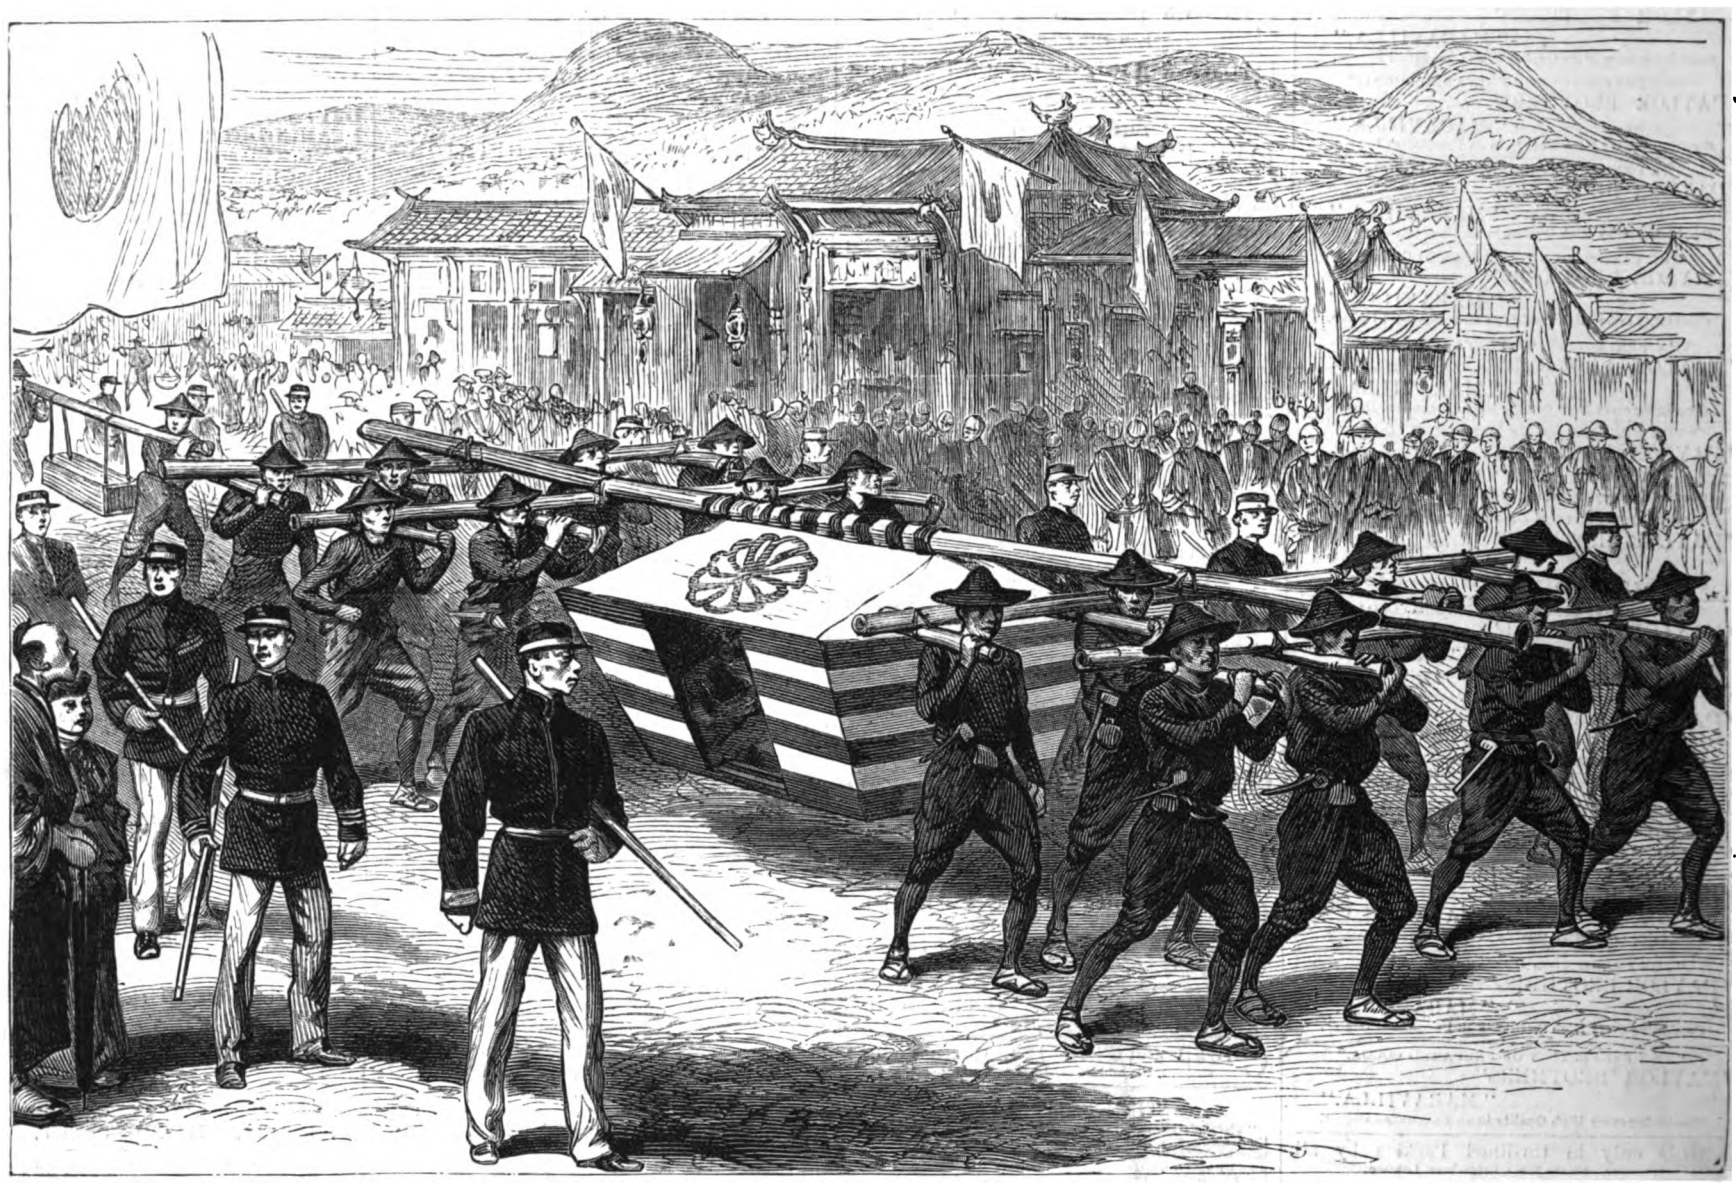
ALL CHRISTMAS CARDS TRADE PRICE.
PARKINS and GOTTO'S.
1d. Cards .. 0s. 8d. per doz. | 3d. Cards .. 0s. 4d. each.
2d. Cards .. 1s. 4d. | 3d. Cards .. 0s. 8d. ,,
4d. Cards .. 0s. 3d. each. | 2s. 6d. Cards .. 1s. 8d. ,,
The Largest and most Varied Stock in London.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street, W.

MACMICHAEL'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES now ready, and post-free.
JAMES MACMICHAEL,
Stationer to the Queen,
42, South Audley-street, W.

"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and only genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester. Established 50 years." PEARLY WHITE and SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rosy brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are all insured by the use of this most perfect Dentifrice. Pots. 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists.

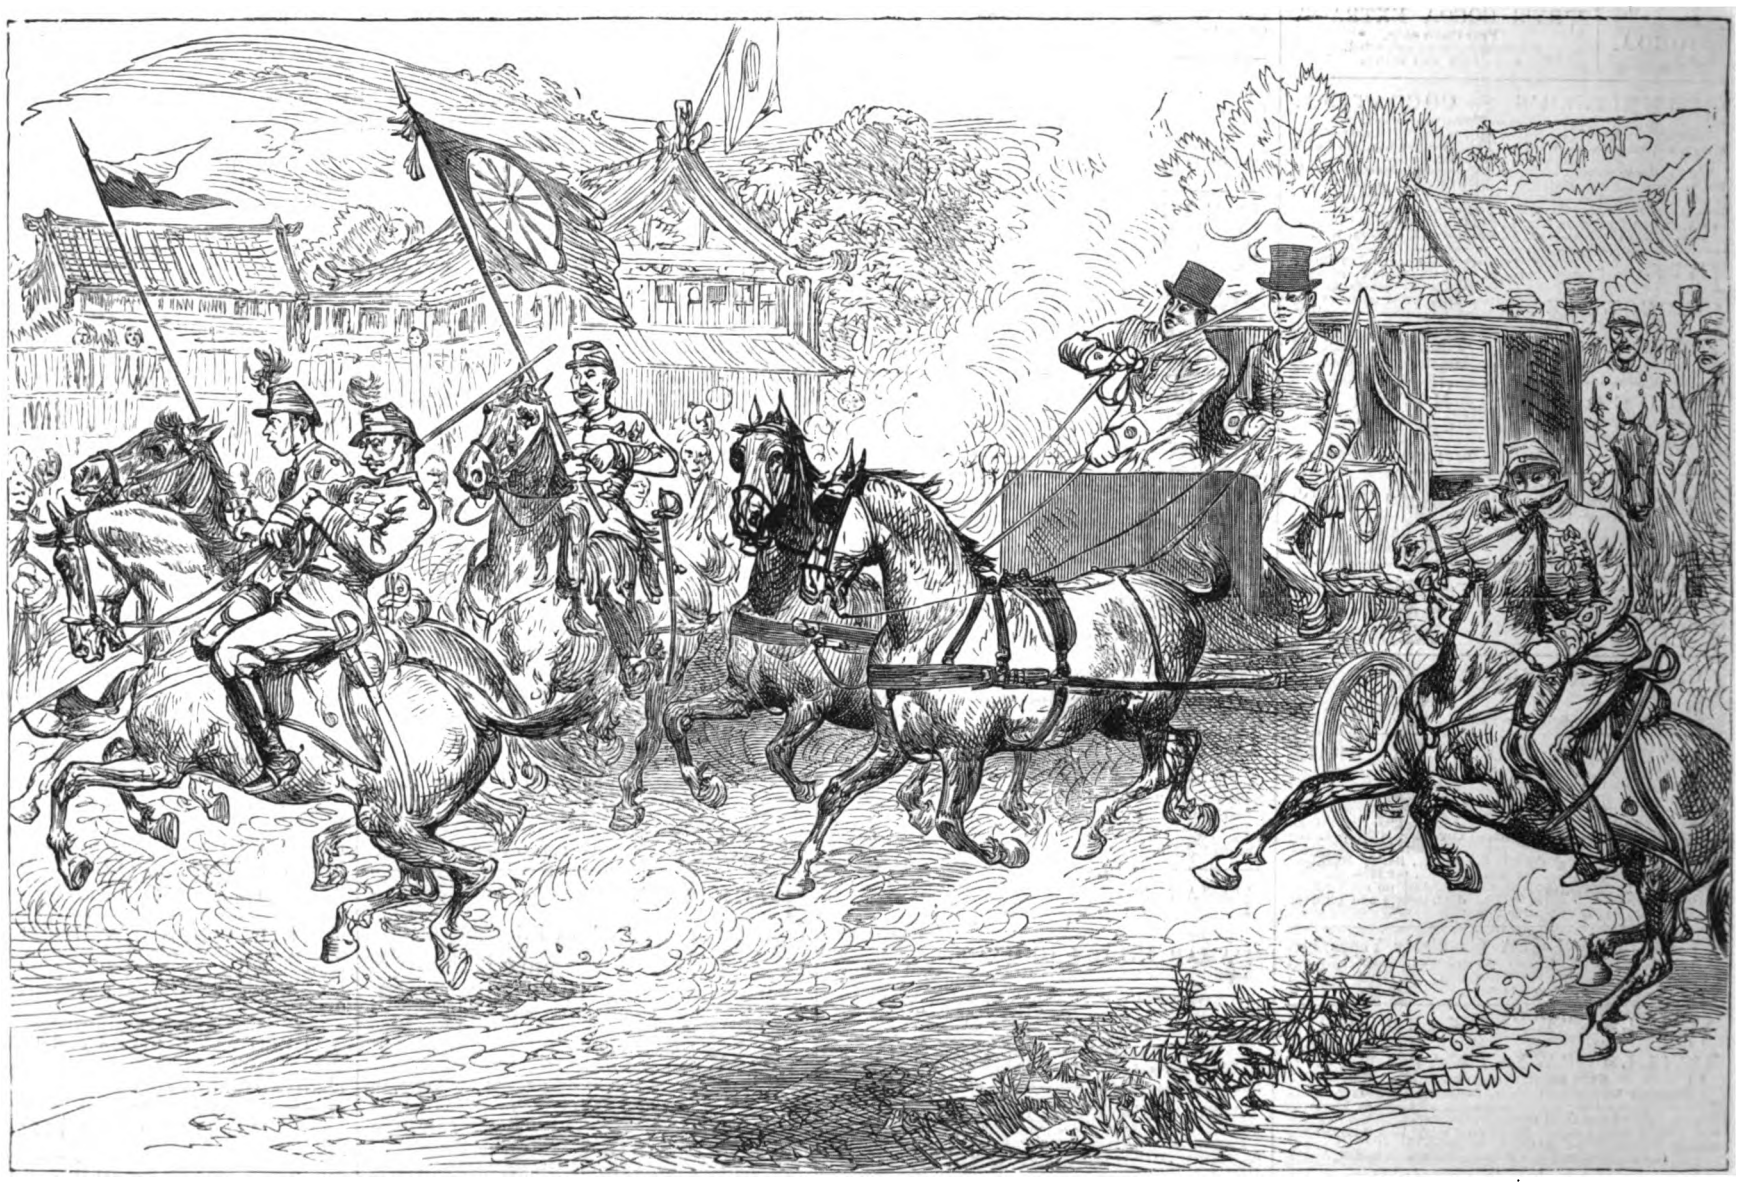
HIS GRACE
THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND,
a most distinguished authority, when addressing the students of the Newcastle College of Medicine, particularly impressed the following upon their minds:—
"Be patient of NEW ideas and NEW doctrines, prove before you condemn, avail yourselves of NEW discoveries, and recollect it is not HOW, but WHETHER, you CURE your patients."
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
is a new application of a very old idea—viz., that of curing disease through the medium of the pores of the skin.
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
is worn upon the pit of the stomach, its healing, purifying, and tonic properties being absorbed therein.
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
acts most beneficially upon the liver. We quote from one of our correspondents, who has derived great benefit from the use of the pad:—"My liver now not only never troubles me, but appears to me to act as a mediciner, by a spontaneous passing of superfluous bile."
We submit the following testimonial, and shall be pleased to forward many others, with full information, free by post:—
CAPT. H. C. COTTON writes to a friend as follows:—
"The Hall, Wem, Shropshire.
"I have been staying with a cousin of mine, who was in Norway this autumn, and came back very ill. He consulted all sorts of physicians, but without effect, when a friend of his said, 'Why don't you try this new treatment by absorption—the Holman Liver Pad?' At first he laughed at the idea; but, being unable to eat or sleep, he thought he might as well try anything likely to do him good. He sent for one of these Pads, and in a few days felt so much better that he could eat anything, and has been perfectly well ever since. He has also persuaded other people to try the Pad, and with the same success. I therefore send you the address of the Proprietor in London of the Holman Pad, and I strongly advise you to try this vegetable treatment, which will give you no trouble and requires no medicine."
Children's Pads, 7s. 6d.; regular size, 10s.; special size, 15s. For sale by all Chemists, or sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom on receipt of stamps or P.O. Order, payable to CHARLES CRISTADORO, Vere-street, Post-Office, W.
THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.,
10, Argyll-street, Regent-street, W.
Paris Agency: Beral, 14, Rue de la Paix.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT.
Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 433, Oxford-street, London, W.C.



HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT.
The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.



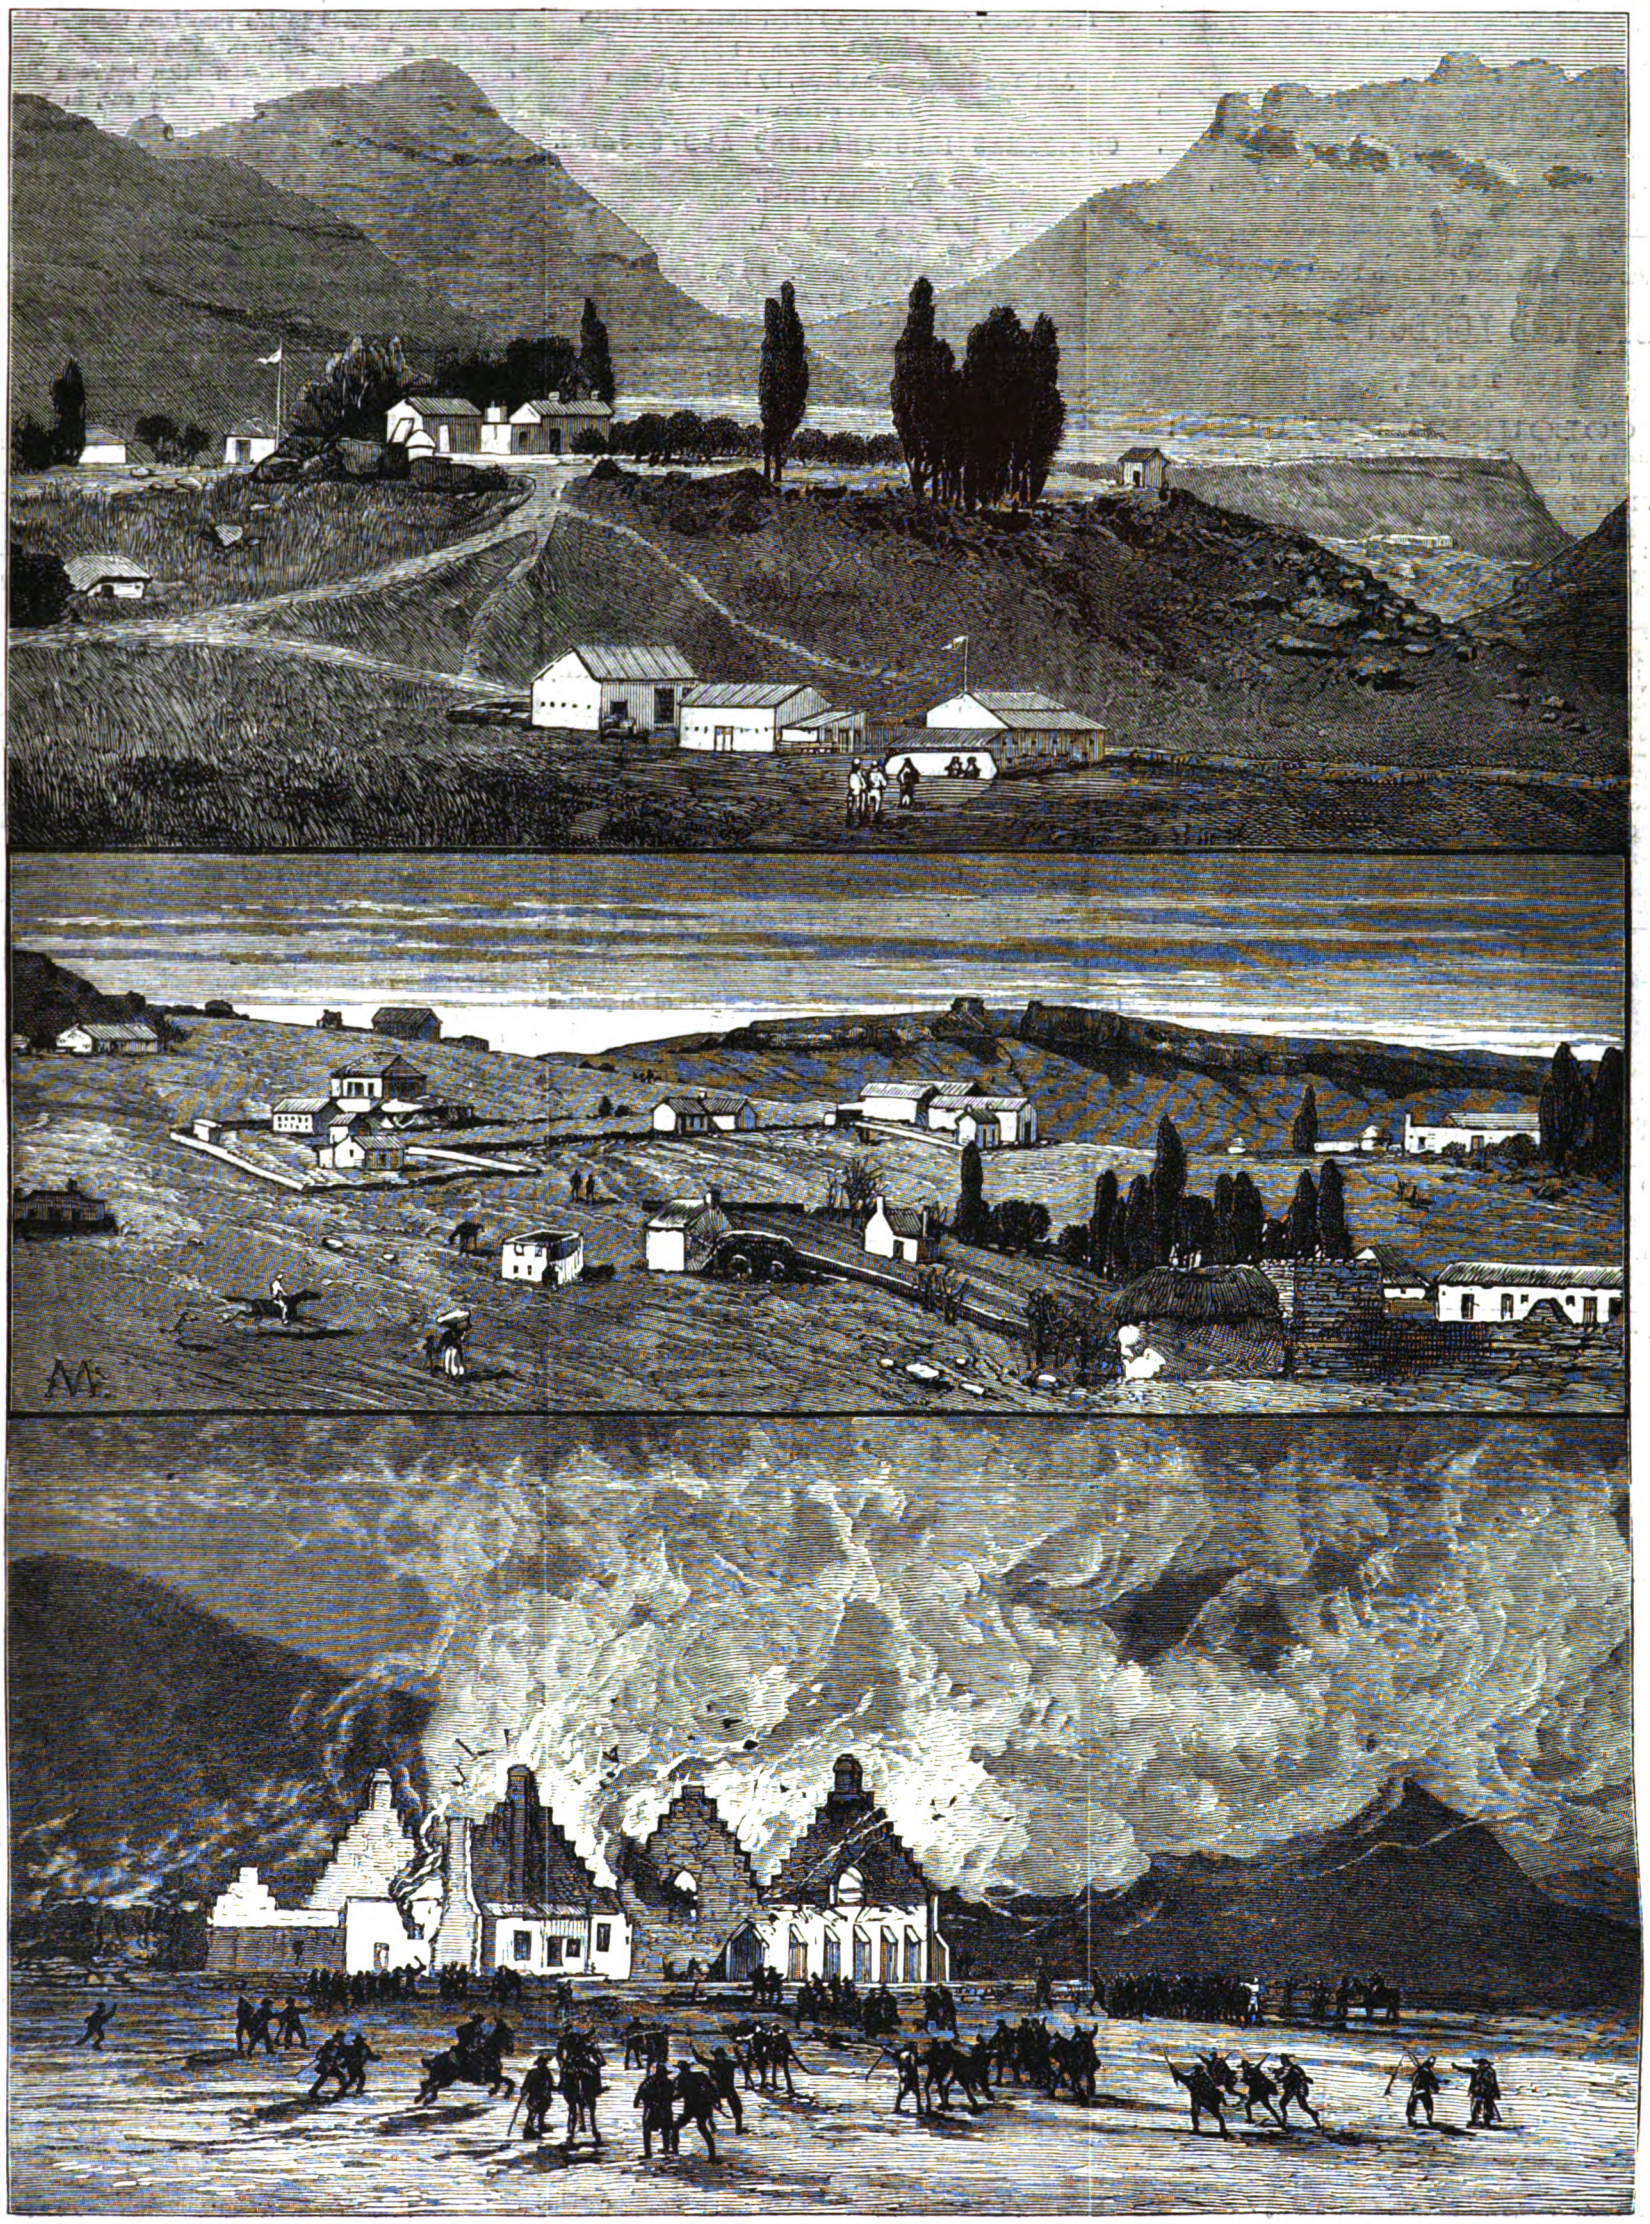
Digitized by Google

IMPERIAL PROGRESS IN JAPAN.

SEE PAGE 553.

THE MIKADO ON A JOURNEY IN JAPANESE FASHION.

THE MIKADO ON A JOURNEY IN EUROPEAN FASHION.



Digitized by Google

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2167.—VOL. LXXVII. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1880. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS } SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

THE WAR IN BASUTOLAND, SOUTH AFRICA.

1. RESIDENCY AT MASERU, ABODE OF CHIEF MAGISTRATE, COMMANDANT GRIFFITH. 2. MASERU, PRINCIPAL TOWN IN BASUTOLAND, ATTACKED BY 8000 BASUTOS, OCT. 10. 3. BASUTOS SETTING FIRE TO THE CHURCH AND SCHOOL AT MASERU, ON THE NIGHT OF OCT. 10.

Digitized by Google

BIRTHS.

On the 4th inst., at Friar's Stile Lodge, Richmond, S.W., the wife of J. C. Miller, M.A., of a daughter (Maria Mabel Sutherland).

On the 7th inst., at 37, Grosvenor-square, London, the Countess of Aberdeen, of a daughter.

On the 7th inst., at 13, Belgrave-square, the Countess Beauchamp, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 2nd inst., at the parish church, Prendergast, by the Rev. George Eyre Massy, M.A., Vicar of Bourne, Lincolnshire, brother of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Francis Foster, M.A., Vicar of the parish, Alan Peel, youngest son of William Peel, Esq., of Talbaris Park, Carmarthenshire, to Constance Grace, youngest daughter of E. T. Massy, Esq., of Cottesmore, Pembrokeshire.

On the 27th ult., at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Cadogan-terrace, A. C. de Lisle, of Garendon Park and Gracedieu Manor, to the Hon. Violet Sandys, youngest daughter of the late, and sister of the present, Lord Sandys.

On the 2nd inst., at St. Mark's Church, North Audley-street, the Hon. Thomas H. A. E. Cochrane, youngest son of the Earl of Dundonald, to Lady Gertrude T. G. Boyle, daughter of the Earl of Glasgow.

On the 4th inst., at St. James's Church, Piccadilly, the Hon., W. St. John F. Brodrick, M.P., eldest son of Viscount Midleton, to the Hon. Hilda Charteris, third daughter of Lord Elcho, M.P., and granddaughter of the Earl of Wemyss and March.

On the 7th inst., at St. George's, Hanover-square, by the Rev. F. Stopford, assisted by the Rev. Greaves Hodgson, John Murray, son of J. L. Kennedy, Esq., of Knocknalling, Galloway, N.B., to Frances Eleanor Catherine, second daughter of the late Colonel Brandling, R.H.A., C.B., and niece of Lady Lilford.

DEATHS.

On the 4th inst., at Bishopwearmouth, Durham, in his 53rd year, James Taylor, Esq., son of the late Commander John Taylor, R.N., of Horton Grange, Northumberland.

On the 29th ult., Anne, widow of Lieut.-General Sir John Rolt, K.C.B., aged 85.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

NOW READY.

PRICE ONE SHILLING (INLAND POSTAGE, 2½d.),

THE

ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK

FOR

1881,

CONTAINING

SIX COLOURED PICTURES;

PRINTED BY LEIGHTON BROTHERS' CHROMATIC PROCESS,

FROM ORIGINALS BY EMINENT ARTISTS.

TWELVE FINE-ART ENGRAVINGS;

ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENA:

TWELVE DIAGRAMS OF THE DURATION OF MOONLIGHT;

The Royal Family of Great Britain; the Queen's Household; her Majesty's Ministers; Lists of Public Offices and Officers; Bankers, Law and University Terms; Fixed and Movable Festivals; Anniversaries; Acts of Parliament passed during the Session of 1880; Revenue and Expenditure; Obituary of Eminent Persons; Christian, Jewish, and Mohammedan Calendars; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Government Duties; Times of High Water; Post Office Regulations; together with a large amount of useful and valuable information, which has during the past thirty-eight years made the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK the most acceptable and elegant companion to the Library; whilst it is universally acknowledged to be by far the cheapest Almanack ever published.

The unprecedented demand for the ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK year after year stimulates the Proprietor to still greater exertions to secure for this Almanack a reception as favourable as that which has hitherto placed its circulation second only to that of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

The ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is inclosed in an elegant cover, printed in colours by the same process as the COLOURED PLATES, and forms a useful and pleasing ornament to the drawing-room table.

The SHILLING ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK is published at the Office of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, 198, Strand, and sold by all Booksellers and Newsvenders.

THE BRIGHTON SEASON.
Frequent Trains from Victoria and London Bridge.
Also Trains in connection from Kensington and Liverpool-street.
Return Tickets, London to Brighton, available for eight days.
Weekly, Fortnightly, and Monthly Season Tickets.
Available to travel by all Trains between London and Brighton.
Cheap Half-Guinea First Class Day Tickets to Brighton
Every Saturday, from Victoria and London Bridge,
Admitting to the Grand Aquarium and Royal Pavilion.
Cheap First Class Day Tickets to Brighton every Sunday,
From Victoria at 10.45 a.m., and London Bridge at 10.55 a.m.
Pullman Drawing-Room Cars between Victoria and Brighton.
Through Bookings to Brighton from principal Stations
On the Railways in the Northern and Midland districts.
A special Train for Horses, Carriages, and Servants.
From Victoria to Brighton, at 10.55 a.m. every Weekday.

GRAND AQUARIUM AND PAVILION.—Military and other Concerts EVERY SATURDAY AFTERNOON, for which the above Saturday Cheap Tickets are available.

NEW ROUTE to WEST BRIGHTON by the DIRECT LINE, via PRESTON PARK.
A Morning Up and Evening Down Fast Train Every Weekday between London Bridge and West Brighton.

PARIS.—SHORTEST, CHEAPEST ROUTE.—Via NEWHAVEN, DIEPPE, and ROUEN.
CHEAP EXPRESS SERVICE Every Week Night—First, Second, and Third Class.
From Victoria 7.50 p.m., and London Bridge 8.0 p.m.
Fares—Single, 35s., 24s., 17s.; Return, 55s., 39s., 30s.
Powerful Paddle-Steamers, with excellent cabins, &c.
Trains run alongside Steamers at Newhaven and Dieppe.
SOUTH OF FRANCE, ITALY, SWITZERLAND, &c.—Tourists' Tickets are issued enabling the holder to visit all the principal places of interest.
HAVRE.—Passengers booked through by this route every week night from Victoria and London Bridge as above.

TICKETS and every information at the Brighton Company's West-End General Offices, 28, Regent-circus, Piccadilly; and No. 8, Grand Hotel Buildings, Trafalgar-square; also at the Victoria and London Bridge Stations. (By Order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
SIXTEENTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR
In one continuous season of the
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS,
the acknowledged supreme head of
EVERY MINSTREL COMPANY IN THE WORLD, and the only one NOW recognised by the Public and the leading Journals of the Metropolis, PEERLESS, AND PROUDLY DEFYING ALL COMPETITION.
The New and successful Programme will be repeated
EVERY NIGHT, at EIGHT, and on MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, and SATURDAY, at Three and EIGHT.
The enormously successful Musical and Terpsichorean Sketch of
THE OLD KENTUCKY HOME
will be given at every performance until Christmas.

MDLLE. JANOTHA begs to announce that she will give her SECOND and LAST RECITAL of PIANOFORTE MUSIC on WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON NEXT, DEC. 15, in ST. JAMES'S HALL. Programmes: Sonata in E flat, op. 27, No. 1 (Beethoven), Fantasia in C minor (Bach), Preludes, in C major, A minor, and B flat minor (Chopin), Variations Serieuses (Mendelssohn), Carnaval (scenes mignonnes) (Schumann). To commence at Four o'clock. Sofa Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Programmes and Tickets at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street; and at the Hall, 28, Piccadilly.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—Conductor, Sir Michael Costa.—The FORTY-NINTH CHRISTMAS PERFORMANCE of HANDEL'S "MESSIAH" will take place at ST. JAMES'S HALL, on FRIDAY NEXT, DEC. 17. Madame Sherrington, Miss Anne Mary Cummings; Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. Bridson. Trumpet, Mr. T. Harper; organist, Mr. Walling. Tickets, 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., and 2s. 6d., now ready at Society's Office, 7, John-street, Adelphi; Austin's, St. James's Hall, and principal Musicsellers'.

ROYAL PARK THEATRE.—TUESDAY, DEC. 14, and two following Evenings.—First appearance in London of Mr. GEORGE B. PHILLIPS (pupil of Mr. John Rogers) as SHYLOCK in THE MERCHANT OF VENICE, supported by a powerful Company. Preceded, at 7.30, by a Comedietta. On Saturday, 18th, THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE MAN, and TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS—Meller Moss and Monsieur Tourbillon, Mr. George B. Phillips.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT.
LAST WEEK of THE TURQUOISE RING, Mr. Corney Grain's New Musical Sketch, THE HAUNTED ROOM and A FLYING VISIT. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday Evenings at Eight. Thursday and Saturday Afternoons at Three. Admission, 1s., 3s.; Stalls, 5s. and 7s.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Will close after Saturday, Dec. 18. Reopen on Boxing Day, at Three and Eight, with an entirely new Three-hour programme.

THE

CHRISTMAS NUMBER

OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

1880

WHICH WILL BE ISSUED NEXT MONDAY,

COMPRISES

A LARGE PICTURE IN COLOURS,

ENTITLED

"IN WONDERLAND,"

From a Painting by FRANK HOLL, A.R.A.;

With a Seasonable Article by GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA;

FOUR COLOURED ILLUSTRATIONS:

FIRST STEPS, THE EVENING PARTY, ROSES AND LILIES,
by KATE GREENAWAY;

And THE FANCY-DRESS BALL, by HARRY FURNISS

AND THE FOLLOWING

CHRISTMAS ILLUSTRATIONS AND STORIES.

ENGRAVINGS.

Catarina. By Luke Fildes, A.R.A.
Winter. By L. Rossi.
The Rival Suitors (Two Pages). By F. Barnard.
The Vicar's Daughters. By A. Hunt.
In Sight of Home on Christmas Morning. By A. Emslie.
Games for Old and Young. By G. Cruikshank.
Hark! the Herald Angels Sing. By A. Hunt.
Woodleigh Grange. By S. Read.
The Careless Nurse. By M. E. Edwards.
Dick's Dilemma. By A. Hunt.

TALES.

Fernande. By M. Betham-Edwards.
At the Twelfth Hour. By R. E. Francillon.
The Little Town by the Seine. By Katharine S. Macquoid.
Margaret Donnan. By Mrs. J. H. Riddell.

AND VERSES

By William C. Bennett, Savile Clarke, John Latey, Edward Rose, Clement Scott, George R. Sims, J. Ashby-Sterry, Byron Webber, and others.

The whole inclosed in a Handsome Coloured Wrapper, and published apart from the Ordinary Issue.

Price One Shilling: Postage Twopence-halfpenny.

OFFICE, 198, STRAND, W.C.

SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS.
WINTER EXHIBITION NOW OPEN, from Ten to Five Daily, at the SUFFOLK-STREET GALLERIES, Pall-mall East. Admission, 1s.
THOS. ROBERTS, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL WINTER EXHIBITION of High-class PICTURES by British and Foreign Artists, is NOW OPEN at ARTHUR TOOTH and SON'S GALLERY, 5, Haymarket, opposite Her Majesty's Theatre. Admission, One Shilling, including Catalogue.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.
The FIFTEENTH WINTER EXHIBITION is NOW OPEN from Ten till Six. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. H. F. PHILLIPS, Secretary.
Gallery, 53, Pall-mall, S.W.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS Every Night at 8.0.—Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. At 7.30, BYGONES, by A. W. Pinero. Doors open at 7. Special Morning Performances of THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, Saturday, DEC. 11, and Saturday, DEC. 18, at 2.30. Box Office (Mr. Hurst) open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1880.

On Sunday last the International Naval Demonstration ceased, and the fleets which had taken part in it, after making each other acquainted with their several destinations, dispersed. This temporary, or, as it may not improbably turn out, final dissolution of active means for giving expression to the European Concert, took place at the suggestion of the British Government. The end for which it was originally assembled has been accomplished; the Montenegrin question has been settled; Dulcigno has been ceded, and all matters of offence between the Sultan and Prince Nikita have been removed. It would be a mistake to imagine that the close of the Naval Demonstration will affect the continuance of the diplomatic concert of the Powers. That remains what it was, and, should it seem fitting to them at any time during the course of next year to have resort to coercive or semi-coercive action against the Ottoman Empire for non-fulfilment of the stipulations of the Berlin Treaty, they will be in a position to take that course. They are but too happy, however, to have brought their first experiment to a successful issue to repeat it, save under the most urgent necessity. They are, probably, as glad to have dispersed their Naval combination as the Ottoman Government can be to note its departure. That it has largely contributed to bring the Porte to reason scarcely admits of a doubt; that it was a wise measure, under the circumstances, may be fairly contended. "All's well that ends well." Not a gun has been fired, no legitimate interest has been disturbed, no international feuds have been excited, no inconvenient pledges have been given with regard to the future. The "Eastern Question," as it has been comprehensively designated, has not, it is true, been permanently settled; but a way to the settlement of it without war, and by gradual development rather than by sudden and general conflict, has been discerned, if but dimly; and, happily, all European States, without exception, are, in their own interests, strongly bent upon the maintenance of peace.

We pass from East to West—from Turkey to the United States of America—from despotic to Republican Rule. The Session of Congress began on Monday. The inaugural Message of President Hayes was then read. To outside people the Document will appear dull; to the Americans themselves it can hardly fail of being satisfactory. It tells a tale of domestic prosperity, such as most nations might desire to appropriate to themselves; and the President, who retires from his high office in March next, leaves to his successor, General Garfield, a quiet and a rich inheritance. The succession will be undisputed; the lines of demarcation between Republican and Democratic politics are fading out, in practice at least, if not in theory. The Government of the Union has before it no violent antagonisms with which to grapple, no factions numerous and resolute enough to resist its authority, and, we might almost say, no domestic difficulties of extreme urgency which it is called upon at once to solve. Such matters of political and civil reform as are touched upon by Mr. Hayes may not improbably be dealt with by Congress without causing any inconvenient excitement, and may unquestionably be handled with a fair prospect of beneficial legislation. One question only is imperatively commended to prompt attention—namely, the duty and purpose of the people to suppress polygamy. The President recommends the reorganisation of territorial government with that view, or, as an alternative, a denial to the Mormons of all right to vote, hold office, or sit on juries.

The foreign relations of the United States, we are glad to learn, "have been, and promise to be, those of undisturbed peace." On the Fisheries dispute respecting claim to indemnity made by the Government of the United States upon that of her Majesty, arising out of injuries inflicted upon American Citizens at Fortune Bay, there is, we are told, "a disposition towards friendly agreement, leading to the hope that a basis will be found for a speedy adjustment of the very serious divergence of views in the interpretation of the Fishery Clauses of the Treaty of Washington." With France, with Germany, with Spain, with Belgium, with Roumania, with China, and even with Mexico, matters of dispute, or of international convenience, are in a promising way for mutually satisfactory adjustment. As to the Financial situation of the United States, the President reports that it is "more favourable than that of any country in our time, and never surpassed by any country at any period: all industries thriving, the rate of interest low, new railroads being constructed, vast immigration, numerous enterprises afloat, and the commercial relations with other countries improving." This roseate report will call forth the cordial congratulations of all European countries. But it comes, be it remembered, after a period, and a lengthened period too, of commercial depression. It is in part, probably, the result of a return to specie payments, and, through them, the restoration of confidence to capitalists who furnish the "sinews of war" to those who conduct the industrial enterprises of the country.

Would that we were able to anticipate a like pleasant domestic situation! Our trials came later than those of our Western neighbour, and are not yet, by any means, at an end. Commercially, perhaps, some improvement may be observed; but commercial progress is extremely slow. Our immediate trouble is one of an essentially social character, one of which the United States have little or no experience. The question of Land Tenure in Ireland is approaching a tension which for severity, and we may add danger, has seldom been exceeded. We note, however, even on this sterile ground, some signs of improved feeling. There is a recognition by all parties of the tremendous gravity of the issue at stake. There is greater candour of inquiry, more serious deliberation of judgment, more caution in expressing its decisions, as well as a more striking abnegation of merely Party views, than we had hoped for six weeks or two months ago. The Irish question is tending to settle itself. Statesman-like guidance is needed to direct it into a prudent adjustment. But the impulse required to effect such a settlement is strong enough for the purpose. Theoretical and traditional prejudices will have to give way to practical remedies, and, whether it costs little or much, justice must be done to, and between, all classes and interests.

Lord Herries is likely to succeed the late Lord Wenlock in the Lord Lieutenancy of the East Riding of Yorkshire.

Savoy-street is being opened out direct on to the Embankment, and in a few days the roadway will be completed, affording another useful means of relieving the Strand traffic.

The Marquis of Hartington, replying to a communication respecting the abrogation of foreign tariffs upon British industrial productions, writes that, whilst not prepared to make suggestions as to the mode of accomplishing this desirable object, he is favourable, under all the circumstances, to strict adherence on our part to Free Trade principles.

Digitized by Google

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Infinite perturbation should there be, just now, in the Diamond Market; while corresponding agitation might be felt by the ingenious gentlemen (generally belonging to a historic race) who deal in rubies, emeralds, sapphires, amethysts, topazes, and pearls. The French Government have determined to submit to the Chambers a proposal for the sale of five millions of francs' worth of the Crown jewels of France: the jewels to be disposed of being only those which have neither historic nor artistic value; and the proceeds are to be devoted to the endowment of certain art museums.

Among the gems to be brought into the market is obviously not the famous "Regent" or "Pitt" diamond, which has a remarkable little history of its own, not only historical, but literary. It will be remembered that Thomas Pitt, Esquire, Governor, in the reign of Queen Anne, of Fort St. George, in the East Indies, purchased from an anonymous dealer a very large diamond, which, it is said, had been discovered somewhere in "Malacca." A mysterious region. A Gladstone Administration was wholly wrecked in "the Straits of Malacca" some half dozen years ago. Governor Pitt paid the anonymous native dealer rupees to the value of £20,400 for his big brilliant. It weighed, in its "raw" state 410, and, when cut, 136½ carats. Mr. Alexander Pope, poet, subsequently, in a well-known satirical couplet, more than hinted that Governor Pitt had robbed the Indian proprietor of his precious bauble. The "Pitt" diamond was brought to England, and, after being cut as a brilliant, was sold to the Regent Philippe, Duke of Orleans, for the then baby King of France, for the sum of £185,000. The present estimated value of the gem (which is the fourth biggest diamond in the world), is twelve millions of francs—say, £480,000. Altogether, the value of the French Crown jewels is estimated at twenty millions of francs.

Mem.: Our own Koh-i-noor (by the right of conquest), or "Mountain of Light," formerly known as the Great Mogul diamond, is the largest piece of pure carbon in the world (excepting, they say, the stone among the Crown jewels of Portugal), and weighs two hundred and seventy carats. What is the value of the Koh-i-noor? Well, according to Jeffries, the value of diamonds is in the duplicate ratio of their weights. Thus, if an uncut diamond of one carat be worth two pounds, that of one cut and polished would be valued at eight pounds sterling in the brilliant. "At this rate a cut diamond of two carats would be $2 \times 8 \times 2 = £32$; one of three, $3 \times 8 \times 3 = £72$; one of four, $4 \times 8 \times 4 = £128$; one of five, $5 \times 8 \times 5 = £200$. So to progressively calculate your carats till you reach the weight of the Koh-i-noor would be a very pretty little sum to be set for pretty little brains to solve, while elderly people went out to dinner this coming Christmas-tide and enjoyed themselves.

Louis XV. wore the "Regent" as an isolated stone in the front of the circlet of his Crown Royal. I turned up an engraving of this crown, as manufactered by the Sieur Rodé fils, in that very sumptuous and useful magazine of decoration (now defunct, I am afraid), the French "L'Art pour Tous." The crown is "the size of life," or rather still life, and every jewel is accurately figured. The "Regent" is of a lozenge shape, and is just one inch broad and a little more than an inch in length. This crown was broken up at the Revolution; but the "Regent" kept its head above the waters of cataclysm, and Napoleon I. had it mounted in the hilt of his sword. Audacious Corsican Usurper! Perhaps he thought that he was insulting the memory of his most formidable foe, Mr. Pitt.

Next to the history of the "Pitt" or "Regent" Diamond, the most interesting biography of a gem, or rather an assembly of gems, is the world-renowned Diamond Necklace, manufactured by the court jewellers, Böhmer and Bossange, for Louis XV., who wished to present it to the Du Barry; which necklace they unsuccessfully sought to sell to Marie Antoinette, and out of which they were ultimately cozened by the impudent adventuress Madame de la Motte, and her accomplices. I see that a fresh edition has just been published of Mr. Henry Vizetelly's "Story of the Diamond Necklace," in which the whole intrigue of that unparalleled Comedy of Roguery is exhaustively and graphically narrated. The diamond necklace itself seems, from the engraving thereof in the frontispiece to Mr. Vizetelly's interesting book, to have been a hugely ugly one; as ugly as Chippendale furniture—and that is saying a great deal.

I read in the New York correspondence of a Parisian paper the account of a single day as spent by Mdlle. Sarah Bernhardt. The indefatigably versatile tragédienne-comédienne rose at seven, painted and "sculpted" till nine; received visitors until eleven forty-five a.m.; breakfasted at one p.m.; played at an afternoon performance at two; presided at her exhibition of painting and sculpture from five to six; dined at seven; and at eight attended a night rehearsal of "Adrienne Le Couvreur," which lasted until three the next morning.

'Tis Adrienne here, and Adrienne there. Mdlle. Bernhardt is by this time astonishing the lovers of the drama in the Empire City as Adrienne, and this present Saturday Madame Modjeska is, in the same superb part, to take the audience at the Court by storm. I have been trying to find out something about the real Adrienne Le Couvreur. So far as my researches have as yet extended, that which is known of her does not amount to much. In Mame's great "Dictionnaire Universel, Historique, Critique et Bibliographique" (Fifth Edition, Paris, 1810), there is a very ill-favoured outline portrait of the actress, and a brief biographical notice, stating that she was born at Fisme, in Champagne, in 1690, and that she was the daughter of a hatter. Possibly "Le Couvreur" was only a stage name, and was adopted in punning allusion to her papa's trade.

She made her début in Electra on May 14, 1717. "She abolished the practice of shrieking on the stage." Voltaire "corrected and improved her melodious lamentations." Her by-play was wonderful. It is more strange to read that "Genius, and genius alone, compensated, in her case, for the absence of voice, stature, and beauty." The magnificent Adrienne was, then, after all, a plain-looking, weak-voiced little woman. Yet I read that, owing to this same genius alone, "she reigned as a Queen among her comrades." The notice goes on to tell the story of her pawning her diamonds for 40,000 francs to relieve the necessities of Maurice de Saxe, Duke of Courland. She died in her fortieth year (nothing is said about her having been poisoned). Being normally excommunicated, her remains were not allowed to rest in consecrated ground; and she was clandestinely buried somewhere on the banks of the Seine, only the Count de Saxe and Voltaire being present. It is good to learn that Maurice de Saxe was grateful to the woman who had pawned her jewels for him; and that underneath the furred pelisse, the brocaded waistcoat, and the laced jabot of François Marie Aronet, called Voltaire, there was something of the nature of a Heart.

Adrienne's portrait was painted by the famous Coypel; and beneath, on the frame, was inscribed the following exquisitely turned quatrain:—

> Ton art, par un effet heureux
> Transmet mon air, mes traits, ma gloire à mes neveux:
> Ne t'enorgueillis pas du talent qui t'honore;
> Coypel! quand je jouais je peignais mieux encore.

Were the greatest master in portraiture of the age to paint Madame Modjeska, something after the fashion of this conceit might be written on the frame:—

> Artist, whose brush to distant times hands down,
> The looks, the gestures which are all mine own,
> Be not too proud. In painting Life's long Play
> I e'en excelled John Everett Millais.

This is very atrocious doggrel; but it will convey a glimmering of my meaning to the reader.

Last week I wrote, half jocularly, "I have shown that King Solomon never said, verbatim et literatim, 'Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child.' Within the next six months I confidently expect to be told that he did say so, word for word and letter for letter." Within the next six months! Within the next six days, I should have said. Last Tuesday's post brought me a communication in a neat feminine handwriting, signed "Grandmamma," and calmly quoting, in the complacent confidence of incurable obstinacy, Prov. xiii. 24 and Prov. xix. 18. Evidently it is so much labour lost in trying to set up as a seller of spectacles. There are people who persist in making their own, and in tinting them to the precise hue, and none other, which they are determined to patronise.

Good news from Cyprus! An anonymous friend occasionally sends me copies of the Cyprus Times, published at Larnaka, a very well printed and vivacious little sheet, and decidedly strong in its comments on current local politics. I carefully scan the advertisements, and continue to note symptoms of advancing, or rather returning, civilisation in the birthplace of Aphrodite. My last edition of "Murray" for 1876 does not mention the existence of a single hotel, either at Larnaka, Nicosia, or Limassol, and hints, indeed, that the traveller in Paphos has only the Greek monasteries to look to for accommodation; but in the advertising columns of the Cyprus Times I find an announcement that "the ancient Albert's Hotel at Nicosia is now held by George Pappasoglou," who guarantees to all his patrons "comfortable rooms, clean beds, and delicious dishes." Then there is the Bellevue Hotel, Larnaka," situated on the Marina, and overlooking the sea;" "the Army and Navy Hotel, Wolseley-street"—well, why not? is there not a street in Havana called the "Calle O'Reilly," after the famous Captain-General who took Algiers, and whom Doña Julia (according to Byron) used so vilely;—while in "Billiard"-street, Limassol (an odd name for a street), there is the Troödos Hotel, kept by S. Varipati. And what do you say to "Captain Gauci," English Grocer, Bazaar-street, Larnaka, who has just received fresh supplies of English-cured bacon and ham, and expects some fine new Maltese potatoes per S.S. Roumelia?

What does my good friend Mr. Punch mean by ridiculing and traducing the Greeks and the Greek cause? In the current number of my facetious friend's vastly improved periodical, and under a most delicious drawing by Mr. Du Maurier of two beauteous little girls and a handsome mamma of the period, there is an acrid and unjust article parodying the proceedings at the recent meeting of the Greek Committee and the sympathisers with the Greek cause at Willis's Rooms. On that occasion the Earl of Rosebery presided; in Punch's parody it is Lord Constable who takes the chair (what does that mean? Lord Rosebery is not a policeman), and who delivers a silly and vacuous speech. His Lordship is supported by Mr. Daudler, M.P., Mr. Twaddler, M.P., Mr. Dodderer, M.P., Mr. Thyck Hedde, M.P., and Mr. Ad Getter, M.P. I thought Punch was a Liberal as well as a laughable journal. This is illiberal and not laughable. Mr. Burnand, Mr. Burnand! you have inadvertently gotten a Jingo in the camp. Rondo Africano. "Traitor in de Camp, Turn 'im out!"

A correspondent who writes anonymously, and underscores the word anonymously, as though he were proud of being anonymous, remarks that he noticed lately a published eulogy on a sentence in "Endymion" to the effect that "Eloquence is based on Knowledge;" and he asks whether the sentiment does not closely resemble that dilated upon by Cicero, in "De Oratore" II. 2, touching the eloquence of Crassus and Antoninus. Turn up Karl Friedrich Nobbe's thundering edition of Cicero (Leipsic, Tauchnitz, 1827, pp. 1220), and satisfy yourselves, gentlemen scholars. We will spare the ladies (not being disciples of Girton College) the quotation.

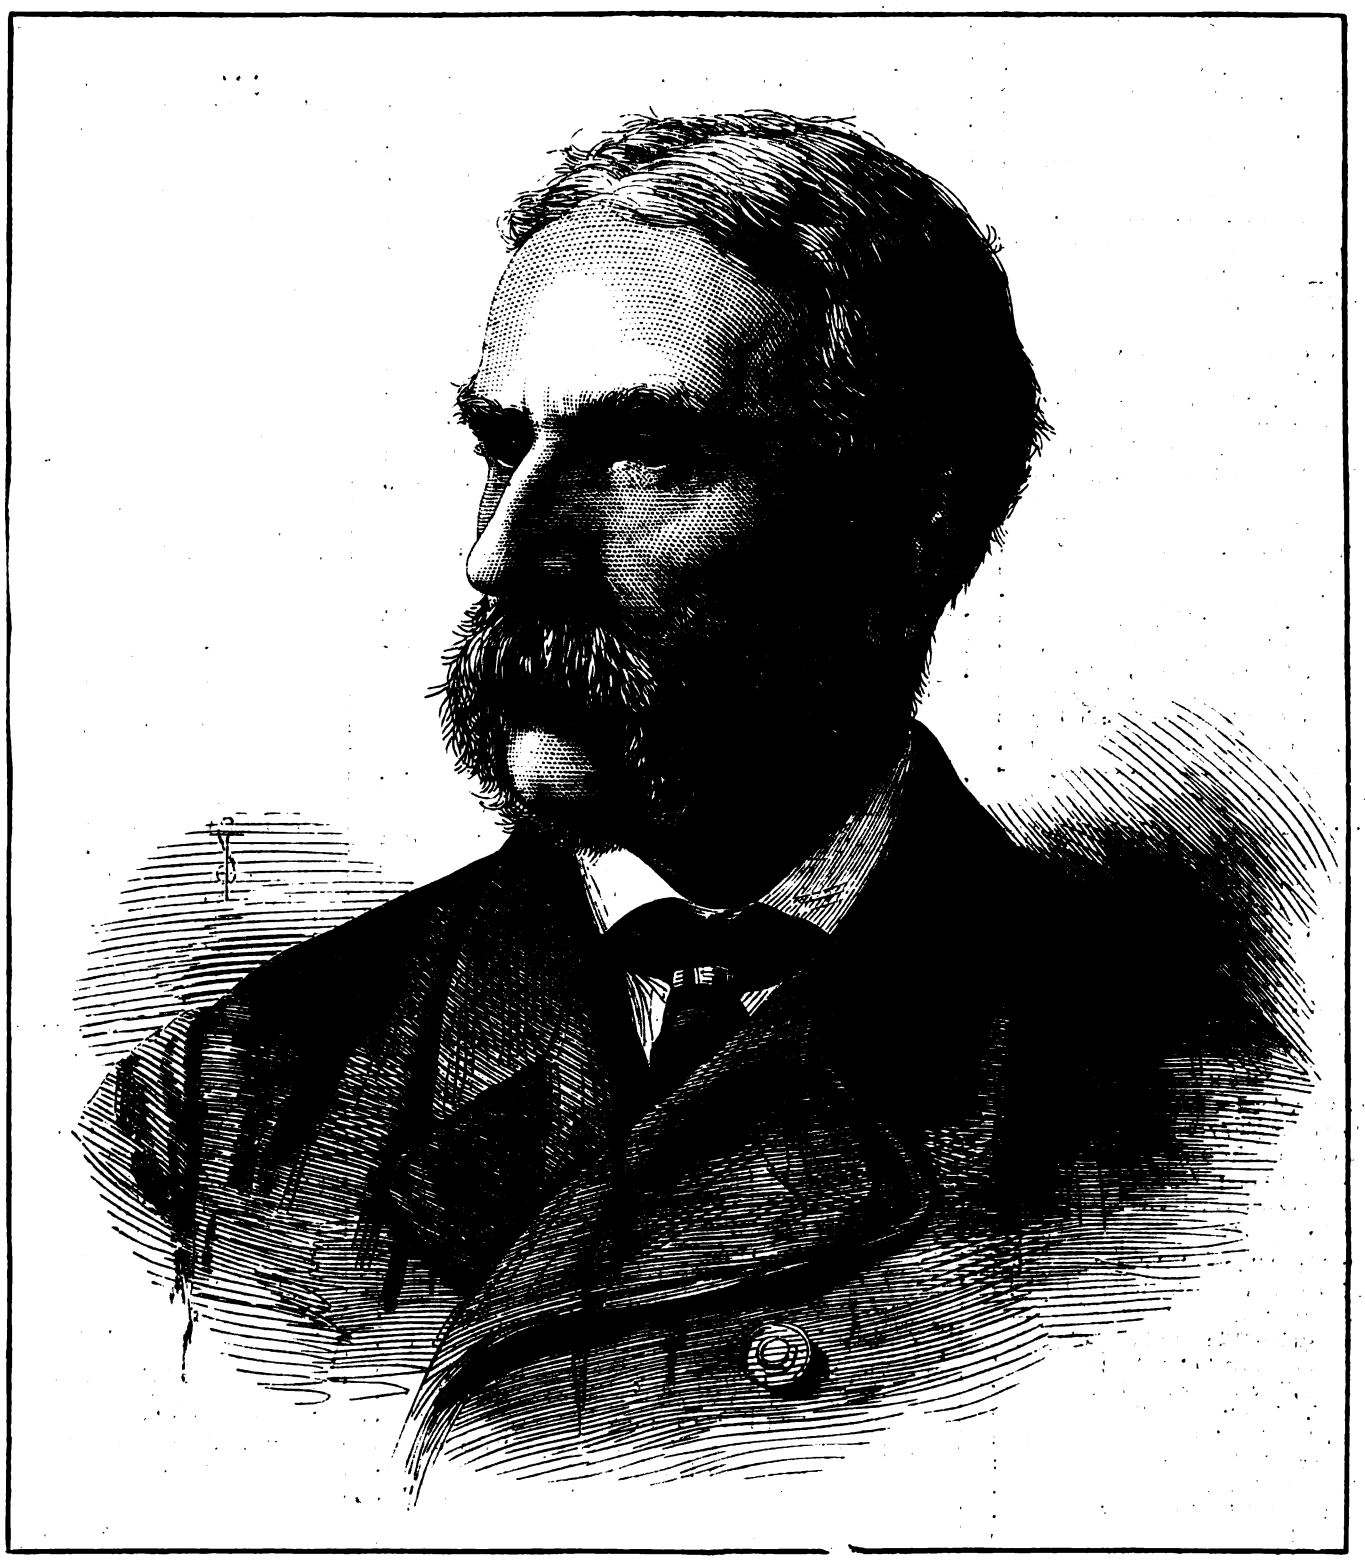
But I have another question to ask about "Endymion," and not anonymously, with respect to a matter of Good Taste. I have bought the three volumes of "Endymion," have read them, and intend to have them sumptuously bound. I dare say many more collectors of books have done or mean to do as I have done, and that thousands of people admire, as I do, the sparkling vivacity and epigrammatic polish of this remarkably talented production, in which almost fac-simile portraits of the notabilities of the last generation—from Lord Palmerston to the Hon. Mrs. Norton, from the Emperor Napoleon III. to Mr. Poole the tailor—are introduced.

The Earl of Beaconsfield is a Peer of the Realm, a Knight of the Garter, an ex-Prime Minister, and one of the foremost statesmen of Europe. To write a novel is, on his part, a condescension; and were he even to pen a stupid book it would be received in some places with enthusiastic applause. But, supposing that he were a professed and professional man of letters, living avowedly by his pen, even as Mr. Anthony Trollope does. The author of "Barchester Towers" (I hope Mr. Trollope will pardon me for citing him as an example) has written many excellent books; he has seen, as Ulysses saw, "men and cities," and he must have known more or less intimately most of the distinguished people in society, all over the world, during a period of some thirty years. Supposing Mr. Anthony Trollope were to write a novel, into the pages of which were dragged, under the thinnest of disguises, Mr. Thackeray, Mr. Dickens, Mr. Carlyle, Mr. Alfred Tennyson, and Mr. Robert Browning; Mr. Millais, Mr. Alma Tadema, and the late Mr. Tom Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, Mr. Hare, Mr. Kendal, and Mr. Henry Irving; Professor Owen, Sir James Paget, and Dr. Benjamin Richardson; Sir Henry Thompson, Sir Michael Costa, Sir Julius Benedict, and Mr. Arthur Sullivan; Mr. Thomas Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hall, Miss Emily Faithfull, and Miss Braddon. Most of us have met these celebrities in private society. Few of their number are, or have been, without strongly-marked individualities and idiosyncrasies, which could be most amusingly rendered in a novel; but what would be the professional man of letters' fate if he put forth such a book full to repletion of such vividly real characters? The whole world of criticism would rise in arms. The novel would be denounced on all sides as a flagrant example of the most atrocious Bad Taste; and if, among the people so unscrupulously "brought in," there happened to be any members of clubs to which the novelist himself belonged, he might reckon upon receiving some very pungent communications from the committees of those institutions.

Mr. Thackeray, you may object, was personal, sometimes. I reply that Mr. Thackeray was only gently and skilfully assimilative and combinative in his characters. They passed through the alembic of his study and observation. The Marquis of Steyne is a sublimation of half a dozen characters; so is Captain Shandon; so are Costigan and the Mulligan. And the finest of all Mr. Thackeray's characters, Becky, Dobbin, Jos Sedley, and Colonel Newcome, are wholly original (from the "celebrity" point of view, at least). I think it will be a bad day for English literature when novels of manners, ten years after their publication, will require a "key" to explain the persons whom the principal characters are intended for. Every novelist should bear in mind the terrible reminder of Junius of the inevitable day when "the force and direction of personal satire" shall be no longer understood.

With reference to the early history of the Electric Telegraph, "T. H." refers me to "The Spectator," No. 241, for an account taken from Strada's "Prolusions" (Book II, prol. 6), of "a chimerical correspondence" between two friends by the help of a certain loadstone, which had such virtue in it that if it touched two several needles, when one of the needles touched began to move, the other, though at never so great a distance, moved at the same time and in the same manner.

> He tells us that the two friends, being each of them possessed of one of these needles, made a kind of a dial-plate, inscribing it with the four-and-twenty letters of the alphabet in the same manner that the hours of the day are marked on the ordinary dial-plate. They then fixed one of these needles to each of these plates in such a manner that it would move round, without impediment, so as to touch any of the four-and-twenty letters. . . By this means they talked together across a whole continent, and conveyed their thoughts to one another in an instant over cities or mountains, seas or deserts.



The number of "The Spectator" which I have quoted bears the date of Dec. 6, 1711. The "Prolusions" of Strada, a learned Jesuit, form an entry in the Catalogue of the Ronalds Library which I mentioned last week. Father Strada's conception of an Ideal Magnetic Telegraph was published at Milan so far back as A.D. 1626. The good Father seems to have had, like most of us, his literary troubles; since I find that an atrabilious critic, named Scioppius, wrote a pamphlet against him, with the engaging title "Infamia Famiani Stradæ." His "infamy" notwithstanding; he managed to live to the good old age of seventy-eight. He was even luckier in escaping from falling into trouble with the Inquisition, who might have accounted magnetic telegraphy only so much necromancy.

Look not in the usual column this week for the "Play-houses." Ceding to the entreaties of a tearful editor, desperately pressed on all sides at this season of the year for space, I have for once omitted my customary "prolusion" on things theatrical. As it happens, there have been but two dramatic events during the past week calling for notice. One was the successful production at the St. James's, last Saturday, of Mr. Coghlan's new version, entitled "Good Fortune," of Octave Feuillet's "Roman d'un jeune Homme Pauvre." Mr. Coghlan's adaptation, or rather paraphrase, is very neatly executed, and the dialogue is, in particular, incisive and epigrammatic. But M. Octave Feuillet's "Roman" is at the best a rambling and indistinct production, and, as I shall strive to show next week, it almost defies the efforts of the most skilful dramatist to anglicise it. It is a strictly virtuous piece; but even the virtue is French. The leading characters were admirably sustained by Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and Mr. John Clayton.

Some seventeen hundred pounds were the net product of the memorial performance at Drury Lane on Monday and the concurrent subscription for the benefit of the family of the late Mr. Charles Harcourt. The vast house was crowded from floor to roof, and the programme was surprisingly varied and brilliant.

G. A. S.

Digitized by Google

THE RIGHT HON. WILLIAM PATRICK ADAM, THE NEW GOVERNOR OF MADRAS.

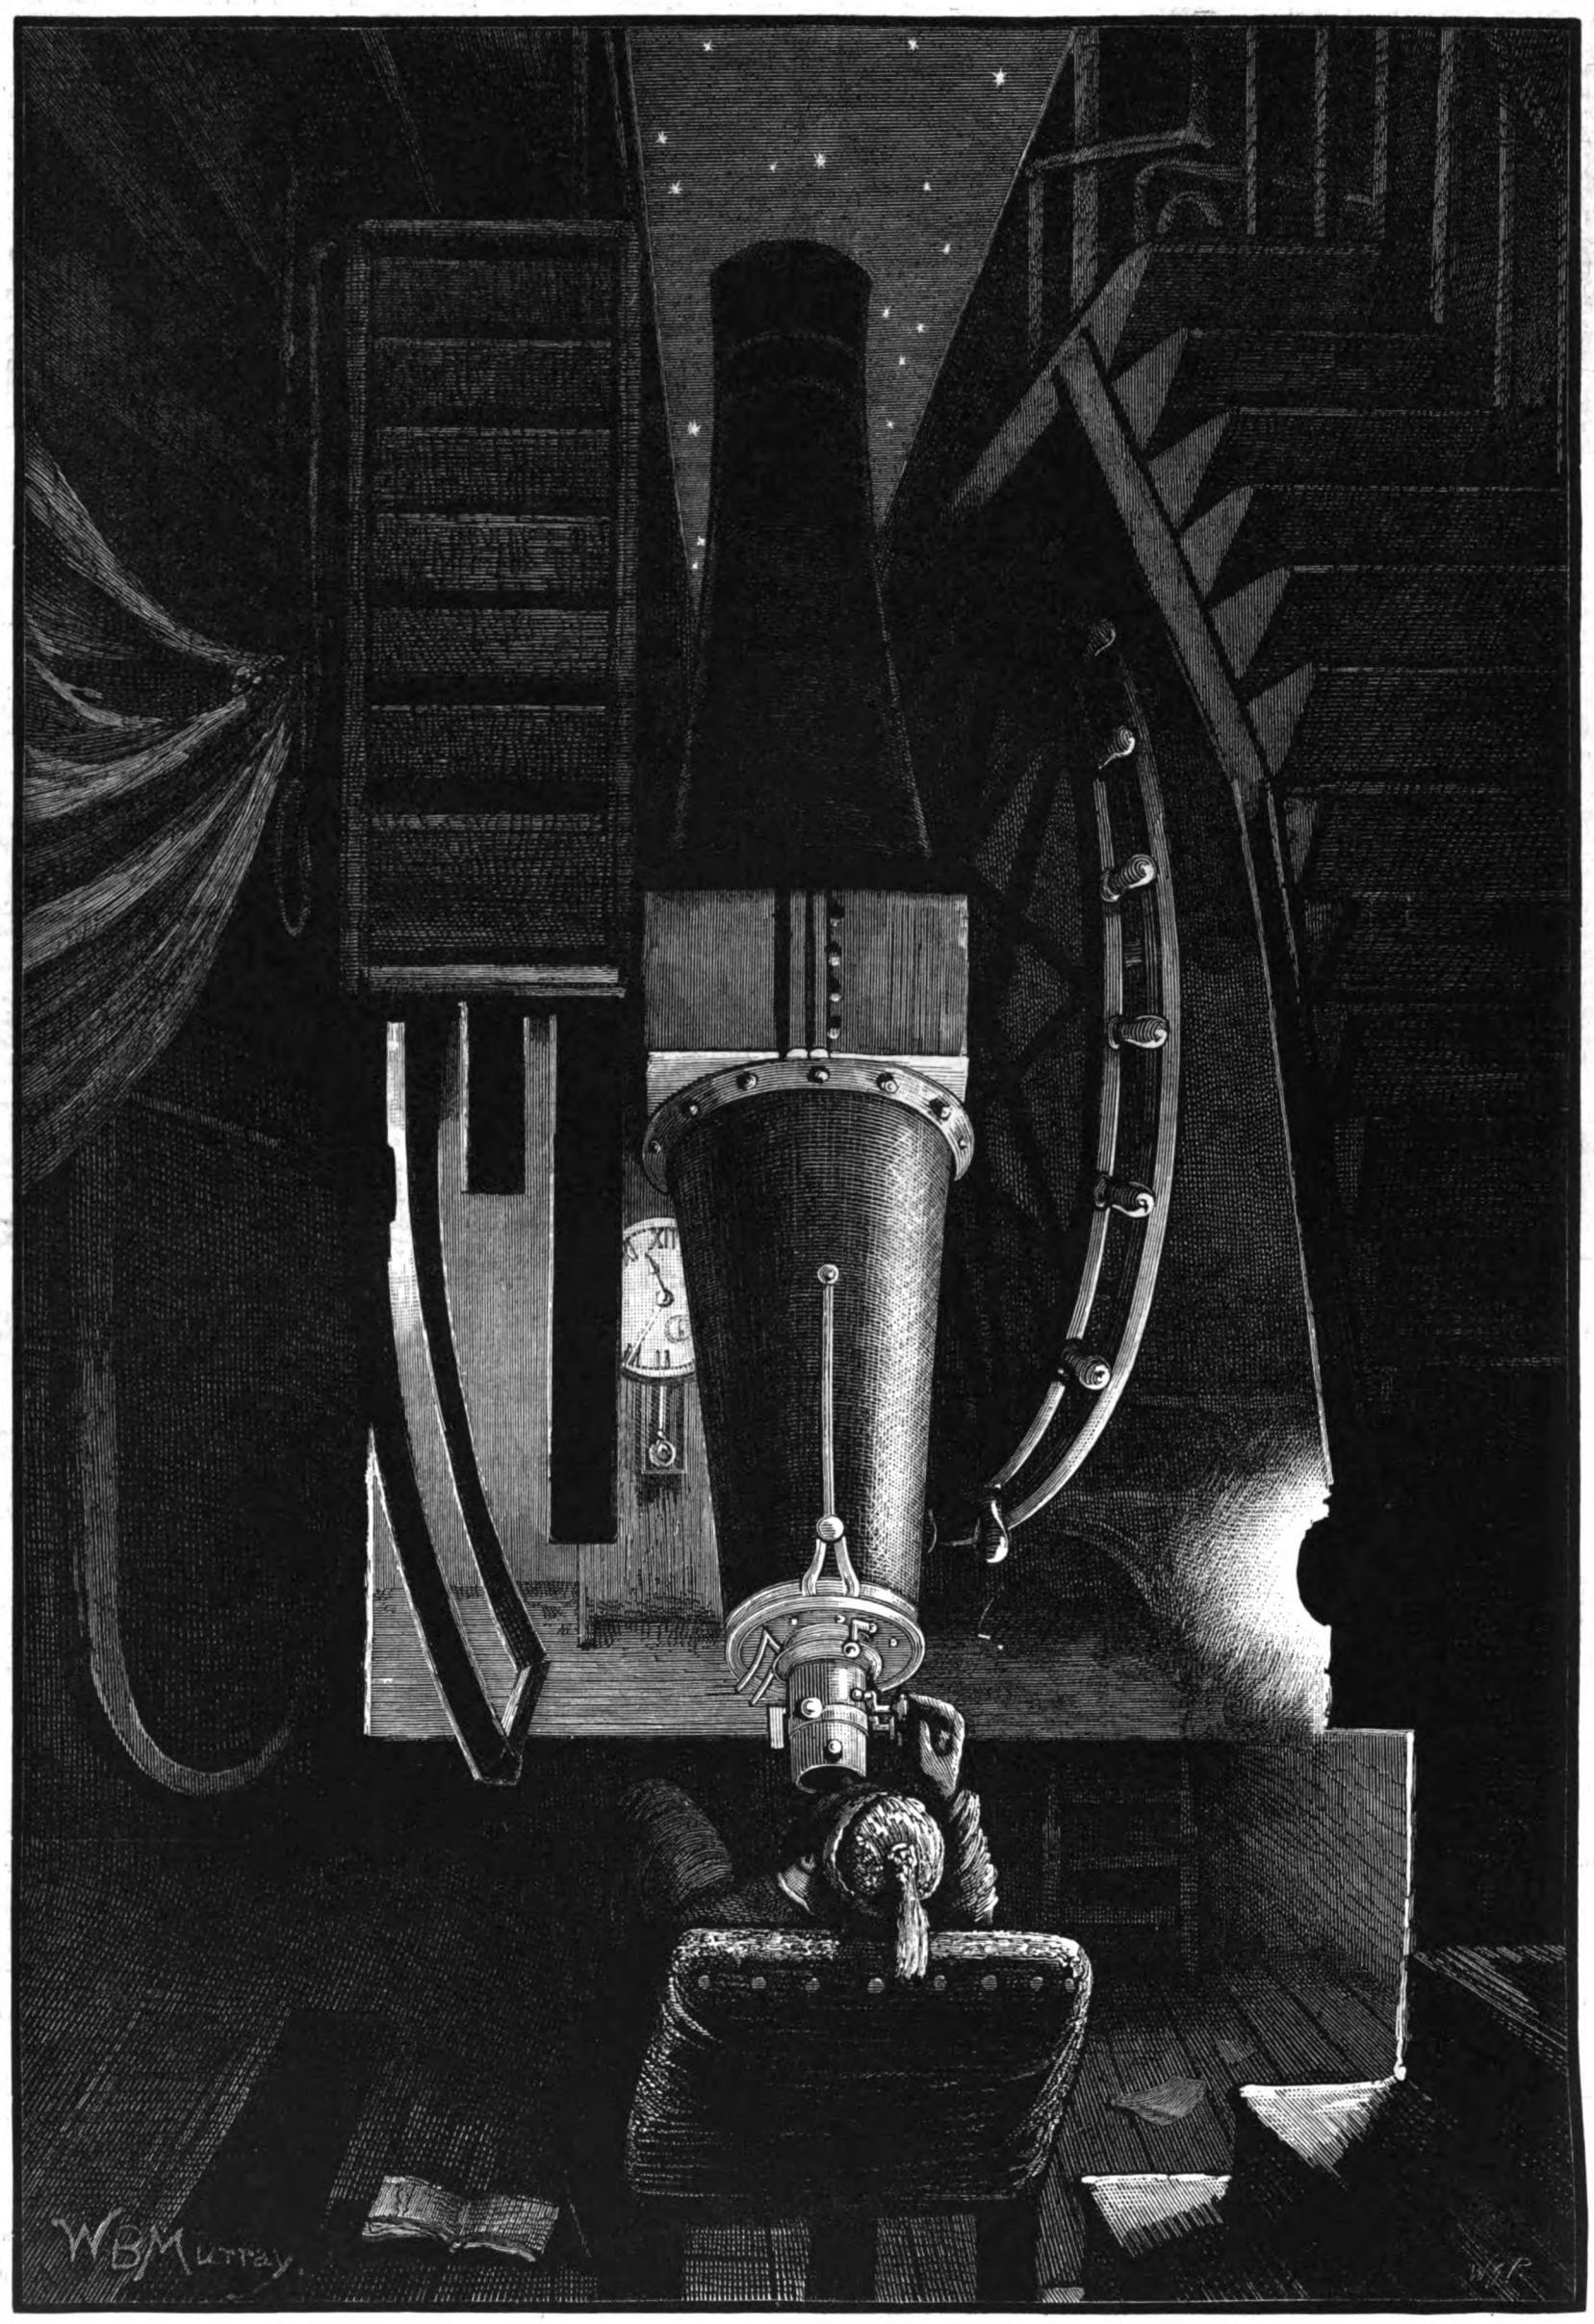
THE NEW GOVERNOR OF MADRAS.

The Right Hon. William Patrick Adam, who has gone to India with the high appointment of Governor of the Madras Presidency, succeeding the Duke of Buckingham there, has been known among members of Parliament as the active and vigilant "whipper-in" of the Liberal party in the House of Commons, under both the Administrations of Mr. Gladstone, as well as Earl Russell's before, and when that party was in Opposition during the Conservative Ministry of Lord Beaconsfield. This right honourable gentleman is fifty-nine years of age. He is the elder son of the late Admiral Sir Charles Adam, K.C.B., of Blair Adam, Kinross, who was some time Governor of Greenwich Hospital; and his mother was Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Patrick Brydone, F.R.S. Mr. W. P. Adam was educated at Rugby, under the Rev. Dr. Arnold, and at Trinity College, Cambridge, in the time of the Rev. Dr. Whewell. He was called to the Bar, at the Inner Temple, in May, 1849. In December, 1853, he went to India as private secretary to Lord Elphinstone, then Governor of Bombay, with whom he remained there till September, 1858, working through the difficulties, toils, and anxieties that were occasioned by the Sepoy Mutiny and subsequent war, at which time the Bombay Government rendered great assistance to the army engaged in Bengal, Oude, the North-Western Provinces, and Central India, to maintain the British rule over that great Empire. Having returned to England, Mr. Adam, who had in 1851 been a candidate, without success, for the representation of Clackmannanshire and Kinross-shire jointly, obtained, in May, 1859, his unopposed election to that seat. In 1865, having become a most efficient and serviceable Parliamentary manager of votes and divisions for the Liberal party, he was made a Lord of the Treasury, under the last Premiership of Earl Russell, which came to an end in the following July. When Mr. Gladstone formed a Government, in December, 1868, Mr. Adam was placed in the same position, which he exchanged, in August, 1873, for the more important offices of Chief Commissioner of Crown Works and Buildings and Paymaster-General. He took a leading part in the political campaign preceding the last General Election, and was, for the first time since 1859, opposed before the Scottish county constituency for which he stood. His election speeches at Dollar and Kinross made a severe exposure of the faults of Lord Beaconsfield's Government, and he was returned by a very large majority at the head of the poll. The right hon. gentleman has very recently been entertained by the members of his party, at the Reform and Devonshire Clubs, with festive congratulations upon his latest official appointment, which they only regret inasmuch as his Parliamentary and social assistance will now be taken away from them. He is married, since 1856, to Emily, eldest daughter of General Sir William Wyllie, G.C.B., and has a son just come of age, Mr. Charles Elphinstone Adam, with some other children.

The Portrait is engraved from a photograph by Mr. J. Moffat, of Princes-street, Edinburgh.

THE GREENWICH ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY.

The Royal Observatory in Greenwich Park, as explained in former notices, comprises two quite distinct and different portions, though within the same precinct, in the cluster of buildings that rises on the familiar summit of the high green slope, rearward of the Royal Hospital school and Naval College. The Astronomer Royal, Sir George Biddell Airy, here dwells, and presides over the great telescopes and their adjuncts, in the quaint-looking towers where the motions of celestial bodies are constantly noted; while the Magnetic Observatory, with the apparatus for detecting and recording meteorological phenomena, as well as that belonging to the earth-currents of magnetic force, and that for indicating the temperature, under the superintendence of Mr. W. Ellis, occupy separate places. The sidereal clock, and the clock that gives the mean time of day, by electric wires, to the General Post Office and to several distant offices in Great Britain, are dependent, of course, upon the principal astronomical establishment.



In a cylinder-shaped building, that has the outside look of a huge barrel, standing upright, with the rim of its upper end somewhat expanded above the round sides, the Great Equatorial Telescope has been erected since the year 1847. The Illustration we now present shows the manner in which this noble instrument is used. It is suspended in the "transit circle," forming the upper part of the chamber; which part, opening at the top, moves by regulated clockwork, in conformity with the diurnal apparent movement of the heavenly bodies through the sky, going round in twenty-four hours, so as to follow their course, that the telescope may not lose sight of the object pointed at. There is a small platform, or rather series of rising platforms, upon any part of which the reclining couch of the observer, to be raised or lowered at pleasure, can be placed for his convenience, in order that he may lie back, without bodily fatigue, and look upwards into the sky, at whatever angle of inclination the telescope has to be fixed. Its position can be shifted in a moment, at his will, by the proper use of the handles, acting upon the mechanism that governs it with such nice precision as to enable him to hit the smallest perceptible point in the field of remote space. The telescope itself is 26 ft. long; and, though some are far more powerful, few are more completely mounted, or more suitably provided for their special work.

THE BASUTO WAR.

The South African problem, which may be regarded as one of the greatest difficulties, after the Irish and the Eastern problems, that British statesmen have now to deal with, is far from having been settled by the Zulu War, as Sir Bartle Frere's admirers professed to believe. Its worst feature, as Earl Grey well shows in this month's Nineteenth Century, is that a small community of European colonists should have been allowed to assume dominion over an enormously greater number of different native tribes, covering a vast extent of outer territories, and very remote from the colonial seat of government. The military forces of England can no longer be made available for the purposes of the Capetown Ministry, Sir Bartle Frere being recalled, and the Transvaal and Natal administrations having enough to with the care of their own provinces. Mr. Gordon Sprigg, who was placed in office by the arbitrary and unconstitutional act of the late Governor, summarily dismissing his predecessor, Mr. Molteno, the Minister then enjoying Parliamentary confidence, has plunged into a fresh war, probably leading to a series of wars, for which the colonial forces seem to be quite insufficient. The attempt to enforce the disarmament of the Basutos, loyal subjects and serviceable allies of Government in former wars, had been strongly disapproved by Sir Garnet Wolseley, as well as by the Queen's Government in England. It was persisted in, apparently, with a view to provoke this conflict, and to furnish a political pretext for the confiscation of more of the native lands.

One of the chief incidents of the recent desultory and inconclusive campaign was the capture by the Basutos, on Oct. 10, of the frontier settlement of Maseru, which is situated on the Caledon river, in Basutoland, on the frontier of the Orange River Dutch Republic. The Residency at Maseru, the abode of Commandant Griffith, appointed to act as civil magistrate among the natives, together with Fort Gordon and the retail trade stores of Messrs. Irvine and Co., did not fall into the enemy's hands. The church and school-house, with the schoolmaster's house, and other buildings of English

Digitized by Google

NIGHT WORK AT GREENWICH OBSERVATORY: THE GREAT EQUATORIAL TELESCOPE.

Digitized by Google

settlers or traders, were burnt by the Basutos in the night after they got possession. It was impossible to defend them, as their site is commanded by a rocky plateau, about 400 yards long and 1000 yards broad, rising close behind. The garrison has since been relieved, and the place reoccupied, after some fighting, by a portion of the forces under command of Colonel Bayly. We present, on our front page, three Illustrations of Maseru, the Basuto attack, and the burning of the church and school-house, from Sketches by Mr. J. N. Hodson.

On the other hand, the storming by the Colonial troops of a village which was the residence of Lerothodi, son of Masupha, the chief leader of the hostile Basutos, is the subject of our Extra Supplement large Engraving. This place is a few miles distant from Mafeteng, where a small colonial garrison had successfully held out against previous hostile attacks. It was on Friday, Oct. 22, that Lerothodi's village was captured after a sharp fight in the open field; the troops engaged were Cape Mounted Rifles (a newly raised colonial corps, not to be confounded with the old regiment of the same name); the Capetown Rifle Volunteers (Duke of Edinburgh's Corps); a few of the Port Elizabeth Volunteer Rifles, and some Mounted Yeomanry; with one seven-pounder gun. One man killed on their side, and half a dozen wounded, against two hundred and fifty of the Basutos killed and disabled, was the estimate of losses respectively; but the Basutos were entirely defeated and put to flight. Our Illustration is from a Sketch by Bugler Long, of the Capetown Volunteers, forwarded to us by Mr. Dennis Edwards, of Capetown.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

A'sop, Arthur R., to be Vicar of Acton Trussell and Bednall.
Batty, George Staunton; Vicar of North Mymms, Hatfield, Herts.
Black, Charles N.; Incumbent of St. James's, Aberdeen.
Blackburne, Henry J.; Honorary Canon of Chester Cathedral.
Blakiston, Robert; Organising Secretary to the Additional Curates Society
Boys, Archdeacon; Vicar of Hildenborough, near Tonbridge.
Bush, Robert Wheeler; Rector of St. Alphage, London-wall.
for the Dioceses of Canterbury, Winchester, and Chichester.
Bushby, W. B.; Canon of St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh.
Crozier, J. A.; Vicar of Weston, near Crewe.
Danks, G. W.; Vicar of Morton, Gainsborough.
Deakin, Kedinge Addison; Perpetual Curate of Cofton Hacket.
Dudley, William Dudley Waddell; Vicar of St. Stephen's, Herts.
Edwards, E. S; Vicar of Misterton, near Crewkerne, Somerset.
Evans, Edward Muirhead; Vicar of Sandgate.
Evans, J. L.; Incumbent of St. Peter's Church, Peebles.
Fleming, James Atkinson Bulman; Rector of St. Peter's, Rockland, Norwich.
Fountaine, J.; Chaplain of the Bristol City and County Lunatic Asylum.
Gillam, John; Rector of Chelmsworth, Suffolk.
Goody, C. J.; Curate of St. Marylebone; Vicar of Whetstone.
Green, F. C.; Vicar of All Saints', Denmead, near Horndean, Hants.
Greenhow, Edward; Vicar of North Gosforth, near Newcastle-on-Tyne.
Harris, Evan; Incumbent of Christ Church, Pendlebury.
Hill, Walter Blachford; Rector of Chettle, Dorset.
Hill, W. A.; Vicar of St. Andrew and St. Mary Magdalen, Maidenhead.
Hill, Geoffry; Curate of St. John's-the-Evangelist, Edinburgh.
Houblon, T. H. A; Vicar of Peasemore; Vicar of Wantage.
Hutchinson, C. R.; Vicar of Pilstone; Vicar of Eddlesborough, Bucks.
Johnson, John Allen; Rector of New Radnor.
Kearney, T. N.; Vicar of Throwley, near Faversham.
Little, Sydney H.; Organising Secretary to the Additional Curates Society for the Dioceses of London, St. Alban's, and Rochester.
Matthews, James; Archdeacon of Warwick.
Moore, Henry Dawson; Domestic Chaplain to his Grace the Duke of Leeds.
Mould, Francis Thomas; Rector of Quenington.
Powell, T.; Curate of Probus, Cornwall; Vicar of Ramsgill, Yorks.
Rand, Edgar Henry; Vicar of St. Michael's, Buslingthorpe, Leeds.
Ranken, Arthur; Dean of the United Diocese.
Robinson, Arthur J.; Rector of Whitechapel.
Silver, Edgar; Vicar of Highfield (Portswood), Southampton.
St. John, F.; Vicar of Kempsford, near Fairford
Smith, John; Vicar of Lyme Regis, Dorset.
Stormonth, J.; Assistant-Curate of St. John-the-Evangelist's, Edinburgh.
Swan, Richard; Vicar of West Peckham, near Tonbridge.
Thomas, Henry; General Preacher in the Diocese of Chichester.
Tindall, R. Abbey; Rector of Cowden, near Edenbridge, Kent.
Tufnell, Frederick; Rector of Fryerning.
Warman, J. S.; Vicar of Blackmoor, Alton, Hants.
Whitting, William Henry, Rector of Stower Provost; Rural Dean of the First Portion of the Deanery of Shaftesbury.—Guardian.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London and most of the Bishops of England and Wales met on Tuesday at London House, St. James's-square, and sat for several hours. The Archbishop of York was unavoidably absent, being at Biarritz for his health.

The Duke of Devonshire presided at a meeting held at Derby on the 2nd inst., in support of the objects of the Lichfield Diocesan Church Extension Society. His Grace advocated the erection of mission churches and the provision of increased help in the shape of lay agency. Afterwards his Grace gave £1000, the Marquis of Hartington £200, and Mr. R. S. Sitwell £250 towards the objects of the society.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has written a letter in support of an appeal for funds made on behalf of the National Society, which has now for seventy years been endeavouring to promote the religious education of the people in the principles of the Church of England. Two millions of children are already under instruction through its instrumentality.

The Church of St. Faith, Overbury, which has been recently restored, has been presented with five stained-glass windows. Four of these, the gift of Mr. John Martin, have been designed and executed by Messrs. Burlison and Grylls; and the fifth, given by the late Miss Penelope Whitcombe, is by Messrs. Heaton, Butler, and Bayne. An oak eagle lectern, from the studio of Messrs. Keith, has been given to St. Margaret's, Alston, in the parish of Overbury, by Miss Levett, who has also presented the same church with a turret clock, manufactured by Messrs. Howlett. The east window of East Garston, Berks, has been filled with stained glass by Messrs. Lavers, Barraud, and Westlake. Along the base is the inscription:—"To the honour of God and in memory of all the saints this window is dedicated by Martha Gray (born Palmer), aged ninety-one."

Sir Theodore Martin has been elected Lord Rector of St. Andrew's by 113 votes against 68 given to Mr. E. A. Freeman.

A meeting of the Convocation of the new Victoria University was held at Owens College yesterday week—Dr. Greenwood presiding. A resolution was received from the associates of the college, expressing their gratification at the creation of the University, and pledging themselves to perform their part in maintaining the welfare, dignity, and fame of the University and promoting its objects. Standing orders for the regulation of the proceedings of Convocation were adopted, and the Rev. C. J. Poynting was appointed clerk.

Some singular statements were made yesterday week at Bow-street in the case of the alleged fraud by Spiritualists. The prosecutrix, Mrs. Hart-Davies, is said to have been persuaded by Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher that they had received messages from the spirit of her deceased mother, and one of these messages was that Mrs. Davies should give all her valuables to the Fletchers, which she did, thus disposing of diamonds, sapphires, pearls, plate, and lace, worth about £1000. The Fletchers took her with them to America, where Mrs. Davies found she had been duped. Mrs. Fletcher was apprehended at Greenock, brought before Mr. Flowers yesterday week, and remanded for a week.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Dec. 7.

During the past week the tout Paris of the theatres has been busily engaged almost every night. On Wednesday "La Korrigane," a new ballet by François Coppée and Widor, was produced at the Opera; on Friday a comedy by Edmond Gondinet, "Les Braves Gens," was played at the Gymnase; on Saturday Auguste Vacquerie's piece, "Jean Baudry," was revived at the Comédie Française; on Monday a new comedy by Sardou was brought out at the Palais Royal; and to-night "Rataplan" will be played at the Variétés, while the Comédie Française will resume its aristocratic subscription "Tuesdays," which are frequented by the old subscribers to the now vanished Italian Opera. In this list of novelties there is only one failure—namely, the "Braves Gens" at the Gymnase. The new ballet at the Opera is charming, and Sardou's new comedy is one of the gayest and cleverest pieces that has been played on the French stage for many years. Its title is "Divorçons!" The success of the piece last night was immense and unquestioned. Having been written for the Palais Royal, the comedy contains some mots which an English audience would find somewhat highly seasoned. Report says that M. Sardou wrote most of the piece while he was preparing his discourse on the Monthyon prizes for virtue. The seriousness of this speech made it necessary for him to dilate his spleen beyond measure, hence the high pressure gaiety of "Divorçons!"

Apropos of "Divorçons!" the third act of which passes in a private room of a restaurant, it may be noticed for the benefit of the future historian of French manners that people of fashion in Paris no longer dine at a restaurant. The word "restaurant" is vulgar and bad tone. Nowadays, on dine au cabaret. Bignon, Vachette, and the Maison d'Or . . . cabarets! Qu'on se le dise.

The Parliament has been tranquil and industrious during the past week. The Senate has been voting the Budget, and the Chamber, besides transacting much important business, has begun the debate on the bill for making primary instruction in France compulsory and secular. No measure could be more needful, for in France at the present moment there are some 600,000 children who receive no instruction whatever. Nevertheless, it may be expected that the bill will be violently opposed by the clerical party. Two Parliamentary Committees of Inquiry have been sitting during the past few days; one to examine the affair of Lieutenant Marcerou, the brutal commander of the Prison des Chantiers at Versailles during the Commune, the other to inquire into the affair of General de Cissey. Both these inquiries, it may be remembered, have been necessitated by the incessant charges of the returned Communists. As far as can be seen at present, the accusers have not been very successful in proving their charges.

A Japanese funeral is a novelty to the Parisians. The craze for Japanese silks, Japanese porcelain, Japanese bibelots has long been at its height in Paris. Only a few weeks ago a prominent blue-stocking invited tout Paris to a conference on the Japanese stage, which was illustrated in her salon by an ingenious draughtsman. The Parisians, with their traditional consciousness and admiration of their own merit, have christened the Japanese "the Parisians of the East." In short, there is a strong current of sympathy between the Parisians and the Japanese. You may imagine, then, the excitement in the section of society known as tout Paris when it was announced that M. Sameshima (Jushie-Naonobou), the little Japanese Ambassador, was dead. The little gentleman, who died last Saturday of a pulmonary malady, at the age of thirty-seven, was very popular amongst his diplomatic colleagues, and his receptions were highly esteemed. He had, indeed, with the singular facility of his race, become thoroughly Europeanised. The funeral took place this morning at ten o'clock, in the presence of tout Paris. That was a matter of course. Tout Paris is sympathetic and good-hearted, but curious, excessively curious. According to the Japanese custom, only men had been invited to the funeral, but the feminine element of tout Paris protested, and at the last moment about a hundred invitations were sent out to ladies. The crowd which assembled to see the funeral was immense. The Japanese custom is to use scarlet drapery for funerals. The Paris "Pompes Funèbres," admirably organised as it is, could not provide hangings of this colour, and so the Embassy in the Avenue Marceau was hung with black. Instead of a chapelle ardente a champ mortuaire was arranged, with a profusion of shrubs, flowers, trees, and Japanese lanterns. The funeral procession was more European than Japanese. There was a hearse, drawn by six horses, and the pall-bearers were the German, Spanish, Belgian, and Swiss Ambassadors. The body was buried in Montparnasse cemetery. Before the coffin was lowered into the vault, all the Japanese passed before it, bowed, and threw leaves on it. This touching farewell ceremony excited the liveliest curiosity amongst the Europeans present.

Sarah Bernhardt has been described as the "best advertised woman in the world." At the present moment she has a formidable rival in M. Ferdinand de Lesseps, the hero of Suez and Panama. The issue of the Panama Canal shares is accompanied with a beating of drums, almost unparalleled in the history even of French advertising. You cannot take up a French newspaper without finding a long panegyric of M. de Lesseps, of Madame de Lesseps, and all the little Lesseps, the last-born of which was baptised last Sunday, by the Bishop of Panama, and who, with unheard-of precocity, already pronounces the words papa-nama. If M. de Lesseps goes to the theatre all eyes, say the journals, are fixed not on the stage, but on the pioneer of Panama. The Parisian press, as is well known, is, with few exceptions, far from incorruptible; on the contrary, it is very partial to timely gifts of fully-paid-up shares. But the present outburst of "puffing" is really phenomenal. One financial company has hit upon a very new idea to coax subscribers. It offers gold, silver, and bronze medals to all who subscribe for their Panama shares at its offices. If the speculating joint-stock mania continues much longer, every house in Paris will have to have its own bank, just as it now has its door-porter. T. C.

The following communication from the Inland Revenue Office will set at rest a question relating to the income tax, which has been receiving some discussion recently:—"Sir,—I am directed by the Board of Inland Revenue to inform you that, in the case of chief rents, if income tax at the rate of 5d. in the pound only was deducted in respect of the quarter ended June, 1880, the Act 43 and 44 Vic., cap. xx. (the Inland Revenue Act, 1880), sec. 51 provides that the duty shall be deemed to be payable at the rate of 5d. in the pound for the quarter to Michaelmas, and at the rate of 7d. in the pound for the other half year. It follows that, as a payment for the half year to Christmas, 1880, will comprise one quarter at 5d. and one quarter at 7d., the deduction will be at 6d. in the pound on the whole, and that 7d. in the pound will have to be deducted in respect of the quarter to Lady Day, 1881. (Signed) FRED. B. GARNET.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

The Chamber of Deputies has been discussing the budget of the Ministry of Agriculture. In the course of the debate Signor Toscanelli, the distinguished entomologist, declared that American mildew was more destructive to vines than phylloxera, and that it had spread very considerably in Italy. The Estimates of the Ministry of the Interior were approved on Tuesday.

SPAIN.

The Princess of the Asturias, eldest sister of the King, while out with the Madrid Hunt Club on Sunday, was thrown from her saddle by the horse stumbling in a rabbit-hole. She fell on her head and sustained a considerable bruise, but she remounted after her hurt had been dressed, and took part in the chase during the whole afternoon. The same evening the Princess went to the Italian Opera, and on Monday was reported to be doing well.

King Alfonso has signed a decree convoking the Cortes for Dec. 30.

Owing to the heavy fall of rain, serious floods have occurred in Malaga. Two persons have been killed by lightning.

GERMANY.

The German Empress has arrived at Berlin from Coblentz.

The Census of the German Empire was taken on the 1st inst.

The German army and navy estimates demand considerably enlarged credits, the increase of the navy amounting to 3,000,000 marks.

The anti-Jewish agitation continues in Prussia.

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says that the Duke of Brunswick has greatly displeased the Prussian Court by sending a congratulatory telegram to the partisans of the Duke of Cumberland, who celebrated in Hanover last week the birth of a son and heir of the family.

The German Academy of Architecture has declined to take in hand the completion of the Cathedral of Strasbourg. This resolution was arrived at after five hours of animated debate.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY.

The King has accepted the resignation of Dr. Forssell, the Minister of Finance. Count Posse assumes the portfolio of Finance in addition to his present office of Minister of State. M. Themptander, one of the chiefs of department, will be appointed Councillor of State with a consultative voice.

SWITZERLAND.

M. Anderwert, of Thurgau, has been elected President, and M. Droz Vice-President, of the Confederation.

The greater part of the village of Flasch, in the Engadine, was burnt down on Sunday.

HOLLAND.

The First Chamber has unanimously voted the East Indian Budget for 1881. The Second Chamber discussed on Tuesday the Foreign Affairs Estimates.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

In the sitting of the Lower House of the Austrian Reichsrath on the 2nd inst. the Government introduced a bill for the construction of a railway through the Bosna Valley from Sienica to Serajevo, a bill approving the treaty of commerce with Spain, and bills authorising the continued levying of the taxes until the end of next March, and the issue of paper rente to the amount of 14,500,000 fl. In last Saturday's sitting, a motion of Herr Wurmbrand to declare German to be the language of the State was referred to a Committee. A motion of Dr. Herbst for the appointment of a Committee to examine the ordinance relative to the language to be employed in official matters was also referred to a Committee.

In last Saturday's sitting of the Lower House of the Hungarian Diet the financial law of 1881 was adopted, though both groups of the Opposition voted against it.

A fresh violent shock of earthquake, lasting two seconds, occurred in Agram on Tuesday night. Subterranean rumblings followed the shock, and continued to be heard throughout the night. As on the last occasion, the shock was accompanied by distant storms and preceded by a slight vibration.

RUSSIA.

The Emperor arrived at St. Petersburg yesterday week. As usual, he made a brief stay at the Kasan Cathedral, and then drove in a close carriage to the Winter Palace. He was met at the railway station by the Cesarewitch and Cesarevna, and the Ministers, and on alighting was received with cheers.

An Imperial ukase has been issued, which abolishes the salt tax, an impost that yielded sixteen millions of roubles.

TURKEY.

All the Powers having agreed to the proposal of her Majesty's Government that the fleets assembled at Cattaro should separate after mutually intercommunicating their respective destinations, the Times and Daily News state that Admiral Seymour received orders to give the signal to part company. The British ships were the first to leave, and they were saluted with fifteen guns by every vessel. The Austrian squadron and the German ship Victoria formed an escort of honour to the British Admiral's ship. The French, Italian, and Russian vessels followed.

The International Commission of English, Russian, and Italian engineers have decided that the fortified position of San Giorgio is to remain in Turkish hands.

Instructions have been received from their respective Governments by the Ambassadors to the Porte of France, Germany, and Austria, to urge the Ottoman Government to act with prudence and reserve in regard to the Greek question, and to intimate, at the same time, that similar representations have been addressed to the Greek Government.

GREECE.

It appears from the statement presented to the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday last that there will be a deficit in the finances of next year of about two millions and a quarter sterling, which is to be covered by loans. In reply to the comments of the Opposition, M. Coumoundouros appealed to members to cease recriminations, the country being now on the eve of a supreme crisis. The Premier, speaking in Sunday's sitting, stated that the Government intended to continue the military and naval preparations, so as to be able to execute the decisions arrived at by the Berlin Conference; at the same time, he would endeavour to attain this object with the help of the European Concert, but would, in every case, reserve his liberty of action.

AMERICA.

The session of the United States Congress opened on Monday, and the President's Message and the annual Ministerial reports were presented. The President strongly urges civil service reform, including the adoption of fixed rules for appointments and dismissals, recommends the creation of a commission to organise a system of competitive examinations, denounces the doctrine that to the victor belongs the spoils, and advocates a divorce between the power of Congress and that of the Executive. The President also dwells upon General Grant's great military services, and advises Congress to authorise his appointment as Captain-General of the Army.

Digitized by Google

On Tuesday, the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives unanimously authorized their chairman to amend the refunding Bill now before Congress by inserting 3 per cent wherever the words three-and-a-half per cent occur, the committee believing that the time has arrived when three per cent bonds can be floated at par.

The electoral colleges of the various States of America met in their respective capitals on the 1st inst., and formally voted in accordance with the results of the elections on Nov. 2. The ballots are to be sent in to Washington and counted in the presence of the Congress on Jan. 5. General Garfield has 214 votes, and Mr. Hancock 155.

Mr. Sherman, the Secretary of the Treasury, announces that the interest on the registered Six per Cent Bonds, due on Dec. 31, will be paid, together with the bonds, on presentation for redemption. None of that interest will be paid on schedules.

Signor Salvini made his first appearance in the United States, after seven years' absence, at Philadelphia last week, playing Othello on Monday and Hamlet on Wednesday, at the Arch Street Theatre. The Times correspondent says that crowded audiences attended Signor Salvini's performances, and his acting is warmly praised by the American newspaper critics. He plays in Italian, and is supported by a strong American company, who play in English. Signor Salvini was on Thursday week entertained at dinner by the Thursday Club, the social organisation of the Philadelphia journalists. Signor Salvini will continue his performances at Philadelphia next week, after which he will succeed Mdlle. Sarah Bernhardt at Booth's Theatre in New York.

CANADA.

During the five months ending in November last the revenue of the Dominion was 12,000,000 dols., and the expenditure 9,114,000 dols.

A large meeting was held at Halifax yesterday week to consider the question of a winter port, and a resolution was unanimously adopted urging the Dominion Government to give its favourable attention to the matter.

Sixty men belonging to section B of the Canada Pacific Railway have struck in consequence of a reduction of wages.

INDIA.

Telegrams from Bombay announce that the Marquis of Ripon has been suffering from fever, and that his departure for Calcutta, which was fixed for Saturday, had to be postponed until the day following. The Viceroy arrived at Allahabad on Tuesday last, where he was detained by indisposition, arising from an attack of sunstroke. He met with a cordial reception at Poonah on the 2nd, and in the course of a speech which he delivered said India wanted peace and rest in order to devote herself to the improvement of her agriculture and commerce. All the officials are already at Calcutta, except the President of the Council and the Foreign and Military Secretaries. Colonel Chesney, the newly-appointed Military Secretary, arrived at Bombay on Wednesday and at once assumed his office.

The official weather and crop reports for the week ending the 30th ult. described the prospects throughout the empire as, on the whole, good.

Sir John Strachey left Simla on Tuesday, and sails for England on Christmas Day.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

The annual distribution of prizes to the St. George's Corps, Colonel the Hon. C. H. Lindsay's "command," was made before a distinguished company yesterday week at Willis's Rooms. The commanding officer, in making the usual address, congratulated the regiment upon the completion of the twenty-first year of the force. He had greater satisfaction in addressing the regiment on this occasion than he usually had, inasmuch as he believed that it was now in a more healthy condition than it had been for years. The non-efficients had been struck off, and yet the strength of the regiment had been fully maintained, and financially it had improved, notwithstanding that all subscriptions for efficients had been abolished. Then the social pleasures of the members had been considered in the establishment of a club, which would be the means of cementing the old members to the corps in which they had passed their earlier years. The chief winners of the prizes were Private E. Torr, Captain J. B. Johnson, Private D. Milbank, Private Dakin, Private Atkinson, Quartermaster R. Andrews, and the winner of the three-starred badge as "best shot" was Private G. Rosenthall. A ball was afterwards held.

The same evening the Lord Mayor presided at Guildhall at the annual distribution of the prizes awarded for proficiency in shooting, drill, and engineering, to the 1st London Engineers. Lieutenant-Colonel Drew, the commanding officer, said he had to congratulate the corps on the marked success which had attended its efforts during the past year, their numbers, in the first place, having increased from 448 to 513, while their muster at the annual inspection was the largest ever attained on any similar occasion. Of these 513 on Oct. 31 last, 497 were efficient, which was an increase of 83 over their previous return. The prizes were then distributed by the Lord Mayor; Corporal Hazell and Sergeants Lay and Potter receiving those for engineering. Quartermaster-Sergeant Peek and Company Sergeant-Major Collins divided for the best models. Sapper A. J. Kirkup is the best shot in the battalion for the year, and, besides, the badge and three stars, received a silver cup. The other principal winners were Sergeant Belville, Sergeant Coredon, Sapper Noakes, Corporal Bailey, Sergeant-Major Johnson, R.E., and Corporal Uttridge, R.E. The Lord Mayor, having made some genial remarks, presented a handsome piece of plate to Major L'Aker on his retirement—a gift, he said, from the regiment, which expressed both its regret and esteem.

Lord Ranelagh presided last Saturday evening at the annual distribution of prizes to the members of the South Middlesex at the head-quarters of the regiment, Beaufort House, Walham-green. His Lordship, in opening the proceedings, said that everything in connection with the regiment had been in the most satisfactory condition during the past year. In every branch there had been an improvement, the efficients having risen from 750 to 759, the proficients from 95 to 96, and the marksmen from 58 to 66. Sergeant R. Pullman (G.M.) won Lord Ranelagh's prize for the best aggregate score and the championship of the regiment. Corporal Bird took the badge and three stars for "best shot" of the battalion, and other chief winners were Corporal T. Pullman, Lieutenant C. E. Cresswell, Sergeant A. Goodban, and Quartermaster-Sergeant Bacchus. The ceremony was followed by a ball in the large drill-hall.

Last Sunday there was a large muster of the 1st Surrey Volunteer Artillery, commanded by the Duke of Teck and Colonel Hope, at the morning service at Westminster Abbey. The sermon was preached by Dean Stanley.

Mr. Ritchie, M.P., presided on Monday night, at the Shoreditch Townhall, at the annual distribution of prizes to the Tower Hamlets Rifle Brigade. Lieut.-Colonel Wigram said, the regiment had never been in a better state since its formation. The enrolled strength had advanced from 849 to 903, and the efficients from 751 to 884, Sergeant J. Sage received the first of the battalion prizes. The Holmes, Hoxton, Clapton, and Philharmonic cups followed. The first of Lieut.-Colonel Holt's prizes for efficiency was awarded to Captain Bennett's (M) Company for 112 efficients out of 116, and the same company took the Thomson Memorial Shield. The regimental cup was awarded to Sergeant J. Sage. There are 30 marksmen, the holder of the rifle and three stars badge being Colour-Sergeant Costin.

The Hon. Mrs. Loyd-Lindsay presented the prizes to the winners of the Hon. Artillery Company on Thursday evening.

The National Rifle Association have issued the details of their scheme for the prevention in future of fraudulent practices at Wimbledon. These consist in the adoption of a little more secrecy in the appointment of markers to butts; and in the squadding of competitors. For the future, all the markers will be changed at mid-day.

MUSIC.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

The specialty of last week—occurring too late for notice until now—was the first performance during this season of Verdi's "Aïda," which was given with the same splendour of scenery and costume as on previous occasions at this establishment; an important repeated feature in the cast having been the Amneris of Madame Trebelli, in which character this excellent artist again sang with special dramatic power. Signor Runcio's Radames was an improvement on his previous performance (last season) in the part, the music of which he gave with great effect. The Aïda of Madame Zacchi displayed similar merits to those which have been recognised in other instances; her best effects having been produced in the most declamatory portions of the music; as in the duet with Amneris, in the second act, the great scene with Amonasro in the third act, and the final duet with Radames in the last act. Signor Aldighieri's Amonasro was a fine performance throughout, vocally and dramatically. He was dignified without being stilted, and fierce without rant—his delivery of the music of the part having been excellent in quality of voice and artistic style. Mr. Barrington Foote (Signor Franceschi) sang well as the King, and Signor Ordinas, as Ramfis, might have sung better than he did. The opera, with some curtailment, was given again on Saturday afternoon, when Signor Vizzani sustained, with efficiency, the part of Radames. Signor Tito Mattei's "Maria di Gand" was announced for the fourth time on Monday, and on Tuesday a repetition of "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was substituted for the promised performance of "Don Giovanni."

Of the production of Wallace's "Maritana," for the first time in an Italian version, with recitatives in lieu of dialogue (postponed to Thursday), we must speak next week. This will be the last specialty of the season, which is to close this (Saturday) evening.

The performance of "Elijah" by the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society on Thursday week, although a very fine one, calls for only brief notice. The specialty (but no novelty) was the admirable singing of Madame Albani in the principal soprano music, including the Widow's share in the great scene with the Prophet; the air, "Hear ye, Israel," and the leading part in the trio, "Lift thine eyes." Miss Annie Sinclair was a satisfactory second soprano, and the contralto music was divided between Madame Antoinette Sterling and Miss Damian, these ladies having been encored, respectively, in "O rest in the Lord," and "Woe unto them." Mr. V. Rigby gave the tenor solo music as often before—and Mr. Ludwig sang that of the Prophet, in which he was scarcely so successful as in his dramatic performances. Mr. Barnby conducted, and Dr. Stainer presided at the organ—as usual.

We have already drawn attention to the removal of the performances of the Sacred Harmonic Society from Exeter Hall; and the opening of its forty-ninth season at St. James's Hall yesterday (Friday) week. The programme, although a familiar one, was of high and varied interest. The concert began with the first of the two Masses of Beethoven—that in C—and was followed by Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," adapted to English words as "Praise Jehovah." These fine works were grandly rendered; the solos in each having been well sung by Mrs. Osgood, Miss Hancock, Mr. H. Guy, and Mr. F. King. The programme closed with the few completed portions of Mendelssohn's unfinished oratorio, "Christus," which, had he lived, would doubtless have formed a worthy companion to his "St. Paul" and "Elijah." The solo portions in this were efficiently rendered by Mrs. Osgood, Mr. Guy, Mr. F. King, and Mr. C. Henry. The chorus-singing was generally good throughout the evening, the reduction of numbers having apparently led to judicious selection. The orchestra is, as before, excellent, including a large number of the best players, with M. Sainton as principal first violin. Sir Michael Costa continues to exercise the office of conductor, as since the year 1848; and Mr. Willing is still the organist.

At the Saturday afternoon Popular Concert Madame Norman-Néruda made her first appearance this season. The accomplished lady violinist led Schumann's quartet in A minor, and played a sonata by Rüst with her usual refinement. Miss Zimmermann introduced Chopin's "Rondo alla Mazur," for piano solo, with much success, and was also heard in Rheinberger's pianoforte quartet. Mr. Santley contributed well-known vocal pieces with great effect. Madame Néruda was again announced for Monday evening's concert, with the same coadjutors in the string quartet party—Mr. L. Ries, Mr. Zerbini, and Signor Piatti—Mdlle. Janotha being the solo pianist, Mr. F. King the vocalist, and Mr. Zerbini (as usual) the accompanist.

The third of the Saturday evening orchestral concerts at St. James's Hall—conducted by Mr. F. H. Cowen—took place last week, when the programme included the first performance here of a Pianoforte Concerto in D major, by Mozart (composed in 1784), Wagner's altered and extended version of the Venusberg music in his "Tannhauser," and a new violin concerto, by Mr. A. H. Jackson. The calm, melodious beauty, and coherent thought of Mozart's music threw into painful contrast the prevailing coarse turbulence of that by Wagner. Mr. Jackson's concerto is rather the ambitious and crude essay of a young student than a composition, properly so called. It received every advantage in M. Sainton's skilful execution of the many difficulties of the solo part, the pianoforte concerto having also been effectively played by Miss Bessie Richards. Vocal pieces were well rendered by Miss M. Davies and Miss Orridge; these and other items of the programme not calling for specific mention.

The greater portion of Spohr's oratorio, "The Last Judgment," was given at St. Paul's Cathedral, in a special Advent service, on Tuesday evening. The important and essential co-operation of an orchestra was dispensed with, the accompaniments having been skilfully rendered on the organ by Dr. Stainer. The choral movements were well sung, as was most of the solo music, the principal soloists having been Masters Whittle and Richardson, and Messrs. Kenningham and Kempton.

Mr. Aptommas, the well-known harpist, gave a recital at Steinway Hall on Tuesday afternoon; the third London Ballad concert of the new season took place at St. James's Hall on Wednesday evening; on the following evening the concert of the students of Madame Arabella Goddard's Pianoforte Academy was held at Steinway Hall; and at the same time an attractive concert was given at St. James's Hall, in aid of the funds of the Post Office Orphan Home.

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

"Music and Musicians: Essays and Criticisms," by Robert Schumann (Reeves). This is a second series of papers by one who was not only a great composer, but also an acute, yet genial, critic. The contents comprise articles on Danish and German opera, symphonies, overtures, and various forms of chamber music, in all which the writer's critical acumen and musical taste are abundantly evidenced. The volume is, like its predecessor, translated, edited, and annotated by Fanny Raymond Ritter, who has performed her task with appreciative judgment and skill, and has furnished a sensible preface to the book.

"Henry Smart: his Life and Works," by William Spark (Reeves). Dr. Spark (organist of the Townhall, Leeds) has here given a copious biography of the excellent English musician, who died in the summer of last year. The volume—written by an appreciative friend, who is also an eminent musician—gives a full account of Smart's early career and progress, of his remarkable powers as a performer on the organ (extempore or otherwise), and of his works in nearly every form of composition, the list of which occupies upwards of twenty pages. Many of these are ably commented on and analysed by Dr. Spark, illustrated by quotations in music type. Among the most important of Smart's works may be specified one opera completed, "Berta; or, the Gnome of Hartsberg" (performed at the Haymarket Theatre about twenty-five years ago); two unfinished operas, "The Siege of Calais" and "Undine;" and his cantatas, "The Bride of Dunkerron" and "King René's Daughter." His innumerable vocal compositions, songs, duets, trios, &c., will long continue in vogue where refined melody and graceful style are appreciated. In the list of Smart's productions given at the end of the volume, and believed by Dr. Spark to be complete, there is one omission—the "Echo" song, composed by Mr. Smart to lines written by J. Latey (with illustrations by S. Read), which appeared in our Christmas Number for 1869.

"Templeton and Malibran" (Reeves). This small volume consists of reminiscences of two stage vocalists who obtained a wide celebrity during the earlier half of the present century, the career of each being traced from its commencement. Anecdotes, letters, and newspaper critiques are interspersed; and three authentic photographic portraits are given—two of Mr. Templeton (in 1868 and 1879), and one of Madame Malibran, taken, apparently, not long before her death, in 1836.

Signor Ciro Pinsuti's successful songs, "The Linnet's Answer," "The Bugler," "Good Speed and Welcome," and "In the Sweet of the Year," are issued by Mr. Williams, of Paternoster-row, in various keys, so as to suit voices of any compass or register.

From Messrs. Ashdown and Parry we have "To the Clouds," song, by J. W. Elliott, the melody of which is agreeable and flowing, and would especially suit a mezzo-soprano or contralto voice. The same publishers also issue "In the Spring," two pleasing impromptus for the pianoforte, by J. Weingaertner, and "Hommage à Mozart," by J. B. Calkin, a pianoforte duet, which will interest young performers.

"Trois Morceaux de Salon pour Violon et Piano," par Aloys Kettenus (Forsyth Brothers) are headed respectively "Tyrolienne," "Mélodie," and "Sicilienne." They are well written for the violin, which has the prominent part—and of which instrument Mr. Kettenus is an eminent professor—and will enable performers of moderate skill to make a good show of execution. "Vilanelle," for the same instruments, by the same composer, is a cleverly written "canon," in which a prominent theme is skilfully varied.

"Suite de Pièces," by H. Stiehl (Goddard and Co.) consists of ten easy and melodious little movements for the pianoforte, which will not only interest young students, but will also afford improving practice. The same publishers have brought out "A Wrist and Finger Exercise in a Single Study," by A. Buhl. In the compass of five pages only there are exercises on some of the principal difficulties of pianoforte playing, the diligent practice of which cannot fail to lead to improvement.

The great success of Signor Boïto's opera "Mefistofele" (brought out by Mr. Mapleson at Her Majesty's Theatre last July) has led not only to the publication of separate numbers of the vocal music, but also to pianoforte arrangements in the shape of dance pieces: a "Waltz," "Mazurka," "Polka," "Quadrille," and "Galop" having been issued by the publishers, Messrs. Ricordi, of Milan and London.

A PEAT BOG IN SCOTLAND.

In this drawing by J. M. W. Turner, from the "Liber Studiorum," those who are familiar with the south-western part of Scotland, where tracts of "moss" frequently occur, as on the shores of the Solway, and in some inland districts at the foot of the mountains, will no doubt be struck by the force and truth of his delineation of the effect here represented. It is that of the sudden termination of a storm, when the masses of black cloud, still raining heavily, withdraw, all together, to the left-hand side, falling back on the mountains; while a double rainbow is thrown up by the declining sun; the dark masses beyond, as yet indistinctly looming to the vision, through huge wreaths and sheets of vapour, have a weird sublimity that is most impressive. The peat bog itself, lying in a perfect level to the right hand, sets off by its horizontal lines the mighty dome-like forms of the upper mountains, as well as the sweep of bare, bleak, rising moorland that ascends directly opposite the spectator. A plough, attended by a man and woman dressed in tartan plaid, and two other figures of peasantry, are seen in the foreground.

A new wing at the Soldiers' Daughters' Home, Hampstead, was opened yesterday week, in the presence of a number of the friends of the charity. General Sir Edward Hodge, who presided, said that this institution was founded in 1855, and the opening ceremony performed by the late Prince Consort in 1858. The present number of girls in the Home was 186, the total number of those who had received its benefits being over 800, of whom more than 350 had been sent to service. Major-General Boileau, who had been chairman of the House Committee for eighteen years, had superintended the erection of the new wing, which, in consideration of his services to the Home, the committee had resolved to call the Boileau Wing.

Digitized by Google

TURNER'S LIBER STUDIORUM: "PEAT BOG IN SCOTLAND," BY J. M. W. TURNER, R.A.—SEE PAGE 567.

Digitized by Google

"FAREWELL! REMEMBER ME!" BY F. WALKER.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

THE COURT.

Her Majesty has been busy since her arrival at Windsor in entertaining numerous guests, both socially and politically. Of those who have joined the Royal circle have been Princess Louise of Lorne, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Princesses Victoria and Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, the Duke and Duchess of Teck; also the Duke and Duchess of Bedford, Earl and Countess Sydney, Earl and Countess Granville, the Earl of Kimberley, Sir Bartle and Lady Frere, Sir Hercules Robinson, the Hon. Lady Biddulph, Colonel Macpherson (Bengal Staff Corps), Colonel Keith Fraser (commanding the Windsor garrison), Sir Henry Ponsonby, Sir William Jenner, Sir John and Lady Cowell, and the ladies and gentlemen in waiting of the Household and of the Royal visitors. The Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone and Mrs. Gladstone were prevented from attending at Windsor.

The Queen and Princess Beatrice visited the Hon. Lady Ponsonby last Saturday.

Divine service was performed on Sunday in the private chapel of the castle by the Rev. James Fleming, Canon Residentiary of York, and Vicar of St. Michael's, Charterhouse-square, her Majesty and the Princess being present.

On Monday her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, paid a visit to the Empress Eugénie at Camden House. The journey was made from and to Windsor by special train over the South-Western and South-Eastern Railways. Earl Sydney met the Queen at Chiselhurst Station and accompanied her first to St. Mary's Church, which contains the tombs of the Emperor Napoleon III. and the Prince Imperial, and then to Camden House. Her Majesty, after staying an hour with the Empress Eugénie, returned to Windsor to luncheon.

The Queen and Princess Beatrice came to London on Tuesday and visited the Duchess of Cambridge at St. James's Palace. The Duke of Cambridge went to Windsor on a visit to her Majesty. The Lord Chancellor and Lady Selbourne, Generals Whitmore and Beauchamp Walker and Colonel Gough, joined the Royal party at dinner.

The Hon. Caroline Cavendish and the Hon. Harriet Phipps have succeeded the Hon. Frances Drummond and the Hon. Ethel Cadogan as Maids of Honour; and Lord Methuen, Admiral Lord Frederic Kerr, and Colonel Sir John Carstairs M'Neill, have succeeded Lord Sandhurst, Captain Edwards, and Colonel the Hon. H. Byng as Lord, Groom, and Equerry in Waiting to her Majesty.

Mr. J. W. Benson has submitted for her Majesty's inspection a silver model made in imitation of the Albert Memorial for the late Siamese Embassy.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The usual tenants' ball in honour of the Princess of Wales's birthday was given yesterday week at Sandringham, the birthday having been celebrated in the customary manner by the school-children's tea after their Royal Highnesses and their guests had returned from hunting with the West Norfolk Hounds, the meet of which was at Anmer, the seat of Mr. H. J. Coldham; and in the evening Dr. Holden, prestidigitateur, gave an entertainment at Sandringham. The invitations to the ball, besides the tenantry of the Royal estates, included those of the Earl of Leicester (Holkham), the Marquis Townshend (Raynham), the Marquis of Cholmondeley (Houghton), Lady Audrey Howard (Castle Rising), Lord Suffield (Gunton), Lord Orford (Mannington), Lord Spencer (Creake), Lord Walsingham (Merton), Lord Hastings (Melton Constable), Mr. Anthony Hamond (Westacre), and Mr. H. Villebois (Marham). The band of the Prince of Wales's Own Norfolk Artillery Militia was in attendance. The Duke of Cambridge concluded his visit on Saturday. The Prince and Princess and their remaining guests drove to Gayton, the seat of the Earl of Romney, to the meet of the West Norfolk Hounds. On Sunday their Royal Highnesses, with Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud, with the house party, attended Divine service at Sandringham church, the Rev. F. Hervey and the Rev. Arthur Robins officiating. The Prince came to town on Monday for the purpose of visiting the Smithfield Club Cattle Show at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. On Tuesday his Royal Highness presided at a meeting of his Council, held at the office of the Duchy of Cornwall, Buckingham-gate.

The Duchess of Edinburgh, with her Royal visitors, inspected Canterbury Cathedral last week. The Duke of Edinburgh, after his shooting entertainment, sent presents of game to St. George's and Charing-cross Hospitals, to the Dreadnought, and to other institutions.

The Duke of Cambridge entertained General Sir Frederick Roberts and a party of military officers at dinner at Gloucester House, Park-lane, on Monday.

The Duchess of Teck was present on Monday at a lecture upon the artistic aspects of needlework, delivered to the pupils at the Royal School of Art-Needlework, South Kensington, by Lady Marian Alford, vice-president of the institution.

Her Excellency Lady Cowper arrived at Dublin Castle on Sunday.

His Excellency Count Karolyi has arrived at the Austrian Embassy, Belgrave-square, from Vienna. The Countess Karolyi remains in Hungary.

The Earl and Countess of Dufferin left town on Tuesday for Paris.

Tuesday's Gazette contains the following:—"The Queen has been pleased to recognise the claim of Charles Colmore Grant, Esq., to the title of Baron de Longueüil, of Longueüil, in the province of Quebec, Canada. This title was conferred upon his ancestor, Charles de Moyne, by letters patent of nobility, signed by King Louis XIV., in the year 1700."

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The Hon. Thomas H. A. E. Cochrane, Scots Guards, younger son of the Earl of Dundonald, was married to Lady Gertrude Julia Georgina Boyle, eldest daughter of the Earl of Glasgow, on the 2nd inst. A body of the non-commissioned officers of the first battalion Scots Guards was present in the church. Lord Greenock was best man. The bridesmaids were Lady Elizabeth Cochrane, Miss Janet Sinclair, Lady Esther Cochrane, the Hon. Ada Trefusis, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Miss F. Cochrane, Miss Marian Cartwright, and Miss Marian Dundas. The bride wore a dress of white satin, trimmed with old Honiton lace, and veil of the same fabric; natural orange-flowers in her hair, and a tiara of pearl stars, the gift of her parents; her only other jewel being a diamond bracelet, presented to her on her marriage by the tenantry on the Hawkhead estates. The bridesmaids were attired in pale blue surat, trimmed with plush of the same colour and white lace, and each wore a pearl arrow brooch with the monograms of the bride and bridegroom entwined, set with pearls, coral, and turquoise, presented by the bridegroom. The Bishop of Argyle and the Isles, assisted by the Rev. H. Richardson, Chaplain to the Earl of Glasgow, officiated. After the breakfast at the Earl and Countess of Glasgow's residence in Hereford-gardens, the newly-married couple left for Croxton Park, the seat of Mr. and Lady Alice Newton, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, in Cambridgeshire, for their honeymoon. The bride's travelling-dress was of ruby velvet, with jacket to correspond, trimmed with sable, and hat and muff of velvet to match. During breakfast numerous telegrams of congratulations were received from Scotland. Valuable presentations of jewels and plate were made to the bride by the tenantry on the Earl of Glasgow's estates; and chief among the bridegroom's gifts was, from his brother officers of the 1st Battalion Scots Guards, a massive silver centre piece.

Last Saturday at St. James's Church, Piccadilly, the marriage of the Hon. W. St. John F. Brodrick, M.P., eldest son of Viscount Midleton, and the Hon. Hilda Charteris, youngest daughter of Lord Elcho, M.P., and granddaughter of the Earl of Wemyss and March, took place. The bridesmaids were the Hon. Augusta and Hon. Helen Brodrick, sisters of the bridegroom; Lady Eva Greville, cousin of the bride; Lady Victoria Spencer and the Misses Evelyn and Constance Pelly, nieces of the bride. The bride wore a dress of duchesse satin trimmed with Brussels lace, and over a wreath of orange-blossoms a Brussels lace veil. Her jewels were pearls and diamonds. The bridesmaids were attired in dresses of crimson cashmere, plush and satin, and each wore a brooch with the word "Hilda" on it in diamonds. The Hon. Alfred Lyttelton was best man. The ceremony was performed by the Hon. and Rev. Adelbert J. R. Anson, Rector of Woolwich, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Hon. and Rev. Alan Brodrick, Vicar of Godalming, uncle of the bridegroom. Lord and Lady Elcho afterwards entertained the near relatives at breakfast at their residence in St. James's-place. The bride and bridegroom left for Osborne, Mr. C. Savile Roundell's residence at Fernhurst. The bride's travelling-dress was of crimson plush and satin, with bonnet and jacket to match.

THE RECESS.

Thick as autumn leaves fall the signals that the forthcoming Session will be a busy one with every political party. With his new lease of a town house the Earl of Beaconsfield seems to have entered upon a new lease of life, albeit his Lordship will on the 21st inst. be seventy-five years of age. Mr. Gladstone, whose marvellous energy remains undiminished, notwithstanding that the 29th inst. will be his seventy-first birthday, has convened a Cabinet Council in Downing-street for the middle of next week. And the Proclamation in the London Gazette, calling Parliament together on Jan. 6, was duly repeated on Saturday last at the Cross of Edinburgh; and was earlier than that answered in a manner by Sir Stafford Northcote's letter as Leader of the Opposition summoning his Conservative friends to attend the House on the opening day. Inside St. Stephen's, it is understood that the ridiculously inadequate accommodation, if it may be so termed, given grudgingly to the representatives of the Press, will be slightly increased.

The determination of the Government to grapple with the Irish Land question has again been made clear to those who can read between the lines of such speeches as that which Mr. G. O. Trevelyan made at Hawick on Monday, and that which Mr. Jacob Bright favoured an audience at Newton Heath with on Saturday. On the other hand, the arrival from London of the Coldstream Guards, under Colonel Julian Hall, at Dublin on Tuesday, equally indicates the resolve of the Ministry to suppress disorder with a strong hand.

That shining light of the Conservative Party in the House of Commons, Mr. Edward Stanhope, made a good point at Huddersfield on Tuesday. In addressing, with habitual clearness and confidence, a large Conservative gathering, the late Under-Secretary for India—having held office, he has no inducement to join the "Fourth Party"—deprecated any degeneration into abuse of the party in power; but, holding the present Government responsible in a great measure for the non-maintenance of order in Ireland, he especially cited in proof of his argument the fact that whilst all comments on the Crown prosecution of the Land League had been estopped in the Irish Press, "Messrs. Parnell and Co." were still permitted to deliver inflammatory addresses throughout Ireland. That is so. Language of the most violent character against the Lord Chief Justice was indulged in by Mr. Dillon, M.P., at Malahide, on Monday. As for Mr. Parnell, he has been making quite a triumphal progress, having been welcomed to Waterford by an enthusiastic multitude on Sunday, and passing under arches erected in his honour; being presented with the freedom of that city on Monday, and assuring his admirers that ere long an Irish Parliament would assemble in College-green. Meantime, the Dublin Gazette has proclaimed County Leitrim to be in need of a larger force of constabulary. At Brookborough, County Fermanagh, it may be added, it was on Tuesday found expedient to disperse a Land League meeting, in spite of the remonstrance of Mr. O'Kelly, M.P. The very same day, "to show there was no ill-feeling," Mr. Parnell hunted with the Marquis of Waterford's fox-hounds.

Mr. James Cropper is the Liberal candidate for Kendal, in place of Mr. Waddy.

ROYAL INSTITUTION OF GREAT BRITAIN.

The following arrangements have been made for Friday evening meetings before Easter, 1881:—Jan. 21 Mr. Warren de la Rue, on the Phenomena of the Electric Discharge with 14,400 Chloride of Silver Cells; Jan. 28, Dr. Andrew Wilson, on the Origin of Colonial Organisms; Feb. 4, Dr. Arthur Schuster, on the Teachings of Modern Spectroscopy; Feb. 11, Professor Robert S. Ball, on the Distances of the Stars; Feb. 18, Sir John Lubbock, on Fruits and Seeds; Feb. 25, Dr. J. S. Burdon-Sanderson, on Excitability in Plants and Animals; March 4, Sir William Thomson, on Elasticity viewed as Possibly a Mode of Motion; March 11, Professor J. S. Blackie; March 18, Dr. William H. Stone, on Musical Pitch; Mr. Alexander Buchan, on the Weather and Health of London; April 1, Sir Henry S. Maine, on the King in his relation to Early Civil Justice; April, 8, Professor Tyndall. On April 15 and 22 (the Fridays in Passion and Easter Weeks) there will be no evening meetings. After Easter the Friday evening meetings will be resumed on April 29, and continued till June 10, without intermission. The Friday arrangements depend in great measure on the free kindness of eminent men, whose time is subject to the sudden claims of public or professional duty. They are therefore liable to change. The discourse for each Friday will be announced in the Times of the Tuesday previous, and in the Illustrated London News of the previous Saturday.

In the last financial year the stamp duty of 3d. per pack was paid on 1,094,823 packs of playing cards.

It has been decided to establish at Hanley, North Staffordshire, a Court of Quarter Sessions. The first Recorder will be Mr. J. B. Brindley, of the Oxford Circuit and Stafford and Middlesex Sessions. Mr. Brindley, who is a member of Gray's Inn, was called to the Bar in 1860.

"FAREWELL, REMEMBER ME!"

The antiquated style of dress, the short-skirted gown of flowered brocade, a scarf about the shoulders, and a shape of hat worn by the young lady in Mr. F. Walker's drawing, must fix the date of this pathetic scene about the end of the last century. That was a period of severe political and national conflicts, when both Great Britain and Ireland were disturbed by alarming revolutionary conspiracies, to suppress which, notably in 1798, Government had recourse to the most stringent measures in pursuit and punishment of the leaders of rebellious faction. Some parts of Scotland and England, under the Administration of Pitt during the great French War, contained many persons of good social position, who became liable to suspicion as being implicated in plots of a treasonable nature. It may fairly be imagined that, upon such an occasion, a fugitive from the vengeance of the ruling powers, a young gentleman qualified to figure in romances of the "Waverley" genus, might have got to some remote western seacoast, whether in the Hebrides, in Wales, or on the shores of the Channel, there to smuggle himself away on board a contraband vessel, escaping the vigilance of Government cruisers. Let it be supposed, in looking at this picture, that the sly craft which is to convey him to France, there to be received as an exile for the cause of Republican liberty, is just now lurking behind the shelter of a projecting headland. He has gone off from the beach in a fishing-boat, the sail of which is hoisted, as we see, to catch a favouring breeze. On the beach, to take a last fond farewell of him by whom she was loved and wooed ere this thunder-cloud of danger came to pass over his head, stands the impassioned maiden, now left so lonely, a prey to agonising fears and vain regrets. She raises her fluttering kerchief as a parting token of affection to the passenger in the little boat, which must, if not detected and pursued, very soon place him aboard the vessel that waits for his voyage to a foreign shore. We sincerely hope that he will be able to escape in safety, and that she may rejoin him abroad, or that he may some day return with a free pardon, so that this loving pair shall be married, and "live happy ever afterwards."

CHRISTMAS AND NEW-YEAR'S CARDS.

Of the coming of Christmas and New-Year's cards there seems to be no end; and some of the best are left to the last. No sooner have we received specimens from different publishers and pronounced them to be good, than others as good, or better, are sent. More than thirty specimens have been received from Messrs. Marcus Ward and Co., of which it is difficult to decide which are the best. Personally, we incline to the quieter and more delicately-tinted ones; but those of the most brilliant hues are never gaudy. The folding song cards, "Souvenirs of the Season," with original verse and new music by popular composers, are novelties. Several of the designs are by Mr. Walter Crane. The variety is amazing. There are Shakspeare greetings; old couples, youths and maidens, and children, from the pencil of Kate Greenaway; flowers, birds, and butterflies, of course; fairy-like damsels springing out of flowers; elegant calendars; and even dogs are drawn into the service. Art and nature have been ransacked to supply subjects; and it is almost needless, considering who are the providers, to say that all are treated with artistic skill.

Nor must we omit to notice the cards issued by Mr. Raphael Tuck, of City-road, many of which have artistic claims; the designs being by M. Giacomelli, Miss M. E. Edwards, Mr. Oscar Pletsch, and other artists of note, faithfully reproduced by chromo-lithography. Many of them are inclosed in charmingly illustrated "fairy tale" envelopes, printed in colours, leaving ample room for the address. Excellent as these are, they are to be bettered, it seems. Mr. Tuck announces that his book of Christmas and New-Year's cards next season will include every design distinguished either by novelty of treatment or brilliancy in execution, shown among the competitive designs in the exhibition which his liberal offer of prizes recently brought together.

Mr. Harding, of Piccadilly, sends some of his special originalities and comicalities; among which are three packets of hunting incidents, one of them being coloured; quaint children and flowers, coloured; some humorous sketches in lawn tennis, &c.

Lastly, Messrs. Parkins and Gotto publish a set of quaint pen-and-ink sketches for Christmas cards.

ALMANACKS, DIARIES, AND POCKET-BOOKS FOR 1881.

One can scarcely speak too favourably of Messrs. De la Rue's annual publications, of which we have received some beautiful specimens. Every year their pocket-books become more various in form, more convenient, and, if possible, more elegant; the leather-work of the pocket-books being of the most finished character. One of the most novel is folded down the middle of the page, and forms a book in a small case for the waistcoat pocket about the size of a pocket-knife, one inch wide and three long. There are also diaries for the desk, condensed diaries for the purse or the pocket, and card almanacks for the counting-house and the writing-table. The printing in colours is executed with artistic completeness and good taste. Every requirement seems to be met in one or other of these diaries.

Messrs. Marcus Ward and Co. send three Calendars for 1881—A Shakspeare Calendar, with an appropriate quotation for every day in the year; a Motto Calendar for men of business; and a Sacred Calendar, with a text from Scripture for every day, arranged in subjects for each week.

The Victoria (Philosophical) Institute held the first meeting of its new session at its house, 7, Adelphi-terrace, on Monday evening. In the list of the authors of coming papers are many taking a prominent part in science and philosophy.

Among the magazines and serial publications received this month are the twelfth, being the concluding, Part of Mr. Francis George Heath's "Fern Paradise," containing descriptions of the Tunbridge Filmy Fern and the One-sided Filmy Fern, the author's farewell chapter ("L'Envoi"), and a general index to the work; Gilpin's Forest Scenery, also by Mr. Heath; The Squire, Ward and Lock's Universal Instructor, Illustrated, Tinsley's Magazine, Churchman, St. James's Magazine, Argosy, Good Words, Victoria Magazine, St. Nicholas, Science Gossip, Men of Mark, Covent-Garden Magazine, Welcome, Kensington, the Month, Golden Hours, Modern Thought, Examples of Works of Art in Kensington Museum, Biograph, Peep-Show, and Chatterbox; and Monthly Parts of All the Year Round, Once a Week, Leisure Hour, Sunday at Home, Sunday Magazine, Gardeners' Magazine, Gardening Illustrated, Day of Rest, Social Notes, Boy's Own Paper, Girl's Own Paper, Young England, Union Jack, Daisy, and Christian Age. Among the Fashion Books are the World of Fashion, Le Follet, Ladies' Gazette of Fashion, Myra's Journal, Myra's Mid-Monthly, Weldon's Ladies' Journal, and Illustrated Household Journal.

Digitized by Google

OBITUARY.

THE RIGHT HON. SIR J. W. COLVILE.

The Right Hon. Sir James William Colvile, P.C., of Craigflower and Ochiltree, Fifeshire, a paid member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, died suddenly on the 5th inst. He was born Jan. 12, 1810, the son of Andrew Wedderburn, who assumed the surname of Colvile in lieu of that of Wedderburn by Royal license in 1814, and was grandson of James Wedderburn, of Inveresk (third son of Sir John Wedderburn, fourth Baronet of Ballindean), who succeeded to the Colvile estates in right of his wife, Isabella Blackburn, great-grand-niece of the last Lord Colvile, of Ochiltree. He was educated at Eton, and at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he graduated B.A. in 1831, and M.A. in 1834, and was called to the Bar at the Inner Temple in 1835. From 1845 to 1848 he held the office Advocate-General in Calcutta; and, in the latter year, being appointed Judge of the Supreme Court there, received the honour of knighthood by patent. From 1855 to 1859, he was Chief Justice of the same Court, and in 1871 became a paid member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. He married, April 13, 1857, Francis Elinor, daughter of Sir John Peter Grant, K.C.B., G.C.M.G., of Rothiemurchus, and had an only son, Andrew John Wedderburn, born Jan. 30, 1859, who died Nov. 5, 1876.

SIR JOHN MILTON.

Sir John Milton, C.B., late Accountant-General of the Army, died, as stated last week, on the 29th ult., at Bladon-terrace, Streatham-common, aged sixty. He was the son of Mr. Henry Milton, of Heckfield Lodge, Middlesex, was educated at King's College, London, and entered the War Office in 1840. In 1855 he served as Purveyor-in-Chief of the Army in the Crimea, for which he had the Crimean and Turkish War medals; from 1860 to 1871 he was Assistant Accountant-General of the Army, and from 1871 to 1878 Accountant-General. He was frequently employed on Government Commissions on military subjects. In January, 1879, he received the honour of Knighthood, previously, in 1874, having been made a C.B. Sir John married, 1850, Blanche, daughter of Mr. Thomas Meyrick Feild, of Maidstone.

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL MARRIOTT.

Lieutenant-General Thomas Beckett Feilding Marriott, Colonel Commandant Royal Artillery, died at his seat Avonbank, near Pershore, on the 25th ult., aged sixty-seven. He was the eldest son of Lieutenant-General Thomas Marriott, of Avonbank, J.P. and D.L., by Anne, his wife, third daughter of Sir John Beckett, Bart., and grandson of Randolph Marriott, H.E.I.C. Civil Service, who distinguished himself in India under Clive, and received a gold medal for the battle of Plassy. In the female line, the late General Marriott descended from Bishops Wilson and Gibson, as well as from the Earls of Denbigh. He entered the Army in 1832, and attained the rank of Lieutenant-General in 1877. From 1866 to 1869 he was Colonel on the Staff in Ireland. General Marriott was a magistrate and Deputy Lieutenant for Worcestershire, and lord of the lordship of Seagrave, county Leicester.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL JAMES SALMOND.

Lieutenant-Colonel James Salmond, of Waterfoot, Cumberland, and Langton Hall, Notts, died at the latter place on the 24th ult., in his seventy-sixth year. He was born June 15, 1805, the eldest son of Major-General James Salmond, by Louisa, sister of Sir David Scott, Bart., and daughter of David Scott, Esq., M.P., Chairman of the Honourable East India Company. He was educated at Rugby, and at Oriel College, Oxford, where he graduated B.A. in 1826. Mr. Salmond obtained his first commission in the 15th Hussars in 1829; he subsequently exchanged to the 2nd Dragoon Guards (Queen's Bays), in which regiment he became Captain. He left the Army in 1839. In 1851 he was appointed Major in the Westmorland and Cumberland Yeomanry Cavalry, and in 1862 Lieutenant-Colonel. He took great interest in the Volunteer movement, and may be said to have founded the Mansfield Corps. The deceased gentleman was a magistrate for Cumberland, Westmorland, Nottinghamshire, and Derbyshire. He married, in 1832, Emma Isabella, youngest daughter of D'Ewes Coke, Esq., of Brookhill Hall, Notts. He leaves six sons and two daughters; the eldest surviving son being Henry, Captain R.N. and J.P. for Nottinghamshire.

MR. STANFORD.

Mr. John Frederick Stanford, F.R.S., formerly M.P. for Reading, died recently at North Bank, Regent's Park, aged sixty-five. Having received his education at Eton, and at Christ's College, Cambridge, he was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1844. Mr. Stanford was a magistrate for the county of Middlesex and a Deputy Lieutenant for Berkshire. He sat in Parliament for a short time as member for Reading, in the Conservative interest, and was the author of several pamphlets treating of the subject of political economy and other kindred topics, besides some works on travels.

MR. C. J. MANNING.

Mr. Charles John Manning, of Littlehampton Manor, Sussex, brother of his Eminence Cardinal Manning, died on the 28th ult., at his town house, 15, Prince's-gardens, in his eighty-second year. He was son of Mr. William Manning, M.P., of Combe Bank, Kent, Governor of the Bank of England, by Mary, his wife, daughter of Mr. Henry Hunter, of Beech Hill, Berks; and received his education at Harrow. He was a Deputy-Lieutenant for London, of which city he was an eminent merchant. Mr. Manning married, first, 1827, Mary, daughter of General Sir Richard Downes Jackson, K.C.B.: and secondly, 1862, Louisa Augusta, eldest daughter of the Rev. Sir Augustus Brydges Henniker, Bart.; and by his first wife leaves issue.

Captain William Guthrie, of Guthrie, late 42nd Regiment (Black Watch), on the 25th ult., at the Rosaire, Dundee. He was born, 1807, the second son of John Guthrie, of Guthrie, Convener and D.L., County Forfar.

Lady Rolt (Anne), widow of Lieutenant-General Sir John Rolt, K.C.B., and youngest daughter and coheiress of Mr. George Caswall, of Sacombe Park, Herts, aged eighty-five. She was married in 1824, and left a widow in 1856.

Mr. James Cosmo Melvill, formerly Assistant Under-Secretary of State at the India Office, on the 1st inst., at Folkestone. He was son of Sir James Cosmo Melvill, K.C.B., and was born in 1821. In 1837 he entered the service of the Hon. East India Company, and from 1858 to 1872 was Assistant Under-Secretary of State. Mr. Melvill married, in 1844, the eldest daughter of Mr. Alfred Hardcastle, of Hatcham House, Surrey.

Clement Augustus, Count Schmising Kerssenbrock, aged seventy-four, at Bornhofen, on the Rhine. This is an ancient monastery of the Franciscans, lately occupied by a brotherhood of Redemptorist monks, who were ejected by Bismarck a few years ago. Count Schmising Kerssenbrock, who held the office of Papal Chamberlain under Pius IX. and Leo XIII., was formerly a cavalry officer in one of the Uhlan regiments, and lately one of the most esteemed members of the Centrum party in the Prussian Parliament, having even suffered imprisonment for the utterance of his opinions on the oppressive May laws. He was elected deputy for Coblentz and St. Goar, where he was much beloved, and bore a very high character for piety and charity. His family is one of the old nobility of Westphalia, reckoning back to the Crusades, where a Count Schmising saved the life of the King of France in the field of battle, for which service he was granted to quarter the lilies of France on his shield, borne to this day by his descendants. The lands of Kerssenbrock came through an heiress of later date. Count Schmising Kerssenbrock married, first, Caroline Walburga, daughter of Count Fürstenberg; and secondly, Anna Maria, daughter of Charles Gordon, Esq., of Abergeldie.

EMBROIDERING IN SUMATRA.

The Malay population of that large island of the East Asiatic Archipelago, separated by the Straits of Malacca from the continental south-eastern peninsula of Asia, still practise their native industrial arts, and have a certain amount of trade, in spite of Dutch and English commercial superiority. The female artisans, who are employed in the decorative embroidery of cloth, made for the petticoat or skirt, called a "sarang," commonly worn by well-to-do customers of both sexes, display a considerable degree of skill and taste. Our Illustration, from a photograph which was to be purchased at Singapore not long ago, represents three or four of these workwomen in Sumatra, each sitting or squatting in front of a frame, upon which the fabric is suspended, and busy with her needle and thread in putting in the designed ornamentation.

The returns of emigration from Liverpool during November have been issued. During the month 85 ships left the Mersey, with 8843 passengers. Of these, 7918 went to the United States, 455 British North America, 26 Australia, 109 South America, 244 East Indies, 29 West Indies, 10 China, and 52 Africa. The nationalities were 3591 English, 81 Scotch, 919 Irish, 3846 foreign, and of the remaining 406 no description is given. These returns, as compared with those for the month of October, show a decrease of 5852, and a decrease of 1298 as compared with the figures for November of last year.

The Registrar-General's weekly return states that during last week 5552 births and 3478 deaths were registered in London and twenty-two other large towns of the United Kingdom. In London 2442 births and 1446 deaths were registered. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 62, and the deaths 322 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 10 from smallpox, 54 from measles, 73 from scarlet fever, 10 from diphtheria, 12 from whooping-cough, 17 from different forms of fever, and 9 from diarrhœa: thus to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class 185 deaths were referred, against 184 and 198 in the two preceding weeks. These 185 deaths were 79 below the corrected average number from the same diseases in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had been 332 and 367 in the two preceding weeks, declined again to 334 last week, and were 170 below the corrected weekly average: 210 resulted from bronchitis and 87 from pneumonia. Different forms of violence caused 64 deaths.

At a conversazione held at the Bible House, Queen Victoria-street, on Tuesday, a large company assembled, on the invitation of the president, treasurer, and committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society, to meet the society's agents from Vienna, Berlin, Brussels, and Paris. The guests in the earlier part of the evening promenaded in the various departments of the Bible House, where were exhibited the bound stock of Scriptures in many languages, and the process of printing in raised type according to Moon's system for the blind, various objects of interest from the library, a collection of autographs of the fathers and founders of the great religious societies lent by Sir Charles Reed, and specimens of the 238 languages and dialects in which the society publishes the Scriptures. Afterwards the company assembled in the library. Lord Shaftesbury took the chair, and after one of the secretaries (the Rev. C. E. B. Reed) had given a short address, in which he reminded those present that this is the jubilee year of the society's Continental agency work, introduced the foreign agents present; and deeply interesting accounts were given of the society's progress. The guests on leaving were each presented with a book in which the 16th verse of the 3rd chapter of St. John is printed in 215 tongues.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

BENTLEY AND SON.
Folly Morrison. A Novel. By Frank Barrett. 3 vols.

BLACKWOOD AND SONS.
Descartes. By J. P. Mahaffy.

ROGUE.
Kenna's Kingdom: A Ramble through Kingly Kensington. By R. Weir Brown.

CASSELL, PETTER, AND GALPIN.
The International Portrait Gallery.

CHATTO AND WINDUS.
Practical Keramics for Students. By Charles A. Janvier.

GRIFFITH AND FARRAN.
The Cruise of Ulysses and his Men; or, Tales and Adventures from the Odyssey. For Boys and Girls. By C. M. Bell.

HODDER AND STOUGHTON.
Olive Loring's Mission. By Annie M. Lawrence.

HURST AND BLACKETT.
My Journey Round the World, viâ Ceylon, New Zealand, Australia, Torres Straits, China, Japan, and the United States. By Captain S. N. Jones Parry. 2 vols.

LAURIE.
The Birthday Book of German Literature. By J. W. L.

LOWE AND CO.
The History of France from 1780 to 1848. By M. Guizot. Edited by Madame de Witt, née Guizot. Vol. VII. Illustrated.
The Boy's King Arthur: being Sir Thomas Malory's History of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. Edited for Boys, with an Introduction by Sidney Lanier. Illustrated.

MACMILLAN AND CO.
The White Rat, and Some Other Stories. By Lady Barker. With Illustrations.
English Men of Letters. Wordsworth. By F. W. H. Myers.

PARTRIDGE AND CO.
The Band of Mercy Advocate. By the Editor of the "British Workman."
The Welcome. A Magazine for the Home Circle. With Engravings.

PAUL AND CO.
Genoa: How the Republic Rose and Fell. By J. Theodore Bent. Illustrations.
A Jolly Fellowship. By Frank R. Stockton. Illustrated.

RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY.
Penfold. A Story of the Flower Mission. By Ruth Lynn.
The Golden Grasshopper. A Story of the Days of Sir Thomas Gresham, Knt., as narrated in the Diary of Ernst Verner, whilom his Page and Secretary. By William H. G. Kingston.
My Own Picture-Book.
Children's Daily Bread. A Picture, Text, and Verse for Every Day of the Year.
Illustrated Letters to My Children from the Holy Land. By Henry A. Harper.

ROUTLEDGE AND SONS.
The Mountain Sprites' Kingdom, and Other Stories. By the Right Hon. E. H. Knatchbull-Hugessen (Lord Brabourne). With Illustrations by Ernest Griset.
Adventures in the Far West. By William H. G. Kingston. With Illustrations.
The Secrets of Stage Conjuring. By Robert Houdin. Translated by Professor Hoffmann. With Illustrations.
With the Colours; or, the Piping Times of Peace. By R. M. Jephson. Illustrations.
What the Blackbird Said. A Story in Four Chirps. By Mrs. Frederick Locker. Illustrated by Randolph Caldecott.
Aunt Mary. By Mrs. Perring.
Bunny. The Story of a Little Girl. By Mrs. Molesworth. With Illustrations.
The Fortune-Telling Birthday-Book. By C. A. M. Burdett.
Routledge's Singing Quadrille (Music by Myles B. Foster), and Children's Singing Lancers (Music by L. N. Parker).
Little Buttercup's Picture-Book.
Every Boys' Annual, 1881. Edited by Edmund Routledge. Illustrated.
Kate Greenaway's Birthday Book for Children. With 382 Illustrations by Kate Greenaway. Verses by Mrs. Sale Barker.
Little Wide Awake Poetry-Book for Children. By Mrs. Sale Barker.
Little Wide Awake. Illustrated Magazine for Good Children. Edited by Mrs. Sale Barker. Illustrated by Harrison Weir.
The Three Jovial Huntsmen. One of R. Caldecott's Picture-Books.
Little Tiny's Book of Objects. With 700 Illustrations.
Meyrick's Promise; or, Little Fugitives from the Jamaica Rebellion in 1865. By E. C. Phillips.
A Silver Key to a Golden Palace. By Alton Leslie.
The Boys' Playbook of Science. By J. H. Pepper. Illustrated with 433 Engravings by H. G. Hine. With many Additions by T. C. Hepworth.
Mark Dennison's Charge. By Georgiana M. Craik. With Illustrations.
Military Misreadings of Shakspeare. By Major Seccombe. Printed in Colours by Edmund Evans.
The Day Dawn Album. With 150 full-page Pictures.
Routledge's Every Girl's Annual. Edited by Alicia A. Leith. Illustrated. 1881.

WARD AND CO.
My Imperialist Neighbour; and other Stories. By Henrietta A. Duff.

WARNE AND CO.
Abbeys, Castles, and Ancient Halls of England and Wales: their Legendary Lore and Popular History. By John Timbs. Revised and Enlarged by Alexander Gunn. With Illustrations. North.
Ditto, Midland.
Ditto, South.

TRAVELLING IN ANGOLA.

The west coast of Africa in southern tropical latitudes, including the region sometimes called Lower Guinea, has belonged to the Portuguese, its discoverers, nearly four hundred years. But very little progress has yet been made in the actual colonisation of Angola, and the few European settlements are little more than trading factories or mission stations, except St. Paul de Loanda, the port and capital of this province. The whole population, chiefly negroes of the Bunda nation, with less than ten thousand not of African race, is estimated at 240,000. The interior of the country, beyond the belt of forest-covered hills that girdles the arid seacoast, presents much agreeable pastoral and open woodland scenery. A piece of such landscape is seen in our Artist's Sketch, with a traveller, most probably a half-caste trader on his road to collect wax and ivory, riding upon an ox, as Dr. Livingstone used to do in those latitudes of South Central Africa. The horse, it is well known, can hardly be kept, in most districts, on account of that poisonous fly, the tsetse, whose bite is fatal to horses. Where grass is abundant, as here, the bovine steed, though slow, will be found very serviceable, with a native attendant to walk at his head.

The sixth anniversary dinner of the Metropolitan Dairymen's Benevolent Institution took place on the 1st at the Freemason's Tavern, the subscriptions amounting to £900.

The anxiety which has lately been felt respecting her Majesty's ship Raleigh has been dispelled by her arrival at Plymouth yesterday week. She had been delayed by contrary winds. She brings home from the Falkland Islands twenty-two men, the crew of the iron ship David Law, which was burned off the South American coast. The crew were rescued after being several days on deck in expectation of the ship blowing up. A gale prevailed at the time.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING DEC. 18.

SUNDAY, DEC. 12.

Third Sunday in Advent.
Morning Lessons: Isaiah xxv.; 1 John iv. 7. Evening Lessons: Isaiah xxvi. or xxviii. 5—19; John xix. 1—25.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. C. N. Kelly, Minor Canon; 3.15 p.m., Rev Canon Liddon; 7 p.m., Rev. W. J. Richmond.
Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. John Wordsworth.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Hon. and Rev. A. J. B. Anson, Rector of Woolwich; 3 p.m., Rev. W. Boyd Carpenter.
St. James's, noon (probably Rev. G. H. Connor).
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Canon George Prothero.

MONDAY, DEC. 13.

London Institution, 5 p.m. (Mr. W. St. Chad Boscawen on the Kings of the Hittites; their Unburied Monuments and Civilisation).
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Professor Marshall on the Muscles of Man).
Institution of Surveyors, 8 p.m. (Mr. D. Whitney on the Land Question).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Geographical Society, 8.30 p.m. (Capt. T. H. Holditch on the Geographical Results of the Afghan Campaign).
Institute of British Architects, 8 p.m. (Messrs. J. E. and F. G. H. Price on Roman Buildings at Brading, in the Isle of Wight).
Society of Engineers, anniversary, 7.30 p.m.
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor A. H. Church on Pottery and Porcelain).
Brown Institution, Lectures, 5.30 p.m. (Professor W. S. Greenfield on Anthrax and Allied Diseases in Man and Animals, and on the 15th and 17th).

TUESDAY, DEC. 14.

Death of the Prince Consort, 1861; of Princess Alice, 1878.
Horticultural Society, 1 p.m.
Photographic Society, 8 p.m.
Westminster Play, 7 p.m., Terence's "Andria;" and on Thursday.
Institution of Civil Engineers, 8 p.m. (Discussion on Erecting Iron Bridges).
Library Association, 8 p.m.
Medical and Chirurgical Society, 8.30. p.m.
Colonial Institute, 8 p.m. (Sir Richard Temple on the Statistics of the Indian Empire).
Zoological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Anthropological Institute, 8 p.m.
West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m. (Dr. J. H. Gladstone on Shooting Stars and Meteors).

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 15.

Ember Day.
Charterhouse, Founder's Day, service, 5 p.m., Dr. Perry Scott, Bishop of Northern China; annual dinner.
Institute of Bankers, 6 p.m. (Mr. M. D. Chalmers on the Codification of Mercantile Law).
Meteorological Society, 7 p.m.
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Professor Marshall on Muscles of the Horse).
Dental Surgeons' Association, 8.30.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. E. Price Edwards on the Use of Sound for Signals).
Geological Society, 8 p.m.
London Dialectical Society, 8 p.m., annual meeting.
College of Preceptors, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. J. G. Fitch on Educational Pressure).

THURSDAY, DEC. 16.

Full moon, 3.36 p.m.
Cambridge Michaelmas Term ends.
Total eclipse of the moon, partly visible at Greenwich, 1.44 to 5.33 p.m.
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Dr. Oliver J. Lodge on the Relation between Electricity and Light).
Society of Antiquaries, 8.30 p.m.
Historical Society, 8 p.m.
Linnean Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. F. Darwin on the Growth of Cuttings; papers by Col. H. Godwin Austen and Mr. W. Phillips).
Chemical Society, 8 p.m. (Dr. Carnelly on Pressure on Ice at the Melting-Point; and other papers).
Trinity College, London, 8 p.m. (Professor Leone Levi on "Change for a Sovereign").
Numismatic Society, 7 p.m.

FRIDAY, DEC. 17.

Ember Day.
Oxford Michaelmas Term ends.
South Kensington Museum, 2.30 p.m. (Mr. Ernst Pauer on Pianoforte Playing).
Society for Propagation of the Gospel, 2 p.m.
City of London College, 6 p.m. (Dr. Heinemann on Political Economy—Theory of Value).
Sacred Harmonic Society, 7.30 p.m. (Handel's "Messiah").
Architectural Association, 7.30 p.m.

SATURDAY, DEC. 18.

Albert Hall Orchestral Society, concert for the French Hospital.

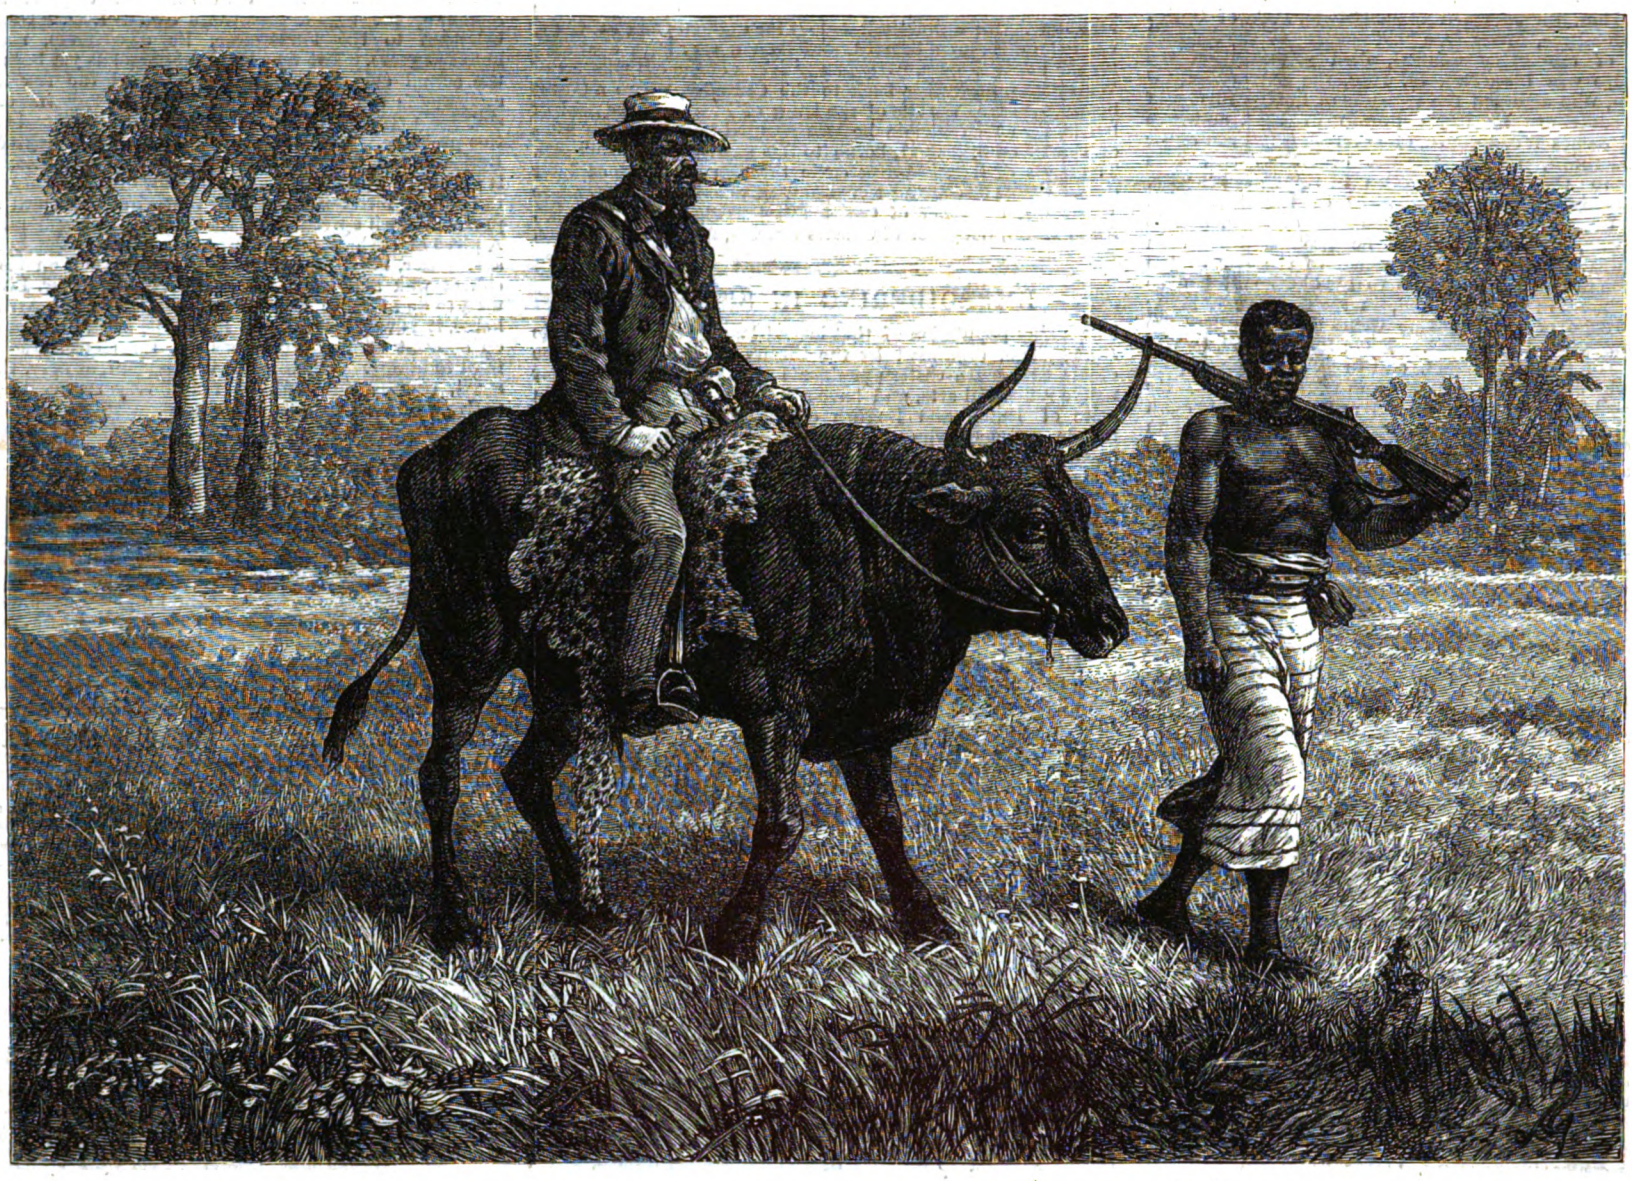
THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE NEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.		DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 p.m.	Minimum, read at 10 p.m.	WIND. General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
		Inches.	°	°		0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Nov.	28	30·383	47·4	43·0	·86	7	52·5	39·9	SW. SSW.	358	0·000
	29	30·305	46·0	41·7	·86	7	50·8	42·4	SSW. SW.	230	0·005*
	30	30·322	41·7	38·8	·90	8	47·7	33·0	SW. SSW.	191	0·000
Dec.	1	30·088	47·8	44·7	·90	8	49·8	44·3	SSW. SW.	284	0·025
	2	30·252	37·2	33·8	·87	6	49·3	30·5	NNW.	44	0·005*
	3	30·305	43·0	41·1	·93	8	49·4	28·5	NNW. SW.	109	0·000
	4	30·454	47·5	43·9	·88	8	50·8	43·9	SW.	129	0·000

* Dew.



The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

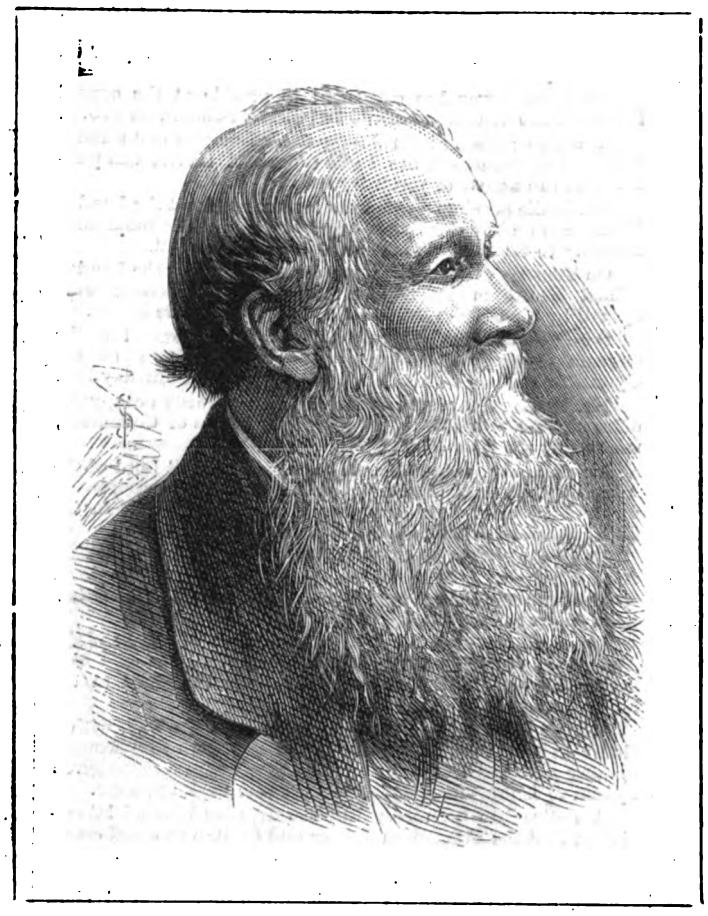
Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·384	30·149	30·429	29·143	30·246	30·318	30·440
Temperature of Air	49°0	47·4°	42·7°	47·1°	35·8°	40·2°	47·1°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	46·9°	44·8°	41·1°	45·4°	35·6°	38·5°	45·2°
Direction of Wind	SW.	SSW.	SSW.	SSW.	NNW.	NNW.	SW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 18.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
10 28	11 0	11 35	Mid.	—	0 28	0 52	1 13	1 36	1 55	2 13	2 30	2 47	3 6

Digitized by Google

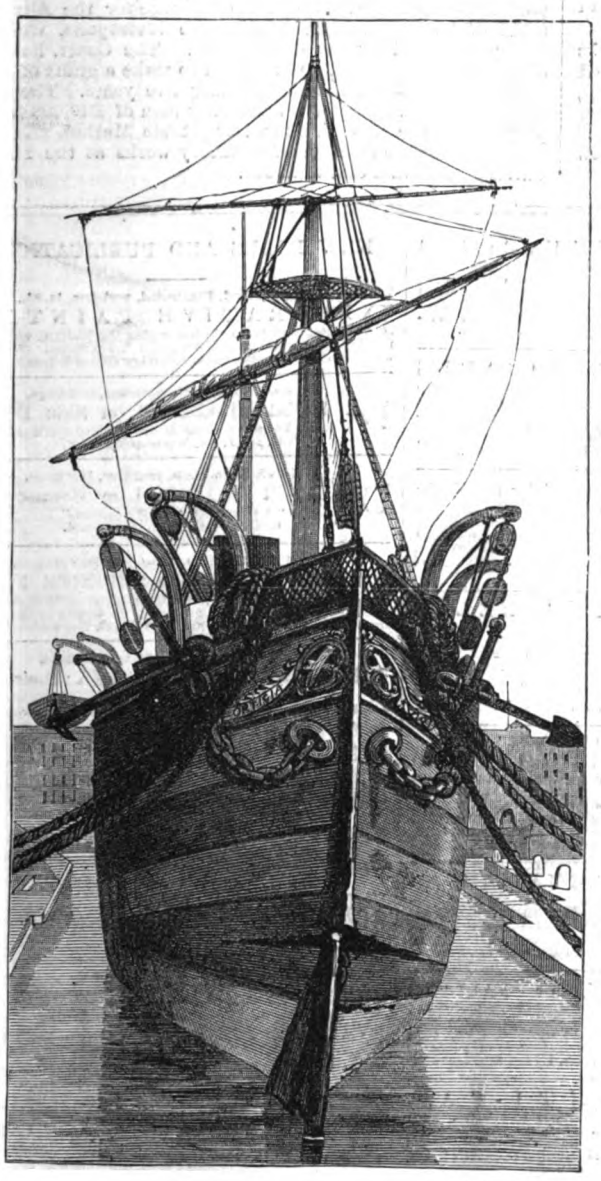
TRAVELLING IN ANGOLA.—SEE PAGE 571.



EMBROIDERING SARANGS IN SUMATRA.—SEE PAGE 571.

Digitized by Google

THE LATE MR. T. T. STODDART.

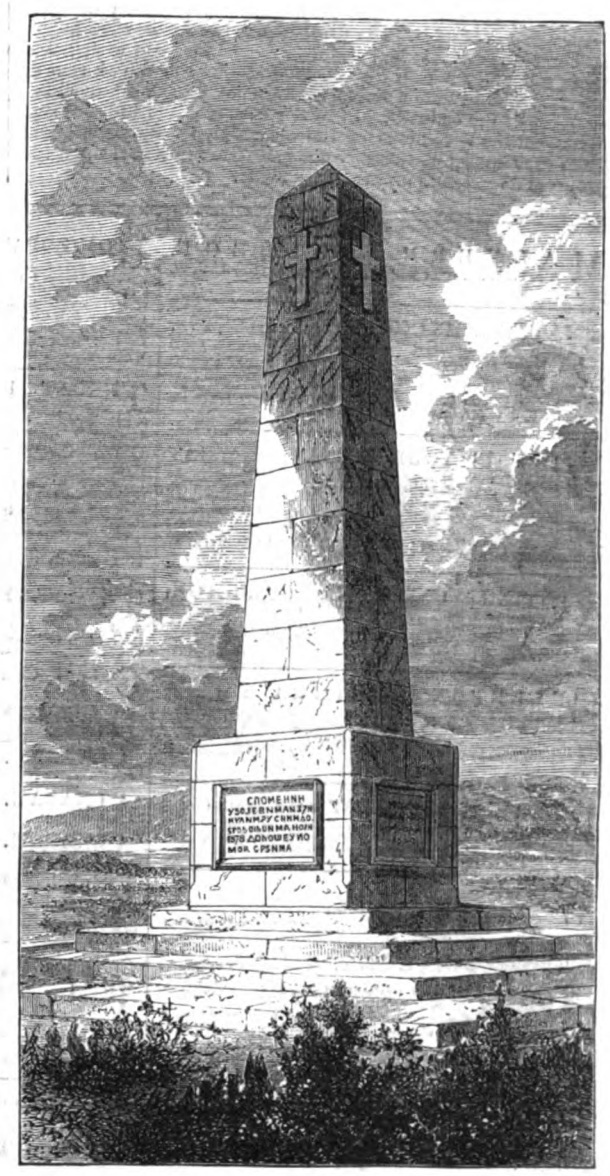


Mr. Thomas Tod Stoddart, the well-known angler and author, whose death took place at Kelso on the 22nd ult., in the seventy-first year of his age, was descended from an old Border family, the "Stout hearts," or Stoddarts. He was the third son of a distinguished Rear-Admiral, who took part in the victory of Lord Howe, the landing in Egypt, the battles of the Nile and Copenhagen, and many other engagements. He was born in Edinburgh, on Feb. 14, 1810. At the age of sixteen he obtained a prize for a poem on "Idolatry," in Professor Wilson's class in the University of Edinburgh. After a course of study for the Scottish Bar, he was admitted to practice in 1833, but soon afterwards relinquished the law for the more congenial pursuits of literature and angling. He married, and settled down on the banks of the Tweed, in 1836, and devoted himself to his rod and pen, performing with the one many brilliant achievements, and producing with the other a number of works which have attained more or less celebrity. His most widely known work, which has gone through several editions, is his "Angler's Companion," published in 1847. His other works are "The Death-Wake," 1831; "The Art of Angling," 1835; "Angling Reminiscences," 1837; "Songs and Poems," 1839; "Abel Massinger," a romance, 1846; "An Angler's Rambles and Angling Songs," 1866; and "Songs of the Seasons and other Poems," 1873. Besides these works, Mr. Stoddart contributed to various magazines and periodicals, and took an active interest in all that pertained to the preservation and perfection of his beloved pastime, angling; and his advice was greatly sought after by those interested in the gentle craft. Mr. Stoddart will be much missed in Kelso, and on Tweed-side and Teviot-side, every stream and pool of which rivers he knew so well, and loved to sing about. He leaves a widow, two sons, and a daughter, to mourn his loss. Our engraving of his portrait is from a photograph by Macintosh and Co., of Kelso.

THE LATE THOMAS T. STODDART.
ANGLER ON THE TWEED.

THE COLLISION OFF SPEZIA.

Further particulars as to the disastrous collision which occurred between two screw-steamers, off Spezia, on the 24th ult., have been received. The Ortigia, it appears, had left Genoa at 11.30 p.m. on the 23rd ult., with a crew of forty-four men and thirty-six passengers. The Oncle Joseph had about 800 tons merchandise and 305 persons, including emigrants and crew, some families going out to Buenos Ayres, viâ Marseilles, by the Berlin steamer. The total number of lives saved is said to be fifty-five, of which twenty-three belonged to the ship; so that the total loss of life may be put down at 250. The survivors of the crew of the Oncle Joseph state that about three a.m., when off Spezia, a tremendous crash was heard, and it was found that a large steamer had run into the Oncle Joseph, striking her amidships and cutting her down to the water's edge. The crew and passengers rushed on deck, and some of them succeeded in climbing on to the bows of the Ortigia; but the latter backed astern, and as soon as the vessels parted the water rushed in through the open side of the Oncle Joseph, and she sank in less than eight minutes. The sea, which was quite smooth at the time, was then covered with a struggling mass of human beings. It is said that only one small boat could be got out by those on board the Ortigia, a few lives being saved by that means. The Ortigia herself received serious damage to her cutwater and plates on the port bow, and probably owes her safety to her watertight bulkhead. The Captain, Dacombe, of the Oncle Joseph, is among the drowned. An investigation as to the cause of the disaster is being held. The Ortigia was brought into Leghorn for repairs; and the British Vice-Consul there, Mr. A. Percy Inglis, furnishes us with a sketch of the damaged condition of her bows.



BOWS OF THE ORTIGIA AFTER COLLISION WITH THE ONCLE JOSEPH IN GULF OF SPEZIA.

THE RUSSIANS IN SERVIA.

A monument has been erected at Rujevatz, near Alexinatz, in Servia, to the memory of the Russian volunteers, who came in 1876 to the aid of the Servians at the time of their unequal struggle with the Turkish Empire. The inscription records this occasion, adding a sentence from the New Testament:—"Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends."

One of the foremost among those volunteers, and the first of them who was destined to lay down his life for the freedom of the Christian Slavs in Turkey, was the martyr-hero of the war—the typical Russian hero—Nicolai Kiréeff. His name is a word of power in Russia and Servia. It will long be told in national song and story, how this Russian officer led the Serv battalions to the fight, attired in a white uniform, which marked out his tall figure for the five Turkish shots by which he fell, uttering his last cry, "Forward! Forward!" How the echo of this cry resounded with responsive action through the hearts of the Russian people is related, in quotations from various sources, in the very remarkable work, written in English by the sister of Kiréeff, entitled "Russia and England," by O. K. (Longmans). Her chapter headed the "Russian People and the War" is the best explanation of this monument to the Russian volunteers who fell in Servia.

MONUMENT TO RUSSIAN VOLUNTEERS AT RUJEVATZ, SERVIA.

FINE ARTS.

SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS.

The exhibitions in Suffolk-street continue to improve, thanks to the less conventional element imported by the new members; nevertheless, the works of real artistic value are too sparsely distributed to detain the critical visitor long. If we select, in the first instance (irrespective of size and price), only those which evince refined observation and artistic sensitiveness, or capacity and power of the finer kinds, the list will be soon exhausted.

We should include, however, among these "Lionel Smythe's little picture (39) of a girl standing on a rustic bridge, and his scene on board a ship, "Short-handed" (351), in a storm, with a young woman pressed to help at the pumps; W. H. Bartlett's couple of French gossips retailing "The Latest News" (101) by the roadside in a landscape beautiful in lighting and tone; several landscapes and studies by J. E. Grace; a very pretty girl in old-fashioned mob cap and mittens, brilliantly lighted from the side (196), by R. J. Gordon; G. C. Hindley's vigorously-handled figure of a Round-head puzzled and irate at receipt of a threatening anonymous letter (550); W. Dendy Sadler's couple of patiently enthusiastic anglers, entitled "Great Expectations" (123), the expressions of which are capital; H. Caffieri's woodland scene (191), which has nice "quality" of colour in the foliage [illegible]; and A. Ludovici's "Fresh-Water Sailors" (287), the scene apparently one of the gay flowery lawns on the banks of the Thames. To these may be added a portrait of a little girl (231) by J. B. Yeates, and small landscapes or studies by W. L. Wyllie, H. Goodwin, E. A. Waterlow, D. Law, and A. E. Emslie. "The Breton Fortune-Teller" (447), by J. M. Wimbush, has strength and character, but the background is too inky. "Idle Hours" (257), by A. G. Bell, is primarily a courageous study of chiaroscuro.

There are, however, some other paintings of undeniable ability, which make a more forcible appeal to the eye than many of the preceding, by means of a freer application of the pigments—which aim at a vivid aspect of general truth, and of particular truth in the local tache, as the French say, but no more; and which, consequently, are apt to sacrifice the subtler delicacies of modelling in form and modulation in colour. Foremost among the works to which we allude are those of the young Scotch painters, J. R. Reid and J. White—the former represented (and to advantage as a colourist) in an upright decorative-looking composition of two girls parting after a quarrel (157); and in No. 144, the finding of a little strayed girl asleep in a corn-field; the latter—J. White—in a large picture of farm out-buildings, with a white horse, under an effect of twilight sky, which is telling, but not quite right in the relations of tone. With these may be grouped other contributors, whose aims seem to be analogous; such as Edwin Ellis, who is, however, more than usually sketchy; H. H. Cauty, Stuart Lloyd, Yeend King, Tom Griffiths, B. Evans, and W. H. Gadsby.

Among the absentees are J. Burr and G. Cole, who will be missed from this gallery; but other members long popular with the habitués, or who are rising into notice, put in an appearance—viz., E. J. Cobbett, W. Holyoake, J. Hayllar, J. Peel, A. J. Woolmer, Carlton A. Smith, W. Gosling, G. A. Holmes, P. Macnab, L. C. Henley, Haynes King, J. Morgan, G. S. Walters, and J. H. S. Mann.

We would, in conclusion, commend to notice the contributions of R. P. Staples, A. M. Rossi, J. Charlton, W. J. Muckley, W. C. Symonds, W. Savage Cooper, and Jessica Hayllar, together with some water-colour drawings, which deserve to be looked for, but which, we regret, we have not space to specify.

The exhibitions of the Society and the Institute of Painters in Water Colours, which were opened to the public on Monday, will be noticed next week.

The Fine-Art Council at Paris have decided that at the Salon next year not more than 2500 pictures will be received. A proposal made by M. Edmond About, that 500 of the best pictures should be shown in a "salon d'honneur" has been referred to a sub-committee for consideration.

The Lord Mayor attended in state at the institute, Drummond-street, Hampstead-road, last Saturday evening, to distribute the prizes to the successful competitors in the industrial exhibition held in connection with the Tolmer-square Institute, which was opened on Oct. 16 last by Sir Thomas Chambers, M.P., and Mr. Daniel Grant, M.P., and which closed on the 30th of the same month. The prizes consisted of one gold, fifteen silver, and forty-three bronze medals, sixty-three certificates, and eleven presentations from gentlemen interested in the institution. The prize-takers numbered 130. The Lord Mayor said he regarded such exhibitions as most important and valuable in connection not only with the working men, but with the prosperity of the country. Almost all the great industries which had contributed to the wealth, prosperity, and dignity of the country had originated with the working classes. After alluding to the work of Arkwright, Stephenson, and Watt, he reminded them that in England every young man had the opportunity of attaining to almost any position; and in proof of this instanced Lord Beaconsfield and Mr. Mundella. He dwelt on the importance of technical education, and said that the question was now being energetically taken up in the City of London, and he trusted the example would be followed in the provinces. The various guilds of London would soon commence with a college, which would enable the working men to be so educated as to understand scientifically the work in which they were engaged.

Digitized by Google

It is stated that Mr. Redgrave, R.A., has resigned the office of Surveyor of Her Majesty's Pictures, which he had held for many years, with that of Inspector-General for Art.

The Court of Common Council has resolved to contribute £2000 annually out of the City's cash in aid of the objects of the City and Guilds of London Institute for the advancement of technical education during the pleasure of the Court, but for a period not exceeding five years.

"A Picturesque Tour in Picturesque Lands" (Strahan and Co.) is a handsomely got-up volume, with numerous illustrations, which, however, we think have all done duty elsewhere. The book will form, nevertheless, a handsome addition to the drawing-room table.

Mr. Samuel A. Walker, of 200, Regent-street, has started the idea of taking photographic portraits "at home." The idea is novel, and will probably be convenient to many; but the photograph fear, will often suffer inconvenience from a want of a properly arranged light.

"The Jolly Postboys," the admirable picture by Mr. H. S. Marks, R.A., exhibited in the Royal Academy a year or two ago, has been most excellently etched by V. Lhuillier, and published by Mr. Lefevre, King-street, St. James's. It is a first-rate specimen of etching, and will surely sustain the increasing taste for that delightful art.

Messrs. Howell and James were intrusted with the task of designing and executing the gold casket presented by the Fishmongers' Company, with the freedom of the company, to Sir Frederick Roberts, at a banquet held at their hall on Thursday. The box is oblong, with a domed lid, is designed in the style of the Italian Renaissance, and is elaborately ornamented.

The Manchester Royal Institution, comprising the land, buildings, and pictures, and valued altogether at £120,000, has been offered by the council to the Manchester Corporation as a gift for public use, on condition that the Corporation provide an endowment of £2000 a year for the purchase of pictures to form a public art-gallery for the city and maintain the present institution.

Mr. Bryce, M.P., distributed the prizes at the City School of Art, Skinner-street, Bishopsgate, on the 2nd inst. He addressed the students and those assembled to witness the ceremony. After giving expression to the pleasure which all present must feel at the growing restoration in health and strength of Mr. Rogers, the Rector of Bishopsgate, who had laboured so earnestly for the school, Mr. Bryce said the committee might be congratulated on the excellence of the work done by the pupils; but he was sorry not to be able to congratulate them also on the financial condition of the school. It was very badly off for funds.

The prizes gained by the successful students of the City School of Art, at the recent examinations of the Science and Art Department, were distributed on the 2nd inst. by Mr. J. Bryce, M.P., Regius Professor of Civil Law, Oxford. The Rev. R. H. Hadden, hon. sec., after observing that the present premises were a serious drawback to the prosperity of the school, it was remarked that this year, with fewer students, the amount of the Government grant—a sure criterion of good work—had increased. The prospects of the school were bright and brightening. It had abundant scope for good work; and there was every reason why it, with the help of the citizens of London, should take a foremost place among the art-teaching agencies of the country. Professor Bryce, in his address, said that from the specimens of the work which they saw around them they might reasonably congratulate the school upon the progress its scholars had recently made.

HOME NEWS.

Dr. George Mayers has been elected Lord Mayor of Dublin, and Mr. Daniel O'Sullivan Mayor for Cork.

Mr. Thomas Carlyle completed his eighty-fifth year on Saturday last.

The Lord Mayor has consented to preside at the annual festival of the Warehousemen's and Clerks' Schools, on Feb. 3.

A notice revising the rules for the promotion and relative rank and allowances of the Indian medical service was published in the Gazette of yesterday week.

Mr. Leslie Stephen opened the lecture season at the London Institution on Monday by reading a paper on "The Relation of Morality to Literature." The theatre was crowded.

On Tuesday evening the new schools erected by the London School Board in Park-walk, King's-road, Chelsea, were opened by Sir Charles Reed, M.P., Chairman of the Board.

Rare feats of strength and agility were performed at the German Gymnastic Society's annual competition at the Gymnasium, King's-cross, on Wednesday and Thursday last.

Mr. Monk, M.P., has consented to temporarily occupy the office of President of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, vacated by the decease of Mr. Whitwell, M.P.,

Mrs. Brassey, wife of Mr. Brassey, M.P., Civil Lord of the Admiralty, on the 2nd inst. presented medals and certificates for navigation and nautical astronomy to the pupils in the Royal Hospital School, Greenwich.

The twenty-first annual exhibition of sporting and other dogs, which was held in Curzon Hall, Birmingham, last week, fairly maintained the progressive character which has marked these shows for some years past.

Some notion of the extent of the work of the St. John Ambulance Association may be gathered from the fact that during the past week sixteen classes were examined in the lakes district alone.

Taking for a subject "The Literature of To-Day, with a Guess at To-Morrow's," Professor Henry Morley on Monday evening gave the fifth and concluding lecture of a series given by him to the members of the Westbourne Park Institute.

A notice has been issued by the London Financial Association that the Alexandra Palace and Park, a freehold estate of about 470 acres, will be offered for sale by auction at the Mart, on Friday, Feb. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. German Reed's Entertainment will close after Saturday next, Dec. 18, and reopen on Boxing-Day at three and eight. "The Turquoise Ring" will be temporarily withdrawn, and an entirely new Holiday Programme will be given on Boxing-Day at three.

On Tuesday the Lord Mayor remitted to Herr von Tisza, the Minister President of Hungary, £600, being the first instalment of the Mansion House Fund for the relief of the sufferers by the earthquakes at Agram. Messrs. F. Huth and Co. have contributed £100 to the Lord Mayor's Fund.

Some public ornamental gardens, nearly two acres in extent, which have been laid out around the parish church at Redditch, were opened on the 2nd inst. by Lord Windsor, lord of the manor. The ground was given by his Lordship, and the work has been carried out at a cost of about £1150.

Lord Roden has made an abatement of 25 per cent upon the half-year's rents due on Michaelmas Day. This reduction is to be permanent during the continuance of the existing leases. The Rev. Sir Cavendish Foster, Rector of Theydon Garnon, has returned 20 per cent upon the year's tithe.

In consequence of the renewal of the riots by the Rebeccaites in Radnorshire, the Lord Lieutenant of that county (Colonel Walsh) has, at the request of a large number of magistrates, convened a public meeting of the justices, to be held at Presteign, to devise means for the maintaining of the public peace.

Sir Edward Reed, who is chairman of the Milford Docks Company, visited the works in Pembrokeshire on Saturday last and laid the principal stone of the invert sill of the large, graving dock there. This immense dry dock is 700 ft. long, 96 ft. broad, and 26 ft. deep, and has already, in its unfinished state, accommodated the Great Eastern steam-ship. It is now rapidly approaching completion.

American farming formed the subject of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Farmer's Club on Monday. It was introduced by Mr. C. S. Read, who drew attention to the principal points in the official report of himself and Mr. Pell, whose instructions, in their visit to the United States, were to record Agricultural facts and to collect statistics, England he said, could defy competition with all countries in the world except America.

As an instance of commercial enterprise, it may be interesting to state that Messrs. H. and F. Pears, of London, offered to supply the Government, free of charge, with all the forms, eight or nine millions in number, required for taking the forthcoming Census; the only recompense they expected for this vast outlay, estimated at £100,000, being the right of printing on the back of each Census paper a notice of the well-known Pears' Soap.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the fourth week in November was 91,268, of whom 51,020 were in workhouses, and 40,248 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in the years 1879, 1878, and 1877, these figures show an increase of 1900, 10,027, and 10,132 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 902, of whom 668 were men, 187 women, and 47 children.

Messrs. A. and S. Gatti have bought for the Adelphi Theatre the right of the English version of "Michael Strogoff," recently produced with so much success in Paris, and composed by MM. D'Ennery and Jules Verne. The piece is to be produced in the early spring on a scale of great splendour, and the cast of characters will include several of the most popular favourites of the London stage. The scenery will be intrusted to Mr. William Beverley, the great scenic artist.

Mr. Spurgeon presided on the 1st inst. at a meeting held at the Metropolitan Tabernacle to further the interests of the Pastors' College. According to the last published account, 470 ministers have been educated in the college, and 132 new churches have been formed, and 36,123 persons baptized through its instrumentality. In the institution were 110 students, while 220 attended the evening classes. The weekly expenses of the establishment amount to £120.

It will be remembered that the first meeting of Edward Trickett and Wallace Ross over the Thames championship course resulted in "no race," as a slight foul occurred close to Hammersmith Bridge, and the umpire ordered them to row again. They accordingly arranged to do so on Saturday last. Odds of 6 and 7 to 4 were laid on the Australian, but Ross, taking a commanding lead in the first quarter of a mile, was never really pressed, and won with the greatest ease by four lengths. The time was 23 min. 42 sec.

Mr. Flowers, the Bow-street magistrate, presided on the 2nd inst. at the annual supper given to the criminal classes by the St. Giles's Christian Mission. About 250 persons responded to the invitation sent. A letter of sympathy with the movement to reclaim the criminals was read from the Home Secretary, and a statement was made of the work of the Mission, which had sent many boys to sea and provided others with employment, clothes, or tools. Mr. Flowers addressed the assembly, and exhorted them to avoid drink and to try to lead a new life. He expressed his sympathy with them in their difficulties under police supervision after penal servitude, and said, amid loud cheers, that nothing in his mind was harder to bear.

The Court of Common Council, at their meeting on the 2nd inst., unanimously resolved that the freedom of the City, with a sword of the value of one hundred guineas, should be presented to Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts in recognition of his gallant services in Afghanistan. The Finance Committee reported adversely to a proposal that the Corporation should contribute to the Institute for the Advancement of Technical Education in the Metropolis, which is being promoted by the City Guilds. The Court, however, disapproved the report, and resolved to make a grant of £2000 per annum for a period not exceeding five years. The Court sanctioned the raising of a temporary loan of £40,000 for the purposes of the new Fruit and Vegetable Market, and gave directions for the erection of necessary works at the Foreign Cattle Market at a cost of £5000.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1881.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office, Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 30s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 500 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 6d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

WALKER'S
IVORY HAND-PAINTED
CHRISTMAS and NEW-YEAR CARDS.
"Simply exquisite."—Punch. "Highly luxurious."—Graphic. "Exquisite specimens."—Illustrated London News. "Able to bear comparison with any others both for originality and good work," says the Queen.
Each Tablet of Ivory is protected by an appropriate Motto Card, and packed in a neat box.
To be obtained of all high-class Stationers. Wholesale only of JOHN WALKER and CO., 86, Farringdon-street, London.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. — Statham's Catalogue of Scientific Amusements, Chemical Experiment Chests, Working Models, Magic Lanterns, Educational Toys, Games, &c. Sent free for 2 stamps.—113A, Strand, London.

CHAS. CODD'S ORANGE CHAMPAGNE is made simply from oranges. It is a light and wholesome tonic, and, being free from chemicals as well as sugar, it is the purest and best of the non-alcoholic drinks. Price, in large champagne bottles, 7s. per dozen; in small, 4s. Bottles charged 2s., and same allowed when returned.—C. CODD and CO., 79, Copenhagen-street, London. Sold by all Grocers, Chemists, and Wine Merchants.

HOMŒOPATHIC Home Hospital (Select) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-rd., Surrey. Estd. 1857. A Home for the Cure of Internal and External Tumours and other Diseases of Women without cutting. Treatise of successful cures post-free. Physicians—David Jones, M.D.; Horace Lowther, L.R.C.P. Dr. Jones attends at his residence, 15, Welbeck-street, London, daily, 11 till 1 (except Tuesday and Friday). Dr. Lowther attends daily, 9 till 11, at Bolton House, where, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and evenings, the fee is 2s. 6d.

THROAT IRRITATION.—Soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. For these symptoms use EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES. Glycerine, in these agreeable confections, being in proximity to the glands at the moment they are excited by the act of sucking, becomes actively healing. Sold only in Boxes, 7½d. and 1s. 1½d., labelled "James Epps and Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London." A letter received:—"Gentlemen,—It may, perhaps, interest you to know that, after an extended trial, I have found your Glycerine Jujubes of considerable benefit (with or without medical treatment) in almost all forms of throat disease. They soften and clear the voice. In no case can they do any harm.—Yours faithfully, Gordon Holmes, L.R.C.P.E., Senior Physician to the Municipal Throat and Ear Infirmary."

THROAT AFFECTIONS, Coughs and Colds, are immediately relieved by DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS. Nothing else gives such a sound, refreshing night's rest. They taste pleasantly.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

HOOPING COUGH,
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

ALLEN AND HANBURYS'
"PERFECTED" COD-LIVER OIL
is free from disagreeable taste and smell, and causes no nausea, or after-taste. Of all Chemists, in capsuled bottles only.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 33 and 35, City-road, E.C. London. Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

A MASS of CURLS is assured by regularly using two or three times a week COX'S CURLING FLUID, warranted harmless. Protected by Government stamp, signed John Robert Cox. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, with full directions, of all Chemists, or forwarded by L. N. MARSHALL, 38, St. Mary's-square, Kennington, London, S.E., on receipt of amount.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS
ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Ladies' Attendant,
J. F. PRATT,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all Impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

CHILBLAINS, RHEUMATISM, &c. Chilblains are prevented from breaking and their tormenting itching instantly removed by WHITEHEAD'S ESSENCE OF MUSTARD. Guaranteed by an extensive and successful experience of nearly a century. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, of BARCLAY and SONS, 95, Farringdon-street; and all Medicine Venders.

FITS.—EPILEPSY, or FALLING SICKNESS.—SENSATIONS, GIDDINESS, FAINTS.—A Pamphlet addressed to sufferers from these distressing complaints, explaining their treatment and complete Cure. By a Physician of 25 years' experience. Pamphlet gratis and post-free from Mr. WILLIAMS, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park, London.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 493, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

Just published, Illustrated, post-free, 1s. 8d.,
DECORATIVE PAINTING. A Practical Guide to Decorating the Walls of any Apartment, Painting Panels, Screens, and Terra Cotta. By W. E. HARRISON.—WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

Fourth Edition, cloth, post-free, 13 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Homœopathy.
"A clever expose of the system."
G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free, Two Stamps.
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

One Shilling; or by post for 12 stamps,
BRONCHITIS AND ASTHMA: their Spray and Pneumatic Treatment. By GEORGE MOORE, M.D. JAMES EPPS and Co. 170, Piccadilly; and 48, Threadneedle-street.

FRAMES FOR "WONDERLAND." Handsome Gilt Frames for the large Coloured Picture given with the Christmas Number, including Glass and Backboard, 3s.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden.

FRAMES FOR "WONDERLAND." Very Choice ornamental Gilt Frame, made specially for the above Picture, 6s. 6d.; the ordinary price would be about 20s. GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden.

FRAMES FOR "WONDERLAND." Very neat Oak and Gold Frame, with wide cardboard mount. Suitable for dining-rooms, 10s.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden (opposite Drury-lane Theatre).

CHARMING CRAYON PORTRAITS. Send Photo and 10s. 6d. to A. and J. BOOL, Artists (from Royal Academy, National Medallist), 86, Warwick-street, Pimlico, London, who will return photo with faithful Crayon Drawing from it, 15 by 10 inches, post-free, home or abroad. 100 testimonials. Tinted Crayons, 21s.; Water-colour, 21s.; Oil, two guineas; Life-size highly-finished Crayon, £5 5s. On Paris Français.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES for Painting, Fern Painting, and Decalcomanie, Blotting-Books, Card Plates, Cigar-Cases, Screens, &c. Priced List free.
WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

Digitized by Google

BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES.

Crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students."

Extract from Preface:

"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simply than in text-books on Zoology. For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena, and I have been more careful to sketch in bold outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.

I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lesser Unwowers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Mailed Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies within their Coats.
XII. Intelligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," &c.

"Her methods of presenting certain facts and phenomena difficult to grasp are most original and striking, and admirably calculated to enable the reader to realise the truth. As to the interest of her story, we have tested it in a youthful subject, and she mentioned it in the same breath with 'Grimm's Fairy Tales.' We are sure any of the older children would welcome it as a Christmas present; but it deserves to take a permanent place in the literature of youth."—Times.

Second Edition, post 8vo, cloth, 1s. 6d.,

DOMESTIC ECONOMY AND HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE. Adapted for Home Education, and for Schoolmistresses and Pupil-Teachers. By ROBERT JAMES MANN, M.D., late Superintendent of Education at Natal.

"Mr. Mann's directions are practical and judicious, and frequently he says a good deal that is worth attention in a few words. The little volume is one in which most people who have, or are likely to have, anything to do with household cares, will find some hints worth noting."—Saturday Review.

Post 8vo, cloth, 3s. 6d.,

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE: Readings in Necessary Knowledge for Girls and Young Women. Edited by Rev. J. P. FAUNTHORPE, Principal of Whitelands Training College. Dedicated by permission to his Grace the Duke of Westminster, K.G.

CONTENTS:—Domestic Economy—Food and its Preparation—Clothing and its Materials—The Dwelling: its Warming, Cleaning, and Ventilation—Washing Materials and their Use—Rules for Health—The Management of the Sick Room—Cottage Income and Expenditure.

Fcap folio, each 7s. 6d.,

INSTRUCTIVE PICTURE-BOOKS: A series of Volumes Illustrative of Natural History and of the Vegetable World, with Descriptive Letterpress.

No. I.—NATURAL HISTORY OF ANIMALS. By ADAM WHITE. With 54 folio Coloured Plates. Tenth Edition.
No. II.—LESSONS FROM THE VEGETABLE WORLD. By the Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." With 31 Double-page plates. Fifth Edition.
No. III.—GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION OF ANIMALS. 60 Folio Coloured Plates. Third Edition.
No. IV.—PICTURES of ANIMAL and VEGETABLE LIFE in ALL LANDS. Second Edition. Forty-eight folio Coloured Plates.
No. V.—PICTORIAL LESSONS on FORM, COMPARISON, and NUMBER, for Children under Seven Years of Age. Eighth Edition. Thirty-six oblong folio Coloured Illustrations.

"These volumes are among the most Instructive Picture-Books we have seen, and we know of none better calculated to excite and gratify the appetite of the young for the knowledge of nature."—Times.

Fcap folio, 7s. 6d.,

THE INSTRUCTIVE ATLAS OF MODERN GEOGRAPHY. Intended for the use of Young Pupils. Containing 17 Coloured Maps, each 17 inches by 14.

"This new atlas cannot fail to become a popular one. It is evidently designed with a view to making it not so much a work of reference as an aid to the teacher. The individual maps, of which there are seventeen, are beautifully bold in outline, are not crowded with a host of unnecessary names, and are so clear and distinct that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in deciphering any single name. All the maps are brought down to the present date, Western Europe and South Africa especially receiving careful attention."—Schoolmaster.

Second Edition, crown 8vo, with 77 Illustrations, cloth, 7s. 6d.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 13s.,

A SHORT HISTORY OF NATURAL SCIENCE, and of the Progress of Discovery from the Time of the Greeks to the Present Day. For the Use of Schools and Young Persons. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," "The Fairyland of Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students," &c.

"Guides to literature abound; guides to science, similar in purpose and character to Miss Buckley's 'History' are unknown. The writer's plan, therefore, is original, and her execution of the plan is altogether admirable. . . . She sees clearly what she describes and the interest felt by the author is imparted to the reader. Diagrams and illustrations of the letterpress add to the value of the compendium."—Pall Mall Gazette.

SIMPLE LESSONS. By Eminent Writers.

CONTENTS: Our Bodily Life—How and Why we Breathe—Food—Drink—Cookery—Plain Needlework—Clothing—Air and Ventilation—The Sicknesses that Spread—Weather—Astronomy—Birds—Flowers—Money.

Demy, cloth, 2s. 6d.

The Simple Lessons are also published separately, 3d. each, or 16s. per 100, assorted. The Set of 14, in card case, 3s.

"Couched in clear, straightforward language, these papers cannot fail to be understood by children; and, collected together in their present form, will be as useful for home teaching as for regular school instruction."—Graphic.

STUDIES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE. By JOHN DENNIS, Editor of "English Sonnets: a Selection from 1547," &c.

Crown 8vo, cloth, 7s. 6d.

CONTENTS—Pope—Defoe—Prior—Steele—The Wartons—John Wesley—Southey—English Lyrical Poetry—English Rural Poetry—The English Sonnet.

"One of the best books upon poetry which we have had for a very long time."—Westminster Review.

"An excellent book. It has the charm—quite captivating in these days—of being entirely void of affectation, extravagance, or any trick of singularity; and it displays sound judgment, both moral and æsthetic, and a thorough mastery of the subjects with which it deals."—Spectator.

With 32 full-page Illustrations, post 8vo, cloth, 4s.; a few copies, with the Illustrations hand-coloured, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 14s.,

BOTANY FOR CHILDREN. An Illustrated Elementary Text-Book for Junior Classes and Young Children. By the Rev. GEORGE HENSLOW, M.A., F.L.S., F.G.S., Author of "Floral Dissections."

"Just such an elementary text-book of botany as might be put into practical use in schools without the slightest doubt that children would take to it."—Science Gossip.

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Second Edition. Post 8vo, cloth, with Forty Illustrations and Maps, 1s.,

GEOGRAPHY FOR LITTLE CHILDREN. By ANTONIA ZIMMERN.

"In a very simple and interesting way attempts to show the use of a map and teach some of the elementary points of physical geography. Its numerous attractive and quite original illustrations are an important feature."—Nature.

"An infinitely first book for young children. By maps and illustrations the configuration and physical geography of the world are taught in a very popular and attractive style. It will prove a suitable gift-book for little folk."

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and CO.'S MAGAZINES:—

ART.

THE MAGAZINE of ART

IS NOW ENLARGED, and PUBLISHED at ONE SHILLING MONTHLY.

THE MAGAZINE OF ART.—Notice.

The very great success which has attended the enlargement and development of this Magazine has already called for a Fourth Edition of Part I. of the Enlarged Series, three large editions having been exhausted within a few days of publication. Part I., containing the exquisitely-produced etching by Erskine Nicol, A.R.A. (etched by Lalauze), is now again on sale at all Booksellers' and the Bookstalls.

Second Edition, now ready, price 1s.,

THE MAGAZINE OF ART for DECEMBER, being the Second Part of the Enlarged Series, containing:—

A CHARGE OF WITCHCRAFT. From the Painting by H. G. Glindoni.
CRADLES OF ART. With five Illustrations.
THE MANY MOODS OF SIR FREDERICK LEIGHTON, P.R.A. With an Engraving.
MANXLAND. With five Illustrations.
INDIAN PIETRA-DURA WORK. With five Engravings.
HOW ARCHITECTURAL DESIGNS ARE SPOILED.
HENRI REGNAULT. With Portrait and Autograph, and three Engravings.
BUNDLES OF RUE: Lives of Artists recently Deceased.
IN THE FOREST. From the Painting by Frits Auguste Kaulbach.
THE EXHIBITION OF CHRISTMAS CARDS AT THE DUDLEY GALLERY. With Illustrations.
A SPANISH OFFICIAL.
ART ORNAMENTATION UPON ARMS AND ARMOUR. With three Engravings.
SKETCHES AND STUDIES BY OLD AND MODERN MASTERS. With five Sketches.
FRUITLESS LABOUR. From the Painting by R. Geyling.
ART NOTES.

N.B.—The frontispiece to the December Part of the "Magazine of Art" presents an example of what can be accomplished by wood engraving in its highest form. The subject is "A Charge of Witchcraft," by H. G. Glindoni, exhibited in the Royal Academy Exhibition of 1880, and may be fairly said to rival the exquisite Etching which enriches the November Part of this Magazine.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., London; and all Booksellers.

THE QUIVER,

FOR SUNDAY READING.

THE QUIVER for SUNDAY READING.

THE QUIVER. Monthly, 6d.

THE QUIVER.—COMMENCEMENT of a NEW VOLUME.

THE QUIVER for NOVEMBER and DECEMBER form the FIRST TWO PARTS of the NEW VOLUME.

THE QUIVER for DECEMBER, price 6d.,

CONTAINS—

WITNESSES FOR CHRIST IN THE WORLD'S WORK. By the Rev. ROBERT SCHINDLER.
DEDICATED. A Poem. By the Rev. J. T. BURTON WOLLASTON.
WHAT is TIME? By W. A. GIBBS.
THE FOOD OF THE SOUL. By the Rev. GORDON CALTHORP, M.A.
THE FAMILY COUNCIL.—The Education of the Daughters of the House.
SCRIPTURE LESSONS FOR SCHOOL AND HOME.
A HOME OF HEALTH FOR CHILDREN.
"THE LORD MY SHEPHERD." Music by the Rev. FREDERICK PEEL, B.Mus.
WHAT Is INSTINCT? By the Rev. W. BOYD CARPENTER, M.A.
A BRAVE SCHOLAR.
A SPARKLING SPECIMEN.
THE PEOPLE CALLED QUAKERS.
RESTFUL THOUGHTS FOR BUSY PEOPLE.—God's Way the Right Way. By the Rev. W. BOYD CARPENTER, M.A.
MEN WE HAVE MET. Character Sketches and Life Pictures.—The Man who had no Time. By the Rev. A. BROWN.
THE FISHER GIRL'S SONG. By the Rev. M. G. WATKINS.
SHORT ARROWS.—The Queen of Madagascar—A Home Hospital—A Welsh Welcome for Strangers—Girls in Africa—Jottings from Japan—Coffee-Houses at Bombay—The Palestine Survey—A River Mission—By the Cliffs of Dover.

SERIAL STORIES:

IN VANITY AND VEXATION. A North-Country Story. By LOUISA CROW.
BERTIE AND I. By the Author of "Keep on Sowing," &c.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN and Co., London.

Now ready, for DECEMBER, price 7d.,

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE, being the

FIRST PART OF A NEW VOLUME.

Now ready, price 7d.,

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for DECEMBER, forming the FIRST PART of a NEW VOLUME, containing:—

THE PROBATION OF DOROTHY TRAVERS. New Serial Story, commenced in this Part.
THE TROUBLE IT BROUGHT. New Serial Story, commenced in this Part.
PLEASANT WORK IN THE HOME.
HOW TO ENTERTAIN AT CHRISTMAS.
WHAT TO WEAR. By our Paris Correspondent.
CHRISTMAS DINNERS.
THE CHIFFONNIERS OF PARIS AT HOME.
POISONS AND THEIR ANTIDOTES.
A HOLIDAY IN SAVERNAKE FOREST.
HER CHILD. Short Story.
NEW MUSIC: The Parting Hour.
OUR LEARNED SOCIETIES.
THE SAILOR-BOY'S RETURN.
GARDENING IN DECEMBER.
ONLY A COMMON FLY. By Dr. Andrew Wilson.
FAITHLESS MARGARET. A Christmas Story.
THE GATHERER: A Chemical Lung—Refuge Caves for Miners—A Steep Railway—Making Paper Waterproof—New Sea-Sounders—The Telephone in Mines—Cooking Burners—Prize Double Acrostics—Double Acrostic Competition, Special Notices, &c.

LITTLE FOLKS.

LITTLE FOLKS. Monthly, 6d.

THE MAGAZINE

FOR GIRLS and BOYS.

NOTICE.

LITTLE FOLKS for JANUARY, published DEC. 21, price 6d., will form the FIRST PART of a New Volume, and will contain a charming Coloured Frontispiece, the commencement of Two New Serial Stories, Particular of New Prize Competitions, and other attractive features.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

CHRISTMAS and NEW-YEAR'S GIFTS, PRIZES, REWARDS, &c.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES of Cassell, Petter, Galpin, and Co.'s Publications, containing a List of Several Hundred VOLUMES, consisting of Bibles and Religious Works, Fine-Art Volumes, Children's Books, Dictionaries, Educational Works, History, Natural History, Household and Domestic Treatises, Handbooks and Guides, Science, Travels, &c., together with a Synopsis of their numerous Illustrated Serial Publications, sent post-free on application to

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

THE MILLER AND HIS MEN.

THE MILLER AND HIS MEN is the Title of the

EXTRA CHRISTMAS NUMBER, PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED, of

THE BOYS' NEWSPAPER,

READY DEC. 17. Price ONE PENNY.

Orders now received by all Newsagents, and at the Railway Bookstalls.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR, in WEEKLY NUMBERS and MONTHLY PARTS.

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR.

Numbers 1 to 8 now ready, price 1d. each, or post-free, 8d

THE UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR.

Parts I. and II. now ready. With Part I. is PRESENTED GRATIS a valuable CHART of the HISTORY of the WORLD, printed in Colours. Prospectus post-free on application.

WARD and LOCK'S UNIVERSAL INSTRUCTOR; or, Self-Culture for All.

The Athenæum of Nov. 6, 1880, says:—"The work is excellent, and it is to be hoped it may meet with the popularity it deserves."

"Such a work as this will be a welcome boon."—School Board Chronicle. Prospectuses post-free on application.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Just ready, in Picture Wrapper, price 1s.,

PETTON'S CHRISTMAS ANNUAL, 21st SEASON, Entitled

THE FORTUNATE ISLAND, containing contributions by Max Adeler (Author of "Out of the Hurly-Burly," &c.) Henry Frith, G. R. Emerson, J. G. Montefiore, &c. Humorously Illustrated by Athelstan Rusden.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

NOTICE TO LADIES.—The Grand DOUBLE CHRISTMAS NUMBER of SYLVIA'S HOME JOURNAL is now ready, containing 96 pages of letterpress and six valuable supplements. Price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 2d.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Now issuing, in Sixpenny Monthly Parts, a Series of Original Biographies, each Part containing the Lives of Four Great Men of the World.

WARD and LOCK'S

WORTHIES OF THE WORLD.

Containing the Lives of Notable Men of all Countries and all Times. With Portraits.

Part I., price 6d., contains the Lives of RALEIGH, NAPOLEON I., SCHILLER, EDMUND BURKE.

Part II., Price 6d., contains the Lives of DR. JOHNSON, MOLIERE, SIMON DE MONTFORT, FREDERICK THE GREAT.

Parts I. and II. now ready. Prospectus post-free.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

AN ENTIRELY NEW WORK FOR THE AMATEUR IN CARPENTRY JOINERY BUILDING, TURNING, FRETSAWING, PAINTING, GLAZING, &c.

WARD and LOCK'S

EVERY MAN HIS OWN MECHANIC.

A Complete Guide to all Operations in Building, Making, and Mending that can be done by Amateurs in the House, Garden, Farm, &c. With Hundreds of Illustrations. In MONTHLY PARTS, price 6d. each. PART I. now ready.

Prospectus post-free on application.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

DE LA RUE AND CO'S. ANNOUNCEMENTS. BUNHILL-ROW, LONDON, E.C.

Now ready, in Two Handsome Volumes, demy 8vo, price 32s., with a Portrait by Paul Rajon, and other Illustrations.

THE LIFE OF SIR ROWLAND HILL, K.C.B., and the HISTORY OF PENNY POSTAGE. By Sir ROWLAND HILL and his Nephew GEORGE BIRKBECK HILL, D.C.L., Author of "Dr. Johnson: his Friends and his Critics," &c.

Now ready, in royal 4to, cloth, extra gilt, price 6s., NEW ILLUSTRATED CHILDREN'S BOOK.

THE STORY OF PRINCE HILDEBRAND AND THE PRINCESS IDA. By Major T. S. SECCOMBE. With upwards of 110 Illustrations by the Author.

Now ready, crown 8vo, cloth, price 7s. 6d.,

VOYAGES OF THE ELIZABETHAN SEAMEN. A Selection from the Original Narratives in Hakluyt's Collection. Edited, with Historical Introduction, by E. J. PAYNE, M.A., Fellow of University College, Oxford.

Shortly, demy 8vo, cloth, with Maps and numerous Original Etchings on Stone, price 16s.,

THE SHORES AND CITIES OF THE BODEN SEA. Rambles in 1879 and 1880. By SAMUEL JAMES CAPPER, Author of "Wanderings in War Time," &c.

Shortly, new Work by Dr. Guy, F.R.S., crown 8vo,

THE FACTORS OF THE UNSOUND MIND. With Special Reference to the Plea of Insanity in Criminal Cases, and the Amendment of the Law. By WILLIAM A. GUY, M.B., F.R.C.P., F.R.S.

Shortly, crown 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

HISTORY OF GERMANY—POLITICAL, SOCIAL, AND LITERARY. Brought down to the Present Day. By the Rev. Dr. E. COBHAM BREWER, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Author of "History of France," "Guide to Science," &c.

Shortly, a new and Improved Edition, cap 8vo, cloth, price 3s. 6d.,

LAWS OF SHORT WHIST, and a Treatise on the Game. By JAMES CLAY.

DE LA RUE and CO.'S INDELIBLE RED-LETTER DIARIES, PORTABLE DIARIES, CONDENSED DIARIES, and TABLET CALENDARS, for 1881, in great variety, may now be had of all Booksellers and Stationers. Also, the "FINGER-SHAPED SERIES," in neat cases, extra gilt. Wholesale only of the Publishers,

THOS. DE LA RUE and Co., London.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR A BOY.

Ready this day, 736 pp., with upwards of 600 Illustrations, price 8s. 6d., cloth (postage, 7d.),

THE BOY'S OWN BOOK. A Complete Encyclopædia of Sports and Pastimes. A New, Revised, and Enlarged Edition, with additional Illustrations.

"Mr. Lockwood's 'Boy's Own Book' is the real original work, but in a new and much enlarged form. To name it is to praise it."—Saturday Review.

CROSBY LOCKWOOD and Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, London, E.C.

Just published, complete in Twelve Vols., or Six Double Vols., handsomely bound, 30s., post-free,

THINGS NOT GENERALLY KNOWN. By JOHN TIMBS, F.S.A. This collection of the far-famed "Encyclopædic Varieties" of the late learned and indefatigable antiquarian, forms an inexhaustible mine of reading—useful, entertaining, instructive, and marvellous—for long winter evenings and summer days.

"Punch" says:—"It is as full of information as a pomegranate is full of seed."

The volumes are sold separately as follows:—

MISCELLANIES, 2s. 6d.; MANNERS, CUSTOMS, &c., 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.

CURIOSITIES OF SCIENCE. Two vols., 2s. 6d. each; or in one vol., 5s.

CURIOSITIES OF HISTORY. 2s. 6d. POPULAR ERRORS EXPLAINED. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.

NOTABLE THINGS OF OUR TIME. 2s. 6d. THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.

A GARLAND FOR THE YEAR. 2s. 6d. KNOWLEDGE FOR THE TIME. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.

MYSTERIES OF LIFE, DEATH, AND FUTURITY. 2s. 6d. PREDICTIONS REALISED IN MODERN TIMES. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.

CROSBY LOCKWOOD, & Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, London, E.C.

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

At every Library.

NEW NOVELS.

ERRANT: A Life Story of Latter-Day Chivalry. By PERCY GREG, Author of "Across the Zodiac," &c. 3 vols.

SARAH DE BÉRANGER. New Novel. By JEAN INGELOW. 3 vols.

"Miss Ingelow cannot write anything commonplace."—Manchester Guardian.

A SAILOR'S SWEETHEART. By W. CLARK RUSSELL, Author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," "John Holdsworth," &c. 3 vols.

"We can promise those who read the novel a few sensations such as they cannot often have had before."—Vanity Fair.

"One of the most exciting and engrossing novels of which it is possible to conceive."—Morning Post.

"We have no hesitation in giving to the author of 'A Sailor's Sweetheart' the very highest place among all authors, living or dead, who have written of sailors and the sea."—Graphic.

PRINCE FORTUNE AND PRINCE FATAL. By Mrs. CARRINGTON, Author of "My Cousin Maurice," &c. 3 vols.

A PLOT OF THE PRESENT DAY. By KATE HOPE. 3 vols.

"It shows genuine humour. An extremely clever novel, and calculated to do much good."—Morning Post.

"There is plenty of variety in the tale. . . . Will unquestionably interest a large number."—Athenæum.

BLACK ABBEY. By M. CROMMELIN, Author of "Queenie," &c. 3 vols.

"A story full of grace and pathos."—Court Circular.

"One of the pleasantest novels of the season."—Belfast News Letter.

"Thoroughly original. . . . It will bear a test to which few novels are equal—viz., the ordeal of a second perusal."

THE GRANDIDIERS: A Tale of Berlin. By Dr. JULIUS RODENBERG. Translated from the German by Captain Wm. Saville. 3 vols.

"Takes a first place among the literary productions of these last years."—The Paris Temps.

"Interesting in story and elegant in style."—Saturday Review.

"A remarkable work."—Academy.

"The freshness and pleasantness it would be difficult to overrate."—World.

THE STILLWATER TRAGEDY. By J. B. ALDRICH.

London: SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, SEARLE, and RIVINGTON.

NEW NOVEL BY W. E. NORRIS.

Ready this day, in 3 vols., post 8vo,

MATRIMONY. By W. E. NORRIS, Author of "Mademoiselle de Mersac," &c.

London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

NEW NOVEL, by the Author of "THE NEW REPUBLIC."

BELGRAVIA for JANUARY, 1881 (price One Shilling), will contain the first parts of Three New Serials—viz.,

1. A ROMANCE OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. By W. H. Mallock, Author of "The New Republic."
2. JOSEPH'S COAT. By D. Christie Murray, Author of "A Life's Atonement." With Illustrations by Fred. Barnard.
3. ROUND ABOUT ETON AND HARROW. By Alfred Rimmer. With numerous Illustrations.

CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

NEW NOVEL BY JUSTIN McCARTHY.

THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for JANUARY, 1881 (price One Shilling), will contain the first chapters of a new novel, entitled

THE COMET OF A SEASON. By Justin McCarthy, M.P., author of "A History of Our Own Time," "Dear Lady Disdain," &c.

SCIENCE NOTES. By W. Mattieu Williams, F.R.A.S., will also be continued monthly.

CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

KITH AND KIN. A New Novel. By the Author of "The First Violin," will be commenced in the January Number of

THE TEMPLE BAR MAGAZINE.

In which Number will also be commenced THE FRERES, a New Novel, by Mrs. ALEXANDER, Author of "The Wooing O't."

The January Number of "Temple Bar" will be published on Dec. 21, price One Shilling.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

COURT NETHERLEIGH.—Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S New Illustrated Serial Story will commence in the JANUARY NUMBER of

THE ARGOSY,

PUBLISHED DECEMBER 21.

The JANUARY NUMBER of the ARGOSY will also contain a JOHNNY LUDLOW Story; an Illustrated Paper on the New Forest, by Charles W. Wood; and various other contributions.

"The 'Argosy' is laden with golden grains of amusement. There is no Monthly Magazine which gives greater pleasure. After the harass of professional or business occupation it is gratifying to have this Monthly to hand and muse over."—Oxford University Herald.

"Bright and charming."—Routh Journal.
"The 'Argosy' sails merrily."—Literary World.
"Best and cheapest of our magazines."—Standard.
"Replete with excellent fiction."—Welshman.

Sixpence, Monthly.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

CAPITAL CHRISTMAS OR NEW-YEAR'S PRESENT.

LETTS'S POPULAR ATLAS. Completion of First Series. An entirely original and complete work of Thirty-six Maps (17 by 14), printed in Colours from steel plates, with Consulting Index of 23,000 Names. The best ever published at any price. Half morocco or calf, 17s. 6d.; cloth, bevelled boards, 12s. 6d.; stiff boards, 10s. 6d. Indestructible Edition, on cloth, 31s. 6d. and 25s. respectively.

For details of every map, notices of the press, and prospectus of next year's issue, apply to any bookseller.

Just published, Fifth Edition,

THE PROPORTIONS OF THE HUMAN FIGURE. By JOSEPH BONOMI, F.R.A.A., M.B.S.A. Enlarged and Illustrated, with Memoir and Portrait of Author. Demy 4to, cloth, lettered, price 5s.

CHARLES ROBERSON and Co., 29, Long-acre; and all Booksellers' and Artists' Repositories.

Now ready, 25th Edition, 8vo, cloth, pp. 1102, price 16s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Completely rearranged, revised, re-written, annotated, and brought down to the present time, with a copious introduction, by R. S. Gutteridge, M.D. The present edition contains many important new chapters and sections, with new features and matter pertaining thereto, including the specific characteristic effects of all the new American remedies, the symptoms and treatment of all general diseases, including those of women and children. Diseases of Tropical Climates are fully considered, and the volume may be pronounced of the greatest value to families, emigrants, and missionaries.

Of this work a Physician of high standing writes:—

"I have gone pretty well through your Edition of Laurie's Domestic Homœopathic Medicine, and I can truly say that it is the most perfect work of its kind ever published: in fact, it is, to my mind, too good for the general public, as it enlightens them too much in the art and mystery of medicine and surgery. For young medical beginners such a work is invaluable, as it would save them a great amount of reading. It is really superior to any Domestic yet published. I have the First and Second Editions of Laurie, and your Edition only shows what the work has developed into."

Just out, Thirtieth Edition, post 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

EPITOME OF THE ABOVE WORK. By R. S. GUTTERIDGE, M.D.

This edition contains notices of most of the new medicines, and is brought down to the present time.

LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard; and 9, Vere-street, W.

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s.

London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

VOCAL SCORE	6s.
PIANOFORTE SOLO	3s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE WALTZ. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE LANCERS. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE QUADRILLE. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE POLKA. D'Albert	4s.
KUHE'S FANTASIA	4s.
BOYTON SMITH'S FANTASIA	4s.
THE POLICEMAN'S SONG AND CHORUS	4s.
I AM A PIRATE KING	4s.
THE MODERN MAJOR-GENERAL	4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

Vocal Score	3s. net.
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 6d. ,,
Olivette Lancers. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Waltz. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Olivette Polka. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Galop. D'Albert	2s. ,,
Torpedo Song	2s. ,,
Sob Song. Sung by Miss St. John	2s. ,,
Romance—"Nearest and Dearest."	2s. ,,
Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs, Solo or Duet	2s. ,,

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PORTIA WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

JANOTHA'S GAVOTTE. Played by Mdlle. Janotha at the Saturday Popular Concerts. Price 2s. net.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready.

CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES. Volume II., handsomely bound in cloth and gold. Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs.; Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 15 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

MUSCAT'S NEW POLKA.

TIT FOR TAT POLKA. By H. A. MUSCAT. Just published. With Illustrated Title by Packer. Post-free, 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

LAMOTHE'S NEW VALSE.

PERLES DE LA MER VALSE. By GEORGES LAMOTHE. Now ready. With Illustrated Title by Packer. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

GOOD-BYE. New Song. The Poetry by G. J. Whyte-Melville; the Music by COTSFORD DICK. "There is a charm about this song which will gain for it a wide acceptance; there is no bar to its achieving considerable popularity."—Queen. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

THE KING'S CHAMPION. New Song. By ED. OXENFORD and MICHAEL WATSON. This vigorous and soul-stirring Song may be had in E flat for baritone, and in D for bass. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

ONE MORN IN MAY. New Waltz Song. By A. REICHART, Composer of "Love's Request," &c. Sung by Miss Annie Marriott. "Singularly bright and sparkling, and the accompaniment, simple though it be, is scientifically and harmoniously written."—Lloyd's News. Post-free, 2s.—MARRIOTT and WILLIAMS, 313, Oxford-street, London.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'

IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial instrument produced."
3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE. In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.

Class 0, £14	Class 2, £20	Class 4, £30	Class 6, £35
Class 1, £17	Class 3, £23	Class 5, £27	Class 7, £40

American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

PLEYEL, WOLFF, and CO.'S PIANOS.
EVERY DESCRIPTION of these CELEBRATED PIANOS for SALE or HIRE.
Special Models in Louis XVI. Style.
170, NEW BOND-STREET, W.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published, a New Volume of

MODERN BALLADS. Price 2s. 6d., paper cover; 4s., cloth, gilt edges. Containing Fifty Songs and Ballads by the following eminent composers:—

Arthur Sullivan.	F. H. Cown.
Pinsuti.	J. L. Molloy.
Louis Diehl.	Hamilton Aidé.
A. S. Gatty.	Virginia Gabriel.
Dolores.	Claribel.
Marzials.	Cotsford Dick.

The volume includes the following favourite songs, in addition to a number never before published:—"She wandered down the mountain side," "It was a dream," "Then and Now," "The Fisher," "Who shall be fairest?" "Birds in the night," "As you like it," "He doesn't love me," "Old Cottage Clock," &c.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS IN MUSIC.

THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS. Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 4s. each. Now ready.

SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.	BEETHOVEN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND.	MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF IRELAND.	SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
SONGS OF WALES.	SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF FRANCE.	RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF GERMANY.	RUBINSTEIN'S DUETS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS.	DUETS FOR LADIES.
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. 2 vols.	SACRED SONGS.
	HUMOROUS SONGS.

Also, THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone. Price 7s. 6d. each, handsomely bound, gilt edges.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S NEW SONGS.

MY ONLY LOVE. By KUHE. Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A SUMMER SHOWER. By the Composer of "Twickenham Ferry." Sung by Miss Mary Davies at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co, 295, Regent-street.

HENSCHEL'S New Song. SING HEIGH HO! The poetry by Charles Kingsley. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A CLUSTER OF ROSES. By Mr. C. VINCENT. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE ZEELAND TOLL. Sung in "Anne-Mie." Words by Clement Scott.
"I like the song; it should be sung in all country houses."—Truth. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

HER NAME. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Mr. Maas at the Ballad Concerts, and throughout the Provinces. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BEND OF THE RIVER. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Madame Marie Roze. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE WOOD. By WEKERLIN. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell with the greatest success at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Loffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

LILLIE'S MUSIC-BOOK (complete), containing the First and Second Books in one Volume (122 pages), with 21 Illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and Short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New System of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT ERLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

RICORDI, 265, REGENT-STREET, W.
GREATEST SUCCESS OF THE YEAR.
MEPHISTOPHELES. By A. BOITO, with English and Italian Words net 8 0
DITTO. PIANOFORTE SOLO 4 0
DITTO. PIANOFORTE DUET 8 0
Separate Pieces, Vocal, Pianoforte; also for Pianoforte with different instruments.
DANCE ALBUM ARRANGED FROM "MEPHISTOPHELES."

	s. d.		s. d.
WALTZ	net 2 0	GALOP	net 1 6
MAZURKA	,, 1 6	MAZURKA on Tosti's popular Song, "For Ever." For Piano	,, 1 6
POLKA	,, 1 6
QUADRILLE	,, 1 9

A MULETEER SONG. English and Italian Words. 2 Keys 2 0
HUSH, SWEET LUTE. 3 Keys 1 6
FOR EVER AND FOR EVER. By L. P. TOSTI. 3 Keys 2 0
GOOD NIGHT. By F. DENZA. 3 Keys 2 0
WELCOME, PRETTY PRIMROSE. By C. PINSUTI. 2 Keys 2 0
AVE MARIA. For Soprano. Italian and English Words net 2 6

AUGENER and CO.'S UNIVERSAL CIRCULATING MUSICAL LIBRARY, to which is added Lonsdale's Library, is now the largest in Europe. Annual subscription from two guineas.—81, Regent-street. Prospectuses gratis.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.
The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLÉ'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready.
Catalogues and all particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LAST PUBLICATION.
FIFTEEN MELODIES OF SCHUBERT.
Transcribed for the Pianoforte.
Charming short pieces specially adapted for teaching. Price 2s. each.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, Sole Agents for the Dominion Organ Company, Canada.
New Organ, "PRINCESS LOUISE," the best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom,
FORSYTH BROTHERS, Manchester and London.

POPULAR PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS. By FREDERIC N. LOHR.
LEUR-DE-LIS. A Mazurka de Salon. Price 4s. (Second Thousand).
GAVOTTE in G. Price 3s.
MAUD. A Romance. Price 3s.
TWILIGHT. An Idyll. Price 3s.
FORSYTH BROS., 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

NEW MUSIC.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.

THE LATEST SUCCESS.

BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE 6s. net.
SONGS.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

In the press, ready shortly.
PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY (Illustrated). 1s. 6d. net.
WINTER EVERGREENS. S. GLOVER. 2s. net.
WELCOME MERRY CHRISTMAS. GREENLAND. 1s. 6d. net.
WHILE THE CHRISTMAS LOG IS BURNING (Illustrated). 1s. 6d. net.
SIMON THE CELLARER. J. L. HATTON. 50th Edition. 2s. net.
THREE JOLLY BRITONS. G. WARE. The new National Song to be sung in all the leading Pantomimes. 1s. 6d. net.

THE CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. By HENRY FARMER. "Has become a general favourite with the young folks, being expressly arranged for small hands." Solo, 1s. net; Duet, 1s. 6d. net.

WINTER EVERGREENS. CHRISTMAS FANTASIA. Introducing a number of seasonable melodies and popular Airs by A. GRENVILLE. Beautifully illustrated. Price 2s. net.

VIOLIN DANCES. Containing all the popular Dances from "Les Cloches de Corneville," together with the favourite compositions of Henry Farmer, C. H. R. Marriott, &c. "Will find a ready welcome from all at this season." Price 1s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 100th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for DECEMBER contains: Limited Liability in Music—The Great Composers: Gluck—The Father of the Symphony—Ponchielli's opera, "I Promessi Sposi"—Her Majesty's Opera—Monday Popular, Crystal Palace, Saturday Orchestral Concerts—Berlioz's "Faust." Occasional Notes, Correspondence, Reviews, Foreign and Country News, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d.; annual subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for DECEMBER contains: "A New-Year's Carol," by JAMES SHAW. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S
LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR PRESENTS and SCHOOL PRIZES.

	s.	d.
CHRISTMAS CAROLS. New and Old. Words edited by the Rev. H. R. Bramley, M.A., and J. Stainer. Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound. Cloth, gilt	7	6
Ditto, ditto. Library edition, complete, demy 8vo, with long historical preface, half roxburgh binding	7	6
Carols for Christmastide for Little Singers. By George Fox. Illustrated cover and title	2	6
SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS. Words by Frances Ridley Havergal; Music by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. Illustrated, cloth, gilt, 3s.; paper cover	2	6
THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG. A Collection of Sacred and Moral Songs, with original Music by the most eminent English composers. With 40 Illustrations, handsomely bound	7	6
NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS. By J. W. ELLIOTT. With 66 Illustrations, and elegantly bound. Cloth, gilt	7	6
THE CHRISTMAS BOOK OF LITTLE SONGS FOR YOUNG SINGERS. By J. F. LORRAINE. Handsomely bound	5	0
MENDELSSOHN'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE (including the "Lieder Ohne Wörte"). One vol., 518 pages, folio, handsomely bound, cloth, gilt edges, 21s.; 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, 10s. 6d.; paper cover	7	6
MENDELSSOHN'S "LIEDER OHNE WORTE." Cheap Edition. 8vo, paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.; folio, paper, 5s.; cloth, gilt, 8s. Also, Superior Edition, 8vo, paper, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 6s.; folio, cloth, gilt	12	0
The only Complete Editions, containing Books 7 and 8.
MENDELSSOHN'S OVERTURES (Solo). The only complete Edition. Folio, cloth, gilt, 12s.; duet	15	0
MENDELSSOHN'S SYMPHONIES (Solo). The only Complete Edition. Folio, cloth, gilt, 12s.; duet	15	0
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS. The only complete Edition. With Portrait of Composer. Folio, cloth, gilt, 21s.; 8vo, cloth, gilt, 6s.; paper cover	4	0
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS. (For deep voice). 8vo, cloth, gilt, 6s.; paper cover	6	0
BEETHOVEN'S SONATAS. New and Complete Edition. Edited by Agnes Zimmermann. Folio, cloth, gilt, 21s.; 8vo, cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.; paper cover	5	0
MOZART'S SONATAS. New and Complete Edition. Edited by Agnes Zimmerman. Folio, cloth, gilt, 18s.; 8vo, cloth, gilt, 5s.; paper cover	3	0

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.,
1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

Eighth Thousand.

OUR JACK'S COME HOME TO-DAY. Baritone Song. By W. J. DEVERS. "Just the song for Christmas." Post-free, 2s.
REID Bros., 189, Oxford-street, London.

ONLY CORRECT EDITION.

BABY MINE ("The Sailor's Letter"). By JOHNSTON; Words by Dr. Mackay. This charming Ballad for Soprano or Mezzo-Soprano, post-free, 1s. 6d.
REID Bros., 189, Oxford-street, London.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' Newly-Patented SOSTENENTE GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOS have gained the two First Prizes and only Special Mention above all competitors at the Sydney International Exhibition, 1879-80. Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 40 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £200. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

NEW MUSIC.

VALLEY ECHOES. Six Elegant Morceaux for the Pianoforte. Composed by WILLIAM SMALLWOOD. Most beautifully Illustrated.

No. 1. Valley of the Rhine.	No. 4. Dhruim.
No. 2. Tyrol.	No. 5. Festiniog.
No. 3. Bonea, Naples.	No. 6. California.

3s. each; post-free at half price in stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

BEETHOVEN'S SIX WALTZES. Edited and Fingered for the Pianoforte by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST. 3s. each. The same as Duets for two performers on one piano, arranged by Mr. West, 4s. each. All post-free at half price.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MOZART'S FAVOURITE WALTZES. Edited and fingered for the Pianoforte by Mr. West. 3s. each. Also, Schubert's Favorite Waltzes, edited and fingered for the Pianoforte by Mr. West, three books, 4s. each; all post-free at half price.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

TWO NEW SONGS by THEO. MARZIALS. BUTTERCUP QUEEN. Words by Mrs. W. K. Clifford; and IN SUMMERTIME, Poetry by "Rea." Without doubt will be ranked among his most popular songs." 3s. each; post-free for 18 stamps each.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE GIPSIES' FESTIVAL. Descriptive Fantasia for the Pianoforte. By J. PRIDHAM. Illustrated Title. 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ALL SHEET MUSIC promptly forwarded, post-free, at half price. Accuracy to be depended upon. Payments received in stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES.

AUSTRALASIAN AGENCY and BANKING CORPORATION (Limited).
Capital £1,250,000. In 125,000 Shares of £10 each.
Subscribed in the Australian Colonies, £942,350; in London, £200,000. Reserve Fund, £25,000.

LONDON DIRECTORS:

Abraham Scott, Esq.	Harry Hankey Dobree, Esq.
Frank C. Capel, Esq.	Joseph Cockfield, Dimsdale, Esq.

BANKERS:
Messrs. Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard, and Dimsdales.
SOLICITORS:
Messrs. Freshfields and Williams.
The Company are now issuing Debentures at the above rate for four, five, or six years. Forms of application can be obtained at the Office of the Company, 6½, Austin Friars.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £555,000.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and at eighty-two other towns and places throughout the Colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £20 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

10,000 CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.
PARKINS & GOTTO'S.

DRESSING-CASES, 21s., 42s., 84s., 105s. 210s.
DRESSING-BAGS, 42s., 84s., 105s., 210s.
HAND-BAGS, 6s. 9d., 11s. WAIST-BAGS.
DESPATCH-BOXES, 21s., 42s., 63s., 84s., &c.
WRITING-CASES, 5s., 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 21s.
DESKS, 8s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 21s., 42s., 63s.
STATIONERY-CABINETS, 25s., 50s., 84s.
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTERS.
INKSTANDS for Drawing-Room or Library.
TEA-CADDIES, BOOK-SLIDES.
LIQUEUR-CASES, FLASKS.
LETTER-BOXES for the Hall and Library.
READING-STANDS, POSTAGE-SCALES.
OXYDIZED and ENAMELLED ARTICLES.
ORMOULU WRITING SETS, NIC-NACS.
OAK WARE, Tankards, Biscuit-Boxes, Jugs.
DOULTON WARE, Mounted with Silver, &c.
ELECTRO-PLATED GOODS, for Presents.
BRONZE INKSTANDS, CANDLESTICKS.
JEWEL CASES, for Ladies and Gentlemen.
BRUSH CASES, for Ladies and Gentlemen.
SCENT CASES, for 2, 3, or 4 Bottles.
SPECTACLE CASES, for Waist or Pocket.
GLOVE and HANDKERCHIEF BOXES.
WORK BOXES and BASKETS, 6s. 6d., &c.
RETICULES, LADIES' COMPANIONS.
MUSIC CASES and ROLLS, 2s. 6d., 5s.
MUSICAL BOXES, Ditto Albums, all kinds.
CHINA CARD-TRAYS, Ditto Ornaments.
PURSES, POCKET-BOOKS, NOTE-CASES.
CARD-CASES, Diaries for the New Year.
CIGAR-CASES, FUZEE-CASES.
OPERA-GLASSES, FANS, Newest Patterns.
GRAPHOSCOPES, STEREOSCOPES.
SCENT-BOTTLES, Gold and Silver Mounted.
WALTHAM WATCHES, good timekeepers.
SILVER JEWELLERY, at very low prices.
CLOCKS, Carriage, Drawing, or Dining Room.
PENCIL-CASES, Gold, Silver, Aluminium.
INDOOR GAMES, Newest and most Amusing.
CABINETS OF GAMES, 21s., 50s., 84s., &c.
BAGATELLE-BOARDS, 28s. 6d., 50s., 78s. 6d.
BACKGAMMON, CHESS, DRAUGHTS.
PAINT-BOXES, TOOL-CHESTS, Footballs.
PORTRAIT ALBUMS, all sizes.
PORTRAIT FRAMES, Ormolu, Velvet, Plush.
NOVELTIES IN PLUSH, all shades of colour.
SCRAP BOOKS, STAMP ALBUMS.
IVORY PAPER-KNIVES, Portfolios.
TWO THOUSAND CHURCH SERVICES.
FAMILY BIBLES, Pocket Ditto, Prayers.
BOOKS for JUVENILES and PRESENTS.

ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.

PARKINS & GOTTO'S,

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT
TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES,
AND H.I.H. THE CROWN PRINCESS OF GERMANY.

27 and 28, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

ALL CHRISTMAS CARDS TRADE PRICE.
PARKINS and GOTTO'S.

1d. Cards	0s. 8d. per doz.	6d. Cards	0s. 4d. each.
2d. Cards	1s. 4d. ,,	1s. 0d. Cards	0s. 8d. ,,
4d. Cards	0s. 3d. each.	2s. 6d. Cards	1s. 8d. ,,

The Largest and most Varied Stock in London.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street, W.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1880.

Digitized by Google

1. The Emperor Joseph II. trying his hand as a ploughman. 2. Expulsion of the Jesuits from Austria. 3. Joseph II. founding an hospital. 4. Torchlight procession around statue of Joseph II.
5. Joseph II. acting as godfather. 6. Joseph II. giving audience to a soldier's widow. 7. Garlands for the tomb of the Emperor Joseph II.

CELEBRATION OF THE CENTENARY OF THE EMPEROR JOSEPH II. IN VIENNA.—SEE PAGE 579.

Digitized by Google

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

SKETCHES AMONG THE "BOYCOTTING BOYS."

COTTAGE NEAR LOUGH MASK.

"Among the Boycotting Boys," is the title by which our Special Artist, Mr. Wallis Mackay, presents the Illustration that appears this week. His accompanying letter supplies the needful commentary:—

Ballinrobe, Mayo, Nov. 30.

It was a difficult matter to get even a glimpse of the male inhabitants of that part of Ireland now famous for the course taken in the matter of landlord and tenant. The country around Lough Mask, on the shores of which Captain Boycott's house is situated, is a wild, stony tract of hilly desolation. Where cultivation is in existence it is broken and interrupted by huge boulders of hard grey stone. Grey stone is the characteristic of this part of the county Mayo. The endless and innumerable stone fences run in every direction, apparently fencing off nothing, but really marking the division of the holdings of small farmers, over which so much vexation has been expended.

Perhaps not in Bulgaria could a hut be found of equal squalor to that of the shanties in which the natives herd together in these parts. I have sketched a comparatively respectable one. There is neither window nor chimney connected with the architectural scheme, and the door is black and charred with the action of ages of turf smoke. Before the establishment is a savoury cesspool, and the place is flanked with a pigsty and dunghill. Notwithstanding all this filth, the woman and herd of youngsters who crowd the place seem strong and healthy, and to enjoy the dirty seclusion of their kraal.

Indeed, I had pointed out to me a very comfortable stone cottage, with veritable bow windows, which appears to be a subject of grievance. The story of it is this:—Lord Ardilaun, wishing to improve some portion of the approaches to his grounds, pulled down one of the huts that interfered with this purpose. In order that no one might suffer through this action, he built for the late occupier of the stone hut the cottage in question. The first complaint on the part of this personage was that he suffered from too much light in his new dwelling. This was rectified by the closing up of the window-panes. However, the lock of the door next bothered him; he was used to closing it with a pitchfork. After getting hopelessly involved with his latch-key one evening, he left it in the door in disgust, and for some weeks used a window as a mode of ingress and egress. This he has given up in disgust, and has gone forth into the world a martyr to the tyranny of an overbearing landlord!

The absence of "the boys," as every male human creature is termed between the ages of four and fourscore, on the occasion of the departure of Captain Boycott, with the Ulster volunteer harvestmen and the "English army," was in compliance with the wishes of the Land League and the parish priest. When one did come across a group of these "Boycotters," they were standing silently and with a sullen determination in their looks. They are not at all unlike Spanish peasants in appearance; and are all fine, stalwart fellows, comfortably and warmly clad. Whatever reticence "the boys" were bent upon observing, the women and girls were not in all cases disposed to hold their peace. One lady, who was carting away for fuel purposes a large piece of a tree that had been blown down by the hurricane the night before the march, let the Queen and her "hungry army," and "Boycott," and, indeed, everyone within hearing, get the full benefit of a rich flow of invective.

The now celebrated Father O'Malley has a powerful influence in this part of the country. I visited him at his house, which is situated next the Catholic Chapel, on the road between Ballinrobe and Cong. I found him a thorough specimen of an Irish parish priest; and, though evidently suffering acutely from rheumatism, he was full of humour. He is the originator of the term "Boycotting." This he invented because he was of opinion that the word "ostracisation" was of too formidable a character for the use of his flock. He is a charming conversationist, and hospitable to a degree. The ingenious excuses of inclement weather and long journeys that he made in order to induce his guests to taste his whisky so early in the day were droll, clever, and amusing.

This time of the year is the idle period with the "Boycotters"—if, indeed, they are ever anything else but idle. They stand always with their backs to a wall, and pull away at their "dhudeens," or short pipes, in moody silence for hours; they go to bed at dusk, and rise again about ten or eleven in the day. There are some wonderful specimens of the genus vagabond amongst them. These are to be met swinging along lonely roads, evidently bent on some mission or purpose—what, goodness knows.

My carman told me that every man that could boast a coat, or a pair of breeches, had a revolver concealed about him. Just fancy the sweet youth whose portrait I have dotted down, with a six-shooter at his disposal! The revolver has undoubtedly superseded the shillelagh in Ireland; and a row at a modern Donnybrook would be more like a squabble in the wilds of Nevada than anything else. This revolver business is due to the influence of the American element amongst the leaders of the people.

Like other poor districts of Ireland, Mayo is wealthy in one thing, and that is children; they can be seen at every cottage, if not disporting on the dung-heap before the door, burrowing like little rabbits in the parental parlour or in the pigstye.

A QUIVERFULL.

GROUP OF "BOYCOTTERS."

A SWEET YOUTH.

FATHER O'MALLEY AT HOME.

IRREPRESSIBLE.

THE JOSEPH II. CENTENARY AT VIENNA.

The reign of Joseph II., Emperor of Germany—the title, "Emperor of Austria," was of later date with the House of Hapsburg—was one of the most remarkable passages in the history of the eighteenth century. It may be regarded as a companion piece, or as a pendant, to that of Frederick II., King of Prussia, with which it had some points of apparent correspondence. Both Sovereigns, though one was a great soldier and the other more affected civil legislation, were equally distinguished by their passion for modern innovations, and their hostility to ecclesiastical and priestly authority; they were complete Voltairians in their convictions upon moral and religious subjects, and were resolved to assert the predominance of the secular principle in their government, against the influence of the Church. It is worthy of observation that powerful German rulers, at Berlin and Vienna, should have begun this course of political and social change some years before it broke out at Paris in the French Revolution.

The citizens of Vienna, and the German portion in general, of the diverse populations comprised in the present Austro-Hungarian dual monarchy, have always cherished a great affection for the memory of Joseph II., whose policy, following that of his mother, the Empress Maria Theresa, tended to exalt Austria, properly so called, at the expense of their Slavonic and Magyar subjects. Besides this, Joseph was the author of many beneficent domestic reforms, the emancipation of the peasant serfs, the establishment of schools, colleges, and hospitals, the improvement of courts of justice, of the civil and criminal code, and of the fiscal system, the encouragement of trade, agriculture, and industry, and the assertion of religious liberty for Protestants, Jews, and free-thinkers. He was also the patron of arts and sciences, though not munificent with pecuniary gifts; and he cultivated friendly relations with Russia and France. From 1765, when his father died, Joseph II., being then twenty-four years of age, shared the throne with his mother until her death, on Nov. 29, 1780. The latter date, being that of his accession to full power, has now been commemorated by a centenary festival at Vienna, of which we give some Illustrations. Joseph II. died in February, 1790, when the outbreak of the French Revolution was about to change the face of Europe.

Digitized by Google

The celebration at Vienna began on the night of Monday, the 29th, with a torchlight procession of students, in costume, who visited the equestrian bronze statue of Joseph II. behind the Imperial Palace, and made speeches on the Kaiser Joseph's Platz. Next day there was a grand assembly in the Townhall, presided over by the Burgomaster, Dr. Newald, who delivered an historical lecture, after which the civic municipality, in solemn procession, marched through the streets to visit the tomb of Joseph II., and to lay upon it a funeral wreath, with white silk streamers bearing, inscribed in gold, that Emperor's saying, "There is nothing on earth I love more than my mother country." Addresses were also delivered, and a choral cantata was sung, in front of the statue; and the students had another meeting, with a lecture, at the Conservatory of Music. Our Illustrations represent, besides the scenes around the statue and tomb, several incidents of popular interest recorded in the life of the Emperor Joseph II. One is the familiar story, which is likewise related of two or three Kings or Princes, that he saw a peasant at the plough, and got out of his carriage to try if he could do the work of the husbandman. The Emperor of China does it once a year, as a ceremonial act, to show his respect for agriculture; and the Prince of Wales might do the same if it were worth while. The expulsion of the Jesuits from Austria, of which, from a published print in vogue, we give an Illustration, was one of the acts of Joseph II., that showed him a long way ahead of the French Republican Government of our own days.

SKETCHES IN COLORADO.

Georgetown, Colorado, is about fifty miles from the city of Denver, being situated at the head of the Clear Creek Cañon or valley, through which the Colorado Central Railroad passes. This is one of the highest lines in the world, the terminus at Georgetown being at an elevation of more than 8000 feet above the sea. The scenery here is magnificent, and is within ten miles of the main range of the Rocky Mountains; a circumstance which, combined with its being noted as a rich silver-mining region, makes this an attractive point for travellers from all parts of the world.

The journey to Gray's Peak, one of the highest of the Rocky Mountains, the altitude being about 14,500 ft., can easily be made in one day. The view from the summit, forming the subject of one of the accompanying sketches, will well repay the trouble of ascent. From this point can be seen nearly the whole of Colorado to the east; the plains, which in the distance have a strong resemblance to the sea, to the north; and to the south and west a vast succession of snow-covered peaks, rising one above another, until lost in the far distance.

The population of Georgetown consists of about 5000 inhabitants, and is largely composed of miners, who are here an intelligent and orderly class of men. Being the centre of a mining region, mills for the reduction of the silver ore are numerous. One of these is represented in the series of sketches. They form quite a characteristic feature of the scenery.

The remainder of the sketches give some idea of the aspect of Rocky Mountain scenery; Lake Santa Maria, otherwise called the Mirror Lake or Clear Lake, is one of the loveliest small pieces of water upon the earth. The cascades of Clear Creek are likewise very beautiful. The "Little Professor" is a picturesque specimen of the characteristic mountain formation in this State. There are a considerable number of Chinese in the towns of Colorado, who are principally employed as washermen, as in California.

THE CHRISTMAS CATTLE SHOW.

The annual London show of fattened cattle for the Christmas season, which has for many years past regularly taken place under the direction of the Smithfield Club, has been held, as usual, at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. We give a variety of Sketches, occupying two pages of our publication this week, but more dealing with the appearance of different groups of visitors, than with the oxen, sheep, and swine, whose merits were duly recognised by the judges. The idea of extreme fatness, readily transferred by the popular mind from cattle to human beings, has a certain element of the ludicrous in it; and this seems to assert its satirical influence, both in the scene outside the exhibition of a "Contrast," where the Fat Woman and the Living Skeleton challenge comparison with one another; and in that of the corpulent gentleman sitting for his portrait.

The total number of entries this year was 407, of which 207 were cattle, 138 sheep, and 62 pigs. The prizes offered were more in the aggregate amount, £3142, than had ever been offered before. The first prizes were won, for Devon steers, by Mr. W. R. Fryer, of Poole, Mr. John Walter, M.P., and Colonel Redvers Buller, C.B., V.C.; Devon heifers, Mr. W. R. Fryer; Devon cows, Mr. E. Nairne; Hereford steers, Mr. J. Price and Mr. E. Sims. The Prince of Wales gained two second prizes, having nine entries, three for sheep; while the Queen had five entries, two for shorthorn cows, three for pigs. Several of the Royal Family visited the show, and were received by Lord Tredegar, the President, and Sir Brandreth Gibbs, the honorary secretary. The annual meeting of the Smithfield Club, on Tuesday, found its finances in a prosperous state, the receipts for the year being £6788, and the expenditure £3863. Mr. F. J. Saville Foljambe, M.P., has been elected President for next year, and Mr. J. Walter, M.P., for the year 1881.

The Gazette of yesterday week publishes a series of despatches relating to the Afghan war, the most interesting being the narrative which General Sir F. Roberts gives of his march from Cabul and victory over Ayoub Khan. These despatches have already appeared in the Indian papers.—A notice revising the rules for the promotion and relative rank and allowances of the Indian medical service is also published.

A deputation consisting of the Irish Eight waited upon the Lord Mayor and Dublin Town Council on Monday, for the purpose of delivering into the custody of the Mayor the Elcho Shield, recently won by the Irish riflemen. Captain Maxwell, who, in the absence of the Duke of Abercorn, headed the deputation, said this was the fifth time the Irish team had carried off the shield. A resolution of congratulation was passed, and the deputation, on leaving the council chamber, was warmly cheered.

CHESS.

J W S (Montreal).—There is no doubt that the law relating to counting fifty moves is intended to apply to end games only. We think your adversary's claim was preferred in a litigious spirit, and that it should have been rejected; but we do not think that the decision of which you justly complain is likely to be cited as a precedent, where the umpire has been judiciously chosen, at all events. Umpires in such cases as yours do not make Law, nor even interpret it; they are called upon to pronounce an opinion about a position in a game of chess, and, obviously, their judgments may be valuable or worthless, according to the circumstances.

J P (Reigate).—We do not examine problems that are sent unaccompanied by the author's proposed solutions.

H R L (Chichester).—It is possible to effect mate by a double check without moving either of the checking pieces on the last move. The move is made with a Pawn, taking another Pawn en passant.

J P (Bedford).—The problem is very acceptable. You shall hear from us on the other subject referred to in your letter.

T G (Smethwick).—Thanks. It shall have early attention.

B D Rai (Moorshidabad, Bengal).—Your solutions of Nos. 1912 and 1913 are correct.

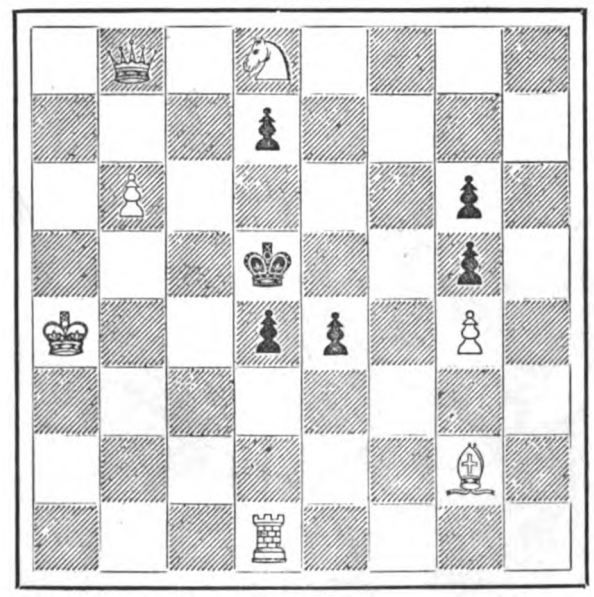
Correct Solutions of the Canadian Prize Problem received from Pierce Jones, M de Brettes (Breteuil), George Neuer, A C, John Perkins, and Thomas Guest.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1916 received from Teicle, Dr N W Holmes, and Rev John Wills (U.S.A.).

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1917 received from Pierce Jones, Onno, Dr. N W Holmes, Dr H W Hill, and T Guest.

Correct solutions of Problem No. 1918 received from Vice-Admiral Somerville, Jane Nepveu, A Snellen, Dr N W Holmes, Dr H W Hill, A C, L Chapelle, Dr F St, Thomas Guest, M H Moorhouse, S Fitz-Henry, Pierce Jones, Hmo Kane, G J L, John Perkins, Onno, and "King of Cashel."

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1919 received from H B, Pierce Jones, Cant, Shadforth, Alpha, F Littleboy, Norman Rumbelow, East Marden, Frederick Carroll, E P Vulliamy, Gwiet, W J Eggleston, W T R, E L G, Thomas Guest, Dr F St, M H Moorhouse, Lulu, J W W, R H Brooks, H Blacklock, R Jessop, L Sharswood, Ernest Sharswood, D Templeton, R Gray, M O'Halloran, C Oswald, Ben Nevis, E Elsbury, Elsie, An Old Hand, T Greenbank, C S Coxe, S Farrant, Jupiter Junior, C Darragh, S L Dyke, D W Kell, A Kentish Man, G L Mayne, and R Ingersoll.



Note.—The large number of correspondents who think they have solved this problem by 1. B to B 6th, 1 B to K 7th, or 1. B to Q 8th, are requested to examine Black's defence to all these moves, 1. B to Q B 8th.

Solution of Problem No. 1918.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Q to Kt 8th	Any move
2. Mates accordingly.

PROBLEM No. 1921.
By F. J. Kellner (Vienna).

BLACK.

WHITE.
White to play, and mate in three moves.

One of eight Games played simultaneously and without seeing the boards and pieces by Mr. J. H. Blackburne against Eight Members of the Manchester Athenæum Chess Club.
(Evans's Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Mr. M.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to B 4th	B to B 4th
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes Kt P
5. P to B 3rd	B to R 4th
6. P to Q 4th	P takes P
7. Castles	B to Kt 3rd
8. P takes P	P to Q 3rd
9. P to Q 5th	Kt to K 4th
9. Kt to R 4th is the correct move here.
10. Kt takes Kt	P takes Kt
11. B to R 3rd	B to Q 5th
12. Kt to Q 2nd	B takes R
Black has won the "exchange," but is now without a solitary officer in the field.
13. Q takes B	P to K B 3rd
14. P to B 4th	P takes P
15. P to K 5th	P to Q B 3rd
16. Kt to K 4th	P takes Q P
17. Kt to Q 6th (ch)	K to Q 2nd
18. B to Kt 5th (ch)	K to K 3rd
19. P takes P	Kt takes P
20. R to K sq (ch)	Kt to K 5th
21. Q takes P	Q to Kt 3rd (ch)
22. K to R sq	Q to R 4th
At this point Mr. Blackburne announced mate in six moves, and effected it as follows:—
23. R takes Kt (ch)	P takes R
24. B to B 4th (ch)	Q to Q 4th
25. Q to B 7th (ch)	K to K 4th
26. Q takes Q (ch)	K to B 3rd
27. Kt takes P (ch)	K to Kt 2nd
28. Q to Kt 5th. Checkmate.

Two smart Skirmishes from the City of Dublin Chess Club. Between Messrs. Soffe and B. W. Fisher.—(Ruy Lopez.)

WHITE (Mr. S.)	BLACK (Mr. F.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Kt 5th	P to K Kt 3rd
4. P to Q 4th	P takes P
5. Kt takes P	B to Kt 2nd
6. P to Q B 3rd	K Kt to K 2nd
7. Castles	Castles
8. P to K B 4th	P to Q 4th
9. P to B 5th
9. P to K 5th; shutting in the adverse K B is stronger play.
9.	B takes Kt (ch)
10. P takes B	P takes K P
11. P to B 6th	Kt to B 4th
12. P to Q 5th	Q Kt to Q 5th
13. B to Q B 4th	Q takes B P
14. P to K Kt 4th
White loses time, besides exposing the King to danger in this effort to get two pieces for a Rook. We should have preferred 14. Kt to Q B 3rd in the position.
14.	Kt to B 6th (ch)
15. R takes Kt	P takes R
16. P takes Kt	B takes P
17. Kt to B 3rd	P to B 7th (ch)
18. K to R sq	Q takes Kt
A very well conceived coup, and leading to a capital finish.
19. Q to K 2nd	Q takes B, and White resigned.

Between Mr. Monk, of Dublin, and Mr. Shenele, of London.
(Four Knights' Game.)

WHITE (Mr. M.)	BLACK (Mr. S.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. Kt to Q B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd
4. B to Kt 5th	B to B 4th
5. Kt takes K P	B tks K B P (ch)
Black can get an even game by 5. Kt takes Kt, or 5. Q to K 2nd, whereas the move in the text helps to develop White's forces.
6. K takes B	Kt takes Kt
7. P to Q 4th	K Kt to Kt 5th (ch)
8. K to Kt 3rd	Q to K B 3rd
9. Q to B sq
Of course he cannot take the Kt, and the move adopted puts a sudden end to the counter-attack.
9.	Q to K Kt 3rd
10. Q to B 5th	Kt to R 3rd (dis. ch)
11. Q takes Q	Kt takes Q
12. Kt to Q 5th	Castles
13. Kt takes Q B P	R to Q Kt sq
14. B takes Kt	P takes B
15. B to Q B 4th	K to R sq
16. K R to K B sq	P to K B 3rd
17. R to K B 3rd	P to Q 3rd
18. Q R to K B sq	K to Kt 2nd
19. R takes P
Correctly played. If Black play 19. R takes R, then follows 20. Kt to K 8th (ch), &c.
19.	B to Q 2nd
20. R to B 7th (ch), and Black resigned.

The last monthly supper of the City of London Chess Club was signalised by a departure from the rule of "no toasts" which is usually observed at these agreeable reunions. On the withdrawal of the cloth the president, Mr. H. F. Gastineau, gracefully complimented Mr. S. J. Stevens on his success in bearing off the first prize in the club handicap of the year, and took occasion to express the cordial thanks of the members to Mr. Down for his past services in the capacity of honorary secretary, a post which that gentleman has just resigned into the hands of Mr. Adamson. The toast of health to these gentlemen was heartily received, and was drunk with musical honours.

The Chessplayers' Chronicle for December opens with an editorial in which the late editors say farewell to their readers. The other contents comprise an article on the subject of Mr. Thorold's attack in the "Allgaier," and games and problems, original and selected. The next number will be published under new management.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Feb. 14, 1879) with a codicil thereto (dated Jan. 22, 1880) of Sir Thomas Hare, late of Stow Hall, in the county of Norfolk, Baronet, who died on Nov. 14 last, was proved on the 3rd inst. by Anothy Hamond, Esq., Captain Sir Michael Culme Seymour, Bart., R.N., and William Melmoth Walters, Esq., three of the executors, power being reserved to Colonel George Howard Vyse, the remaining executor, to prove the same, the personal estate being sworn under £300,000. The testator devises his Stow Hall estates in Norfolk to his eldest son, Thomas Leigh Hare, for life, with remainder to his first and other sons successively in tail male, with various subsequent limitations in strict course of entail. He also devises his Cadhay estate, in the county of Devon, to his second son, George Ralph Leigh Hare, if he attains twenty-one, absolutely; and, in default, to his third son, Edward Philip Leigh Hare, if he attains twenty-one, absolutely; with remainder to his said eldest son, Thomas Leigh Hare. The testator bequeaths to his executors and trustees all his personal estate, and directs payment thereout of legacies to his daughter, Mrs. Hamond, and to his executors and others, and directs his trustees to set apart a sum of £125,000 to be laid out in the purchase of real estate to be entailed on his second son, George Ralph Leigh Hare, and his issue, and to set apart a further sum of £65,000 upon trust for his third son Edward Philip Leigh Hare and his issue, and bequeaths his residuary personal estate to such of his three sons as shall first attain twenty-one.

The will (with two codicils) of Mr. Robert Bell, of Copse Hill, Wimbledon, and late of Norris Castle, Isle of Wight, who was formerly proprietor of the Weekly Dispatch newspaper, was proved on Dec. 2, 1880, by Robert Bell, the only son and sole executor. The personal estate is sworn under £250,000. The testator, after giving several legacies and annuities to friends and servants, bequeaths £100 each, free from legacy duty, to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls; the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; the Royal Masonic Institution for aged Freemasons and widows of Freemasons; the Blue School for Girls, at Newport, Isle of Wight; and to the Charing-cross Hospital; and all the residue of his real and personal estate to his said son.

The will (dated Jan. 29, 1879) with a codicil (dated June 8, 1880) of Mr. Joseph Marshall, late of West Heslerton Hall, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, who died on Oct. 17 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by Benjamin Cunningham Wates, Charles White, and Hugh William Pearson, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator gives £200 to the Bradford Infirmary; £100 to the York County Hospital; certain stocks in the Great Northern and Midland Railways upon trust for his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, for life; his freehold house at Rillington and £10,000 to his niece, Hannah Booth Hodgson (the only daughter of his brother John); the residue of his real estate is directed to be sold, and the net proceeds are also to be paid to his said niece; £12,000 each to his five nephews, the children of his late sister, Mrs. Hannah Booth Davis; £12,000 upon trust for the three children of his late niece, Hannah Booth Wates; £12,000 to his nephew Joseph Robinson Marshall (the son of his brother James Ellis Marshall); £5000 each to his said brother James, and to his nephew Benjamin Marshall and his niece Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, other children of his said brother; and there are bequests to his executors, servants, and others. The residue of the personalty he bequeaths to his said niece, Hannah Booth Hodgson.

The will (dated July 8, 1875) with two codicils (dated June 1 and July 20, 1880) of Mr. John Deverell, late of Purbrook Park, Portsdown, Farlington, Hants, who died on the 6th ult., was proved on the 2nd inst. by William Henry Deverell and John Croft Deverell, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator leaves £300 to the Church Missionary Society; £200 each to the London Missionary Society, the American Missionary Society, the Moravian Missionary Society, and the London City Missionary Society; £100 to the Winchester County Hospital; £15,000 upon trust for each of his said two sons and for each of his two daughters, Miss Frances Anne Deverell and Mrs. Emily Jane Bayford; to his said son John Croft Deverell, his property at Winchester and Barngreen, and other freehold and leasehold properties, shares, and policies of insurance; and there are some other bequests. The residue of his real and personal estate he gives to his said son William Henry Deverell.

The will (dated Jan. 26, 1878) with a codicil (dated June 14, 1879) of Mr. George Eyston, late of Overbury, Worcestershire, who died on Oct. 19 last, was proved on the 26th ult. by Charles John Eyston and George Basil Eyston, the nephews, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £70,000. The testator gives £200 to the Rev. Thomas Barge, of Soho-square, to be applied by him as he may think fit for the benefit of the poor of his congregation; his residence, with the furniture and effects, at Overbury, and all his real estate in the said parish, to his nephew Charles John Eyston; £5800 each to his nephews George Basil Eyston and Robert Thomas Eyston; and numerous other legacies to relatives, godchildren, and servants. The residue of his real and personal estate he leaves to his said three nephews.

The will (dated Jan. 23, 1873) with a codicil (dated Sept. 2, 1880) of Mr. Stephen Grange, formerly of No. 126, Oxford-street, but late of No. 48, St. John's Wood-road, who died on Sept. 11 last, was proved on the 25th ult. by William Todd, Mrs. Elizabeth Cooper (the daughter), and Miss Mary Menhen, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator makes specific gifts of his various freehold and leasehold properties to or in favour of his daughters, Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Caroline Todd; and his grandchildren, Edward Stephen Grange, Charles Augustus Grange, Clara Elizabeth Grange, Isabel Emily Grange, and Mary Caroline Grange, the children of his deceased son Stephen; and there are gifts to his other grandchildren, his stepdaughter, his executrix, Miss Menhen, and to others. As to the residue of his property, he leaves one third to each of his said two daughters; and the other third between the children of his deceased son Stephen.

The will (dated Nov. 23, 1871) of Mrs. Augusta Ashby, late of Staines, who died on Sept. 28 last, was proved on the 24th ult. by Charles Ashby, the son, and Robert Ashby, the nephew, the surviving executors, the personal estate being affirmed under £35,000. The testatrix leaves £200 to Phebe Pattison, for her long and faithful services; £2000 each to her sons James and Walter; and the residue of her property, real and personal, between her eight children—Charles Ashby, James Ashby, Walter Ashby, Mrs. Ann Crawley, Rebecca Ashby, Mrs. Augusta Curtis, Ellen Ashby, and Sophia Ashby.

The will (dated March 21, 1871) with five codicils of Miss Philadelphia Lætitia Cotton, late of St. Leonards-on-Sea, Sussex, who died on Oct. 2 last, was proved on the 1st inst. by Sir Henry William Dashwood, Bart., Richard Trott Fisher, and William Affleck King, the nephew, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The deceased was a daughter of the late Admiral Sir Charles Cotton, Bart.

Digitized by Google

arrival of the Cattle (Show) train

The Judges in a

The Popular Idol

The Opposition Show

The picture. "Just put me in for the sake

First Pri

CHRISTMAS CATTLE SH

SEE PRECEDING PAGE

Digitized by Google

SHOW SKETCHES.

PAGE.

Digitized by Google

SOUND INVESTMENTS.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY OF CANADA.—The difficulties experienced by investors in finding good Railway Stocks to yield a fair return are increasing. Indian Railway 5 per Cents being at 127 and yielding little over 3¾ per cent, it is not surprising that attention should be directed to Canada, which is the only English Colony where the Railways do not belong to the Government. The First Preference of the Grand Trunk Railway has advanced to par, and, although it is becoming a popular security, its full merits as a 5 per cent dividend-paying stock will not be duly appreciated until the quotation reaches a much higher price. An exact parallel to this was witnessed some few months since in the case of the Debentures. At prices ranging from 90 to 100 the Stock was regarded with suspicion because it yielded something over 5 per cent, but directly it advanced to such a level as to return only 4¼ per cent the buying became very animated. This 5 per cent Debenture will no doubt, gradually attain the same quotation as Indian Railway 5 per Cents, and, when this takes place, the 1st and 2nd Preferences will have risen considerably. The rapidly-improving position of the Grand Trunk must soon bring it to prominence the fact that these two Stocks are not limited to a dividend of 5 per cent, but that they have a further contingent value in being entitled to an extra 1 per cent of dividend after the Ordinary has received 3 per cent.

During the past month the weekly increase of traffics has been considerable, notwithstanding the interruption of business from special holidays and the elections. The increase for the twenty-two weeks of the current half year to Nov. 27 shows the enormous total of £143,579.

Owing to the early closing of the "Navigation," the amount of produce to be moved to the seaboard is beyond all precedent. It has been assumed by some that possibly a great deal would be stored until the lake and river traffic reopened in the spring, such an idea is absurd, inasmuch as the larger the volume of produce the less storage will be available, and the lower the value the less it will bear the weight of storage charges. It is therefore clearly to the interest of the producer to forward his goods to market as quickly as possible in order to secure the benefit of winter prices.

In the case of the Grand Trunk, the increased revenue has hitherto been derived, not from higher rates, but from expanding business, which augurs well for the future.

The 1st and 2nd Preference being now amply secured 5 per cent stocks, and the 3rd Preference already earning a dividend, the Ordinary stock, which is of the nominal amount of £11,000,000, must be an attractive investment, as it is at present selling at £2,640,000, or under five shillings in the pound. This stock is entitled to the reversion of a progressive railway of no less than 1300 miles, and, in addition, 335 miles of the Chicago and Grand Trunk line, £1,200,000 of Ordinary Stock in which is the absolute property of the Grand Trunk Company. This is rapidly becoming a valuable asset.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY OF CANADA.—It is not surprising that Shareholders in this Company should begin to feel grievously disappointed in having missed the opportunity for coming to terms with the Grand Trunk. Indulgence in the "magic of patience" does not seem to bring them any nearer to the rewards promised as a result of the multitudinous negotiations for American alliances; on the contrary, signs are not wanting that the so-called allies are proving very lukewarm friends, and the utterly dependent position of the Great Western Company is being constantly manifested. On the other hand, the Grand Trunk Company by having placed itself in a thoroughly independent position, is daily growing in strength and importance. Remembering that the shares of the Great Western Company are of the denomination of £20 10s., the current price of 15½ is equal to £75 12s. 2d. per £100 Stock. A comparison of the relative merits of Great Western and Grand Trunk Securities for a present investment may be best illustrated thus:—

10 shares Great Western of Canada at 15½ would cost	£155, and earn dividend 2 p. ct., or £4 2s.
£100 Grand Trunk 2nd Preference Stock would cost	£90, and earn dividend 5 p. ct., or £5 0 0
£100 Grand Trunk 3rd Preference Stock would cost	£45, and earn dividend 2 p. ct., or £2 0 0
£70 Grand Trunk Ordinary at 25..	£17, and earn nil.
	£155 £7 0 0

Thus, the same sum which would purchase £205 of nominal stock in the Great Western of Canada with an income of £4 2s., would buy £270 of nominal capital in the Grand Trunk Company with an income of £7. It would seem, therefore, that an exchange from Great Western of Canada shares into a selection of Trunk Securities cannot fail to prove profitable. Apart from the immediate increase of income, there is a prospect of a much more rapid development in capital value in Grand Trunk Securities.

PHILADELPHIA AND READING RAILROAD.—Adverse speculators recently resumed their attacks upon this property, the rumour having been industriously circulated that the proposed "deferred" issue was illegal, and that the floating debt would therefore have to be met in some other way. The legality of such a measure has, however, been since established by the American Courts. It was conveniently forgotten that the improved position was not dependent on any financial scheme, but existed in a very tangible form in the great increase of revenue. A year ago the floating debt was known to the proprietors, and then the shares stood at 38 dols. This year the net earnings to the end of October exceed those for the same period last year by no less than 2,500,000 dols.

Regarding the floating debt much misapprehension exists. The whole amount does not exceed one half year's gross receipts. There are 25,000,000 dols. of nominal assets which are pledged as security for the payment of the 13,500,000 dols. of floating debt, and these assets, if sold, would produce over 16,000,000 dols. in cash, which would be more than sufficient to pay off the entire liability and leave 2,500,000 dols. cash in the Treasury of the Company. The Receivers estimate that the net earnings for the next fiscal year, beginning Dec. 1, will be sufficient to pay 10 per cent on the shares after allowing for 800,000 dols. interest on the floating debt. Assuming, therefore, the floating debt to be paid off by the "Deferred" issue, which is to be of the same amount as the existing share capital, the net surplus for dividend would be 8,000,000 dols. more, and the total would suffice to pay 6 per cent on the present shares and 6 per cent on the Deferred Stock, leaving a surplus of 100,000 dols.

It is also contemplated to consolidate the redeemable mortgages and rent charges bearing high interest and sinking funds into 5 per cent Debentures, and the saving from this operation and the clearing off the floating debt is estimated at 2,000,000 dols. per annum. This would bring up the dividend to 7½ per cent on both shares and Deferred Stock. It, therefore, seems absurd that the shares should be at 50 per cent discount. Holders may, I think, look forward to a steady improvement in the next twelve months. The small amount of the share capital—£9,240,000—for a railway with nearly £6,000,000 per annum gross income is a very important feature.

MEXICAN RAILWAY.—The sanguine estimates in which I have indulged from the time when I recommended investments in the 1st Preference Shares at £4 10s., and later on the Ordinary Shares at £2, have been more than realised. During the past month the full dividends of 8 and 6 per cent respectively, on the 1st and 2nd Preferences for the half-year ending June 30 last, have been announced, and it is rumoured that the surplus will be applied in a small distribution to the ordinary shareholders. The recent heavy increases in traffic are likely to be far exceeded in the future. The newly authorised Railways in Mexico will take many years to complete, and during the period of construction this Company will benefit by the carriage of all the necessary materials, and as each section is opened new traffic will be attracted. The forthcoming meeting will be specially interesting.

ATLANTIC, MISSISSIPPI, and OHIO RAILROAD.—The intrinsic value of these Bonds is evidently becoming better understood, the price having greatly improved. A further payment of 2 per cent in cash on account of overdue coupons will be made next month. The distinct merits of the Railway justify a further considerable advance.

ISLE OF MAN RAILWAY.—The Progress of this compact Railway continues so steadily that the shares must prove a good dividend paying and improving investment at the present price of £5 10s. The traffics for the current year amount to £21,146 against £17,218 last year, an increase of £3928, or 22¾ per cent.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TELEGRAPH. Having survived the recent introduction of the new French Atlantic Cable, the shareholders in this company naturally anticipated an immunity from further attack; but a new assailant has appeared from a totally unexpected quarter—viz., a co-proprietor. This enterprising person, no doubt actuated by the most philanthropic motives, has sought to restrain by an injunction the payment of dividends declared by the Board. The burden of his complaint appears to be that the two cables laid in 1865 and 1866 have become useless, and that before paying further dividends a sufficient amount should be placed to reserve to restore the Capital represented by these two cables, and, further, that the seven millions of capital is not fairly represented by the assets. In putting forward such specious arguments the facts are carefully kept in the background.

When the amalgamation took place between the Anglo-American, French Cable and New York and Newfoundland Telegraph Companies, the present Capital of £7,000,000 was agreed upon. For this the Company obtained the two Anglo-American cables laid in 1865 and 1866, the French Cable, the whole system of land lines in Newfoundland, together with a network of heavy cables connecting Placentia and St. Pierre with Nova Scotia. In addition, highly valuable contracts were secured with the Western Union Company (the most extensive and powerful telegraph combination in the world), as well as working agreements with the principal Governments and Postal Systems in Europe.

So far from the property of the Company having deteriorated since the amalgamation, as is alleged by adverse critics, it is not difficult to show that, owing to the prudence of the Board, due provision has been made for the future. Three new cables have been laid in 1873, 1874, and 1880, out of Reserve Funds accumulated from Revenue. When the Newfoundland system was acquired there were two cables connecting the important points above referred to; there are now four, the two new lines being of greatly improved type, and containing six wires instead of two, so that the carrying capacity of the Newfoundland system has been enormously increased. These also have been paid for out of Revenue.

Shareholders should bear all these facts in mind, and they are not likely to be scared by any threats of injunctions; and remembering the losses to the promoters of the new French company, even reports of new competing cables should cause no alarm. Those who talk of such an absurdity as a line via the Azores, cannot be familiar with the results of the surveys of the Challenger expedition. If for the past quarter the usual provision for reserve was not made owing to the temporary effect of the French cable competition, it should be remembered that last year the directors transferred from revenue no less than £213,000, or £63,000 in excess of the usual amount agreed upon. With its long established and valuable connections, and the enormous expansion of business between Europe, America, and Canada, this Company cannot fail to prosper even upon a tariff of 2s. per word. At the current quotation of 68 the whole property is selling for £4,620,000. The recent low level of values has doubtless attracted fresh investments, hence the advance.

TRAMWAYS.—At last there seems a fair prospect that the long deferred hopes of Tramway Proprietors are likely to be realised. The Locomotive has already been successfully introduced upon some of the lines of the Bristol Company. Contracts are pending with the Hughes Locomotive Company of Loughborough for the working of a portion of the Dublin Southern District, owned by the Imperial Company, so that before the spring it is fair to assume that in part at least the expensive and old-fashioned system of horse traction will have given place to the more economical mechanical power.

The cheapest Tramway securities just now are Bordeaux, Barcelona, Birkenhead Preference, France, Germany, Provincial, Tramways Union, Wolverhampton, Aberdeen, and Tramways and General Works. All the above are dividend-paying, and have five months' profits accrued in the price.

CANADIAN COPPER AND SULPHUR COMPANY.—The advices from this property continue to be of the most satisfactory character, showing steady progress in the development of the mines. The first shipment of smelted copper is now due in Liverpool, and the assay will, no doubt, be made in time for the meeting on the 23rd inst.

INDIAN GOLD-MINES.—There is no abatement in the interest which these properties continue to excite, and the area of investors in them is largely on the increase. This is scarcely to be wondered at, in view of the highly favourable reports which continue to be received from the properties in India. The South Indian, Indian Glenrock, Devala Moyar, and Indian Phœnix Shares are well worth purchasing at current quotations.

From Mr. WILLIAM ABBOTT'S Circular for December.
10, Tokenhouse-yard, London, E.C.

HIS GRACE
THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND,
a most distinguished authority, when addressing the students of the Newcastle College of Medicine, particularly impressed the following upon their minds:—
"Be patient of NEW ideas and NEW doctrines, prove before you condemn, avail yourselves of NEW discoveries, and recollect it is not HOW, but WHETHER, you CURE your patients."

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
is a new application of a very old idea—viz., that of curing disease through the medium of the pores of the skin.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
is worn upon the pit of the stomach, its healing, purifying, and tonic properties being absorbed therein.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD
acts most beneficially upon the liver. We quote from one of our correspondents, who has derived great benefit from the use of the pad:—"My liver now not only never troubles me, but appears to me to act as a mediciner, by a spontaneous passing of superfluous bile."
We submit the following testimonial, and shall be pleased to forward many others, with full information, free by post:—

CAPT. H. C. COTTON writes to a friend as follows:—
"The Hall, Wem, Shropshire.
"I have been staying with a cousin of mine, who was in Norway this autumn, and came back very ill. He consulted all sorts of physicians, but without effect, when a friend of his said, 'Why don't you try this new treatment by absorption—the Holman Liver Pad?' At first he laughed at the idea; but, being unable to eat or sleep, he thought he might as well try anything likely to do him good. He sent for one of these Pads, and in a few days felt so much better that he could eat anything, and has been perfectly well ever since. He has also persuaded other people to try the Pad, and with the same success. I therefore send you the address of the Proprietor in London of the Holman Pad, and I strongly advise you to try this vegetable treatment, which will give you no trouble and requires no medicine."
Children's Pads, 7s. 6d.; regular size, 10s.; special size, 15s. For sale by all Chemists, or sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom on receipt of stamps or P.O. Order, payable to CHARLES CRISTADORO, Vere-street, Post-Office, W.

THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.,
10, Argyll-street, Regent-street, W.
Paris Agency: Beral, 14, Rue de la Paix.

TIRED HANDS AND ARMS.
EDSON'S ELECTRIC ARMLETS and WRISTBANDS.—For all persons having tiresome WRITING, SEWING, or MUSIC PRACTICE, they give wonderful energy and strength, enabling the wearer to accomplish tedious work with steadiness and comfort. Price 2s. 6d. per pair, silk web and fine steel clasps. Sent to any address on receipt of P.O.O. for 2s. 8d., payable to J. EDSON; address, THE ELECTRIC FABRIC COMPANY, Sole Patentees (New Building), Charlotte-street, Bedford-square, London.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghilés at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

PALACE SOAP.
PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 5s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Mélange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 14s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being piquante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

EAU DE COLOGNE.—The Best and only Genuine, invented 1695, manufactured by JOHANN ANTON FARINA, Zur Stadt, Mailand, Cologne-on-the-Rhine. By appointment Purveyor to several Royal and Imperial Courts, and owner of the Original Recipe. Prize Medals: Dusseldorf, 1852; Trier, 1854; Paris, 1855; London, 1862; Stettin, 1865; Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; and the only State Medal awarded at the Dusseldorf Exhibition, 1880. Sole Agents for Great Britain: ZERKOWSKY and REIMERS, 1, Finsbury-square, London, E.C. Purchasers should ask for the Eau de Cologne manufactured by Johann Anton Farina (Red and Blue Label), as this is the Best and only Genuine.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM,
NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT,
194, Regent-street, London, W.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT.
The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
(repeated 12 times)

SOLD only in tin-lined Packets by all Grocers. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
A choice prepared Cocoa. most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

GUARANTEED PURE.
FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
Pure Cocoa only, the superfluous oil extracted.
J. S. FRY and SONS.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoas Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requries no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 6s.; Households, for Bread making, 5s. 4d.; Wheaten Meal for Brown Bread, 5s. 8d.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; American Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Indian Corn, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d., Barley Meal, per 48 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 1 lb. tin, 8d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

WHOLE WHEATEN MEAL (Granulated) for BROWN BREAD, is Manufactured and Supplied by the ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY. See above.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 203, Regent-street, W.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
The Most Wholesome of all Spirits.
DUBLIN WHISKY distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., JOHN POWER and SON, and GEORGE ROE and CO., can be obtained in Wood by Wholesale Merchants and Dealers, direct from their respective Distilleries.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
COLOURED BROCADED VELVETS,
300 Pieces, in all the New Textures, at 5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 6d., and 8s. 6d. per yard, being 20 per cent under price.
200 Pieces of Rich Black Broché Velvets, 8s. 6d. per yard.
The New Silk Plush, for Costumes, in all New Shades, 7s. 6d. per yard.
260 Pieces of Rich French Brocaded Silks, from 4s. 11d. per yard.
100 Pieces of Guaranteed Good Wearing Black Silks, at 2s. 11d. per yard.
Patterns free.

NEW DRESS MATERIALS.
Casimir d'Italie, Grain de Pour, Cachemire de la Reine, Angola Foulé, &c., all pure wool, and dyed by the most eminent Paris dyers, in Black, and every New Colour.
Prices from 14s. 6d. to 25s. the Full Dress.
Also, in Black and the same colours, several thousand pieces of Cachemire and Cachemire Merino, very wide, 2s. 3d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
Estamene, Witney, Devonshire, and other all-wool Serges, in Navy, Dark, Brown, Prune, Bronze, Black, &c., from 1s. to 2s. 9d. the yard.
Patterns of all the above free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, OXFORD-STREET.

BALL AND DINNER DRESSES in the latest Novelties in Tarlatan, Net, Madras Muslin, Gauze, Spanish Lace, &c., in Black and all Colours, from 18s. 9d. to 20s.
The "Rowena," a pretty and stylish trained or short dress in Tarlatan, price 21s. In Brussels Net or fine White Muslin, price 31s. 6d.
The "Dora," a decided novelty, in Madras Muslin, handsomely draped over, any colour in Sateen, price 45s. 6d.
This is a pretty style for Gauze or Spanish Lace, price from 3½ guineas.
Specialities in Grenadine, Cashmere, and Japanese Silk Evening and Dinner Dresses.
The "Marie," in Black Striped Fibre Grenadine, with ample material for bodice, price 21s.
The "Lilian," in Light-Coloured Cashmere, trimmed lace, with material and lace for bodice, price £2 18s. 6d.
The "Bertha," in Rich Light-Coloured Japanese Silk, with material for bodice, price £2 18s. 6d.
Patterns and Illustrations post-free.
Illustrations of the above designs, with many others, can be had post-free on application to PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street, London.

RICHARD GUNTER
Begs to announce that he has now on view a very choice selection of Parisian Bonbonnieres, Bonbons, Surprises, Chocolats, and Comfits, suitable for Christmas Presents. BRIDE and CHRISTENING CAKES of very best quality always ready. WEDDING BREAKFASTS, Dinners, and Balls in Town or Country supplied with every requisite. Also Wines, &c. For Estimates apply to
RICHARD GUNTER,
23, Motcombe-street, Belgrave-square, S.W.

RODRIGUES' CHRISTMAS PRESENTS,
42, PICCADILLY, LONDON, W.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA.

BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from ..	21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS	63s. to £50
DRESSING CASES	21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES	21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES	4s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS ..	10s. 6d. to £5
STATIONERY CASES AND CABINETS ..	30s. to £5
INKSTANDS	5s. to £5
CANDLESTICKS (per pair)	7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS	15s. to £5
PORTRAIT ALBUMS	4s. 6d. to £5
THE NEW "TANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND	105s. to £10
THE NEW "EPITOME" WRITING CASE ..	12s. to 3 s.
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 14s. 6d., and 16s. 6d.

And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS,
ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES
Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly Illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
All the novelties by the most eminent publishers. Descriptive Catalogue sent post-free.
THOMAS CHAPMAN, Stationer, 54, Leicester-square.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Merry Maidens, Dancing Girls, Maidens Fair. The set of nine on receipt of P.O.O. for 5s.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Fully assorted packets of all the novelties, 40s., 20s. Any not approved of can be exchanged.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
De la Rue's, Marcus Ward's, Prang's, Hildisheimer's, Rothe's, &c., conveniently arranged for choice.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for LADIES.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for GENTLEMEN.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for BOYS.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX for GIRLS.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX, suitable for everybody.
JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

MACMICHAEL'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES now ready, and post-free.
JAMES MACMICHAEL, Stationer to the Queen, 42, South Audley-street, W.

"THE BEST SELECTIONS OF THE BEST GROWTHS."
WILLS' CIGARETTES. "DUBEC" (mild). "YENIJEH" (full flavour).
Every Genuine Cigarette bears the name of
W. D. and H. O. WILLS.
Sold by all Principal Dealers.

Digitized by Google

NICHOLSON'S NEW COSTUMES,
50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW MANTLES,
50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW WINTER DRESS FABRICS.
Patterns post-free.
VELOUR CLOTH, at 10½d., 18½d., and 1s. 11½d. per yard.
NEW SERGES, at 15½d., 18½d., and 23½d. per yard.
GRAMPIAN HOMESPUNS, 1s. 7½d. per yard.
NEW POPLINS, from 6½d. per yard.
NEW MELTON CLOTHS, 2s. 3d. per yard.
FRENCH MERINOS, at 1s. 11d., 2s. 9½d., and 3s. 3d. per yard.
BLACK VELVETEENS, from 1s. 9½d. to 5s. 11d. per yard.
COLOURED Ditto, from 2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED Ditto, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
Patterns of Black and Coloured Silks post-free.
D. NICHOLSON and CO.,
50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the
LOUIS VELVETEEN
in Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an insufficient recommendation.
"LOUIS." It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition. Many ladies have adopted the
LOUIS VELVETEEN,
in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."
Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both
"LOUIS." Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, folding-marks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.
WHOLESALE AGENTS,
who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—
"LOUIS." J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.
MOURNING.
MESSRS. JAY'S experienced ASSISTANTS travel to any part of the kingdom, free of expense to purchasers. They take dresses and millinery with them, besides patterns of materials at 1s. per yard and upwards, all marked in plain figures, and at the same price as if purchased at the warehouse in Regent-street. Funerals at stated charges.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW SHORT COSTUMES and GRACEFUL DINNER DRESS—Short Dresses.—Messrs. JAY respectfully invite their clientele to the choice Collection of Pattern Costumes of the newest type of fashion, which are imported from Paris and Berlin.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK VELVETEENS.—Almost equal in appearance to good Black Velvet. As Black Velveteen is much worn, Messrs. JAY have had manufactured special qualities of Black Velveteen, fast colour. These Velveteens are confidently recommended to their customers.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

POMPADOUR Transparent GRENADINES, for Evening Wear, 1s. 9d. per yard, fashionable fabrics. These Grenadines are sold at half their value. Patterns free.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

IMPORTANT to LADIES. — Send to BAKER and CRISP'S for Engravings, Price-Lists, and Patterns of all the Newest and Cheapest ULSTERS, Fur-lined Cloaks, Dressing Gowns, Newest and Cheapest Dress Fabrics.—Regent-street, London.

ONE THOUSAND Ladies' Tailor-made Ulsters, 8s. 11d. to 50s.
Hats to match, 4s. 11d.
Fur-lined Cloaks from 21s.
Children's Ulsters from 4s. 11d.
Children's Costumes from 8s. 11d.
Fur Shoulder Capes, 4s. 11d.
Shoulder Wraps, 4s. 11d.

BAKER and CRISP'S ROYAL VELVETEENS.—The Royal Moleskin Velveteens, in Black, Figured, and Colours, from 1s. 9d. to 4s. 6d. Plain, Striped, and Figured Silk Velvets, 3s. 11d. to 7s. 11d. Patterns free. 198, Regent-street.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—CHRISTMAS PRESENTS, from 8½d. the yard, all the New Winter VICUNAS, Fine and Rough Serges, Black Fabrics, Cashmeres, Whitneys, Cheviots, &c., from 8½d. Patterns free.

BAKER & CRISP'S EVENING CASHMERES, EVENING GRENADINES, EVENING FANCY GOODS.
EVENING SILKS, EVENING FABRICS, EVENING JAPANESE. Patterns free.—Regent-street.

SPECIALITIES.
SPECIALITIES FOR CHRISTMAS.
Marvellous for the Money. One Million Beautiful CHRISTMAS CARDS, 18 for 6d., 18 for 1s., 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 6s. 6d., to 10s. 6d., post-free for stamps.
Twenty thousand Ladies' Silk Squares for Neck or Pocket; three for 15 stamps.
Marvels of Cheapness. Hemmed-Stitch Cambric Handkerchiefs. One Doz. free for 28 stamps; extra fine, 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 6s. 6d. half dozen free.—BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street.

IMPORTANT NOTICE. — CHRISTMAS GIFTS in PARCELS of Fifty Yards of best and most seasonable Dresses; each Parcel consists of Five and Six good Dress Lengths, sent for P.O.O., 35s. and 45s. Money returned if not approved.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

ULSTER CLOTHS, Sealskins, and other Materials for Ladies' Jackets, at very moderate prices, for ready money only.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO., Woollen Warehouse, 5, Holborn-circus, corner of Hatton-garden, London.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Bridesmaids' Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Loose Cut Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
100 Pieces of handsome
BLACK BROCADED VELVETS,
5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and 10s. 9d. per yard.
Black Velvets for trimming purposes, 3s. 11d. to 6s. 9d.
Black Striped Velvets (best quality), 4s. 9½d. and 5s. 3d.
Black Brocaded Silks and Satins, 2s. 6d. to 6s. 11d.
Black Silk Plush, for Costumes, from 4s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Silk-faced Satin, from 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Duchess Satin in Black and in White, 5s. 3d. to 12s. 6d.
Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets (all Silk), 3s. 11d. to 21s.
Satin de Lyons, in Black, 3s. 11d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d.
Dress Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets,
A Special Bargain,
16 Yards for £2 8s.
Address for Patterns to
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6D.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE.
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

ARRASENE.
A New Material in Silk and Wool,
for Artistic Embroidery.
Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks.
Can be procured of Berlin Wool Repositories.
Wholesale only, R. G. GEACH, 137, Cheapside.

TO ALL LOVERS OF MUSIC.—The VOLTA VOGLIO, the New Patent Music Turner, of invaluable use to all music-players, for pianos, harmoniums, organs, &c. The music is instantly fixed, and then by simply pressing a little lever the leaf of music is carried over without being touched with the hand in any way. Failure impossible. Perfection in action guaranteed. Four leaves of music can be set at a time. It is an article long wanted by the musical public, and has been brought to the highest state of perfection. Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent have been obtained, and Messrs. THEOBALD and CO. have the entire sale. In Mahogany, price 4s. each; free, 4s. 6d.; Walnut or Ebony, 1s. extra. Agents wanted. Shippers supplied.—J. THEOBALD and COMPANY, 20, Church-street, Kensington, London, W.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.—JEWELLERY
The GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE LIMITED respectfully solicit an inspection of their extensive STOCK, which contains a beautiful assortment of the following articles:—

Bracelets, from ..	£6 to £200	Rings, from ..	£2 to £800
Brooches, from ..	£2 to £200	Chains, from ..	£3 to £90
Lockets, from ..	£2 to £200	Pins, from ..	£1 to £50
Earrings, from ..	£1 to £200	Studs, from ..	£1 to £50

To obviate the difficulty which is so often experienced in choosing suitable gifts, the Goldsmiths' Alliance (Limited) have prepared a new edition of their Illustrated Pamphlet, and will be happy to forward the same gratis and post-free on application.—11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank of England.

CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO.
By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES.
SPECIALITE REPEATERS. CHRONOGRAPHS, &c.
Special Workmen for Repairs.
London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £8 8s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE.
SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of 18-carat, accurate time-keepers, full jewelled. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

DIAMONDS.
SAPPHIRES.
CATS'-EYES.
OPALS.
EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of
18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY
and
ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES,
(MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT,
COLOMBO, CEYLON.

CONSUMPTION AND WASTING DISEASES.

IN "NOTES on CONSUMPTION and WASTING DISEASES SUCCESSFULLY TREATED with HYDRATED OIL, with Cases showing the immediate increase in weight by it," see Book published by Diprose, Bateman, and Co., Lincoln's-inn-fields. The ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, will send a copy free on application.

GOVEREND DREWRY, M.D., Physician to the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, Author of "Common-Sense Management of the Stomach," &c., referring to cases treated at the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, says that "'Hydroleine' (or Hydrated Oil) produces an effect such as neither cod-liver oil nor any preparation of it with which I am acquainted even faintly approaches, and patients are unanimous in their statement that the appetite is much increased by taking 'Hydrated Oil,' and that, so far from possessing the unpleasant taste of ordinary cod-liver oil, the taste of 'Hydrated Oil' is agreeable rather than the reverse, and is described by some as resembling Devonshire cream. These, I submit, are very important points in cases usually attended by great irritability of stomach. The general improvement in strength shown within a fortnight was in many instances surprising, even to myself, who had seen already in private practice many startling results from its use. My experience, however, shows that in cases where cod-liver oil or an emulsion of it has been depended upon, increase of weight is rarely obtained."—Page 16.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil),
Equal to Ten times the quantity of Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Entirely supersedes plain Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Produces rapid increase in flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is certain in result, and is pleasant to take.

TRY YOUR WEIGHT!!

TRY YOUR WEIGHT.—HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has proved of the highest value as a food in consumption and all wasting diseases, invariably producing increase in flesh and weight. This preparation of Hydrated Cod-Liver Oil is tonic, digestive, and ten times more strengthening and nourishing, as well as far more pleasant to taste, than plain cod-liver oil. Hydroleine may be described as partially digested oil, which will nourish and produce increase of weight in those cases where oils or fat, not so treated, are difficult or impossible to digest. All tendency to emaciation and loss of weight is arrested by the regular use of Hydroleine, which may be discontinued when the usual average weight has been permanently acquired. Of all Chemists, 4s. 6d.; or sent direct, carriage paid, to any address in England for 54.—Sold wholesale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London.

READ the following Extracts from a few among the hundreds of letters received, showing that HYDROLEINE will nourish, and cause young or old to increase in weight where plain cod-liver oil will not; the original letters, with many others, may be seen at our Office.

DR. AUSTIN, of Sunnyside, East Grinstead, writing on May 13, 1880, says:—
"I recommended one patient to get it, and he gained 8 lb. weight in a week; left it off next week, and lost 4 lb. This speaks well."

MR. JAS. STEWART, Chemist, of Dalkeith, writing April 28, 1877, says:—
"I weighed only 116 lb. on March 25, took the Hydroleine very irregularly I must confess, and on April 19 weighed 120 lbs. I found it very pleasant to take, never experienced the least approach to eructation, and rather think it acted very much as a tonic."

WRITING of Hydrated Oil on May 14, 1877, Mr. KENNETH M'DONALD, of Dunkeld, says:—
"I had been taking cod-liver oil all winter myself, and thought I would first experiment on myself with the Hydroleine, and I must say, whether it is that or not, I am much better; in fact, all right again, and I certainly give it the credit, and will recommend it to all in preference to the ordinary oil—it is much easier taken."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been favourably received by all classes of people, as well as the press, as the following extracts will show:—

MRS. ELLEN COOKE, Weston-super-Mare, in a letter dated May 24, 1879, says:—
"I think the last bottle you sent me has saved the life of a little boy three years old."

MR. J. H. GREGORY, Master of Caxton Workhouse, Cambs., writing on March 12, 1879, says:—
"The effect of the bottle I received from you was marvellous, as I increased nearly 4 lb. in weight, and felt better in every way."

MRS. MARYATT, Bayswater, W., writing on Jan. 22, 1877, speaks of the Hydrated Oil in the following terms:—
"My little boy (aged five and a half years) is so extremely fond of it that he will take it just as it is, without the ginger or orange wine, and will smack his lips after it. As for myself, I can never sound its praises too loudly. I consider it a perfect life-giver."

MR. JOHN MILTON, writing from Liverpool on May 7, 1877, says:—
"Five weeks ago a small pamphlet was handed to me descriptive of your Hydroleine, and since that time my wife has been taking just one bottle a week with certain benefit."

MR. A. BOYCE, Chemist, Hayward's-heath, writing on July 9, 1877, says:—
"I have given it to several consumptive cases, and am pleased to inform you with very good result. The effect of it on two persons (children) has been wonderful. I am trying to make it known every where I can."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is not a patent medicine.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Has the formula upon every bottle.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is used to increase flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
May be relied upon to increase weight.

THE CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES upon which HYDRATED OIL is prepared were first described in a treatise on the Assimilation and Digestion of Fats in the Human Body, by H. C. Bartlett, Ph.D., F.C.S., published by Messrs. J. and A. Churchill, New Burlington-street (Fat in the Human Body, page 41):—"Nothing appears to restore the healthy functions of the liver and pancreas in these cases except the frequent ingestion of oil or liquid fat, so treated artificially that it is already partially transformed by fermentation and the reaction of bile. Seized on with avidity by the absorbents, it is insensibly assimilated by the digestive organs, until they gradually become strengthened, not only to provide their own nourishment, but to transform a sufficient quantity of fat to supply the inevitable waste throughout the body."

ALL persons taking HYDROLEINE are particularly urged to keep an ACCOUNT from WEEK to WEEK of their WEIGHT, that the gain and improvement may be shown. The makers, having devoted special attention to perfecting a process by means of which uniformity in the production of HYDRATED OIL is secured, desire to direct the attention of the medical profession and the public to this preparation, to distinguish which the name of HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been registered under the Trade-Marks Acts. Ask your Chemist for it. If your Chemist has not the "Hydroleine" in stock, a bottle will be sent from the Factory (carriage paid) to any part of England, on receipt of Post-Office Order, 5s. Sold whole ale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London. Pamphlet sent free to any address.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—OETZMANN and CO. beg respectfully to intimate to their Patrons the desirability of forwarding their orders early as possible for goods required before Christmas. Extra hands have been engaged, and every effort will be made to keep pace with the additional influx of orders usual at this season.—OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c.; and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.
OETZMANN and CO.

DINING-ROOM SUITES.—OETZMANN and CO.—Handsome Mahogany Dining-Room Suite, consisting of a Couch, Six Chairs, and two Easy-Chairs, well upholstered in best leather, price 20 guineas; superior ditto, in Oak or Spanish Mahogany, with handsome Lounge, Six Stuffed-Backed Chairs, and Two Easy-Chairs, upholstered in best leather and finished in a superior manner, price 28 guineas; handsome Early English and Mediæval Dining-Room Suites in Oak, consisting of a large Divan Lounge, Six Chairs, and two noble Easy-Chairs, upholstered in best leather and finished in the best possible manner, price 35 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

CARPET DEPARTMENT. — A quantity of ready-made Carpets will be cleared out a bargain. Quotations forwarded per post, upon receiving size and description required. Large-size Hearthrugs, 4s. 9d. each; super ditto, 8s. 11d.; Axminster ditto, 12s. 9d.; Best Axminster ditto, 15s. 6d., usual price 21s. Stout Floorcloth, at 9d. per yard. Patent Linoleum Floorcloth and Staircloth, from 1s. 9d. per yard. Hemp, Dutch Carpet, yard wide, 8d. per yard; Large Kitchen Hearthrugs, 3s. 9d.; Sheepskin Hearthrugs, from 15s. 9d. upwards; ditto Mats, from 2s.—OETZMANN and CO.

CRETONNES. — OETZMANN and CO. CRETONNES.—An immense assortment of all the choicest designs in this fashionable material, in every variety of style and colourings; excellent imitations of rare Tapestries, some being exact copies of the finest Gobelins, Beauvais, and Flemish Tapestry. Prices varying from 6½d. per yard. Some at 1s. 0½d., per yard, usually sold at 1s. 9d.; super ditto, at 1s. 2½d., usual price, 2s. per yard. Patterns sent into the country by stating kind required. O. and Co.'s Stock of English and French Cretonnes is one of the largest and best in London.
OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISHING IRONMONGERY DEPARTMENT.—Strong Bronzed Fenders, from 1s. 6d. each; super ditto, 3s. 9d.; handsome Drawing-room Fenders, 8s. 9d.; ditto, new designs, from 12s. 9d. to 5 guineas; fire-irons, from 1s. 9d. per set; handsome ditto, 4s. 9d.; burnished steel ditto, from 7s. 6d. to 2 guineas per set; japanned oval Tea Trays, from 3s. 11d. per set of three, 16, 24, and 30 inches; handsome ditto, chaste pattern, gilt and enamelled, 7s. 6d. per set; elegant ditto, from 12s. 6d. to 5 guineas per set.—OETZMANN and CO.

"NEO-CLEOPATRA" TOILET-SERVICE (Registered). Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S New Registered Shape and Designs, manufactured exclusively for them, and is of the most artistic design and decorations. Ewer, Basin, &c., complete, from 8s. 6d. the set. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 63s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths and Patentees of the Electro-Plate, can at all times Provide Purchasers with every variety of Table and Decorative Plate, Tea and Coffee Services, Salvers, Cruet Frames, Soup Tureens, &c., in Old English, Early English, Queen Anne, Jacobean, Corinthian, and every style of Art, both in Silver and in Electro-Plate. Spoons and Forks of the Old English Rat-Tail Pattern. Drawings and Prices free by post on application. Address: ELKINGTON and CO.,
22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, INVITES INSPECTION of all that is new and beautiful in useful and ornamental CHINA and GLASS, including

	s.	d.
Dinner Services ("Cottage"), 50 pieces	13	6
Dinner Services for 12 persons (108 pieces)	35	0
China Dessert Services for 12 persons, Gilt, 17s. .. Ungilt	14	0
Gilt China Tea Services, 40 pieces, 12s. .. .. 28 pieces	8	6
China Breakfast Sets for 6 persons, 11s. .. for 4 persons	7	0
Toilet Services (for washstands), 6s. 6d., 8s. 6d., .. and	3	9
White Stone Jugs, "The Grecian," .. .. set of three	1	3

All really excellent patterns.

Quart Decanters, good cut glass, 5s. per pair .. .. plain	4	0
Claret Decanters (with handle), 4s. each .. .. and	3	0
Plain light Claret Glasses, well made, 6s. per doz. .. and	4	6
Wine Glasses, plain or cut, Ports and Sherries, per doz.	1	9
Engraved Wine Glasses do. do, do.	3	6
Hock Glasses, ruby bowl, 6s. per doz. .. green bowl	3	0
Tumblers, cut, 3s. 3d.; plain, 2s. 9d. moulded, per doz.	1	6
Plain light Finger-Glasses, taper shape .. per doz.	6	6

Other articles proportionately cheap.
Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, LUDGATE-HILL. Established 1760.

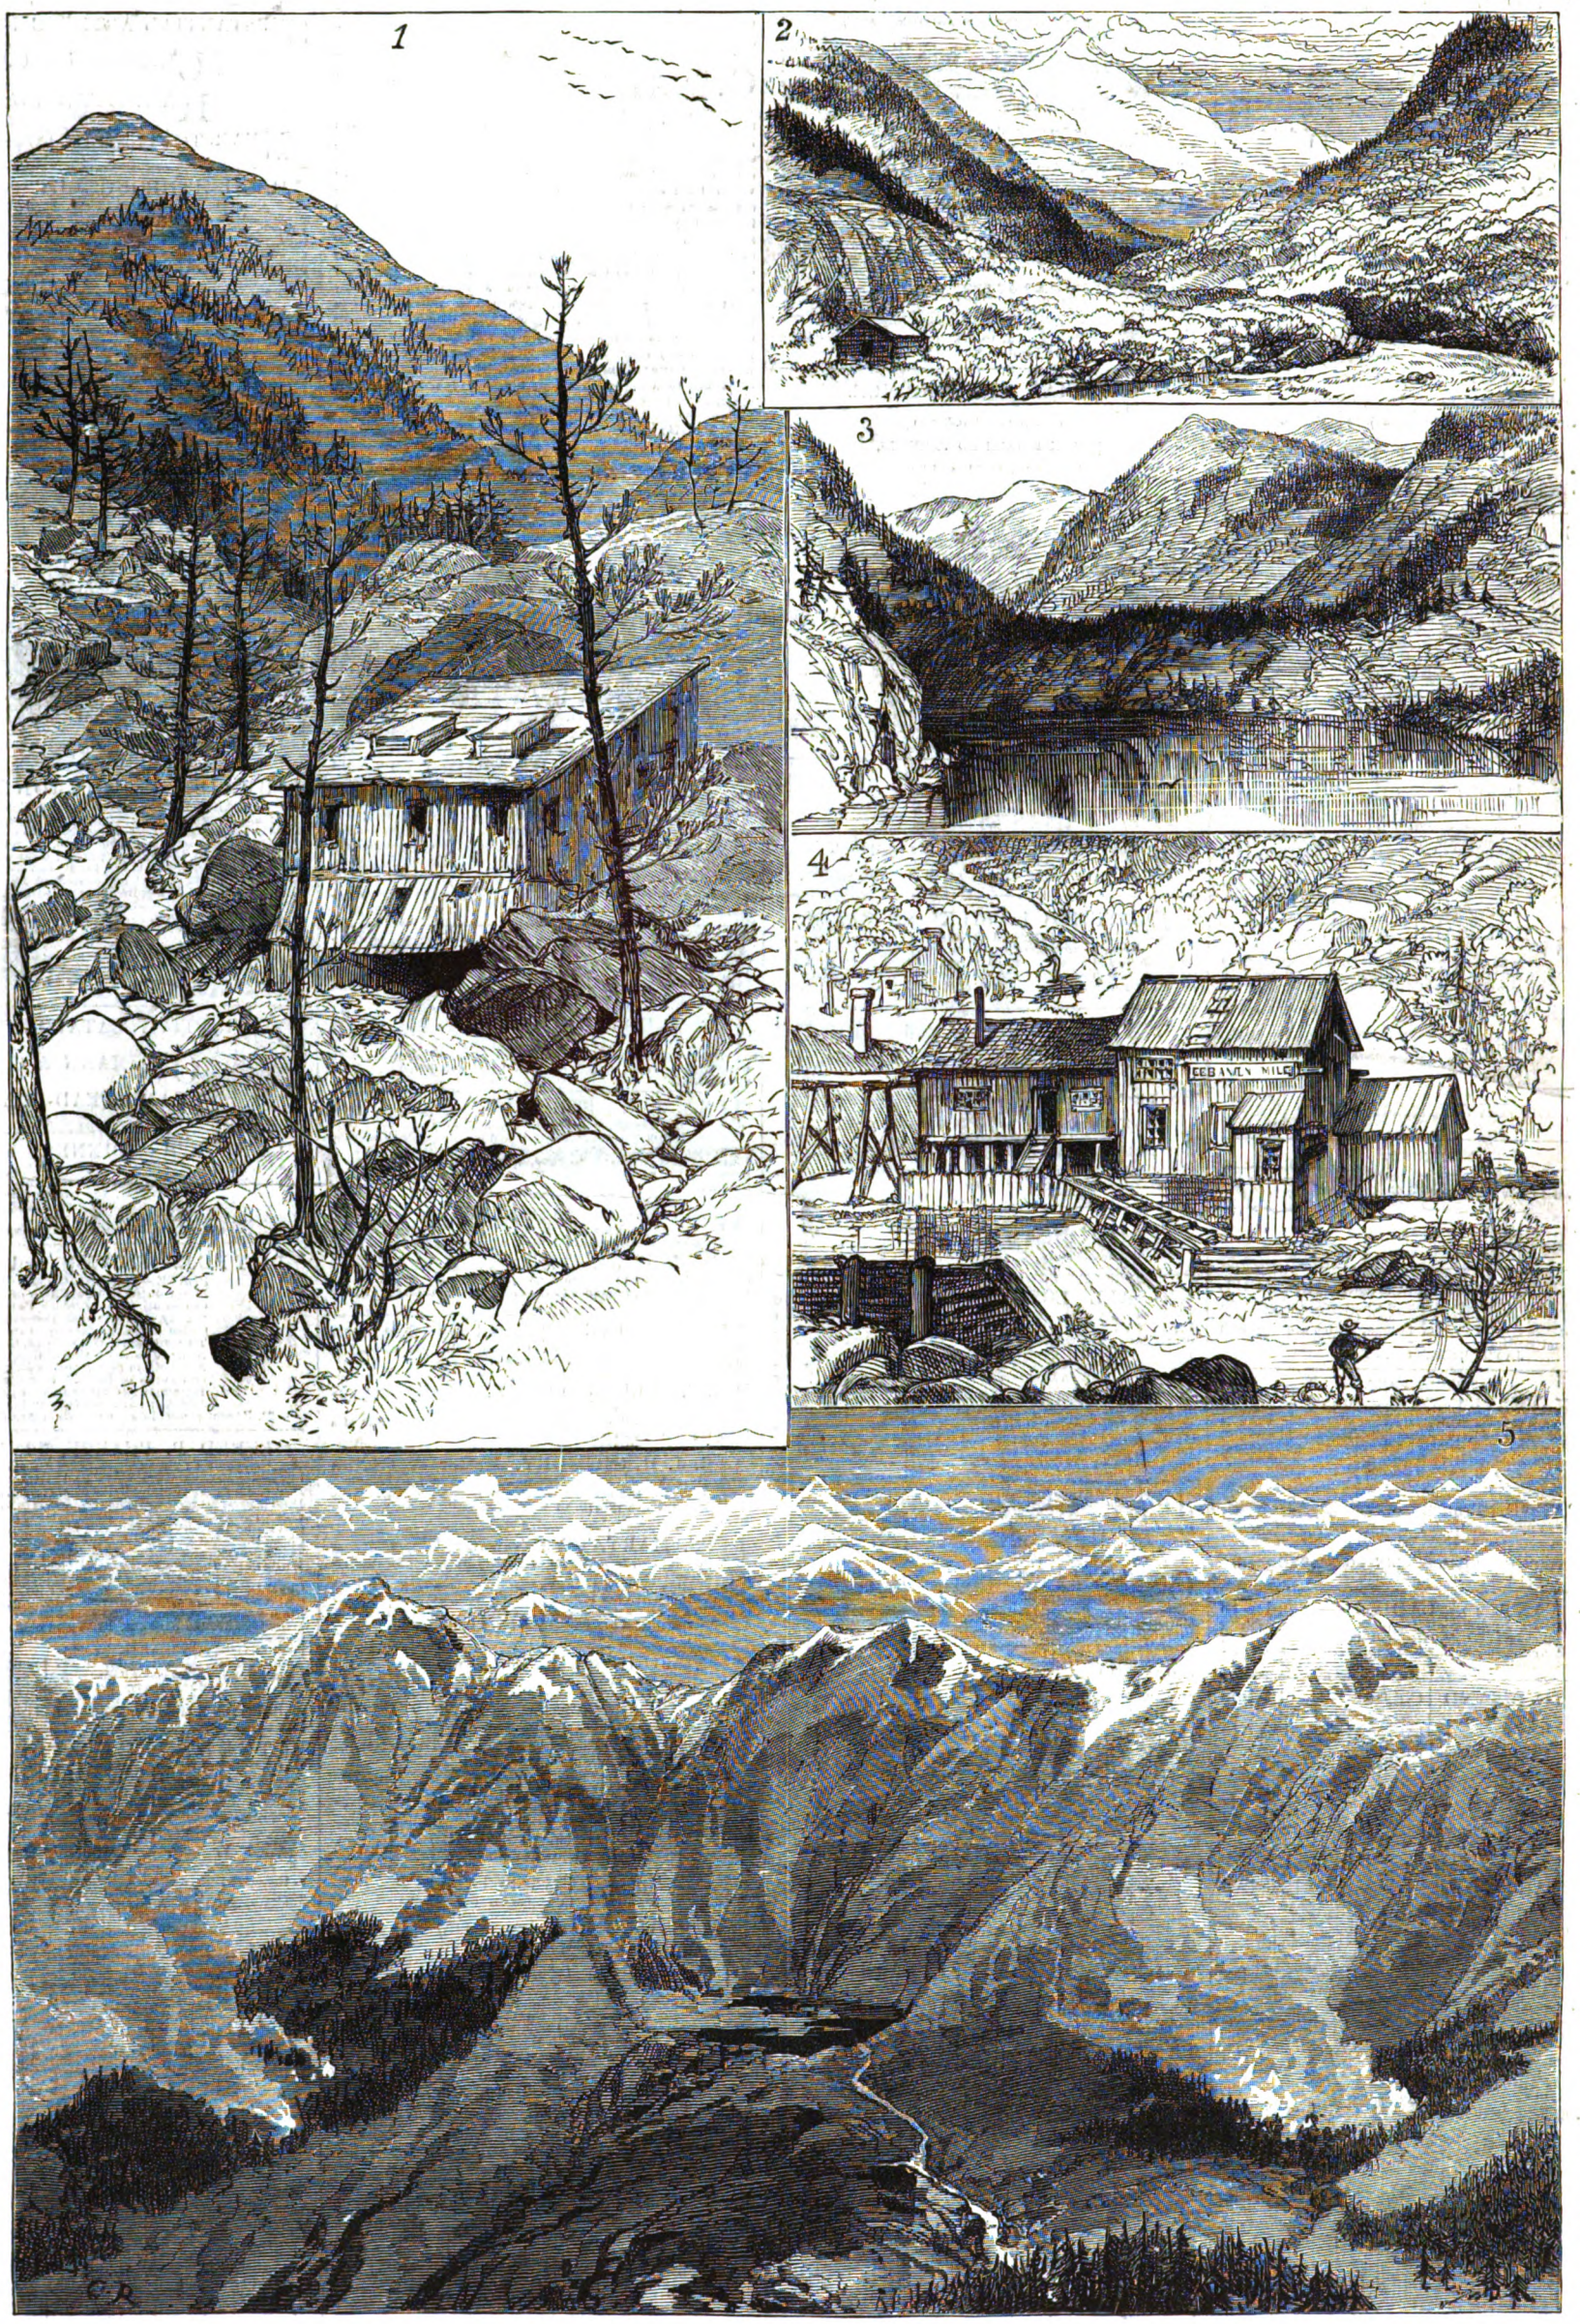
ETZENSBERGER'S PATENT CAFETIERE is economical, cleanly, and safe; makes an excellent cup of coffee, strong and fragrant; is made in two sizes for the breakfast table, pint and quarts, in block tin, nickel plated, electro-plate, and German silver. Coffee and Tea Filters, for bars, hotels, coffee and tea palaces, of any size.

THE WILFRID is an Ornament for the counter. Can supply coffee and tea, hot water and milk, all at the same time, and with little cost and trouble.
R. ETZENSBERGER and CO.,
No. 13, St. Andrew's-street, Holborn-circus, E.C. London.

DUPLEX LAMPS.—The New Patterns. The light of twenty-four sperm candles at a cost of less than one farthing per hour; a pure and healthy flame, not injuring the choicest works of art. Engravings post-free.
Drawing-room Lamps, China and Glass, £6, 78s., 63s., 52s., 40s.
Dining-room Lamps, Bronze and Ormolu, 40s., 35s., 28s., 22s.
Cheap Table Lamps, 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 18s., 19s. 6d., 22s.
Refined Rock Oil supplied by Dean and Co., 1½d. per gallon.
DEANE and CO., 46, King William-st., London-bridge. A.D. 1700.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 26s. and 20s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

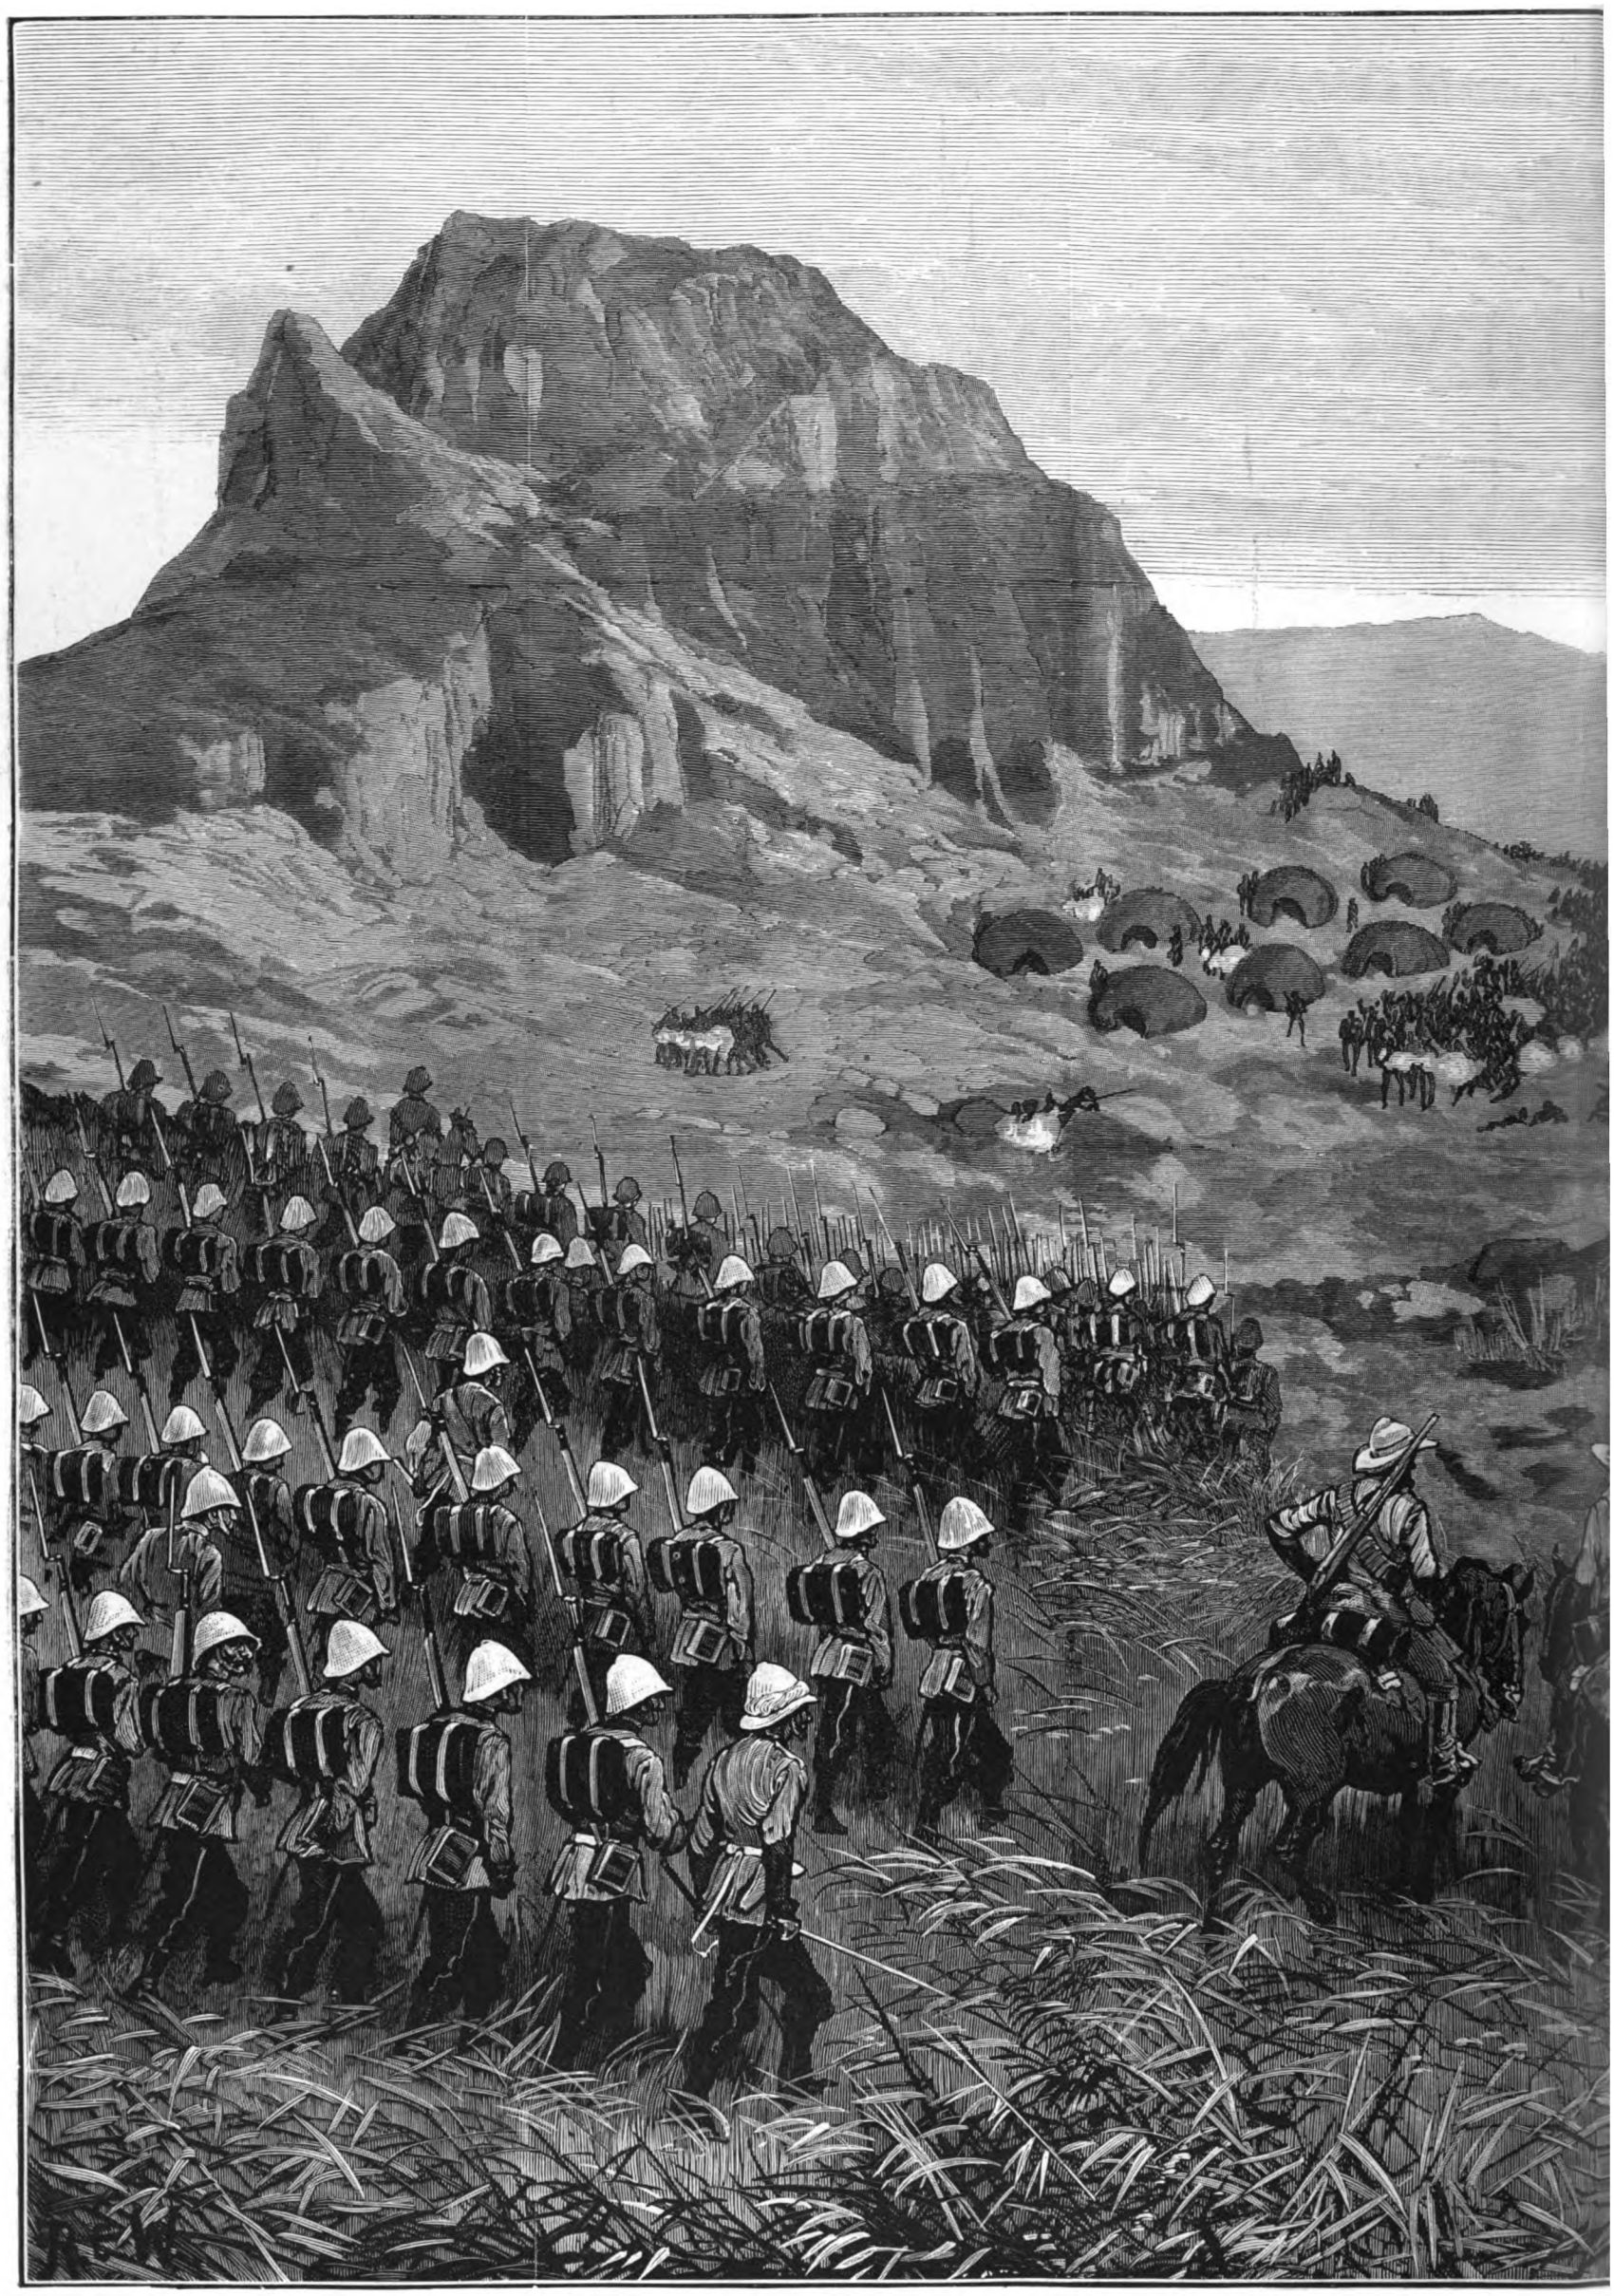


VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHY NOT MAKE YOUR OWN LANTERN SLIDES?
(TRANSFER PROCESS.)
A Box containing a Sheet of Twelve 3¼-inch VIEWS, Glasses, Roller, Brushes, Varnishes, New Frame, Masks, and Book containing full Instructions, 14s. Particulars and Price-Lists post-free.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

Digitized by Google

SKETCHES IN COLORADO.

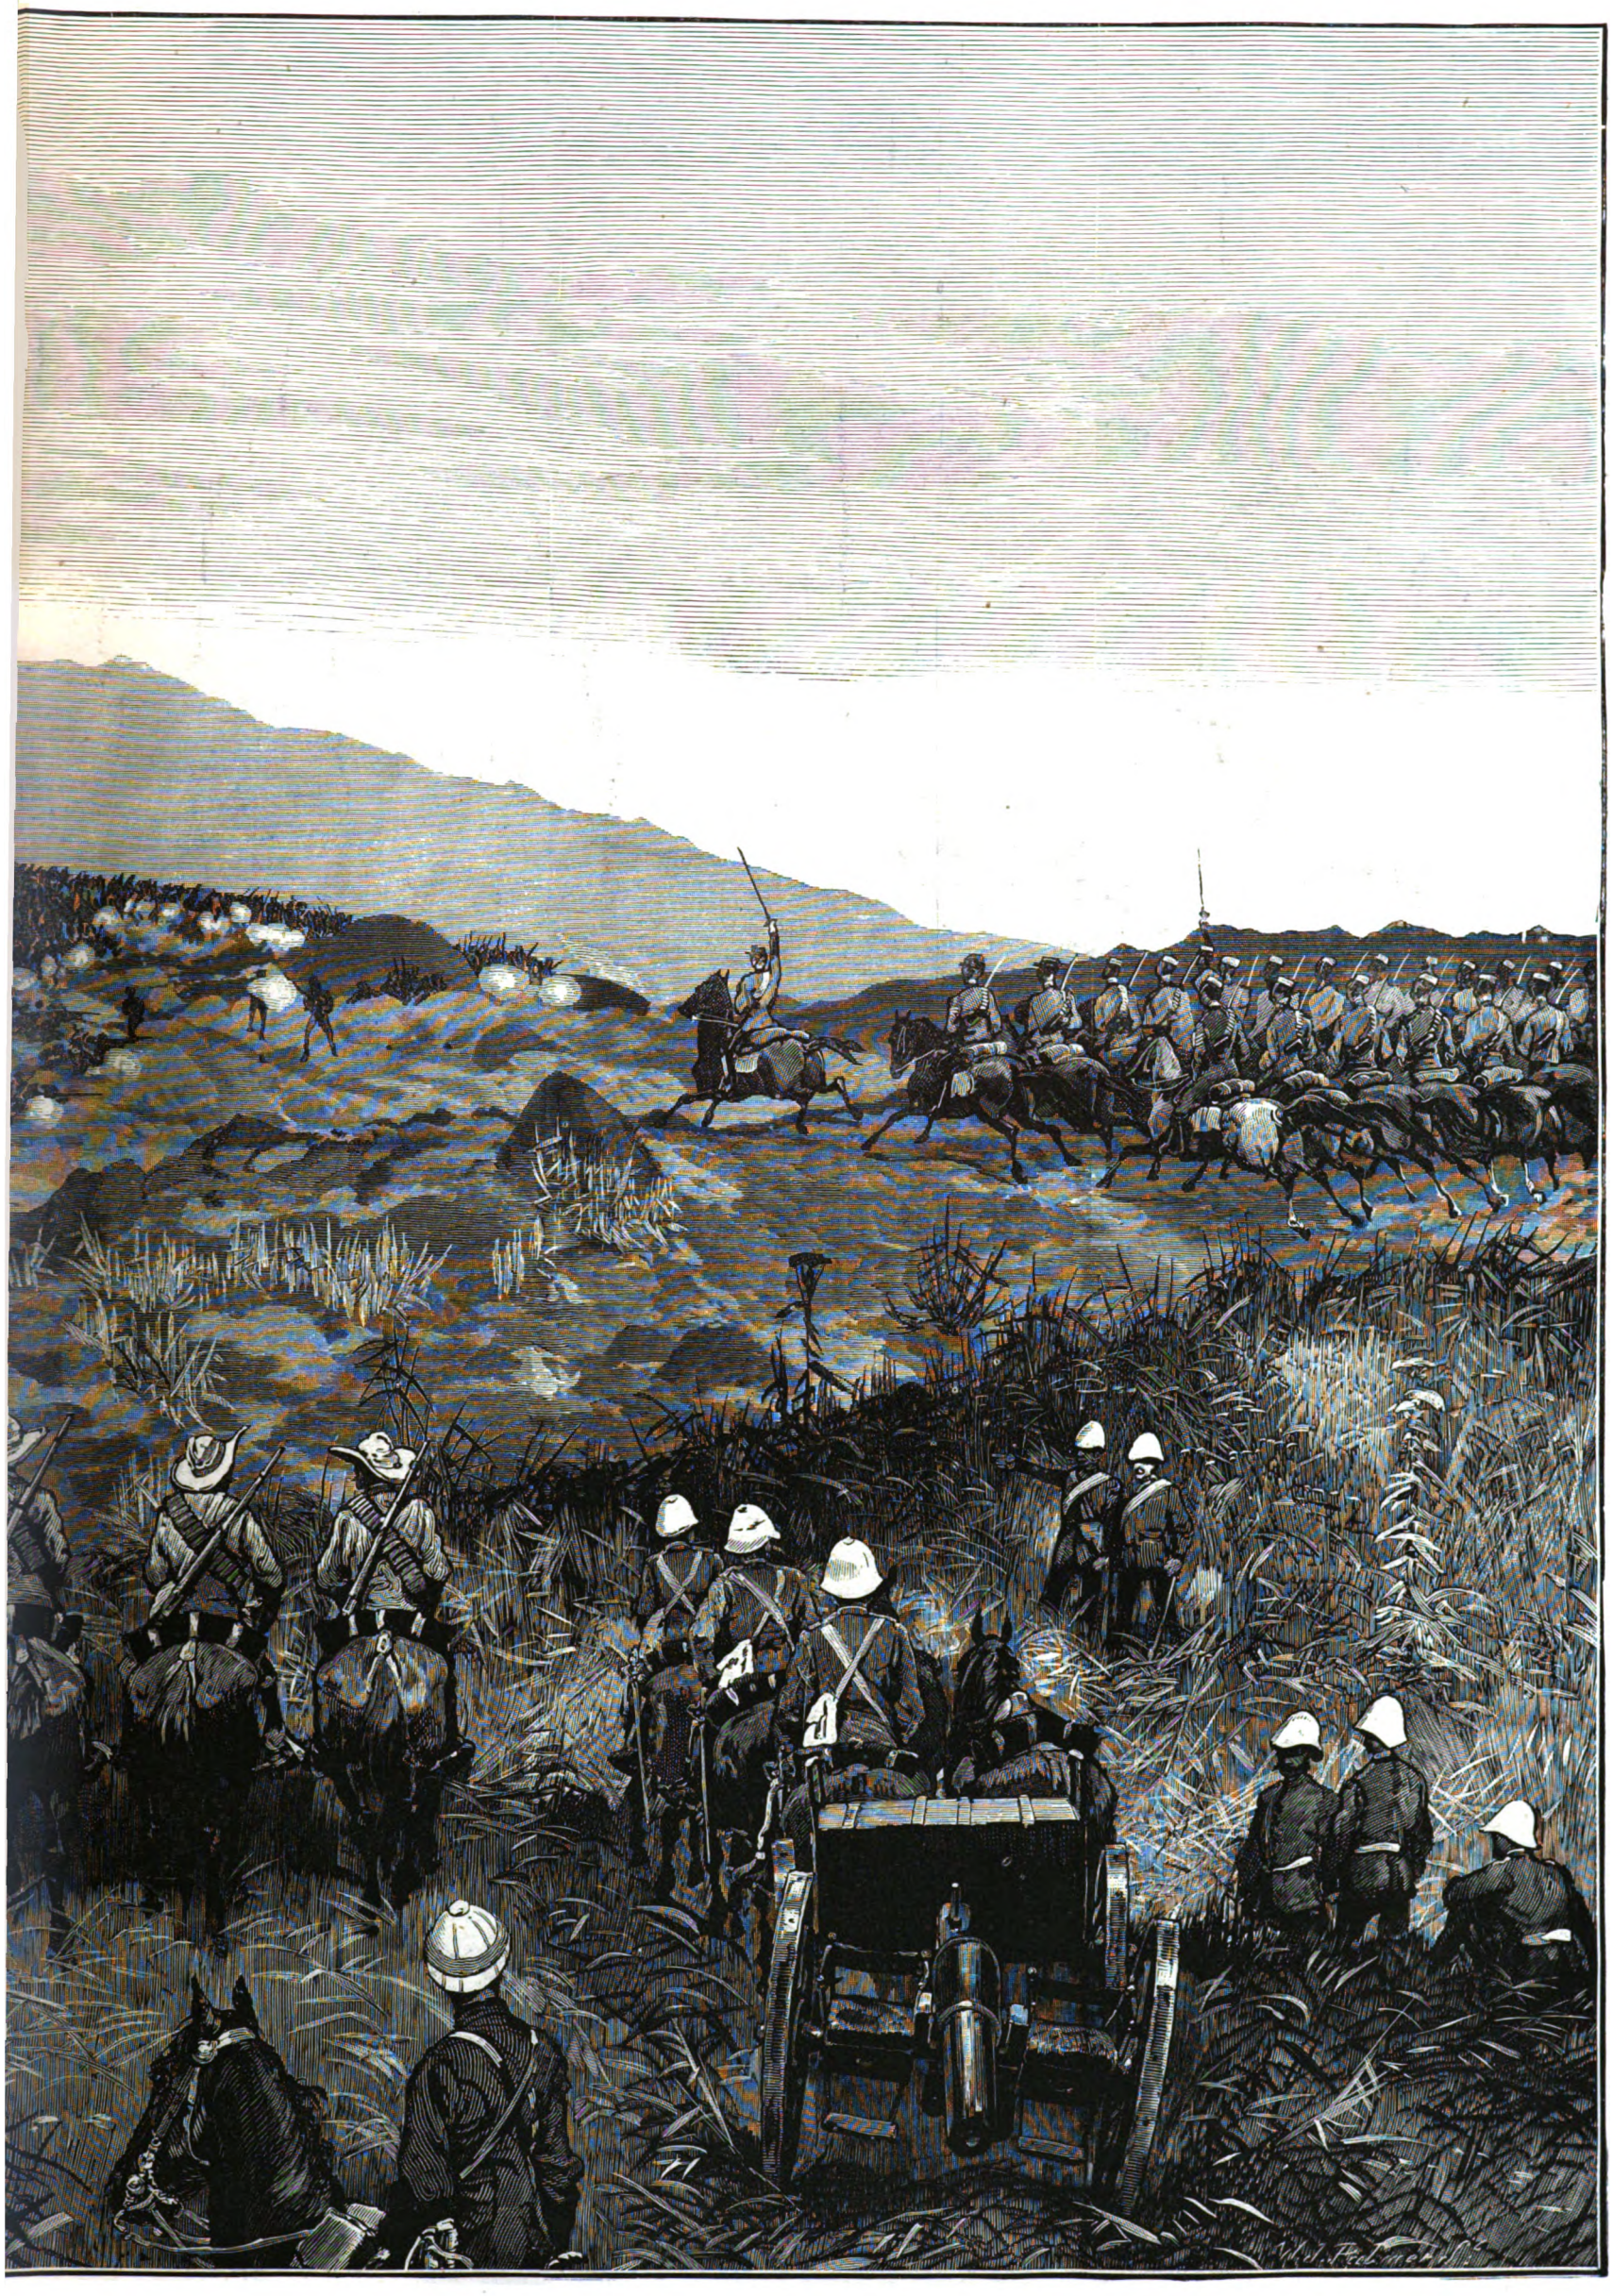


SEE PAGE 579.

1. Abandoned Mill for Reducing Ore. 2. The "Little Professor," Rocky Mountains. 3. Clear Lake, Rocky Mountains. 4. Mill for Reduction and Concentration of Ore, near Georgetown.
5. View from the Summit of Gray's Peak looking West, showing Forest Fires.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google



Capetown Volunteers (Duke of Edinburgh's Own).

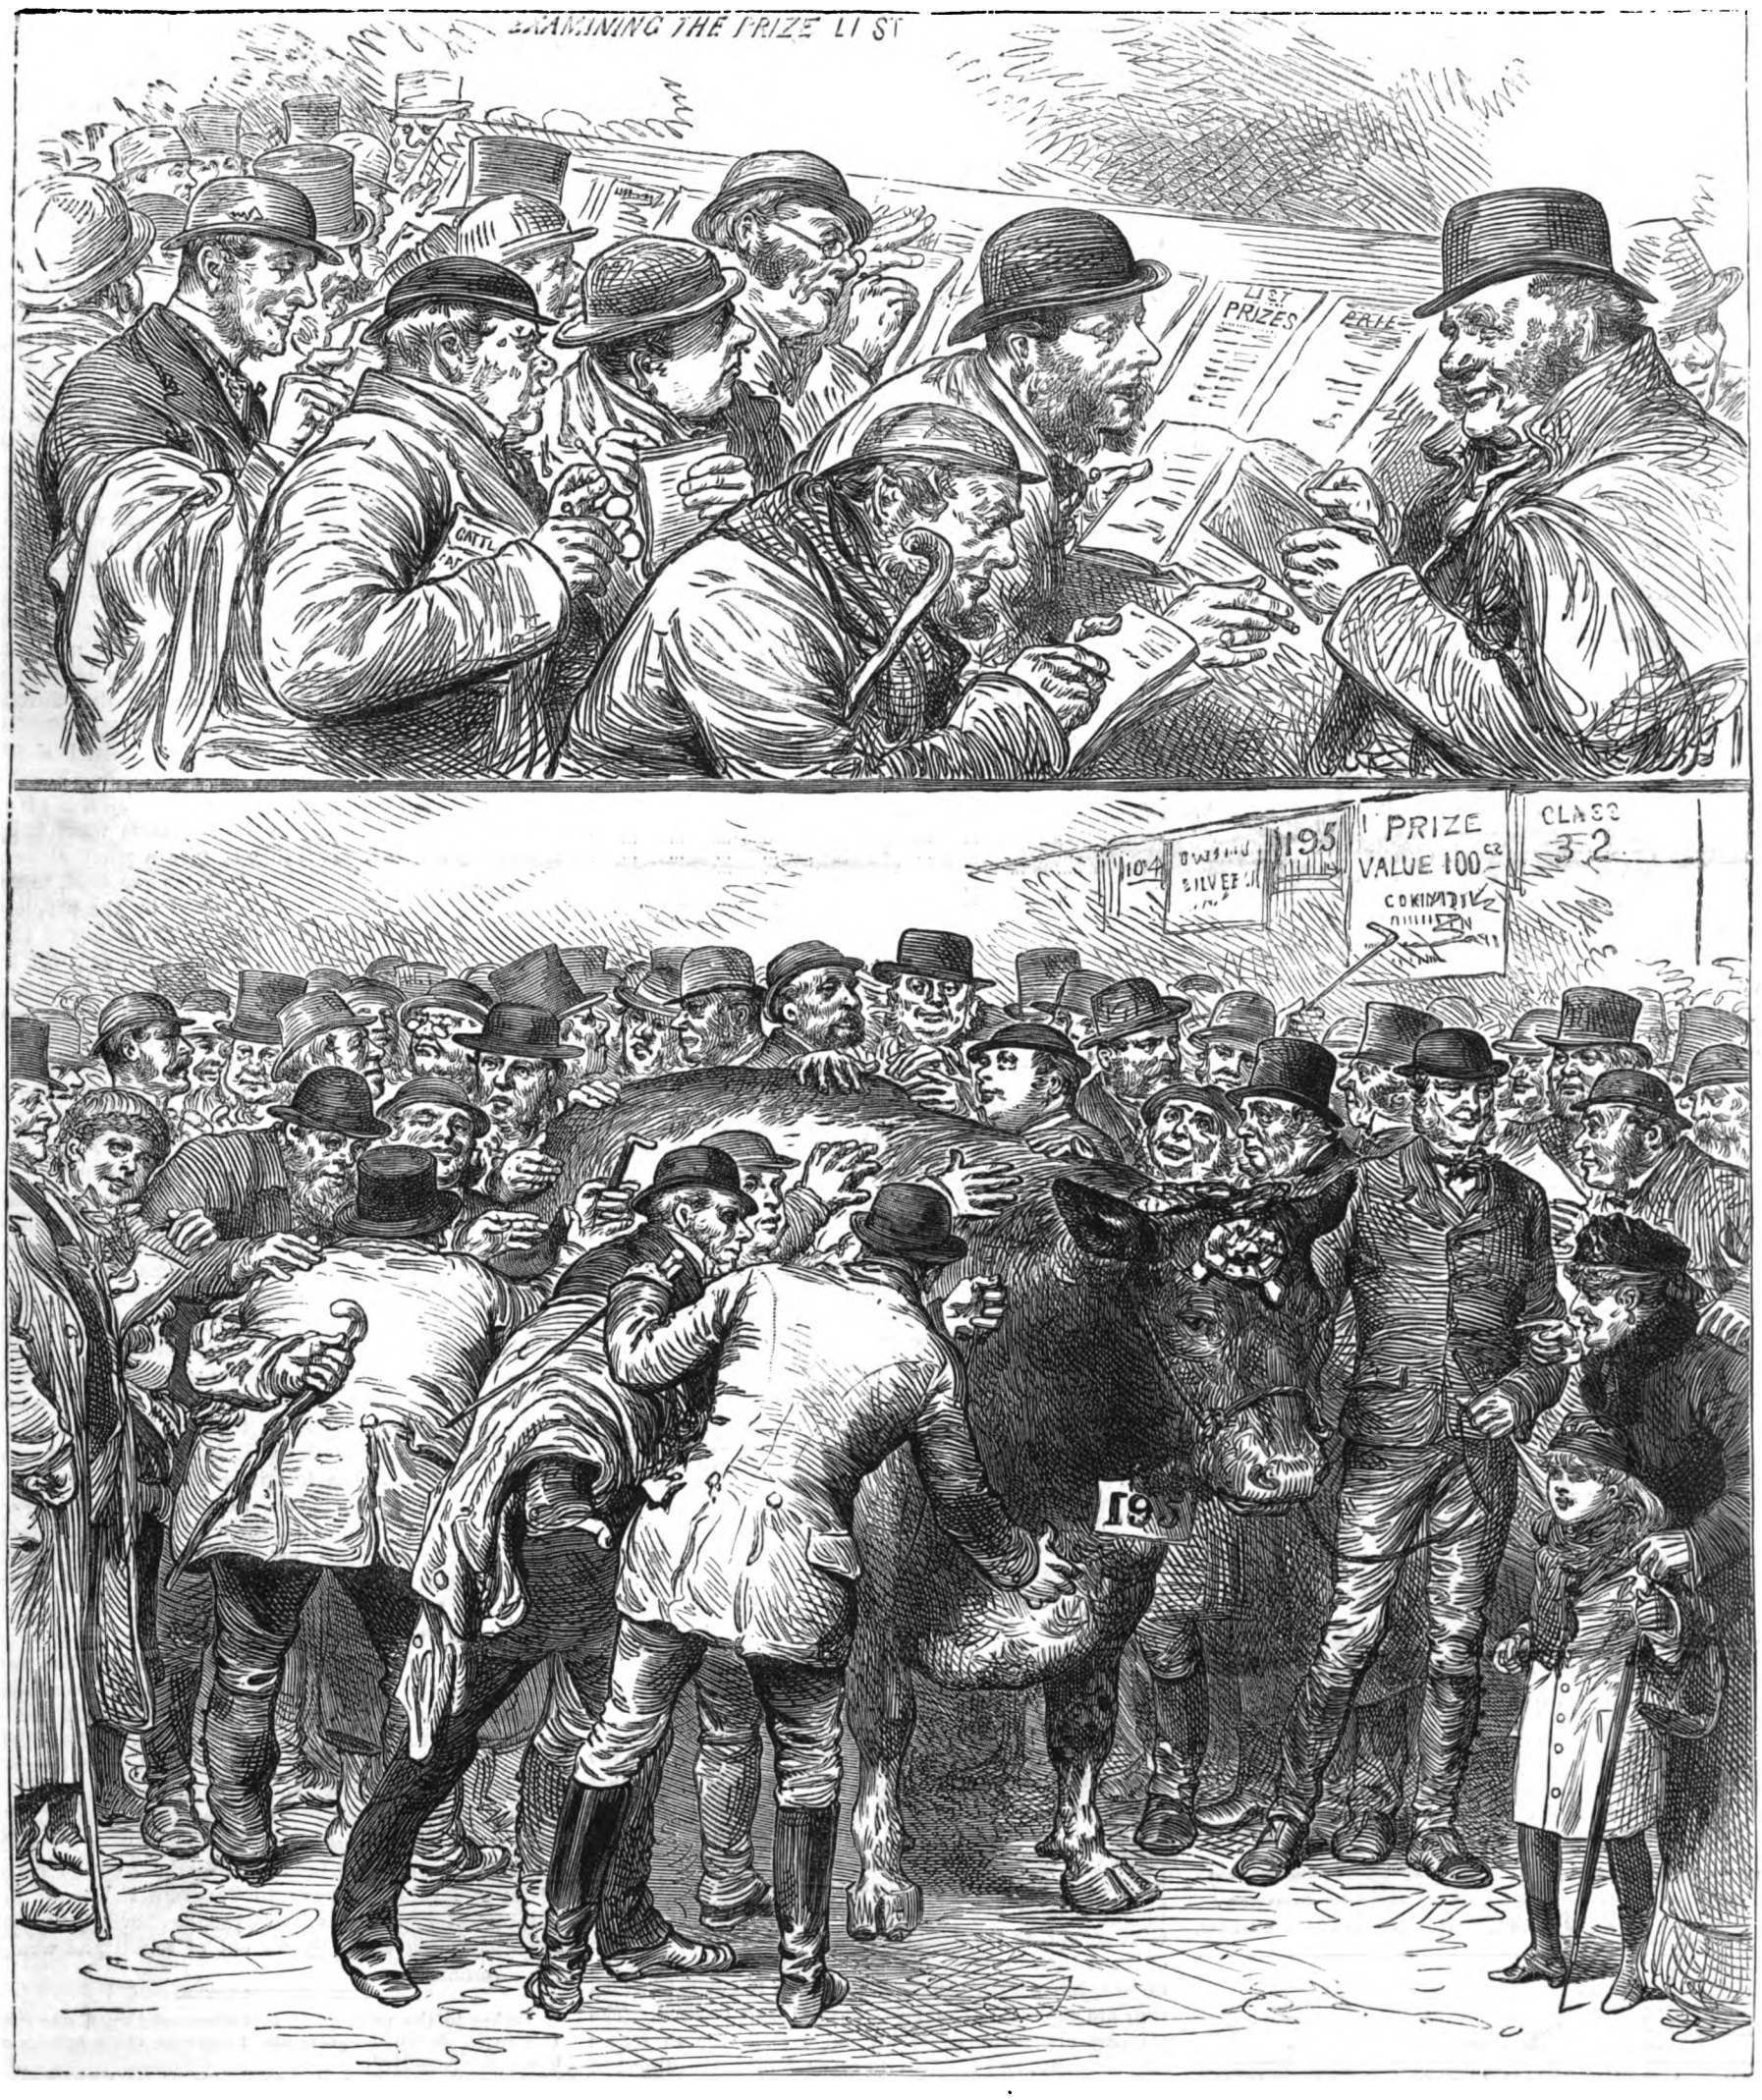
Com

THE WAR IN BASUTOLAND: THE ATTACK BY

Digitized by Google

ading Officer, with Staff. A Seven-Pounder Gun, with Escort of Capetown Volunteers. Cape Mounted Rifles, Charging.

COLONIAL TROOPS ON LEROTHODI'S STRONGHOLD.



Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2170.—VOL. LXXVII. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1880. TWO WHOLE SHEETS } SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½D.

"THE ROAST BEEF OF OLD ENGLAND." A SKETCH AT THE CATTLE SHOW.—SEE PAGE 590.

Digitized by Google

BIRTHS.

On the 10th inst., at 2, Belgrave-square, the Marchioness of Hamilton, of a daughter.

On the 13th inst., the wife of the Rev. J. M. Bury, at Little Hadham Rectory, of a daughter.

On the 13th inst., at the Rectory, Wormley, Herts, the wife of Captain Wyndham Thompson, late 57th Regiment, of a daughter.

MARRIAGE.

On the 10th ult., at Marley church, in the parish of St. James, in the county of Cornwall, in the Island of Jamaica, by the Rev. John Garcia del Rio, Rector of the parish, assisted by the Rev. Charles G. McGregor, Rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Montego Bay, in the said island, Abraham Mallory Dillet, Esq., of the Inner Temple, barrister-at-law, only son of Thomas William Henry Dillet, Esq., J.P., Clerk of the Supreme Court and Keeper of Records at British Honduras, to Amy Louise, third daughter of Thomas Hicks Sharp, Esq., Custos and Stipendiary Magistrate for the said parish.

DEATHS.

On the 5th inst., at Government House, Auckland, New Zealand, Walter Arthur William Des Voeux, of dysentery, aged 5 months, second son of his Excellency G. W. Voeux, Governor of Fiji Islands.

On the 9th inst., at Scutari, Constantinople, of fever, Thomas Drury, the second son of Thomas Rumball, C.E., and Mary Ann, his wife, in his 19th year, dearly beloved. Friends will kindly accept this intimation.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING DEC. 25.

Sunday, Dec. 19.

Fourth Sunday in Advent.
Morning Lessons: Isaiah xxx. 1—27; Rev. iv. Evening Lessons: Isaiah xxxii. or xxxiii. 2—23; Rev. v.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Humphry (the Bishop of London's Ordination); 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Liddon; 7 p.m., Rev. A. C. A. Hall, of Boston, U.S.
St. James's, noon, probably Rev. Canon Barry.
Westminster Abbey, 10.30 a.m., Rev. W. M. Sinclair, Vicar of St. Stephen's, Westminster; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Prothero.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Dr. Stanley, Dean of Westminster (for Brompton Hospital); 3 p.m., Rev. W. F. Erskine Knollys.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Prebendary Josiah Irons.

Monday, Dec. 20.

Asiatic Society, 4 p.m. (Professor Dowson on the Invention of the Indian Alphabet).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
London Institution, 5 p.m. (Professor E. Ray Lankester on Growth from the Egg).
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor A. H. Church on Pottery and Porcelain).

Tuesday, Dec. 21.

St. Thomas, Apostle and Martyr.
Michaelmas Law Sittings end.
Election of City of London Common Council.
Humane Society, 4 p.m.
Pathological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Institution of Civil Engineers, 8 p.m., anniversary.
Statistical Society, 7.45 p.m. (Mr. R. Price Williams on the Reduction of the present Postal Telegraph Tariff).

Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Royal Society of Literature, 8 p.m.
Society of Telegraph Engineers, 8.

Thursday, Dec. 23.

London Institution, 7 p.m. (Mr. W. R. S. Ralston, a Storytelling).
Commercial Travellers' School, annual dinner, Freemasons' Tavern.
Civil and Mechanical Engineers' Society (Mr. ... I. Wamsley on the Patent Laws).

Friday, Dec. 24.

Moon's last quarter, 6.57 p.m.
George I., King of Greece, b., 1845.

Saturday, Dec. 25.

Christmas Day.
Morning Lessons: Isaiah ix. 1—8; Luke ii. 1—15. Evening Lessons: Isaiah vii. 10—17; Titus iii. 4—9.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Stanley.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Church; 3.15 p.m. No sermon.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. W. Hulton.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

Day.	Daily means of Barometer Corrected.	Daily means of Temperature of the Air.	Daily means of Dew Point.	Daily means of Relative Humidity.	Daily means of Amount of Cloud.	Thermom. Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Thermom. Minimum, read at 10 A.M.	Wind. General Direction.	Wind. Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0 to 10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Dec. 5	30·466	47·4	43·2	·86	8	51·9	41·0	sw. wsw.	194	0·000
6	30·462	49·9	46·2	·88	9	52·9	47·5	sw. wsw. w.	224	0·000
7	30·613	48·4	44·4	·87	9	51·3	45·2	w. sw. wsw.	111	0·000
8	30·527	48·8	42·9	·82	10	50·4	40·6	wsw.	276	0·000
9	30·381	48·4	43·8	·86	8	52·2	43·8	wsw. w.	229	0·000
10	30·268	50·6	43·8	·79	57	55·9	42·5	w. wsw.	285	0·005*
11	30·188	41·0	37·8	·90	3	46·8	35·9	sw. wsw.	205	0·000

* Dew.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·418	30·461	30·629	30·600	29·433	30·280	30·299
Temperature of Air	48·2°	49·8°	48·5°	48·0°	49·4°	52·8°	37·8°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	45·4°	48·2°	46·7°	46·7°	47·0°	49·8°	37·0°
Direction of Wind	sw.	wsw.	sw.	wsw.	wsw.	w.	sw.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 25.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
3 23	3 42	3 58	4 15	4 30	4 48	5 5	5 15	5 42	6 2	6 22	6 45	7 8	7 35

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.
ST JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
THE MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS'
SIXTEENTH ANNUAL
CHRISTMAS AND NEW-YEARS' FESTIVAL PERFORMANCES,
EVERY DAY AT THREE; EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT;
Commencing on
BOXING DAY, MONDAY, DEC. 27.
The already powerful Company increased to
SEVENTY PERFORMERS,
rendering the
MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS
THE LARGEST, THE MOST TALENTED, AND THE FINEST MINSTREL COMPANY IN THE WORLD,
PROUDLY DEFYING ALL COMPETITION AND RIVALRY.

FIVE THOUSAND LUXURIOUS SEATS
in the LARGEST and Most Magnificent HALL in EUROPE, which will be filled with
PROSCENIUM and SCENERY,
expressly for the Festival Performances.
No fees of any description. No charge for Programmes.
Every West-End Omnibus runs direct to the doors of
ST. JAMES'S HALL.
Visitors can also book from any station on the Metropolitan or Metropolitan District Railways, right to doors of the
ST. JAMES'S HALL.
Prices of Admission:—Fauteuils, 5s.; Stalls, 3s.; Balcony, 2s.; Gallery and Great Area, 2000 Seats, One Shilling.
Visitors arriving at any of the Railway Termini in the Metropolis can reach ST. JAMES'S HALL by omnibus for 2d. and 4d.
Tickets and Places can be secured by P.O.O., payable to AMBROSE AUSTIN, ST. JAMES'S HALL.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS Every Night at 8.30—Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. At 7.30, BYGONES, by A. W. Pinero. Doors open at 7. Special Morning Performance of THE CORSICAN BROTHERS To-day (Saturday), at 2.30. Box Office (Mr. Hurst) open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram. NOTICE.—This Theatre will be Closed on Christmas Eve.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. CLOSED.—WILL REOPEN BOXING DAY, at Three and Eight, with A MERRY CHRISTMAS, by Arthur Law; Music by King Hall; a new Sketch by Mr. Corney Grain, A MUSICAL FAMILY; and a new second Part to SANDFORD AND MERTON'S XMAS PARTY, by F. C. Burnand; Music by A. Scott Gatty.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s.

LONDON AND NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.
CHRISTMAS PARCELS TRAFFIC.
The most complete Arrangements will be made to ensure Quick Transit and Prompt Delivery of Christmas Parcels in all the Principal Towns on the London and North-Western System.
Special Through Vans will be attached to the Express Trains between London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, North and South Wales, Carlisle, and Scotland, for the accommodation of this traffic, and care should be taken to deliver the parcels to the London and North-Western Company's Stations or Receiving Offices, and to order them to be sent per "London and North-Western Railway."
All Parcels should be fully and legibly addressed, and the Address Cards firmly attached. As an extra precaution, Duplicate Labels should be inclosed in the packages, so that the name of the consignee may be ascertained in the event of the outside address becoming detached or defaced.
Special Services of Vans and Carts to and from the Receiving Offices and the Railway Stations will be made during the Christmas week.
NO BOOKING FEES are now charged at any of the London and North-Western Company's Railway Stations or Receiving Offices upon Parcels for conveyance over their System. G. FINDLAY, General Manager.
Euston Station, London, December, 1880.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY ARRANGEMENTS.
LONDON, BRIGHTON, AND SOUTH COAST RAILWAY.
ALL EXPRESS and ORDINARY RETURN TICKETS issued on DEC. 23, 24, and 25 will be available for the Return Journey by any train of the same description and class up to and including THURSDAY, DEC. 30, except those issued for a less distance than ten miles.
SPECIAL CHEAP SATURDAY TO MONDAY TICKETS will be ISSUED on FRIDAY, DEC. 24, available up to and including TUESDAY, DEC. 28.

PORTSMOUTH AND THE ISLE OF WIGHT.—EXTRA TRAINS, DEC. 23 and 24.—The Fast Train leaving Victoria 4.55 p.m. and London Bridge 5.0 p.m. will take passengers for Ryde, Sandown, Shanklin, Ventnor, and on 24th only to Cowes and Newport (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Class).
CHRISTMAS DAY.—EXTRA FAST TRAINS (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Class) from Portsmouth Harbour 7.0 a.m. and 8.25 a.m. to London. Boats in connection from Ryde 6.30 a.m. and 7.30 a.m.

BRIGHTON.—EVERY SUNDAY and CHRISTMAS DAY.—A CHEAP FIRST-CLASS TRAIN from Victoria, 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction; also from London Bridge, 10.35 a.m., calling at Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—FREQUENT TRAINS from LONDON BRIDGE, New-cross, Victoria, York-road, Kensington, West Brompton, Chelsea, Liverpool-street, Whitechapel, Wapping, Rotherhithe, &c.

TICKETS and every Information at the Brighton Company's West-End General Offices, 28, Regent-circus, Piccadilly, and 8, Grand Hotel Buildings, Trafalgar-square; also at the Victoria and London Bridge Stations.
J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

THE ANNUAL WINTER EXHIBITION of High-class PICTURES by British and Foreign Artists, is NOW OPEN at ARTHUR TOOTH and SON'S GALLERY, 5, Haymarket, opposite Her Majesty's Theatre. Admission, One Shilling, including Catalogue.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.
The FIFTEENTH WINTER EXHIBITION is NOW OPEN from Ten till Six.
Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. H. F. PHILLIPS, Secretary.
Gallery, 53, Pall-mall, S.W.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

THE SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.
The WINTER EXHIBITION, including a LOAN COLLECTION of WORKS by the late GEORGE DODGSON, is NOW OPEN, 5, Pall-mall East, from Ten till Five. ALFRED D. FRIPP, Secretary.

CHRISTMAS LECTURES.
ROYAL INSTITUTION OF GREAT BRITAIN,
Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, W.—Professor DEWAR, M.A., F.R.S., will deliver a COURSE of SIX LECTURES (adapted to a Juvenile Audience) on ATOMS, commencing on TUESDAY, DEC. 28, at Three o'Clock; to be continued on Dec. 30, 1880, and Jan. 1, 4, 6, 8, 1881. Subscription (for Non-Members) to this Course, One Guinea (Children under Sixteen, Half a Guinea); to all the Courses in the Season, Two Guineas. Tickets may now be obtained at the Institution.

POSTAGE FOR FOREIGN PARTS THIS WEEK,

DECEMBER 18, 1880.

The publication of the Thin Paper Edition of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS being for the present week suspended, subscribers will please to notice that copies of this Number forwarded abroad must be prepaid according to the following rates:—

Africa, West Coast of	2d	Gibraltar	2d
Alexandria	2d	Greece	2d
Australia	2d	Holland	2d
Austria	2d	India	3d
Belgium	2d	Italy	2d
Brazil	2d	Jamaica	2d
Canada	2d	Mauritius	2d
Cape of Good Hope	2d	New Zealand	2d
China, viâ Brindisi	5d	Norway	2d
,, viâ United States... ...	2d	Russia	2d
Constantinople	2d	Spain	2d
Denmark	2d	Sweden	2d
France	2d	Switzerland	2d
Germany	2d	United States	2d

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1880.

It is now understood that her Majesty's Government have resolved to recommend Parliament, immediately upon its meeting, on Jan. 6 next, to pass a Coercion Bill for the restoration and maintenance of order in Ireland. That they have done so with great reluctance cannot be doubted. That if it could be avoided consistently with a due sense of responsibility to the country—nay, more, that if events should within the next three weeks take a turn which will admit of its being avoided—their professions, their principles, and the Liberal policy they are anxious to promote, would unite in swaying their decision to a more agreeable issue, we may take for granted. We believe, however, that the information placed before them by the Chief Secretary has left them no choice but to place in the hands of the Irish Executive further powers for the vindication of the laws. It would seem that nearly one half of Southern and Western Ireland already suffers under a despotism utterly subversive of individual liberty of thought and action—a despotism which operates in the dark, and which is in itself irresponsible. Of course, no society can endure this state of things long. If the lives of men are to be governed by terror, it is better that the terror should be excited by the representative of Law, and on behalf of Law, than by the unknown agents of a secret combination, and on behalf of Anarchy. It was hoped, indeed, that Irish malcontents might be induced by an earnest attention, on the part of the Imperial Government, to the wants and grievances of this section of the nation, to abide by the ordinary laws of the realm, in prospect of a permanent rescue from the evils to which they are exposed. The hope has not been realised. The primary obligation devolving upon civil rule to secure life, property, and freedom to every individual subject of the Queen must be discharged. Good intentions as to the future cannot be permitted to connive at positive and widespread mischief in the present. It will be matter of regret to her Majesty's subjects in Great Britain to witness the lifting of the strong arm against the abettors of violent illegality in Ireland. But they will acquiesce in the inevitable. And, although it may be anticipated that the passing of a Coercion Bill will occasion unusual obstructions, it may, we think, be safely assumed that, within a few days of the opening of Parliament, the means really required to assert effectively the supremacy of Law in Ireland will not only have been asked for by the Government, but will have been granted by Parliament, with the approval, silent or expressed, of the Constituent Bodies.

There is no reason to suppose that repression will be the sole, or even the chief, object sought by Ministers for the government of the Sister Isle. No time will be lost in indicating the ameliorative changes which will aim at the drying up of just discontent at its natural sources. The Land System in Ireland, the public is assured, will be fundamentally reconstructed. The process to be adopted for compassing this end may not have been decided upon, although, no doubt, it will before the meeting of Parliament. The country, however, will not long be kept in suspense. Whether by Resolutions affirming the principles upon which a Land Bill must be based, or by the introduction of the Bill itself into the House of Commons, the changes which her Majesty's Ministers intend to propose affecting the tenure of land in Ireland will be made known at the earliest possible moment. This is both prudent and politic. Immediate pressure may be borne if coming relief is suitable and at hand. We cannot trust to rumour—it is too uncertain—to assure us of what is known to the Cabinet only. But it is somewhat more authoritative than rumour which conducts us and the British Public to the expectation that the Measure of the Government will deal boldly as well as wisely with the question which most interests the inhabitants of the Emerald Isle. That which seemed to belong to the region of political romance but a year or two ago will be placed within the category of practical politics. Men have discussed what they very lately regarded as absurdities in the blazing light of new and more enlarged information, and they have come to see that narrow and, we may even say, insular traditions, however well they may have served their turn and time, must pale before wider and more comprehensive experience. This, at least, is believed to be the view taken of the matter by her Majesty's Government.

Of course, it is not intended that Ireland should engross the whole Session with her affairs, however important. There is, however, a double object in giving to the passing crisis the fullest consideration which it can reasonably demand. It is time to give a practical form, likely, moreover, to be as permanent as practical, to that sense of justice which is entertained by the people of England and Scotland in regard to the claims of their Irish fellow-subjects; to put, in fact, our good-will, our generous thoughts, and our easily but not insincerely spoken words, into deeds; and it is of importance, in doing so, that our efforts should convince the disaffected of the Irish people that Imperial legislation can not only understand what we may call the national idiosyncrasy of Ireland, but can also meet it with measures adapted to satisfy her just desires. There will be no occasion, there will be no serious demand for Home Rule, if the Legislation authorised by the Parliament of the United Kingdom yields to the Irish people such substantial results as they imagine can only be secured by means of a domestic Legislature. We do not mean to affirm that such will be the immediate consequence of a successful Measure for the Tenure of Land in Ireland. But to that result it will unquestionably tend. The injuries resulting from ancient and long-continued grievances cannot be healed in a day. Local prejudices are not to be torn up by the roots at the will of this or that statesman. Habit will have its way for a long time after it has lost its raison d'être. But such considerations as these do but enforce with greater emphasis the wisdom of utilising all the advantages we possess for conquering, not merely the will, but the respect and affection, of those who have been driven afar off by our impolicy. Ireland, by its very geographical position, is destined, under any circumstances, to be involved in the consequences of British rule. She may bemoan the fact as a misfortune, but she may learn hereafter to view, and use it as a privilege. Who will live to see that day it is not for us to conjecture. Doubtless, however, the day will come. Hatred of what they call "Anglo-Saxon rule" cannot live long after Anglo-Saxon rule has become systematically imbued with the spirit of justice. It will die out of itself. It will pass away like a troubled dream, as it did in Scotland. And the history of its struggles will serve to illustrate the truth that nothing is longer-lived or more prolific of evil results than the disaffection which grows out of selfish and wanton misgovernment.

Owing to the pressure of advertisements upon our space this week, National Sports and numerous other articles are unavoidably omitted.

At the meeting of the Metropolitan Asylums District Board last Saturday several reports were presented, showing that there had been a remarkable increase of smallpox in various parts of London during the past fortnight.

Digitized by Google

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Some English newspaper readers (especially those who have never crossed that "big pond" otherwise called the Atlantic Ocean), may feel somewhat surprised and, perhaps, slightly indignant when they learn that on Monday last, in the American House of Representatives, sitting in solemn session in the Capitol, Washington, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—"That the sympathy of this House is hereby extended to the unhappy labouring class of Ireland in its efforts to effect a reform in the present oppressive tenant system." We know what kind of "efforts to effect reform in the oppressive tenant system" are being made just now by "Rory of the Hills" and his confederates in the Green Isle. They are doing precisely what the Irish-American "Molly Maguires" did, not long since, in the State of Pennsylvania, and what a number of their leaders, duly sentenced by the American judiciary, were exemplarily hanged for doing.

The St. James's Gazette (which is not precisely an optimist of the optimists among journals) seems to think this Resolution passed in the Federal House of Representatives a very grave matter. Had it been moved and carried in the Senate, some degree of serious importance might be attached to it; but the House of Representatives is par excellence the place for proposing "fancy" Resolutions. I venture to think that most candid Americans (whatever may be their political "stripe") will agree with me in opining that the Resolution of sympathy with Irish disaffection unanimously adopted in the Lower House of the American Congress amounts, practically, to nothing at all. It is the kind of "sympathy" which may be qualified as a mere abstract expression not susceptible of being reduced to concrete form.

Uncultivated land can be had almost for nothing in the wonderful Western States of the Great Republiic. There is neither primogeniture nor entail; and the system of land-conveyance is speedy, simple, and inexpensive. At the same time, American owners of Real Estate entertain very strong convictions as to what is their own property and what is not the property of other people; and I should very much like to see (as a natural curiosity) the business-like American who would hesitate to set the full machinery of the law in motion against a tenant who obstinately refused to pay his rent or to surrender property which he had covenanted to hire but declined to settle for. I wonder whether the Legislature of the State of New York would pass a vote of sympathy with the innumerable tenants on the Astor property in Manhattan if they unanimously refused to hand over any more dollars to their landlord.

Surely the English language is the most receptive and the most swiftly adoptive in the world. To "Boycott" has already become a verb active, signifying to "ratten," to intimidate, to "send to Coventry," and to "taboo." For the nonce, journalists have the grace to place "Boycotting" between inverted commas; but ere long, it may be expected, the commas will disappear, and Boycotting will take its place by the side of burking and Bumbledom. A day or two since I read in a solemn leading article in the Times a reference (without inverted commas) to "the Three F's" (which Punch takes to mean "Fair, Fat, and Forty)," but which have lately slipped into the political slang dictionary in connection with the Irish land question. Now suppose a habitual politician and newspaper reader to have been absent for nine months in the Fiji Islands, or even to have been laid up for a few weeks at home by rheumatic fever. Supposing him to have returned to England or to have recovered his health. He takes up his Times, and he reads a leader about "the Three F's." What are "the Three F's?" he asks a friend. Naturally, he would be stared at as an ignoramus for his pains.

Mem.: The Americans have lately been using a strange word, "bull-dosing," which signifies, I believe, political intimidation, but not personal molestation. I fail to find "bull-dosing" in Dr. Schele de Vere's otherwise copious and curious dictionary of "Americanisms; or, the English of the New World."

In my younger days alliterative initials did not go beyond "the Three R's," "reading," "'ritin'," and "'rithmetic" (was Lord Palmerston the author of that mildest of educational jokes?); but in this electrically progressive age, in addition to "the Three R's," we have "the Three B's," introduced by Lord Francis Hervey in a very entertaining and instructive speech at the recent annual soirée of the Working Men's Club and Institute Union. According to his Lordship, "the Three B's" stand for "Beer, Billiards, and Books;" but I would respectfully suggest that for Books should be substituted "Birdseye," that kind of tobacco being, I am told, highly popular among those who play billiards and drink beer. Books go better with Bohea.

I am very much obliged to my correspondent "J. U. P.," who reminds me that Jeffries's Tables for the Valuation of Diamonds were published so long ago as the year 1750, and that the value of brilliants in 1880 is very much in excess of Jeffries's estimate. Thus, a perfect brilliant of the finest quality would now be worth three times more than was the case in 1750. But, fancy the customers of Messrs. Storr and Mortimer or Mr. J. W. Benson refusing to pay more than Griffith's—I mean Jeffries's—valuation for the brilliants which they purchased from those eminent dealers in precious stones!

"J. U. P." evidently knows all about diamonds. I wonder whether he can tell me whether there is any truth in the story that diamonds were exceptionally cheap in the year of Continental revolutions, 1848?

Referring to the hotels which I found from the Cyprus Times have recently sprung up in that important "place of arms," and allusion to which I was unable to discover in "Murray," I learn, in a courteous note from Mr. John Murray, junior, that the "Handbook for Greece and the Ionian Islands" is now out of print, and that a new and thoroughly revised edition will be ready shortly. I am glad of this; albeit I shall not cease to treasure my old edition of the Hellenic handbook, if only for its capital dissertation in the introduction on the modern Greek language.

But, respected Giovanni di Moravia, junior, 'twas not to the Handbook for Greece that I referred in quest of the hotels of the isle of Aphrodite and "Wolseley-street." In modern Hellas I might have expected to find Cypselus and Cythera, but not Cyprus, which is in Asiatic Turkey, and it was to the "Handbook for Turkey in Asia" that I turned unavailingly in search of a Cypriote Xenodocheion. At the same time, let me notice with applause Murray's "Handbook for the Mediterranean," which oddly enough, was being issued from the press at the very moment when I was penning the brief comment on the advertisements in the Cyprus Times. The Mediterranean handbook contains an exhaustive account of Cyprus both before and since the British occupation, and names and recommends the majority of the hotels of which I spoke.

Familiar as household words to most readers of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS must be the name of Mr. William Simpson, the valiant artist whose graphic pencil has during so many years, "from China to Peru" and "from Indus to the Pole," so to speak, but certainly from Balaclava to Bombay, from Kars to Candahar, and from Strasburg to Great Salt Lake City, transmitted to us, in charming pictures and drawings, the abstract and brief chronicle of the time. They say that the good Homer nods, sometimes. I am inclined likewise to believe that he can wink, likewise, upon occasion—adding to his winks "becks and wreathed smiles" in the way of good-fellowship. In such a genial mood has Mr. William Simpson, leaving aside for the nonce battles and sieges, shipwrecks and earthquakes, designed in sheer Pantagrueliste camaraderie a card of invitation, to be issued by the members of the Rabelais Club, when they bid guests outside the Abbey of Thelemé to their periodical gatherings.

The card of invitation is delicately printed in a sepia tint, and shows you, in cunningly-drawn panels and lozenges and cartouches, the laughing effigy of the famous Curé of Meudon, the ship that was chartered by those new Argonauts who sailed in quest of "La Dive Bouteille," and the Bottle itself, the cork whereof takes, with appropriate subtlety, the form of the head and bust of the Sphinx. For we do not yet know all that François Rabelais meant. Walter Savage Landor found out the secret of the Allegory which is the backbone of Don Quixote; but there are Mysteries behind Garagantua and Panurge not yet fully solved. Thus, little mystic reminders peep out in Mr. Simpson's card. "Sursum Corda!" he cries boldly in one corner. "Up, Heart, and be Doing, with Hard Work and Strong Faith. Elsewhere you read the "Fay ce que vouldras," the maxim so often misconstrued and perverted, but which true Rabelaisians take to mean, "Do as thou wilt shall be Right and not Wrong;" while beneath the poetic invocation to the Dive Bouteille is the brief, solemn verity, "Toutes Choses se Meuvent vers leur Fin." Think of that as you laugh and shake in Rab'lais' easy-chair. Beneath the jovial mask of the Doctor of Chinon there was the visage of a very grave and wise monitor, indeed.

Clubs! Of Clubs, as things go, there is verily no end. Let my readers who hail from the Straits of Malacca, the Bight of Benin, the Gulf of Carpentaria, the Valley of Mexico, and the Bay of Fundy be told that, in addition to the sublime Beefsteak, the pleasant and sparkling Lotos, the refined and harmonious Dilettante Circle, the magisterially sociable Rabelais (of which Master Victor Hugo is, of course, an honorary member), and the New Fielding (the motto of which seems to be "It is never too Late at Night to eat Chops and Kidneys"), London society is promised another new club—artistic, literary, social, and especially musical—called the Falstaff, which is to be installed early in the New Year, in that mansion of strange vicissitudes in the Piazza, Covent-garden (north-west corner), originally built in the reign of Charles II.; erst tenanted by that Dr. Dulcamara de bonne foi Sir Kenelm Digby; subsequently tenanted by Admiral Russell, the victor at the battle of La Hogue; and long afterwards, and until very recently, renowned as "Evans's."

It was on board a steamer on the Volga, ever so many years ago, that striking up an impromptu friendship with a Russian fellow-traveller, he told me in French that he had been in England for a short time, and could even remember a few words of our speech. I pressed him to give me a taste of his quality, whereupon in a rapid monotone, and with no solution of continuity, he made this deliverance:—"Evanschopsingroom.covgarden.oneshillingpoliceman." He explained afterwards that during his sojourn in London he had resided in Craven Street, Strand, that he had been taken one night to Evans's Supper-rooms, and had been so immensely pleased with his entertainment and the courtesy (including the snuff-box) of the late (alas! the late) Mr. Paddy Green that he had learned by heart the formula which I have quoted for the benefit of the cabmen whom night after night he ordered to convey him to the Halls of Dazzling Light in the Piazza. The "one shilling" was an allusion to the legal fare between Craven-street and Covent-garden. The "policeman" was a caveat to the cabman against extortion.

Not lightly did I say that correspondents addressed me from the Straits of Malacca and the Bight of Benin. This week's mail brings me a communication from a subscriber to this Journal at Port Adelaide, South Australia, who, noting that many months ago I mentioned that a box of etching materials could be purchased in Paris for about one hundred francs, wishes to know the address of the particular shop whence he could order such a box to be sent out to him. 'Tis a neat oaken casket, not much bigger than an ordinary writing-desk, containing bottles (indiarubber capsuled) for holding aquafortis for "biting in," and Brunswick black for "stopping out," a ball of etching "ground" in a silken envelope, a twisted torch of waxen taper for smoking the plate, a vice to hold it while it is being smoked, a stick of "bordering wax," a supply of etching needles, burnishers, scrapers, gravers, and roulette tools, with a drawer for holding plates of moderate size, and (delicately thoughtful attention) a set of indiarubber capsules for your fingers, lest you should stain the tips of your digits while handling the acid.

But it is fifteen years since I purchased that box; and the most I can remember as to the place where I bought it was that it was somewhere in the Rue de Richelieu—at the corner of a street, I think. Perhaps some Parisian reader of these lines, of the delightful race of flâneurs, may be able and kind enough to tell me where etching-boxes can at present be procured in Paris, so that I may enlighten my correspondent in South Australia. But etching has now become so popular a recreation for artistically-minded ladies and gentlemen that I wonder our Winsor and Newtons, Rowneys, Robersons, and Brodies do not fit up etching-boxes for the benefit of their customers. Now that you can buy a handsome and serviceable box of mathematical instruments for a guinea, a complete set of materials for etching ought not to cost much.

Very frequently since my return from the United States I have been asked by members of the Better Sex in this country, "What are American girls really like? We only see them in London or Paris when they are under the influence of the enchanter Worth; but what are they like at home?" "Mesdames," I would reply, "if you desire a complete presentment, graphic as well as literary, of the American young lady in her habit as she lives, I would counsel you to read a book which, for the sake of its pretty pictures, I lately bought in Holborn. It is called "Little Women."

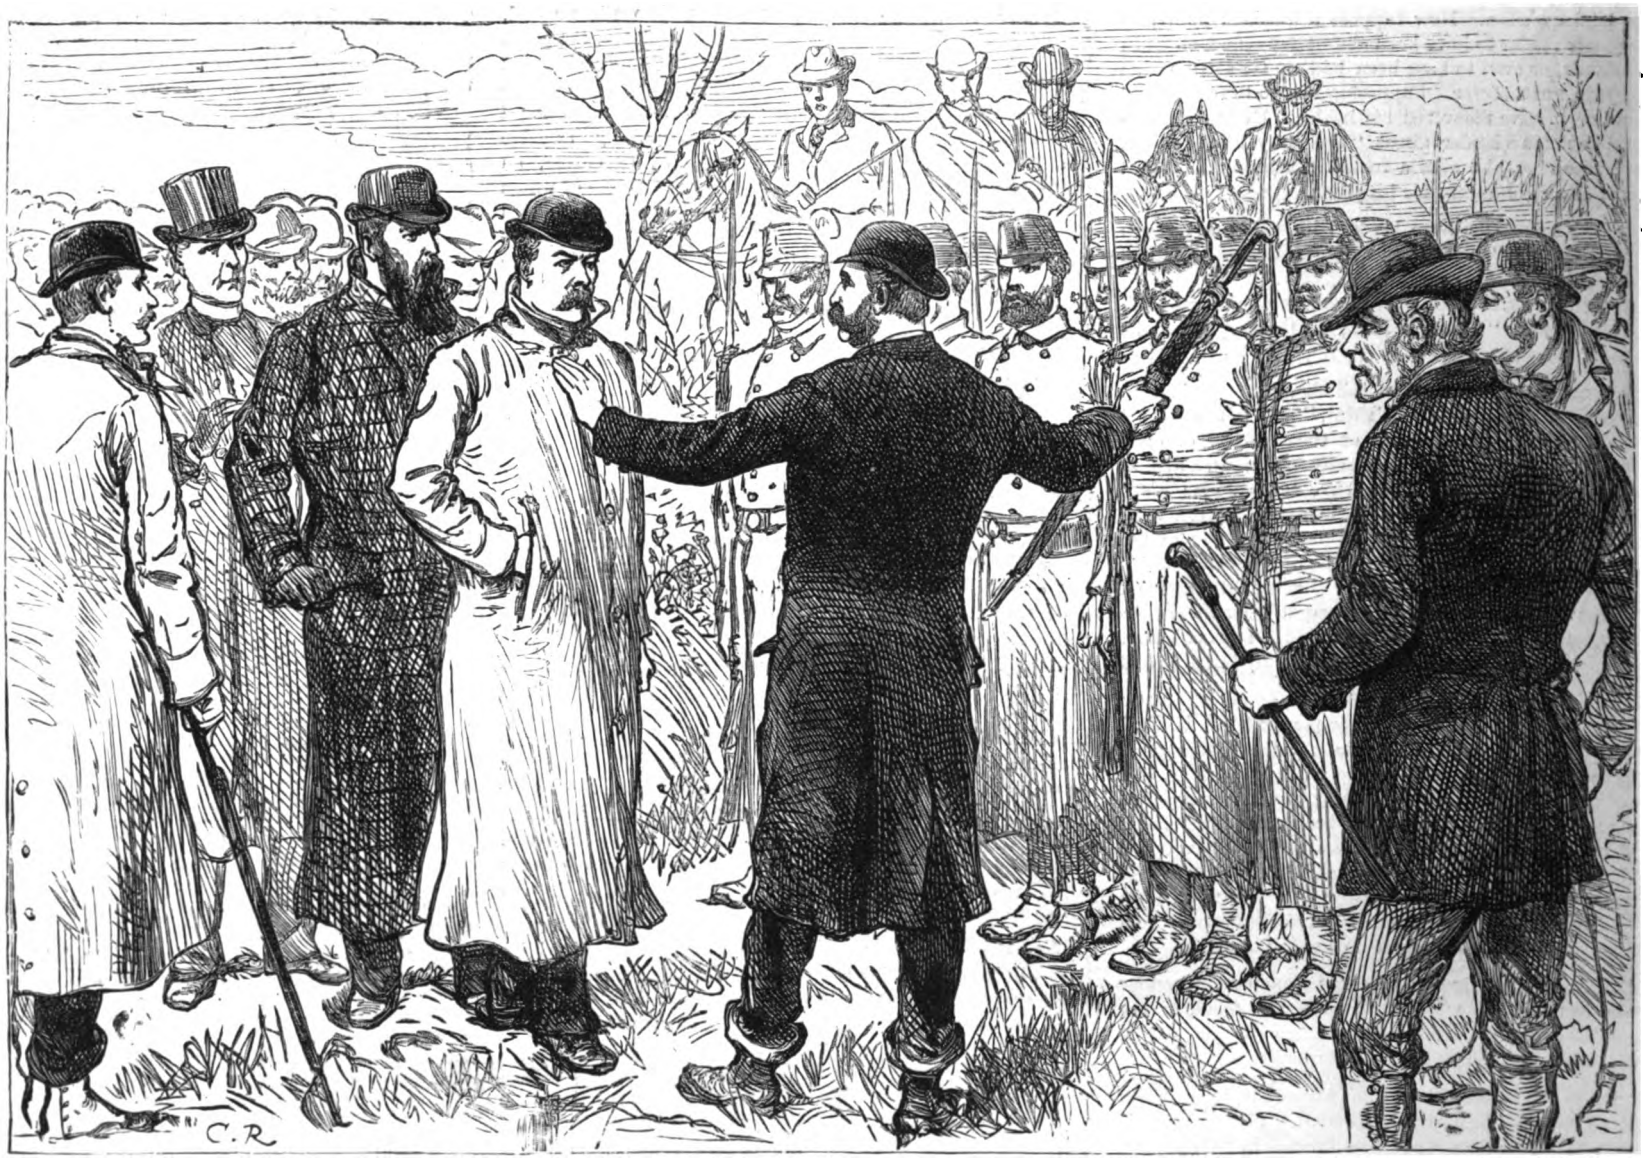
In a handsome volume of nearly six hundred pages copiously illustrated, published by Mr. David Bogue, an American lady named Alcott has exhaustively narrated the fortunes and misfortunes of four fascinating Transatlantic damsels named respectively Meg, Jo, Beth, and Amy. These little maidens laugh, sing, dance, romp, recite, toast their mamma's slippers before the fire, long for boxes of Faber's drawing pencils and flasks of Eau de Cologne in a most unaffected and diverting manner. Occasionally they have a little fight; and one of the damsels who goes to school is so unfortunate as to be "feruled" on the palms of her lily white hand by a stern schoolmaster for the dire offence of secreting pickled limes in her desk. Altogether, "Little Women" seems a perfectly truthful and unvarnished picture of American home life. Life in the North, mind. Some of the illustrations are slightly "queer" as to drawing, but they are all graceful and animated, and exquisitely engraved.

There are a few charming bits of naïveté in the text. For example, "Jo," being at a juvenile ball, is talking to a youth, introduced to the reader as "Laurie;" and she asks him if he can speak French. Laurie replies that he spent last winter in Paris; and that at Vevay, in Switzerland, where he was at school, he was not permitted to speak anything but French. "Do say some." "I can read it; but can't pronounce," cries "Jo." "Quel nom a cette jeune demoiselle en les pantoufles jolis?" asks with lofty good humour the youthful master of the Gallic tongue. "How nicely you did it," continues "Jo." "Let me see. You said, 'Who is the young lady in the pretty slippers,' didn't you?'" "Oui, Mademoiselle." The unblushing little "fraud" "En les pantoufles jolis!" Was that the kind of French he learned at Vevay? It sounds much more like the French of Bunker Hill or Jamaica Plains, to say nothing of Stratford-atte-Bowe.

But let me turn from maidens of fiction to maidens of fact. Last Tuesday afternoon, at two of the clock, was I present at a sweetly pretty sederunt of "Little Women" at the Holborn Townhall, south-east corner of Gray's-inn-lane and Clerkenwell-road, the imposing red brick edifice, with stone dressings, which has replaced that delightfully picturesque but tumble-down group of Tudor houses demolished by the ruthless hand of Metropolitan Improvement. Tuesday was, as you are aware, the wretchedest of days. It was a relief to step from the drizzling rain, the mud and slush, and raw atmosphere of a typical London wet day into the spacious and handsomely decorated Holborn Townhall, in which the Baroness Burdett-Coutts was engaged in opening a most interesting exhibition of artificial flowers, the handiwork of that admirable institution the London Flower-Girls' Brigade. Lady Burdett-Coutts was accompanied to the platform by a number of ladies, including Lady Pollock, Lady Henderson, Lady Gordon, and Lady Keppel. Then the Baroness made, in a clear and well balanced voice, a neat little speech, explaining the purpose of the Flower-Girls' Brigade, of which the head-quarters are in Clerkenwell-close, and the main object of which is to inculcate habits of industry, respectability, and sobriety among the female venders of fruit and flowers in our streets and public places. When Lady Burdett-Coutts's brief but telling address had come to a conclusion, and the cheers for her Ladyship had subsided, the capital band of the H Division of Police struck up the National Anthem, and the Baroness formally declared the exhibition open. And a most interesting one it was. The Hall was tastefully laid out from end to end with long tables, laden with bouquets—from bridal ones to "button-holes"—and baskets full of choicest flowers and rare plants, all artificial—although one was frequently fain to ask the question whether the bouquets were natural productions of the British Flora, or only so much ingenious mimicry. And at a table in the centre of the hall sate about twenty "Little Women" in white caps, and wearing blue ribbons and badges over their snowy tuckers, all as busy as bees in fashioning, under the direction of competent instructresses, mysterious materials of polychromatic hues into the artificial flowers themselves.

Mem.: I bought for eight-and-thirty shillings (glass shade included) a beautifully glowing and artistically arranged bouquet of imitation flowers, for which, probably, in Paris I should have had to pay a hundred francs. The "Little Women" of the Flower-Girls' Brigade should be taught to try their hands at making artificial fruit. The art is not half so much cultivated as it should be in England. I brought home last April from New Orleans some waxen simulacra of oranges, apples, and bananas, so wonderfully faithful in their imitation of Nature as almost to defy detection unless they were touched. But, then, they were the work of a Mexican artist domiciled in the Crescent City, and the Mexicans are still the most dexterous modellers in wax in the whole world.

G. A. S.

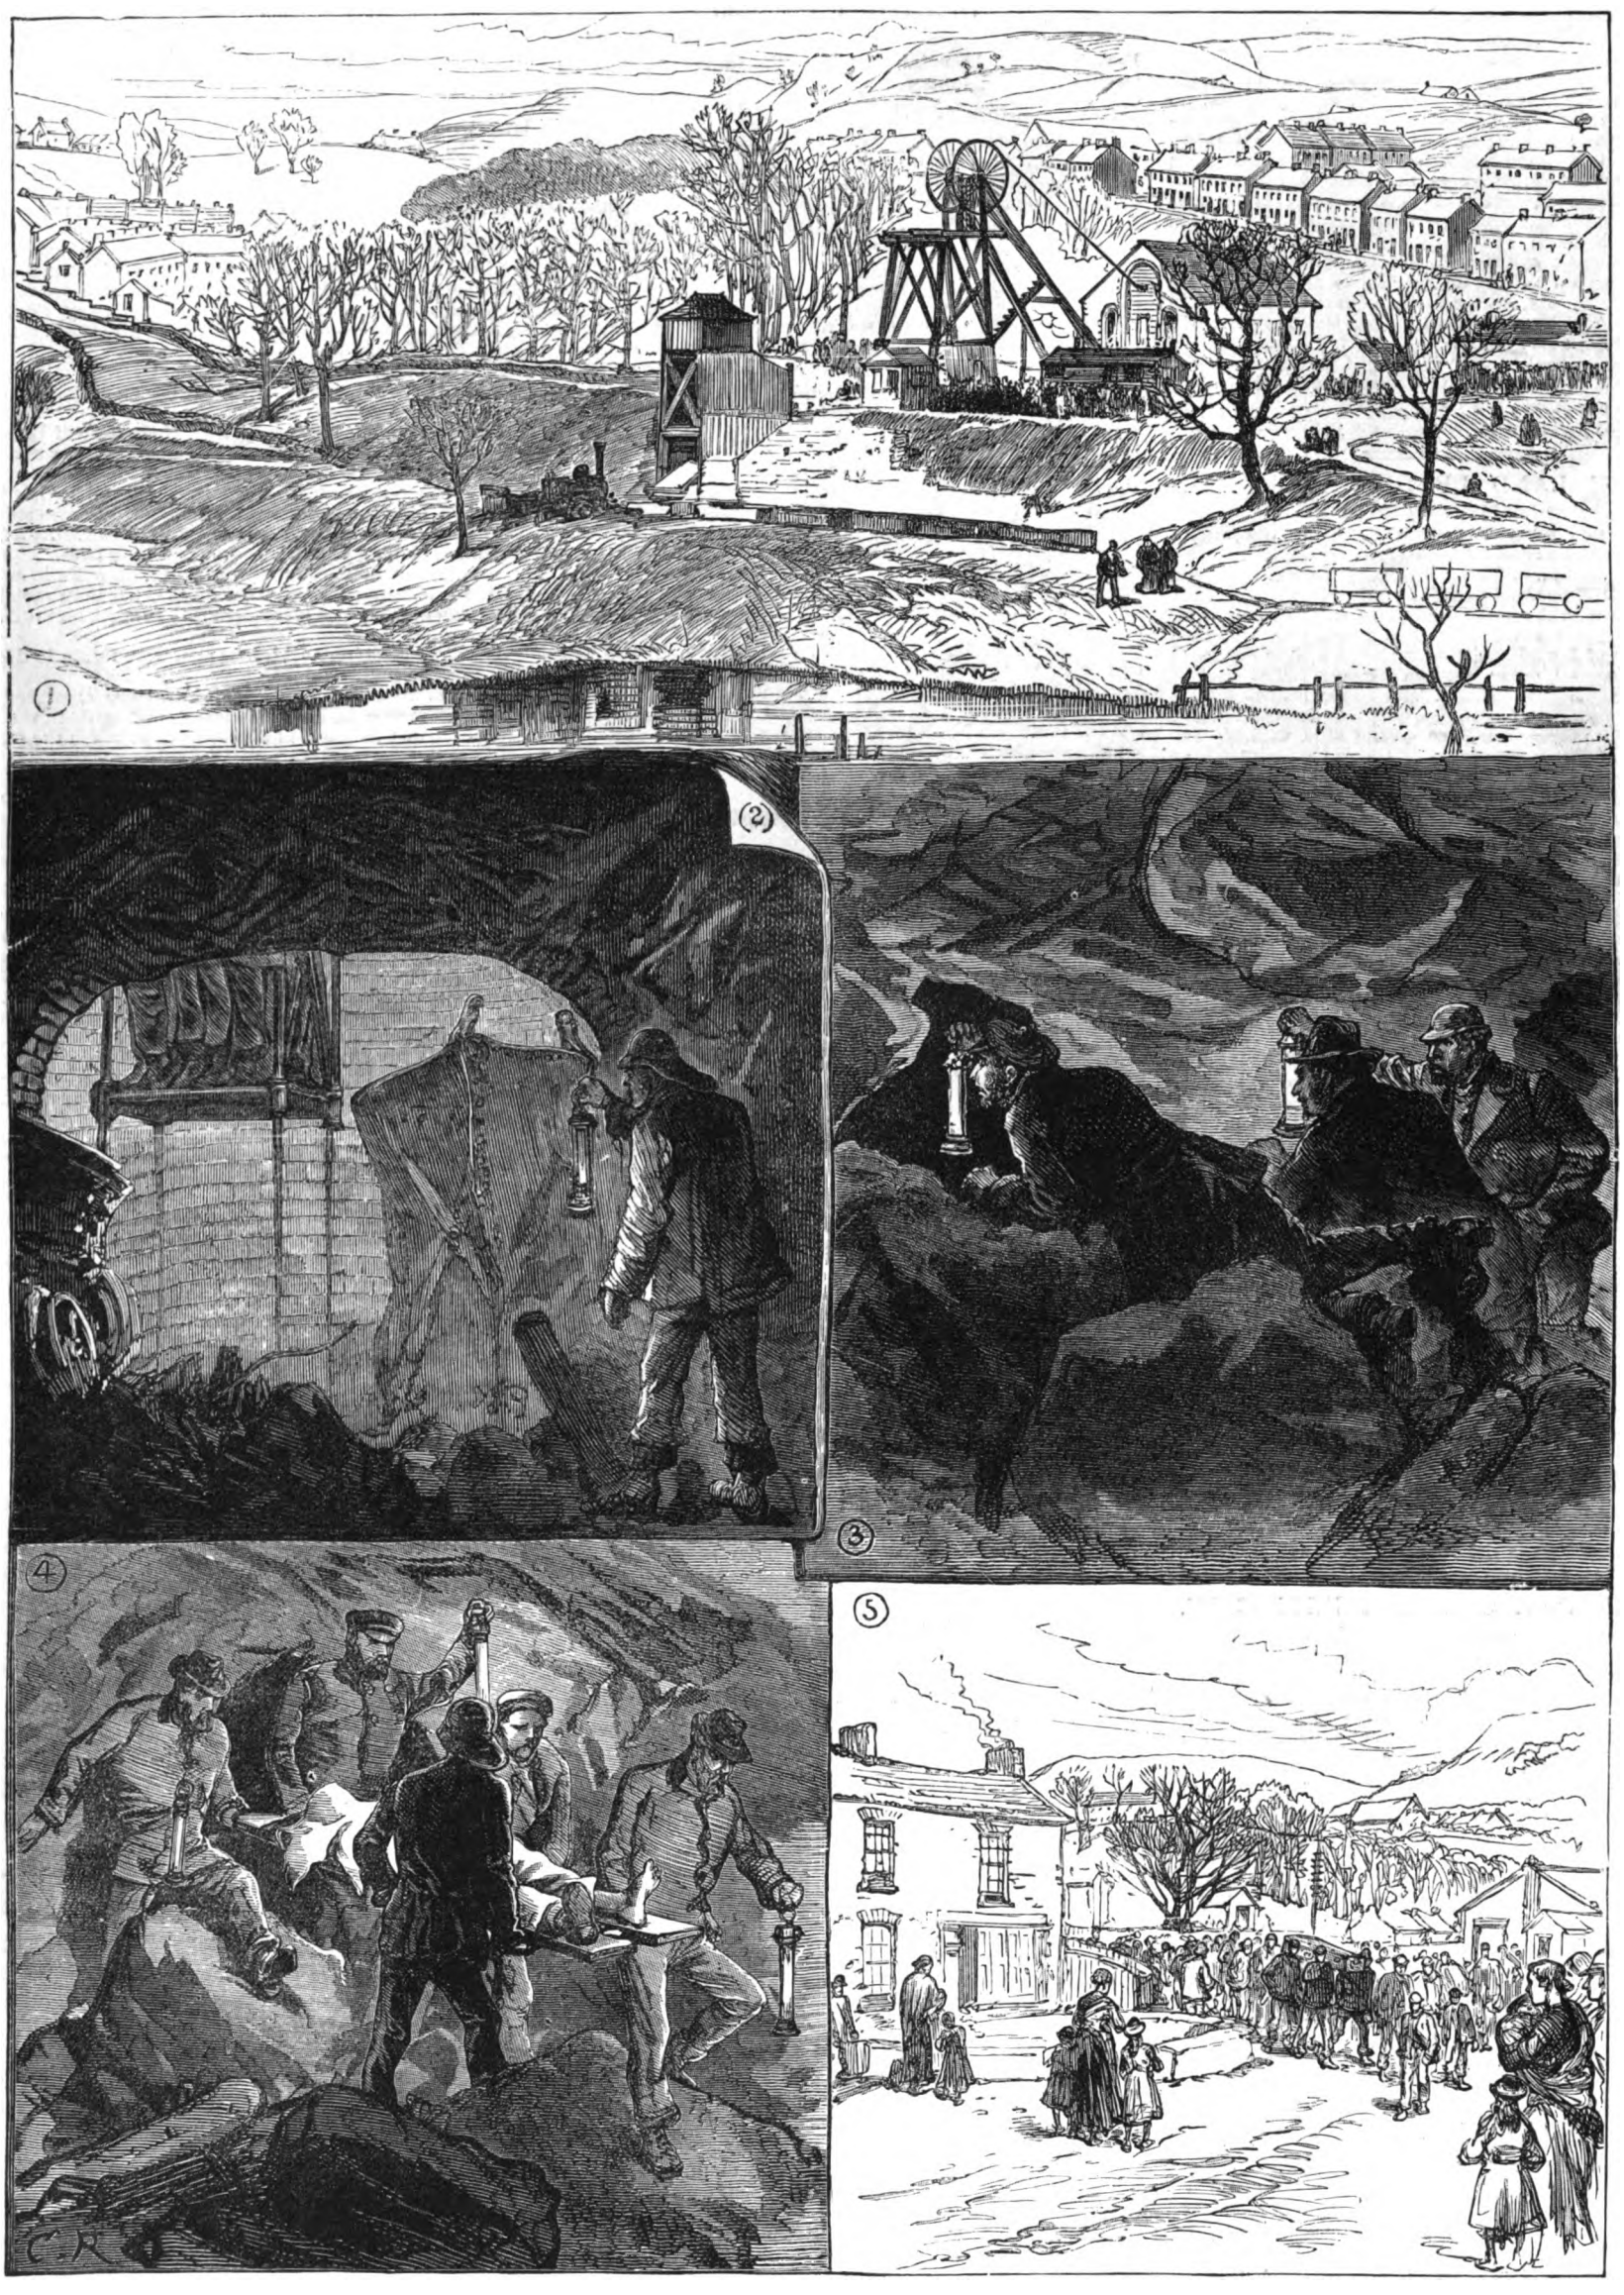


Digitized by Google

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

SEE PAGE 590.

SKETCHES OF THE MEETING AT WATERFORD, SUNDAY, DEC. 5.



PROHIBITED MEETING AT BROOKBOROUGH, COUNTY FERMANAGH: THE MAGISTRATE ORDERING MR. O'KELLY, M.P., OUT OF THE FIELD.

Digitized by Google

THE COLLIERY EXPLOSION IN GLAMORGANSHIRE.

SEE NEXT PAGE.

1. View of the Pen-y-Graig Colliery. 2. The Down-Shaft; explorers descending. 3. Explorers crawling between the fallen débris and the roof.
4. Bringing the dead to the bottom of the Shaft. 5. Carrying the dead through the village of Trealaw.

Digitized by Google

THE ROAST BEEF OF OLD ENGLAND.

The Christmas Cattle Show of the Smithfield Club at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, of which some mention was made in our last, came to its close on Friday of last week. The five days of that week brought above one hundred and twenty thousand visitors, the concourse being greater than was ever before known. Our Illustrations presented on the front page of this number may be considered as of a more practical and business-like character than those which showed a few scattered groups of the medley company assembled, with some amusing incidents to be observed among them. Here, in the upper part of our Engraving, is an eager throng of sturdy agriculturists, breeders and graziers, besieging the cheerful official person who has the authentic Prize List in his hand; every man furnished with a catalogue, and prepared to receive some important announcement, which may considerably influence the repute and prospects of his trade. Below this a still more animated scene is represented; that of the noblest prize ox in the show, led by a perfectly happy attendant, passing through crowds of rural enthusiasts, competitors or simply connoisseurs of stock breeding and fattening; with whom are casually mixed some wondering townsfolk. The zest and impatient desire, almost fury, with which they rush up to see, to handle, to feel, pinch, and probe with the fingers, such a magnificent specimen of Live Beef, cannot fail to be appreciated by our City readers. We perceive, however, that the little boy with his mamma, in the right-hand corner, feels slightly frightened at the approach of the huge animal, like many a child that is seen at the Zoological Society's Gardens, not quite comfortable in his mind when the mighty elephant walks along the path beside him.

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

It is understood that her Majesty's Ministers in the Cabinet Councils held this week have determined, at the urgent request of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, to ask Parliament, when it meets on Jan. 6, for extraordinary Executive powers to suppress the dangerous as well as scandalous practices of the Land League in the forcible intimidation of all classes by threatened outrages similar to those already so frequent, and prevention of lawful business connected with agricultural property, throughout many Western districts. The trial of Messrs. Parnell, Biggar, Dillon, and other leaders of this agitation, will meantime be proceeded with in due course; and Government will prepare a Bill, or several Bills, with Resolutions founded upon the Report of the Royal Commission of Inquiry, to amend the laws of land tenure, and to relieve the precarious condition of some part of the Irish peasant farmers.

Our present Illustrations of this unhappy subject, furnished by the Sketches of Mr. Wallis Mackay, our Special Artist in that country, show the scene at the Land League meeting held at Waterford on Sunday, the 5th inst.; and that which occurred at Brookborough, in the Ulster county of Fermanagh, between Clones and Enniskillen, on Tuesday, the 7th, when a prohibited Land League meeting was dispersed. Mr. Rodolphus Harvey, of Enniskillen, stipendiary Resident Magistrate, having thrice read the Riot Act, and being assisted by a constabulary force, drove the people out of the field where the platform was being erected. The two delegates from the Land League, Mr. James O'Kelly, M.P. for Ros. common who is also correspondent of the New York Herald, and Mr. Kettle, from Dublin, were turned out by Mr. Harvey in a very summary manner. He took the first-named gentleman by the shoulders, and handed him over to the custody of a constable, who quickly removed him from the ground. There was no attempt at resistance, as it was known that a squadron of the 2nd Dragoons was quartered in the town. The Sunday meeting at Waterford was held in the open air, at a place called Ballybricken, outside the city; the Mayor, Alderman Ryan, was in the chair on the platform, and the speakers were Mr. Parnell, M.P., the two city members, Mr. Power, M.P., and Mr. Leamy, M.P., and two or three Roman Catholic priests. A banquet was afterwards given to Mr. Parnell, and the Town Council presented him with the freedom of the city.

The ordinary winter assizes are now being held throughout Ireland; and several eminent Judges, Mr. Justice Fitzgerald, at Cork, Mr. Justice Barry, at Waterford, and Mr. Baron Dowse, at Galway, have spoken, in their Charges to the Grand Juries, with the gravest and severest earnestness, of the alarming state of the country. Outrageous threatening letters have been sent to these Judges, and several fresh murders and other crimes have been perpetrated. Mr. Forster, the Chief Secretary, came again last Sunday to London, to confer with his Ministerial colleagues upon the present crisis of affairs.

ANOTHER WELSH COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

The Pen-y-Graig Colliery, situate on the Taff Vale Railway, in the Rhondda Valley, Glamorganshire, belonging to Messrs. Morgan and Rowlands, of Pont-y-pridd, was yesterday week the scene of a great disaster, by which a hundred and one lives were destroyed. It happened in the night, about half-past one in the morning, when a hundred and seven men were at work below. The ventilation is said to have been deranged by leaving open the mouth of the upcast shaft, where some repairs to the "cage" used for descending had been going on: so that the "fan" there ceased to draw the air of the downcast shaft through all the subterranean workings. This allowed the coal gas to collect in them, until a "shot," or blasting of coal with gunpowder was fired, or naked lights were used, and then the gas exploded all at once. Such, at any rate, is one explanation of the cause of the disaster, but the fact is disputed. As soon as the explosion became known through the neighbourhood, people collected at the pit's mouth, and exploring parties, led by Mr. Richards, Mr. David Davies, Mr. Edmund Thomas, Mr. Edmund Davis, and Mr. Galloway, deputy inspector of mines, went down at intervals the next morning. But the gas still remaining in the underground passages, the fall of the roofs in many parts, and the heaps of rubbish, earth and coal, and the broken "bratticing," or line of air-screens, along the levels, made it difficult for them to get on. Four men were soon found alive, at the bottom of the downcast shaft, and were sent up in safety. Another man, John Morgan, was rescued alive on Saturday afternoon, having been forty hours without food, most of that time wedged in a crevice, with the body of a dead comrade beside him. He has a wife and eight children, and they had given him up for dead, so that an Insurance Office was about to pay the supposed widow £30 upon his death. His son and daughter had come from Bristol to condole with their mother. The Illustrations sketched by our Artist include one of the explorers descending the downcast shaft, which is 450 yards deep; another, showing them crawling over the heaps of débris, with little space between this and the roof of the gallery; also, bringing some of the dead bodies to the bottom of the shaft, whence they were drawn up to the surface. About fifteen thousand people were assembled there on Saturday and Sunday; and the scene, as the dead were carried through the neighbouring village of Treaiaw, is the subject of our last Illustration. An inquest was opened on Monday by the coroners for Llantrissant and Ystradyfodwg, acting jointly, but was adjourned to Jan. 5. The Government Inspector of Mines, Mr. Wales, and the Deputy Inspector, Mr. Rhys, have visited the colliery. A subscription for the relief of widows and children has been opened, to which the Lord Mayor of London offers to receive any London contributions.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Dec. 14.

Paris is full of the noise of strife. The warfare of words is waxing fierce. Nothing seems to be stable, nobody inspires complete confidence, not even the Parisian sister of "the old lady of Threadneedle-street," owing to the extraordinary drain upon gold and the issue of fifty-franc notes. Happily, however, the alarmists of the monetary question themselves do not inspire any more confidence than plain citizen Rochefort; and so extremes meet, and in spite of the hubbub perhaps the majority of the Parisians are thinking more about the social exigencies of New-Year's Day than about the din of arms that fills the newspapers. The necessities of the journal oblige me to be excessively brief this week, so that I cannot dwell upon the history of all these quarrels. One would think that truly the world was out of joint. Here is the editor of the Voltaire trying to show that Rochefort stooped in 1871 to ask Gambetta to obtain his pardon of Thiers. The Voltaire has published a letter addressed by Rochefort to Gambetta which makes the former cut a very poor figure, and Louise Michel declares that Rochefort must be disowned as a traitor if he cannot explain the letter. Rochefort maintains that the letter was dictated to him by his lawyer, M. Albert Joly, who died last week, but that it was never delivered. The controversy is still raging bitterly, and either Rochefort or Gambetta will come out of it with a stain on his loyalty. In the Legitimist press there is a controversy and the prospect of a duel between the editors of the Gaulois and the Tribonlet; in the Bonapartist press an assault at arms between Paul de Cassagnac and Robert Mitchell; in the artistic world two duels; at the Théâtre des Nations, apropos of a drama called "Garibaldi," nightly riots between the "gods" and the orchestra, the revolutionaries and the reactionaries; while Louise Michel from the heights of Montmartre, Angel of the Commune, proclaims that Gambettism is the enemy, the serpent that must be crushed. Let us hope that, in view of the rapid approach of the end of the year, all parties are simply hastening to get rid of their bile in order to take a fresh start in 1881.

In the midst of all this hubbub Madame Thiers died quietly on Saturday last, after an illness of nearly three weeks. She married Thiers in 1833, when she was only fifteen years of age. Her life, as well as that of her sister, Mdlle. Dosne, was spent entirely in devotion to the man whose memory she lived to see dragged in the mud by the returned Communards. Her death has not attracted much attention. She will be buried to-morrow with great splendour.

On Saturday Gambetta made a speech at the Sorbonne on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Polytechnic Association. In the course of his remarks, he called Auguste Comte the greatest thinker of the century.

And now, here is a scandalous affair to conclude with. The granddaughter of Marshal Ney is in Saint-Lazare Prison, and her husband, the Baron Friedman de Friedland, is at Mazas. The young lady, who is the second daughter of the late Duc de Persigny, is charged with having forged bills for more than 100,000f. in the name of her grandmother, the Princess de la Moskowa. Does it not seem, as a boulevardier said the other day, as if at the present moment le monde a ses nerfs?

T. C.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

The King gave audience on the 10th inst. to the new Danish Minister, M. Hegermann-Linderkrone, and to the new Minister of Bavaria.

During the discussion of the Estimates in last Saturday's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies, the Government was urged by Signor Calvaletto to push forward vigorously the works for the defence of Venice and the arrangements for fortifying the western frontier, the speaker concluding with the words, "We desire a durable peace with Austria; but it is, nevertheless, our duty to be prepared for all eventualities." The War Office Estimates were adopted.

A site in the public cemetery has been granted by the Roman Communal Council to a cremation company.

HOLLAND.

The Second Chamber has approved the Estimates of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs by 57 against 7 votes, after granting a credit of 6000 fl. for the establishment of one or several consulates in Roumania.

RUSSIA.

The festival of St. George was celebrated at the Winter Palace, St. Petersburg, on the 8th inst., in the usual way, by a dinner, at which about 3000 knights of the order were present. The first toast was that of the German Emperor (from whom a congratulatory telegram had been received) introduced in the warmest terms by the Czar, who recapitulated his military services and bore witness to his unfailing friendship for Russia and her Sovereign. The health of the Czar was proposed by the Grand Duke Nicholas.

GERMANY.

The King of Saxony arrived at Berlin yesterday week, and was received at the station by the Emperor personally. A grand hunt was held near Berlin next day in his honour.

The second anniversary of the death of Princess Alice was observed at Darmstadt on Tuesday both by Sovereign and subjects. The German Crown Princess went to the mausoleum of her deceased sister, and placed a wreath of immortelles on the tomb, and afterwards attended the anniversary service held in the hospital erected through the instrumentality of the late Princess.

TURKEY.

M. Tissot, the French Ambassador, dined with the Sultan on Monday, and was presented by his Majesty with the grand cordon of the Order of the Osmanie.

The military preparations are increasing.

GREECE.

The Chamber has passed all the Supplementary Votes, including the money required by the Ministry of War and Marine.

Count Mouy, the new French Minister to Athens, has presented his credentials to King George, and, after stating the traditional friendship of France for Greece, counselled a policy of prudence. The King, in reply, said the Powers had arranged the frontier, and the prompt execution of their decisions would be the surest means of averting the danger of fresh complications.

AMERICA.

President Hayes has sent to Congress the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture, stating that the diseased cattle exported to England came from the Western States, and indicating that pleuro-pneumonia exists there as well as in a few sections of the Eastern States, and also in Chicago, Buffalo, Albany, Boston, and Portland, which, being the principal points of shipment, are disease centres. The report recommends Congress to restrict the movement of cattle from and within the infected districts.

The House of Representatives on Monday unanimously adopted the following resolution:—"That the sympathy of this House is hereby extended to the unhappy labouring class of Ireland in its effort to effect a reform in the present oppressive tenant system." On Tuesday the House adopted a resolution of sympathy and condolence with the family of the late Madame Thiers on the loss which they have sustained.

A bill has been introduced in the House to place General Grant on the retired list with the rank and pay of a general.

Mr. Thompson has tendered his resignation as Secretary of the Navy, in order to accept the chairmanship of the American committee of the Panama Canal Company.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Times says that the political revolution in the city of New York attracts public attention, credit being given to the New York Herald as the chief factor in the overthrow of the Tammany ring. The eleven officials were confirmed by the Board of Aldermen, six being Republicans and five anti-Tammany Democrats. Mr. Allan Campbell succeeds Mr. Kelly. General rejoicing has followed the result, which is regarded as an overthrow of the "Bosses" in New York City politics.

Almost the entire business portion of the town of Pensacola, in Florida, was burned down on Friday night last week. One hundred buildings were destroyed, and the loss is estimated at 750,000 dols., of which 300,000 dols. is covered by insurance. Pensacola has a population of 3500, and possesses only one fire-engine, which was at the time out of repair. At a fire in Cincinnati on Saturday five firemen lost their lives.

An application for the Central Park, New York, as a site for the International Exhibition of 1883 has been withdrawn by the committee; and it is stated that Inwood, on the Harlem river, has been selected.

Owing to the severe cold, four men were frozen to death in New York on Sunday night.

Another attempt is being made by a large organised force of frontier men from Kansas to invade and settle in the India reservation of Okohama, in consequence of which the frontier is now being guarded by United States troops.

Colonel Gildersleeve has received a letter from Earl Stanhope officially inviting the American Rifle Association to compete with a team representing Great Britain and Ireland in July next, and expressing a hope that the Americans will also send a team to the Wimbledon meeting.

CANADA.

The Marquis of Lorne opened the Dominion Parliament on the 9th inst. He congratulated the members of both Houses upon the undoubted return of prosperity to the country, and announced that contracts had been entered into with men of high financial standing in Europe, the United States, and Canada for the speedy construction and permanent working of the Pacific Railway. Parliament had been summoned to meet earlier than usual, as nothing further could be done until its policy with regard to the railway has been decided upon except to progress steadily with the portions of the line now under contract. His Excellency urged the consideration of the forthcoming report of the Civil Service Reform Commission. The distribution of relief among the famine-stricken Indians in the North-West had involved a large expenditure. Some bands of Indians had begun to cultivate the soil, and efforts would be made to induce all of them to do so. In conclusion, his Excellency said that the existing tariff had promoted the manufactures and products of the country, and had increased the revenues of the Dominion, so that the receipts of the current fiscal year would exceed the expenditure.

The House of Commons on Saturday voted the Address in reply to the speech of the Governor-General.

The arrangement made with the Canadian Pacific Railway Syndicate was presented to the House yesterday week, and is being discussed this week. In Monday's sitting of the Dominion House of Commons a motion of the Opposition to postpone the debate until Jan. 5 next was defeated by a majority of fifty-two votes. The discussion of the Pacific Railway scheme was resumed in the Dominion House of Commons on Tuesday. The Hon. Sir C. Tupper, Minister of Railways, in moving that the House should resolve itself into a Committee for the purpose of considering the resolutions ratifying the contract entered into with the railway syndicate, delivered a speech of six hours' duration, in which he reviewed the progress of the undertaking, and declared that in three years the syndicate would complete the line to the foot of the Rocky Mountains.

The sixty men belonging to Section B of the Pacific Railway, who recently struck against a reduction of their wages, have resumed work on their employers' terms.

INDIA.

Intelligence was received at the India Office on Tuesday that the Marquis of Ripon's health continues to improve.

Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern has renounced the succession to the throne of Roumania in favour of his eldest son.

A Secret Consistory was held at the Vatican on Monday. Mgr. Hassoun was made a Cardinal.

Mr. Bertram Wodehouse Currie has been appointed a member of the Council of India, in the room of the late Sir W. L. Merewether.

The ship Devon, 1148 tons, Captain Barron, chartered by the Agent-General for New South Wales, sailed from Plymouth for Sydney on the 12th inst., with 395 emigrants.

Princess Eleonora Gonzaga, who died on Nov. 21, has bequeathed to the Academy of Milan the portrait of Titian, painted by himself.

With great enthusiasm, the anniversary of the capture of Plevna by the Russian and Roumanian troops was yesterday week celebrated at Bucharest.

A Channel Islands Exhibition for local produce and manufactures, similar to that held at St. Heliers in 1871, is being organised for next year, to be held at Guernsey.

A new Antarctic expedition is about to be undertaken, under command of Captain Sir A. Young, who expects to leave England for the Cape this month in his yacht Helen.

At the elections to the Servian Skuptschina, held last Saturday, very few supporters of the late Ristics Ministry were returned, and the general result is decidedly in favour of the present Ministry.

The Gazette contains a Treasury warrant notifying that the rates of postage on postal packets to and from Jamaica shall extend to all postal packets to or from the West Indian Colonies of Grenada, St. Lucia, and Tobago (of the Windward Islands) and Turks Islands.

Digitized by Google

THE PLAYHOUSES.

On Saturday last, at the Court Theatre, which was filled to overflowing, Madame Helena Modjeska sustained, for the first time before a London audience, the arduous part of Adrienne Lecouvreur, in an anonymous English adaptation of the famous French drama by MM. Scribe and Legouvé. Old playgoers will remember an earlier English version of "Adrienne," written by the late Mr. John Oxenford, and called "The Reigning Favourite," which was brought out at the Strand Theatre some thirty years ago—Mrs. Stirling playing the part of the heroine, Mrs. Leigh Murray the Princess de Bouillon, and the late Mr. William Farren the old prompter, Michonnet. For some reason or another, Mr. Oxenford's adaptation failed to obtain any very extended popularity; and thus the more recent impersonation of the renowned tragédienne by Mdlle. Sarah Bernhardt, at the Gaiety—a performance which was noticed at length in this column—came upon the public almost as a novelty. Mdlle. Bernhardt's Adrienne was, as all the play-going world knows, a superb creation. I preserve the memory of it very freshly in my mind, as, with little less distinctness, I retain the remembrance of Rachel in Adrienne; but I do not intend to institute any comparisons between the different renderings of the great French actress of the last generation, the consummate artiste who is now fascinating the public of the United States, and the gifted Polish lady who has achieved so brilliant and so legitimate a triumph at the Court. Madame Modjeska's Adrienne Lecouvreur should be judged entirely on its own merits, and as a distinctly independent and original study of one of the finest characters in the modern French repertory.

It is unnecessary to recapitulate the plot of the drama, save in so far as to refresh the public memory by hinting that the entire intrigue of the fable is based on the love of two women—a wicked one of high birth, and a lowly-born but pure-hearted one, who is only a play-actress—for Count Maurice de Saxe, and that Adrienne is also beloved, but with submissive hopelessness, by the old prompter, Michonnet. In the end, the vindictively jealous Princess assassinates her hated rival by means of a subtle poison infused into the flowers of a bouquet. To carry on the action of the piece, which culminates in this lamentable catastrophe, the services of a pompous Grand Seigneur, the husband of the wicked Princess, and of a gossipping Abbé, who is aux petits soins with her Highness, are necessary. That is all. Several male and female puppets, in the shape of lady and gentlemen guests in the salons of the Princess de Bouillon, and a number of actors and actresses in fantastic Turkish costumes in the green-room of the Théâtre Français, make their appearance from time to time; but they say nothing, and are substantially of no more account than the other highly decorative furniture and "properties" which adorn the stage. The entire interest of the piece centres in Madame Modjeska as Adrienne, and Mr. Forbes Robertson as Maurice de Saxe. Madame Modjeska's forte consists, first, in alternately playful and pathetic love-making, in which she can be as fascinating and as tender as the best Juliet that ever graced our stage; and next in simulating, with great power and directness, the last struggles of a dying person. Some critics have held that elaborate dying is not a legitimate branch of art. They held with Voltaire (who had the impudence to call Shakspeare "un barbare") that moribund actors and actresses should always give up the ghost behind the scenes, and refrain from bringing the actual thanatos down to the footlights; but so long as Juliet, or the Queen in "Hamlet," and Desdemona die,—so long as the body of Cordelia is brought on dead, and Ophelia is buried coram publico—Frou Frou, and Marguerite Gauthier and Adrienne Lecouvreur must be suffered (if we are to be consistent) to expire in full sight of the audience; and painfully touching as were the death-deliriums and final collapse of Madame Modjeska as Adrienne, her simulated sufferings did not produce that sensation of painful uneasiness which was awakened by the passage of Marie Stuart to the scaffold, and her lugubrious recitation of the Penitential Psalms in low Latin at the wings. The dying scene in Schiller's play, so admirably rendered by Mr. Lewis Wingfield, errs on the side of excessive and morbid realism, albeit the actual death-blow is not inflicted on the stage; whereas in the visible death of Adrienne there is nothing harrowing or repulsive, and it is only our gentler sentiments that are awakened and our softer sympathies that are moved.

Another charge which hypercriticism has brought against Madame Modjeska is that her familiarity with the English language is still so limited that she slurs the intonation of her final consonants, and, at a short distance from the stage, can be only very indistinctly heard. As regards this objection, my own judgment will not be of any great value, since I was fortunate enough to occupy a seat in the front row of the stalls, and heard every word that Madame Modjeska said; still, to all appearance, the audience in the boxes and gallery heard quite as well as I did, since they seized, with one exception, on every one of the actress's "points," and applauded them to the echo. The exception was in the famous "tirade" in the fourth act, in which the exasperated Adrienne selects for recitation a speech from Corneille, which lends itself to the accomplishment of her purpose of indignantly apostrophising and vituperating the Princess de Bouillon. Madame Modjeska's action in this crucial scene was simply magnificent; but the burst of passionate invective missed its effect, first because it was so tamely and baldly written, and next (a very uncommon fault in stage harangues) it was too brief, and came to an end before the audience were fully imbued with a sense of the actress's meaning. This partial check did not imperil Madame Modjeska's success, still it did not enhance the advantages which she had already gained. Splendid amends were, however, made for the adaptor's want of skill by the dying scene in the fifth act; and as the consummation of the tragedy approached it was in the highest degree interesting, as it was likewise most unusual to see how pit and gallery and, to a certain extent, the boxes, took the task of deciding on the merits of Madame Modjeska, in this particular part, completely and utterly out of the hands of the blasé and exacting stalls. The house literally "rose at" Madame Modjeska. The vox populi had it. In no theatre, these many years past, have I heard such a tremendous roar of acclamation as that which greeted this truly great actress when she finally sank, expiring, into the arms of Maurice de Saxe; and at the conclusion of the drama she was recalled at least five times, amidst a perfect Babel of enthusiastic applause. She had conquered the Commons; and the Commons, after all, in matters dramatic, are King, let the critics say whatsoever they please to the contrary notwithstanding.

Madame Modjeska was supported to a fair extent of efficiency. Miss Amy Roselle, whose first appearance after a late severe indisposition rejoiced all her admirers, imparted sufficient vigour, but lacked dignity as the Princess de Bouillon. The same, in degree, may be said of Mr. Forbes Robertson's, Maurice de Saxe, which was bluff, hearty, and manly enough, but had a little too much of the camp and not enough of the Court about it. In the first scenes he played the part of a subaltern too well; for few would have suspected that a son of a king, a Duke of Courland, and a General in the French service, was concealed beneath the somewhat shabby uniform and plain peruke of a lieutenant of foot. Mr. Beveridge was adequately vainglorious as the pedantic Duke de Bouillon, and Mr. Lin Rayne was a diverting but occasionally tiresome Abbé de Chazeuil. He was so much of a butterfly with black silk wings, that from time to time one really felt inclined to break him on the wheel. Mr. G. W. Anson's Mahomet was a very carefully studied and able representation; but he was a trifle too robust in voice and gesture, and would have done better to have modelled his Mahomet on the subdued but telling lines of Mr. Benjamin Webster as the old copyist in "One Touch of Nature." The scenery, dresses, and general appointments in "Adrienne Lecouvreur" were everything that could be desired, and reflect the highest credit on the management of Mr. Wilson Barrett.

G. A. S.

MUSIC.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

The production, for the first time in Italian, of Wallace's "Maritana" took place on Thursday week, when the cast included Mdlle. Elisa Widmar in the title-character, in which the lady sang with much grace and refinement, but with some lack of dramatic impulse, this want having been still more observable in her impersonation of the part. Mdlle. Widmar was deservedly applauded in her delivery of Maritana's two principal airs, "'Tis the harp in the air" and "Scenes that are brightest," the latter of which was encored. The excellence of Madame Trebelli's performance as Lazarillo rendered it a special feature. Her co-operation in the concerted music was most valuable, especially in the well-known trio, "Turn on, Old Time" (we adhere to the familiar English titles). The expressive air, "Alas! those chimes," was also charmingly rendered by Madame Trebelli that its repetition was inevitable. Signor Vizzani was more successful in the music of Don Cæsar de Bazan than in his representation of the character. The demonstrative song, "Yes, let me like a soldier fall," and the ballad, "There is a flower," were given with such effect as to gain an encore in each instance. The parts of the King and Don José were satisfactorily filled respectively by Signor Ghilberti and Mr. B. Foote; the cast having been completed by Signor Pro and Mdlle. Barnadelli in subordinate characters.

The music—although neither very original or profound—is bright and tuneful, and might have proved continuously attractive had the opera been produced earlier. The English text of Fitzball has been rendered into Italian by Signor Zaffira, and recitatives have been skilfully added by Signor Tito Mattei. The opera was repeated on Saturday night (with the same cast), and was followed by the National Anthem; and this closed the series of autumn and winter performances which began on Oct. 18.

But one more of the Crystal Palace Saturday afternoon concerts remains to be given during this year. Last Saturday's programme was chiefly devoted to a performance of Mr. Arthur Sullivan's sacred musical drama, "The Martyr of Antioch;" the first since its successful production at the Leeds Festival in October last. As the work was noticed on that occasion, brief comment on its repetition will suffice. In last Saturday's rendering the solo music, belonging to the characters of Margaret, Julia, Olybius, and Callias, was sung, respectively, by Mrs. Osgood, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. F. King; all but Mrs. Osgood (who replaced Madame Albani) having been associated with the Leeds performance. The little music allotted to Fabius was assigned to Mr. H. Cross. Most of the pieces were much applauded on Saturday, when, as before, Mr. Sullivan conducted, the work having been preceded by his overture entitled "In Memoriam."

The last Monday Popular Concert of the year took place this week, with an interesting, although more or less familiar, programme. After this (Saturday) afternoon's performance, the concerts will be suspended until the first week in January.

Mdlle. Janotha gave the second, and last, of her Pianoforte Recitals on Wednesday afternoon at St. James's Hall: where, in the evening, the last London Ballad Concert of the year took place.

Mr. J. F. Barnett's Cantata, "The Building of the Ship," was given for the first time in London by the North London Philharmonic Society, at St. Andrew's Hall, Newman-street, on Thursday evening. The work was noticed by us when produced at the recent Leeds Festival.

Yesterday (Friday) evening the Sacred Harmonic Society held its forty-ninth Christmas performance of "The Messiah," in its new locale—St. James's Hall—the solo singers announced having been Mesdames Sherrington and M. Cummings, Mr. V. Rigby, and Mr. Bridson.

The first concert of the new season of the Royal Albert Hall Orchestral Society is to be given to-night (Saturday), when the performances will be for the benefit of the French Hospital and Dispensary, Lisle-street. The programme is interesting and varied. Mr. George Mount continues to act as conductor.

The fourth, and last, of Mr. F. H. Cowen's series of orchestral concerts takes place, at St. James's Hall, this (Saturday) evening, when his new symphony (No. 3) will be performed for the first time.

This (Saturday) evening Madame Sainton Dolby gives a concert at Steinway Hall, at which a selection of vocal music will be rendered by pupils of her academy.

The Highbury Philharmonic Society began a new season on Monday evening, when the programme comprised Dr. F. E. Gladstone's new sacred cantata, "Nicodemus," and Handel's "Acis and Galatea;" Dr. Bridge having been the conductor.

Mr. Sims Reeves has announced a Ballad Concert at St. James's Hall for next Thursday evening, when he, his son (Mr. Herbert Reeves), and other eminent performers will contribute to a varied programme.

Mr. John Cross has established a series of Monday evening concerts at the Holborn Townhall, the programmes of which have included the names of several eminent vocalists and instrumentalists.

The dates of the concerts of the Philharmonic Society's sixty-ninth season have been fixed for Feb. 24, March 10 and 24, April 7, May 12 and 28.

The Bach Society will give performances on March 3, April 6, and May 18—Mr. Otto Goldschmidt being again the conductor.

The 143rd Anniversary Festival of the Royal Society of Musicians is to take place, at St. James's Hall, on Feb. 10, with the Duke of Connaught as president.

Madame Adelina Patti, just before leaving Berlin, was presented by the Emperor of Germany with his portrait and autograph.

On Monday next the Brixton Choral Society—conducted by Mr. W. Lemare—opens a new season with performances of Dr. Hiller's cantata, "A Song of Victory," Weber's music to "Preciosa," and the finale to Mendelssohn's unfinished opera "Loreley."

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

Messrs. Chappell, Messrs. Metzler, and Messrs. Ashdown and Parry have each published their annual shilling collection of Christmas dance music. That issued by the first-named firm forms the 122nd number of their Musical Magazine, and contains ten pieces in different dance forms by D'Albert, Strauss, Waldteufel, Etterlen, Fahrbach, and Terry. Messrs. Metzler's Christmas number is part of the series of their "Musical Bijou," and includes waltzes, polkas, and quadrilles by Strauss, Godfrey, Waldteufel, Fahrbach, and Marie; and other dance pieces. Messrs. Ashdown and Parry's publication is their fifth "Album of Dance Music," and comprises a varied series of pieces suitable for the ball-room.

"The Return of the Victor" (Chappell and Co.) is a very spirited song. The words, by Mr. J. L. Latey, appeared in our Christmas Number of 1879, in connection with a coloured drawing, full of life, by the eminent artist, Sir John Gilbert, R.A., to whom the song is dedicated. The lines have the merit of conveying clearly and succinctly, with a fitness for musical purposes, the event of the safe return of a long absent warrior, and the sentiment of his wife's transition from mourning to joy. The setting, by Mr. Edward Holmes, is in the vigorous, martial style; the melody being clear and distinctly rhythmical, and available for voices of any calibre.

THE COURT.

Her Majesty's guests at dinner at the close of last week included Prince and Princess Christian and Princess Augusta Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, Lady Waterpark, the Earl of Beaconsfield, the Earl and Countess of Lytton, the Hon. Caroline Cavendish, Lord Methuen, Admiral Lord Frederic Kerr, Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby, Major-General J. Ross, the Hon. Harriet Phipps, Viscount Bridport, Major-General Sir Frederick S. and Lady Roberts, Colonel T. D. Baker, and Captain F. J. Edwards. The Judge Advocate-General had an audience of the Queen, and Second Lieutenant W. K. W. Jenner, of the 9th (Queen's Royal) Lancers, was presented to her Majesty by his father, Sir William Jenner.

The Princess of Wales, with her daughters, arrived at Windsor yesterday week, and the Prince of Wales arrived the next day. The Royal dinner party was augmented by Lady Waterpark, the Hon. Mrs. Francis Stonor, the Marquis of Hartington, Lord Methuen, Brigadier-General Hughes, Colonel C. G. Arbuthnot, and Captain F. J. and Mrs. Edwards.

On Sunday the Royal circle attended Divine service in the private chapel, the Rev. Edward Stuart Talbot, Warden of Keble College, Oxford, officiating. Princess Christian visited her Majesty; and the Royal dinner party included the Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley, and Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir Henry Ponsonby.

The Prince of Wales came to London on Monday, returning to Windsor in the evening. Princess Louise of Lorne and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Strathearn arrived at the castle, with the Dean of Westminster, who joined the Royal dinner party. The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh arrived the next morning.

Tuesday was the anniversary of the death of the Prince Consort and of her Majesty's beloved daughter, Princess Alice, Grand Duchess of Hesse. The Queen and all the members of the Royal family at Windsor attended the special service performed in the Royal Mausoleum at Frogmore by the Dean of Windsor, after which the mausoleum was left open for three hours for the annual tribute of love to be paid by her Majesty's Household and others devoted to the memory of the beloved Prince. The Prince and Princess of Wales, with their daughters, left for Marlborough House, and the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught also left for London.

Princess Louise of Lorne left on Wednesday morning for London.

The Queen has placed a sculptured memorial of the late Princess Alice in Prince Albert's mausoleum at Frogmore. It represents the Princess reposing upon a couch with her infant daughter, who died shortly after her, sleeping on her arm. The head of the Princess rests upon a pillow supported by angels' figures, and an inscription records the story of the death of the Princess.

The Court arrives at Osborne to-day (Saturday) for Christmas.

The Prince of Wales passed several days last week on a visit to Mrs. Gerard Leigh, who was entertaining a shooting party at Luton Hoo, Beds. His Royal Highness has made his usual annual presents of game to the hospitals.

Princess Christian and Princess Beatrice came to London for a few hours last Saturday.

The Duke of Edinburgh returned to Eastwell Park yesterday week, after visiting Viscount and Viscountess Holmsdale at their shooting-box, Riddlesworth Hall, Thetford. The Duchess of Edinburgh has consented to preside at the next distribution of prizes to the Savoy choir and day schools. The Prince of Wales's gold medal for swimming, and prizes gained by members of the Royal Savoy Club, will also be presented.

The Duke of Connaught has consented to preside at the forthcoming festival of the Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society next February.

The Duke of Cambridge has returned to Gloucester House, from visiting Lord and Lady Dacre at the Hoo, Herts.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriages of Sir Reginald Archibald Edward Cathcart, Bart., of Carleton and Killochan Castle, Ayr (late Coldstream Guards), with Emily Eliza Steele, widow of the late Mr. John Gordon, of Cluny; and of the Hon. Geoffrey Richard C. Hill (late of the Royal Horse Guards), second and youngest son of the late Richard, third Viscount Hill, and brother of the present peer, with Mrs. de Winton, widow of the late Mr. Walter de Winton, of Maesllwch Castle, in the county of Radnor, have been solemnised by special license, within the last few days.

Marriages are arranged between Mr. Tonman Mosley, second son of Sir Tonman Mosley, Bart., and Lady Hilda Rose Montgomerie, youngest daughter of the late Earl of Eglinton and granddaughter of the Earl of Essex; and between Mr. Leopold de Rothschild and Miss Perugia, a younger sister of Mrs. Arthur Sassoon.

Mr. T. Mark Howell, on retiring from the post of Resident Medical Officer to the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest, Golden-square, has received from the past and present patients of the hospital and from the resident staff a handsome clock and inkstand in recognition of his valuable services.

Digitized by Google

1. St. Andrew's, from the West Sands. 2. Spindle Rock, near St. Andrew's. 3. Ruins of Blackfriars' Chapel. 4. The Whyte-Melville Memorial Fountain.
5. St. Regulus Tower. 6. College Church. 7. West Port. 8. The Pends.

SKETCHES OF ST. ANDREW'S, WITH THE WHYTE-MELVILLE MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN.—SEE PAGE 594.

Digitized by Google

"REBEKAH AT THE WELL." BY F. GOODALL, R.A.

IN THE EXHIBITION AT THE FRENCH GALLERY.—SEE PAGE 597.

Digitized by Google

THE WHYTE-MELVILLE MEMORIAL, ST. ANDREW'S.

The late Major George John Whyte-Melville, of the Coldstream Guards, was one of the most accomplished and genial men of the day; author of many literary creations of high merit, a successful novelist, and not less distinguished as a gallant sportsman, and an agreeable gentleman in private society. He died about two years ago, on Dec. 5, 1878, from injuries by a fall in the hunting-field, near Tetbury, in Gloucestershire. His portrait, with a brief memoir, appeared in this Journal on Dec. 28 of that year. Some of his works, "The Gladiators," "Holmby House," and "The Queen's Maries," historical romances; "The Interpreter," a tale of the Crimean War; "Kate Coventry," "Digby Grand," and "Good-for-Nothing," stories of modern social life, are likely to keep their popularity for another generation. He was also a poet of more than tolerable excellence: wrote some of the best English hunting-songs that ever delighted a party of sportsmen at a Hunt dinner, after a fine day with the fox-hounds or stag-hounds; and tried his skill in a translation of the Odes of Horace. He was in the Guards from 1839 to 1849, when he retired, but in the Russian War of 1855 and 1856 held a command of Turkish Cavalry. At the time of his death he was about fifty-seven years of age, being eldest son of John Whyte-Melville, Esq., of Bennochy and Strath-Kinness, Fifeshire, formerly of the 9th Lancers, Major of the Royal Fifeshire Yeomanry Cavalry, and Captain of the St. Andrew's troop of Fife Mounted Rifle Volunteers. The mother of the late Major Whyte-Melville was Lady Catherine Osborne, youngest daughter of the fifth Duke of Leeds. To this lady, her son, a short time before his accidental sudden death, addressed the following verses, which have a very touching interest, and which were, it is believed, the last that he wrote:—

Falling leaf and fading tree,
Lines of white in a sullen sea,
Shadows rising on you and me;
The swallows are making them ready to fly,
Wheeling out on a windy sky.
Good-bye, Summer! Good-bye, good-bye!

Hush! A voice from the far-away!
"Listen and learn," it seems to say;
"All the to-morrow shall be as to-day."
The cord is frayed—the cruse is dry,
The link must break, and the lamp must die.
Good-bye, Hope! Good-bye, good-bye!

What are we waiting for? Oh! my heart!
Kiss me straight on the brows! And part!
Again! Again!—my heart! my heart!
What are we waiting for, you and I?
A pleading look—a stiffled cry.
Good-bye, for ever! Good-bye, good-bye!

Not long after his death, a large number of his friends and admirers, including Lord Wolverton, Colonel Thomson of Charleton, the Duke of Beaufort, Earl Spencer, Lord Bateman, Lord Dorchester, the Marquis of Hartington, and other noblemen and gentlemen, with Principals Tulloch and Shairp, of St. Andrew's, Mr. Blackwood, of Edinburgh, Mr. Anthony Trollope, and others connected with literature, started a subscription for a Whyte-Melville Memorial. It was supported by many persons of rank and influence, from the Prince of Wales and other Princes downwards; and a fund was raised, which has been devoted to several different works; a monument in the town of St. Andrew's, being near the native place of the deceased; one over his grave in Tetbury Churchyard; one in the Guards' Chapel at Wellington Barracks, London; and an annuity fund connected with the Hunt Servants' Benevolent Society. The St. Andrew's monument is a fountain, with an upper and lower basin, of red sandstone and granite, carved with water-plants, and bearing a white marble medallion portrait, and other medallions showing an inscription and shields of arms, supported by five clustered granite pillars, above and below. It was designed by Mr. Edis, F.S.A., of London; the carving was executed by Mr. Earp, sculptor; and the medallion portrait by Mr. J. C. Boehm, A.R.A.; Mr. Wallis, of London, superintended the erection. We give an Illustration of the Whyte-Melville Memorial, in the centre of a page of Engravings of St. Andrew's.

A view of that interesting ancient Scottish University town and cathedral city of former ages is presented at the top of the page, as beheld from the West Sands. Among its romantic features of antiquity are the ruins of the cathedral and of the castle; the old church tower of St. Rule, or St. Regulus, the reputed founder of this place in the fourteenth century; the chapel of the Blackfriars Monastery; and several gateways of the city or the cloisters. Some of these are shown in the Illustrations now presented; others furnished a page of Mr. S. Read's "Leaves from a Sketchbook," published a few years ago," the contents of which had previously appeared in this Journal.

Mr. Loftus Monro, the head master of the Woolwich High Schools, has been appointed an Inspector of Schools.

With the Christmas Number of Life, published this week, is presented a phototype, "Charles Dickens Reading to his Daughters."

Her Majesty has again signified her approbation of the work of the Female School of Art by buying a life study in water colour. The annual exhibition will be held on the 22nd and 23rd instant.

A game combining amusement with instruction has been issued by Mr. John Banting Rogers, of St. Clement's House, Lombard-street. It is called "A Voyage Round the World," and is played on a chart, on which rocks, cyclones, and other impediments are marked, with ships for counters. The game is capable of several variations, and log-books are supplied for the purpose of marking.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the first week in December was 91,521, of whom 50,098 were in workhouses, and 40,426 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding week in the year 1879, these figures show a decrease of 750, but, as compared with 1878 and 1877, an increase of 8318 and 9538 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 869, of whom 664 were men, 174 women, and 31 children under sixteen.

The "Post Office London Directory for the Year 1881," being the eighty-second annual publication by Messrs. Kelly and Co., does not require fresh recommendation. Its several departments, the Street Directory, the Official, the Commercial, the Trades classified, the Court, the Law, Clerical, City, Banking, Assurance, Postage, Conveyance, and Press Directories, are familiarly known to the majority of Londoners. It is not, perhaps, sufficiently observed that beyond the limits of this work, including Chelsea and Kensington west, Bow and Blackheath east, Highbury and Holloway north, and Kennington south, recourse must be had to the Suburban Directory, which extends to twelve miles around the General Post Office. The Map of London is now mounted on linen, and will not be so liable to be torn out of the volume.

THE RECESS.

If there be wisdom in a multitude of counsellors, then should the frequent deliberations of Cabinet Ministers of late be productive of an infinite quantity of political sagacity. The little house in Downing-street has on several days this week been the cynosure of every eye which delights in furtive glimpses of her Majesty's Ministers. Imaginative public writers on Monday hastily jumped to the conclusion that Parliament would have to meet before Christmas, in consequence of the lawlessness which still obtains in certain parts of Ireland. They were wrong. Our hereditary and elected legislators will not be called upon to assemble at St. Stephen's until Jan. 6—for "business of the first importance," according to Mr. Gladstone: for "matters of moment," alliteratively says Lord Beaconsfield. Public opinion, with reason, assumes that the engrossing "business" and "matters" in question are closely connected with the unhappy condition of affairs in Ireland, the latest intelligence wherefrom will be found in another column.

Sir Hardinge Giffard, in a conciliatory speech at Norwood on Tuesday, so far differed from Lord Salisbury's satirical attacks on the Government that he suggested the co-operation of both parties to restore order in Ireland. Of the many other utterances of public men, the most noteworthy have been Lord Lytton's vigorous defence of his Afghan policy at a Volunteer gathering on Tuesday; Sir Charles Dilke's clear and thoughtful exposition of the foreign policy of the Government before his constituents in the new Kensington Town-hall on Monday evening; Mr. Fawcett's narration at Hackney on Tuesday of the success of his Penny Postage Stamp Savings Bank scheme; the characteristic criticisms passed by Mr. R. Bourke and Mr. James Lowther on Ministerial doings at Haddington and West Hartlepool on Monday; and Sir Wilfrid Lawson's sweeping condemnation of the House of Lords for opposing reform in Ireland.

Mr. Shaw-Lefevre, Mr. Adam's successor as First Commissioner of Works, was on Tuesday re-elected, without opposition, for Reading. The same day, Mr. J. Cropper (L.) and Mr. A. Harris (C.) were nominated for Kendal, the voting being fixed for Thursday. The other side of the picture was revealed at Evesham, where Mr. Lehmann was on Monday declared unseated for bribery, and where Mr. Hartland had next to undergo the ordeal of an inquisitorial inquiry.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

Mrs. Loyd-Lindsay distributed prizes to members of the Hon. Artillery Company, in the large hall of the Company, City-road, on the 9th inst. Colonel Loyd-Lindsay addressed the volunteers.

The annual presentation of prizes in connection with the London Irish Rifles, of which the Duke of Connaught is honorary Colonel and the Marquis of Donegall is Colonel Commandant, took place on the 10th inst. at St. James's Hall.

There were three distributions to important Metropolitan regiments, representing respectively the different arms of the force, on Saturday evening in London. First, in point of time as in seniority, was that of the 3rd Royal Middlesex Artillery, which, for the first time, was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. The prize distribution to the 19th Middlesex (Bloomsbury) Rifles took place at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street. Major General Higginson, commanding the home district, presided; and Colonel Dawson-Scott, commanding Royal Engineers for the Home District, distributed the prizes of the 1st Middlesex Engineers, at their head-quarters in Chelsea.

Lord Enfield, Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department, and hon. Colonel of the regiment, presided on Monday at the twentieth annual distribution of prizes to the North Middlesex Rifles, at St. Pancras Vestry-hall, and in the course of his remarks said, there are now something like half a million of men who have passed through the volunteer ranks, and at the present time the force numbers 206,410 enrolled members, out of which number 196,101 are efficient.

At a distribution of prizes to the 23rd Middlesex Volunteers, in St. James's Hall, on Tuesday, Lord Lytton spoke at some length on the Afghan war, and urged that England should not give up the political and military advantages which General Roberts and the others had won.

A useful suggestion was made on Tuesday at the dinner of the V battery of the Naval Artillery Volunteers at the Holborn Restaurant, Lieut. Charles E. Seth Smith being in the chair. Mr. John Pender, M.P., and Lord Ashley were among the visitors; and his Lordship threw out the hint to the authorities that Volunteer Batteries ought to be formed in every port, and that each should be instructed in torpedo warfare, so that in a few hours every harbour in the kingdom might be made impregnable with the celerity the Germans had lately shown, in his Lordship's presence, in placing torpedoes for the defence of Kiel.

A musical burlesque, entitled "The Merry Andria," founded on Terence's comedy of the "Andria," the Westminster play for this year, was performed last Saturday at the rooms of the Dilettante Club, Argyle-street, before a large audience. The principal character (Davus) was represented with much "go" by Miss Tiny White, who also spoke, or rather sang, the prologue, which was a comic song. Songs and dances sustained the liveliness of the little play, which was received with great laughter and applause. "Lady Audley's Secret," a drama by Mr. C. Hazlewood, founded on Miss Braddon's novel, followed.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge delivered judgment on Monday in the case of Mr. Dale, the result being that the application for release from custody was refused on all the points raised, and Mr. Dale is taken back to prison. It will be remembered that counsel for Mr. Dale rested their application on four main points—viz., that Lord Penzance was not entitled to exercise jurisdiction, inasmuch as he had not complied with the requirements of the Canons of 1603-4 by taking the prescribed oaths and signing his adherence to the Thirty-nine Articles; that the Bishop of Exeter could not legally act for both the Bishop of London and the Archbishop of Canterbury; that the monition and inhibition were not properly set out and were void by technical inaccuracy; and, lastly, that the Judge was not provided with any statutory power of enforcing his judgments. With relentless facility the Court set every one of these contentions aside. The Lord Chief Justice considered each argument of Mr. Dale's counsel in detail, and showed that it had no foundation in law. Mr. Justice Field said Lord Penzance had no alternative but to do as he had done, and had exercised the power which the Legislature intended he should exercise. Mr. Justice Manisty concluded his judgment by the expression of the hope that contumacious clerks in holy orders would consider whether they ought not to resign their benefices and become Nonconformists.—The case of Mr. Enraght followed that of Mr. Dale, with a similar result.

HOME NEWS.

The Government has granted a loan of £200,000 for the improvement of the port and harbour of Newry.

Dr. Andrew Clark has been elected to the office of consulting physician to the Chelsea Hospital for Women, and Mr. Jonathan Hutchinson, to the office of consulting surgeon.

Mr. H. W. Merry, Fellow and Tutor of Lincoln College, Oxford, has been elected Public Orator of the University, in succession to the late Mr. Dallin.

The Standard understands that the president and council of the Royal Geographical Society have under consideration the plans for an Arctic expedition.

The Charity Organisation Society held a meeting on Monday, and passed a resolution asking the Government for a rearrangement of the City Parochial Charities.

The annual illustrated number of the Publisher's Circular contains 108 pages of illustrations, in addition to a vast amount of information of great importance to publishers of all kinds.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat from the United States and Canada last week were considerably below those of the preceding week.

The working men of Derby have presented Mr. M. T. Bass, M.P., with a model of the free public library and museum which he recently presented to the town at a cost of £25,000.

Viscountess Folkestone gave a concert yesterday week at All Saints', Priory-grove, Wandsworth-road, in aid of the funds of the London and South-Western Railway Institute and Club.

The Christmas number of Home contains a capital ghost story by the editor, Mrs. Riddell; and contributions by Mrs. Oliphant, Miss Thackeray, the author of "John Halifax," Frederick Locker, and other authors of note.

Count Münster presided last week at the Freemasons' Tavern, at the annual festival of the German Society of Benevolence, which was established in 1817 for the relief of distressed Germans in London. The subscriptions amounted to £800.

Mr. William Jenkyns, of Aberdeen, has given to the Aberdeen University an endowment of £200 for a prize in Classical Philology in memory of his son, who lately perished at Cabul. The prize will be known as the Jenkyns Prize.

The Controller of the Post Office Savings Bank, replying to a correspondent, intimates that applications to invest in Government stock on behalf of minors under seven years of age cannot be entertained.

An address was given by Sir Richard Temple on the "Statistics of the Indian Empire," at the evening meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute, held on Tuesday at the Grosvenor Gallery Library.

Under the Act of Parliament recently obtained by the Corporation of Liverpool, they have decided to make the experiment of lighting a large portion of the city by electricity, and they have accordingly invited tenders for lighting all the important thoroughfares from Feb. 1 next.

Mr. C. M'Laren, M.P., presided at a meeting held yesterday week at the Dilettante Club, Argyle-street, in support of the claims of women to the Parliamentary franchise. The speakers included Miss Müller, of the London School Board, and Mrs. Ashton Dilke. A resolution in support of the object was passed, and a petition to the House of Commons was agreed to.

Last month the officers of the Fishmongers' Company seized at and near Billingsgate and on board boats lying off that market 33 tons 11 cwt. of fish as unfit for human food. Of this all but 3 cwt. arrived by land. The fish numbered 137,508, including 84 cod, 20 crabs, 1100 dabs, 2111 gurnets, 4490 haddocks, 400 herrings, 274 lobsters, 419 plaice, 280 skate, 118,400 smelts, and 9600 whiting. In addition, there were seized 15 barrels of anchovies, 134 of oysters, and 70 of sprats, 10 bags of cockles, 1 of oysters, 22 of periwinkles, and 1 of whelks, 124 lb. of eels, and 14 gallons of shrimps.

Last week 2461 births and 1398 deaths were registered in London. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 20 and the deaths no less than 418 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 12 from smallpox, 51 from measles, 61 from scarlet fever, 8 from diphtheria, 29 from whooping-cough, 9 from different forms of fever, and 16 from diarrhœa. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had been 367 and 334 in the two preceding weeks, further declined to 295 last week, and were 202 below the corrected weekly average: 169 resulted from bronchitis and 78 from pneumonia.

At the weekly meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Works, held yesterday week—Sir J. M. Hogg, M.P., in the chair—the board resolved to contribute £6400 towards the cost of an improvement to be carried out by the City Commissioners of Sewers in Lime-street and Fenchurch-street. Permission was given to the Vicar and churchwardens of St. Matthew's Church, Bayswater, for the re-erection of the church in St. Petersburgh-place. The drawings submitted by Mr. Sefton Parry for the construction of a new theatre on two plots in Northumberland-avenue were approved. They have received a return from their consulting chemist showing that the general illuminating power of gas throughout the metropolis during the past week was above the standard required by law.

General Sir F. Roberts was present yesterday week at a dinner given by the City Library Committee at the Albion Tavern, and, in responding to the toast of "The Army," said that the welcome given him would be received by his troops generally as a recognition of the services they had rendered in the field and the hardships they had undergone. The sympathy shown them had a material effect on the tone of our troops.—On Saturday the Dublin University Senate conferred the honorary degree of LL.D. upon General Roberts.—On Tuesday General Roberts was admitted to the freedom of the Merchant Taylors' Company, and was subsequently entertained at a banquet. Sir Frederick, in acknowledging the honour conferred on him, observed that it was by such rewards that soldiers were reminded that they were also citizens, and were identified with the glory of their country. Of the personal character of the Army he spoke highly. Lord Lytton also spoke.

At the meeting of the Royal Geographical Society on Monday, Captain Holdich, R.E., lately in charge of the surveys in Afghanistan, read a paper on the geographical results of the Afghan Campaign. Sir H. Rawlinson, the chairman, reminded the meeting, before the paper was proceeded with, that politics were not admitted into the discussions in that society. They would not therefore enter into the general question of Afghan policy, or the burning question of retaining or giving up Candahar. The gallant officer stated that from a commercial, political, or military standpoint, Candahar was the most important place in Afghanistan, but geographically it might be said to indicate the weak spot in the Afghan frontier. Compared with Candahar, Cabul was but an arsenal. In the discussion which ensued Sir Richard Temple alluded to the facilities which Afghanistan offered for the construction of military roads, and remarked that those facilities broke upon them a couple of years ago almost like a revelation.

Digitized by Google

A SELECTION OF BOOKS SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS and NEW-YEAR'S GIFTS,
Published by
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and CO.

SEVENTEENTH THOUSAND.
Two vols., 8vo, cloth, 24s.; or in morocco, £2 2s.,
THE LIFE AND WORK OF ST. PAUL.
By the Rev. Canon FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S., Author of "The Life of Christ."
Two vols., demy 8vo, cloth, 24s.; or in morocco, £2 2s.

TWENTY-EIGHTH EDITION.
CANON FARRAR'S LIFE OF CHRIST.
LIBRARY EDITION (28th Edition), two vols., 8vo, cloth, 24s.; or in morocco, £2 2s.
ILLUSTRATED EDITION, with 300 Illustrations, one vol., 4to, cloth, 21s.; calf or morocco, £2 2s.

Complete, in Five magnificent Volumes, royal 4to, cloth, £2 2s each; half morocco, £3 3s. each; or in morocco, £5 5s. each,
PICTURESQUE EUROPE. With 65 exquisite Steel Plates, from original drawings, and nearly 1000 Original Illustrations by the best artists, with descriptive letterpress.
"Nothing on so grand a scale has been planned before, nor anything, so far as we know, so well executed. . . . A single volume, indeed, of the set, constitutes a charming and valuable gift."—Spectator.

"A VERY STOREHOUSE OF ART."—The Times.
Now ready, price 10s. 6d.,
THE MAGAZINE OF ART. Volume III., with about 300 Illustrations by the first artists of the day, and Etching for Frontispiece. Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt.
The "Times" of Nov. 20, 1880, says:—
"Messrs. Cassell, Petter, Galpin, and Co. publish the third volume of their 'Magazine of Art.' The title is no misnomer, for the book, within a convenient compass, contains a very storehouse of art. The illustrations are, of course, numerous, ranging from the freest of etchings and woodcuts up to the most elaborate engravings, the frontispiece containing a particularly good etching after Bonnat. The letterpress is particularly good varied, being designed to suit all tastes, from the most to the least artistic."

Now ready, complete in Two Vols., demy 4to, cloth gilt, 12s. 6d. each, The INTERNATIONAL PORTRAIT GALLERY, each volume containing 20 Portraits in Colours, executed in the best style of chromo-lithography, with Biographies from authentic sources.

SCIENCE MADE INTERESTING.
Now ready, 384 pages, extra crown 4to, price 9s.,
SCIENCE FOR ALL. Yearly Volume for 1880. Edited by Dr. ROBERT BROWN, M.A., F.L.S. With about 350 Illustrations and Diagrams.
The "Athenæum" of Oct. 30, 1880, says:—
"Whatever branch of science a man may happen to be studying, he is sure to find something to his taste in turning over the pages of this work. After looking through the work we are disposed to think that, on the whole, each volume is an advance upon its predecessors, both in the character of the articles and in the excellence of the illustrations."

A CHARMING AND USEFUL GIFT BOOK.
Now ready, price 12s. 6d. each,
FAMILIAR WILD FLOWERS. First and Second Series. By F. E. HULME, F.L.S., F.S.A. Each Series is complete in one volume, and contains Forty full-page Coloured Plates, with descriptive text.
"The coloured figures are exquisitely beautiful: they are more like finished paintings than prints, and the appearance of the work is elegant throughout."—Gardener's Magazine.

A BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS GIFT BOOK.
Now ready, price 12s. 6d.,
FAMILIAR GARDEN FLOWERS. First Series. Complete in One Volume. By SHIRLEY HIBBERD, with 40 full-page Coloured Plates from original paintings by F. E. Hulme, F.L.S., F.S.A.
"Refined in colouring and admirably true to Nature are Mr. Hulme's drawings. . . . Mr. Hilderbrandt's just what is needful respecting the history and culture of each plant."—Graphic.

A BOOK FOR MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.
Now ready, price 5s.; post-free, 5s. 6d.,
WHAT GIRLS CAN DO. A Book for Mothers and Daughters. By PHILLIS BROWNE, Author of "A Year's Cookery," &c.
"Miss Browne gives many practical hints on all kinds of work, whether they be undertaken for duty, necessity, or pleasure."—The Times.

SEVENTH THOUSAND, cloth gilt, 5s.; post-free, 5s. 6d.,
A YEAR'S COOKERY.
By PHILLIS BROWNE.
"A year's cookery, with bills of fare for every day in the year, with directions for cooking, for marketing, and for making arrangements for the next day, makes up an invaluable present for young housekeepers."—Athenæum.

ERNEST GRISET'S GROTESQUE ILLUSTRATIONS OF ANIMAL LIFE.
Now ready, crown 4to, price 3s. 6d.,
THE FAVOURITE ALBUM OF FUN and FANCY. Illustrated throughout by ERNEST GRISET.
"The Illustrations alone should suffice to make its fortune. Nothing could be more comical than the attitudes and expressions of many of the animals."—Times.

A DELIGHTFUL BOOK FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.
Now ready, fcap 4to, cloth, gilt, 5s.,
TIM TRUMBLE'S "LITTLE MOTHER."
By C. L. MATEAUX. With Eighteen Illustrations by Giacomelli. Fcap 4to, 5s.
"The book is a charming one, and the illustrations of birds are as good as anything of the kind that we have seen."—The Standard.

A CHARMING BOOK ABOUT OUR ANIMAL FRIENDS.
Now ready, crown 4to, cloth, gilt, 5s.,
FAMILIAR FRIENDS. By OLIVE PATCH.
Illustrated throughout.
"The illustrations are remarkable for the life and vigour displayed in the drawing of animals and figures."—Graphic.
"A charming book, charmingly illustrated."—Derby Mercury.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW-YEAR'S GIFTS, PRIZES, REWARDS, &c.
COMPLETE CATALOGUES of CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and CO.'S PUBLICATIONS, containing a List of several Hundred Volumes, suitable for Presentation, sent post-free on application to
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

A NEW ILLUSTRATED SHAKSPERE.
In Monthly Parts, price 7d.,
THE ROYAL SHAKSPERE, with FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS ON STEEL AND WOOD, from Original Designs by F. Dicksee, F. Barnard, A. Hopkins, J. D. Watson, V. W. Bromley, C. Green, J. Mahl, Ralston, &c.
The Royal Shakspere (Part 1 ready Dec. 21) will be a Complete Edition of the great dramatist's Plays and Poems, arranged in chronological order from the Text of the eminent Shakspearian scholar, Professor Delius. "Edward III." and "The Two Noble Kinsmen" will be included. There will also be an Introduction and Life of Shakspere by Mr. F. J. FURNIVAL, Founder and Director of the New Shakspere Society.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

Ready Dec. 21, price 1s.,
THE MAGAZINE OF ART for JANUARY (being Part 3 of the Enlarged Series), containing:—
VANDYCK PAINTING THE CHILDREN OF CHARLES I. From the Picture by Hermann Schneider. Front. spiece.
TREASURE-HOUSES OF ART—Trentham Hall. With Five Illustrations.
MR. ALMA-TADEMA SEVEN YEARS AGO AND NOW. With Two Illustrations.
THE DECORATION OF THE HOME. With Four Illustrations.
THE SPECIAL EXHIBITION OF SCOTTISH ART. With Three Illustrations.
FRANCIS ARAGO.
BUNDLES OF RUE: LIVES OF ARTISTS RECENTLY DECEASED. ELIJAH WALTON, F.G.S. With Illustration.
EBERS' "EGYPT." With Two Illustrations.
LE EXPOSITION NATIONALE AT BRUSSELS. With Four Illustrations.
"A SMILE OF COMPLACENCY."
THE EASEL IN THE FIELD.
WOOD CARVING. With Four Illustrations.
OUR LIVING ARTISTS—Henry William Banks Davis, R.A. With Portrait and Two Illustrations.
ON THE PROPER LIMITS AND FUNCTIONS OF THE GROTESQUE IN ART.
"THE FINISHING TOUCH."
ART NOTES.
The large demand for the DECEMBER PART of the MAGAZINE OF ART necessitated a reprint on the day of publication, and the SECOND EDITION of the December Part, together with the FOURTH EDITION of the NOVEMBER PART, are now on sale at all Booksellers.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

ASK YOUR BOOKSELLER
TO SHOW YOU
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.
Monthly. Price One Shilling.

SOME OF THE FEATURES OF THE MAGAZINE.
The value of this Magazine has been aptly expressed in the statement of Charles Francis Adams, jun., one of the most eminent of American publicists. He says:—
"If I could have but one work for a public library, I would select a complete set of 'Harper's Magazine;'" concerning which he adds, "It is always varied, always good, always improving, and always reflecting with the utmost skill the average popular demand."
THE FICTION.—Besides Novelettes and short Stories, Two Novels by authors of the highest standing are always running in the Magazine; for instance, in the December (1880) Number we find the commencement of a New Novel by Mr. Thomas Hardy, author of "Far from the Madding Crowd," and of a New Novel by Constance Fenimore Woolson.
THE ILLUSTRATIONS.—In every Number of the Magazine appear a large number, sometimes nearly 100, of the finest Wood Engravings which it is possible to produce of drawings by the best English and American Artists; for instance, Du Maurier illustrates Mr. Hardy's story.
ARTICLES, ESSAYS, and POEMS of the most varied kind, and for the most part Illustrated, appear from month to month; and not the least interesting features will be found under the headings:—
EDITOR'S EASY CHAIR,
EDITOR'S LITERARY RECORD,
EDITOR'S HISTORICAL RECORD, and
EDITOR'S DRAWER OF HUMOUR.
The DECEMBER Number commences the Volume.
The JANUARY Number will be Issued before Christmas.

ASK YOUR BOOKSELLER
TO SHOW YOU
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.
Published by SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, SEARLE, and RIVINGTON.

DR. SMILES'S WORKS.
Now ready, Twentieth Thousand,
DUTY; With Illustrations of Courage, Patience, and Endurance. Post 8vo, 6s.
Also,
SELF-HELP; With Illustrations of Conduct and Perseverance. 6s.
CHARACTER: A Book of Noble Characteristics. 6s.
THRIFT: A Book of Domestic Counsel. 6s.
INDUSTRIAL BIOGRAPHY: Iron Workers and Tool Makers. 6s.
LIVES OF THE ENGINEERS. 5 vols., 7s. 6d. each.
THE HUGUENOTS: Their Settlements, Churches, and Industries in England and Ireland. 7s. 6d.
JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle-street.

Just published, in 1 vol., large 4to, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price Two Guineas,
SWITZERLAND: Its Scenery and Its People, Pictorially Represented by Eminent Swiss and German Artists. With Historical and Descriptive Texts, based on the German of Dr. Gsell-fels. Illustrated by about 300 Engravings, printed in the text, and Sixty Full-Page Pictures, sixteen of which are in Tints.—"One of the most richly illustrated books of the class."—Athenæum.
BLACKIE and SON, 49 and 50, Old Bailey.

FOUR POPULAR NOVELS.
THE MYSTERY IN PALACE GARDENS. By Mrs. RIDDELL. 3 vols.
FOLLY MORRISON. By FRANK BARRETT. 3 vols.
THE MYSTERIES OF HERON DYKE. By the Author of "In the Dead of Night." 3 vols.
ADAM AND EVE. By Mrs. PARR. 3 vols.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

COURT NETHERLEIGH,
Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S New Illustrated Serial Story, will commence in the JANUARY NUMBER
THE ARGOSY,
PUBLISHED DECEMBER 21.
The JANUARY NUMBER of the ARGOSY will also contain a JOHNNY LUDLOW Story; an Illustrated Paper on the New Forest, by Charles W. Wood; and various other contributions.
"The 'Argosy' is laden with golden grains of amusement. There is no Monthly Magazine which gives greater pleasure. After the labours of professional or business occupation it is gratifying to have this Monthly to hand and muse over."—Oxford University Herald.
"Bright and charming."—South Journal.
"The 'Argosy' sails merrily."—Literary World.
"Best and cheapest of our magazines."—Standard.
"Replete with excellent fiction."—Welshman.
Sixpence, Monthly.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

On the 21st inst., price One Shilling,
THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for JANUARY.
CONTENTS.
The Comet of a Season. By Justin McCarthy, M.P.
The "Fifteen" Puzzle. By Richard A. Proctor.
The Disgowned Jingo. By the Member for the Chiltern Hundreds.
On a Cattle Station. By Redspinner.
The Invincible Armada. By Alex. Charles Ewald, F.S.A.
Some Animal Biographies. By Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E.
Sir Thomas Dewes. By Major F. Duncan.
Bishop's Transcripts. By John Amphlett.
Science Notes. By W. Mattieu Williams.
Table Talk. By Sylvanus Urban.
Now ready, Vol. CCXLIX. (July to December), cloth extra, price 8s. 6d.

Price One Shilling, Illustrated,
BELGRAVIA for JANUARY.
CONTENTS.
Joseph's Coat. By D. Christie Murray. Illustrated by Fred. Barnard.
Does Writing Pay? The Confessions of an Author.
"Rigged with Curses Dark." By Mrs. Alfred Hunt.
Monaco and Monte Carlo. By J. Arbuthnot Wilson.
Rambles about Eton. By Alfred Rimmer. Illustrated by F. S. Walker and the Author.
Archery in Scotland. By Robert Macgregor.
A Dreadful Case. By William Jameson.
The Dying Trees in Kensington Gardens. By W. Mattieu Williams.
A Romance of the Nineteenth Century. By W. H. Mallock.
Now ready, Vol. XLII., cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.
CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

ALL MOTHERS SHOULD READ
MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL and CHILDREN'S DRESS. Price 6d.; by post, 8d.
Published on the 15th of each Month.

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL presents a COLOURED ALMANAC with the present Number.

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL. The DECEMBER Number contains cut-out Paper Pattern of a Paletot for a Girl of Twelve; a Beautifully Coloured Fashion-Plate; the Silkworm's Gift. Design for Embroidering a Pair of Bath Slippers; Diagram Sheet, containing—1. The Sabina Casaque and Panic; 2. the Maxwell Ulster, and the Lilias Pelisse. Costumes, Toilettes, Mantles, Chapeaux, and Parures, for Ladies. Costumes, Paletots and Hats for Boys and Girls. Fashions for Children of Les Grands Magazins du Louvre, Paris. Needlework—Design for a Mat in Crochet, Band in Berlin Wool Work, Crochet, Edging, &c. Myra's Almanac, 1881.

Subscriptions: Yearly, 8s.; Half-yearly, 4s.
GOUBAUD and SON,
20 and 40, Bedford-street, London, W.C.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

MESSRS. MACMILLAN and CO.'S LIST.
LIFE OF WILLIAM BLAKE. With Selections from his Poems and other Writings. Illustrated from Blake's own Works. By ALEXANDER GILCHRIST. A New and Enlarged Edition. With additional Letters and a Memoir of the Author. 2 vols., medium 8vo, £2 2s.
"One of the most beautiful and interesting books of the season."—Daily News.

This day, crown 8vo, 6s.,
THE LIFE'S WORK IN IRELAND OF A LANDLORD WHO TRIED TO DO HIS DUTY.
By W. BENCE JONES, of Lisselane.

Immediately, crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.,
NEW VIEWS ON IRELAND, IRISH LAW, GRIEVANCES, AND REMEDIES.
By CHARLES RUSSELL, Q.C., M.P.

Now ready, crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.,
THE IRISH LAND LAWS. By ALEXANDER G. RICHEY, Q.C., LL.D., Deputy Regius Professor of Feudal and English Law in the University of Dublin.
"We can recommend this little book to all who write, speak, or think seriously upon this question, in or out of Parliament."—The Times.
"This book cannot fail to do good."—St. James's Gazette.

With Illustrations by Walter Crane, globe 8vo, 4s. 6d.,
A CHRISTMAS CHILD: A Sketch of a Boy-Life. By Mrs. MOLESWORTH, Author of "Carrots," "The Cuckoo Clock," &c.
"A very sweet and tenderly drawn sketch, with life and reality manifest throughout."—Pall Mall Gazette.

With Illustrations by W. J. Hennessy, globe 8vo, 4s. 6d.,
THE WHITE RAT, and some other Stories. By Lady BARKER.
"Worthy to take its place on every nursery bookshelf."—John Bull.

PANSIE'S FLOUR-BIN. By the Author of "When I was a Little Girl," &c.
"The best praise that we can give to this little romance is to say that it is really worthy to be classed with 'Alice in Wonderland,' and in some respects is better adapted to juvenile comprehension."—Morning Post.
Messrs. Macmillan and Co.'s Illustrated Catalogues of Gift and Presentation Books are now ready, and may be had on application.
MACMILLAN and Co., London.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
JEANETTE. By MARY C. ROWSELL, Author of "Love Loyal," &c.
GERALDINE AND HER SUITORS. By Mrs. SIMPSON, Author of "Winnie's History," &c.
LITTLE PANSY. By Mrs. RANDOLPH.
DIMPLETHORPE. By the Author of "St. Olave's."
STRICTLY TIED UP.
ROY AND VIOLA. By Mrs. FORRESTER.
FIXED AS FATE. By Mrs. HOUSTOUN, Author of "Recommended to Mercy." 3 vols. [Just ready.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR A BOY.
Ready this day, 734 pp., with upwards of 600 Illustrations, price 8s. 6d., cloth (postage, 7d.),
THE BOY'S OWN BOOK. A Complete Encyclopædia of Sports and Pastimes. A New, Revised, and Enlarged Edition, with additional Illustrations.
"Mr. Lackwood's 'Boy's Own Book' is the real original work, but in a new and much enlarged form. To name it is to praise it."—Saturday Review.
CROSBY LOCKWOOD and Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, London, E.C.

Just published, complete in Twelve Vols., or Six Double Vols., handsomely bound, 30s., post-free,
THINGS NOT GENERALLY KNOWN.
By JOHN TIMBS, F.S.A. This collection of the far-famed "Encyclopædic Varieties" of the late learned and indefatigable antiquarian, forms an inexhaustible mine of reading—useful, entertaining, instructive, and marvellous—for long winter evenings and summer days.
"Punch" says:—"It is as full of information as a pomegranate is full of seed."
The volumes are sold separately as follows:—
MISCELLANIES, 2s. 6d.; MANNERS, CUSTOMS, &c., 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.
CURIOSITIES OF SCIENCE. Two vols., 2s. 6d. each; or in one vol. 5s.
CURIOSITIES OF HISTORY. 2s. 6d. POPULAR ERRORS EXPLAINED. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.
NOTABLE THINGS OF OUR TIME. 2s. 6d.
THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.
A GARLAND FOR THE YEAR. 2s. 6d.
KNOWLEDGE FOR THE TIME. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.
MYSTERIES OF LIFE, DEATH, AND FUTURITY. 2s. 6d. PREDICTIONS REALISED IN MODERN TIMES. 2s. 6d.; or in one vol., 5s.
CROSBY LOCKWOOD, & Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, London, E.C.

AN ENTIRELY NEW WORK BY MRS. HOLMAN HUNT.
Just ready, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.,
CHILDREN AT JERUSALEM: a Sketch of Modern Life in Syria. By Mrs. HOLMAN HUNT.
With Frontispiece by the Author.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

Just published, Illustrated, post-free, 1s. 8d.,
DECORATIVE PAINTING.
A Practical Guide to Decorating the Walls of any Apartment, Painting Panels, Screens, and Terra Cotta. By W. B. HARRISON.—WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London,

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

THE SPEAKING PICTURE-BOOK.
A CAPITAL CHRISTMAS PRESENT.
LARGE EDITION: containing the Voices and Pictures of the Cock, Donkey, Cow, Lamb, Robin Redbreast, Cuckoo, Goat, and Papa and Mama, in nicely carved box, picture on lid; size, 14 in. × 11 in. × 2½ in.
Complete 21s.
SMALL EDITION: containing the Voices and Pictures of Cow, Lamb, Robin Redbreast, and Papa and Mama; or Goat, Cuckoo, Donkey, Cock and Chickens, in paper case; size, 8½ in. × 6¾ in. × 1½ in.
Complete 10s. 6d.
Sent, carriage-paid, to any part of United Kingdom on receipt of P.O.O. for above amount.
Address—W. J. EVERTON,
111, De Beauvoir-road,
Dalston, London.

8vo pp. 724, cloth, 8s.; or half bound, 10s. 6d.,
HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC PHYSICIAN. By Drs. PULTE and EPPS.
Revised, with important additions and many new remedies, by WASHINGTON EPPS, L.R.C.P.
CONTENTS:—General Diseases—Casual Diseases—Cutaneous Diseases—Fevers—Affections of the Mind—the Head—the Eyes—the Ears—the Nose—the Face, Lips, and Jaws—the Teeth, Gums, and Mouth—the Windpipe and Chest—the Stomach and Bowels—the Urinary and Genital Organs—Diseases of Women—Treatment of Children—Anatomy and Physiology—Hygiene and Hydropathy—Materia Medica—Domestic Surgery—Medical and Surgical Appliances—Dislocations and Luxations—Fractures.
London: JAMES EPPS and Co., 48, Threadneedle-street.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free. Two Stamps.
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author.
RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s.
London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

One Shilling; post-free, 1s. 3d.,
THE SHOWMAN'S PANORAMA.
By CODLIN and SHORT.
A Selection of the most Humorous Drawings in "The Showman," with Codlin's Comments.
Introduction by GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA.

[Mr. Sala says, in his entertaining Introduction:—
"I have many a time and oft glanced with much gleeful contentment on (these) literary and graphic drolleries. . . . In surveying these waggeries I have always been struck by one of their most pleasantly characteristic features—that the 'Lunaments' are always devoid of the faintest spark of malice or illnature."]

Now ready.
Order of any Bookseller.
Published by THOMAS FOX.
10, Milford-lane, Strand, London, W.C.

THE CARDINAL ARBISHOP: His Romantic Career and Tragic Fate. In Twenty-nine Cantos. By Colonel COLOMB. Price 5s.
C. KEGAN PAUL and Co., 1, Paternoster-square.

SAVE TIME and MONEY by asking your bookseller for LETTS'S Illustrated Catalogue of Diaries and Time-Saving Manufactures and Publications.
LETTS'S DIARIES are the best, the cheapest, the most universal. Hundreds of thousands use them.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease.
Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

Fourth Edition, cloth, post-free, 13 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Homœopathy.
"A clever expose of the system."
G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES.
AUSTRALASIAN AGENCY and BANKING CORPORATION (Limited).
Capital £1,250,000. In 125,000 Shares of £10 each.
Subscribed in the Australian Colonies, £962,350; in London, £200,000. Reserve Fund, £25,000.
LONDON DIRECTORS:
Abraham Scott, Esq. | Harry Hankey Dobree, Esq.
Frank C. Capel, Esq. | Joseph Cockfield, Dimsdale, Esq.
BANKERS:
Messrs. Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard, and Dimsdales.
SOLICITORS:
Messrs. Freshfields and Williams.
The Company are now issuing Debentures at the above rate for five, six, and seven years. Forms of application can be obtained at the Office of the Company, 6½, Austin Friars.

SUN FIRE OFFICE.
Threadneedle-street, E.C. Charing-cross.
Oxford-street (corner of Vere-street), W.
Established 1710.
Home and Foreign Insurances Effected.
Sum insured in 1879, £262,492,461.
FRANCIS B. RELTON, Secretary.

HOMŒOPATHIC Home Hospital (Select) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-rd., Surrey. Estd. 1857. A Home for the Cure of Internal and External Tumours and other Diseases of Women without cutting. Treatise of successful cures post-free. Physicians—David Jones, M.D.; Horace Lowther, L.R.C.P. Dr. Jones attends at his residence, 15, Welbeck-street, London, daily, 11 till 1 (except Tuesday and Friday). Dr. Lowther attends daily, 9 till 11, at Bolton House, where, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and evenings, the fee is 2s. 6d.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!!—250 lovely embossed Scraps, Flowers, Fruit, Figures, Birds, &c., 1s. 1½d.; same number, much larger, 2s. 3d.; post-free. Cheapest and best ever offered.
GEO. SPALDING and CO., Fine Art Importers, Ipswich.

NAINEE TAL; Before and After the Great Landslip. By SACHE, the well-known Indian Photographer. Views, 12 by 10, 21s. the set of four.—Apply to Messrs. BOVEINGTON and CO., 63, Aldersgate-street, E.C.

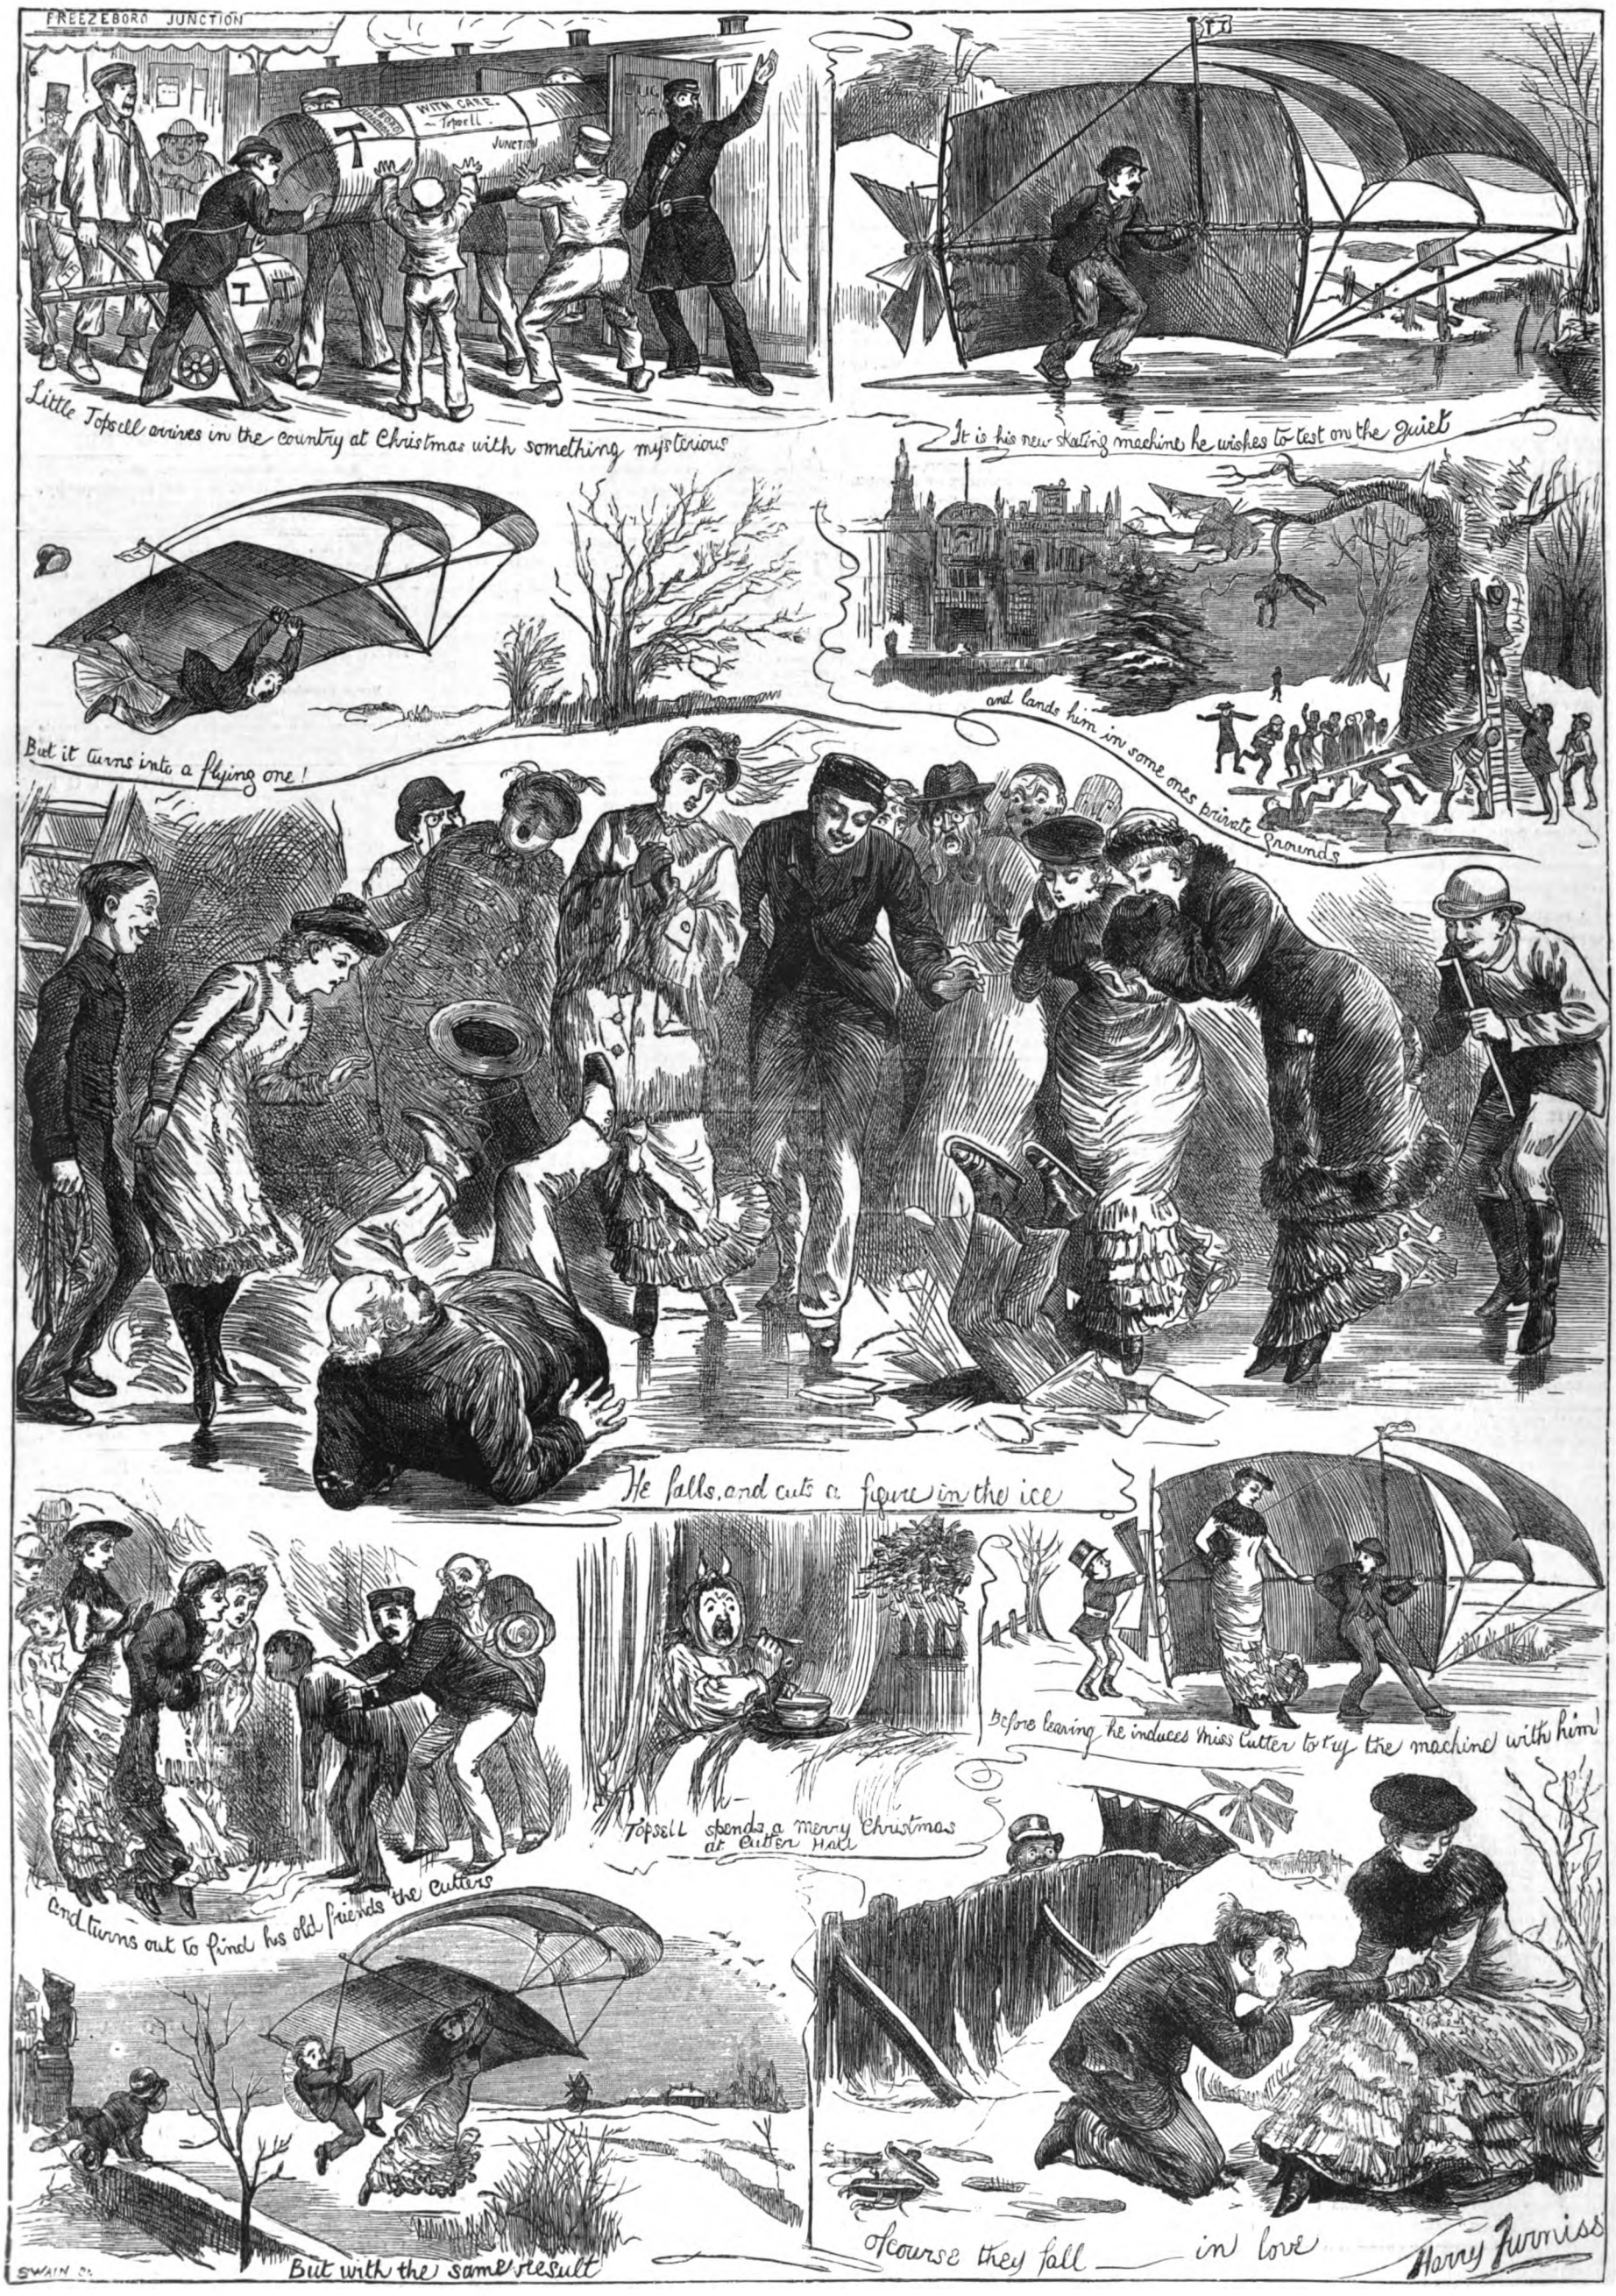
CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 26s. and 20s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie.
An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHY NOT MAKE YOUR OWN LANTERN SLIDES?
(TRANSFER PROCESS.)
A Box containing a sheet of Twelve 3¼-inch VIEWS, Glasses, Roller, Brushes, Varnishes, New Frame, Masks, and Book containing full Instructions, 14s. Particulars and Price-Lists post-free.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

EAU DE COLOGNE.—The Best and only Genuine, invented 1695, manufactured by JOHANN ANTON FARINA, Zur Stadt, Mailand, Cologne-on-the-Rhine. By appointment Purveyor to several Royal and Imperial Courts, and owner of the Original Recipe. Prize Medals: Düsseldorf, 1852; Trier, 1854; Paris, 1855; London, 1862; Stettin, 1865; Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; and the only State Medal awarded at the Düsseldorf Exhibition, 1880. Sole Agents for Great Britain: ZERKOWSKY and REIMERS, 1, Finsbury-square, London, E.C. Purchasers should ask for the Eau de Cologne manufactured by Johann Anton Farina (Red and Blue Label), as this is the Best and only Genuine.



NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C., London. Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

PRATT'S WATER PAD TRUSSES are the
MOST EFFECTUAL CURE FOR RUPTURES.
PRATT'S ELASTIC STOCKINGS,
for VARICOSE VEINS, &c.
J. E. PRATT,
Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

FITS.—EPILEPSY, or FALLING SICKNESS.—SENSATIONS, GIDDINESS, FAINTS.—A Pamphlet addressed to sufferers from these distressing complaints, explaining their treatment and complete Cure. By a Physician of 25 years' experience. Pamphlet gratis and post-free from Mr. WILLIAMS, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park, London.

Digitized by Google

"A HAPPY CHRISTMAS IN THE COUNTRY," AS IT WAS SPENT BY LITTLE TOPSELL. DRAWN BY H. FURNISS.

Digitized by Google

THE LATE LIEUTENANT W. P. L. HEYLAND, R.N.

The death of this esteemed naval officer, serving on board H.M.S. Minotaur, in the Channel Squadron, has occasioned much regret. While crossing from Queenstown to Vigo, the squadron encountered terrific weather. On the 25th ult. it was deemed prudent to take in the jibbooms, in consequence of the excessive pitching. While assisting in this, a seaman was washed overboard from the Minotaur. Life-buoys and lines were thrown to him, and Lieutenant Heyland sprang off the poop with a line and reached the man, who had already gained a buoy. Mr. Heyland passed him the end, and they were both being hauled in, when, unhappily, Mr. Heyland was struck by the ship's stern, and fell back stunned. He instantly sank, and was not again seen. Mr. Heyland had received the bronze and silver medals of the Humane Society for saving other lives. An official letter from Vice-Admiral Hood describes the manner in which, by "a most gallant act," this officer lost his own life, as above narrated.

The Portrait is from a photograph by Messrs. Symonds and Co., of Portsmouth.

THE LATE LIEUTENANT W. P. L. HEYLAND, R.N.

THE YORKSHIRE COLLEGE, LEEDS.

This college was founded in 1874. It supplies for Yorkshire the kind of higher education which Owens College, Manchester, provides for Lancashire, together with instruction in such branches of technology as are of the greatest practical value in Yorkshire. It has also a department of medicine, in conjunction with the Leeds Medical School. It gives theoretical and practical training in civil and mechanical engineering, coal-mining, weaving and designing woollen and cotton manufactures, and dyeing. The teaching staff includes seven professors, two lecturers, three chief instructors, and eleven assistants. The classes and laboratories are open to both sexes. We learn that in many cases the lady students have taken the first places in examinations. The total number in the day classes during the last session was 586, in addition to which there are evening students; and evening lectures of a more popular kind are occasionally delivered, some to large audiences. The Professors also lecture in other Yorkshire towns.

The Yorkshire College needing a permanent and convenient habitation at Leeds, a building site, three acres and a half in extent, was purchased at a cost of £13,000. On part of this site the Clothworkers' Guild of London, which has assumed the maintenance of the textile industries and dyeing departments at an annual cost of £1250, has erected four blocks of handsome and well-lighted buildings. It has endowed and furnished them with the most approved machinery and teaching appliances, the whole at a total cost of £15,000. The main block contains, on the ground floor, a class-room, with desks and seats for ninety students, and a room of similar size fitted up with thirty small hand-looms. On the first floor are a museum for the department, the instructors' private rooms, the students' common room, and a drawing office. The second block consists of a weaving-shed, 80 ft. long by 36 ft. wide, the roof lighted from the north, and containing fifteen large hand-looms and six power-looms; adjoining the shed is the engine-house, containing a 3½-horse power gas engine. The third block is devoted to dyeing. It concontains a dye-house, fitted with 120 steam-heated dyeing vessels for students engaged in practical dyeing. A smaller apartment is furnished as a chemical store and weighing room. A detached lavatory constitutes the fourth block. The funds of the college being appropriated in maintaining the teaching work, a special building fund is now being raised for the erection of a further large section of buildings sufficient to accommodate all the other existing departments.

The opening of the new buildings, on Friday, the 3rd inst., was presided over by Lord Frederick Cavendish, M.P., and was attended by the Master of the Clothworkers' Company and by Sir Edward Baines, who has requested that the £3000, subscribed for a personal memorial to himself, may be given to this college; Sir Charles Reed, M.P., and Mr. Mundella, M.P., also took part in these proceedings.

There are 6700 candidates for the Cambridge University local examinations this month, 4077 being boys and 2693 girls.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS IN THE COUNTRY.

The farcical fancy of a Comic Artist, on the opposite page, has ventured upon a flight of invention which can only be tolerated in the season of Christmas Extravaganzas. We have decided, however, to submit it to the indulgence of holiday readers, in the hope that they may enjoy a few minutes' harmless entertainment at the expense of Mr. Titus Topsell, leaving to him the patent and sole responsibility of his "new skating machine," as he had to endure the terrific consequences of a personal experiment, tried in a high wind over the neighbourhood of Cutter Hall, Freezeborough, the abode of some hospitable friends. It will be remembered, we trust, by readers of this Journal, that last winter, on Jan. 31, we gave an Illustration of "Sailing on Skates," which is a sport recently introduced from Norway or Canada into this country, and some account of which had previously appeared in the Field newspaper. By the contrivance of one or two skaters—a lady and gentleman could do it together, if so inclined—holding up a piece of canvass, 7 ft. by 5 ft. in size, stretched upon a light framework, they may, with a favouring breeze, find themselves carried at great speed over the ice, with the slightest exertion of their own strength. Now Mr. Titus Topsell, whose yachting experiences, we must again remind our readers, were humorously delineated by the pencil of Mr. Harry Furniss on Aug. 21 of this year, seems to have also become emulous of this novel practice of ice-sailing, and to have constructed a special machine for the purpose. He arrives with it, packed in a great bundle, at the Freezeborough railway station, and goes forth alone to try its working powers. We observe that it is furnished with some additions and improvements, a jib-boom with sprit-sails, and a steering-rudder or screw-propeller, whichever it may be, at the aft end of the horizontal pole. It has, indeed, been rendered only too powerful; for it proves to be a flying-machine—a kite, of such irresistible capability that poor little Topsell is lifted up into the air, and is whirled away, over the meadows and hamlets of Frostyshire, till the wind lulls suddenly and drops him in somebody's private grounds. His fall, to be sure, is upon no solid ground, but at first upon the branch of a tree, and from that to the frozen surface of a pond; into which, crashing through the ice, he descends head foremost; but he is soon dragged out, not quite so dead as might be expected, by an amazed family party, with their Christmas visitors, who sojourn at Cutter Hall. It is well for Mr. Topsell that he has fallen, literally fallen, into such kind and gentle hands as the Cutters, some of whom are his old acquaintance, having been with him on board the yacht, when he got his ducking in the sea. They nurse him carefully, sending up gruel to the patient in bed on Christmas Day, till he has been cured of a very bad cold, and is disposed once more to make trial of his skating ship. We now perceive, with no small anxiety, that Miss Cutter is persuaded to embark along with him him on this perilous voyage. They are a pair of rash young persons, and everybody knows what their fate is sure to be. "Of course they fall—in love." We wish them safely out of it, or in it, so far as this can make them happy.

"REBEKAH AT THE WELL."

How often has not this subject been painted before this present version of it by Mr. Frederick Goodall, R.A., which we engrave from the Exhibition at the French Gallery? By painters mediæval and modern, English and foreign, the primitive wooing of Rebekah by Isaac has ever been a favourite theme. By Mr. Goodall himself it had already been treated in a beautiful picture, well known by the engraving, in which, however, he chose a later moment of the Biblical idyll for representation—the moment when the servant of Isaac, in an attitude of Oriental obeisance, is proffering the rich presents of the patriarch, his master. Yet often, and variously as the subject has been dealt with, this present illustration strikes us as novel and fresh, if only on account of the appropriate simplicity of the conception, and the entirely Eastern character of the type, costume, and locality depicted. Rebekah is here seen as the servant of Isaac found her, but before he has saluted her. That she discerns his approach is, however, imaginatively suggested by the involuntary gesture of maidenly modesty with which she seeks to draw her falling head-gear more closely over her face. That face in its dark rich tinge, as well as in its character of beauty, is such as we naturally associate with the sunny Orient; it has not the pallor of other female faces from the same clime, as rendered by the same artist. Her costume, her water-jars, and the well, with its domical roof, are, or at least the latter are, precisely what Mr. Goodall has seen in his journeys to the Holy Land. But this realism, or fidelity to contemporary facts which are in themselves pictorial, and possess all the pure simplicity of historical or monumental art, so far from repressing, rather stimulates the imagination. For so unchangeable, we know, is the East, that we may safely say to ourselves that as stands this, if you will, modern Syrian maiden beside a village well, with her hand raised to veil her countenance from a passer-by or stranger Frank, so stood the future mother of Israel when she saw the servant of her lord drawing nigh, thousands of years back in the dim Past.

A bazaar of a somewhat novel kind was opened by Lady Bolsover at Nottingham on Thursday week. It is for the benefit of the funds of the Town and County Social Guild, an institution which was formed some years ago for the purpose of uniting various charitable and philanthropic agencies at work in the district. The Albert Hall, in which the bazaar is held, has been made to represent a street of the "olden time." On each side of the hall is scenery representing a row of old-fashioned houses of two storeys, the lower of which is used for the stalls, while at one end of the hall stands a feudal castle and at the other end an Elizabethan mansion. The ladies presiding at the stalls are dressed in costumes of a past age. Besides the Baroness Bolsover, there were present at the opening ceremony the Duke of Portland, the Duke and Duchess of St. Albans, Colonel Seeley, M.P., Sir James Oldknow, the Mayor and Sheriff of Nottingham, and a large number of the leading townspeople.

NEW BUILDINGS OF THE YORKSHIRE COLLEGE, LEEDS.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

HINTS TO TEACHERS ON SINGING, written in a familiar style for all engaged in tuition. By CIRO PINSUTI. Post-free for 12 stamps.
ROBERT COCKS and Co.

YOU SHALL STEER. Song. By CIRO PINSUTI. Post-free for 18 stamps.
ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HENRY SMART'S two Popular Vocal Duets for Soprano and Contralto. "Hark! the Goat Bells Ringing," and "The Twilight Hour has Come." 4s. each; free by post at half price in stamps.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

O, FAIR DOVE. Melody (by A. S. GATTY). Transcribed for the Pianoforte by Brinley Richards. 3s.; post-free, 18 stamps. The Song, 24 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ECHOES OF LUCERNE. One of BRINLEY RICHARDS'S happiest Transcriptions. Post-free for 24 stamps.—ROBERT COCKS and Co.

RETURNING SAILS. New Song. By A. J. CALDICOTT. No. 1, in F; No. 2, in A flat. Post-free for 18 stamps.—ROBERT COCKS and Co.

TELL HIM I LOVE HIM YET. Song. Poetry by W. M. Praed; Music by ALFRED SCOTT GATTY. 3s.; post-free, 18 stamps. "One of the sweetest and purest melodies which has been written by Mr. Gatty."—Vide The Standard.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

A SINGING QUADRILLE for the Pianoforte. Composed by COTSFORD DICK. Beautifully Illustrated. With Song and Dance, affording considerable amusement. Post-free for 24 stamps.—ROBERT COCKS and Co.

VALLEY ECHOES. Six New Pieces for the Pianoforte. Composed by WILLIAM SMALLWOOD. Beautifully Illustrated. No. 1. Valley of the Rhine. No. 2. Tyrol. No. 3. Bonca, Naples. No. 4. Dhruim. No. 5. Festiniog, &c. No. 6. California. 3s. each; post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLE'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready.
Catalogues and all particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LAST PUBLICATION.
FIFTEEN MELODIES OF SCHUBERT.
Transcribed for the Pianoforte.
Charming short pieces, specially adapted for teaching.
Price 2s. each; or, handsomely bound, 15s. net.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, Sole Agents for the Dominion Organ Company, Canada.
New Organ, "PRINCESS LOUISE," the best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom,
FORSYTH BROTHERS, Manchester and London.

POPULAR PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS. By FREDERIC N. LOHR.
FLEUR-DE-LIS. A Mazurka de Salon. Price 4s. (Second Thousand).
GAVOTTE in G. Price 3s.
MAUD. A Romance. Price 3s.
TWILIGHT. An Idyll. Price 3s.
FORSYTH Bros., 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

Now ready,
THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST
("L'Enfance du Christ").
By HERLIOZ.
Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Hallé.
Price 5s. net, paper; 7s. net, bound.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

MUSCAT'S NEW POLKA.
TIT-FOR-TAT POLKA. By H. S. MUSCAT. With Illustrated Title by Packer. Sent post-free 2s.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

LAMOTHE'S NEW VALSE.
PERLES DE LA MER VALSE. By GEORGES LAMOTHE. Beautifully Illustrated by Packer. Sent post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

A PRETTY SEASONABLE PRESENT.
MERRY CHRISTMAS SCHOTTISCHE. By F. BERNARD. Beautifully Illustrated. Sent post-free, 1s. 6d.—DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

THE DREAM OF PILATE'S WIFE. Song for Contralto. By F. E. WEATHERLY and W. C. LEVEY. Key C, compass B to E. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

Eighth Thousand.
OUR JACK'S COME HOME TO-DAY. Baritone Song. By W. J. DEVERS. Post-free, 2s.
REID BROS., 180, Oxford-street, London.

ONLY CORRECT EDITION.
BABY MINE ("The Sailor's Letter"). By JOHNSTON; Words by Dr. Mackay. Post-free, 1s. 6d.
REID BROS., 180, Oxford-street, London.

ONE MORN IN MAY. New Waltz Song. By A. REICHARDT, Composer of "Love's Request," &c. Sung by Miss Annie Marriott. "Singularly bright and sparkling, and the accompaniment, simple though it be, is scientifically and harmoniously written."—Lloyd's News. Also, by the same Composer, GENTLE SWALLOW. 2s. each, post-free.—MARRIOTT and WILLIAMS, 313, Oxford-street, London.

THE ILLUSTRATED OPERA SERIES.
Just published, royal 4to, sewed, 2s. 6d.,
WAGNER'S LOHENGRIN. Musically and Pictorially Illustrated. The Legend and the Poem written and translated by JOHN P. JACKSON; with the Musical Gems of the Opera, for Voice and Piano, arranged by [illegible].
London: DAVID BOGUE, 3, St. Martin's-place, W.C.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the Public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE.
In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.
Class 0, £14 | Class 2, £21 | Class 4, £30 | Class 6, £35
Class 1, £17 | Class 3, £23 | Class 5, £27 | Class 7, £40
American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

PLEYEL, WOLFF, and CO.'S PIANOS.
EVERY DESCRIPTION of these CELEBRATED PIANOS for SALE or HIRE.
Special Models in Louis XVI. Style.
170, NEW BOND-STREET, W.

METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, GREAT MARLBOROUGH-STREET, LONDON, W.
HIGHEST AWARDS AT ALL EXHIBITIONS.
THE CHEAPEST AND BEST
AMERICAN ORGANS by MASON and HAMLIN.
"Economy Organ," with one set of reeds and knee swell, having beautiful Organ tone, and in an elegant Walnut Case (Style 109).
PRICE 8 GUINEAS.
Testimonial from "Dr. Stainer."

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
"Cathedral Organ," with 8 stops and knee swell; including two octave couplers, echo-tone, in beautiful Walnut Case (Style 108).
PRICE 21 GUINEAS.
Testimonial from "Ch. Gounod."

AMERICAN ORGANS by MASON and HAMLIN.
"Universal Organ," with 13 stops and knee swell. New Solo stops, Oboe, Bellaian, Clarabella, Voix Céleste, Vox Humana, &c. (Style 226).
PRICE 25 GUINEAS.
Testimonial from "The Abbé Liszt."

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
"Combination Organ," with Octave Coupler, Sub Bass, and two and a half complete sets of Reeds. In elegant case of new design.
PRICE 25 GUINEAS.
Testimonial from "Sir Julius Benedict."

AMERICAN ORGANS by MASON and HAMLIN.
"Chancel Organ," with new Venetian swells, 12 stops, and having a very powerful tone. In new design of case, containing music cupboards.
PRICE 28 GUINEAS.
Testimonials from 1000 Musicians.

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
New Drawing-room Models in elegant cases.
New Church Models, with Organ Pedals.
New Combination Models, with Two Rows of Keys.
New Indian Models for hot climates.
Prices from 8 to 300 Guineas.
On Hire from Ten Shillings a Month.
On the Three-Years' System, from One Guinea per Quarter.
New Illustrated Catalogue post-free.
May be had of all the principal Musicsellers in the United Kingdom.

METZLER and CO.'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description. Pianofortes by the best Makers, Harmoniums, Violins, Cornets, Musical Boxes, Digitoriums, &c.
Estimates given for Brass, Drum and Fife, and Military Bands.
Liberal discount for cash.
Illustrated Catalogue post-free.

METZLER and CO.'S TOY INSTRUMENTS.
The only complete Sets to be obtained in this country. Used in St. James's Hall, before the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Royal Family, by the following eminent musicians:—Sir Julius Benedict, Charles Hallé, A. Randegger, J. Rummenthal, Arthur Sullivan, Dr. Stainer, Arthur Chappell, J. Barnby, and others.
Also used at the Promenade Concerts, Covent Garden, and at the Crystal Palace.
PRICE 2 GUINEAS.
The Instruments are complete, and perfectly tuned.
Just published, New Edition of ROMBERG'S TOY SYMPHONY, for the Pianoforte and Toy Instruments. Price 2s. 6d. net.
Book II. now ready.

LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES. By ALFRED SCOTT GATTY.
Words and Music complete, with Illustrated Cover, price 2s. 6d. net.
Ditto, ditto, handsomely bound in cloth, price 4s. net.
Now ready, Book II., with numerous Illustrations, specially drawn by Mrs. John Collier, and dedicated to the Hon. Velmi Rydell-Bouverie. Price 4s. net.

MUSIC for CHRISTMAS.
METZLER and CO.'S NEW LIST. Now ready.
CHRISTMAS ALBUM of DANCE MUSIC, containing "Carmen" Singing Quadrille, Tout à la Joie Polka, two New Waltzes by Emile Waldteufel, Polkas, Quadrille, and selection of Country Dances, &c. Post-free, 13 stamps.
CHRISTMAS ALBUM of DANCE MUSIC, containing "H.M.S. Pinafore" Singing Quadrille, a selection of Waltzes, Polkas, Lancers, Galops, &c., by Waldteufel, Lamothe, Godfrey, and Gaston de Lille. Post-free, 13 stamps.
Violin or Cornet Accompaniments to either of the above. Post-free, 7 stamps.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.
The Lovers' Waltz. By Ch. D'Albert.
Liebe und Hoffnung Waltz. By R. Herzen.
Ritz-Batz Polka. By J. M. Coward.
John Peel Polka. By J. M. Coward.
Old Bone Polka. By L. Owen.
Garden Party Polka. By Ch. Godfrey.
Carmen Lancers. By Ch. Godfrey.
Lawn Tennis Galop. By E. Simmons.
Robert the Devil Galop. By Ch. Godfrey.
Post-free, 24 stamps each.

THE UNFINISHED SONG. By FRED. H. COWEN and F. E. WEATHERLY.
Sung by Miss Orridge with the greatest success. In two keys, E and G. Post-free, 24 stamps each.

THE CHORISTER. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN and F. E. WEATHERLY. Sung with the greatest success by Antoinette Sterling. In two keys, E and G. Post-free, 24 stamps.

JESSIE. By FRED. H. COWEN, and will be sung next Saturday evening, Dec. 18, in St. James's Hall, by Edward Lloyd. In two keys, B flat and G. Post-free, 24 stamps.

THE CLANG OF THE WOODEN SHOON. By MOLLOY. Sung by Antoinette Sterling with the greatest success at the Ballad Concerts. In four keys, C, D, E, and G. Post-free, 24 stamps.

DRUM AND FIFE. By ZUCCARDI and MARY MARK LEMON, and sung with enormous success by Barrington Foote. Compass B flat to E flat. Post-free, 24 stamps.
Ready next Friday,
THE LANGUAGE OF THE FLOWERS. Suite de Ballet. By F. H. COWEN. Performed in St. James's Hall with the greatest success.
Arrangement by the composer, for pianoforte solo, complete, 6s. net; separate numbers (1 to 6) 2s. each net.

METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, GREAT MARLBOROUGH-STREET, LONDON, W.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION,
OPEN TO ALL.

GRAND PRIZE PUZZLES.

1032 PRIZES.

1st PRIZE	...	£500	2nd PRIZE	...	£200
3rd PRIZE	...	£100	4th PRIZE	...	£50
5th PRIZE	...	£35	6th PRIZE	...	£30

And 1026 PRIZES FROM £25 TO £1.

The Prize Fund Account has been opened with the Bank of Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie, and Co., 1, Pall-mall East, London, S.W., in the joint names of the following

TRUSTEES.

Lieutenant-Colonel FEILDEN.

Major E. F. KNOTTESFORD FORTESCUE.

THE "EDUCATIONAL PRIZE TRUST" has arranged to issue in Great Britain, America, France, Germany, Italy, and Spain, six progressive Puzzles, combining instruction with amusement, and calculated to form a capital mental exercise, besides being useful in teaching both young and old to reckon up numbers with facility.

The solutions of the first two puzzles will be given with the Instructions, and the remaining four will form a progressively instructive series.

NO ONE NEED HESITATE TO TRY FOR A PRIZE, AS PATIENCE AND PERSEVERANCE MAY SUCCEED, EVEN WHERE SKILL IS LACKING.

The amount of the prizes, as announced above, will be increased or reduced according to the estimate of sales published in the Puzzle Prospectus; and should the sales of the Puzzles double the estimate the First Prize will be One Thousand Pounds, and the other Prizes also be doubled. It will therefore be to the interest of all Candidates for the Prizes to promote, as much as possible, the sale of the Puzzles, and not to allow the use of their sets by any other person. With the further view of increasing the value of the Prizes, they will be subject to the following CONDITIONS.

1. No person shall be entitled to a Prize who shall not, before attempting their solution, have first subscribed for or purchased a set of the Puzzles. And anyone allowing another to use his or her Puzzles shall be disqualified to receive a Prize.
2. No person shall receive more than one Prize.
3. To entitle any one to either of the Prizes of £500, £200, or £100, the solutions of Puzzles 3, 4, 5, and 6 must have been perfectly accomplished. For either of the next five Prizes of £50, £35, £30, £25, and £20, Puzzles 4, 5, and 6 must have been properly solved. The remaining 1021 Prizes of £10, &c., may be gained by correctly solving Puzzles 3, 4, and 5.
4. Competitors for the Prizes must forward their solutions of the Puzzles, with their names and addresses, sealed up and post-free, to "Author," Educational Prize Trust, 58, Pall-mall, London, S.W., and also inclose the printed copy of "Six Progressive Educational Puzzles." See condition 10.
5. Competitors whose solutions of the Puzzles are of equal merit, and who have complied with these conditions, will be awarded the Prizes in the order in which their solutions shall have been posted to the Author, as evidenced by the date of the post-mark.
6. In the event of two or more solutions of equal merit, entitling the parties to two or more of the Prizes being received, and bearing the same postal date, the amounts of such Prizes shall be added together and equally divided between or amongst them.
7. Each person claiming a prize shall, if so required, make a declaration that he or she subscribed for or purchased a set of the Puzzles before attempting their solution, that they solved them entirely by their own unaided skill, and that they had not made known, and will not, directly or indirectly, make known to anyone whomsoever their solutions of the Puzzles, or either of them, until after the time appointed for distribution of the Prizes. The author, on his part, hereby declaring that he has not divulged, and will not divulge to anyone, the solutions of the Puzzles until after such time.
8. In order to afford ample time for the whole of the 1032 Prizes to be gained, the successful competitors will not be declared until March 29, 1881, when notice of the same will appear in one or more of the public journals circulating in London, New York, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, and Madrid. Competitors who so desire may adopt a motto not exceeding twenty-one letters, for insertion in the public journals in lieu of their names.
9. All Prizes not claimed within one month after the same shall have been announced in the public journals shall be absolutely forfeited, and the amount, together with such balance of the Prize Fund (if any), for which Prizes may not have been gained within the specified time, shall, immediately thereafter, be paid over to the "ROYAL LITERARY FUND" and the "NEWSPAPER PRESS FUND" in equal moieties.
10. As the sale of spurious sets of the Puzzles would be prejudicial to the Prize-holders, by curtailing the amount of she Prizes, as announced above, each person at the time of purchasing a set must examine the copy of "Six Progressive Educational Puzzles," and see that "W. Watts" appears in the water-mark of the paper on which it is printed, as no spurious copy will entitle the holder to a Prize.
11. All solutions sent in by competitors must be marked at the back of the envelope with the word "Solution," sealed and addressed to "Author," and such letters will be numbered and lodged with the Bankers in the order they are received, and will remain unopened until March 15, 1881.

Apart from the incentive of gaining £500, or any other of the Prizes offered, the Puzzles are most amusing and instructive.

These Puzzles are most strongly recommended to Families and Schools as a quiet indoor amusement, and especially suitable for wet weather, when every member may be silently and profitably engaged in their solution with a fair chance of gaining a Prize.

To soldiers in barracks, as also to sailors in their frequent compulsory idleness, the Puzzles may help to pass the many weary hours, too often spent in a less profitable manner. It is considered that the chances of gaining a Prize will stimulate the men to the study of numbers, and further tend to their enlightenment and moral elevation.

If the number of Prizes gained by the various nationalities, and their respective Armies and Navies, be taken as any indication of their relative intelligence and education, the result may be looked forward to with much interest. Shall England or America stand first on the list? Germany, France, Italy, or Spain? and which of their respective Armies and Navies?

In order to promote, as much as possible, the friendly competition amongst the latter, the Puzzles will be supplied in packets of sixty and one hundred, at a reduction in price, to all Officers who may desire to give their men so wholesome an amusement, and at the same time a fair chance of obtaining one of the numerous Prizes offered.

National pride alone should enlist a large number of competitors.

The six Puzzles, with full directions for arranging them, also sixty-four numbered squares, and a board, and sixty-four diagrams of the completed Puzzle No. 6, may be had free by post for 24 Penny Stamps, or P.O.O. for 2s., payable at the G.P.O., to

J. BELL,
EDUCATIONAL PRIZE TRUST,
58, PALL MALL, LONDON, S.W.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM, KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR)
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL.
THE PUREST. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.
THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE
Proved by thirty years' medical experience to be
THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL
which produces the full curative effects in
CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest.
"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by Dr. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."

JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surg., Army, Prof. of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the purest benefit. The Oil of Dr. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

DATURA TATULA FOR ASTHMA. SAVORY AND MOORE.
A remedy which speedily relieves ASTHMA, DIFFICULT BREATHING, and all affections of the Respiratory Organs. In all forms for Smoking; pastilles and powders for inhalation.
143, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON;
and of Chemists everywhere.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

FER BRAVAIS (Bravais' Dialysed Iron). used in every Hospital. Recommended by all Physicians. For Anæmia, Chlorosis, Debility, Exhaustion, &c. FER BRAVAIS (liquid iron in concentrated drops) is the only one entirely free from acid; it is without smell, tasteless, and produces neither constipation, diarrhœa, inflammation, or fatigue in the stomach; it is besides the only iron that never blackens the teeth. It is the cheapest of all ferruginous Compounds, as a bottle of it lasts a month. General Depôt in Paris, 13, Rue Lafayette (near the Opera); and at all Chemists. Beware of dangerous imitations, and see that the Trade Mark is on every Bottle, which can be had of all Chemists in the United Kingdom. Sold also at 8, Idol-lane; and Messrs. Barclay and Sons', 95, Farringdon-street, London, where the Pamphlet on "Anæmia and its Treatment" can be obtained.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ALLEN AND HANBURYS'
"PERFECTED" COD-LIVER OIL is free from disagreeable taste and smell, and causes no nausea, or after-taste. Of all Chemists, in capsuled bottles only.

CHILBLAINS, RHEUMATISM, &c. Chilblains are prevented from breaking and their tormenting itching instantly removed by WHITEHEAD'S ESSENCE OF MUSTARD. Guaranteed by an extensive and successful experience of nearly a century. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, of BARCLAY and SONS, 95, Farringdon-street; and all Medicine Venders.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 433, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

"THEY HAVE NO EQUAL."
This is the universal opinion of everybody who has tried DR. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, for bilious and liver complaints, indigestion, wind, spasms, foul breath, nervous depression, irritability, headache, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, heartburn, giddiness, dizziness of the eyes, &c. Being as mild and tonic in their action as they are certain in their curative effects.—Prepared by W. Lambert, 173, Seymour-place, London, W., in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d., and sold by all Chemists. The genuine are in square green packages. Take no other.

Digitized by Google

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
100 Pieces of handsome
BLACK BROCADED VELVETS,
5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and 10s. 9d. per yard.
Black Velvets for Trimming purposes, 3s. 11d. to 8s. 9d.
Black Striped Velvets—best quality, 4s. 9d. and 5s. 3d.
Black Brocaded Silks and Satins, 3s. 6d. to 6s. 11d.
Black Silk Plush, for Costumes, from 4s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Silk-faced Satin, from 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Duchess Satin in Black and in White, 5s. 3d. to 12s. 6d.
Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets (all Silk), 8s. 11d. to 21s.
Satin de Lyons, in Black, 3s. 11d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d.
Dress Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets,
A Special Bargain,
16 Yards for £3 8s.
Address for Patterns to
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6d.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE.
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas. Including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

THE SMALL PROFIT SYSTEM. A LARGE SALE BEING DESIRABLE.
BLACK SPUN SILK STOCKINGS (WHITE TOES AND HEELS), 3s. 6d.
BLACK RIBBED CASHMERE Do., 2s. 2d.
Samples sent for Comparison.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, Regent-street,
Nos. 256 to 262 (the ONLY Address for these Goods).

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the
LOUIS VELVETEEN
in Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an sufficient recommendation.
'LOUIS.' It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition. Many ladies have adopted the
LOUIS VELVETEEN,
in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."
'LOUIS.' Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, folding-marks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.
WHOLESALE AGENTS,
who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—
'LOUIS.' J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 92, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

ARRASENE.
Patented and Registered.
A New Yarn in Silk and Wool, for Artistic Embroidery.
Made in all Shades.
Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks.
R. G. GEACH, 137, Cheapside.

EVENING DRESSES. — The Greatest Novelty. New French Sateens, price 83d. per yard, in combination with Madras Lace and Madras Muslin.—JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W. Patterns free.

WINTER DRESSES.—The best value in London. VICUNA FOULE SERGES, the fashionable material for the season. Price 8½d. per yard. Patterns free.—JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. — The most appropriate are the following, which tend to the Promotion of Personal Beauty in the fair and youthful, whose at this festive season are more than usually desirous to shine to advantage under the gaze of their friends.
ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL for imparting a transcendent lustre to the Hair: KALYDOR produces a beautiful and delicate complexion: ODONTO whitens the teeth. Of all Chemists, Perfumers, and Hairdressers; ask for Rowlands' articles.

A MASS of CURLS is assured by regularly using two or three times a week COX'S CURLING FLUID, warranted harmless. Protected by Government stamp, signed John Robert Cox. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, with full directions, of all Chemists, or forwarded by L. N. MARSHALL, 55, St. Mary's-square, Kennington, London, S.E., on receipt of amount.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW MANTLES, lined with Plush and other seasonable Doublures. These Mantles are noticeable for their special neatness and convenient arrangements. Messrs. Jay confidently trust their selections will ensure a continuance of the reputation which their Mantle Department has so long maintained in the fashionable world.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

NEW SHORT COSTUMES and GRACEFUL DINNER DRESS.—Short Dresses.—Messrs. JAY respectfully invite their clientele to the choice Collection of Pattern Costumes of the newest type of fashion, which are imported from Paris and Berlin.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK VELVETEENS.—Almost equal in appearance to good Black Velvet. As Black Velveteen is much worn, Messrs JAY have had manufactured special qualities of Black Velveteen, fast colour. These Velveteens are confidently recommended to their customers.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season, perfectly fast colour, will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up into costumes. In various qualities, 46 in. wide, from 5s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Bridesmaids' Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Loose Cut Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 10s.; Households, for Bread making, 9s. 6d.; Whole Wheaten Meal (granulated) for Brown Bread, 8s. 8d.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d.; Barley Meal, per 48 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 1 lb. tin, 8d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

WHOLE WHEATEN MEAL (Granulated), for BROWN BREAD, is Manufactured and Supplied by the ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY.
See above.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER."
Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE.
Product of a special refining process. It is Chocolate devoided of its over richness and substantiality. Sugarless, and, when made, of the consistence of coffee. An afternoon Chocolate. Sold only in packets and tins labelled JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea imported. Sold only in Packets.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 203, Regent-street, W.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
The Most Wholesome of all Spirits.
DUBLIN WHISKY distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., JOHN POWER and SON, and GEORGE ROE and CO., can be obtained in Wood by Wholesale Merchants and Dealers, direct from their respective Distilleries.

WILLS' "THREE CASTLES" TOBACCO.
In 1 oz., 2 oz., and 4 oz. Packets, lined with tinfoil.
WILLS' "THREE CASTLES" TOBACCO.
"There's no sweeter Tobacco comes from Virginia, and no better brand than the 'THREE CASTLES.'"—Vide "The Virginians." Only in Packets and Cigarettes, protected by the Name and Trade-Mark.
WILLS, W. D. and H. O.

TIRED HANDS AND ARMS.
EDSON'S ELECTRIC ARMLETS and WRISTBANDS.—For all persons having tiresome WRITING, SEWING, or MUSIC PRACTICE, they give wonderful energy and strength, enabling the wearer to accomplish tedious work with steadiness and comfort. Price 2s. 6d. per pair, silk web and fine steel clasps. Sent to any address on receipt of P.O.O. for 2s. 8d., payable to J. EDSON; address, THE ELECTRIC FABRIC COMPANY, Sole Patentees (New Building), Charlotte-street, Bedford-square, London.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM," NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
COLOURED BROCADED VELVETS,
300 Pieces, in all the New Textures, at 5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 6d., and 8s. 6d. per yard, being 20 per cent under price.
200 Pieces of Rich Black Broché Velvets, 8s. 6d. per yard.
The New Silk Plush, for Costumes, in all New Shades, 7s. 6d. per yard.
200 Pieces of Rich French Brocaded Silks, from 4s. 11d. per yard.
100 Pieces of Guaranteed Good Wearing Black Silks, at 2s. 11d. per yard.
Patterns free.

NEW DRESS MATERIALS.
Casimir d'Italie, Grain de Pour, Cachemire de la Reine, Angola Foulé, &c., all pure wool, and dyed by the most eminent Paris dyers, in Black, and every New Colour.
Prices from 14s. 6d. to 25s. the Full Dress.
Also, in Black and the same colours, several thousand pieces of Cachemire and Cachemire Merino, very wide, 2s. 2d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
Estamene, Witney, Devonshire, and other all-wool Serges, in Navy, Dark, Brown, Prune, Bronze, Black, &c., from 1s. to 2s. 9d. the yard.

MATERIALS for EVENING DRESS in great variety.
Rich Japanese Silk, in Plain and Damassé, 1s 11d.
Double Warp Gros Grain Japanese, 24 inch, 2s. 9d.
Cachemire de Paris, 2s. 2d. to 3s. 3d.
Cashmere Merino, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 9d.
Tinsel Gauze, 6½d. to 1s. 11d.
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, Oxford-street.

BALL AND DINNER DRESSES in the latest Novelties in Tarlatan, Net, Madras Muslin, Gauze, Spanish Lace, &c., in Black and all Colours, from 18s. 9d. to 20s.
The "Rowena," a pretty and stylish trained or short dress in Tarlatan, price 21s. In Brussels Net or fine White Muslin, price 31s. 6d.
The "Dora," a decided novelty, in Madras Muslin, handsomely draped over, any colour in Sateen, price 45s. 9d.
This is a pretty style for Gauze or Spanish Lace, price from 3½ guineas.
Specialities in Grenadine, Cashmere, and Japanese Silk Evening and Dinner Dresses.
The "Marie," in Black Striped Fibre Grenadine, with ample material for bodice, price 21s.
The "Lilian," in Light-Coloured Cashmere, trimmed lace, with material and lace for bodice, price £2 18s. 6d.
The "Bertha," in Rich Light-Coloured Japanese Silk, with material for bodice, price £2 18s. 6d.
Patterns and Illustrations post-free.
Illustrations of the above designs, with many others, can be had post-free on application to PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street, London.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 65s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

DEANE and CO.'S TABLE CUTLERY, celebrated for more than 150 years, remains unrivalled for quality and cheapness. The stock, extensive and complete, affords a choice suited to every purchaser.

Ivory Handles.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.	s.d.
Table Knives, per dozen.	13 0	16 0	19 0	24 0	32 0	35 0	40 0
Dessert ditto	11 0	13 0	15 0	19 0	26 0	29 0	330
Carvers, per pair	5 6	6 6	7 0	8 0	9 0	10 6	11 0

Agents for Joseph Rodgers and Sons, Cutlers to Her Majesty.
Deane and Co.'s complete Illustrated Catalogue free by post.
DEANE and CO., 46, King William-st., London Bridge. A.D. 1700.

DEANE and CO.'S London KITCHENERS.
DEANE and CO. Manufacture, Supply, and Fix complete COOKING APPARATUS, Kitcheners, Hot-Water Circulation, Bath Fittings, &c. Gas Cooking and Warming Stoves.

London Pattern. Double Oven.	London Pattern. Open Fire.	Flavel's Kitcheners.	Cheap Kitcheners.
5ft. .. £24 0 0	5ft. .. £22 0 0	3ft. 6 £10 0 0	3ft. £3 0 0
5ft. 6 .. 27 0 0	5ft. 6 .. 25 0 0	4ft. .. 12 0 0	3ft. 6 .. 6 0 0
6ft. 30 0 0	6ft. .. 29 0 0	4ft. 6 13 10 0	4ft. 10 5 0

Manufactory and Workshops, 21, Jacob-street, Dockhead, S.E.
Deane and Co.'s Complete Illustrated Catalogue free by post.
DEANE and CO., 46, King William-st., London Bridge.—A.D. 1700.

ETZENSBERGER'S PATENT CAFETIERE is economical, cleanly, and safe; makes an excellent cup of coffee, strong and fragrant; is made in two sizes for the breakfast table, pint and quarts, in block tin, nickel plated, electro-plate, and German silver. Coffee and Tea Filters, for bars, hotels, coffee and tea palaces, of any size.

THE WILFRID is an Ornament for the counter. Can supply coffee and tea, hot water and milk, all at the same time, and with little cost and trouble.
R. ETZENSBERGER and CO.,
No. 13, St. Andrew's-street, Holborn-circus, E.C. London.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 35 and 36, High Holborn.

CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO. By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES. SPECIALITE REPEATERS, CHRONOGRAPHS, &c.
Special Workmen for Repairs.
London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE.
SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of 18-carat, accurate timekeepers, full jewelled. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-List and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of
18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY
and
ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES,
(MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT,
COLOMBO, CEYLON.

10,000 CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.
PARKINS & GOTTO'S.
DRESSING-CASES, 21s., 42s., 84s., 105s. 210s.
DRESSING-BAGS, 42s., 84s., 105s., 210s.
HAND-BAGS, 6s. 9d., 11s. WAIST-BAGS.
DESPATCH-BOXES, 21s., 42s., 63s., 84s., &c.
WRITING-CASES, 5s., 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 21s.
DESKS, 8s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 14s. 6d., 21s., 42s., 63s.
STATIONERY-CABINETS, 25s., 50s., 84s.
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTERS.
INKSTANDS for Drawing-Room or Library.
TEA-CADDIES, BOOK-SLIDES.
LIQUEUR-CASES, FLASKS.
LETTER-BOXES for the Hall and Library.
READING-STANDS, POSTAGE-SCALES.
OXYDIZED and ENAMELLED ARTICLES
ORMOULU WRITING SETS, NIC-NACS.
OAK WARE, Tankards, Biscuit-Boxes, Jugs.
DOULTON WARE, Mounted with Silver, &c.
ELECTRO-PLATED GOODS, for Presents.
BRONZE INKSTANDS, CANDLESTICKS.
JEWEL CASES, for Ladies and Gentlemen.
BRUSH CASES, for Ladies and Gentlemen.
SCENT CASES, for 2, 3, or 4 Bottles.
SPECTACLE CASES, for Waist or Pocket.
GLOVE and HANDKERCHIEF BOXES.
WORK BOXES and BASKETS, 6s. 6d., &c.
RETICULES, LADIES' COMPANIONS.
MUSIC CASES and ROLLS, 2s. 6d., 5s.
MUSICAL BOXES, Ditto Albums, all kinds.
CHINA CARD-TRAYS, Ditto Ornaments.
PURSES, POCKET-BOOKS, NOTE-CASES.
CARD-CASES, Diaries for the New Year.
CIGAR-CASES, FUZEE-CASES.
OPERA-GLASSES, FANS, Newest Patterns.
GRAPHOSCOPES, STEREOSCOPES.
SCENT-BOTTLES, Gold and Silver Mounted.
WALTHAM WATCHES, good timekeepers.
SILVER JEWELLERY, at very low prices.
CLOCKS, Carriage, Drawing, or Dining Room.
PENCIL-CASES, Gold, Silver, Aluminium.
INDOOR GAMES, Newest and most Amusing.
CABINETS OF GAMES, 21s., 50s., 84s., &c.
BAGATELLE-BOARDS, 28s. 6d., 50s., 78s. 6d.
BACKGAMMON, CHESS, DRAUGHTS.
PAINT-BOXES, TOOL-CHESTS, Footballs.
PORTRAIT ALBUMS, all sizes.
PORTRAIT FRAMES, Ormolu, Velvet, Plush.
NOVELTIES IN PLUSH, all shades of colour.
SCRAP BOOKS, STAMP ALBUMS.
IVORY PAPER-KNIVES, Portfolios.
TWO THOUSAND CHURCH SERVICES.
FAMILY BIBLES, Pocket Ditto, Prayers.
BOOKS for JUVENILES and PRESENTS.
ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.
PARKINS & GOTTO'S,
BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT
TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES,
AND H.I.H. THE CROWN PRINCESS OF GERMANY.
27 and 28, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

ALL CHRISTMAS CARDS TRADE PRICE.
PARKINS and GOTTO'S.

1d. Cards ..	0s. 8d. per doz.	6d. Cards ..	0s. 4d. each.
2d. Cards ..	1s. 4d. ,,	1s. 6d. Cards ..	0s. 8d. ,,
4d. Cards ..	0s. 3d. each.	2s. 6d. Cards ..	1s. 8d. ,,

The Largest and most Varied Stock in London.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street, W.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.—JEWELLERY
The GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE LIMITED respectfully solicit an inspection of their extensive STOCK, which contains a beautiful assortment of the following articles:—

Bracelets, from ..	£6 to £200	Rings, from ..	£2 to £500
Brooches, from ..	£2 to £200	Chains, from ..	£3 to £50
Lockets, from ..	£2 to £200	Pins, from ..	£1 to £50
Earrings, from ..	£1 to £200	Studs, from ..	£1 to £50

To obviate the difficulty which is so often experienced in choosing suitable gifts, the Goldsmiths' Alliance Limited have prepared a new edition of their Illustrated Pamphlet, and will be happy to forward the same gratis and post-free on application.—11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank of England.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for LADIES.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for GENTLEMEN.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for BOYS.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX for GIRLS.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX, suitable for everybody.
JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX, containing Thirty Useful and Ornamental Articles.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX, containing Thirty Articles suitable for Christmas Trees.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S Two to Ten Guinea CHRISTMAS BOX for Ladies.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S Two to Ten Guinea CHRISTMAS BOX for Gentlemen.
33, St. James's-street; and 66, Jermyn-street, S.W.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
All the novelties by the most eminent publishers. Descriptive Catalogue sent post-free.
THOMAS CHAPMAN, Stationer, 54, Leicester-square.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Merry Maidens, Dancing Girls, Maidens Fair. The set of nine on receipt of P.O.O. for 5s.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
Fully assorted packets of all the novelties, 40s., 20s. Any not approved of can be exchanged.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square, W.C.

CHRISTMAS CARDS AT CHAPMAN'S.
De la Rue's, Marcus Ward's, Prang's, Hildisheimer's, Rothe's, &c., conveniently arranged for choice.
T. CHAPMAN, 54, Leicester-square.

WALKER'S
IVORY HAND-PAINTED
CHRISTMAS and NEW-YEAR CARDS.
"Simply exquisite."—Punch. "Highly luxurious."—Graphic. "Exquisite specimens."—Illustrated London News. "Able to bear comparison with any others both for originality and good work," says the Queen.
Each Tablet of Ivory is protected by an appropriate Motto Card, and packed in a neat box.
To be obtained of all high-class Stationers. Wholesale only of JOHN WALKER and CO., 56, Farringdon-street, London.

Digitized by Google

CHAPPELL & CO.'S PIANOFORTES AND HARMONIUMS.

(PIANOFORTE FACTORY, CHALK FARM-ROAD.)

SHOW-ROOMS, 49, 50, 51, & 52, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM OF PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO. let the undermentioned PIANOFORTES on HIRE, and the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the expiration of the third year, provided each quarterly instalment shall have been regularly paid, on the following terms:—

At £2 2s. per quarter.

A PIANINO, by CHAPPELL and CO., in Solid Mahogany or Walnut Case, 6¾ Octaves, with Check Action. Cash price for this Instrument, 20 guineas.

At £2 12s. 6d. per quarter.

AN ELEGANT PIANINO, in best Walnut and Rosewood, with ornamented Fret, 6¾ Octaves, Check Action, and three strings—throughout the treble. Cash price, 27 guineas. Model B in the Catalogue.

At £3 per quarter.

A HANDSOME COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, by CHAPPELL and CO., in Rosewood, 7 Octaves. Cash price, 32 guineas. No. 2 in Catalogue.

At £3 5s. per quarter.

A HANDSOME COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, by CHAPPELL and CO., in Walnut Case, 7 Octaves. Cash price, 35 guineas. No. 2 in Catalogue.

At £3 15s. per quarter.

THE ENGLISH MODEL PIANOFORTE, by CHAPPELL and CO., in very handsome Rosewood, 7 Octaves. Cash price, 40 guineas. Ditto, ditto, in Walnut Case, £4 5s. per quarter. Cash price, 45 guineas. No. 4 in Catalogue.

At £5 per quarter.

THE FOREIGN MODEL OBLIQUE PIANOFORTE, by CHAPPELL and CO., in Rosewood Case, 7 Octaves, Check Action, and three strings. Cash price, 50 guineas. Ditto, ditto, in elegant Walnut, £5 5s. per quarter. Cash price, 55 guineas.

The above Pianofortes are exchangeable during the first quarter.

Residents abroad can be supplied with Pianofortes on this system, the hire being paid annually in advance instead of quarterly.

THE THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM IS APPLICABLE TO EVERY DESCRIPTION OF PIANOFORTE BY THE BEST MAKERS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S STUDENT'S PIANOFORTE. Five Octaves. F to F, Check Action. Trichord Treble. Price FIFTEEN GUINEAS. The compass is sufficient for classical music—the whole of Mozart's and contemporaneous works being written within the five octaves F to F.

CHAPPELL'S ENGLISH 20-GUINEA or SCHOOL-ROOM PIANOFORTE, with Check Action, in Canadian Walnut, Mahogany, also in Solid Oak or White Ash, 22 guineas; in elegant Rosewood or Walnut Case, 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINO, with Folding Keyboard, 6¾ Octaves, Check Action, Trichord Treble, Solid Mahogany or Canadian Walnut Case, THIRTY GUINEAS; Rosewood or Walnut, THIRTY-FIVE GUINEAS; Maple, THIRTY-EIGHT GUINEAS. Constructed for Ships' Cabins. Space required only 4 ft. 2 in. by 1 ft. 2 in. Will stand the damp of a sea voyage.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND PIANOFORTE. Seven Octaves. Transverse Strung Bass. Length only 5 ft. 9 in. Rosewood or Walnut, from 75 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW IRON GRAND PIANOFORTES. Length, 6 ft. 10 in. Transverse Strings. Seven Octaves. Price, Rosewood, 110 guineas; Walnut, 135 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COLONIAL MODEL PIANOFORTE. Trichord Check Action, Extra Strong Bracings, Iron Plates, Solid Panelled Front, &c. Rosewood, 45 guineas; Walnut, 50 guineas; Solid Ebonised Wood, Iron Pin Plate, and extra screwed, for export to extreme climates, 50 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ORIENTAL MODEL PIANOFORTE. Iron Frame, Over-Strung, Trichord throughout, Check Action, Seven Octaves, Solid Walnut Case. FIFTY-FIVE GUINEAS.

Testimonials of the durability of these instruments can be seen at 50, New Bond-street.

The price includes—1, Packing-cases in tin and wood; 2, A suitable tuning hammer or key; 3, A tuning fork; 4, Some additional strings; 5, A Book on Tuning and Preserving the Instrument, 6s. And the Carriage to the Docks.

CHAPPELL'S DOUBLE OVERSTRUNG IRON-FRAMED OBLIQUE GRAND. Patent Check Action. Trichord, Seven Octaves. Rosewood, 60 guineas; Walnut, or Ebonised and Gilt, 65 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRING ALEXANDRE'S HARMONIUMS.

No.		Per Quarter.
	At £5 per annum.
1. Mahogany.	One Stop, or knee swell	1 5 0
	At £6 per annum.
4. Carved Oak.	Seven Stops	1 10 0
	At £8 16s. per annum.
4a. Carved Oak.	Ten Stops	2 4 0
	At £10 10s. per annum.
5. Rosewood, Walnut, or Oak.	Eleven Stops	2 12 6
	At £18 per annum.
10. Oak Case.	Fifteen Stops. Percussion	4 10 0
	At £20 per annum.
11. Rosewood or Walnut.	Fifteen Stops. Percussion	5 0 0
	At £14 per annum.
EXHIBITION MODEL.	Fifteen Stops. Oak	3 10 0
No.	At £11 4s. per annum.
1.	DRAWING-ROOM MODEL. Rosewood, Walnut, or Oak	2 16 0
	At £16 per annum.
2.	DRAWING-ROOM MODEL. Rosewood, Walnut, or Oak	4 0 0
	At £26 per annum.
3.	DRAWING-ROOM MODEL. Rosewood, Walnut, or Oak	6 10 0
	At £30 per annum.
4.	DRAWING-ROOM MODEL. Rosewood or Walnut	6 10 0

The Three-Years' System is applicable to all other kinds of Harmonium.

Residents abroad can be supplied with Harmoniums on this system, the hire being paid annually in advance.

Illustrated Catalogues post-free on application.

ALEXANDRE ORGAN HARMONIUMS. From 6 to 150 Guineas. A NUMBER of these Instruments returned from hire to be SOLD for Cash, or on the Three-Years' system, at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES of EVERY DESCRIPTION, returned from hire, to be SOLD at greatly reduced prices for Cash—BROADWOOD, ERARD, COLLARD, LIPP, CHAPPELL, ROSENKRANZ.

CHICKERING and SON'S PIANOFORTES. Established at Boston, U.S.A., 1823, since which time 45,000 Pianofortes have been made and sold by Messrs. CHICKERING and SON.

One hundred and ten First Prize Medals and Decorations have been awarded to Messrs. CHICKERING and SON by Foreign, Home Governments, Industrial and Art Institutions, in all parts of the World.

IRON-FRAMED OVER-STRUNG UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES. From 120 to 150 Guineas.

IRON-FRAMED OVER-STRUNG HORIZONTAL GRAND PIANOFORTES. From 200 to 300 Guineas.

Full Illustrated Lists free by post.

CHAPPELL and CO., Sole Agents, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds. Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A.

A large variety on view from 18 to 225 guineas. Price-lists on application to 50, New Bond-street.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S "FAVORITE ORGAN," compass Five Octaves, Ten Stops, Four Sets of Reeds of 58 Octaves each. Knee Swell. Elegant carved Canadian Walnut Case. Price 25 Guineas. With 15 Stops and 2 Knee Swells, Sub-Bass and Octave-Coupler, 35 Guineas.

THE CENTENNIAL GRAND ORGAN, combining Pipes with Reeds, 5 Octaves of Keys, 32 Octaves of Vibrators, 15 Stops, 2 Knee Levers. Ornamental Case of Solid Walnut, elegantly engraved and inlaid with Berlin. As exhibited at the Centennial Exhibition. 85 Guineas.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S ORGANS were awarded the Diploma of Honour and Medal of the Highest Merit, making them superior to all others in quality of tone, facilities of mechanical arrangements, elegance of design and ornamentation, and simplicity of construction.

THE DIGITORIUM; or, Miniature Dumb Piano (Patent), Recommended by all the leading Professors of Music. This Instrument materially [illegible] any person to play on the Pianoforte, [illegible], &c.: strengthening the fingers, giving [illegible] greatly assisting any student anxious to [illegible] 15s.; or, with ivory keys, 18s. (including [illegible] practice), sent to any part of the country [illegible] receipt of Post Office Order. [illegible]

OLIVETTE (COMIC OPERA).

NOW BEING PERFORMED AT THE STRAND THEATRE WITH ENORMOUS SUCCESS.

ENGLISH ADAPTATION BY H. B. FARNIE. MUSIC BY AUDRAN.

VOCAL SCORE, net 8s. PIANOFORTE SCORE, net 2s. 6d.

THE FOLLOWING POST-FREE FOR HALF PRICE.

VOCAL MUSIC.

	s. d.
THE CONVENT SLEPT. Song	4 0
"A very pretty lyric."—Daily Telegraph. "Worthy of much praise."—Morning Advertiser.
THE YACHT AND THE BRIG. Marine Madrigal	4 0
"One of the best numbers in the opera."—Daily News.
VALSE SONG. ("First Love")	4 0
DARLING, GOOD NIGHT. Serenade	4 0
"A pretty serenade for tenor."—Globe. "A very pretty air."—Echo.
BOB SONG. ("Oh, my Father")	4 0
"A pretty air."—Times. "An amusing sobbing song."—Globe. "A pretty song, with weeping refrain, loudly redemanded."—Echo.
LEAF BY LEAF THE ROSES DIE. Ballad. (Introduced by Miss Florence St. John.) Words by H. B. Farnie. Music by Hervé	4 0
I LOVE MY LOVE SO WELL. Duet	4 0
"A little gem in its way."—Daily Telegraph. "As far as refinement and real interest go, this is infinitely superior to anything in the opera."—Morning Advertiser.
NEAREST AND DEAREST. Romance	4 0
"Likely to become as familiar in the home as in the theatre."—Daily Telegraph. "Most piquant."—Times. "A pretty drawing-room song."—Echo. "An elegant and expressive romance."—Orchestra. "In many respects the best thing in the work."—Observer.
THE TORPEDO AND THE WHALE. Legend	4 0
"We may reckon on this becoming a great favourite."—Daily Telegraph. "This song and chorus brought down the house. The air is exceedingly quaint: the chorus produced a great effect."—Referee. "Bids fair to become a popular favourite."—Times. "The drollest morceau in the opera. It must be heard and seen to be appreciated. Unequalled by anything of its kind."—Orchestra.
WHERE BALMY GARLIC SCENTS THE AIR. Bolero	4 0
BOB UP SERENELY	4 0

DANCE MUSIC.

By CHARLES D'ALBERT. Beautifully Illustrated.

	s. d.
OLIVETTE LANCERS. Solo or Duet	4 0
OLIVETTE WALTZ. Solo or Duet	4 0
NEAREST AND DEAREST WALTZ. Solo or Duet	4 0
OLIVETTE QUADRILLE. Solo or Duet	4 0
OLIVETTE POLKA. Solo or Duet	4 0
TORPEDO GALOP. Solo or Duet	4 0

"Audran's new opera contains a mine of wealth for those who seek attractive and piquant melodies; every number furnishes charming motivi for dance music. M. d'Albert has chosen the most tuneful, and made the best use of them; and 'Olivette' will, no doubt, furnish a large amount of the season's music for the ball-room. The Quadrille contains six or seven subjects from the opera; the waltz song of the Countess forms the chief motive of M. d'Albert's Waltz; and the dire catastrophe of the 'Whale and the Torpedo' is capitally worked up in the Galop."—Orchestra.

PIANOFORTE PIECES.

	s. d.
BOYTON SMITH'S FANTASIA	4 0
Introducing the Waltz, Serenade, Nearest and Dearest, Torpedo and the Whale, and the Farandole.
Ditto ditto, as Duet	4 0
AUDRAN'S "NEAREST AND DEAREST." Romance	4 0
NAVA'S GEMS from "OLIVETTE" each	3 0
No. 1 contains Torpedo Song, Marche Militaire, and Marriage Bells Chorus. No. 2 contains Romance, "Nearest and Dearest," and the Waltz.
NAVA'S FARANDOLE	3 0
NAVA'S POPULAR FAVOURITES from "Olivette," 1 to 6 each	1 0
1. Torpedo and the Whale. 2. Waltz Song. 3. O my Father (Bob Song). 4. Nearest and Dearest. Romance. 5. I love my love so well. Duet. 6. The Farandole.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE,

A New and Original Melodramatic Opera. Words by W. S. Gilbert; Music by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Vocal Score, 5s.; Pianoforte Solo, 3s. Also THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE LANCERS, WALTZ, QUADRILLE, GALOP, and POLKA. By CHARLES D'ALBERT.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH,

New Sacred Musical Drama. Words selected and arranged from Milman's Poem. Music composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN, expressly for, and performed with enormous success at the Leeds Musical Festival, Oct. 15, 1880. Price 8s.; in cloth, 10s. 6d. Orchestral and Choral parts are published, particulars of which may be had on application to CHAPPELL and CO.

"Without doubt the best Instruction Book ever published."

RIMBAULT'S COMPLETE PIANO TUTOR,

(Seventy-eight pages full music size), containing The First Rudiments of Music, a Gradual and Progressive Series of Exercises, Scales, &c., and with every information requisite for the formation of the hand, the manner of Fingering, and the cultivation of a finished style of performance; the whole illustrated by a numerous Series of Lessons of the most varied and modern kind, selected from the works of Beethoven, Mozart, Bellini, Verdi, Rossini, Hummel, Gounod, Meyerbeer, Reinecke, D'Albert, Puget, &c., and including a Selection of Sacred Melodies, selected and arranged by EDWARD F. RIMBAULT, the whole revised and enlarged by JOHN HILLS. Price 4s.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR,

Adapted from the valuable work of the late Signor Lablache. A new edition of this grand work on the Art of Singing is now published, comprising directions for the Formation and Cultivation of the Voice, after the methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of progressive lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggi, &c.; and a Selection of the best Italian and English Songs, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Bass Voices. Price 4s.

CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE OF VOCAL AND PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

EDITED BY EDWARD F. RIMBAULT.

Price One Shilling each Number; post-free, 1s. 2d., or Three Numbers post-free for 3s. 4d.

CHRISTMAS NUMBER (1880) OF

CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE,

No. 122, contains the following popular Dance Music:

Sweethearts Waltz	Charles d'Albert.
Drink, Puppy, Drink! Polka	Charles d'Albert.
Le Roi de Lahore Quadrille	Charles d'Albert.
Le Roi de Lahore Waltz	Charles d'Albert.
Toute à la Joie Polka	Fahrbach.
Mello. Suite de Valses	Emile Waldteufel.
A Grande Guides. Galop Brilliant	A. Etterlen.
Trifolien Valse	Strauss.
Le Polo Quadrille	Charles d'Albert.
Swedish Country Dance	E. R. Terry.

POPULAR DANCE MUSIC IN CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Price 1s. each; post-free, 1s. 2d.

109. TWELVE SETS of WALTZES, QUADRILLES, &c., by DAN GODFREY, D'ALBERT, &c. Including "Polo Lancers," "Wiener Blut Waltz," &c.

111. TWELVE SETS of WALTZES, QUADRILLES, &c., by WALDTEUFEL, DAN GODFREY, STRAUSS, CHAS. D'ALBERT, &c. Including the "Manolo," "Wiener Frauen" Valses, &c.

112. TEN SETS of WALTZES, QUADRILLES, GALOPS, &c., by D'ALBERT, WALDTEUFEL, &c. Including "Trial by Jury," "The Rink," &c.

114. NEW and POPULAR DANCE MUSIC, by D'ALBERT, STRAUSS, &c. Including "Trial by Jury" Lancers, &c.

119. POPULAR DANCE MUSIC, by D'ALBERT, WALDTEUFEL, &c. Including "The Distant Shore" and "Au Revoir" Waltzes. "Congress" Lancers, &c.

120. POPULAR DANCE MUSIC by D'ALBERT, WALDTEUFEL, METRA, LAMOTHE, &c. Including "The Connaught Lancers," "Fanfare Polka," "Madeleine Waltz," &c.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES AND FAVOURITE COMPOSITIONS.

ADELINA WALTZ, illustrated with portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PORTIA WALTZ, illustrated with portrait of Miss Ellen Terry	2s. 0d. "
LE ROI DE LAHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. "
LE ROI DE LAHORE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
THE CONNAUGHT LANCERS	2s. 0d. "
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA (will be the Polka of the Season)	2s. 0d. "
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. "

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES AND FAVOURITE COMPOSITIONS.

AFGHANISTAN QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
CANDAHAR WALTZ	2s. 0d. "
CYPRUS POLKA	2s. 0d. "
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. "
THE ENGAGED WALTZ	2s. 0d. "
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. "
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS	2s. 0d. "
CLEOPATRA GALOP	2s. 0d. "
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA	2s. 0d. "
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 0d. "
MOLLIE DARLING QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ	2s. 0d. "
TRIAL BY JURY LANCERS	2s. 0d. "
TRIAL BY JURY QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
TRIAL BY JURY WALTZ	2s. 0d. "
TRIAL BY JURY POLKA	1s. 0d. "
DRINK GALOP	2s. 0d. "
FLEUR DE THE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
FASCINATION VALSE, à Trois Temps	2s. 0d. "
PRINCESS MARIE GALOP	1s. 0d. "
SICILY QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
TWILIGHT DREAMS WALTZES	2s. 0d. "
CHARLESTOWN QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
WEDDING QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
COMO QUADRILLE, on Italian Airs	2s. 0d. "
BONNIE DUNDEE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. "
KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZES	2s. 0d. "
WEST-END POLKA (20th Edition)	1s. 0d. "

Any of the above may be had for Orchestra, 2s.; Septet, 1s.

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.

POPULAR SONGS with PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT, in CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Price 1s. each; post-free, 1s. 2d.

No. 1. THIRTEEN SONGS by BALFE. Including the popular favourites, "I dreamt that I dwelt in marble halls," "Then you 'll remember me," "In this old chair," &c.

No. 70. TEN SONGS by CHARLES GOUNOD. Containing the celebrated "Flower Song," from the opera of "Faust," &c.

No. 89. TWENTY POPULAR SONGS and BALLADS. Including the popular "Stirrup Cup," "Maisel" (Song), "The Guards' Song," "Hilda" (Song), &c.

No. 102. TWELVE POPULAR SONGS, by Mrs. HEMANS. Including "The Pilgrim Fathers," "Captive Knight," "Tyrolese Evening Hymn," &c.

POPULAR SONGS with PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT, in CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE. Price 1s. each; post-free, 1s. 2d.

No. 106. FORTY-FOUR POPULAR SCOTCH SONGS. Including "Flowers of the Forest," "Over the Sea," &c.

No. 56. Mr. SANTLEY'S POPULAR SONGS. Containing the popular baritone songs, "The Colleen Bawn," "Loving smile of sister kind," "The Vicar of Bray," "The moon has raised her lamp above."

No. 62. TWELVE SONGS by Sir JULIUS BENEDICT and ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN. Containing Santley's favourite songs, "If doughty deeds my lady please," "A weary lot is thine, fair maid," &c.

No. 108. FIFTEEN WELSH SONGS. Including "March of the Men of Harlech," "The Rising of the Lark," "The Bells of Aberdovey."

NEW NUMBERS of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.

121.—Twelve Duets for Male Voices.

The Moon has Raised her Lamp above	Benedict.
Could a Man be Secure	Sterling Goodwin.
See, from Ocean Rising	J. Mazzinghi.
Larboard Watch	T. Williams.
The Minute Gun at Sea	M. P. King.
All's Well	Braham.
Albion, on thy Fertile Plains	Braham.
Flow gently, Deva	John Parry.
Love and War	T. Cooke.
Night is Down the Valley Stealing	G. A. Macfarren.
On, to the Field of Glory	Donizetti.
The Manly Heart	W. A. Mozart.

No. 118.—POPULAR MARCHES.

Marche Romaine	Ch. Gounod.
March of the Pashas	J. Pridham.
March in "Judas Maccabeus"	Handel.
March in "Scipio"	Handel.
March in the "Occasional Oratorio"	Handel.
March in "Rinaldo"	Handel.
March in "Hercules"	Handel.
The Wellington March	Chas. d'Albert.
Dead March in "Saul"	Handel.
March in "Judas Maccabeus" ("See the Conquering Hero Comes.")	Handel.
March in "Die Zauberflöte"	Mozart.
March in "Alceste"	Gluck.
March in "Idomeneo"	Mozart.

No. 117.—MIXED SERIES, No. 3.

Song (Tenor), "Elly Mavourneen"	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Contralto), "The Lonely Harp"	Miss Cowell.

NEW NUMBERS of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.

No. 117.—MIXED SERIES (continued).

Song (Soprano), "I'm Alone"	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Baritone), "I never can forget"	A. Mellon.
Vocal Duet (Soprano and Contralto), "O ye voices gone"	Zeta.
Vocal Duet (Soprano and Contralto), "Two Wandering Stars"	B. Richards.
Pianoforte, "Soldier's Prayer"	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte, "Siren's Song"	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte, "Blue Bells of Scotland"	B. Richards.
Dance Music, "West-End Polka"	Chas. d'Albert.
Dance Music, "Little Nell Waltz"	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music, "Lord of Lorne Lancers"	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music, "Express Galop"	Chas. D'Albert.

No. 116.—MIXED SERIES, No. 2.

Song (Baritone), "The Bell-Ringer"	W. V. Wallace.
Song (Soprano), "Tender and True"	Arthur Sullivan.
Song (Contralto), "To Thee"	Alberto Randegger.
Song (Tenor), "Oh! whisper what thou feelest"	B. Richards.
Vocal Duet (Soprano and Contralto), "When Birds are singing"	H. Smart.
Vocal Duet (Soprano and Contralto), "Two Merry Gipsies"	G. A. Macfarren.
Pianoforte, "The Soldier's Chorus"	B. Richards.
Pianoforte, "Air by Louis XIII."	Henri Ghys.
Pianoforte, "A Ray of Sunshine"	Carl Ledue.
Dance Music, "Dewdrop Waltz"	Chas. d'Albert.
Dance Music, "The Sultan's Polka"	Chas. d'Albert.
Dance Music, "Polo Lancers"	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music, "The Mabel Galop"	Dan Godfrey.

No. 115.—MIXED SERIES, No. 1.

Song (Contralto), "Juanita"	Mrs. Norton.
Song (Soprano), "The Maiden's Story"	A. Sullivan.
Song (Baritone), "The Stirrup Cup"	Luigi Arditi.
Song (Tenor), "There's Sunlight in Heaven"	M. Balfe.
Vocal Duet (Soprano and Contralto), "Wind and the Harp"	S. Glover.
Vocal Duet (Soprano and Contralto), "Ave Sanctissima"	Mrs. Hemans.
Pianoforte, "Home, Sweet Home"	B. Richards.
Pianoforte, "The Silver Trumpets"	F. Viviani.
Pianoforte, "Prière d'une Vierge"	T. Baker-Weiss.
Dance Music, "The Rink Galop"	Chas. d'Albert.
Dance Music, "The Hilda Waltz"	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music, "Palermo Quadrilles"	Chas. d'Albert.
Dance Music, "King Pippin Polka"	Chas. d'Albert.

One Shilling each; post-free, 1s. 2d.

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 15, POULTRY, E.C.

Digitized by Google

KEEPING HIMSELF WARM.

DRAWN BY C. J. STANILAND.

Digitized by Google

CHRISTMASTIDE.

Christmas is at hand; and we are already reminded of its approach by the return of the waits, who have commenced their nocturnal perambulations; and from the gay appearance which the shops have assumed, with their sundry dainty nick-nacks and copious display of Christmas Cards. The Pantomimes, too, are announced, and the usual miscellaneous assortment of entertainments adapted for all classes—old and young. Christmastide is, also, rich in its associations, and more customs and legendary lore have clustered round this season than any other festival of the year; not to mention that host of superstitions still credited by country peasantry, and love-sick maidens anxious to catch a glimpse of their future lot in life.

Although, year by year, much is written on this festive season, yet its annual advent is always welcomed by a renewed eagerness to hear something of its primitive history, and the many odd ways with which it is celebrated, here and there, throughout the country. The name given by the ancient Goths and Saxons to their festival of the winter solstice was Jul or Yule—a word still used in Scotland for Christmas, and occurring in the phrase Yule-log. The term Yule is probably derived from the Gothic word signifying wheel—the Yule festival receiving its name from its being the turning-point of the year. Chronologists have long been divided as to the precise day of the Nativity; some having fixed it at the Passover, and others at the Feast of Tabernacles. At any rate, from the earliest ages of the Church the 25th of December has been the day most generally observed.

Referring to some of the chief observances with which the festival was honoured in times past may be mentioned the Lord of Misrule, who was a highly important personage, having the entire management of the various festivities, and the mummers, who went about the country performing grotesque plays. Then, too, there were the wassail-bowl, the Christmas carols and merry songs, and those diverse sports and pastimes which were shared in common by high and low, rich and poor. We might further mention the extensive decoration of houses, and old Tusser's admonition—"Get ivye and holly, woman; deck up thine house." Stow tells us how, against the feast of Christmas, "every man's house, as also their parish churches, were decked with holme, ivy, bayes, and whatsoever the season of the year afforded to be green."

Christmas has been, from time immemorial, a season of feasting and joviality; mince-pies, roast beef, plum-pudding, and its precursor, plum-porridge, being noticed as some of the chief articles of fare. Although the boar's head, peacock, and bustard have almost disappeared, yet the turkey is as proverbially a fowl in season now as the goose at Michaelmas or Martinmas. Thus, Gay puts the following complaint into the mouth of the turkey:—

> But man, cursed man, on Turkey preys,
> And Christmas shortens all our days;
> From the low peasant to the lord,
> The Turkey smokes on every board.

An old writer, describing the hospitality that formerly characterised this season, says:—"An English gentleman on Christmas morning had all his tenants and neighbours enter by daybreak. The strong beer was broached, and the black-jacks went plentifully round with toast, sugar, nutmeg, and good Cheshire cheese. The haekin—i.e., the great sausage, must be boiled by daybreak, or else two young men must take the cook by the arms and run her round the market-place till she is ashamed of her laziness."

Although many of the old customs and superstitious practices have fallen into disuse, some are kept up in different parts of the country with more or less vigour. Thus, in Devonshire, the old yule-log takes the form of the ashen-faggot, and is burned with much ceremony. It is made of ash timber, and a numerous company are generally invited to see it blaze. In Cornwall it is called "the mock." In many places great importance is attached to the circumstance as to whether a light or a dark haired person is the first to enter a house on Christmas morning—light-haired persons being said to bring with them ill-luck. A Herefordshire piece of folk-lore says that it is highly unfortunate for new shoes of tanned leather to be admitted into the house during Christmas week. At Alnwick, in Northumberland, it is still customary to give sweetmeats to children at Christmastide, called "Yule-babies;" and in Yorkshire a kind of pastry locally known as "Pepper Cake" is made, a piece of which is given to every visitor. In some counties the mummers still make their appearance, exhibiting the old dance of St. George and the Dragon. A popular custom has been associated for very many years with the parish of Cumnor, in Berkshire. On Christmas Day, at the conclusion of the evening service, the parishioners who are liable to pay tithes repair to the vicarage, and are hospitably regaled with bread, cheese, and ale. This is claimed as a right by the parishioners, the Vicar being expected to provide four bushels of malt brewed into ale, two bushels of wheat made into bread, and half a hundredweight of cheese. Whatever remains is distributed among the poor. Among some of the customs that are no longer kept up may be mentioned the cheese, which was made by the Yorkshire farmer specially for this season, and was cut with much ceremony. Formerly the lessee of the tithes of Homchurch, Essex, had to provide a boar's head, which, after being decorated with bay-leaves, was wrestled for in a field adjoining the church. In Gloucestershire it was the custom to present the Sovereign with a lamprey pie, a practice which is said to have originated as early as the time of Henry I., of lamprey-loving celebrity.

At St. Cuthbert's Church, Acworth, in Yorkshire, a sheaf of corn was at one time suspended on Christmas Eve outside the porch for the benefit of the birds. At Dewsbury one of the church bells was tolled on Christmas Eve, as at a funeral, and went by the name of the "Devil's Knell," the moral being, we are told, that "the Devil died when Christ was born." In the neighbourhood of the New Forest it was the practice for farmers to wassail their orchards on Christmas Eve—a custom which has not yet become quite obsolete—repeating the following lines:—

> Apples and pears, with right good corn,
> Come in plenty to every one;
> Eat and drink good cake and hot ale;
> Give earth to drink, and she 'll not fail.

In some parts of Norfolk libations of spiced ale used to be sprinkled, too, on orchards and meadows. In the Isle of Man, every family that could afford it had a brewing called "Christmas Drink" at this season. One brewing-kettle generally served a whole neighbourhood, which, says Train, in his "History of the Isle of Man," gave rise to the monk's proverb, "To go about like a brewing-pan."

In Wales, Christmas is observed with much enthusiasm, being marked by many a curious superstition and quaint custom. Carols are sung, and the waits are popular. On Christmas Eve the colliers carry about a board stuck over with lighted candles, or wheel a handbarrow containing a bed of clay in which the candles are placed. This is called "the Star," sometimes the "Star of Bethlehem."

The Scotch reserve their merrymakings until the last day of the year, which is known as Hogmanay. Special importance, however, is attributed to the person who is the first to open the door on "Yule Day," as he is expected to prosper more than the other members of the household, because, to use the vulgar phrase, "he lets in Yule."

KEEPING HIMSELF WARM.

The village fiddler, on his way to some Christmas merry-making party at a neighbouring farm-house, perhaps finds himself half an hour too early, and does not think fit to enter before the appointed time for the social dance. But having no desire to "cool his heels," as the saying is, by standing still in the snow, he seems to have halted in his path across the field near that hospitable dwelling; and, feeling some doubt of his perfect recollection of one or two lively tunes he will be asked to play, "keeps himself warm" by cutting a few capers to accompany the melodious rehearsal of these upon his instrument of spirit-stirring music. It cannot be supposed that the fiddler would so disport himself in the open air, even for a few minutes, on a winter's night, if the party he is about to join were not the second or third which he has attended in the course of that long evening; the fact is, that he has already eaten a more than ample dinner, and has already drunk as much strong ale, with a glass of toddy following, as he will be competent to carry with discretion. What is to become of him three hours later, when he should leave the warm house of Farmer Endfield, and return to his own cottage home, we will not here consider; but he is merry and free enough at this moment, and as for Topsy, his favourite pug-dog, which has been trained to dance to the sound of her master's violin, this little creature may help to take care of him in the state of slumbrous imbecility that he may then have reached. The cows and oxen of the field, not being affected by the strains of his fiddle as some beasts of olden time were by those of Orpheus' lute, appear rather alarmed and scandalised by the intrusion of such an entertainment into their peaceful pasture.

FINE ARTS.

SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.

The principal feature in the present winter exhibition in Pall-mall East is a loan collection of the works of the late George Dodgson, disposed on screens and in the society's "Drawing-room." A precedent is thus established which, on the death of any leading member, may be followed with advantage—equally as regards the prestige of the society and the pleasure and profit of the public. To the younger frequenters of this gallery this assemblage of noble works will be a revelation that could hardly be expected from the artist's latest drawings. The over-sensitive tremulousness, amounting almost to weakness, of some of the latter is seen in the loan works to have been a method consciously adopted in the first instance for the sake of its admirable suggestiveness and its sympathetic expressiveness, for the earliest drawings are remarkable for precision as well as decision and verve. Of the last, the very earliest, perhaps, and the most surprising, is also the largest of the series—a view of "St. Paul's from Blackfriars Bridge," lent by the Corporation of Liverpool—one of the finest London views ever painted, though, judging by the very early form of the omnibuses on the bridge and other details, it must have been executed many, many years ago. There are a few London scenes besides this, but of course the bulk of the collection deals with the subjects with which the artist's reputation was so long connected—with the scaurs and becks of Yorkshire and his beloved Whitby, with Haddon Hall and terrace, sometimes veiled in moonlight mystery; and with Knole and its clumps of beeches and oaks, through the multitudinous leaves of which the twinkling sunlight falls in showers of gold along the sward, where often gay groups of figures, graceful as those of Watteau, hold their fête champêtre in happy and gallant but innocent idlesse. Nor are there wanting the rich fruits of occasional trips to Wales and Scotland, and once as far as Milan Cathedral. We greatly regret that our space will not permit us to do justice to one of our few poetical painters—to his fine sense of beauty, to his rare gift as a colourist, to the charm of his execution in his best time.

The general exhibition does not fall short of its usual high level, and is of especial interest on account of the advance made by several of the newer members. To give precedence among these to Princess Louise really requires no concession of extraneous sentiment; for two large portrait-heads of Colonel F. de Winton and Sir John McNiel, V.C., may well bear comparison with anything in the gallery as regards close observation of character and the perfect sincerity of the searching and competent execution. H.W. Marshall in a number of studies, made mostly in and about Newcastle-on-Tyne, but more particularly in "Rye Harbour" (294)—with a deliciously pearly sky—evinces a combination of artistic susceptibility to fresh impression, and of careful conscientiousness in realisation that is of great promise. Norman Taylor's "Gleaners" (220) has a singularly sweet sunny tone; very tender and delicate also is C. Rigby's "Salmon Weir" (305). Similar praise is due to W. M. Hale's contributions, but they are too evidently imitative of Alfred Hunt—who, by-the-way, is an absentee. E. F. Brewtnall has, in illustration of a fairy tale (124), a very graceful figure of a princess, in her stately, romantic palace grounds. W. Duncan appears to advantage as a colourist, see "The Novel" (69); and E. Buckman makes progress in the same direction. Tom Lloyd and E. A. Waterlow maintain their ground as frank and effective painters of landscape with figures, and the former has a touch of poetic sentiment in "A Pastoral" (91). Still more robust, and broader in their grasp of effect, are the "Studies from Nature," by R. Thorne Waite. Walter Field is likewise firmer and more decisive than usual in "Henley Church and Bridge" (40). The power displayed in T. J. Watson's "In a Wood" (217) is undeniable, but this power is obtained by a too free use of heavy browns—to the detriment of the aerial perspective. R. Barnes, as a rather too strenuously realistic painter of incidents of child-life, and F. S. Shields, as a rather weakly conventional decorative designer, also put in appearance. J. Parker is a follower of Frederick Walker, but this must not render us insensible to the nice feeling manifested in his "Little Idle One" (104) and in "La Cour Lavoussaye, St. Malo" (322). A certain indeterminateness of handling in the drawings of A. Goodwin might seem to be derived from the manner of Mr. Dodgson, but this is not out of place in the twilight view of "Tavistock" (56). H. Wallis has two pleasant little genre subjects which tell their story well—"The Marriage Settlement" (381) and "Reading a Manuscript" (404). With mention of Mrs. Angell's flower pieces, the vigorous painting of which requires no commendation; H. Moore's landscapes, which are even more acceptable than his marines, F. Powell's exquisite little loch scene "Becalmed" (316), Otto Weber's well modelled "English Cart Horses" (42), female figures elegant in contour, but rather flat in effect, by E. K. Johnson; O. W. Brierly's large and effective drawing from the Venice lagoon, with brazozzi caught in a squall, and shortening their gaily-painted sails; and characteristic examples of Basil J. Bradley, J. D. Watson, and A. Hopkins—we may pass to the works of some of the older or equally esteemed members, whose merits are better known.

Sir John Gilbert, the veteran President, is represented at his best, we think, in "The Battle of the Standard" (182), a "finished study" for the large drawing exhibited in the spring, and which, as not unfrequently happens, seems preferable even to the finished picture. Mr. Marks, continuing to work the vein of humour in which he has discovered analogues of the human biped in the feathered tribes, has in "The Two Dromios" (35) a couple of penguins, the one turning towards the other, as though remarking, in the words of the "Comedy of Errors"—"methinks you are my glass, and not my brother." The perfect identity of their black and white garb might further suggest two gentlemen in evening dress. Mrs. Allingham is even more delightful than usual in a number of tiny drawings of children and young girls with landscape accompaniments, all elaborated with the exquisite sense of beauty in everyday life, and the consummate delicacy of touch of Frederick Walker. It would be invidious to select any for special mention: all deserve closest scrutiny. Carl Haag sends a large head of a Sheikh (349), a howling Dervish (402), and a "Petrovich of Montenegro" (121), each in his best manner. Small drawings by G. Fripp on the screens are inimitably beautiful; and E. Duncan evokes renewed admiration with novel subjects and effects and the unfailing simplicity that comes only with mature mastery, witness Nos. 142 and 151. We must be content to commend to the visitor Mr. Dobson's "Silvia" (95), a female head in profile, lifesize; the contributions of S. Read--the principal one being a fine drawing of Burgos Cathedral, and several views on the precipitous West Coast of Scotland; and those, mostly small, of Birket Foster, F. Taylor, E. A. Goodall, A. D. Fripp, A. Glennie, G. H. Andrews, Brittan Willis, S. P. Jackson, C. Davidson, Collingwood Smith, P. J. Naftel, and T. Danby.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.

The inevitable comparison between the successive exhibitions of the elder and younger water-colour societies is fairly well sustained on this occasion by the latter, if we exclude from the former (as in fairness we must of course do), the loan collection of works by George Dodgson. The competition would be still more close were it not that several members of the institute who are distinguished chiefly as oil-painters contribute but sparingly, or not at all.

A new member has been lately elected—Mr. Lionel P. Smythe—and will doubtless prove a creditable acquisition. The refined artistic feeling in colour and execution which we have observed in this artist's recent oil-pictures is equally apparent in his water-colours, though the contributions with which he makes his début are but studies for oil-paintings that have been exhibited at the Royal Academy or Suffolk-street. One, called "Kindred Spirits" (29), shows a little girl resting in a garden-swing, while kittens play about the tree at her side. Another is a scene in a ship's cabin at night, with the master and mate consulting a chart by the light of the lamp suspended overhead. It is blowing very hard, as we see by the inclination of the timbers, and the propping up of the kettle on the stove with a poker, to prevent the hot water pouring over into the lee scuppers. The marked accession of power in the drawings of the President, Mr. Louis Haghe, would seem, happily, to prove the artist's complete recovery from his recent severe illness. Worthy of his best time are two interiors, with appropriate figures, from the Ducal Palace, Venice—the "Hall of the Bussola" (238) and the "Ante-room of the Sala del Consiglio" (65)—not "Councilio," as in the catalogue. Two or three younger architectural painters are also coming to the front. Mr. Fulleylove, hitherto known only (though favourably) by bits of Hampton Court or old English homesteads, sends promising studies from Siena (an unmodernised town, too much neglected by our artists), Assisi, and elsewhere in Italy. Mr. Wyld, whose reputation is higher in Paris (where he has long resided) than here, has several meritorious town views, particularly "The Old Slave Market, Algiers" (12). L. J. Wood, too, has made an advance; and among many pleasing examples of the late J. H. D'Egville, there is one, especially so, of "Venice" (181).

But most of the chief attractions of this exhibition are furnished by the many members who, more or less frequently, supply illustrations of scene and story to pictorial newspapers and periodicals. One of the foremost of these, Mr. Herkomer, is, however, only represented in the small black-and-white room by two not very felicitous efforts—"Grace before Meat," a scene in a Bavarian cottage, and a couple of lovers plighting "Love and Faith." J. Tenniel, again, is only exemplified in this room; his three contributions are, however, among his most capital designs for Punch. The charcoal sketches of "Newhaven Fishwives," by T. Walter Wilson are, we think, more successful in their way than his drawing in colours, "The Charge of the Light Brigade" (99), a scene in a Dutch cottage, with an old fellow on all fours, carrying two children on his back in mimic assault towards the baby, whose little hands are held up squared for defence by the old mother or grandmother: the painting is powerful, but the expressions are rather exaggerated. Two other artists, G. Clausen and Hugh Carter, derive both subjects and style from Holland. The first has learnt from the Dutch school the secret of the great artistic value of just tonal relations; and if he continues to advance as he has already progressed, "il ira loin." "Waiting for the Ferry" (71) finely illustrates the art-quality to which we allude; nothing in the room is so telling: a Dutch girl is waiting with her huge brass milk vessels by the side of a canal in the deepening twilight, while other figures of harvesters collecting on the crest of the opposite dyke-bank are relieved darkly against the still glowing sky.

"The Old Coaching Days" (78), by A. C. Gow, representing a couple of highwaymen making off from the coach they have robbed in the middle distance, beside which a lady is holding a restorative cordial to the lips of a fainting gentleman in a red coat, realises the rather threadbare incident with spirit and vraisemblance, and is a thoroughly conscientious and competent piece of work, finished, perhaps, only too highly and equally, seeing that it thereby acquires a little of what artists call "tightness." A somewhat analogous uniformity of execution may be felt in C. Green's otherwise excellent and humorous figure (58) of an old gentleman looking indignant at being interrupted in the perusal of a book which he holds in his hand, keeping the "place" with his finger. Two single-figure female studies, entitled "Autumn" (64) and "Winter" (276), by J. D. Linton, present, as usual, admirable facial characterisation and imitation of textures, with soberly rich colouring; but also, as usual, the artist sees shadow only as blackness, and the cumbrous costumes convey the impression of being painted from the lay figure. R. Beavis's very primitive "Sand Cart" of the "Pyrénées Orientales" (82), with its yoke of oxen, evinces a hand at once free and firm, together with assured command of the resources for picturesque effect. Less agreeable, because painted in body-colour on (probably) tinted paper, is "Greeting in the Desert" (262) by the same.

Digitized by Google

Our restricted space this week compels us to confine ourselves to simple mention of other noteworthy figure-subjects; to wit, E. Bale's pretty Italian children, one (204) with a fiascone of wine, the other (260) with a large brass water-pitcher; Guido R. Bach's large Roman Scene (222); C. J. Staniland's monk trudging through the snow, heavily laden with Christmas provisions, and consoling himself with the reflection that "Labour shall have its Reward" (252); Mary L. Gow's simple and sweet group of two girls playing at "Beggar my Neighbour" (8); H. J. Stock's sentimental or allegorical compositions, better in execution than conception; W. L. Thomas's pleasant Swiss subjects; and contributions by Seymour Lucas, F. W. W. Topham, G. G. Kilburne, J. Absolon, J. H. Mole, and Lady Lindsay.

Among several marine pieces by E. Hayes there is a large one of conspicuous merit, "Falmouth Harbour" (208) full of life and movement of wind and wave, and of knowledge in the craft. W. W. May likewise displays unwonted animation and strength of effect in a view of "The Thames at Greenwich" (72); while in "Fishing-Boats Leaving Trouville" (86) at evening for the night's take, and "Repairing the Schuyt" (94), we have the customary quiet sentiment and pleasant grey harmonies. The group of artists here who follow David Cox more or less closely still keep to the beaten track. J. Collier is rather disappointing in his sketch of "A Snowstorm over Carnedd David" (75). So, too, is J. Orrock, perhaps, in the rather tame "Summer Day on the Yorkshire Moors" (56); but his "Bolton Castle, Yorkshire" (230), if a little mannered in the foreground, has an admirable distance: the receding passages, plane on plane, are differentiated with great nicety. The vigorous drawing, "Carting Rushes" (206), by E. M. Wimperis, and J. W. Wymper's "Bolton Castle" (237) belong to the same category. J. Mogford seems likewise to have been looking to "Old Davy," and that with advantage, in his "Valley of the Tavy" (39). There is breadth, also, in J. Syer's "View at Wells, Somersetshire" (117), but the picturesque treatment is somewhat conventional. The invaluable quality of "breadth" is obtained by quite other means—not by rightforth handling, left as the pencil followed the mind of the artist, but by much general washing-in small but even more than ordinarily elaborate drawings by H. G. Hine; exquisitely reposeful and tender as these are, however, we confess we prefer execution more frank, expressive, and autographic, so to speak. J. Aumonier sends a large and effective study of rich, sloping herbage, with a flight of seagulls, called "A Bit of the Yorkshire Coast." W. Simpson has a highly interesting and vividly painted view of the Piræus (164), taken from the height where Xerxes is said to have watched the Battle of Salamis. Exigencies of space again limit us to simple recommendation to the visitor's notice of W. L. Leitch's charming small views from Southern Italy—always rendered with a fine sense of composition—Harry Johnson's "Tintern" (205), J. A. Houston's "Stonehenge" (32), E. Hargitt's "Loch Ling" (55), Harry Hine's "Durham Cathedral" (194), Sir Coutts Lindsay's "Elie Harbour" (24), and the still-life of J. Hardy, J. Sherrin, and Mrs. Duffield.

THE MAGAZINES.

The Cornhill has a new serial tale, "Fina's Aunt," in a style familiar to the readers of this periodical, and another, "Mrs. Van Steen," complete in this number. The latter is really a fine piece of comedy, not on account of the story, which is sufficiently hackneyed, but from the truth and delicacy of the portraits of the honourable and affectionate old Colonel and the little American woman, bright but a trifle hard, whom he mistakes for a widow. There is real art in the skill with which Mrs. Van Steen is kept from being disagreeable, or the Colonel ridiculous. The first instalment of "Rambles Among Books" treats of English authors especially associated with the country. It is difficult to say anything new about Izaak Walton or Gilbert White, but we are much gratified to meet with a frank recognition of the merits of Mr. Borrow, whose pictures of English country life unite realism with imagination to a degree not often found. "Lyme Regis" is a pleasant paper, but those acquainted with that delightful district would have liked a somewhat fuller description of its natural features. "Buddhists in Burma" is principally a sketch of the Burmese monastic system, of the ceremonies observed at the initiation of new members, and of the hold which the monks' efficiency as educators gives them upon the people.

By much the most remarkable paper in Macmillan is Mr. Bence Jones's inquiry, "What can be done for Ireland?" Mr. Bence Jones has spent forty years in raising the people on his property from a state of barbarism to one of comfort, and he is not minded that his work should be undone to please irresponsible agitators. The only requisites, according to him, are full protection for the rights of property and judicious assistance to emigration where the country is over-peopled. His reasoning has more good sense than nine tenths of what has been written on the Irish question, and would be impregnable if all landlords were judicious and resident like himself. Professor Jack describes the organisation and the mission of the new Victoria University in the North of England; Miss Betham-Edwards writes a lively account of the prolific and vivacious Andalusian novelist, Fernan Caballero; and Mr. George Meredith contributes one of his quaint and intricate poems, "Phœbus with Admetus." Mr. Grant Allen thinks that literary copyright should be perpetual; a view which, curiously enough, we observe to be especially popular with the authors whose works are neither intended nor adapted for posterity.

Fraser opens with a just and consequently appreciative review of "Endymion." Lord Northbrook's discourse on "The Natives of India" is, of course, interesting, as coming from one who has filled Lord Northbrook's position towards them, but it contains little of novelty. The other contributions are heavy and dry, with two remarkable exceptions. Mrs. Macdonald's "Penitence of Rajah Yayati" treats one of the most pathetic, and at the same time most characteristically Indian, episodes of Indian poetry, in an essay distinguished by lofty eloquence and deep feeling. "The Affair Simpson" is a very lively and amusing trifle, illustrating the comedy and romance of the noble game of golf.

There is rich comedy in Blackwood's new story, "The Private Secretary," alike of the refined and the humorous order. The leading situation is most dramatic, and the underplot almost equally effective. "Dr. Wortle's School" reaches a satisfactory conclusion. Kinglake's new volume is reviewed in a spirit of fairness to all parties. The article on the Indian Famine Commission derives weight from embodying the views of a retired Bombay civilian of long standing. A clever paper on the Ministerial policy in the East fastens upon it the nickname of the "Paulo post futurum" policy.

The Irish question is discussed from several points of view in the Nineteenth Century. Mr. Justin McCarthy is sufficiently sanguine to believe that the concession of the Land League's demands would stop agitation for ever. Lord Lifford is, on the other hand, so desponding as to consider that, let legislation do what it may, the innate faults of the Irish character will always keep the people poor and miserable. Miss O'Brien thinks that the happiest results might ensue upon the Government's letting out land in small patches to labourers. Mr. Plimsoll's essay on explosions in collieries is the exposition of a principle by the application of which he thinks they might be effectually prevented. "Music and the People," by Mrs. Marshall, is a very interesting account of the efforts that have been made to bring the music that exalts and refines within the reach of the poorest. Mr. A. S. Murray condenses the results of the highest criticism on the Olympian sculptures into a delightful paper. Mr. Hallan Tennyson, partly from private documents, attempts the vindication of Lord Russell's conduct during the Crimean War, usually considered as deficient in resolution as respected his adversaries, and in loyalty towards his own colleagues. Earl Grey denounces the present neutral attitude of the Colonial Office in South African affairs. Circumstances impart a melancholy interest to the late Sir A. Cockburn's paper on the chase, which would otherwise have been only remarkable as an example of the versatility of his powers.

The Contemporary Review is lighter and more varied than usual. The Duke of Argyll's essay in continuation of his treatise on the limits of human knowledge is, indeed, rather stiff reading, although the exertion is well repaid; and Mr. Hodgson's criticism of Professor Green's strictures on Herbert Spencer can interest only a select circle. But "Young Bengal at Home," by Mr. Knighton, the "Non-Resident American's" sketch of a New England village, and Lady Verney's pleasant autumn tour, will please those who read for amusement as well as for instruction, and Sir Rutherford Alcock's forecast of the possible results of the introduction of China to the family of civilised nations derives weight from the writer's former diplomatic position in the country. Mr. Alfred Austin's meditation in Poet's Corner, with reference to the exclusion of Byron, is rather rhetoric than poetry, but is nevertheless manly, dignified, and sonorous.

The Fortnightly Review has one article of considerable profundity—that by Mr. Herbert Spencer on the comprehensive subject of "Political Organisation in General," and several others of fairly average though not absorbing interest. Mr. Smyth's reminiscences of the "Young Ireland" party will command the respectful attention due to his eloquence and earnestness; but by much the most important part is the brief passage in which he avows his preference for fixity of tenure to "expropriation." This is the point on which the ci-devant Home Rule party will probably split. Mr. Leslie Stephen's notice of Pollock's Spinoza, and Mr. Grant Allen's review of Wallace's "Island Life" are examples of sound and careful exposition. Mr. Brodrick's paper on the relations of the Houses of Parliament is very conciliatory, and contains the sensible suggestion that more bills should be introduced into the House of Lords. The principal point in Mr. Pattison's address on "Industrial Shortcomings" is the superior inventiveness of the American manufacturer and artizan. Mr. Swinburne's "Short Criticisms on English Poets" is in the main a review of the criticism of Mr. Rossetti.

Harper's Monthly Magazine in its new form is even more captivating than ever, and in the quantity of its contents and the quality of its illustrations far surpasses all our English shilling magazines. Our publishers had better look to it. Our English illustrated monthlies, with few exceptions, have long been a disgrace to English art; and where the public find they can get, as in Harper, 160 pages of letterpress and fifty-four excellent engravings for a shilling, they are pretty sure to invest in the American article rather than in the British. The most attractive article in the present number of Harper—at least, to the English reader—will be "The English Lakes and their Genii," which is brightly and pleasantly written and well illustrated.

Scribner is as usual strong in illustrations, especially in the papers on the French painter Millet, and on Parisian art in general. The woodcuts to the article on "Hunting the Honey Bee" and those by Mr. R. C. Woodville, illustrating "Montenegro as we saw it," are also most excellent. Mr. Schuyler's history of Peter the Great is continued, and there is a paper of very serious interest on the extortions of the American railway companies, which would be endured nowhere in the Old World. The Australian has several papers of local interest, and wisely avoids the discussion of subjects of which its English readers have already had enough.

"Queen Cophetua" is concluded in the Gentleman's Magazine, which, with other entertaining matter, has, besides, a lively review of the deportment of individual Ministers since their assumption of office, and an estimate of the ground which they have respectively gained or lost. Lord Hartington, Sir C. Dilke, and Mr. Chamberlain come out of the ordeal well, Mr. Forster very badly. Mr. Dutton Cook contributes an excellent paper on Charles Kean, and Mr. J. C. Collins draws attention to the much neglected subject of Shakspeare's prose style. As Mr. Collins justly remarks, this style was almost wholly the creation of Shakspeare himself. Mr. Payn's "Confidential Agent" ceases this month to amuse and perplex the readers of Belgravia. Miss Hardy's "In China Town" is a capital descriptive paper. Temple Bar and Time are very readable, but without any special features. London Society has two excellent short stories, "My Forgery" and "A Very Queer Inn." The Antiquary is replete with interesting papers in its own special line; and the Theatre, among other good matter, has excellent contributions on Scribe, Mr. Booth's Hamlet, and "Eighteenth Century Burlesque."

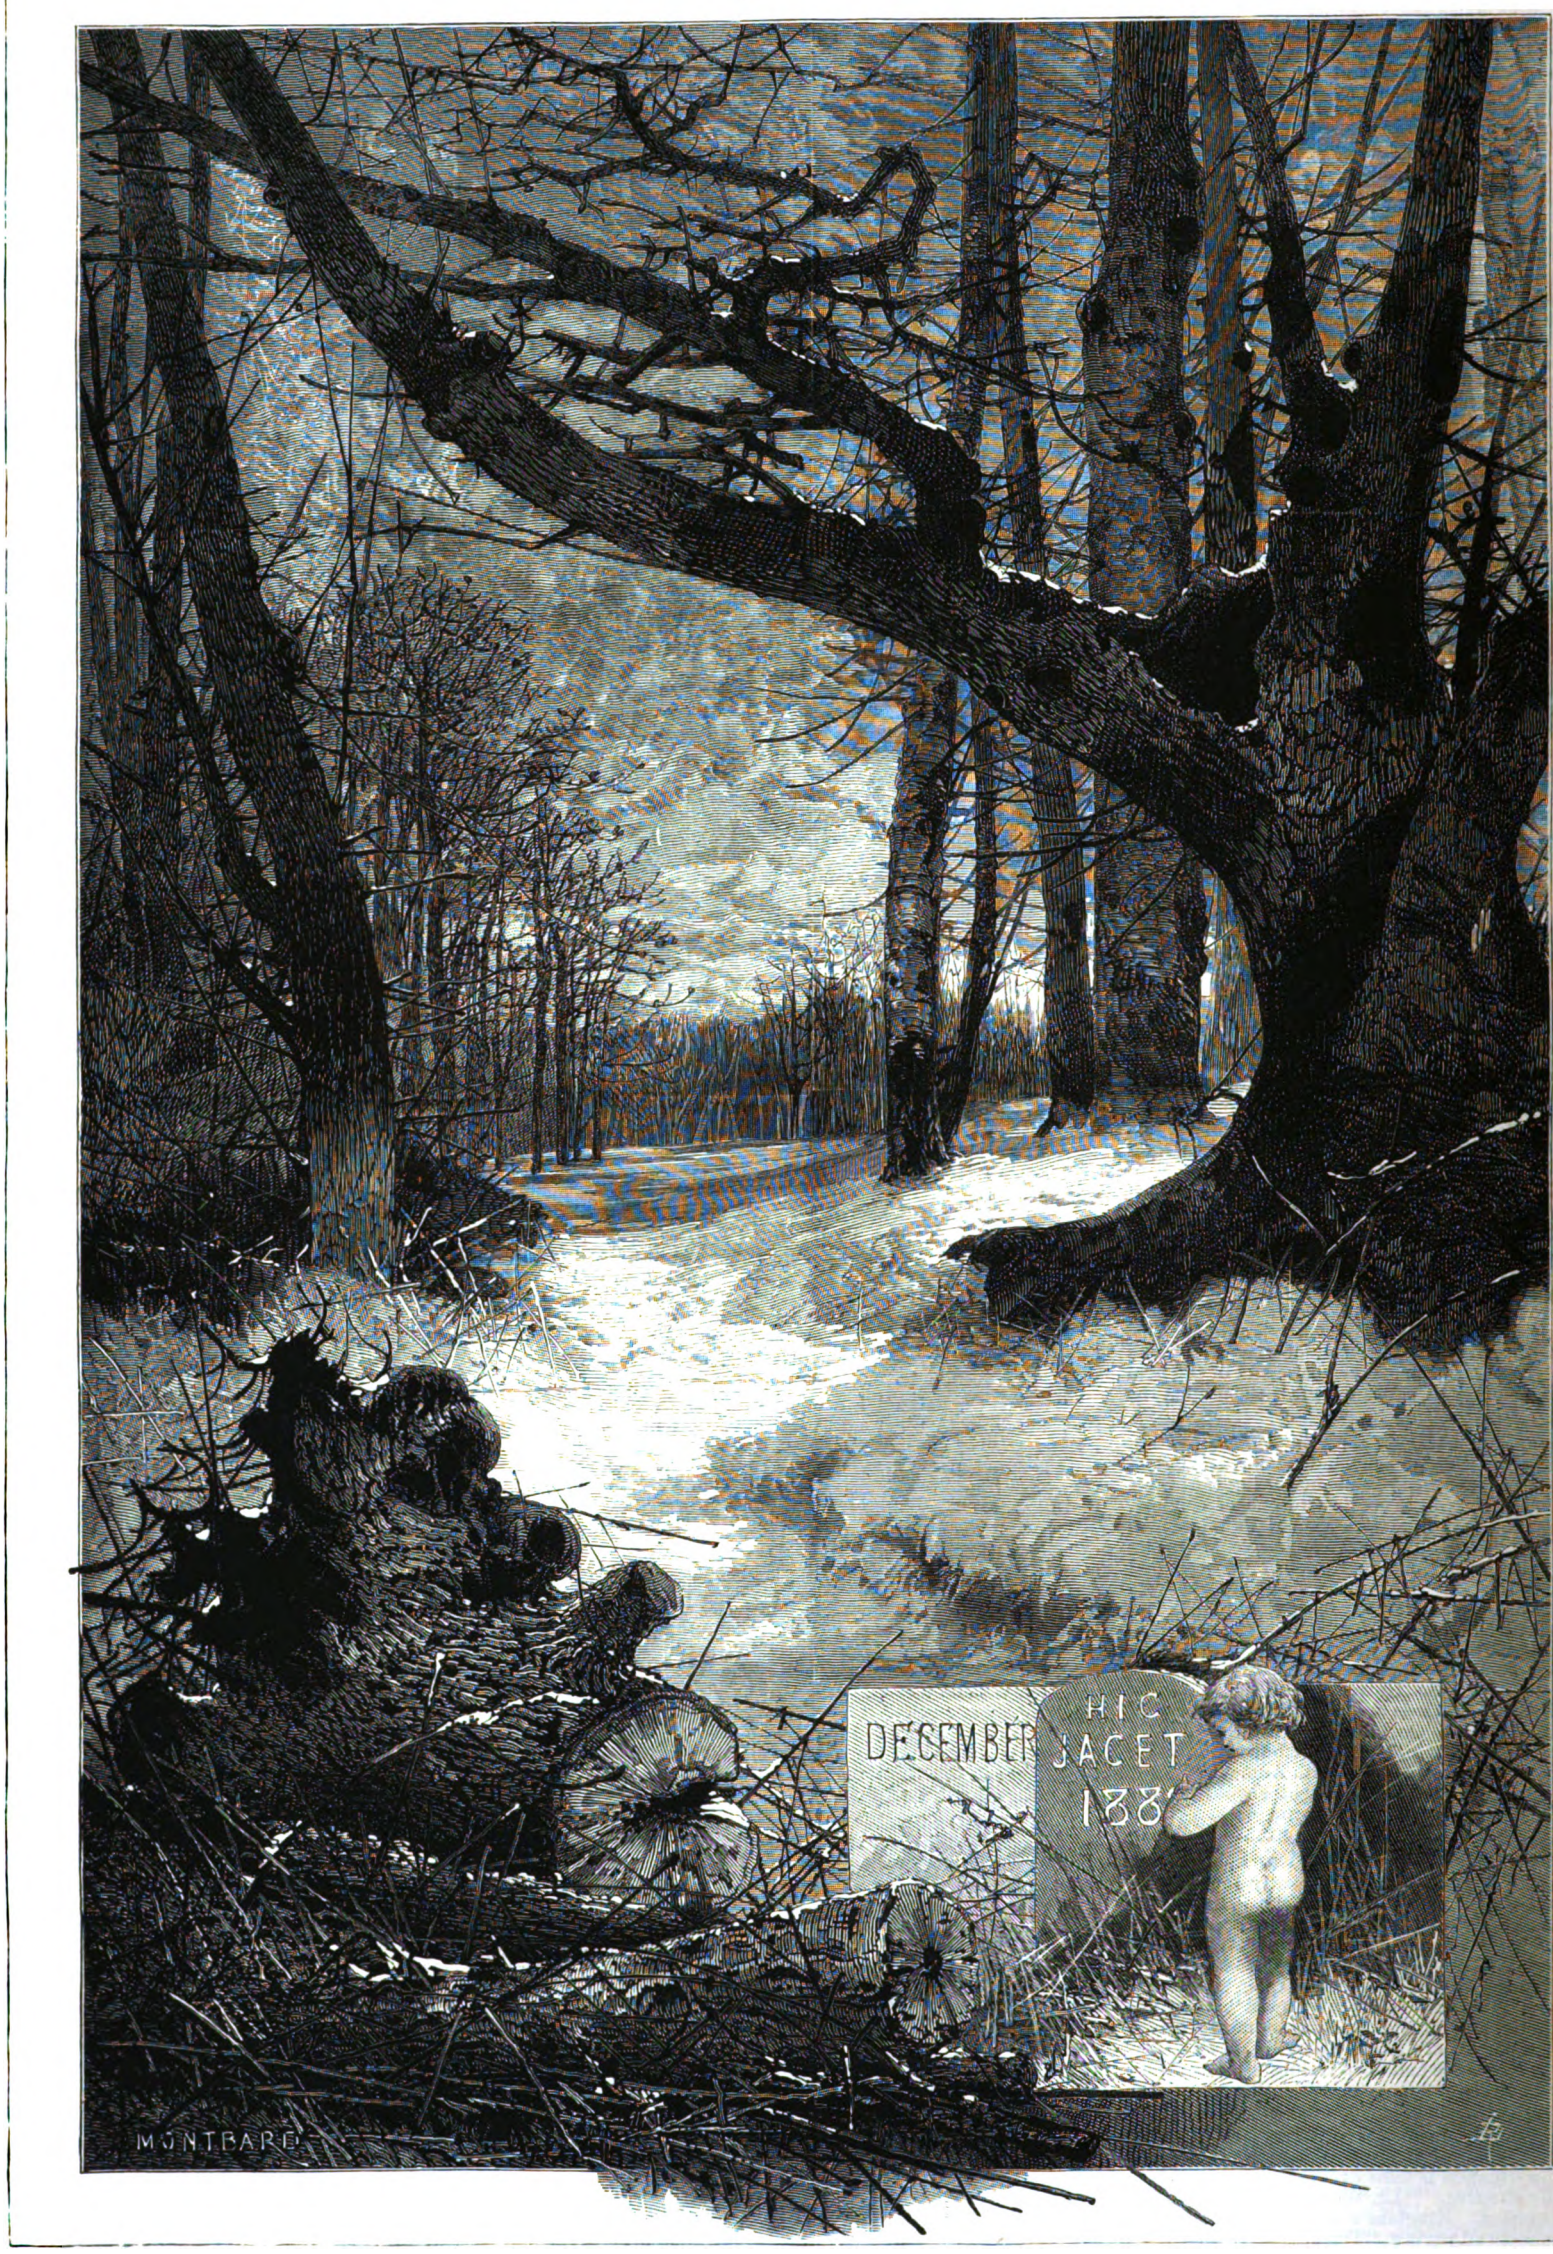
The December number of the Magazine of Art is bright and sparkling from the diversity and excellence of its illustrations. Among the literary contents is a just and pleasant sketch of the late Mr. Tom Taylor. The "Art Notes," if well sustained, will be a very interesting feature. Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin also issue an Illustrated History of the United States of America, and the Child's Life of Christ; and they continue to publish their excellent Family Magazine (the number for this month, a capital one, beginning a new volume), Old and New London, Technical Educator, Longfellow's Poetical Works, Illustrated; Science for All, Illustrated; Familiar Wild Flowers, with Coloured Plates; and an Illustrated Book of the Dog. This enterprising firm publish this month the first part of an entirely new work, entitled Old and New Edinburgh, with illustrations executed expressly for it; Part I. of Cassell's Cookery, with numerous illustrations, which is to be completed in thirteen parts; and the first part of a new and revised edition of Cassell's Popular Educator, with a large presentation plate, William Caxton showing specimens of his printing to King Edward IV. and his Queen.

The following is a list of the successful candidates for naval cadetships, arranged in order of merit:—S. R. Fremantle, M. C. Seymour, A. C. Leveson, C. H. F. Barttelot, C. P. Buckle, A. H. Walsh, P. H. Colomb, C. J. Fiennes, S. S. Douglas, W. H. D'Oyley, G. E. S. Petch, T. H. Forster, D. E. R. Brownrigg, H. P. Pelly, E. V. Underhill, H. Christain, W. B. Cooper-Coles, H. Blackett, G. E. Cave, Judge d'Arcy, G. C. H. Wintle, C. F. Corbett, and F. O. C. Osborne.

THE MONTHS: DECEMBER.

The blustering storms of wind, rain, and sleet, with which bluff old Winter commences his surly reign, are not calculated to impress us favourably with the altered poise of the year. Later on, however, when he casts his snows around us and binds land and water in chains of ice and frost, his rule, if not dear to us, is at least respected. In fact, directly he becomes the despot we bend submissively to his sway. We cannot but deplore the lot of the poor and destitute ones who, when the frost steals in through their crazy doors and windows, find the struggle for existence wellnigh too hard to bear; yet, in our hearts, we hail the grim tyrant complacently enough—for the frosty air is exhilarating and seasonable, and ice and snow infinitely more pleasant, from an æsthetic point of view, than the gloomy haze which often is the only alternative of frost.

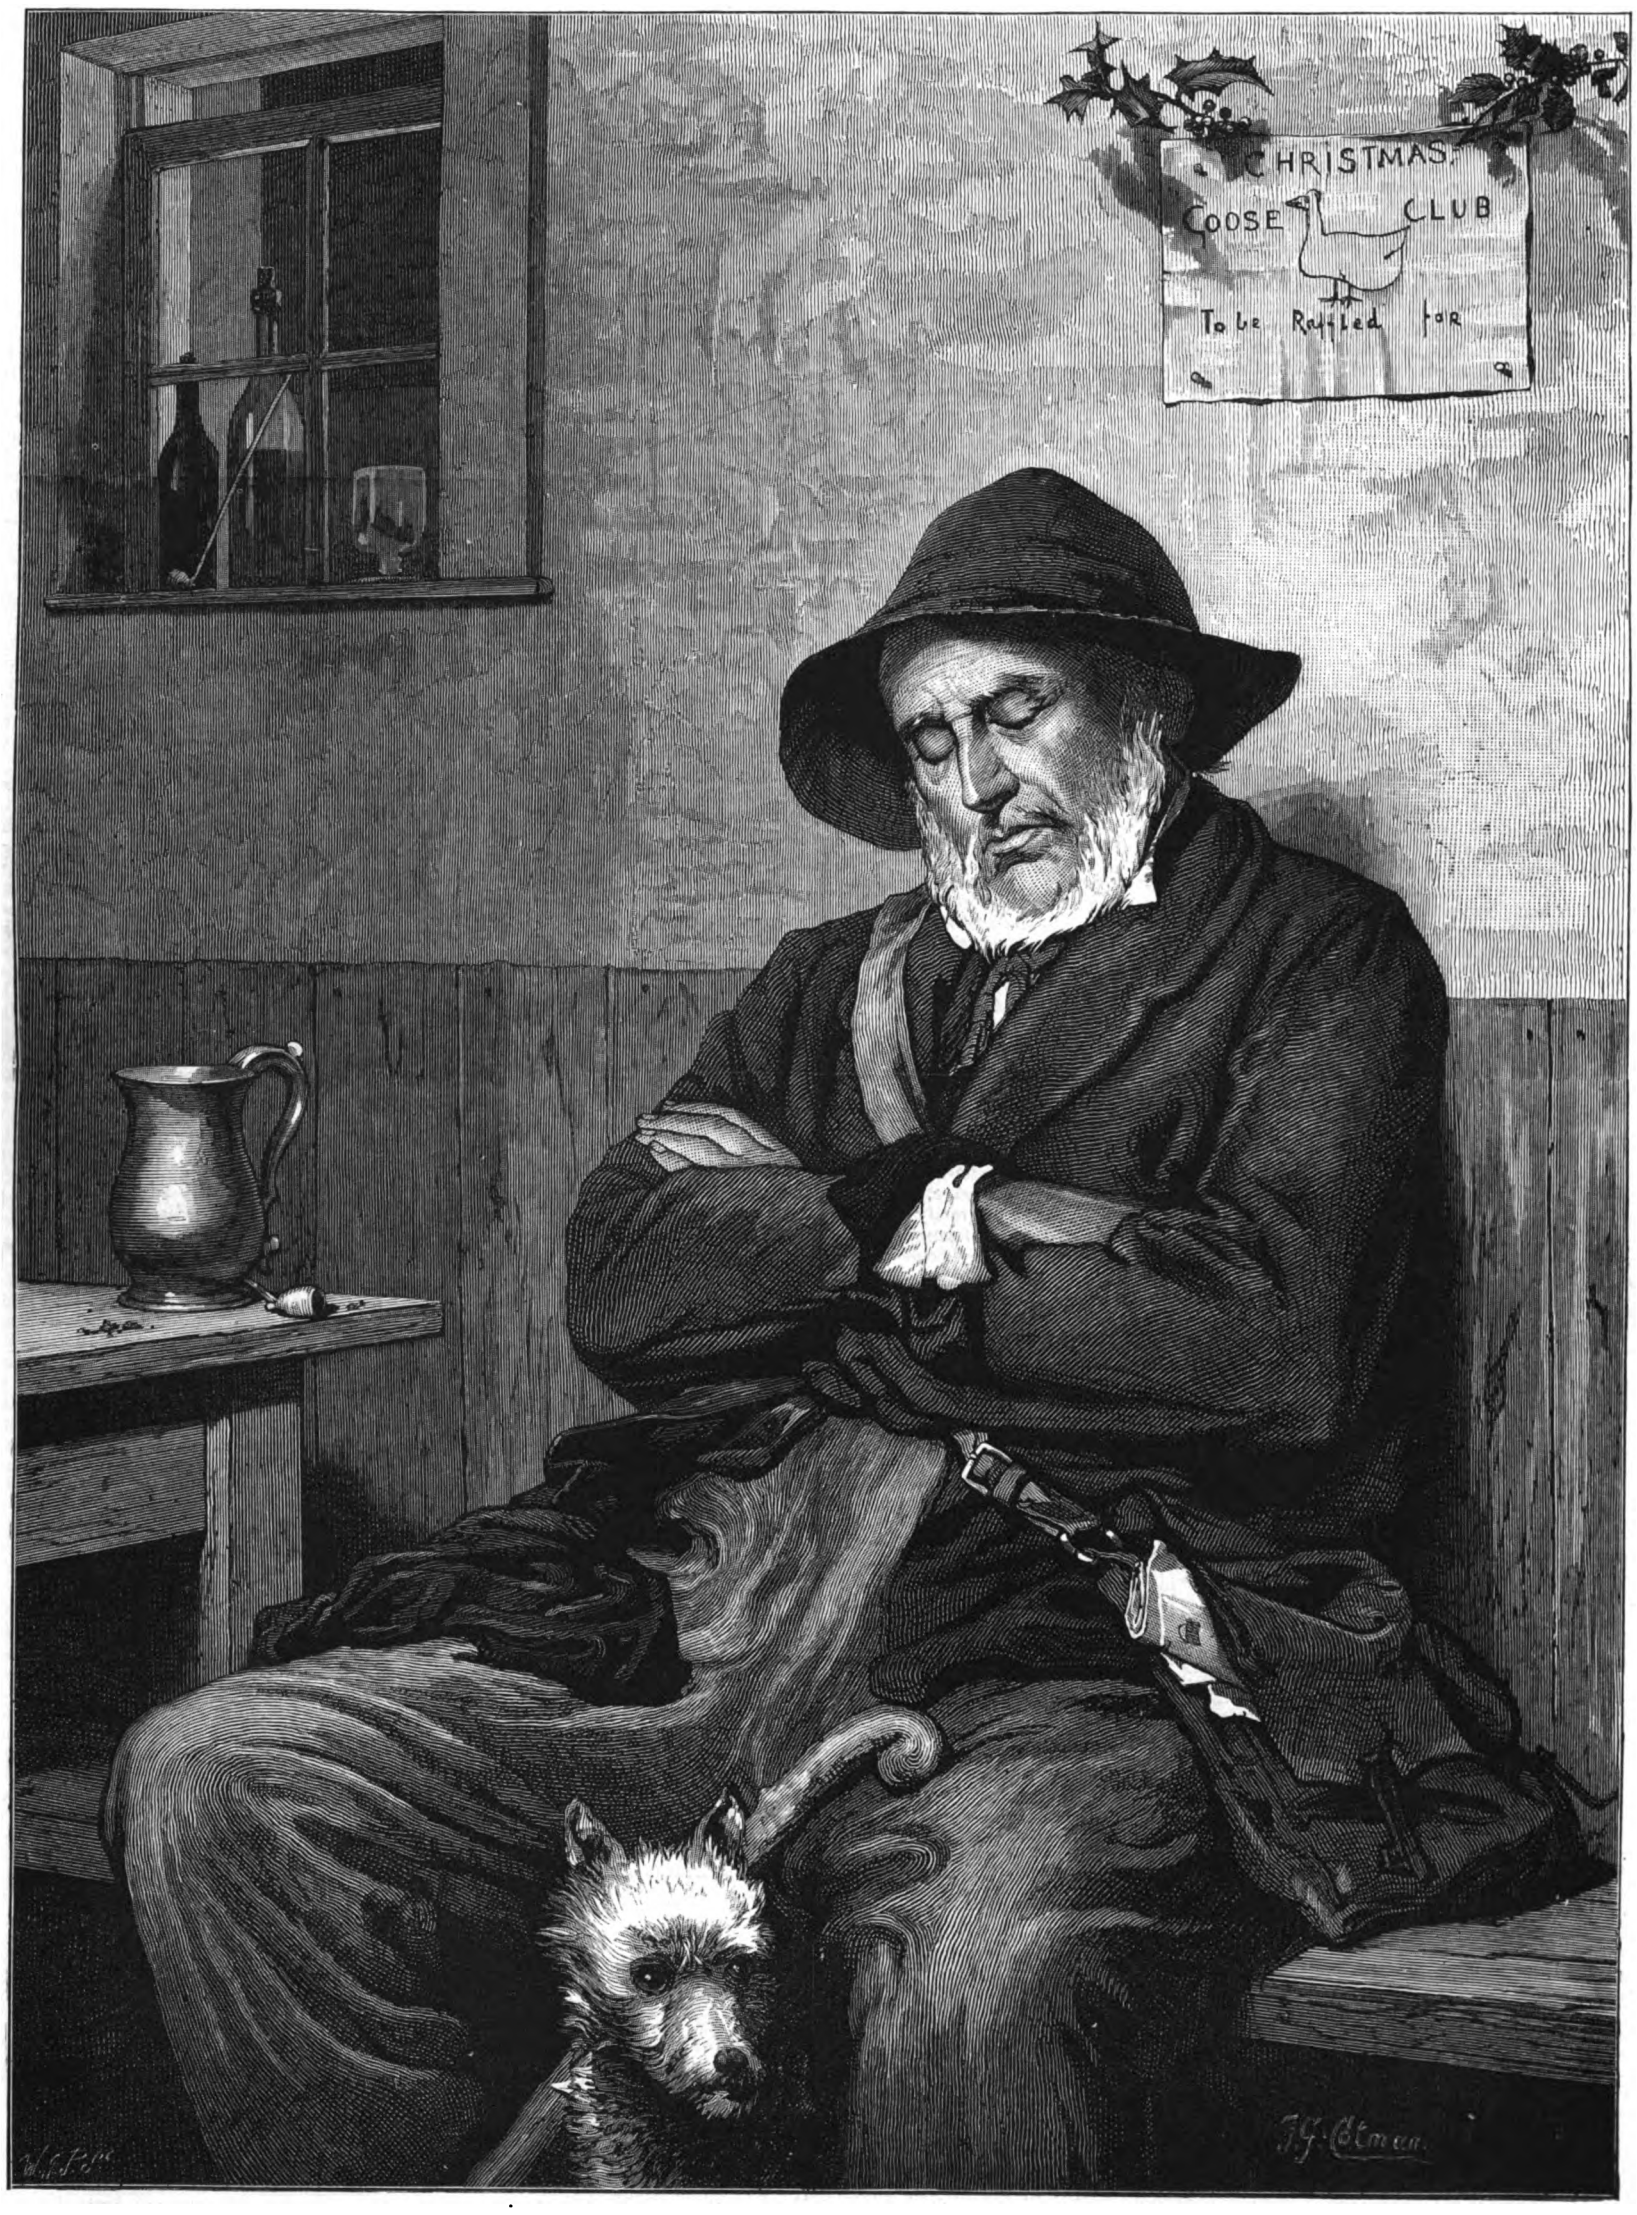
After the boisterous weather of the earlier part of the month, there is an indescribable charm in the first heavy fall of snow, especially when it comes in the dead of night. The lifeless landscape which yesterday lay spread before us in deepest gloom and desolation, is lifeless still; yet how lovely is the metamorphosis that has been effected in the silent night! Fields, lanes, hedges, trees, are so spotlessly white and pure, we could almost fancy that the angels of God, in pity for Earth's nakedness, have sped them earthwards to hide her shame. Even the habitations of man look comely now. Highly picturesque are all the little hamlets and villages of hill and dale, now that the soft, white snow has settled in brooding silence upon the low-thatched roofs, beneath which, from homely hearths, comes out a warm red glow that makes the snow upon paling, road, and hedge sparkle in ten thousand crystals. And the great city itself, with all its burden of guilt and sin, wakes up for once in unsullied purity.



But perhaps it is in the woods, and wherever there are trees, that the snow seems most meet; so soft and warm does it lie upon the leafless twigs and boughs, and so snugly nestles in the nooks and hollows where branches leave the parent stem. And just as prettily as upon the deciduous trees, rest the white feathery flakes upon the evergreens, especially those of the coniferous order. The cedar, while losing nothing of his stateliness, is absolutely beautiful when his great spreading branches are fringed with snow. The spruce-fir, too, with its feathery strata of foliage, rising tier above tier, its lower boughs sweeping the ground, and the light and graceful larch, are charmingly pretty. The lordly oak, though last of the trees to shed his leaves, had his pride and glory brought cruelly low by December's opening blasts; but, now that the snow-flakes have floated softly down amongst his straggling branches, he looks more than half consoled. And in what grand relief, against the white world around him, stands out his massy trunk, so picturesque in its varied tints and gnarled protuberances! The patches of olive-green, dusky brown, and yellow, and the clinging mosses, especially those green velvety tufts near his root, give to his furrowed stem a beauty more appreciated now than in the verdant summer time. And there are other trees, the picturesqueness of whose trunks is more noticeable in winter than when all was bright and green—such, for instance, as the plane-trees, whose scaly stems offer to the pencil the touches so effective in painting; the birch, with its markings of brown, yellow, and silver; and the beech, whose smooth rind is overspread with a variety of mosses and lichens.

Far less common than the mosses and lichens which adorn most of our trees is a parasite that grows, here and there, on the poplar, lime, maple, hazel, oak, and, in greatest abundance, wherever there is a goodly show of apple-trees. This plant, which has ever been famous for mystic rites and ceremonies, and which will soon be in urgent request wherever there are pretty lips and hearts that love, is now growing in great bunches throughout all the apple orchards of Herefordshire and Worcestershire. But, in the meantime, before the mistletoe is cut down for the London and other markets, the thrushes and fieldfares are helping themselves to the choicest of its viscid berries. Let not those, however, who are dreaming of certain eyes which speak and lips that tempt, be angry with the birds; for, were it not for the birds' depredations on the mistletoe, the plant would soon die a natural death. We all know that the missel-thrush derives its name from being considered the chief instrument in the propagation of this famous parasite. It missels (soils) its toes with the slime of the berry, and, alighting on a fresh tree, carries with it the germ of a future plant. But, besides his associations with the parasite in question, the missel-thrush has other claims upon our attention in this wintry month. He is one of the very few songsters of December, choosing the wildest weather for warbling his loud, rich, ringing lay. Shrieking winds and driving snowstorms do not daunt him, but, on the contrary, stimulate him to his highest pitch of enthusiasm. Hence his popular name of "stormcock." His yellow breast, thickly studded with jet-black spots, his large size, his constant residence amongst us, and, above all, his rich voice at the most inclement of the seasons, make the missel-thrush one of the most prominent birds of December. With him, as songsters of the month, we must, of course, include the robin and the tiny wren; but these sweet singers are silent during those rough bursts of wintry weather, when the stormcock chants his loudest carols.

Beyond the three songsters just named and the finches and sparrows that congregate in the neighbourhood of every farmyard, there are as scanty signs of life in the animal as in the vegetable kingdom. In field and lane, in woodland and river vale, the stagnation and death of nature is all but complete. True, there are still some wild quadrupeds about, but they manage to keep well out of sight, unless chevied from their covers by sportsmen, should the weather permit. Even the "uncanny" creatures that were lately crawling by the lane-sides have succumbed to the cold, and, abashed no doubt by the glittering purity of the snow, have slunk away into holes and crevices of the earth, there to undergo the wonderful process of hibernation. The snake has coiled himself up for his winter sleep, and the frog has retired into the mud at the bottom of ponds and ditches; the lizard, badger, and hedgehog, have rolled themselves up until the balmy breath of violets and primroses shall break their soporific spell; and the bats no longer fill the air with their tiny shrieks, but are hanging, suspended by the claws of their hind feet, in caverns, barns, and mouldering ruins. The herds, too, and the flocks that not long since enlivened all the country side, have disappeared from the hill-slopes to the precincts of the farmyard.



Indeed, so far as the rural aspect of the month is concerned, it is only in the immediate vicinity of farmyards that we find any signs of life. The assembly of birds driven thither by the cold, the cattle knee-deep in straw, the stacks daily being cut into for bedding, and the busy hum of the thrashing-machine, give to such localities an air of considerable animation and bustle. Around the homesteads, too, there is even an air of warmth, in the nestling evergreens, in the holly especially, whose clustering bunches of bright red berries cheer our hearts with thoughts of Christmas. And, after all, the knowledge that the great Christian anniversary is close at hand is the one bright star which makes this torpid month beloved, no matter how hard the frost or how deep the snow.

Digitized by Google

THE MONTHS: DECEMBER.

Digitized by Google

POST HASTE.

DRAWN BY F. G. COTMAN.

Digitized by Google

POST HASTE!

The rural postman, or letter-carrier, being an elderly man not quite so alert and vigorous as in his younger days, now finds the walking round of twenty miles over heavy roads, in summer or winter, and in wet or dry weather, somewhat more fatiguing than it used to be. We must not judge him too harshly, as the spirit is doubtless willing though the flesh is weak, if, having turned at the Red Lion, only for a half pint of ale and a pipe of tobacco, in the afternoon part of his daily service, he has fallen into a brief slumber on the tap-room bench. Here, as we see, the artist, Mr. F. G. Cotman, has chanced to find him, and, instead of waking him immediately, and starting him afresh in the path of duty, has thought it worth while to draw his picture. And a very good picture he makes, in that comfortable attitude of settled occasional repose, with folded arms, nodding head, every muscle of the careworn and weather-beaten old face now suffused with a peaceful calm; to him, no doubt, as good as being in church on Sunday, and not hearing the sermon! Post Haste, as a general maxim or precept, is commendable enough; but first let Nature take her tribute; after that, for the delivery of the mails. It is, however, by no means certain that this good old public servant's bag—or he may be the private messenger from the squire's great house to the nearest post-office—does not contain letters or papers intended for the evening's dispatch on their way to other places. If that be the case, he is more likely to be severely called to account for the possible ill consequences of losing a mail.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS.

A superb large quarto volume, published by Messrs. Blackie and Son, is entitled Switzerland: its Scenery and People, containing a great collection of fine engravings, drawn by many eminent Swiss and German artists. The text, an historical and descriptive account of that romantic country, is mainly translated from the German of Dr. Gsell-Fels, but adapted to the taste of English readers by Mr. G. G. Chisholm, who has made it a very interesting book. It treats of the Lake of Geneva, the Rhone valley, the Upper Reuss valley, the Lake of Lucerne, and Forest Cantons, the Bernese Oberland, the city of Berne, and the Lake of Thun; then of north-western Switzerland, Freiburg, Neuchâtel, Basle, and the Aargau; of the north-eastern region, Schaffhausen, Thurgau, Appenzell, St. Gall, and the Lake of Constance; of the south-eastern, the Grisons, the Engadine, and Ticino; and, lastly, of all that lies about the Lake of Zurich. Here is an ample field of topographical study, with abundance of national and social peculiarities, and of instructive topics concerning the local geology, botany, and natural history, which are discussed with considerable learning, but in a clear and pleasant style. The engravings, many of which are of full page size, are displayed to advantage by the finest paper and printing; and the volume is splendidly bound.

In the class of illustrated books of critical art-history, Mr. D. Bogue has produced a volume on British Painters of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries. It will be very agreeable to those who have a truly English predilection for our native school of art, but it is far from including all the chief examples of that school. Those of whom it treats are J. W. M. Turner, Constable, Callcott, Wilkie, B. R. Haydon, Mulready, Etty, David Cox, Eastlake, David Roberts, and Stanfield, of the older series; then Frank Stone, Webster, Landseer, Tayler, Dyce, Cope, Creswick, Ansdell, T. J. Barker, J. C. Horsley, Sir J. Gilbert, Dobson, Frith, Hook, E. Gill, and Pickersgill, of the second generation; and Faed, Madox Brown, Noel Paton, R. Beavis, H. S. Marks, Yeames, Alma Tadema, Boughton, P. R. Morris, Poynter, Briton Rivière, F. Walker, and Frank Holl, of those not yet past middle age. Two pictures by each artist have been engraved for this work.

Fantastic mythology, drawn from authentic legendary sources, may serve for literary instruction as well as for imaginative recreation. This will recommend, perhaps, not only to "boys and girls," but to their elders, a book of "tales and traditions of our northern ancestors," which Mr. W. S. W. Anson has edited, but which is adapted, by M. W. Macdowall, from the work of Dr. W. Wägner. It bears the name of Asgaard and the Gods; Asgaard being the Olympus, or home of the gods, in the Scandinavian and Teutonic systems of religious fable. The volume is published by Messrs. W. Swan Sonnenschein and Allen, Paternoster-square. The illustrative woodcuts have some merit as original designs.

A comical parody of the fashion of Norse and Germanic romances, but in the shape of a story which Mr. J. Moyr Smith calls "a Northern Oddity," supposed to be transcribed from a Runic manuscript he picked up in a dream at the Maes How in the Orkneys, is called The Wooing of the Waterwitch (Chatto and Windus). It relates the adventures of Vingolf, a son of the Vikings bold, with his friends Gringab and Suckard, who are very amusing fellows; also, of Prince Balderdaesh, and of several young ladies whom they met, either above-ground or under the water. The engravings are boldly and cleverly designed by Mr. Moyr Smith; and the drollery of some, and the beauty of others, including the decorative initial letters, and the ornamental head-pieces and tail-pieces, make this a very attractive Christmas book.

Messrs. F. Warne and Co. have brought out several books for the seasonable diversion of youth, which please us highly by the good taste, as well as the humour, fun, and liveliness of their contents and of the pictorial illustrations. Merry Ballads of the Olden Time should be reproduced over and over again, for each successive generation of children, and have never appeared to such great advantage as in this publication. Those ancient favourites of the English people, "King John and the Abbot," "Whittington," "Tom Thumb," "Allan-a-Dale and Robin Hood," "The Blind Beggar of Bethnal-green," and others in this collection, must never be allowed to be forgotten. The Illustrations, some coloured, some merely tinted brown, are executed in chromolithography by Messrs. Emrik and Binyon. We likewise admire the agreeable quaintness, combined with elegance, neatness, and finish, of Afternoon Tea, which consists of simple diverting rhymes for children, illustrated by Messrs. J. G. Sowerby and H. H. Emmerson. These artists might seem to have borrowed, perhaps unconsciously, something of the air and style of Miss Kate Greenaway's designs, but they show no slight degree of original power. The colouring is mostly of the pale and gently modulated tints which have lately come into vogue, and which are very preferable to the blazing fierceness of those commonly employed ten years ago. The same publishers have issued two nice half-crown books of words and music, Songs for Our Little Friends and The Children's Hour, each containing twenty-four or twenty-six pieces, the words by E. R. B. and Mrs. Curtois, the music by Madame Borrani. These will enable some little folk, who can sing if they will, to learn how they may contribute to the pleasure of their elders.

Among the pretty or fanciful and amusing books of Christmas entertainment, we observe the Story of Prince Hildebrand and Princess Ida (De la Rue and Co.). The author and amateur artist, Major T. S. Seccombe, tells this mock-romantic tale in rhymed couplets of a long, ambling measure, which requires to be recited with skilful regard to rhythmic cadence, and we fear it may become fatiguing on the lips of an untrained reader. There is much humour and vigour in the illustrative woodcuts, numbering a hundred and ten, and the paper and printing are exquisitely fine. Messrs. Sampson Low and Co. publish Northern Fairy Tales, translated by Mr. H. L. Brækstad from the Norwegian and Danish, with thirty-six coloured page illustrations by R. T. Pritchett and Clifford Merton. The same publishers have brought out Pretty Peggy, and other Ballads, a book for young children, with Rosina Emmet's clever drawings, full of life and character, also printed in colours. From Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin, in the same class of publications, we have the Favourite Album of Fun and Fancy, with a large amount of pleasant reading for boys and girls, and with abundance of small engravings. Also, by Miss C. L. Matéaux, a new tale of domestic and juvenile interest, Tim Trumble's Little Mother, which is very good for the reading of thoughtful girls, between nine and twelve years of age.

A suggestive novelty in the way of book-illustration, by Mr. G. L. Lillie, is called Splashes of Ink (G. Routledge and Sons). It is worth the notice of black-and-white artists, or amateurs of that kind of art, who will here see what telling graphic effects can be produced by apparently the simplest means; while the attempt to do likewise may furnish a great deal of amusement for an idle hour. There is a high degree of imaginative force in the hints conveyed by those rude patches and scrawls, easily translated into effective pictures.

A beautiful work, forming one small volume, published by Cassell, Petter, and Galpin, is Familiar Garden Flowers, the first series, uniform with "Familiar Wild Flowers." Mr. Shirley Hibberd, a highly competent author, supplies the botanical descriptions, while the illustrations are drawn by Mr. F. E. Hulme. Forty of these are full-page coloured plates, which are equally to be admired for their truth and for their beauty; each chapter is further ornamented with a head-piece and tailpiece woodcut of the appropriate floral subject. The volume has a neat pasteboard case for its safer preservation.

Illustrated editions of Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome (Longmans) and of Washington Irving's Little Britain, and Legend of Sleepy Hollow (Sampson Low), will make very acceptable gift-books to friends of good literary taste. The designs for Macaulay's heroic Lays are by Mr. J. R. Weguelin; those for Washington Irving's delightful tales and sketches are by Mr. C. O. Murray. Both artists have done very well.

Lord Brabourne, who as Mr. Knatchbull Hugessen displayed his knack of telling fairy-stories to divert young people, has not, since his elevation to the Peerage, lost or despised this agreeable and condescending talent. The Mountain Sprite's Kingdom (G. Routledge and Sons), followed by three other tales of Germanic and other romantic mediæval mystery, will find acceptance with his "River Legends" and "Uncle Joe's Stories." The illustrations, by Ernest Griset, more especially that of "Black Rolf and old Elfrida," in the frontispiece, are designed with much power of conception, and some of them are very well drawn. The same publishers, in Mrs. Frederick Locker's gentle and graceful little fable, What the Blackbird Said, with engravings which Mr. Randolph Caldecott has designed with much truth to nature, furnish milder entertainment for the fancy of tender-hearted children. A Silver Key to a Golden Palace, by Alton Leslie, relates the adventures of a little maid who got a ride in a chaise drawn by a Moa, and was carried into a Wonderland not unlike that of the celebrated Alice.

Two eminent Professors, under the publishing auspices of Messrs. Routledge, produce their budgets of marvellous knowledge to gratify the intellectual activity of youth. Professor Pepper, formerly of the Polytechnic Institution, in his Boys' Playbook of Science, the first edition of which appeared some time ago, gave directions and explanations concerning an instructive series of experimental exhibitions in the way of the physical, mechanical, chemical, electrical, magnetic, pneumatic, and optical sciences. In his absence at the antipodes, a new edition, with some enlargements, and with the addition of chapters on photography, the telephone and microphone, the phonograph, the heliograph, the electric light, and the spectroscope, has been prepared by Mr. T. C. Hepworth, his colleague at the Polytechnic Institution. The woodcuts, which number 453, are drawn by Mr. H. G. Hine, under the author's direction. The other volume, by "Professor Hoffmann," which is a nom de plume for the clever author of "Modern Magic," is a translation of Robert Houdin's posthumous work, a treatise on The Secrets of Stage Conjuring. This must not be confounded with that entitled "Robert Houdin's Secrets of Conjuring and Magic," an English version of which, by the same translator, has already appeared. Either or both may be safely recommended to persons who are ambitious, enterprising and adroit enough to attempt the task of gaining practical expertness in the harmless art of visual illusion, for the diversion of social and family parties at the coming festive season.

Another Christmas publication of the same firm, in Broadway, Ludgate-hill, called Prince Darling's Story-Book, consists of four tales now translated from the French, the merits of which may be certified by the names of their authors, E. Ourliac, Alexandre Dumas, Paul de Musset, and C. Nodier. They are the stories of "Prince Coqueluche," the "Honey-Stew of Countess Bertha," "Gaffer Wind and Dame Rain," and "The Woodcutter's Dog," with illustrations numbering above three hundred, but of small size.

SIR E. J. REED ON JAPAN.

Among the Illustrations of newly built ships of war, for the service of foreign Governments, which have appeared in this Journal, our readers may perhaps recollect that of the iron-clad frigate Foo-Soo, constructed at Millwall for his Imperial Majesty the Mikado of Japan. The designer of that vessel was Sir E. J. Reed, K.C.B., now M.P. for Cardiff, who was formerly Chief Constructor for our own Lords of the Admiralty, and who is also Vice-President of the Institution of Naval Architects. Mr. Reed, as he was then styled, had occasion to visit Japan, towards the beginning of last year, and passed three months in that interesting country of Far Eastern Asia. We are indebted to his personal observations there, and to his diligent researches into Japanese history and statistics, for one of the most instructive books of its class. Two volumes, which are very full of matter, rather closely printed, have just been published by Mr. Murray, entitled, "Japan: its History, Traditions, and Religions, with the Narrative of a Visit in 1879," by Sir E. J. Reed.

A particular interest in Japan may have been inspired in some minds by the numerous sketches which Mr. C. Wirgman, our clever correspondent at Yokohama, has contributed to the Illustrated London News during the past sixteen years, and by those of our Special Artist, Mr. W. Simpson, who went there in 1873. We have not failed to notice, however briefly, whatever fresh descriptions of Japanese scenery, popular life, manners, and institutions have occurred in recent books of travel, or in special studies of Japanese literature and art. The striking effects, too, of the great social and political revolution that has taken place since 1868, when the rule of the Tycoon or Shiogoon was broken, and that of the Emperor, styled the Mikado, was restored in full power, have often been remarked. One consequence of this change of government, involving as it did the destruction of the old feudal aristocracy, has been the speedy introduction of European fashions, and great progress in the industrial arts and sciences, chiefly under English instruction. Mr. Wirgman, whose talent as a comic and grotesque artist is widely known, has frequently amused us with laughable pictures of the queer looks of Japanese courtiers, and dandies affecting the novelties of the day, when they first put on the tight coats and trousers and boots of the Western nations. But it is now some time since we saw any drolleries of that kind. As the Japanese in general are well-made men, rather superior to most Europeans in bodily grace and activity, and with much tact and self-possession, it is likely that they have ceased to make such ridiculous figures.

Sir E. J. Reed's work presents to us, on the contrary, a large mass of substantial knowledge, very well digested and arranged, concerning the more serious affairs of Japanese society, its conditions and prospects. An outline of his treatment of this subject, which is on many accounts deserving of public attention, may be useful to direct the reader's mind in surveying what is here related.

The second volume alone contains the narrative of Sir E. J. Reed's visit to Japan, which extended from Jan. 10 to the end of March; a month being spent at Tokio, as the metropolis of the empire, formerly Yeddo or Jedo, is now called. He was received with great hospitality, and with official honours, by Admiral Kawamura, the Japanese Minister of Marine, and by the local magnates to whom he was recommended in other parts of the country. In his descriptions of the great towns, which have been abundantly described by preceding writers, as by Mr. Simpson in "Meeting the Sun," and by Mr. James Hingston, in "The Australian Abroad," there is little to dwell upon here. Osaka, the city of many canals and bridges, with its bustle of popular traffic; and Kioto, the western capital, with its temples and palaces; and Nara, the town of the sacred Buddhist shrines, with its huge bronze idol, Dai-butsu; the shores of the Inland Sea, with the Strait of Shimonoseki, and the south-western port of Nagasaki, the site of the old Dutch commercial settlement—all these places have long been made familiar to those who like books of travel. That is to say, we have already thereby got some acquaintance with their outward aspects, the ordinary appearance of their streets, buildings, and gardens, and the common ways of their people. Sir E. J. Reed, however, enjoyed special opportunities, by the aid of his official and social introductions, for inspecting several establishments of high importance, and obtaining precise information about them. He was also a guest at public and private entertainments of superior dignity, and witnessed the best style of native manners and conversation, among persons of rank. With these advantages his range of observation was different from that of undistinguished foreign tourists in Japan. Great pains were evidently taken to please him, and to win his approbation, which is freely given in most instances, with a general sense of satisfactory progress.

We are glad to find that this is not confined to the questionable adoption of European outward fashions and costumes, or even to the adoption of scientific mechanical inventions. Railways, electric telegraphs, and the works of the arsenal and dockyard, have occupied much attention; but we like nothing of which Sir E. J. Reed tells us better than the educational institutions at Kioto, described in chapter ix. of his second volume. These are, the female normal school, founded in 1871, his account of which is very pleasing; a female industrial school, connected with the above; a school of improved agriculture, with model farms and imported foreign cattle; a school of gardening for the culture of fruit and vegetables; a school of manufacturing chemistry and physics; and those of special instruction for textile manufactures, of the European sort, dyeing, paper-making, needlework, shoe-making, and other useful trades. All these branches of industry and others, down to street-sweeping, are taught at the expense of the city municipality of Kioto, which really sets an example to our own City Corporations and Trade Guilds, at least in this respect. Twenty-four of the Japanese girls in the Normal School are learning English from an American lady, Mrs. Arnold; she invited Sir E. J. Reed to hear their English reading, which was very good—"notably Miss Yo Tamatei and Miss M. Omori, both of them quite young girls." We are reminded of the experience of Mrs. Chaplin-Ayrton at Yokohama, with her female class of pupils in surgery and medicine. The Japanese have, indeed, great aptitude for learning; and it is delightful to be assured that "Japan is now governed by a Monarch and Ministers who appreciate, and are resolved to extend to boy and girl alike, the supreme blessing of education." The author goes on to mention other schools, in which the ornamental accomplishments of music, singing, and dancing, and even "the art of ceremonial tea-making," are taught to Japanese young ladies. The proper performance of serving meals to company on state occasions is very artistic and elaborate in a genteel household. Sir E. J. Reed bestowed minute attention upon all these points of domestic manners, which he notices with many a touch of quiet humour.

We have reserved for consideration the first volume of his work, since it consists mainly of the results of historical and literary studies. In these he has been assisted by several learned friends, Professor Anderson and Captain Brinkley, of Tokio, Mr. R. Stuart Lane, of the Japanese Legation in London, and others; while he has drawn largely upon the Transactions of the Asiatic Society of Japan, the contributions of Mr. Ernest Satow, Mr. W. G. Aston, and Captain Pfoundes; the recently published books of Mr. Griffis, and that of Mr. Mounsey on the Satsuma rebellion; and the reports on Japanese arts and manufactures at the Philadelphia and Paris Exhibitions. Sir E. J. Reed has compiled all this mass of knowledge, archæological, ethnological, and statistical, with the ancient mythologies, and the more or less authentic records of native historians, and with a review of latter-day foreign conflicts or negotiations, into a treatise upon Japan worthy of careful perusal.

Two or three separate chapters are devoted to the different religions of that country; Buddhism, which may be studied, we believe, more fairly among some other nations; and the peculiar Shin-To religion, as well as the original traditions of "the god-period," from which the Mikado's divine authority is derived. We have to thank Sir E. J. Reed for making known to us, though perhaps inadvertently, the identical heathen deity who has, of late, been so much invoked by vulgar-minded Englishmen, in their martial oath "By Jingo!" It seems that "Jingu" is the name of a popular goddess, a deified empress, of course, under whose auspices the Japanese nation, sixteen centuries ago, conquered the neighbouring land of Corea; and she afterwards gave birth to a son, named Ojin, "known and worshipped everywhere as the Spirit and God of War." So much for this Imperial Jingo, on whom our hopes we fix, to "scatter her enemies, and make them fall." Sir E. J. Reed's commentary on the fabulous stories of the creation of the world that are accredited by Japanese theology is pervaded by a piquant vein of irony, and of satirical scepticism only half disguised by his air of serious consideration for those marvels.

Digitized by Google

There is much curious and entertaining historical anecdote in this volume of Sir E. J. Reed's book; which also discusses the existing state of political and commercial relations with Japan. He was presented to the Emperor, or Mikado, whose name is Mutsu-Hito, and who ascended the throne in 1867. The character of his Majesty, as well as those of his Ministers, who are severally described and commended, seems to warrant our entertaining favourable expectations of the future progress of Japan in real civilisation. The author's experiences, on the whole, leave a decidedly agreeable impression of its promising state; and we are even told that a beginning of constitutional representative government has been made, by establishing, in 1878, elective assemblies to manage local taxation.

These two volumes are furnished with a good map and with a number of engravings; some from photographs, others from sketches by Mr. E. Tenn Reed, the author's son, who accompanied his father. There are a few copied by Japanese artists from pictures of Hokusai, which are extremely comical, wonderfully bold and spirited; as those of "Coolies Quarrelling," page 272, and "Two Warriors," wrestling, page 348, in the first volume; and, in the second, page 300, that of the fat men bathing, called "Soldiers in Time of Peace." The critical remarks on Japanese art, in chapter iv. of the second volume, are partly supplied by Professor Anderson, who has an accurate and complete acquaintance with the subject.

KINGLAKE'S WAR IN THE CRIMEA.

Recollections of some horrid nightmare or some unspeakable grief are, as a general rule, best buried, if that be possible, in oblivion; but, at the call of Dido, or of duty, the participator in deplorable events, or the historian of them, must needs revive the terrible past, as it is revived in the sixth volume of The Invasion of the Crimea, by A. W. Kinglake (William Blackwood and Sons), which is the latest instalment of a work commenced, as it seems, in the youth of men who have now grey hairs, and likely to be finished, as despair suggests, when the often cited snake has done rolling its slow length along. But men have been known to get to the end of Wimpole-street, and we have lately witnessed the completion of Cologne Cathedral; so let none despond, but let generations already born look forward hopefully to a personal perusal of the volume which shall be the very last of "Kinglake's Crimea." Nor will it then be matter of regret that so much time should have been spent over so important a work; for the years will no doubt have been employed to profit in conscientious investigation, and, whatever may be thought of the prejudice, the rancour, and the inordinately strong language which those who differ from the author may be inclined to denounce, it is probable that libraries, public and private, will then contain, or will have the opportunity of containing, such an account of a comparatively short but difficult and unique expedition as for truthfulness in the main, for minuteness of detail, for forcible description, for appreciation of characters and facts, for masterly exposition, and for exceptional impressiveness of style and diction, in numerous passages, if not throughout, has never yet been and is never likely to be surpassed.

This sixth volume is inscribed "The Winter Troubles," an inscription which recalls bitter memories, and strikes a cold to the heart, like the chill which is felt when the eye falls suddenly upon a gravestone eloquent of half-forgotten sorrows. But, although "the winter troubles" are indeed the fundamental, and inexpressibly sad, theme of the narrative proper; yet, so far as the historian is also an expounder, a critic, a champion, and a vituperator, the contents of the volume may be said to resolve themselves into a most instructive and masterly dissertation concerning the English system, or systems, or want of system, of military administration, a review of the causes, avertible and inavertible, which led to inconceivable horrors, the defence of Lord Raglan, in many ways and notably in what is usually considered the desperate form of "abusing plaintiff's attorney," in the person of Lord Panmure, and a display of virulent invective, more or less just or unjust, hurled at the newspaper press, represented by the Times and Mr. Delane, and at "war correspondents," represented by that brilliant writer and prototype of his class, Dr. W. H. Russell.

Ordinary readers, to whom the invasion of the Crimea has become, from lapse of time, an event of not much more present interest than the battle of Thermopylæ or any one of Sir Edward Creasy's "fifteen decisive battles," will be mightily interested in the pages devoted to an onslaught upon Printing House-square, the great newspaper printed there, its indefatigable late editor, and its most celebrated correspondent, and will be moved to indignation or jubilation, according to their tenets, by the unsparing censure couched in unsparing terms. "Our great journalists," says the historian, "served up the remains of a somewhat rancid old doctrine which—when fresher in the days of King George—had nurtured the souls of young 'Radicals;' and they not only declared aloud that the Army was 'one vast job, the plaything of our aristocracy,' but gave point to their language by showing that the General and Head-quarter Staff, to whom they ascribed neglect and mismanagement, were guilty of being well born." And of the chief among those journalists it is said: "At the mere sight of what he penned, he will writhe like a disinterred worm unwittingly cut by the spade." These are, perhaps, but "wild and hurling words," and a similar remark may apply to a great deal of what is said about Mr. Delane, not to mention more illustrious personages, and even the most illustrious personage in this kingdom; but nobody can doubt that there is some ground for the historian's censure, and nobody who had come to years of discretion at the date of the Crimean War can fail to remember how many persons, a minority, no doubt, but a large and respectable minority, were as violent at the time, as our historian now is, in denunciation of the apparently unpatriotic indiscretions of newspapers and newspaper correspondents.

The fact is that the whole question of newspaper correspondence, especially in times of war, is a very difficult one; it is impossible not to see that the danger is great when that which is a commercial speculation, exposed to tremendous competition, relying for success upon an aggregate of small items, among which a very little piece of exciting and anticipatory information is of enormous value, and supplied by purveyors who are themselves competing against one another, tooth and nail, for their daily bread, a daily bread which depends upon the extent of the popular emotion they cause rather than anything else, is allowed a freedom unrestricted by any laws but those of conscience, elastic conscience, and of libel. Nobody, it may be taken for granted, would at the present day deny the advantages resulting from a free press; but when we come to strike a balance between advantages and disadvantages, to measure good against evil, even to compare virtues with vices, it is astonishing sometimes by how little the operation results as we know that it ought to result. Some such reflection will probably occur to all who have the mingled pleasure or pain, according as the author's handiwork or his materials are chiefly regarded, of reading this remarkable volume concerning "the winter troubles" of our gallant army in the Crimea.

The pleasantest part is undoubtedly that in which unstinted acknowledgment is made of woman's help in the hour of need, when the sick and wounded went to be poisoned in pestiferous hospitals.

ART-BOOKS.

The project of issuing Illustrated Text-Books of Art Education is a good one, and promises to be carried out in a fairly acceptable manner in the series now in course of publication by Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston, and Co., which will deal with the various schools of painting, architecture and sculpture (ancient and modern), architectural ornament and decoration in colour. What has been said of the importance of the songs of a nation, applies analogically to its text-books: the former contain the essence of its sentiment, the latter should contain the quintessence of its knowledge. But the peculiar faculties which enable a man to digest, summarise the results of, or deduce the principles from, his knowledge or experience so as to present them in a guise easy of apprehension to the learner—which enables him to place himself in imagination exactly in the position of the young and the ignorant—are very rare indeed. It is hardly paradoxical to say that often the more a man knows the less he is capable of teaching—the farther he gets from the standpoint of the uninitiated. Mr. E. J. Poynter, who has undertaken the editorship of these text-books, hardly evinces the possession of all the requisites of a teacher. A more humble attitude of mind seems necessary; greater attention to elementary principles; a clearer, less laboured style,—in short, less strong meat for babes. Anything like acerbity in the expression of opinion, or contemptuous insinuations against others, however justifiable, seem out of place when addressed to those who are innocent as yet of either opinions or prepossessions. If, however, we assume the first-published of these text-books- that on Painting, Classic and Italian, a considerable portion of which is written by Mr. Poynter himself, with Mr. Percy R. Head as his collaborateur—if, we say, we assume this book to be addressed less to the young student than to the general reader, already, to some extent, acquainted with art and its relations, then there is much we can most heartily commend. These two gentlemen have compiled the historical portions of the book carefully and well. There is little discordancy save in some rather contradictory estimates of the probable excellence of Grecian painting relatively to that of Italy in the sixteenth century. Recent authorities, such as Messrs. Crowe and Cavalcaselle, have, of course, been consulted; and many of the mistakes and misrepresentations of Vasari, which were so long current but have been detected by recent criticism, are duly corrected.

So much, however, is hardly done for the childish errors and misconceptions of that earlier art-writer, Pliny. Some of his mystifications are cleared up; but others are accepted without question or qualification, such as the stories of Zeuxis deceiving birds with his painted bunches of grapes, and Protogenes with his painted partridge drawing signs of recognition from live partridges. Such stories, if not absurd inventions, arose from accidental coincidences, and, if true, really would prove nothing. The perception of the effects of light, and shade, and colour is a matter of education; birds, without our binocular vision and with their eyes separated as they are, but with, probably, far keener vision, are, we have little doubt, incapable of receiving from a flat surface the impression of an object in relief. If it were possible, the thing might easily be verified. And, if the stories were true, they establish little as regards the ancient painters' powers even of illusive painting—the lowest aim in art. For one artist to deceive another, as Parrhasius is said to have deceived Zeuxis with his painted curtain, would be somewhat more to the purpose. Strange, also, to say, there is a confusion in the use of technical terms, and a looseness in their definition, not to be expected from a practised artist. Thus, the words "tempera" and "distemper" are used as synonymous and interchangeable—ignoring Sir Charles Eastlake's judicious practice—followed also in the National Gallery Catalogue—of confining the Italian word tempera to the Italian medium (yolk of egg being a principal ingredient), employed mostly for panel pictures (which sometimes can hardly be distinguished from oil paintings), and confining "distemper" to the ordinary water painting with dissolved size, or similar material, on paper, canvas, or walls, and the resultant "dead" surface.

Again, to describe Van Eyck's discovery or improvement of oil painting as merely "mixing a kind of varnish" with oil, is rather a bald explanation of his introduction of a resinous ingredient into the medium of oil, and his probable discovery of a means of dissolving amber. Then, in the usage of art-writers, the compound word "chiar-oscuro" (see p. 14) is taken to comprise more than the words "light-dark" might imply; that is to say, not only light and shade (as black and white), but the changes which colours undergo through those influences. There are, besides, some little slips in Italian, as simia (which is antiquated, and does not bear out the pronounciation) for scimia (p. 69); indeed, there is an unnecessary employment of Italian occasionally, as in the title of the Uffizi Tribune (p. 509); and there is a tendency, rather out of place in a text-book, to substitute unfamiliar names of painters for those by which they are better known, as "Piero de' Franceschi" for Piero della Francesca, "Bazzi" for Razzi (il Sodoma) &c.: if the new names are more correct, the old ones should, at least, be mentioned. In a note to the Preface, too, there is an odd attempt to account for the commonly noseless condition of antique statues by attributing it to the "playful exuberance of an English nobleman, who had a fancy for collecting marble noses." Ancient statues are, however, frequently noseless where neither this nobleman nor his agents could have penetrated. The nasal fractures in many cases have, of course, been caused by falls, although there may be no other damage. A further explanation may, however, be found in the fact that among the many superstitions which so widely prevail among the lower orders of Italy is one to the effect that if a person finds or looks at an unmutilated statue he may be pursued by a malefic influence, as from the "evil eye," but by breaking the nose off the spell is also broken.

These, however, and other such minor defects, may be corrected in a future edition. The book is valuable for the general justness of the criticisms and the lucidly epitomised statement of the, so to speak, genealogical or synchronous and sporadic growths of the early Italian schools. One need not agree with all Mr. Poynter's estimates; for example, we find a high and pure sense of beauty, and neither "effeminacy" nor "incompleteness" in the best works of Razzi, or Bazzi, aforesaid: witness the St. Catherine frescoes at Siena, and the "Sacrifice of Isaac" in the choir of the duomo at Pisa. On the other hand, the estimate of the Neapolitan school seems to us too high. Still, the editor has a soundness and healthiness of judgment which is lamentably rare in the field of art nowadays; and what he says happily acquires weight from the distinguished position he has won as a painter. Most justly does he point out the absurdity of teaching the literature of the Greeks, and leaving their art out of the schoolboy's curriculum. Mr. Poynter is never more acceptable than when exposing the fashionable cant—to use his own words—and pretentious ignorance of the day; and the following passage from the Preface strikes us as worthy of quotation:—"Outside [the professional circle] the taste [for art], though widespread, is desultory, following a fashion, or, as is too frequently the case, acquired at secondhand from the writings of enthusiasts; and, admirable as these are for kindling in healthy minds an ardent love for art and beauty, they lead as surely as ignorance itself to a dangerous spirit of intolerance and iconoclasm. Foolish disciples are only too apt to make these writings an excuse for indulging in prejudices no less objectionable than the prejudices of sectarianism, for with the love for what is called the 'good cause' comes easily the hatred and desire for the destruction of all which is considered to be opposed to it." The wood engravings have done duty before, but are well selected and representative.

Architecture, Gothic and Renaissance. By T. Roger Smith, F.R.I.B.A. This, the second of these text-books published, will have, to complete the subject of architecture, a companion volume on the Classic and Early Christian styles. We mention this because the latter should be read first, otherwise the plunge into Gothic would be rather sudden. With this proviso, the present volume deserves almost unqualified commendation. The subjects of the writer's own extensive observations and those of many others' labours, are marshalled in very intelligible order, described in a clear, straightforward manner, and criticised with discrimination and taste. We are inclined to think, however, that the great laws of proportion, symmetry, and unity (which underlie all art) have more sway in good and successful Gothic than Mr. Roger Smith seems inclined to admit; and that it is the giving undue prominence to the elements of "picturesqueness," so-called, and "surprise," which is bringing Gothic into ridicule, and will inevitably bring the new Law Courts' design into disrepute. The Renaissance styles might have been treated more fully, especially as there are signs of their coming again into the ascendant. St. Peter's itself, the cornice of the Farnese, the influence of Palladio, and the development of French Renaissance are rather curtly dismissed. In a future edition, also, the interest of his theme would acquire breadth if Mr. Smith were to adhere not quite so closely to his text; if, for instance, he were to trace the great obligations of Gothic to the Oriental styles, to point out the influence of Squarcione, Mantegna, and the Paduan school in the revival of classical taste, and to inquire whether the Perpendicular style did not, with its squareness and horizontality, facilitate the transition from Gothic to Renaissance. A fuller index is likewise most desirable. The illustrations are even better chosen than in the book on Painting.

In the Life of Sir Edwin Landseer, one of the Illustrated Biographies of Great Artists (published by Sampson Low, Marston, and Co.), the remarks on the lack of true artistic colouring and other technical qualities which accompanied the splendid manual dexterity and superior imaginativeness of Sir Edwin's later works, are both sound and acute. But one might disagree with Mr. Stephens's criticisms—one might disagree with them often and widely, yet they would still have the merit of compelling thought on the essence of the subject with which they deal—which is more than can be said of nine out of ten of the writers on art of the present day. This, moreover, is an original compilation of materials gathered by the author himself with great and minute diligence. Some of the details are, however, of but microscopic interest to the most curious or inquisitive reader; and much of the material would gain by sifting and a more luminous arrangement. Here, in truth, the literary element is somewhat deficient, comparatively speaking. A portion of the care given to the collection of facts should have been expended on revision of the text. Not unfrequently the sentences have too many involutions and elisions, both of words and sense; the descriptive passages are sometimes cumbrous; the humorous wanting in ease and spontaneity. The following, for example, is not easily to be "understanded." "The representation of animals in that mode of life in which the creatures existed is that practice which, being best understood by the common world, would best sustain the objects of an artist who had to do with so many beasts which were but semi-barbarous, and not in a state of natural fierceness and wildness."

The Minor Arts, by Charles G. Leland (Macmillan and Co.), is one of the Art at Home Series, and one of the best books of its class. In the Preface Mr. Leland argues, like Dr. Birdwood, on the advantage of hand-made over machine-produced decorations. And the body of the work contains clear, full, and trustworthy instructions in leather-work, porcelain, or vitreous-painting, designing and transferring patterns, wood-carving, stencilling, modelling, and casting, mosaic, repoussé, and silver chasing, and other "minor arts" which may be easily learnt and profitably exercised.

BUYING A CHRISTMAS-TREE AT MENTONE.

The influx of English, German, and Swiss visitors to Mentone during the winter months causes a great demand for Christmas decorations. Some content themselves with wreaths of sarsaparilla covered with its coral berries, mixed with delicate sprays of the wild woody asparagus, both which plants grow in profusion in the neighbourhood. But others wish to be reminded more forcibly of the Christmas of their home; and for them country people bring in silver pines, or even young spruce firs, from the mountains of the Alpine range, and sometimes fine holly boughs, laden with berries, which they display temptingly to visitors, full of reminiscences of the "true and tender" North. In the instance which our picture shows, the peasant has carried his trees into the "Promenade du Midi," and set them against a white wall, blazing with sunlight, where the deep green leaves suggest a delightful coolness, in contrast with the parched road and hills. A young English lady, on whose account her friends are wintering on the Riviera, and who is recovering strength on its beautiful shores, persuades her father, with whom everybody says "she can do anything," to listen to the eulogies that the seller in Piedmontese dialect pours out upon his wares. The Pater will probably succumb, and there will be a transfer of coin highly satisfactory to Luigi, who will thank his patron saint, treat himself and his wife to some bread and a glass of wine, and start upon the long tramp homeward. A fisher-lad, with his long "Mediterranean bamboo" rod, stops on his way to fish from the wall of the port to interest himself in the transaction. We are indebted to Mr. T. H. Thomas, of Cardiff, for the sketch from which our Artist, Mr. F. Dadd, has drawn this Illustration.

The Ironmongers' Company has given ten guineas to the Army Coffee Taverns Fund.

Digitized by Google

BUYING A CHRISTMAS-TREE AT MENTONE.

DRAWN BY F. DADD, FROM A SKETCH BY T. H. THOMAS.

Digitized by Google

"God rest you, merry gentlemen!
Let nothing you dismay!"

DRAWN BY LIONEL SMYTHE.

Digitized by Google

THE CHRISTMAS-EVE CAROL.

The old-fashioned repertory of serenades and matin songs, or Christmas Carols, which the custom of our ancestors provided for the eve and morn of the great yearly festival, contains a notable one beginning with these two lines:—

God rest ye, merry gentlemen!
Let nothing you dismay!

This comfortable and most Christian greeting at bedtime, preparatory to a timely remembrance of the sacred history and the appointed topics of religious consolation, is accompanied with a scene that appears in one of our Christmas Illustrations. Here come a party of village maidens, taller and smaller, who have learned to sing the favourite quaint old pious ditty, and stand in a sisterly group within the front garden of some gentleman's mansion, not later, we hope, than half-past ten at night, making vocal melody in due festal observance of the delightful occasion. They are pupils of the Sunday school, to which, as the Vicar knows, and to the National school of his parish, and to every good local institution, the Squire and his family have ever been ready to grant a liberal support. It is for this particular reason, and quite as an exception to the rule, that the girls have been permitted, under the safe guidance of a discreet matronly teacher, just to meet and come out, so late in the evening, to pay the gentlefolks a visit in the private domestic precinct. We feel sure that they would neither be allowed nor disposed to go round the village and repeat the performance, as boys with their fifes and fiddles and shrill voices will sometimes do, at the door of every house whose inhabitants might be expected to give them a shilling or sixpence for their musical salute. There is much cause to fear that the custom is in some places sadly abused; and this matter deserves the serious attention of the clergy, and of grave citizens and good Churchmen, lest the Christmas-Eve carol should do the young people more harm than good; if in no other way, at least by injuring their health, through loss of wholesome repose and exposure to the cold night air.

FOLKLORE OF DECEMBER.

At this dull and wintry season, usually known as the "sleep of the year," the festival of Christmas occurs most opportunely to enliven and brighten our homes with its merry-makings and festive doings. Hence the present month was called by our forefathers, "Holy Month," on account of the anniversary of Christ's birth, and in Germany the term Christomonat is still given to it. Cold weather about this time is not considered propitious, for, according to a well-known adage,

December's frost and January's flood
Never boded the husbandman's good.

Formerly St. Nicholas' Day (6th) was noted for a curious custom of electing the "boy-bishop"—a ceremony which seems to have prevailed throughout most of our English cathedrals, and to have been kept up in many of the grammar-schools. This day is not without its weather-lore, and in Russia they say, "St Nicolas in winter sends the horses to the stable; St. Nicolas in spring (May 9) makes them fat.

St. Lucy's Day (13th), in the old calendar, was the shortest day of the year, hence the proverb—

Lucy Light,
The shortest day and the longest night.

On this day it appears that prognostications of the month were drawn for the whole year.

St. Tibba's Festival (14th) was once celebrated in Rutlandshire by fowlers and falconers, who regarded the saint as their peculiar patroness. St. Thomas's Day (21st) is observed in many parts of the country by a custom called "going-a-gooding"—the poor people going from house to house in search of money or provisions wherewith to celebrate Christmastide. In Herefordshire it is called "Mumping Day;" and in Warwickshire the custom is termed "going-a-corning." In Cheshire the poor speak of "Going-a-thomasin;" and in some places the money collected is given to the clergyman and churchwardens, who, on the Sunday nearest to St. Thomas's Day, distribute it at the vestry. The fund is called St. Thomas's Dole, and the day itself Doleing Day. In Worcestershire the following rhyme is sung:—

Wissal, wissail through the town,
If you've got any apples throw them down;
Up with the stocking and down with the shoe,
If you've got no apples money will do.
The jug is white and the ale is brown,
This is the best house in the town.

On this day happens the Winter Solstice, or Shortest Day, when the sun is something less than eight hours above the horizon, hence the proverb—

Sir Thomas Grey, St. Thomas Grey,
The longest night and shortest day.

A popular piece of weather-lore tells us that as the wind is on St. Thomas's Day at twelve o'clock so it will remain for the next three months. There is a curious notion in Belgium that if it freezes on the shortest day of the year the price of corn will fall; if it be mild weather it will go up.

In the primitive Church, Christmas and Epiphany were celebrated at one and the same time, probably from a belief that the rising of the star in the East and the Birth of Christ were simultaneous. The separation took place at the Council of Nice, A.D. 325. Among the Anglo-Saxons this day was the beginning of the year, and was celebrated with various marks of rejoicing. Christmas is rich in superstitions of every kind; and, in addition to the many curious customs that have clustered round it, has given rise to an extensive weather-lore. Among the numerous observances once kept up in honour of this great festival may be mentioned the burning of the yule log, the famous wassail-bowl, the mummers with their eccentric antics, and the election of the Lord of Misrule. Many of the old local customs connected with this season are interesting, remnants of which still survive in some places. A few years ago it was customary in Leeds for children to go about carrying a "Wesley-bob," a kind of bower made of evergreens, inside of which were placed a couple of dolls, representing the Virgin and the Infant Christ. This custom, still kept up in a few places, is called the "Vessel cup." According to a popular tradition, the oxen in their stalls are always found on their knees, as in an attitude of devotion, on Christmas Eve. Bees, too, are supposed to make a humming noise at the time when Christ was born. Referring to the weather-lore associated with this day, a well-known saying tells us that "if the sun shines through the apple-trees on Christmas Day there will be an abundant crop the following year;" and it is also said that "a green Christmas makes a fat churchyard." Rain, too, during the twelve days after Christmas, is said to foretell a wet year.

St. Stephen's Day (26th) is now familiarly known as "Boxing Day"—a term which probably owes its origin to the custom of depositing the Christmas gifts in a money-box, to which Gay thus alludes:—

Some boys are rich by birth beyond all wants
Beloved by uncles and kind good old aunts;
When time comes round a Christmas box they bear,
And one day makes them rich for all the year.

This was a great period with our ancestors for bleeding their horses—a custom which it has been suggested arose from the fact that this Saint was the patron of horses, and that on this day the Pope's stud was physiced and bled for the sake of the blood, which was considered a remedy in many disorders. On St. Stephen's Day the wren was persecuted in Ireland, being chased, captured, and killed, and its dead body was afterwards carried about in an arbour of leaves by the young villagers, during which time the following lines were sung:—

The wren, the wren, the king of all birds,
St. Stephen's Day was caught in the furze;
Although he is little, his family's great;
I pray you, good landlady, give us a treat, &c.

A small gratuity was generally bestowed on them, the day concluding with feasting and merrymaking. Holy Innocents' Day (28th) is commonly called "Dyzemas Day" in Northamptonshire, and by the Lancashire people "Childers' Day." It was formerly considered the most unlucky day throughout the year; and people generally avoided commencing any new undertaking on this anniversary. In many villages it is customary to ring a muffled peal.

The last day of the year is known in Scotland as Hogmanay, and is observed as a great holiday. The boisterous merriment which formerly prevailed at this season gave rise to the term "daft days"—i.e., mad days. It is customary for young people to go about in bands, shouting—

Hogmanay,
Trollalay,
Give us of your white bread, and none of your grey.

In England New-Year's Eve was called Singing E'en, from the custom of carol-singing; and of late years it has been designated "Watch Night," from the numerous services held for the purpose of watching out the old year. Formerly, on this night, the "wassail-bowl" was much in request; and, in some parts of Ireland, a cake is thrown against the outside door of the house by the head of the family, as this ceremony is supposed to keep off hunger during the ensuing year. In Scotland many prognostications of the weather of the coming year are gathered from the position of the wind.

HISTORY OF CHARLES JAMES FOX.

Explanations of the why and wherefore are sometimes forthcoming when a gentleman suddenly appears before the public with a work for which, being of a somewhat hackneyed kind, so far as the subject is concerned, there is no reason to suppose that the public is particularly anxious at the particular moment; but in the case of The Early History of Charles James Fox: by George Otto Trevelyan, M.P. (Longmans), it is left to the reader's own powers of divination to discover why the work was undertaken at all and wherefore it should be published just at the present time. The latter question is more easily answered than the former; for the time at which an author shall publish his work depends chiefly, no doubt, upon the date of its completion. To the other question the best reply that can be made is that the author probably felt himself irresistibly moved to the task, which, if it were to be performed at all, could scarcely have been accomplished more completely, down to the very index, in better literary style, or in a more sympathetic spirit. In fact, it may be said that, whatever efforts in the same direction have or have not hitherto been made, the life of the celebrated, indeed the most celebrated, Fox, has now, so far as his early years are concerned, been written.

The biographer begins with a short, but graphic and interesting, sketch of Stephen Fox, the founder of the family, born in 1627, who, coming of "a very humble stock," and "said to have been," as a boy, "in the choir of Salisbury Cathedral," died, in 1716, Sir Stephen Fox, having accumulated a vast fortune as Paymaster-General, Master of the Horse, and one of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, offices for which he was indebted to his fidelity towards monarchs in general, especially Charles II., and to his constant regard for the main chance. To him, and not to Nell Gwyn, we are assured, is due the credit of having "inspired Charles with the idea of founding an asylum for disabled soldiers" at Chelsea. Sir Stephen was twice married—the second time, at the age of seventy-six, to a clergyman's daughter, by whom he had four children. This part of the narrative is by no means clearly or fully related; but it gives the reader to understand that of those four children the eldest was Stephen, who "became in course of time Earl of Ilchester and the founder of a house which has steadily grown in prosperity and general esteem," and who had a brother, Henry, the father of the famous Charles James.

This Henry Fox, afterwards the first Lord Holland, is probably remembered by most readers of our English history as anything but an ensample of life for men in office; and he was certainly, save for his strong paternal affection, which itself took a mischievously indulgent form, about as wicked a father as it is possible to imagine. To him, indeed, the biographer seems inclined to attribute all the vices and follies for which, quite as much as for brilliant talents and, as some may think, patriotic services, his gifted son will always retain a hold upon the memories of men. It is impossible to read without horror of a father who acted towards a son as Henry Fox towards Charles James, deliberately introducing him to bad places and bad people, in order to "blood" him, as it were, for the pursuit of profligacy, as a young hound is "blooded" for the chase. On the other hand, whilst the shameful conduct of the father is pleaded in extenuation of the son's behaviour, nothing can be plainer than that the son took very kindly to the course prepared for him, and that that son, had his nature been of the noble kind, which instinctively knows what is infamous to do, would have shrunk, though he could hardly have told why, from the temptations intentionally put in his way by a parent who, as intuition would have taught him, was utterly regardless of the respect which is proverbially due to the young. In the case of Charles James Fox, however, it is to be feared that the seed sown by the father fell upon ground only too well suited for it: the wonder is that the fruit brought forth, with its flavour of incredible extravagance, recklessness, and vice, had no taint of dishonour. Perhaps the most creditable deed ever done by Henry Fox was when he boldly ran away with Lady Caroline Lennox and married her secretly, as his formal application for her hand had been refused indignantly by the Duke and Duchess of Richmond. Thus Charles James Fox, the third son, and not, as has been often stated, the second, of Henry, Lord Holland, had in his veins a little drop of that Royal blood which the "merry monarch" diffused so liberally, though illegitimately, among his people.

Charles James was born on Jan. 24, 1749, and by 1774, the date at which the biography ceases, he, being then but five-and-twenty, had "already been twice in, and twice out of, office," had earned the distinction of incurring his Sovereign's personal antagonism, and had caused the "Fox property" to be diminished by a hundred and forty thousand of those pounds which had been obtained by hook or crook, and apparently more by crook than hook, out of a long-suffering country. Charles, who was idolised by his father, showed the most precocious talent; was quite a companion for his elders at three years of age; was "argumentative" at five; and, at the same time, was "so mad about the stage that he was reading every play on which he could lay his tiny hands." At twelve he went to a school at Wandsworth; and, about a year and a half afterwards, to Eton, where he "studied hard under Dr. Francis," father of that Sir Philip Francis whom, it may be remarked here, the biographer considers to have been unquestionably proved by the late Mr. Herman Merivale and Mr. Joseph Parkes, in their joint memoir, to be identical with the veiled and mysterious "Junius." In 1764 Fox left Eton for Oxford, where, at Hertford College, now resuscitated after a temporary eclipse, he exhibited a diligence and industry for which he made full amends in subsequent years, insomuch that he would carry about "his old tutor's letter in his pocket-book, as a testimonial ready to be produced whenever he was rallied for laziness by his colleagues in the Cabinet." Then came travelling on the Continent, where he made acquaintance with Voltaire and other celebrities, and where he developed, if he did not originate, a taste for that gambling which was his bane. He was still a mere boy, in 1768; but his father, "as if ambitious of making him not less invulnerable to shame than himself," got him entered, among the most shameless livers of the age, at Brooks's Club, formerly Almack's. There he devoted his extraordinary powers of mind and body to hazard and betting, this occupation being varied, as time went on, by trips to Newmarket, where he ran horses with more pertinacity than success. In 1768, also, whilst "the young gentleman was still amusing himself in Italy," he was "duly chosen as one of the burgesses for Midhurst," one of those comfortable constituencies of the "good old times," in which "the number of permanent voters" might not reach duality, to say nothing of plurality, but be "returned as one." He took his seat in November, 1768, being then "unprovided with any fixed set of political opinions." He "enrolled himself without hesitation in the ranks of the Ministerialists," and it was probably at his father's suggestion; for the moment was opportune, and, "in the opinion of that veteran placeman, there was only one bench in the House on which a wise man would care to sit." Henceforth, the biography naturally blends with the history, especially the political history, of this country; and the biographer, keeping his principal character well to the front, sketches in the associated personages and events after a fashion which is equally satisfactory from the point of view of literary composition and well-sustained interest.

The large volume, indeed, is so intrinsically attractive and so attractively put together that it becomes very light reading; and, if there should seem to be some tendency towards hero-worship and some inclination to exalt a party or push a theory under cover of a great name, perhaps unduly magnified, this is but evidence of the cordiality with which the work must have been undertaken, and without which a biography is very likely to be dull. When we read of Fox that "his notion of true gallantry was to treat women as beings who stood on the same intellectual table-land as himself," and so forth, it seems as if there were an intention to claim his powerful support, by inference, for a certain modern doctrine, as to which it is quite impossible to say what he would have thought; but the biographer was perfectly justified in drawing attention to the fact, for what it is worth, that the great Charles James Fox treated women, as everybody should treat them, unless they plainly do not wish it, as if they were reasonable beings. But it does not follow that he would have voted for certain bills which were not dreamt of in his day.

NOVELS.

Appreciation of womanly nature is perhaps the most striking characteristic of the story contained in the three volumes entitled Adam and Eve: by Mrs Parr (Richard Bentley and Sons); and that appreciation is plainly exhibited in the first few pages of the first volume. "Although not favourably disposed towards the lover," we read: "Eve coveted the love; she wanted to see some one racked with torture, driven to despair, called into life by a smile, and killed by a frown." And this true, too true, representation of what the most gentle, tender, excellent woman's feelings are likely to be towards all men, or nearly all men, is put forward with the most complacent ingenuousness, as if nothing were more natural and more in accordance with the fitness of things than that angelic woman should derive, as she certainly seems to derive, her chief gratification from the knowledge that the men about her, whether she care much or little or nothing for them, depend for their happiness or their misery upon her favour or disfavour. Well, well: men may find some revengeful satisfaction from the reflection that she is often repaid by choosing the worst of them and repenting of her choice. Was it so with Adam and Eve—that is, the Adam and Eve of our story? For our first mother, poor thing, had no choice; and could not know the delights of tyrannising over a score of lovers. The Eve of the story is Eve Pascal, an orphan-girl, an interesting young woman, who, at the beginning of the tale, has just lost her mother, and is about to leave London, where she has been gaining an honest but a meagre livelihood "by clear-starching and fine-mending," and pay a visit to some hospitable relatives in Cornwall, taking with her the heart of one "Reuben May, watch and clock maker," with an understanding that, "though there was no engagement on either part, each was bound, in case of change, to render an account of his or her feelings to the other." And so the reader is started upon a love-chase, of the kind which is generally more attractive to the gentler than the sterner sex. It is in Cornwall that Eve falls in with Adam, her cousin. But there is a song which significantly reminds us that, though "sisters we've all by the dozen," yet "a cousin's a different thing." Hence it is easy to perceive that, when the cousins, Adam and Eve, make their first acquaintance, things begin to look black for Reuben. Adam, be it remarked, is a handsome young fellow, and a gallant young smuggler to boot. For it is among Cornish smugglers that Eve finds herself domiciled upon her removal from London; and the doings of those smugglers and their families are described with great spirit and with a very curious and amusing accompaniment of personal portraiture, local dialect, and social sketches; while the natural scenery, contributed by sea, and sky, and land, is so painted as to testify of an appreciative eye and an artistic hand. It is to be feared, however, that, as soon as the tale begins to approach what should be the climax of interest, the author's touch will seem to most readers to become weak and unsteady, the narrative will appear confused and maundering, the attempts to be tragic poor and spasmodic, the development of character, especially in the case of Reuben May and of Adam Pascal, inconsistent with nature. Nor can the conclusion be considered satisfactory; if Reuben and Adam could possibly have done what they are represented to have done, poetical justice, or the justice administered by novelists and expected by novel-readers, would have showed them no mercy. There is one character, however, which, almost from the beginning to the end, produces upon the whole story the effect of a little leaven upon a whole lump: Joan Hocken is delightful throughout, from her first apppearance to her last.

Digitized by Google

Married men are generally rather hardly used by the novelist, at any rate in the most popular novels, in which the faithless wife is so very often a conspicuous figure, but it is quite the contrary in A Confidential Agent: by James Payn (Chatto and Windus), a novel whereof the three volumes teem with proofs of the fidelity and devotion displayed towards a rather commonplace husband by a charming wife and a more charming sister-in-law. That the sister-in-law should believe so steadfastly in the husband is less surprising, perhaps, to judge from what one knows of life and learns from fiction, than that the wife should be as stanch as her sister. But then Mr. Payn's lovely and lovable young women, of whom he generally has a couple in each of his novels, are on this occasion, as they very often have been before, models of English domestic womankind. The husband is the "confidential agent" of the title. He is a young fellow of fair position and some talent, especially as an inventor of mechanical contrivances, who, by stress of circumstances, has been obliged to take a situation far below his deserts and the expectations his antecedents would have entitled him to form, in the business carried on by a fashionable jeweller. One of his duties is to go to the house of a certain vulgar lady of fashion, at whatever hour she may return from some entertainment at which she has been wearing her diamonds, valued at twenty-five thousand pounds, and take those diamonds, for which he gives her a receipt, to be locked up in the strong room of the aforesaid jeweller, who, for an annual consideration, takes care of them, and is responsible for them. Hence the name of "confidential agent." Of course, a time comes when the "confidential agent" and the diamonds disappear together; and the question is whether he, or the cabman who drove him, or somebody else, has made off with them, and, perhaps, with himself. When this point is cleared up, the story, so far as its plot is concerned, is at an end. The question, however, is not solved without the introduction of a great many, more or less ingenious, complications, together with startling incidents, and some heartrending scenes, arranged a little after the melodramatic style, as regards both the demeanour and the diction of the principal personages. The machinery employed by the writer may be likened to that of an engine supposed to have been constructed by the hero of the story: it cannot be worked without contrivances which may fairly be regarded as miraculous. The stars did not more clearly fight for Sisera than for the stealer of the diamonds and for the sharp young lawyer by whose agency a mystery was elucidated. The manœuvre adopted by the thievish and murderous captain for getting the jewels into his possession seems to common sense more likely to attract notice to his house than to promote the obscurity which would have suited him best, not to mention that it must have entailed an expense which an impoverished scoundrel would have shrunk from incurring for the sake of a desperate contingency. And how desperate that was, so experienced a calculator of odds as the captain must have known. He must have been aware that, as he might himself have said, it was all "Lombard-street to a Chiny orange" against his success, which depended upon such an unusual combination of circumstances as the most sanguine gambler would scarcely dare to conceive. However, it is not worth while to dwell upon the amount of artistic skill displayed in the construction of a puzzle. The chief charm of the novel lies in the easy, sprightly, humorous style, especially when the author has some remark or remarks to make on his own account in his own person; and there is something particularly winning, too, about his manner of describing the loves and sorrows of a quiet home. The young French girl, who has learnt English in the society of some slangy young boy-cousins, educated at Rugby, is extremely amusing; but her appearance, at the juncture at which she appears, is utterly incongruous, and better fitted for a broad farce than for a tragic episode in a serious romance. But, indeed, there is some doubt whether the romance is intended to be taken seriously in any part; murder, bigamy, and the most affecting situations are depicted with an intermixture of jocosity which, though it relieves the author from any charge of endeavouring to pile up the horror, after the manner of the sensationalists, renders him liable, on the other hand, to an accusation of unbecoming levity and unskilful, unimpressive workmanship. It is to be hoped that the author is right as to the faithful wife and sister-in-law, wrong as to the unfaithful he-friends; otherwise, it is lamentable to think upon what slight evidence a most exemplary husband may stand convicted, in the eyes of his nearest and dearest he-friends, of having run away with a lady's diamonds in company with a young woman whom he had known and made love to before she lost her character. And, in connection with this matter, it is pertinent to ask whether a man who had deliberately made up his mind to the robbery and elopement would not destroy or take with him, when he went, a confidential paper in which he had requested that a certain sum of money should be paid weekly to the very person whom he would have with him. That he should run away with her, and at the same time leave such a request behind him with his uncle, who is to him as a father, will seem to many readers the height of absurdity. Don't say he forgot it: why his mind would surely be dwelling upon all that he had ever done for the woman for whom he was about to commit two legal and several moral crimes.

Jezebel was an amiable, Christian woman, compared with the handsome, selfish, heartless creature who is the most prominent character, if not the heroine, of The Mystery in Palace Gardens: by Mrs. J. H. Riddell (Richard Bentley and Son), a novel rather admirable for its manner than agreeable for its matter, more remarkable for a frequent display of downright force than for gently graduated, continuous attraction. Nothing, however, could well be more touching and beautiful than the description of the affection which grows up between a charming, simple, guileless young girl and her supposed father, and nothing more pleasing and graceful than the sketch of the sweet girl herself. There is amusement, moreover, to be derived from the portrait of a certain pretty hoyden, the sweet girl's supposed sister, from the manners and language of an elderly lady, belonging to the race of toadies and scandal-mongers, from the conversation and comments of the servants' hall, and from other sources. In the main, however, the story may be regarded partly as a study of a supremely egotistical woman, partly as a homily concerning the sin committed by King David in his dealings with the lovely Bathsheba. Indeed, the reader will find several pages devoted to specimens of the style in which one of the personages, a most excellent clergyman, is represented to have addressed a fashionable, stiff-necked, adulterous generation in a sermon based upon the significant text: "Thou art the man." The fair sinner, who figures most conspicuously throughout the three volumes of the novel under consideration, may possibly be no very exceptional case in our wicked real life; but she sins in a cold-blooded, calculating, passionless fashion, which, robbing her of every excuse, tends to prevent altogether that feeling of interest and of indulgence, if not of sympathy, which is generally excited in favour of an erring heroine who, being of an ardent temperament, finds out too late that she has married one man, who is not congenial to her, and loves another, who is something more. In the present instance, it is a mere regard for creature-comforts apparently, which is the fundamental reason for the many grievous offences committed by a wife and mother. We are treated to an uncompromising exposition of a rare being, a "woman who could love no one" (not even her child), except, of course, herself. There are many fine touches in those parts of the tale in which it is shown how the erring man sowed the wind and reaped the whirlwind, was beguiled by a lovely face into repudiation of his better self, and paid for his weakness by years of loveless union and hopeless remorse. The gist of the story lies in a nutshell. A rich man accidentally becomes acquainted with a poor man, who has a lovely wife. The husband goes abroad to a situation procured by the rich man's influence; the wife insists upon remaining in England. In the mean while the rich man knows that he loves her; and she knows that she loves nothing but herself and her ease. They meet, the husband is away, and the rich man can offer her a comfortable home, jewels, and all she cares for. In a few weeks, then, she is under the rich man's protection; and "for years they lived thus in sin." At last the husband is expected home; but report, with considerable reason, drowns him; and henceforth the guilty pair live as acknowledged man and wife. But husbands do not drown so easily, in novels at least; and the injured husband comes back to his native land to find his wife the Bathsheba of his generous friend, and his daughter (for one had been born to him after his departure) regarded by that generous friend as his own and as the apple of his eye. This is plainly a pretty complication, though not altogether unfamiliar to novel-readers, who must be referred to the author for a solution. As regards the "honest" Adam who was beguiled by the selfish Eve and found circumstances too strong for his pious resolutions, one would be more impressed with the sincerity of his repentance if it had shown itself a little sooner; nor, as he had been for years living "in sin," is it easy to see how his position, as a sinner, was affected by the life or death of the husband. As regards the title, it may be remarked that "the mystery" is no mystery for the reader, whatever it may have been for the neighbourhood of Palace Gardens, long before the end of the story. This is to be regretted on the score of diminution of interest.

NEW BOOKS.

Simply to read the preface of Pygmalion in Cyprus and Other Poems: by George Eric Lancaster (Printed by William Clowes and Sons), is to imbibe the conviction that the author has true poetic instinct and the gift of song; and a perusal of any one among the various poems is sufficient not only to confirm the conviction but to transform it into certainty: so much passion expresses itself so melodiously, so much tenderness reveals itself so gracefully; so sympathetic a nature, whether for joy or sorrow, expounds itself so spontaneously, so simply, so plaintively. Exquisite verse, smooth and musical, conveys to the reader's senses in choice, intelligible language the diverse moods and emotions of a more than usually impressible soul. Surely, the result of such a process must be nothing short of poetry. It may be a poetry which, having nothing vulgar about it, will not acquire the popularity sometimes accorded to clap-trap sentiment and a pleasant jingle by way of accompaniment; but it is a poetry which, elegant and polished to a notable degree, will be appreciated by all who can appreciate native force tempered but unweakened by delicate discipline. To compete with the "grand old masters," with "the bards sublime," the author, as his modest but somewhat unnecessarily querulous and defiant preface testifies, does not aspire; but nobody can refuse him a higher place, perhaps, than he would seem to expect among those minor prophets to whom he professes to belong. And in the chorus performed by those prophets his voice will not be the least strong, the least sweet, or the least distinct. His principal theme is love; and he discourses as one who, whether sensuously or spiritually, has felt and can describe its power. "Pygmalion" is rather a hackneyed subject, it may be thought; but the subject is treated with more freshness than would be anticipated, certainly with originality as regards the metrical arrangement and fancied colloquy, and with singular intensity as regards the interchange of sentiment. "Sylvia in the West" and "The Combing of the Hair" are likely to please the general taste; they are in the genuine style of the ballad, simple and flowing, but full of fire, and yet tinged with pathos and melancholy. There are three Italian pieces, of which it is sufficient to say that they were written "in Italy, in a darkened room, during an attack of blindness," and that they were received with favour by the best judges, native Italian critics.

Disappointment may be prevented by warning persons interested in the Greek question of to-day that the comely volume entitled Greece and the Greeks, by the Hon. Thomas Talbot (Sampson Low and Co.), has nothing whatever to do with the modern Hellenes, as it is the fashion to call them, or the revision of their frontier. The book professes to present "a historic sketch of Attic life and manners;" but it is expressly stated that "the scope of this work does not admit of the introduction of matter connected with the modern history of Greece." Indeed, the contents of the volume, as regards both the style in which the information is conveyed, the sort of information afforded, and the illustrative examples cited from modern, especially Irish, customs and practices, bear a very strong resemblance to the notes which a schoolmaster might be expected to prepare, after consultation of the most accessible authorities, for the enlightenment of youthful students. For all persons, however, who have not more than a bowing acquaintance with the ancient literature of Greece the book is, no doubt, a boon; it puts things worth knowing briefly and lucidly, and, as a work of reference, for all but the really erudite scholar, it may be recommended for handiness. The author, however, clings to old, exploded fashions of nomenclature; remarking, for instance, that "Jupiter," save the mark, was "the principal god of the Athenians," and speaking of "Mercury, Juno, Saturn, Ceres, and other Athenian Divinities." The flesh may creep at such disregard of mythological propriety, and especially at the use of the word "Minerva," most gratuitously introduced, as the name of the tutelary goddess of Athens; but, after all, it is easy to know what is meant, and such language falls short of flat blasphemy. It is more to the purpose to observe that the book contains a collection of instructive and interesting matters not to be easily found elsewhere in such numbers or in so compact and agreeable a form. An index would have added much to the usefulness of the volume.

In The Life of Sir Anthony Panizzi, by Louis Fagan (two volumes, Remington and Co.), we have the record of a brilliant career, traversed partly before and partly behind the scenes. As an officer of the British Museum, Panizzi's activity was conspicuous and its results undeniable; the Reading-Room, the catalogue, almost the library itself, are visible incarnations of his thought, and stamp him as the greatest organiser in library matters that the world has hitherto known. His scarcely less important political career, on the other hand, was screened from observation during his life. Few knew how he was consulted and trusted by Palmerston and Clarendon and Gladstone, and how greatly his influence and counsel aided in the deliverance of his native country. The copious and interesting correspondence now published by Mr. Fagan fully displays the man on this side of his character and activity, and is a very valuable as well as very entertaining contribution to the history of his times. Panizzi's Museum administration is also adequately described, and embraces the most important and interesting period in the history of the institution.

The idea and the execution of the Misses Zimmern's Half Hours with Foreign Novelists (2 vols., Remington and Co.) are alike excellent. Twenty-six typical foreign novelists are selected, representing among them almost every country on the Continent; one or more characteristic passages, usually chosen on account of their local colouring, are translated from each, and each selection is prefaced by a vivid and accurate sketch of the author's life and writings. The result is a sort of panorama in miniature of Continental fiction, from which alone a fair general knowledge of this department of literature may be derived, and which will tempt most readers to resort to the originals. Many of the writers, such as the Austrian Sacher Masoch, the Pole Kraszewski, and the Dutchman Busken-Huet, are as yet entirely unknown in England. The passages translated have in general been chosen with much discrimination, although one or two, perhaps, have hardly sufficient story. Those from Daudet, Stifter, Björnson, and Fernan Caballero are remarkably good—the last-named a most brilliant bit of comedy.

Miss Virginia Vaughan's New Era: a Lyrical Drama (Chapman and Hall), is not a book to be lightly perused or dismissed. Its scope is vast, its aim ambitious; and it is not easy to pronounce offhand how far the writer has succeeded in realising her idea. The mixture of Italian politics with an action passing "upon the planet Mira" is at first somewhat confusing, and calculated to excite prejudice in an age of realistic criticism; but a serious examination shows that the authoress's plan is not ill-considered; and the reader must be dull who does not catch something of her ardent enthusiasm and magnificent hopes for humanity. If these still appear too visionary, admiration cannot be withheld from the remarkable eloquence in which they are couched, a sustained stream of impassioned diction, everywhere dignified, copious, and melodious. Our chief regret is that this glowing rhetoric is too seldom relieved by the simple and unstudied graces of genuine poetic inspiration; yet there are enough of these to show that the authoress is something more than a brilliant orator, though oratorical brilliance is the most conspicuous of her endowments at present.

A SORRY JEST.

Shakspeare's genial appreciation and frequent ideal conceptions of the antiquated class of professional Fools or Jesters have secured them an immortal remembrance. They are ever present with us, emerging from the grand graceful groups of characters in so many of his noblest plays; "King Lear," "As You Like It," and "The Tempest," being enlivened with the finest examples of this kind. As privileged moral satirists, on condition of being witty and amusing, their vocation must have required as much sagacity and discretion as that of a diplomatist or Court chaplain. We suppose that the mere clever wag, the scoffer and mocker, not sufficiently careful to "do his spiriting gently," or to spare the sensibility of the more powerful and influential personages at Court, would be liable to sudden disgrace. It may be such an occasion of hasty dismissal, for the offence of some disagreeable truth spoken in jest—"a sorry jest," indeed, for the imprudent speaker, despite presumed customary license—that has driven out this poor fellow, not yet stripped of his motley garb of livery, as portrayed by the artist, Mr. J. D. Watson, to wander disconsolate on the wintry moor. "Where be your jibes now?"—one would ask of him, as Hamlet asked of Yorick's brainless skull on the verge of the churchyard grave—"your gambols, your songs, your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table in a roar?" The lonely and friendless outcast, now sobered and saddened by adversity, with a face of utter despair, biting his fingers in the attitude of perplexity and self-reproach, strides along in moody silence, to the wonder of his silly little dog. He still carries the accustomed "bauble," a short truncheon ornamented with a carved fool's head attired in cap and bells like his own; but he can no longer pretend to take counsel with that mute companion; the one knows as little as the other what he shall do. The storm is rising behind and around his solitary path, and he will presently find himself, but with no beloved and ruined old master to follow and try to console, in the pitiful plight of old King Lear's faithful attendant, "who labours to outjest his heart-struck injuries":—

> He that hath a little tiny wit,
> With heigh, ho, the wind and the rain,
> Must make content with his fortunes fit.

That Fool of Lear's is one of the wisest of worldly men. Let us have a bit of his worldly wisdom.

> Prithee, Nuncle, keep a schoolmaster that can teach thy fool to lie. I would fain learn to lie.
> Lear. An you lie, Sirrah, we'll have you whipped.
> Fool. I marvel what kin thou and thy daughters are; they'll have me whipped for speaking true, thou'lt have me whipped for lying; and sometimes I'm whipped for holding my peace. I had rather be any kind of thing than a fool; and yet I would not be thee, Nuncle; thou hast pared thy wit o' both sides, and left none in the middle.

Again, he says, pointing to the misguided old King, who has divided his substance between his daughters, the two "parings":—

> The sweet and bitter fool will presently appear,
> The one in motley here, the other found out there.
> Lear. Dost thou call me fool, boy?
> Fool. All thy other titles thou hast given away; that thou wast born with.
> Kent. This is not altogether fool, my lord.

No indeed, far from it; and Shakspeare knew better than we can, how readily, in the frank and easy style of conversation then permitted, even in the society of princes and persons of rank, a Jester might sometimes utter the severest censures upon their faults and follies, but at the risk of being disgraced and expelled, like the unlucky subject of our Illustration.

The Whitby Commissioners have resolved to spend £40,000 in harbour improvements.

Baroness Burdett-Coutts has opened a soup kitchen and dining-rooms for the benefit of the poor in Bethnal-green, in the Old Chapel, Virginia-row.

The Duke of Connaught has consented to preside at the anniversary festival of the British Orphan Asylum, Mackenzie-park, Slough, in March, 1881.

The Warrington Guardian says that Mr. Samuel Taylor, Eccleston Hall, St. Helen's, has promised a park of thirty-three acres to the people of St. Helen's; and Sir Gilbert Greenhall, Bart., has promised a hundred pounds towards the Masters and Workmen's Club, proposed to be erected in Warrington.

Digitized by Google

"WHERE BE YOUR JIBES NOW?"
DRAWN BY J. D. WATSON.

Digitized by Google

THE PLEASURES OF ANTICIPATION.

DRAWN BY A. E. EMSLIE.

Digitized by Google

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated May 24, 1878) of Admiral the Right Hon. Edward Granville George, Lord Lanerton, late of No. 29, Grosvenor-square, and of Woolbeding, Sussex, who died on Oct. 8 last, was proved on the 25th ult. by the Right Hon. Diana Harriett Louisa, Lady Lanerton, the widow and sole executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testator devises and bequeaths all the real and personal estate, whether in possession, remainder, or reversion, which he was beneficially seized, possessed of, or entitled to, or over which he had any power of appointment, to his wife absolutely. The deceased was the brother and heir presumptive of the Earl of Carlisle, and, previously to his elevation to the peerage, represented Morpeth in the House of Commons for many years in the Liberal interest.

The will (dated Feb. 27, 1877) of Mr. Joseph Mayer Montefiore, J.P., D.L., late of Worth Park, Worth, Sussex, and of Great Stanhope-street, Mayfair, who died on Oct. 9 last, was proved on the 27th ult. by Mrs. Henrietta Francesca Montefiore, the widow and sole executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £600,000. Inaccurate statements as to the provisions of this will have appeared in some of our contemporaries. The following summary may be relied on as correct. The testator appoints his wife, his son Abraham Francis Montefiore (when he attains twenty-one) and his brother, Nathaniel Montefiore, trustees, and his wife guardian of his infant children during their respective minorities. He bequeaths to his said brother £1000; to the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, Bevis Marks, £500; and the residue of the personalty (except his leasehold property) to his wife, as she shall by deed or will and codicil appoint. In default of appointment by her, he gives such personalty to his wife for life, and then, as to £70,000, for his son Edward Mayer Montefiore, and the remainder for his son Abraham Francis Montefiore. All his real and leasehold estates he leaves to his wife for life, and then to his said son, Abraham Francis. The deceased, who was a nephew of Sir Moses Montefiore, served as High Sheriff of Sussex in 1870.

The will (dated Jan. 17, 1880) of the Rev. William Finch, late of The Woodlands, Kingston, Surrey, who died on Oct. 19 last, was proved on the 29th ult. by Frederick William Disney, the Rev. William Henry Rooper, and Bartle John Lawrie Frere, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £70,000. The testator leaves the breakfast-piece by Hogarth to his sister, Miss Charlotte Finch, for life, and then to the National Gallery; the tea-urn presented by George I. to the then Lord Winchelsea, and the tea-kettle and lamp presented by Queen Anne to Lady Anne Finch, to his said sister for life, then to the Earl of Aylesford for life, and then to go and be held with the title as heirlooms; £100 each to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, the Society for Promoting the Enlargement, Building, and Repairing of Churches, the National Society for Promoting the Education of the Poor in the Principles of the Established Church, and the Society for Promoting the Employment of Additional Curates; his freehold property, The Woodlands, with the effects, to his sister, Charlotte; and many legacies to his executors, connections, domestic and outdoor servants, and day labourers. The residue of his real estate is directed to be sold, and the net proceeds, with his residuary personal estate, held upon trust for his said sister for life; at her death, some considerable legacies are payable to members of his family and others, and the ultimate residue is to be divided between eleven persons.

The will of Miss Matilda Cohen, of 146, Inverness-terrace, Hyde Park, has been proved, the personalty being sworn under £45,000. The testatrix divides the bulk of her property among her cousins in different proportions, and gives numerous legacies to friends. She also makes the following charitable bequests, free of duty—viz., the sum of £200 each to the Ladies' West-End Charity, the Jews' Free School, and Jewish School in Bayswater; £100 each to the Jewish School, Greck-street, Soho; the Bread, Meat, and Coal Charity; the Five-Shilling Charity, the Brompton Hospital, the Governesses' Benevolent Institution; the Idiot Asylum, Earlswood; the Infant Orphan Asylum, Wanstead; the Putney Hospital for Incurables, and the Royal Life-Boat Institution; and £50 each to the Beneficent Association, Berners-street; the Charity Organisation Society; the Sea-Bathing Infirmary, Margate; and the Victoria Hospital for Sick Children.

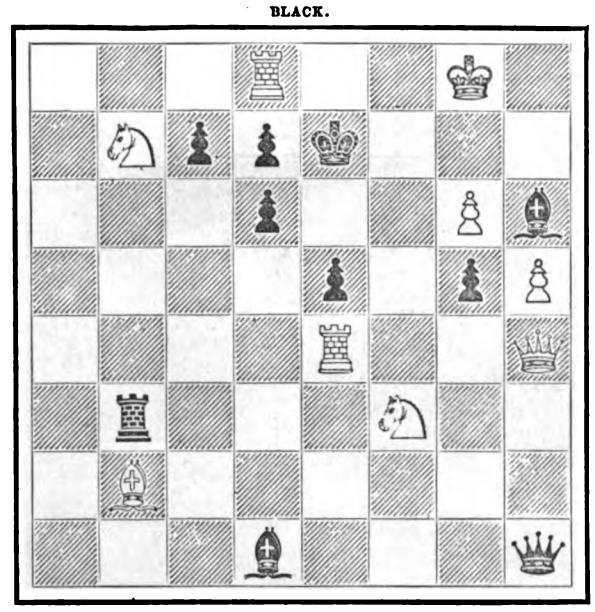
The will (dated in 1876) of Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Trotter, formerly of her Majesty's Indian Army, has been proved by Edmund Coulthurst, Esq., and the Hon. Henry Dudley Lyder, the executors, and the estate sworn under £35,000. An annuity and a few small legacies are given free of duty, and the residue is to be divided into eighteen parts—viz., five parts for the Royal School for Daughters of Officers in the Army and Navy, of which the Duke of Cambridge and Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Johnstone Lawrence, K.C.B., were president and treasurer; five parts for the National Refuge for Homeless and Destitute Children, of which the Earl of Shaftesbury and John Hampden Foreman, Esq., were president and treasurer; two parts for the Home for Little Boys, near Farningham, Kent, of which Robert Hanbury, Esq., and W. W. Wilkins were president and treasurer; two parts for the Royal Albert Orphan Asylum, of which F. G. Hoare was treasurer; two parts for the Asylum for Fatherless Children, of which Baron Rothschild was treasurer; and the remaining two parts for the Home for Female Orphans who have lost both parents, of which J. Prothero was treasurer.

The will (dated June 14, 1877) of Mr. George Spence Fenton, formerly of Tyreallen, Donegal, Ireland, but late of The Grange, Hillingdon, near Uxbridge, who died on Sept. 26 last, was proved on the 25th ult. by Mrs. Frances Farington Fenton, the widow, and Miss Henrietta Jane Parkinson, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000.

The will (dated Jan. 17, 1878) with two codicils (dated May 3 and June 10, 1880) of Sir John Walter Tarleton, K.C.B., late of No. 58, Warwick-square, who died on Sept. 25 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by Dame Finetta Esther Tarleton, the widow, and Major-General Sir John Clayton Cowell, K.C.B., the executors, the personal estate being under £20,000.

The Duke of Cambridge has issued an order reminding officers that the Queen's Regulations prescribe the wearing of uniform by the commissioned ranks always, "except when officers are engaged in recreations inconsistent with its use."

The revenue of New Zealand for the quarter ending Sept. 30, amounted to £747,768. The expenditure in the same period, including the sum set apart for public works, was £970,901.



The Assessment Committee of the Corporation have completed their labours. The gross value of property in the City for 1880 is set down at £1,157,473, and the rateable value at £3,530,260, showing an increase upon the latter of £536,500. The new assessments will come into force in April next.

CHESS.

(Answers to Correspondents are unavoidably deferred.)

PROBLEM No. 1922.
By C. M. Baxter (Dundee).

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS-NUTS FOR CHRISTMAS.

When James the First told his son that chess was "overwise," the observation was probably true of the game, and still more probably true of the players. Chess was then "caviare to the general." It was the peculiar recreation of scholars and statesmen, two classes of personages who, in all ages, have been apt to be, or appear to be, "overwise." No one, said an irreverent observer, could possibly be as wise as Thurlow looks; and so, it is likely enough that neither the game nor its practitioners were quite so wise as they appeared to our British Solon. Whether, at any time in the past, chess was overwise or otherwise, it is certain that it is now practised under such altered conditions as to call for a revision of the Royal verdict pronounced nearly three hundred years ago. It is now played, reviewed, and otherwise written about by all classes of the community, one result of this widespread interest in it being the production of works that, whatever may be their aim or tendency, are, at least, free from the reproach so gravely sought to be impressed on the mind of "Baby Charles." The chess press of our day reflects, faithfully enough, the varying tastes of various classes, and it speaks volumes, in a double sense, for its enterprise, that each class seeking what it likes best, all find it. If nothing can be conceived to look more "wise" than a modern treatise upon chess theory, those who consider that a fault which is only an accident may find solace in the fugitive "letter" or occasional pamphlet. If the professor of chess offends by an aspect of wisdom, the frivolous mind may be restored to its balance by a brief contemplation of the amateur enthusiast. And if the student of chess has formed no taste for playing the game, deterred, as is too often the case, by the associations attaching to its practice in public rooms, he may join a well-managed club or turn his attention to problems.

In the literature of problems he will find every conceivable form of puzzle of which the chess pieces, in combination with the chessboard, are susceptible, so that, when wearied with the subtleties of the scientific composers, he can turn to the ingenious trifiers whose effects are produced by humorous applications of the technicalities of the game. In our last Christmas column we took occasion to point out that the literature of chess abounds in productions of a fanciful or imaginative kind; and we propose in this one to present our readers with a few illustrations of what may be termed chess jokes, not only in support of our suggestion that chessplayers are not superior to a little nonsense now and then, but also as a seasonable departure from conventional lines.

We commence with the following Problem, the composition of one "Fritz-Kalauer," a pseudonymous joker in the Leipsic Schachzeitung:—

White: K at K R 5th, Q at Q R square, R at K R 8th, Kts at K R 3rd and Q Kt 6th, Pawns at K Kt 4th and K B 4th.

Black: K at K 3rd, B at K 2nd, B at Q Kt square, P at K B 2nd.

In this position White is required to play and mate in two moves; but if the reader, before he has got so far as this, has set up the position in the ordinary way, he will find it impossible of solution. If, however, he first places the board so that the corner square at his left hand shall be a white one, and then set up the pieces, he may possibly see the joke. Lest he should not, here is the solution:—1. Q to K B 6th (ch), K takes Q; at this point the mistake in the position of the board is discovered; it is turned once to the left, whereupon White castles, giving checkmate!

We give two more of this composer's productions in the same vein, but with the chessboard in its right position, first and last:—

White: K at K B 6th; Q at K R 5th; R's at Q B 6th and Q B 8th; B at Q 3rd.

Black: K at Q 2nd; Q at K Kt square; Kt at Q 5th; Pawn at K B 2nd.

White is to retract his last move, and then force Black to mate him in one move.

It may be as well to set forth the solution of this one, in order that our younger sort may form some idea of how these jokes are constructed. It is as follows:—Before White's last move his Queen stood at her own square, and a Black Rook stood at his K R 4th. Replace the pieces; that is, retract White's move, and then, if White play 1. B to B 5th (ch), Black must capture it with the Rook, mating the White King.

The next position we purpose leaving to our readers for solution.

White: K at K B 8th; Q at Q Kt 5th; R's at Q 5th and K 8th; P at K 5th.

Black: K at Q B 2nd; Q at Q B 6th; R at K B 8th; B's at K B 5th and Q R 7th.

White to retract his last move, and then force Black to mate him in one move.

It is now twelve years ago since these jokes were first published, but we hope that "Fritz Kalauer," Yorick of the chess arena, has survived them, and may, sometime, see their reproduction here.

In compositions of the foregoing kind Americans and Germans are, apparently, more fertile than our home problemists; but there are, or were, some exponents of the comic vein among us. The following joke was contributed to the Westminster Papers so many years ago that it must necessarily be new to the present generation of problem-solvers.

White: K at Q R 3rd; R at Q Kt 7th; B at Q 3rd; Kt at Q 7th; P's at Q B 2nd and 3rd and K B 6th.

Black: K at Q R 4th; P's at K B 2nd and Q R 3rd.

White is to move, and mate with Bishop in four moves.

The joke intended here consists in sacrificing the Bishop now on the board, and promoting a Pawn to a Bishop, with which piece the mate is given in the stipulated number of moves.

The next position is called by its author, M. Schumoff, of St. Petersburg, "Haroun Al Raschid." Haroun, as every man, woman, and child well knows, was accustomed, when dusky eve had descended upon the minarets of Bagdad, to put off all appanage of state, and, donning lowly garb, to go forth among the people, observing their habits, learning their grievances, and, in due time, redressing them, as only the Oriental despots of story ever did, or, for the matter of that, ever could.

White: Q at Q B 7th; R's at K R 2nd and K square; Kts at K 5th and Q B 3rd; B at K Kt 3rd; Pawns at K R 3rd, K B 2nd, K 6th, Q 4th, and Q R 3rd.

Black: K at Q B 7th; R at K Kt 5th; Kt at K Kt square; B's at K B 5th and Q square; Pawns at K Kt 3rd and 4th, K 2nd, Q Kt 6th and 7th.

It will be observed by the sagacious problem-solver that Haroun (the White King) is absent on one of his nightly expeditions, and the author tells us that before his departure he put a man in his place. He now returns, and the solver is required to displace the man, put the Caliph on his throne again, and then force Black to mate him in three moves.

The joke of this problem, a very fine one, by-the-by, has always appeared to us to be in the condition that the Caliph should force his adversary to mate him. Our recollection of that favourite of boyhood days is that he was a potentate much more likely to force other people to checkmate themselves. Out of their own mouths hath he often convicted them: but, to be sure, that characteristic of Haroun Al Raschid could not be illustrated in a chess problem. The following is the solution:—Remove the White Pawn from K B 2nd and substitute the White King, then White moving plays, 1. K to B 3rd (dis. ch), B to Q 7th; 2. Kt to Kt square (dis. ch), B to B 3rd; 3. K takes R, and now the Black Knight must move, checkmating.

The last of our chess-nuts for Christmas is an original suicidal problem contributed by Mr. H. E. Kidson, of Liverpool.

White: K at K B 5th; Q at Q 3rd; R at K R 4th; Kt at Q Kt 4th; B at Q R 8th; Pawns at K Kt 3rd, K 4th, Q 7th, Q Kt 2nd, and Q R 3rd.

Black: K at K B 2nd; Q at K Kt 2nd; R's at K Kt square and K B square; Kt at Q R 4th; B's at K R square and Q square; Pawns at KR 3rd and 4th, K Kt 5th, and K 4th.

White to play, and force Black to mate him in two moves.

THE PLEASURES OF ANTICIPATION.

The mighty housewifery of the olden time, the cookery of a massive and savoury, but comparatively simple, Christmas dinner at the open kitchen hearth of a plentiful rustic home, is here exemplified by a brave woman's bold and skilful performance, to the admiration of her husband and children. That sucking-pig to be roasted, simultaneously placed over the fire with that huge pudding to be boiled, the basting of the one, alternately with due care of the other, demanding her continued industry and watchful attention, present a combination for which her guests cannot be sufficiently grateful. The anticipation of such a feast must, indeed, be a pleasure to the whole family gathered at the cheerful fireside; the honest yeoman, we doubt not, accompanied by two girls and a boy who turns the spit, looking on his wife's operations for their common enjoyment, is quite of the same mind with the Scottish rural bard, that this is "the true pathos and sublime of human life." We sincerely hope and trust that the result will not disappoint, in their case, sentiments which are so wholesome and natural, and so friendly to domestic virtue. A slice of that tender roast pork, with a crisp piece of the brown crackling, like the sweet crust of a crummy cake, would not be refused by the present writer, if it were likely that such fare might be offered him on the Twenty-fifth of December; nor would he prove a recreant to the charms of that luscious compound, where raisins and currants, orange-peel and sugar, lend sweet and spicy enrichment to the plump and buxom union of suet with flour. May those who can get it be happy, then and thereafter! their sleep at night be sound and lightsome, their waking next morn be fresh and vigorous, free from oppressive feelings of an indigestion, as well as from disquietude of conscience and temper! It ought surely to be so with the results of a festive meal prepared and eaten in such abounding good faith by the countryman's harmless household.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

ALLEN AND CO.
Turkey, Old and New. Historical, Geographical, and Statistical. By Sutherland Menzies. 2 vols.
Report of the Proceedings of the International Congress on the Education of the Deaf, held at Milan in Sept., 1880.

ATKIN AND PROUT, NEW YORK.
Moslem, Egypt, and Christian Abyssinia; or, Military Service under the Khedive, in his Provinces and Beyond their Borders, as Experienced by the American Staff. By William McE. Dye.

BEN. GEORGE.
Peter Parley's Annual for 1881. Coloured Illustrations.

BICKERS AND SON.
The Vicar of Wakefield. A Tale. By Oliver Goldsmith. With Twelve Illustrations in Permanent Photography from Pictures by British Artists.

BLACKIE AND SON.
William C. Bryant. A Biographical Sketch with Selections from his Poems and other Writings. By A. J. Symington.
Thomas Moore, the Poet. His Life and Works. By the same Author.
Samuel Lover. A Biographical Sketch, with Selections from his Writings and Correspondence. By the same Author.

BLACKWOOD AND SONS.
Bauble Clark. By the Author of "Hogan, M.P."

CASSELL, PETTER, AND GALPIN.
The Young Berringtons: or, The Boy Explorers. By W. H. G. Kingston.
Through Flood—Through Fire. By Henry Frith. And other Stories.
Aunt Tabitha's Waifs. By Madeline Bonavia Hunt.
Jeff and Leff. The Story of Two Poor City Arabs. And other Stories.
Cassell's Family Magazine. 1880.
Cassell's Natural History. Edited by P. Martin Duncan. Illustrated.
A History of Modern Europe. By C. A. Fyffe. Vol. I. From 1792 to 1814. Maps.
Heroines of the Mission Field. By Mrs. Emma Raymond Pitman.

CHATTO AND WINDUS.
The Leaden Casket. A Novel. By Mrs. Alfred W. Hunt. 3 vols.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE.
Catechisms for the Young in Accordance with Church of England Teaching.
Elementary Lessons on the Old Testament: Samuel to Malachi. By Emily E. Beedes. Second Series.
Lessons on the Life and Epistles of St. Paul. By Elizabeth H. Green.
The Sunday Scholar's Companion. 1880.

CLOWES AND SONS.
Pygmalion in Cyprus, and other Poems. By George Eric Lancaster.

DE LA RUE AND CO.
The Life of Sir Rowland Hill and the History of Penny Postage. By Sir Rowland Hill and his Nephew, George Birkbeck Hill. 2 vols.

DOUGLAS, EDINBURGH.
Notes and Sketches from the Wild Coasts of Nipon. With Chapters on Cruising after Pirates in Chinese Waters. By Captain H. C. St. John, R.N.

EDMONSTON AND CO.
Tit-Bits for the Table.

ELLISSEN AND CO.
Bound by the Law. A Romance of Married Life. By Helen Weseché. 3 vols.

FAITHFULL AND CO.
Modesta. By Gina Rose.

GRIFFITH AND FARRAN.
The Letter H. Past, Present, and Future. By Alfred Leach.
The Guests of Flowers. A Botanical Sketch for Children. By C. E. Mectkerke.

HACHETTE ET CIE.
Procédure d'Extradition et Résumé des Traités, actuellement en vigueur, conclus par le Gouvernement de sa Majesté Britannique par la France et la Belgique, avec les autres Puissances. Par C. E. Howard Vincent.

HAMILTON, ADAMS, AND CO.
The Sunday School: Its History and Development. With an Account of the Sunday School Centenary of 1880. By John Palmer.

HODDER AND STOUGHTON.
The New Commandment, or Ella's Ministry.
The Laws relating to Religious Liberty and Public Worship. By John Jenkins.

HOULSTON AND SONS.
The Silver Star. A Romance of the North Land. By David Murray Smith.

JAPP AND CO.
Master Missionaries. Chapters on Pioneer Effort. By Alex. Hay Japp.
Leaders of Men. Biographies Specially Written for Youth. By H. A. Page.
Wise Words and Loving Deeds. A Book of Biographies for Girls. By E. C. Gray.

KERBY AND ENDEAN.
Dorothy Compton. A Story of the '15. By J. R. Henslowe.
The Path of the Just; or, The Christian's Pilgrimage to Glory. By the Rev. Robert Wilkes Goose.

LOCKWOOD AND CO.
Sewing Machinery. Being a Practical Manual of the Sewing Machine. By J. W. Urquhart. Numerous Illustrations.

LONGMANS, GREEN, AND CO.
Endymion. By the Author of "Lothair." 3 vols.

LOW AND CO.
The Rose Library—Nothing to Wear, and Two Millions. By W. Allen Butler.
The Steam House. Part I. The Demon of Cawnpore. By Jules Verne. Translated from the French by A. D. Kingston.
The Dragonnades; or, Asylum Christi. By the Rev. E. Gilliat.
The Eve of Saint Agnes. By John Keats. Illustrated in Nineteen Etchings. By Charles O. Murray.
A Fool's Errand. By One of the Fools. Revised Edition. Illustrated.
A Treatise on Etching. Text and Plates by Maxime Lalanne. Translated by S. R. Koehler.
Bricks Without Straw. A Novel. By Dr. Albron W. Tourgee.
John Holdsworth, Chief Mate. By W. Clark Russell. Cheaper Edition.
Errant. A Life Story of Latter-Day Chivalry. By Percy Greg. 3 vols.
The Story of the Zulu Campaign. By Major Ashe and Captain the Hon. E. V. Wyatt-Edgell. With Map.
The Pyrenees: a Description of Summer Life at French Watering-Places. By H. Blackburn. New Edition. Corrected to 1880. With Illustrations by Gustave Doré, and a New Map of Routes for Travellers.
A Short History of the British School of Painting. By George H. Shepherd.

MACMILLAN AND CO.
Food for the Invalid; the Convalescent; the Dyspeptic; and the Gouty. By Dr. J. Milner Fothergill.
The Aryan Village in India and Ceylon. By Sir John B. Phear.

MURRAY.
A History of Greek Sculpture. From the Earliest Times to the Age of Pheidias. By A. S. Murray. Illustrations.
A Handbook to Political Questions of the Day. Being Arguments on Either Side. By Sydney C. Buxton. Second Edition.

NIMMO AND CO., EDINBURGH.
The Pursuit of Knowledge under Difficulties. By George Lillie Craik.
The Life of Nelson. By Robert Southey With Biographical Notice of the Author.
The Treasury of English Literature. A Book of Selections from the best Authors, from Chaucer to the Present Time. With brief Biographies. By Robert Cochrane. With Portraits.

PARTRIDGE AND CO.
The Welcome Hour. An Illustrated Monthly Magazine. Vol. IV.

PAUL AND CO.
The Catskill Fairies. By Virginia W. Johnson. Illustrated.
Dorothy. A Country Story. In Verse.
The Works of Alfred Tennyson. With Portrait and Twenty-five Illustrations.
Ballads and Poems. By Alfred Tennyson.

RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY.
Leisure Hour. 1880.
Sunday at Home. A Family Magazine for Sabbath Reading. 1880.

REMINGTON AND CO.
'Twixt Friend and Foe. A Novel. 2 vols. By M. A. Wackerbarth.

ROBERTSON AND CO.
The Proportions of the Human Figure. With a Project for an Instrument for the Identification of Persons for Artistic or Legal Purposes. By the late Joseph Bonomi. Fifth Edition.

ROUTLEDGE AND SONS.
Prince Darling's Story Book. With 300 Illustrations.
Schoolboys all the World Over. Adapted from the French by Henry Frith.
Pizarro. His Adventures and Conquests. By George M. Towle.
Eminent Soldiers. Biographical Sketches of Great Military Commanders. By W. H. Davenport Adams.

SKEFFINGTON AND SON.
The Children's Fairy Geography; or, a Merry Trip Round Europe. By the Rev. Forbes E. Winslow. Third Edition.

SOTHERAN AND CO.
Some Drawings of Ancient Embroidery. Thirty Specimens by Mrs. Mary Barber.

STANFORD.
Life and Her Children. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By Arabella B. Buckley. With Upwards of One Hundred Illustrations.

STEVENS.
The Family Herald. Vol. XLV.
The Family Herald Supplements. Vol. V.

STRAHAN AND CO.
A Picturesque Tour in Picturesque Lands. By L. G. Seguin.

TINSLEY BROTHERS.
Free Lance Tiltings in Many Lists. By Charles J. Dunphie and Albert King.

TRÜBNER AND CO.
The Story of Philosophy. By Aston Leigh.

"VANITY FAIR" OFFICE.
The Vanity Fair Album: a Show of Sovereigns, Statesmen, Judges, and Men of the Day. Biographical and Critical Notices. By Jehu Junior. Vol. XII.

WARD, LOCK, AND CO.
The Complete Works of Shakespeare. With a Critical Biography by Wm. Michael Rossetti. Glossary and Illustrations.
The Economical Housewife. A Complete Practical Guide to Domestic Management. Fully Illustrated.
Sylvia's Book of Home Needlework.
Oratory and Orators. By Dr. Wm. Mathews.
The Guest-Book. An Autograph Record of Arrivals, Departures, Incidents, and Impressions. With Quotations.
Readyford; or, Creed and Character. By Silas K. Hocking.
The Story of a Dewdrop. By J. R. Macduff. With Four Coloured Illustrations.
The Following of the Flowers; or, Musings in My Flower Garden.
The Quiver of Love. A collection of Valentines, Ancient and Modern. With Illustrations in Colour.

WARNE AND CO.
Warne's Model Cookery. By Mary Jewry. With Illustrations in Colours.
The Boy's Modern Playmate. A Book of Games, Sports, and Diversions. Compiled by the Rev. J. G. Wood. Revised Edition. Six Hundred Illustrations.
Our Little World of Child Life. A Series of Simple Stories. Illustrations.
The Merry Ballads of the Olden Time. In Pictures and Rhyme.
Afternoon Tea. Rymes for Children. With Illustrations.
Songs for Our Little Friends. Set to Music.
The Children's Hour. Songs and Ditties, with a Morning and Evening Hymn. Set to Music.
Party-Giving on Every Scale, or the Cost of Entertainments, with the Fashionable Modes of Arrangement.

Digitized by Google

BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES.

Crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students."

Extract from Preface:

"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simply than in text-books on Zoology. For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena, and I have been more careful to sketch in bold outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.

I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lasso-Throwers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Mailed Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect Suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies within their Coats.
XII. Inteligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," &c.

"Her methods of presenting certain facts and phenomena difficult to grasp are most original and striking, and admirably calculated to enable the reader to realise the truth. As to the interest of her story, we have tested it in a youthful subject, and she mentioned it in the same breath with 'Grimm's Fairy Tales.' We are sure any of the older children would welcome it as a Christmas present; but it deserves to take a permanent place in the literature of youth."—Times.

Second Edition, post 8vo, cloth, 4s. 6d.,

DOMESTIC ECONOMY AND HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE. Adapted for Home Education, and for Schoolmistresses and Pupil-Teachers. By ROBERT JAMES MANN, M.D., late Superintendent of Education at Natal.

"Mr. Mann's directions are practical and judicious, and frequently he says a good deal that is worth attention in a few words. The little volume is one in which most people who have, or are likely to have, anything to do with household cares, will find some hints worth noting."—Saturday Review.

Post 8vo, cloth, 3s. 6d.,

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE: Readings in Necessary Knowledge for Girls and Young Women. Edited by Rev. J. P. FAUNTHORPE, Principal of Whitelands Training College. Dedicated by permission to his Grace the Duke of Westminster, K.G.

CONTENTS:—Domestic Economy—Food and its Preparation—Clothing and its Materials—The Dwelling: its Warming, Cleaning, and Ventilation—Washing Materials and their Use—Rules for Health—The Management of the Sick Room—Cottage Income and Expenditure.

Fcap folio, each 7s. 6d.,

INSTRUCTIVE PICTURE-BOOKS: A Series of Volumes Illustrative of Natural History and of the Vegetable World, with Descriptive Letterpress.

No. I.—NATURAL HISTORY OF ANIMALS. By ADAM WHITE. With 54 folio Coloured Plates. Tenth Edition.
No. II.—LESSONS FROM THE VEGETABLE WORLD. By the Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." With 31 Double-page plates. Fifth Edition.
No. III.—GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION OF ANIMALS. 60 Folio Coloured Plates. Third Edition.
No. IV.—PICTURES of ANIMAL and VEGETABLE LIFE in ALL LANDS. Second Edition. Forty-eight folio Coloured Plates.
No. V.—PICTORIAL LESSONS on FORM, COMPARISON, and NUMBER, for Children under Seven Years of Age. Eighth Edition. Thirty-six oblong folio Coloured Illustrations.

"These volumes are among the most Instructive Picture-Books we have seen, and we know of none better calculated to excite and gratify the appetite of the young for the knowledge of nature."—Times.

Fcap folio, 7s. 6d.,

THE INSTRUCTIVE ATLAS OF MODERN GEOGRAPHY. Intended for the use of Young Pupils. Containing 17 Coloured Maps, each 17 inches by 14.

"This new atlas cannot fail to become a popular one. It is evidently designed with a view to making it not so much a work of reference as an aid to the teacher. The individual maps, of which there are seventeen, are beautifully bold in outline, are not crowded with a host of unnecessary names, and are so clear and distinct that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in deciphering any single name. All the maps are brought down to the present date, Western Europe and South Africa especially receiving careful attention."—Schoolmaster.

Second Edition, crown 8vo, with 77 Illustrations, cloth, 7s. 6d.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 13s.,

A SHORT HISTORY OF NATURAL SCIENCE, and of the Progress of Discovery from the Time of the Greeks to the Present Day. For the Use of Schools and Young Persons. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," "The Fairyland of Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students," &c.

"Guides to literature abound; guides to science, similar in purpose and character to Miss Buckley's 'History' are unknown. The writer's plan, therefore, is original, and her execution of the plan is altogether admirable. . . . She sees clearly what she describes and the interest felt by the author is imparted to the reader. Diagrams and illustrations of the letterpress add to the value of the compendium."—Pall Mall Gazette.

SIMPLE LESSONS. By Eminent Writers.

CONTENTS: Our Bodily Life—How and Why we Breathe—Food—Drink—Cookery—Plain Needlework—Clothing—Air and Ventilation—The Sicknesses that Spread—Weather—Astronomy—Birds—Flowers—Money.

18mo, cloth, 2s. 6d.

The Simple Lessons are also published separately, 3d. each, or 16s. per 100, assorted. The Set of 14, in card case, 3s.

"Couched in clear, straightforward language, these papers cannot fail to be understood by children; and, collected together in their present form, will be as useful for home teaching as for regular school instruction."—Graphic.

STUDIES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE. By JOHN DENNIS, Editor of "English Sonnets: a Selection from 1547," &c.

Crown 8vo, cloth, 7s. 6d.

CONTENTS—Pope—Defoe—Prior—Steele—The Wartons—John Wesley—Southey—English Lyrical Poetry—English Rural Poetry—The English Sonnet.

"One of the best books upon poetry which we have had for a very long time."—Westminster Review.

"An excellent book. It has the charm—quite captivating in these days—of being entirely void of affectation, extravagance, or any 'trick of singularity;' and it displays sound judgment, both moral and æsthetic, and a thorough mastery of the subjects with which it deals."—Spectator.

With 32 full-page Illustrations, post 8vo, cloth, 4s.; a few copies, with the Illustrations hand-coloured, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 14s.,

BOTANY FOR CHILDREN. An Illustrated Elementary Text-Book for Junior Classes and Young Children. By the Rev. GEORGE HENSLOW, M.A., F.L.S., F.G.S., Author of "Floral Dissections."

"Just such an elementary text-book of botany as might be put into practical use in schools without the slightest doubt that children would take to it."—Science Gossip.

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Second Edition. Post 8vo, cloth, with Forty Illustrations and Maps, 1s.,

GEOGRAPHY FOR LITTLE CHILDREN. By ANTONIA ZIMMERN.

"In a very simple and interesting way attempts to show the use of a map and teach some of the elementary points of physical geography. Its numerous attractive and quite original illustrations are an important feature."—Nature.

"An admirable first book for young children. By maps and illustrations the configuration and physical geography of the world are taught in a very popular and attractive style. It will prove a suitable gift-book for little folk." .

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

CHLORODYNE.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S.

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

This wonderful remedy was discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne, and the word Chlorodyne coined by him expressly to designate it. There never has been a remedy so vastly beneficial to suffering humanity, and it is a subject of deep concern to the public that they should not be imposed upon by having imitations pressed upon them on account of cheapness and as being the same thing. Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a totally distinct thing from the spurious compounds called Chlorodyne, the use of which only ends in disappointment and failure.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne: that the whole story of the defendant was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—See the "Times," July 13, 1864.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a liquid medicine which assuages pain of every kind, affords a calm and refreshing sleep without headache, and invigorates the nervous system when exhausted.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the GREAT SPECIFIC for CHOLERA.

DYSENTERY,

DIARRHŒA.

Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla to the effect that cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the only remedy of any service was Chlorodyne.—See "Lancet," Dec. 31, 1864.

The General Board of Health, London, reports that it acts as a charm. One dose generally sufficient.

Dr. Gibbon, Army Medical Staff Calcutta, states:—"Two doses completely cured me of diarrhœa."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE rapidly cuts short all attacks of

EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC,

PALPITATION, HYSTERIA.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the true palliative in

NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER,

TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.

From Dr. B. J. Boulton and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct sedative and anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

IMPORTANT CAUTION.

The immense sale of this remedy has given rise to many unscrupulous imitations.

N.B.—Every bottle of genuine Chlorodyne bears on the Government stamp the name of the inventor.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE.

Sold in Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.

J. T. DAVENPORT,

33, Great Russell-street, W.C., Sole Manufacturer.

NICHOLSON'S NEW COSTUMES,

50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW MANTLES,

50 Illustrations free.

NICHOLSON'S NEW WINTER DRESS FABRICS.

Patterns post-free.

VELOUR CLOTH, at 10½d., 18½d., and 1s. 11½d. per yard.
NEW SERGES, at 15½d., 18½d., and 23½d. per yard.
GRAMPIAN HOMESPUNS, 1s. 7½d. per yard.
NEW POPLINS, from 6½d. per yard.
NEW MELTON CLOTHS, 2s. 3d. per yard.
FRENCH MERINOS, at 1s. 11d., 2s. 9½d., and 3s. 3d. per yard.
BLACK VELVETEENS, from 1s. 9½d. to 5s. 11d. per yard.
COLOURED Ditto, from 2s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED Ditto, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

Patterns of Black and Coloured Silks post-free.

D. NICHOLSON and CO.,

50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER

THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
IS A WORLD-WIDE NECESSARY.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE NURSERY.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE SICK-ROOM.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
HAS A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."

TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."

Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS' "MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

SOLD only in tin-lined Packets by all Grocers. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

FRY'S COCOA. GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878. FRY'S CARACAS COCOA. A choice prepared Cocoa, most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

FRY'S COCOA. GUARANTEED PURE. FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT. Pure Cocoa only, the superfluous oil extracted. J. S. FRY and SONS.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets. For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS. Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York. Sold Everywhere.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 26s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 6d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto. Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

TURKISH PASTILS.

"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghilés at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.

In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

PALACE SOAP.

PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 5s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Mélange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 14s.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.

PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being piquante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

AN ALARMING DISEASE AFFLICTING A NUMEROUS CLASS.

The disease commences with a slight derangement of the stomach, but, if neglected, it in time involves the whole frame, embracing the kidneys, liver, pancreas, and, in fact, the entire glandular system, and the afflicted drags out a miserable existence, until death gives relief from suffering. The disease is often mistaken for other complaints; but, if the reader will ask himself the following questions, he will be able to determine whether he himself is one of the afflicted: Have I distress, pain, or difficulty in breathing after eating? Is there a dull, heavy feeling, attended by drowsiness? Have the eyes a yellow tinge? Does a thick, sticky mucus gather about the gums and teeth in the mornings, accompanied by a disagreeable taste? Is the tongue coated? Are there pains in the sides and back? Is there a fulness about the right side, as if the liver were enlarging? Is there costiveness? Is there vertigo or dizziness when rising suddenly from a horizontal position? Are the secretions from the kidneys scanty and highly coloured, with a deposit after standing? Does food ferment soon after eating, accompanied by flatulence or a belching of gas from the stomach? Is there frequent palpitation of the heart? These various symptoms may not be present at one time, but they torment the sufferer in turn as the dreadful disease progresses. If the case be one of long standing, there will be a dry hacking cough, attended, after a time, by expectoration. In very advanced stages the skin assumes a dirty brownish appearance, and the hands and feet are covered by a cold, sticky perspiration. As the liver and kidneys become more and more diseased, rheumatic pains appear, and the usual treatment proves entirely unavailing against this latter agonising disorder. It is most important that the disease should be promptly and properly treated in its first stages, when a little medicine will effect a cure, and even when it has obtained a strong hold the true remedy should be persevered in until every vestige of the disease is eradicated, until the appetite has returned and the digestive organs restored to a healthy condition. This disease is called liver complaint, and the surest and most effectual remedy for this most distressing complaint is "Seigel's Curative Syrup," a vegetable preparation made in America, and sold by A. J. White, Limited, 21, Farringdon-road, London, E.C., and Chemists and Medicine Vendors, at 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. per bottle. This syrup strikes at the very foundation of the disease and drives it, root and branch, out of the system.

The following Testimonials prove the efficacy of the Medicine in cases of Dyspepsia, &c.:—

DISORDERED LIVER.

"Prospect House, Bridport, Dorset, Dec. 22, 1879.

"My dear Sir,—I have for years suffered more or less from (to me) an unknown cause, but which from diagnosis I imagined to arise from a disordered liver. Digestion was extremely difficult, and consequently my appetite was much affected. Various medicines (so called) I have repeatedly tried, but failed to derive anything beyond a temporary benefit. I was induced by your agent to give your 'Curative Syrup' a trial, and after taking the contents of one bottle I invested in another, which is yet scarcely finished. I am more than happy to be able to testify to the curative properties of the compound. That languid feeling, which formerly unfitted me for business, I have not since experienced, and, indeed, feel altogether a different being.

"I am, Sir, yours very faithfully,

"A. J. White, Esq. RICHARD ERDON, Journalist."

"Mr. J. Longbotham, Chemist and Druggist, of Chester-le-Street, in the county of Durham, writes, Dec. 19, 1879:—"I should like to have more of your almanacks, with my name printed on them. Please send them as early as possible. We have sold an immense quantity (many dozens) of the Syrup, and the sale is still on the increase; in my long experience (fifty years) I have never known a patent medicine sell so rapidly, and the result so satisfactory."

The attention of readers is directed to the following letter from a highly respectable Chemist at Landport, Hants:—

"323, Commercial-road, Landport, Feb. 9, 1880.

"Dear Sir,—I should say that the sale is increasing very fast. This is the second supply we have had since Christmas, when we ordered half a gross—in fact, we sell more of 'Seigel's Syrup' than any other patent medicine. The secret of the demand is, in my opinion, due to the beneficial effects produced by the medicine. A friend of ours who visits the sick has come across some remarkable cases of cure produced by taking the Syrup.—Yours, very faithfully, W. J. TUCK, Chemist.

"To A. J. White, Esq."

Would it be possible for this gentleman to make such a statement unless his customers really derived benefit?

SEVERE CASE OF RHEUMATISM.

"Cowper-street, California, Ipswich, July 27 1878.

"Mr. A. J. White.—Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in informing you that after taking 'Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup' I am quite restored to health, after suffering for four years from the most excruciating pains. At times I could not move in my bed from rheumatism and dropsy; but now, although I am now sixty-three years of age, I am able to work and walk free from pain. I send you this that you may let my fellow-sufferers know the great benefit I have received after taking your valuable medicine. I found great relief after taking for two days, and I am sure no one could have been a greater sufferer than myself.—Yours truly. CHAS. SLATE."

"36, Pitfield-street, Hoxton, London, N., March 24, 1880.

"My dear Sir,—I think if the following case was published in your next issue it might prove of advantage to the public generally. I have sold some hundred bottles of Mother Seigel's most excellent Syrup, but, though well acquainted with its wonderful efficacy in Stomach and Liver Complaints, did not know until a day or two back that in South America it is largely taken for Ague. My informant was Mr. Morris, of 42, Haberdasher-street, Hoxton, N., who came for a bottle, and stated that he and his wife and friends always took 'Mother Seigel's Syrup' when in America for what they call there the Chills and Fever, but what we term Ague. He was very glad to find I sold it, and subsequently returned, in the course of the day, and said that it had the usual effect, and that his wife was already much better. He has been a great traveller, and never knew of so speedy and successful a remedy.—I remain, my dear Sir, yours truly,

"H. W. HORTON, Chemist."

Mr. J. B. Crosby, 22, Fowler-street, South Shields, writes, Nov. 25, 1879:—"I have sold several dozens of your 'Mother Seigel's Syrup.' When parties have come back the second or more times for a fresh supply, I am in the habit of asking them what they think of the medicine, and if it has done them good, and the invariable testimony is that it is a most excellent medicine, and they have derived great benefit from it. Wishing you the success you deserve, I am, yours truly, J. B CROSBY."

NOTE.—No person would buy a second bottle of a worthless medicine, so that the fact of people coming back to Mr. Crosby again and again proves, as he says, that the medicine is excellently adapted to meet the end in view—viz., to relieve sufferers from Dyspepsia and kindred complaints.

Mr. W. C. Hall, Chemist and Mineral Water Manufacturer, Bridge-street, Newark, writing under date of Nov. 27, 1879, says: "Mother Seigel's Syrup has certainly a wonderful effect on the human system. You have certainly not overrated its value. If I did not hear from my customers personally what an efficacious medicine it is, I could not, nor would not, believe it. Although I have sold a large quantity, I have never heard it spoken of other than in terms of praise. If any sufferer writes to me I will certainly give them a satisfactory reply. Make what use of this you like."

"Methley, near Leeds, June 10, 1879.

"Dear Sir,—I suffered from bad Indigestion and Liver Complaint for years, during which time I used various remedies, but all to no purpose. I tried all the medical men, and got no relief. I afterwards went to the Infirmary, but left as 'incurable.' As a last resource, I was induced to try the 'Curative Syrup,' and to my great joy it has almost made a new man of me. I can now do what I had not been able to do for a long time past—viz., I can eat a good dinner without the pain that was formerly so great.

"I wish to highly recommend the medicine to suffering humanity, as the best and cheapest in the world.

"I remain, your humble servant, WILLIAM HEWETT."

Methley, near Leeds."

SEIGEL'S SYRUP can be obtained from all Chemists, price 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. per Bottle.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

Just published, a New Volume of

MODERN BALLADS. Price 2s. 6d., paper cover; 4s., cloth, gilt edges. Containing Fifty Songs and Ballads by the following eminent composers:—

Arthur Sullivan.	F. H. Cown.
Pinsuti.	J. L. Molloy.
Louis Diehl.	Hamilton Aidé.
A. S. Gatty.	Virginia Gabriel.
Dolores.	Claribel.
Marziala.	Cotsford Dick.

The volume includes the following favourite songs, in addition to a number never before published:—"She wandered down the mountain side," "It was a dream," "Then and Now," "The Fisher," "Who shall be fairest?" "Birds in the night," "As you like it," "He doesn't love me," "Old Cottage Clock," &c.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS IN MUSIC.

THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.
Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 4s. each. Now ready.

SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.	BEETHOVEN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND.	MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF IRELAND.	SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
SONGS OF WALES.	SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF FRANCE.	RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF GERMANY.	RUBINSTEIN'S DUETS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS.	DUETS FOR LADIES.
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. 2 vols.	SACRED SONGS.
	HUMOROUS SONGS.

Also, THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone. Price 7s. 6d. each, handsomely bound, gilt edges.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S NEW SONGS.

MY ONLY LOVE. By KUHE. Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A SUMMER SHOWER. By the Composer of "Twickenham Ferry." Sung by Miss Mary Davies at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co, 295, Regent-street.

HENSCHEL'S New Song. SING HEIGH HO! The poetry by Charles Kingsley. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A CLUSTER OF ROSES. By Mr. C. VINCENT. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE ZEELAND TOLL. Sung in "Anne-Mie." Words by Clement Scott.
"I like the song: it should be sung in all country houses."—Truth. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

HER NAME. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Mr. Maas at the Ballad Concerts, and throughout the Provinces. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BEND OF THE RIVER. By BLUMENTHAL. Sung by Madame Marie Rose. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE WOOD. By WEKERLIN. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell with the greatest success at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Löffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

LILLIE'S MUSIC-BOOK (complete), containing the First and Second Books in one Volume (122 pages), with 21 Illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 7s.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and Short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New System of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT ERLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

NEW NUMBERS FOR CHRISTMAS OF

HAMMOND'S MUSIC PORTFOLIO.
PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.
Post-free, 13 stamps.

No. 10.

Elfen Reigen	Waltzes	Gung'l.
Light and Shade	Waltzes	Strauss.
Les Muses	Waltzes	Lamothe.
La Vallette	Waltzes	Percy Beamish.
Aus Freundschaft	Polka	Liebig.
Fairy Fountain	Schottische	Roulison.

No. 11.

Marien	Waltzes	Gung'l.
Les Zephyrs	Waltzes	Lamothe.
Les Cloches de Paris	Waltzes	Lamothe.
L'Alliance	Waltzes	Schiller.
Deutsche Lieder	Quadrille	J. Resch.
Le Verre en Main	Polka	Fahrbach.

N.B.—Cornet and Violin Accompaniments to each Book, 6d. each. Complete Lists sent on application.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 5, Vigo-street, London, W.

AUGENER and CO.'S UNIVERSAL CIRCULATING MUSICAL LIBRARY, to which is added Lonsdale's Library, is now the largest in Europe. Annual subscription from two guineas.—81, Regent-street. Prospectuses gratis.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.
The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

RICORDI, 265, REGENT-STREET, W.
GREATEST SUCCESS OF THE YEAR.

	s.	d.
MEPHISTOPHELES. By A. BOITO, with English and Italian Words	net 3	0
DITTO. PIANOFORTE SOLO	4	0
DITTO. PIANOFORTE DUET	3	0

Separate Pieces, Vocal, Pianoforte; also for Pianoforte with different Instruments.

DANCE ALBUM ARRANGED FROM "MEPHISTOPHELES."

	s.	d.		s.	d.
WALTZ	net 2	0	GALOP	net 1	6
MAZURKA	1	6	MAZURKA on Tosti's popular Song, "For Ever." For Piano	1	6
POLKA	1	6
QUADRILLE	1	6

A MULETEER SONG. English and Italian Words. 2 Keys 2 0
HUSH, SWEET LUTE. 3 Keys 1 6
FOR EVER AND FOR EVER. By L. P. TOSTI. 3 Keys 2 0
GOOD NIGHT. By F. DENZA. 3 Keys 2 0
WELCOME, PRETTY PRIMROSE. By C. PINSUTI. 2 Keys 2 0
AVE MARIA. For Soprano. Italian and English Words net 2 6

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £200. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

BUTLER'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. Violins, Concertinas, Harmoniums, Flutes, Clarionets, Flageolets, Guitars, Banjoes, Accordeons, Flutinas, Cornets, Drums, Fifes, and Musical Instruments of every description, at BUTLER'S, 21 Haymarket London. Illustrated Catalogue (50 pages) post-free.

NEW MUSIC.

J. B. CRAMER and CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

OPERETTAS SUITABLE for PRIVATE THEATRICALS:—

The Sleeping Queen	Halfe	net	2s. 6d.
The Magic Melody	Offenbach	"	2s. 6d.
The Barber of Baïa	Offenbach	"	1s. 6d.
The Crimson Scarf	Legouvé	"	2s. 6d.
Up the River	Morvé	"	1s. 6d.
My New Maid	Lecocq	"	1s. 6d.
The Sea Nymphs	Lecocq	"	2s. 6d.
Fashion	W. C. Levey	"	2s. 6d.

Each complete with Dialogue. Further particulars on application.—J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent-street, W.

MADAME FAVART. OFFENBACH'S very successful Comic Opera.

Complete Vocal Score	8s. 0d. net.
Piano Score	2s. 6d. "
Quadrilles, Lancers, Waltzes, and Polka, each Piano Solos and Duets.	2s. 6d. "

LA FILLE DU TAMBOUR MAJOR.
OFFENBACH'S Popular Comic Opera.
Now performing at the Alhambra.

Complete Vocal Score	8s. 0d. net.
Piano Score	2s. 6d. "
Quadrilles, Lancers, Waltzes, Galop, and Polka, each Piano Solos and Duets.	2s. 0d. "

LES MOUSQUETAIRES. Comic Opera. By LOUIS VARNEY (Now performing at the Globe).

Complete Vocal Score	8s. 0d. net.
Piano	2s. 6d. "
Quadrilles, Waltzes, Galop, and Polka each Piano Solos and Duets.	2s. 0d. "

THE CAPTIVE AND THE BIRD. Song. By PLANQUETTE; Words by H. B. Farnie. This charming romance, so admirably sung by Mr. F. H. Celli in the second act of "Les Mousquetaires," and always redemanded with the greatest enthusiasm. Published in F, G, and A flat. Also for the Pianoforte, a brilliant but not difficult arrangement, by Henry Parker. Each Edition, post-free, 2s. net.
J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent-street, W.

THE DREAM QUEEN Cantata for Female Voices. Composed by ODOARDO BARRI. This charming work, for three principals and chorus, from its easy vocal range, and yet dramatic treatment, is suitable alike to school or public performance, and is certain to become popular. Vocal Score complete, with argument. Price 3s. net.

NEW DANCE MUSIC for this SEASON.

Galanterien Waltz	net 2s.	Meyer Lutz	net 2s.
Marguerite Waltz	2s.	Caroline Lowthian	2s.
The Old Love and the New Waltz	2s.	Ditto	2s.
Dawn of Love Waltz	2s.	C. H. R. Marriott	2s.
Coquetterien Polka	2s.	Max Fruhling	2s.
Vanity Fair Polka	2s.	Caroline Lowthian	2s.
Verre en Main Polka	2s.	Fahrbach	2s.
Voyage en Chine Quadrille	2s.	Haydn Millars	2s.

All beautifully Illustrated Titles, and post-free.

NEWEST AND MOST POPULAR SONGS.

Across the River. In D and F	Henry Parker	net	2s.
Autumn	King Hall	"	2s.
Better than Gold	C. Pinsuti	"	2s.
Close to the Threshold. In G and B flat	Henry Parker	"	2s.
Haymaking. In F and G	Michael Watson	"	2s.
He went away in Spring. In E flat and G	A. Scott Gatty	"	2s.
Life's Uphill. In F and G	A. Scott Gatty	"	2s.
Moss Rose	King Hall	"	2s.
My Treasures. In F and G	Henry Parker	"	2s.
Rest. In E flat, F, and G	C. H. R. Marriott	"	2s.
Rita	C. H. R. Marriott	"	2s.
Rivals. In G and B flat	J. L. Roeckel	"	2s.
Second to None	F. Campana	"	2s.
In the Golden Eventide	C. Pinsuti	"	2s.
Homeward Bound	Stephen Jarvis	"	2s.
My Little Sweetheart. In D, F, and G	Odoardo Barri	"	2s.
Smuggler, The	F. Campana	"	2s.
Story by the Stream. In F and A flat	J. L. Roeckel	"	2s.
Who Cares?	A. L. Mora	"	2s.

CAROLS and HYMNS for the CHRISTMAS SEASON.
Thirty-three of the Best and most Popular.
In elegant paper cover Price 1s. net.
In cloth boards Price 2s. net.
J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from Steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 46 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS' LIST.

THE LATEST SUCCESS.

BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE 6s. net.
SONGS.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

In the press, ready shortly.
PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY (Illustrated). 1s. 6d. net.
WINTER EVERGREENS. S. GLOVER. 2s. net.
WELCOME MERRY CHRISTMAS. GREENLAND. 1s. 6d. net.
WHILE THE CHRISTMAS LOG IS BURNING (Illustrated). 1s. 6d. net.
SIMON THE CELLARER. J. L. HATTON. 50th Edition. 2s. net.
THREE JOLLY BRITONS. G. WARE. The new National Song to be sung in all the leading Pantomimes. 1s. 6d. net.

THE CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. By HENRY FARMER. "Has become a general favourite with the young folks, being expressly arranged for small hands." Solo, 1s. net; Duet, 1s. 6d. net.

WINTER EVERGREENS. CHRISTMAS FANTASIA. Introducing a number of seasonable melodies and popular Airs by A. GRENVILLE. Beautifully illustrated. Price 2s. net.

VIOLIN DANCES. Containing all the popular Dances from "Les Cloches de Corneville," together with the favourite compositions of Henry Farmer, C. H. R. Marriott, &c. "Will find a ready welcome from all at this season." Price 1s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 1000th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'

IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial instrument produced."
3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

NEW MUSIC.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for DECEMBER contains: Limited Liability in Music—The Great Composers: Gluck—The Father of the Symphony—Ponchielli's opera, "I Promessi Sposi"—Her Majesty's Opera—Monday Popular, Crystal Palace, Saturday Orchestral Concerts—Berlioz's "Faust." Occasional Notes, Correspondence, Reviews, Foreign and Country News, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d.; annual subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for DECEMBER contains: "A New-Year's Carol," by JAMES SHAW. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S
LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR PRESENTS and SCHOOL PRIZES.

	s.	d.
CHRISTMAS CAROLS. New and Old. Words edited by the Rev. H. R. Bramley, M.A., and Dr. Stainer. Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound. Cloth, gilt	7	6
Ditto, ditto. Library edition, complete, demy 8vo, with long historical preface, half roxburgh binding	7	6
Carols for Christmastide for Little Singers. By George Fox. Illustrated cover and title	2	6
SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS. Words by Frances Ridley Havergal; Music by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. Illustrated, cloth, gilt, 5s.; paper cover	2	6
THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG. A Collection of Sacred and Moral Songs, with original Music by the most eminent English composers. With 40 Illustrations, handsomely bound	7	6
NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS. By J. W. ELLIOTT. With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound. Cloth, gilt	7	6
THE CHRISTMAS BOOK OF LITTLE SONGS FOR YOUNG SINGERS. By J. F. LORRAINE. Handsomely bound	5	0
THE HARMONIUM TREASURY. Vol. I.—A series of Select Pieces (Sacred). Vol. II.—A Series of Select Pieces (Secular). Arranged for the Harmonium by J. W. ELLIOTT. Folio, each, cloth, gilt	10	6
A DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS. Edited by J. STAINER and W. A. BARRETT. Cloth, gilt	16	0
HAWKINS'S HISTORY OF MUSIC. Two volumes, cloth	21	0
MUSICAL MYTHS AND FACTS. By CARL ENGEL. Two volumes, demy 8vo, cloth	12	0
LIFE OF MOZART. By EDWARD HOLMES. 8vo, cloth	5	0
MOORE'S IRISH MELODIES. Edited by M. W. BALFE. Folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
MOORE'S IRISH MELODIES. Edited by M. W. BALFE. 8vo, cloth, gilt, 4s.; paper cover	2	6
SCHUMANN'S SONGS. Volume I., containing Op. 24, 25, 27, and 30. Edited by N. MACFARREN. Folio, cloth, gilt	10	6
SCHUMANN'S VOCAL ALBUM. Containing 30 of his most celebrated Songs. 8vo, cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d; paper cover	2	6
VOLKSLIEDER ALBUM. Forty Songs, with the Original Words and an English Version by JOHN OXENFORD. Cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.; paper cover	2	6
NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF OPERAS. Edited and translated by BERTHOLD TOURS, NATALIA MACFARREN, and the Rev. J. TROUTBECK. This Series contains the principal Operas of Beethoven, Gluck, Wagner, Mozart, Weber, Bellini, Donizetti, Verdi, &c. Price, each, 5s., 3s. 6d., or	2	6
NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF ORATORIOS, MASSES, CANTATAS, &c., containing the principal Works of Handel, Beethoven, Bach, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Schumann, Schubert. &c. Price, each, 3s., 2s., 1s. 6d., or	1	0

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

SECONDHAND PIANO SALE.—PIANOS, £15; Broadwood Pianos, £25; Erard Pianos, £25; Collard Pianos, £28; Harmoniums, £5; American Organs, £10. THOMAS OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE.—Purchasers who can pay cash will do well to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of obtaining thoroughly good instruments at extraordinary low prices.

BROADWOOD PIANOS, 24 guineas. Full compass Pianofortes, in handsome cases, good condition, fine tone, at above moderate price, for cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

COLLARD PIANOS, 28 guineas. Full-compass COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fine full, rich tone, perfect condition. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Madame Tussaud's).

ERARD PIANOS, 38 guineas, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Trichord COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, in handsome ebonised and gilt cases, fine full, powerful tone. Cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE. — The PIANOFORTE HIRE and THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM BUSINESS carried on as usual during the Sale.—THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., opposite Madame Tussaud's.

RODRIGUES' CHRISTMAS PRESENTS,
42, PICCADILLY, LONDON, W.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA.

BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from	21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS	63s. to £50
DRESSING CASES	21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES	21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES	4s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS	10s. 6d. to £5
STATIONERY CASES AND CABINETS	30s. to £5
INKSTANDS	5s. to £5
CANDLESTICKS (per pair)	7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS	15s. to £5
PORTRAIT ALBUMS	4s. 6d. to £5
THE NEW "TANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND	100s. to £10
THE NEW "EPITOME" WRITING CASE	12s. to 30s.
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 14s. 6d., and 16s. 6d.

And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS,
ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly Illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO-PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths and Patentees of the Electro-Plate. Revised Illustrated Pattern-Book of New Designs in Table Plate of all kinds, and new qualities in Spoons and Forks, forwarded free by post on application. Testimonial Plate in Solid Silver, in great variety, always in stock; and Committees provided with Designs and Photographs to suit all occasions.
Address—Elkington and Co., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Alfred Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place. London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.
OETZMANN and CO.

OETZMANN and CO.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

A VAST DISPLAY OF

USEFUL AND ARTISTIC

ARTICLES FOR PRESENTS.

ARTISTIC FURNISHINGS.

CABINETS, WORK TABLES,

PICTURES, BRONZES,

TABLE LAMPS, CLOCKS,

CUTLERY, ELECTRO PLATE,

VASES, FIGURES,

CHINA, GLASS, &c., &c.

OETZMANN and CO.

"QUEEN ANNE"

ROYAL WORCESTER CHINA, TEA, COFFEE, and BREAKFAST SERVICES, manufactured at the celebrated ROYAL PORCELAIN WORKS exclusively for Messrs. OETZMANN and CO., from their new Registered Design. The most artistic design ever introduced. Prices from 21s. per Tea Set of 28 pieces. Coloured Illustrations, post-free, on application. Also, SOLE VENDORS of the "NEO-CLEOPATRA" TOILET SERVICES (Registered), Ewer, Basin, &c., complete, from 8s. 9d. per set.
OETZMANN and CO.

EARLY ENGLISH BRACKETS in BLACK and GOLD, or Walnut and Gold, with Decorated Panels, 10s. 6d.; Ebonised Chippendale Hanging Corner Whatnots, with four bevelled plates, 25s. 6d; Richly-decorated Early English Bracket Girandole, 3ft. high, with plate-glass back, 42s.; and a large variety of Decorative Furnishing Items on view in the Show-rooms. Illustrations post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

THE "SANDRINGHAM" EASY-CHAIR, full size, upholstered very soft and comfortable, suitable for any room, price 25s.; Lady's ditto, smaller size, 21s.; also the Sandringham Couch, upholstered very soft and comfortable, price 2 guineas. Everyone about to furnish should see these marvels of excellence and economy. Packed free and dispatched same day on receipt of order per post.—OETZMANN and CO.

SIDEBOARDS.—OETZMANN and CO.'S Large and Handsome Mahogany or Oak Sideboards, with high plate-glass back, price 15 guineas; massive Spanish Mahogany or Oak ditto, very handsome, 25 guineas; noble Spanish Mahogany or Oak ditto, handsomely carved, and fully plate-glass back, made and finished in the best possible manner, price 35 guineas. A variety of Early English and other designs in rich Spanish Mahogany or finest carved Oak, from 25 to 50 guineas.
OETZMANN and CO.

LADIES' NEEDLEWORK tastefully mounted in the best manner, and adapted to any articles of Furniture required. This department has long been quite a speciality with O. and Co., and great attention is paid in the mounting, so as to secure the most artistic effect. Superior workmanship guaranteed, and the prices will be found considerably lower than those usually charged. A Sheet of Illustrations and prices post-free; and special designs will also be forwarded free for approval, if desired, adapted to any special sizes and style of Needlework.—OETZMANN and CO.

DOWN QUILTS.—OETZMANN and CO.'S EIDER and ARCTIC DOWN QUILTS and CLOTHING combine the greatest amount of warmth attainable with the least possible weight, and are warranted pure. O. and Co. sell only the best make—BOOTH and FOX'S. See Trade-Mark on each article. Prices will be found much below those usually charged for this favourite make. Reduced Price-Lists post-free.
OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISHING IRONMONGERY DEPARTMENT.—Superior Electro-Plate Tea and Coffee Pots, Spoons, Forks, Cruets, &c. (quality guaranteed); best warranted Table Cutlery; hand-some Coal Vases, from 3s. 11d. upwards; Dish Covers, Japanned Toilet Sets, full size bath, pail, and can, various neat designs in colours, 8s. 11d. per set. Kitchen Ironmongery of every description. Mats, Matting, Brooms, Brushes, Pails, &c. Bronze Umbrella Stands, from 3s. 9d. Table Lamps, complete, good style, 3s. 11d.—OETZMANN and CO.

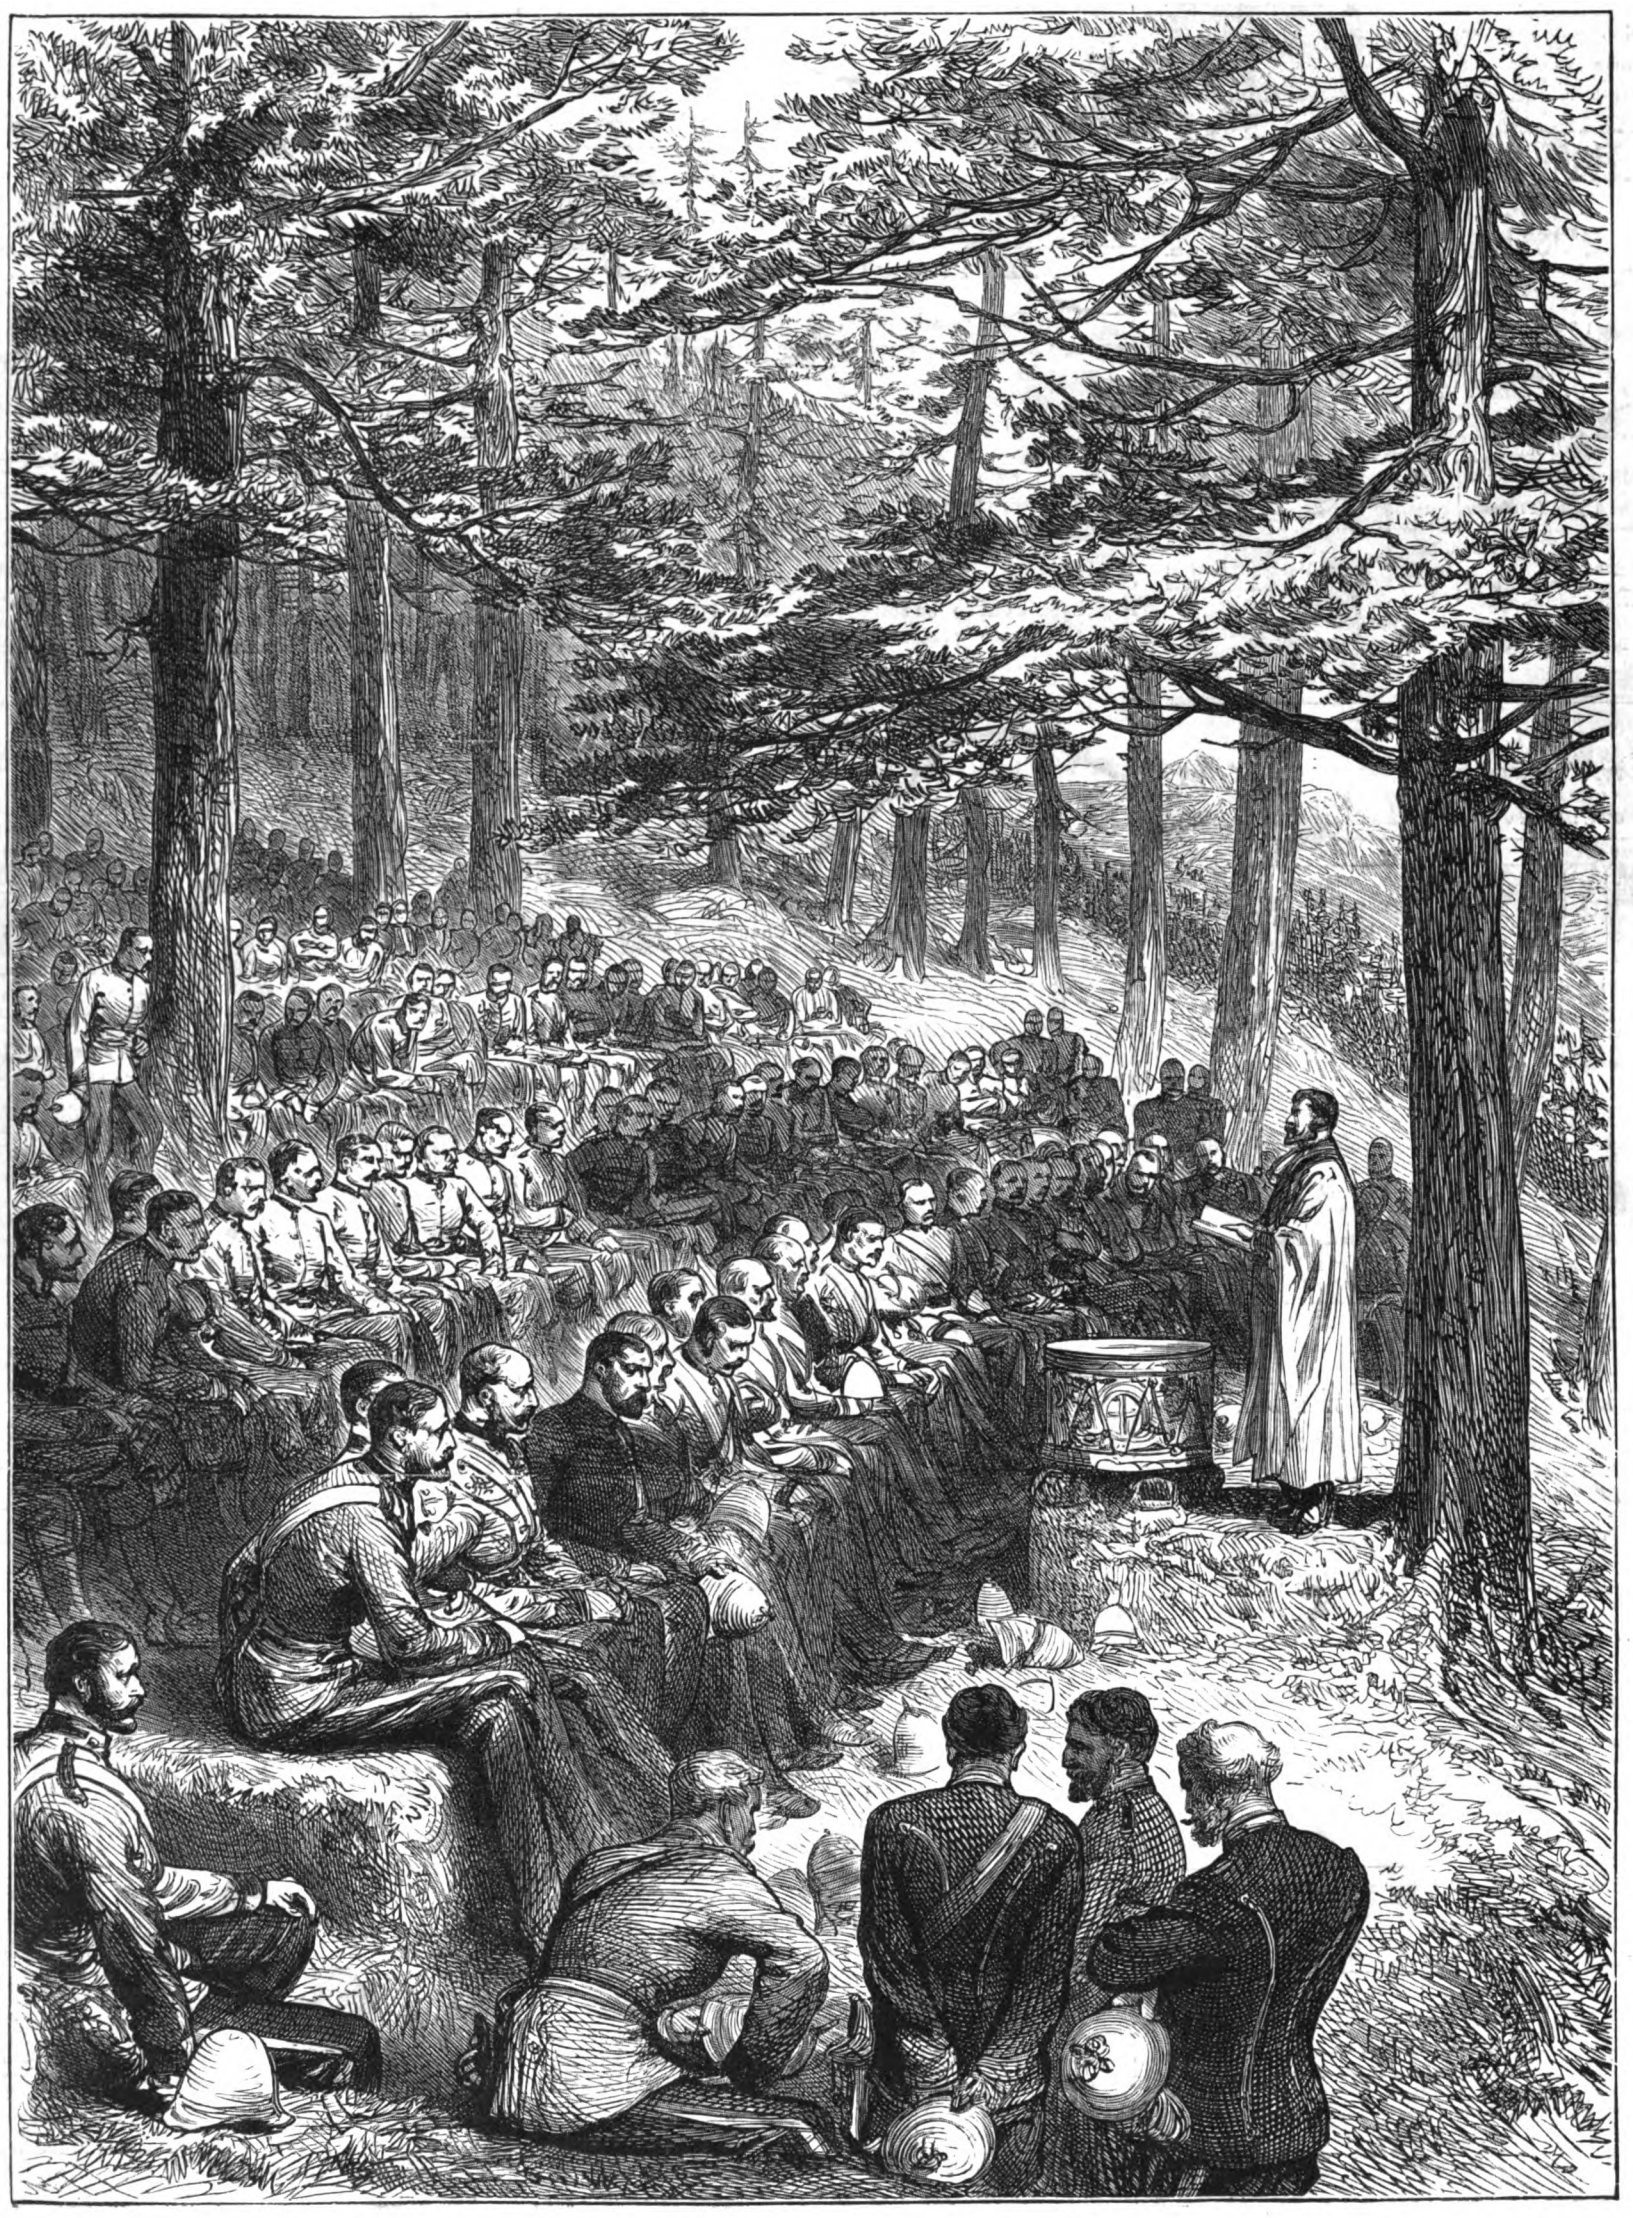
THE "NORFOLK" COAL VASE, in Oak, Mahogany, Walnut, or Ebonized, handsome brass mountings and hand scoop, with strong loose lining, complete, 21s. A large assortment of handsome Wood Coal Boxes on view in the Show-Rooms, from 15s. 6d. to 5 guineas. Illustrations sent post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

TABLE LAMPS.—OETZMANN and CO. A large assortment of Table, Reading, and other Lamps for the present season in Bronze, Brass, Ormolu, Terra-Cotta, Royal Dresden, and other China, of the newest designs, in great variety, fitted with the improved Duplex, Silber, Moderator, and other burners. Patent Duplex Lamp complete, 10s. 6d. Handsome ditto from 18s. 9d. to 6 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

ARTISTIC CHINA, GLASS, &c. OETZMANN and CO. invite an inspection of their large display of Royal Worcester Porcelain, Royal Dresden China, Doulton Ware and Faience, Royal Sèvres China, "Crown Derby" China, Wedgwood Ware, Japanese and Chinese China Nankin Blue and White China, the new Swiss Decorated Faience, French and English Terra-Cotta and Parian China Statuettes, Busts, &c.; Royal Berlin China, Dutch Faience, Flemish Ware, Vallauris Pottery, Venetian and Iridescent Glass; also, a large Assortment of both English and Foreign Table and Ornamental Glass of every description; the latest Parisian designs in Clocks, Bronzes, and both ornamental and useful China, Hungarian China, Austrian and Spanish Pottery. Catalogues forwarded post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 379 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.



LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1880.

Digitized by Google

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2171.—VOL. LXXVII. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1880. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

SOLDIERS' CHURCH: A RECENT SKETCH IN AFGHANISTAN ON SUNDAY MORNING.—SEE PAGE 622.

Digitized by Google

BIRTHS.

On the 6th inst., at Las Palmas, Grand Canary, the wife of James Miller, of a daughter.

On the 18th inst., the wife of Commander the Hon. A. R. Hewitt, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 14th inst., at the parish church, Aston, by the Rev. T. P. Wilson, Vicar of Pavenham, Bedfordshire, father of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. W. Eliott, Vicar, and by the Rev. C. T. Wilson, brother of the bridegroom, the Rev. Theodore Cameron Wilson to Annie Fredeline, eldest daughter of C. Webb Smith, Woodcroft, Gravelly Hill, near Birmingham.

On the 16th inst., at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, Archibald Lennox Milliken Napier, Esq., eldest son of Sir Robert Milliken Napier, Bart., of Milliken, Renfrewshire, to Mary Allison Dorothy, youngest daughter of Sir Thomas Fairbairn, Bart., of Brambridge House, Hants.

DEATHS.

On the 17th inst., at 5, Crick-road, Oxford, in his 80th year, Edward Liebeurood, youngest son of the late John Blagrave, of Kingwood and Calcot Park, Berks.

On the 14th inst., at 1, Park-street, Park-lane, London, Lady Elliot, wife of Sir George Elliot, Bart.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING JAN. 1, 1881.

SUNDAY, DEC. 26.

First Sunday after Christmas. St. Stephen, the first martyr. Morning Lessons: Isaiah xxxv., or Gen. iv. 1—11; Acts vi. Evening Lessons: Isaiah xxxviii. or xl., or 2 Chron. xxiv. 15—23; Acts viii. 1—9. Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. Minor Canon J. Troutbeck; 3 p.m., Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Stanley. Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. V. H. Stanton; 3 p.m., Rev. Francis Garden, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal.	St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Moore; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Liddon; 7 p.m., Rev. Dr. Maclear, Principal of St. Augustine's, Canterbury. St. James's, noon, Rev. Francis Garden, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal. Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. John Lindsay, Rector of St. Clement Danes; 7 p.m., Hon. and Rev. A. J. R. Anson, Rector of Woolwich.

MONDAY, DEC. 27.

St. John, Apostle and Evangelist. Westminster Abbey, 3 p.m., Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Stanley.	Bank Holiday. Albert Hall Choral Society, 7 p.m. (Handel's "Messiah").

TUESDAY, DEC. 28.

Innocents' Day. Westminster Abbey; 3 p.m. (service for children), Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Stanley.	Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Dewar on Atoms). West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 29.

The Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone born, 1809.
Westminster Abbey, 8.30 a.m., Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Stanley (service for Teachers of the British and Foreign School Society).

THURSDAY, DEC. 30.

Accession of Alfonso XII., King of Spain, 1874. Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Dewar on Atoms).	London Institution, 7 p.m. (Mr. G. A. Storey on the Study of the Beautiful). Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.

FRIDAY, DEC. 31.

New moon, 1.56 p.m. Partial eclipse of the Sun, visible at Greenwich, 1.40 to 3.28 p.m.	Savoy, 10.30 p.m., midnight service; Rev. H. C. Shuttleworth, Minor Canon of St. Paul's.

SATURDAY, JAN. 1, 1881.

Union of Great Britain and Ireland, 1801. Circumcision.	Bank Holiday in Scotland. Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Dewar on Atoms).

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM.: Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Minimum, read at 10 A.M.	WIND: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	%	0–10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Dec. 12	30·112	45·6	37·9	76	5	49·1	43·0	W. WSW.	316	0·000
13	29·957	49·5	42·9	80	10	52·9	43·4	WSW. W.	450	0·005
14	29·945	39·9	36·2	87	10	51·9	36·7	W. NW. N.	256	0·365*
15	29·940	47·5	46·4	96	8	52·4	34·4	SE. SW. W.	320	0·160
16	29·896	41·9	39·3	91	10	47·9	39·0	SW. NE.	268	0·180
17	29·671	28·6	23·0	73	10	40·2	26·9	NE. ENE.	479	0·010*
18	29·522	30·3	26·1	80	8	45·9	25·5	NE. NNW. NW.	274	0·040

* Rain and snow.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·121	29·937	29·927	29·932	29·838	29·724	29·699
Temperature of Air	46·12	50·12	44·24	49·52	46·04	38·66	36·50
Temperature of Evaporation ..	42·58	46·09	41·57	48·79	44·92	35·96	35·12
Direction of Wind	WSW.	W.	NW.	SW.	SW.	ENE.	WSW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING JANUARY 1.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M. h m	A. h m	M. h m	A. h m	M. h m	A. h m	M. h m	A. h m	M. h m	A. h m	M. h m	A. h m	M. h m	A. h m
8 2	8 35	9 7	9 45	10 20	10 55	11 30	—	0 2	0 43	1 0	1 30	2 2	2 21

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.

ST JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.

THE MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS'

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL

CHRISTMAS AND NEW-YEARS' FESTIVAL

PERFORMANCES.

EVERY DAY AT THREE; EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT;

Commencing on

BOXING DAY, MONDAY, DEC. 27,

The already powerful Company increased to

SEVENTY PERFORMERS,

rendering the

MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS

THE LARGEST, THE MOST TALENTED, AND THE FINEST

MINSTREL COMPANY IN THE WORLD,

PROUDLY DEFYING ALL COMPETITION AND RIVALRY.

FIVE THOUSAND LUXURIOUS SEATS

in the LARGEST and Most Magnificent HALL in EUROPE,

which will be filled with

PROSCENIUM and SCENERY,

expressly for the Festival Performances.

No fees of any description. No charge for Programmes.

Every West-End Omnibus runs direct to the doors of

ST. JAMES'S HALL.

Visitors can also book from any station on the Metropolitan or Metropolitan District Railways, right to doors of the

ST. JAMES'S HALL.

Prices of Admission:—Fauteuils, 5s.; Stalls, 3s.; Balcony, 2s.; Gallery and Great Area, 2500 Seats, One Shilling.

Visitors arriving at any of the Railway Termini in the Metropolis can reach

ST. JAMES'S HALL by omnibus for 3d. and 4d.

Tickets and Places can be secured by P.O.O., payable to AMBROSE AUSTIN, ST. JAMES'S HALL.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS Every Night at 8.0.—Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. At 7.30, BYGONES, by A. W. Pinero. Doors open at 7. Special Morning Performance of THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, Jan. 1 (Saturday), at 2.30. Box Office (Mr. Hurst) open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram. NOTICE.—This Theatre will be Closed on Christmas Eve.

NATIONAL STANDARD THEATRE, BISHOPSGATE.—HARLEQUIN THE WIDE-AWAKE SLEEPING BEAUTY. Written by John Hollingshead. Every Evening at Seven. Morning Performances, BOXING DAY, DEC. 27; TUESDAY, DEC. 28; THURSDAY, DEC. 30; SATURDAY, JAN. 1, 1881; and Every Monday, Thursday, and Saturday at One, to which Children under Ten Half-Price. (Boxing Day excepted.)

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. CLOSED.—Will REOPEN BOXING DAY, at Three and Eight, with A MERRY CHRISTMAS, by Arthur Law. Music by King Hall; a new Sketch by Mr. Corney Grain, A MUSICAL FAMILY; and a new second Piece, SANDFORD AND MERTON'S XMAS PARTY, by F. C. Burnand: Music by A. Scott Gatty.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s.

CHRISTMAS LECTURES.

ROYAL INSTITUTION OF GREAT BRITAIN, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, W.—Professor DEWAR, M.A., F.R.S., will deliver a COURSE of SIX LECTURES (adapted to a Juvenile Auditory) on ATOMS, commencing on TUESDAY, DEC. 28, at Three o'Clock; to be continued on Dec. 30, 1880, and Jan. 1, 4, 6, 8, 1881. Subscription (for Non-Members) to this Course, One Guinea (Children under sixteen, Half a Guinea); to all the Courses in the Season, Two Guineas. Tickets may now be obtained at the Institution.

SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS. WINTER EXHIBITION NOW OPEN, from Ten to Five Daily, at the SUFFOLK-STREET GALLERIES, Pall-mall East. Admission, 1s. THOS. ROBERTS, Secretary.

THE SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS. The WINTER EXHIBITION, including a LOAN COLLECTION of WORKS by the late GEORGE DODGSON, is NOW OPEN, 5, Pall-mall East, from Ten till Five. ALFRED D. FRIPP, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL WINTER EXHIBITION of High-class PICTURES by British and Foreign Artists, is NOW OPEN at ARTHUR TOOTH and SON'S GALLERY, 5, Haymarket, opposite Her Majesty's Theatre. Admission, One Shilling, including Catalogue.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS. The FIFTEENTH WINTER EXHIBITION is NOW OPEN from Ten till Six. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. H. F. PHILLIPS, Secretary. Gallery, 53, Pall-mall, S.W.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

THEATRE ROYAL, COVENT-GARDEN.—Managers, Messrs. A. and S. Gatti.—On MONDAY NEXT, DEC. 27, will be produced the Annual Grand Christmas Comic Pantomime, written by F. C. Burnand, entitled VALENTINE AND ORSON; or, Harlequin and the Magic Shield. MORNING PERFORMANCES on WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY, DEC. 29, 30, and JAN. 1, and every Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday during the month. Characters in the opening by the celebrated VOKES FAMILY, Master C. Laurl, Little Wieland, Mr. F. Barsby, Mr. Byrnes, and Mr. J. G. Taylor; Miss Beside Samson, Miss Gertrude Wynne, Miss Amy Fauchette, Miss Maud Howard, Mdlle. Lulic, Premières danseuses, Mdlle. Zuati and Mdlle. Zanfretta. Double harlequinade—Clowns, Mr. H. Payne and Mr. C. Laurl. Produced under the direction of Mr. F. B. Chatterton. Box-Office open Daily, from Ten to Five.—THEATRE ROYAL, COVENT GARDEN.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1880.

Christmas Day, as a Festival, in this country at least, is passing through a stage of transition. It is becoming less social, and more ecclesiastical in its characteristics. Family gatherings, in a large number of circles, have given way to Church ceremonials. Against the latter we say nothing. They are, perhaps, somewhat more appropriate as a tribute to the spirit of the Season and to the great fact which they are supposed to commemorate than are the over-abundant and, in some instances, indigestible viands, the rollicking fun, the juvenile romps, and the occasional excesses which, over a still wider area of society, have been wont to be considered the jovial crown of the year. But we protest against the rapidly advancing change, so far as it tends to exclude those elements of enjoyment into which children have entered, and with which they have passionately sympathised. How many thousands of our Colonial population look back with tender and almost tearful regret upon the Christmas Days they spent at their old "homes" long years ago, and, cherishing that remembrance, revivify the ties which bind them to their Mother Country! How many thousands in all parts of the world, looking back with fondness upon that annual Festival of their earlier days, become conscious, for the time being at least, of some access of desire to live worthily of the domestic advantages which were once their own, and which long intercourse with the world has disposed them to undervalue! Nothing should be little in our eyes which serves to nourish, to enliven, and to refine family life. It is one of the best guardians of individual and manly independence, and it may be questioned whether any change tending to weaken its influence, even though it be to substitute for it a temporary influence of another kind, is one upon which society is to be congratulated.

The Christmas Festival used to be held twelve days later than it is now. Further on it was commonly associated with atmospheric rigour, with frost and snow, and hence to most persons in the outermost verge of middle life, although there may not have been any considerable change in the climate of the British Isles, the winters of their childhood seem to have been more severe than in later days. It may be that close cultivation of the soil has, to some extent, altered the conditions upon which the character of the weather depends. But it may be, also, that long periods of frost made an impression upon the youthful memory, which successive seasons of milder weather have tended rather to bring out into more prominent relief than to tone down or obliterate. Last year was spoken of as an "old-fashioned winter." This year has been foretold as likely to outdo the past in that respect. We do not know. Meteorological science is yet in a very imperfect state. The same series of atmospheric phenomena which last year ushered in a hard winter has been followed by precisely opposite effects—by an unusual prevalence of high temperature for the season. What has been is one thing—what will be is quite another. We will not speculate upon conclusions which, before another day has revolved, may be proved to have been baseless. But, whatever the aerial conditions of the Season may be, there will be, doubtless, more than sufficient ground for the free-handed activity of that "goodwill to men" which Christmastide inculcates. The poor, we may assure ourselves, will not be forgotten. One day, perhaps only one day, in the year they come to the front. Their very appearance there stimulates to liberality. Their participation in the ordinary enjoyments of humanity, exceptional as it must be, will, we trust, be ensured by the lively compassion of those whom Providence has more amply favoured.

The Christmas of 1880 is spoken of by publicists as an abnormally gloomy season. But we must not judge of all the world by our comparatively narrow experience. Politically speaking, our National affairs are not worse now than they were twelve months ago—not, perhaps, nearly so bad. Much of that gloom is due to the medium through which we look at it. There is no right-minded man who can contemplate so much of reality as there is in it without regret or without anxiety—none, we hope, who will refuse to lend a helping hand towards clearing away embarrassments on the other side of St. George's Channel, which unavoidably occasion many wrongs and much suffering. But we need not exaggerate them. We need not, from party or even patriotic motives, imagine them to be greater than they really are. There is no reason to believe that they will dissolve the fabric of society. There is good reason for expecting that they will soon come to an end. We can do ourselves no good, we can do the Irish people no good, by giving way to panic. We have a duty to perform towards them, and they towards themselves and one another, which, if it asks for some self-restraint and courage in the performance of it, promises also a sufficient reward. They are to be pitied who have lost all faith in the efficacy of "goodwill" in the management of human nature. They have therewith lost the master-key to the lock of social and political difficulties. But then it must be hearty goodwill—a goodwill that shrinks not from the labour or the responsibility of making itself fully acquainted with the case to which it applies; of setting aside merely boisterous clamour on the one hand and the outcries of selfish timidity or cupidity on the other; of accepting such practical remedies as are suggested by the nature of the malady to be treated; of proceeding, whether by the repression of what is bad or by the encouragement of what is in itself beneficial, to award to all classes of people that which just feeling, as well as wise forethought, recommends as their due. A firm resolution to interpret the unfaltering mandates of goodwill to men, if it do not at once deliver Civil Rulers from pressing but passing emergencies, qualifies them to minister to the permanent wants of a nation, and, in the end, to evoke national virtue. In our confidence that her Majesty's Ministers will thus meet and override the difficulties which beset them, we deem it not unbefitting to wish for our readers "a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!"

THE VOLUNTEERS.

A special general meeting of the National Rifle Association will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Royal United Service Institution, Whitehall-yard.

The annual distribution of prizes to the 5th Essex (Plaistow) Rifles took place in the drill-hall of the corps, Vicarage-lane, West Ham, on the 15th inst. The best shot in the battalion was Bugle-Major Smith, and the Ladies' and Regimental Challenge Cups were won by Private Derbyshire and Private Lambert.

There were last Saturday three distributions of prizes to Metropolitan Volunteers—those of the 3rd City of London, the 7th Surrey, and the 2nd (late 9th) Kent Artillery.

The ceremony of the City corps was held, as usual, in the Guildhall, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, who presented the prizes. Lieut.-Colonel Laurie, the Commandant, gave a gratifying account of the state of the regiment, which has now a strength of 1063 members, against 966 on the roll at the close of last year.

The prizes of the 7th Surrey Rifles were presented at the Cannon-street Hotel, by Colonel Cochrane, of the 1st Lanark Militia, late Adjutant General of the Colonial forces at the Cape. Lieut.-Colonel Porter, the Commanding Officer of the regiment, in the course his remarks, alluded to the changes in the constitution of the force during the past year, by which another corps the (26th Surrey) had become amalgamated with them, and whom they heartily welcomed. The regiment now numbers 860 of all ranks, and is in a most satisfactory state, as the brigade drill and inspection have both been attended by a large per-centage over the requisite strength. For the first time this year, they have sent a detachment to Aldershott, and the establishment of an ambulance class has been an unqualified success. The chief winners were Sergeant Hart and Captain Wheaton.

Colonel Waller, R.A., commanding the Auxiliary Artillery of the Home and Woolwich Districts, presented the prizes of the Kentish Artillerymen at Plumstead, in the presence of a large company. Lieut.-Colonel Hughes presided and, amongst other matters connected with the regiment, stated that they had won three prizes for shell practice at Shoeburyness.

The annual winter route march of the Bloomsbury (19th Middlesex) was held last Saturday, a strong detachment of the regiment, under command of Lieut.-Colonel Smith Richards, parading for the purpose in the afternoon at the Bow Station of the North London Railway. Head-quarters were established at Romford at the White Hart Hotel, and, guards having been mounted and sentries posted, the men were billeted for the night in the town. On Sunday there was a special parade for Divine service, and on Monday morning the detachment returned to London.

The annual distribution of prizes to the members of the 18th (late 36th) Middlesex took place on Monday evening at the St. James's Hall, in the presence of a large company of ladies and gentlemen. The report of the shooting committee showed that during the past year the shooting of the regiment had been satisfactory, while members of the corps had distinguished themselves in athletics and at the military tournament at the Agricultural Hall. Major Barrow, in the absence of Lieutenant-Colonel Gordon Ives, stated that the regiment is in a very efficient state. It now numbers 1000 men, the strength last year being about 937. The annual inspection had passed off very well indeed. The prizes were then distributed by Lady Seymour, wife of General Sir Frederick Seymour; and in a few words addressed to the corps by the gallant officer himself he expressed the pleasure he felt at being present, and congratulated the regiment on the creditable condition of its numbers.

The Duke of Cambridge has issued a Special General Order cautioning members of Volunteer Corps against making political speeches of a controversial nature.

Lady Leigh, who was accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant of the county, opened two new wards added to the Warnford Hospital, Leamington, last week.

Digitized by Google

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

The usually well-informed dramatic critic of a contemporary has made a series of strange mistakes touching the new forthcoming play by Mr. Alfred Tennyson at the Lyceum. I find it stated that the scene of the drama is not laid in Asia Minor; that the heroine (Miss Ellen Terry) is the loving, faithful wife of the Governor of Massilia (the ancient Marseilles); that "she inspires an uncontrollable passion in the breast of a Roman general, who causes her husband to be murdered, and then, like King Richard, makes love to the widowed lady;" that she avenges her husband's death by stabbing bridegroom Number Two "with a dagger that she has concealed in her tunic at the altar, in the presence of the Flamen Dialis and the witnesses;" and, finally, I read that the play, which is in two acts and in blank verse, "will occupy less than an hour and a half in representation, and will occupy in the Lyceum playbill the place of an afterpiece, following the 'Corsican Brothers.'"

As a matter of fact, I believe that I am justified in stating that the scene of this tragic drama is laid in Asia Minor—in a city of Galatia, of which the husband of the heroine is Tetrarch. The play is founded on a story told in Plutarch's "Morals." The gentleman who falls in love with the Tetrarch's wife is not a Roman general, but a Galatian. He does not cause the husband to be murdered, but finds out "another way," as Mrs. Glasse would put it, of dispatching him, by stabbing the Tetrarch himself. Neither is the murderer stabbed at the altar. He is poisoned in a libation of mead offered to Diana; and then the avenging bride poisons herself. You may read in the story in Plutarch how the poisoned assassin runs out of the temple and enters his chariot, in the hope that the jogging and jolting of the vehicle (Mr. Thrupp, the learned historian of Coaches, may find in this conclusive evidence that the Galatian chariots had no springs) may allay the severity of his qualms; but the jogging and jolting do him no good; he is placed on a litter and taken home; the rigor mortis sets in; and on the same night he dies. The Avenging Bride "continued all that night; when, learning that he (the slayer of her husband) had ended his life, she comfortably and cheerfully expired."

Mem.: "The Cup" is the title of Mr. Tennyson's play; and as to the length of time which it may occupy in representation, I think that to the discussion of such a contingency might be found applicable the anecdote of the impecunious gentleman who was asked by a friend (Joseph Miller, Esq., I believe) where he intended to dine that afternoon. "I'll tell you to-morrow," replied the impecunious gentleman. On the morning after the first (I hope triumphantly successful) performance of Mr. Tennyson's "Cup," Mr. Henry Irving will be able to ascertain with precision how long it takes to play.

The folklore of political and social slang sayings is surely not ungermane to the purpose of the "Echoes;" and the "halfpennyworths of bread" accompanying the "intolerable deal of sack" may, I hope, be interesting to students of the minutiæ of civilisation after I am gone. Last week I incidentally asked whether the late Lord Palmerston was the author of the "mildly educational joke" about "the Three R's." I asked, because I have a distinct remembrance of the patriotic Premier jocularly making use of the locution in a speech on education delivered at some provincial meeting. But more than one correspondent tell me that the original advocate of "'Reading, 'Riting, and 'Rithmetic" (sic) was the well-known Alderman and banker, Sir William Curtis. Another correspondent also attributes to this worthy City magnate of the past the saying of "the Three C's"—"Country, King, and Curtis;" but this may have been fathered upon him by some wicked wag. If he chose, on the other hand, to spell his name with a K, what was to impede him? Cicero has been called, by many scholars, "Kikero." Two hundred years ago the common English people used to call Louise de la Querouaille, Duchess of Portsmouth, "Madam Curwell;" and the name of the great sherry importer, Pedro Ximenes, was corrupted into "Petersameen."

Perhaps Mr. Richard Edgcumbe, or some other apt Byronic scholar, will be able to answer a question addressed to me by "H. F.," touching a letter written to Mr. Murray by Byron, dated Bologna, Aug. 23, 1819, inclosing a communication to the Editor of the British Press, àpropos of a sarcastic allusion in that periodical to "Don Juan." My correspondent believes that Moore states in his "Life," &c., that the letter was printed for Murray, but never published by him; and "H. F." is anxious to know whether the Poet's reply (one of the most masterly pieces of polished sarcasm in the English language) was ever published in a separate form; and, if so, where a copy of it can be obtained.

And I have now a Byronic question to ask on my own account. The query may seem a very naïve one, and may be met with the taunting reply (on an anonymous post-card), "Everybody knows that," &c.; but I am too poor to collect books in every department of literature; I have no time to go (oftener than once in three months) to the Reading-Room of the British Museum; and my stores of "Byroniana" are very meagre.

I was reading the other day, in the French Illustration for Aug. 14, an obituary notice of that consummate dandy, accomplished artist, and amiable and generous gentleman, Count Alfred d'Orsay. In this notice it is stated that in the National French Library in the Rue de Richelieu, Paris, there is preserved an autograph letter written by Byron to d'Orsay (then a very young man) congratulating the handsome Count on the figure which he was making in London Society, and obscurely alluding to some memoirs, à la Grammont, on the English world of fashion, which D'Orsay had written or was about to write.

The peroration of the letter is characteristic:—

> Je suis malheureux pour vous, si bien initié à la vie à votre age, en songeant à ce qu'il en peut advenir quand l'illusion sera dissipée. N'importe: en avant! Vivez tant que vous pourrez jouir entièrement des nombreux avantages de jeunesse, de talent et de figure que vous possédez: Tel est le vœu d'un Anglais (je suppose); car ma mère était Ecossaise; mon nom et ma familles ont Normands. Pour moi je ne suis d'aucun pays; et quant à mes 'ouvrages' qu'il vous plait de mentionner, laissez les aller au diable d'où ils viennent, si j'en crois beaucoup de gens.

This epistle is signed "Noel Byron." Is there any English translation of it—in Moore or in the book which (I think) Lady Blessington wrote about Byron after his death? And how did the letter find its way into the French Bibliothèque Nationale?

"Misologios" takes warrantable exception to the spelling of some of the words in my quotation from the Romaic war song, "Theleis Kharin," &c., but if he would, in his scholarly mind, take a brief conspectus of the Erasmian, the Gardinerian, and the modern Romaic pronunciation of Greek, he would appreciate the difficulty of hastily transcribing Hellenic into Anglo-Roman characters. It is singular that a personage not less illustrious than Francis of Verulam experienced an analogous difficulty, although one in a converse direction to mine, two hundred and fifty years ago. In the collection of Bacon's letters in the Lambeth Library there is the following passage written in Greek characters, not transcribing Greek into English, but English into Greek.

> Oph my ophens phar be it phrom me to say dat veniam corvis vexat sensura columbas. But I will say that I ave good warrant phor. They were not the greatest ophenders in Israel upon vum the wall phell.

Please to note the letters which I have italicised. They are differently spelt in the original.

Herein Bacon has adopted the Erasmian pronunciation. Had he pronounced it after the manner of the Greeks of Byzantium he would have written That beniam corbis, instead of dat veniam corvis. As there is no v in the Greek alphabet he used a nu, as there is no y susceptible of being pronounced as our y he used a gamma, and there being no w he used an omega, with an epsilon added in the last "oeum" for whom. Had Bacon chosen to use the Byzantine pronunciation favoured by Bishop Gardiner, "whom" might have been intelligibly spelt "oum," "warrant" "ouarant," "wall" "ouall," and "my;" or, as he puts it, "mg," "maï."

Mr. "Thycke Hedde, M.P.," with a numerous following of sympathising ignoramuses (in the opinion of Mr. Punch), met on Wednesday in last week at the house of "Lord Constable," for the purpose of doing honour to the departing diplomatic representative at the Court of St. James's of a young and ingenious nation who, with much amenity, have been branded as "slippery thieves." In other words, there assembled on the afternoon in question (how it poured!) at Lord Rosebery's mansion in Piccadilly, a strong contingent from the Greek Committee, of which Mr. Arthur Arnold, M.P., is President, comprising many members of Parliament, distinguished University professors, journalists of standing, and substantial members of the Greek community in London. The object of the meeting, as stated in a brief but most effective speech by Lord Rosebery, was the presentation of an address to M. Gennadius, so long Chargé d'Affaires in London for the Hellenic kingdom, who is about to return to Athens, congratulating him on the admirable manner in which he had accomplished his diplomatic mission, and on the golden opinions which he had won from all classes in English society during his lengthened sojourn among us.

M. Gennadius made, in reply, a long, earnest, and eloquent speech in wonderfully fluent and accurate English. My own ears tingled a little when I heard M. Gennadius attack the terrible word "pusillanimity;" but instantaneously I breathed a sigh of relief when I found that he had successfully cleared that fence. Can you always say "pusillanimity" right off the reel? I cannot: no, not once in twenty times. I usually say "pusillamity." Yet most people can say "pusillanimous."

There died lately in Paris, at the advanced age of eighty-eight years, a celebrated French savant, M. Michel Chasles, whom a Paris newspaper declares to have been the greatest geometrician in Europe. The same journal makes the curious assertion that "La Société Royale de Londres" simply adopted and promulgated the geometric system of M. Michel Chasles, which at once superseded the methods of Euclid and Pascal. This is strange. I know nothing whatever about the text-books of geometry in use in modern English schools: but I read the other day in an English educational journal the following:—

> To foreigners it may seem strange that Geometry should be taught to English school children by means of a treatise not designed for school purposes, and written more than two thousand years ago. . . . It is the fact that we stand alone among European nations in using Euclid's Elements as our school text-book of Geometry.

From this it would seem to follow that M. Chasles' method, although "adopted and propagated" by our Royal Society, has not yet found universal acceptance in the English world scholastic.

M. Michel Chasles (he was a cousin of the well-known scholar and critic, M. Philarète Chasles) was the victim some years ago of a very heartless swindle, which not only seriously injured him in a pecuniary sense, but for some short time threatened to cast a slur on a hitherto spotless reputation. In his passionate pursuit of science M. Chasles became imbued with the persuasion that there must be extant and not yet brought to light a mass of autograph manuscripts of famous mathematicians. A crafty knave with a turn for forgery got wind of this, and speedily offered to the simple-minded savant a number of letters on mouldy and worm-eaten paper, and in faded ink, purporting to be in the handwriting of Blaise Pascal, and Sir Isaac Newton. The unsuspecting geometrician eagerly swallowed the bait, and for months and even for years, he continued to accumulate "bogus" autograph letters from Pascal, Newton, Galileo, Tycho Brahe, Descartes, Leibnitz, Torricelli, and so forth. At last the fraud was discovered, and the cunning knave was convicted and sent to gaol. But the worst of the matter was that the enemies of M. Chasles insinuated that he had himself been cognisant of the rogue's malpractices, and had indicated to him printed passages from scientific authors to be reproduced in manuscript. The cruel charge was swiftly and completely disproved; but, for a time, it was a sore thorn in the side of poor M. Michel Chasles. To a friend who gently twitted him with his credulity he made this nobly philosophic reply:—"I have been duped many times in the course of a long life; but I would rather be duped again and again than live in perpetual suspicion of mankind."

The gentleman who wrote me from Port Adelaide to ask the address of an artist's colourman in Paris where he could order a box completely fitted up with materials for etching will be able, I am glad to inform him, to obtain all that he requires in the way of etching-tools in London. He has only to send, through his firm, an order to Messrs. Roberson, of Long Acre, who, I find, supply all kinds of etching or copper-plate printing materials, from "bordering wax" to "emery cloth," and from "etching ground" to "silk dabbers," and who fit up boxes of etching gear complete, including printing presses for taking proofs.

General and genuine sorrow will be felt in all scientific and literary circles—to say nothing of troops of personal friends—at the death of poor Frank Buckland, who, after long months of suffering, passed away on Sunday last, at his residence in Albany-street, Regent's Park. He was only in his fifty-fifth year. His well-deserved appointment, some years since, as one of Her Majesty's Commissioners of Salmon Fisheries, not only afforded him the opportunity of employing his vast acquirements in pisciculture for the practical benefit of the public at large, but also, in the intervals of his official duties, gave him some comfortable leisure wherein to pursue kindred studies in Natural History, to pen delightful essays on the science in which he was absorbed, and to look after the well-being of his beloved Fish Museum at South Kensington. What with his recurring pilgrimages to all parts of the kingdom in the interests of the Salmon Fisheries, his honorary curatorship of his own museum, and his constant contributions to Land and Water, Frank Buckland was one of the busiest men of his time.

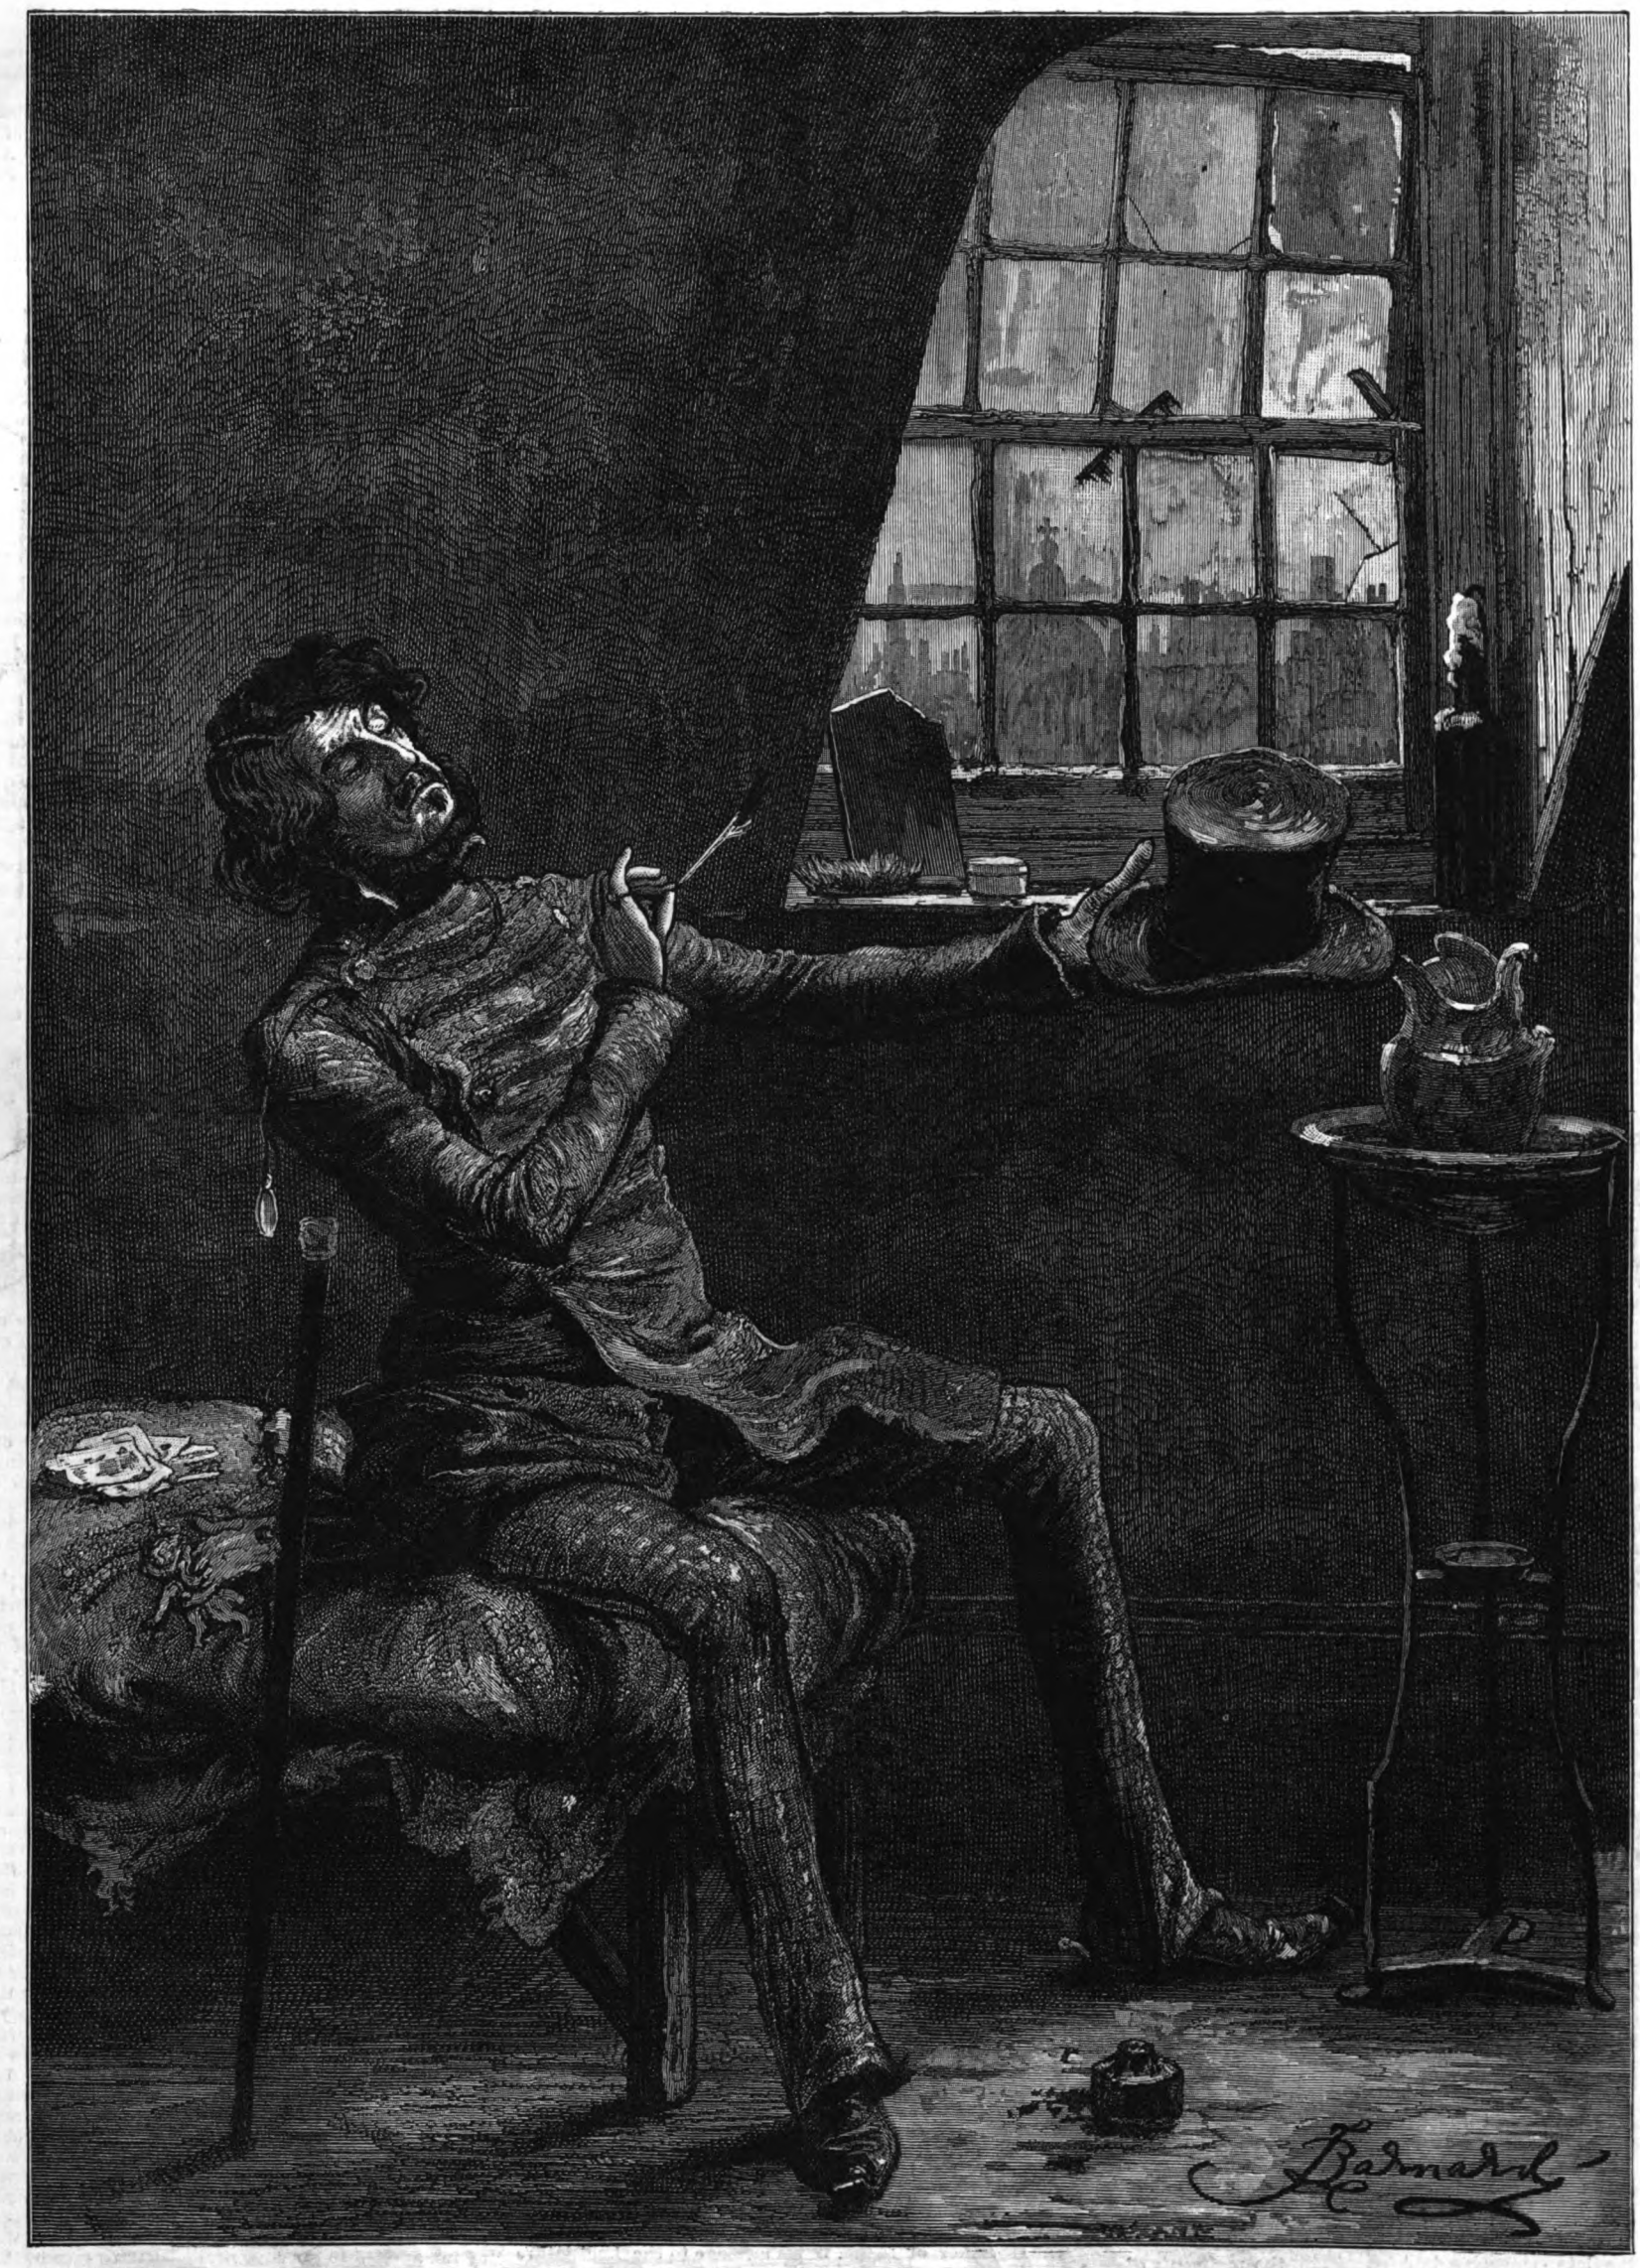
He was a skilled anatomist of the true John Hunter and John Bell pattern—patient, laborious, and acute. His house in Albany-street was at once a laboratory, a dissecting-room, and a museum of zoology, alive and dead. We used to say of him, laughingly, that if a visitor knocked at his door it would be opened by a crocodile, while a seal came out into the area and a kangaroo looked out of the first-floor window. A friend told me once that he had seen Frank Buckland on the previous afternoon rowing on the Thames at Twickenham. There was somebody with him, he said. Who was it? A lady? "No," replied my friend; "it was a young bear."

Busy as he always and over-worked as he frequently was, Frank Buckland could find time to be a most delightful and genial companion. Among the many branches of knowledge which he had acquired was the art of making people love him. When I first knew him, nearly twenty years ago, he was a dashing surgeon in the Second Life Guards, and, young as he was, had been house surgeon at St. George's Hospital. He was full of life and high spirits then; and we used to go to Cremorne and have "high old times," in the days when it was not thought desperately wicked to make a noise now and again. But Frank Buckland was to me much more than a genial soul and the best of all good company. My delight was to get him quite alone, say in a smoking-carriage between London and Brighton, and throwing in an occasional "Dear me!" and "Is that so?" listen his Wonderful Talk about birds, beasts, and fishes. He may have wearied some people by his enthusiastic and long-sustained monologues. To me he was simply so much viva voce Technical Education. He was a very brilliant, industrious, useful, kind, and good man; and I grieve for him with all my heart.

Here is an entry from the Times of Tuesday, which brings us in strange communion with the past:—

> On the 16th Dec., in Paris, aged 91, Mademoiselle Adelaïde de Montgolfier, last surviving daughter of Etienne de Montgolfier, the inventor of the balloon, dearly loved and mourned by the children of her adoption.

It is just short three years of a century that the first "fire-balloon" of the Brothers Etienne and Joseph de Montgolfier made its ascent from the market-place of Annonay, near Lyons. The "Montgolfier" was constructed of immense folds of linen, buttoned together, fixed to a frame a hundred and ten feet in circumference. Is there any truth, I wonder, in the pretty story that the invention of the fire-balloon arose from a circumstance connected with the christening of one of the children of the Brothers Montgolfier—I know not of which? The tale goes that an evening fête was to be given in honour of Baby's christening, and that among the amusements provided for the guests were a number of balloons of coloured paper, in which candles were to be placed for illumination. The balloons were constructed in the factory of the Brothers, who were paper-makers, and the paper bags, when completed, were laid flat on the grass, on a lawn outside the house, to dry. It was an extremely hot summer afternoon; and the Brothers Montgolfier, sitting in the cool shade on the terrace of their house and watching the balloons on the grass, beheld, with pleased astonishment, the flattened paper-bags gradually assume, one after another, a spheroidal form, and float away of their own motion into the empyrean. It was the rarefaction of the air which had caused the phenomenon. Thereupon the Brothers Montgolfier, who had already tried experiments with balloons of thin paper inflated with hydrogen gas, but had found the paper too porous, conceived the idea that a mighty ascending and sustaining force might be given to a linen bag, filled, by means of a furnace beneath, with hot air. Q. E. D. in 1783, at Annonay.



G. A. S.

Digitized by Google

TWO PHASES OF LIFE: "IN FULL BLOOM." DRAWN BY F. BARNARD.—SEE PAGE 622.

Digitized by Google

TWO PHASES OF LIFE: 'GONE TO SEED.' DRAWN BY F. BARNARD.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Dec. 21.

The shopkeepers are in a ferment of preparation for Christmas and the New Year. It is the season of presents. By the time that my letter will have appeared in print the fêtes will have begun in earnest. In Paris, as there are very few Parisians by birth, the festival of Noël does not present any peculiar characteristics. Each one celebrates it after his own fashion; in the Faubourg Saint-Germain as in the year 1600, in the Latin quarter as usual, in the faubourgs as best the people can. But all classes are unanimous on one point—drinking, eating, and sitting up late. Here Christmas is a popular fête and a family fête, especially for the children. The little ones on Christmas Eve put their slippers in the fireplace and go to sleep, dreaming and wondering whether the "Petit Noël" will bring them any thing or not. Unless they have been very naughty, "Petit Noël," in the person of their loving mamma, will come with stealthy tread and deposit in the shoe a gorgeous polichinelle or a regiment of metallic infantry. Then, in the morning, what shouts of joy and peals of silvery laughter! "Petit Noël" has not forgotten them. For the French mothers Christmas is a favourite festival; to their hearts the Saviour of mankind speaks, less for the moment than the child Jesus; they feel for the Divine infant whose image they see in the churches, lying in his humble crèche, surrounded by the shepherds and wise men of the East—a sentiment that resembles maternal love, and which is reflected in their own children. This family festival is very touching and charming.

On Christmas Eve there is a midnight mass in all the Paris churches; the singers of the Opera are engaged, and the people flock in thousands to listen to Adolphe Adam's splendid Christmas anthem, and to hear the joyful cry, "Noël! Noël!" echoing so strangely down the aisles. Then, after the midnight mass, follows the réveillon. For several days beforehand the pork-butchers, or charcutiers, have been laying in provision of black-puddings, sausages, pettitoes, tripes: for in the pig, as the genial poet Monselet sings in a famous sonnet,

> Car tout est bon en toi: chair, graisse, muscle, tripe!
> On t' aime galantine, on t' adore boudin.

The poulterers and roasters have ready fat capons from Mans, truffled turkeys, pheasants, and hares, all browning on the spits. The air is heavy with the odour of good cheer, and throughout the night in every café, in every wine-shop, in every house from cellar to attic, there will be sounds of feasting and revelry.

On the Boulevards the noise of the hammer is mingled with the cry of the camelotier vaunting his wares. The booths for the New-Year's fair are springing up and lining the great arteries of the city. What will be the new toy, the new puzzle? The question de Dulcigno? Meanwhile hundreds of workmen have been puzzling their heads for months past to invent some novelty that will be at once striking, ingenious, and capable of being sold with a profit for the modest sum of one sou. On the proceeds of the "Foire aux Etrennes" depend the fortunes of numberless humble families who dwell in the quarters of the Temple of St. Merri and of St. Martin. In these parts of the town the activity has been intense for the past six weeks. The air there has been redolent of the perfumes of newly sawn pine-wood and freshly varnished tin, that perfume so dear to childhood. On every floor of the old houses are signs of the special industry of the quarter. One man makes nothing but tin trumpets, another pop-guns, another wooden swords, another the traditional Punch dolls, another jumping rabbits, while another has a speciality of automatic toys. In the court-yards are railway vans and carts of all kinds carrying away cargoes of innocent joy to different parts of France and of the world—dolls dressed in satin for the children of the rich, pantins at one sou for the little peasants. The manufacture of toys holds a very important position in the industries of Paris, and some of the large makers employ two or three hundred work men and women. Then there are also the small men who work at home; these petits fabricants affect especially the heights of Belleville and Menilmontant. Now, can you guess who is one of the leading toy-makers of Paris? Henry Murger's Schaunard! Yes; Schaunard, of the Vie de Bohème, who is now a bourgeois of Paris and a notable commerçant. In the Rue des Archives may be seen the sign Maison Schanne fondée en 1817, animaux, laine et poils, bergeries et écuries fines. That is Schanne, the musician; Schanne, the companion of Henry Murger and Champfleury in their adventures—in a word, the original of Schaunard of the Vie de Bohème. Shanne is a real artist, and some of the animals that figure in his "sheepfolds and superior stables" are modelled with a skill and observation that would have delighted Barye.

I say nothing of the dancing, the bals masqués, the Christmas revues—which replace the English pantomime, being pantomimes for grown folks—the bonbons, the artistic presents that are paraded in the shape of the bons faiseurs, the charitable institutions, for poor folk who cannot afford to pay for fun when they cannot earn enough to live, the Christmas-tree of the Alsace-Lorraine children at the Hippodrome, and a dozen other merrymakings that will escort the moribund year gaily to its grave. It suffices to say that in all their gaiety the Parisians never forget the poor. My readers, I am sure, are equally charitable, and with this confidence I wish them all a merry and a happy Christmas!

In the way of news there is not much to record. Personal and press polemics are cooling down, and Parliament has been busy voting laws in order to earn its Christmas vacation. The scientific world has to regret the loss of M. Michel Chasles, the celebrated mathematician, who died last week, at the age of eighty-eight. The daughter of the inventor of balloons, Mdlle. Adelaïde de Montgolfier, also died last week at the age of eighty-three. She was a musician and a woman of letters of considerable talent, and her salon used to be frequented by the first men of France. Amongst the habitués were Victor Hugo, Lamartine, Béranger, Thiers, and Charles Dickens during his visits to Paris. Mdlle. de Montgolfier possessed a very remarkable collection of autographs, including many letters of Lord Byron and Charles Dickens.

T. C.

SOLDIERS' CHURCH.

During the late campaigns in Afghanistan, the regiments of British troops, under the orders of good and careful commanding officers, seldom omitted to attend Divine worship, performed by the regimental chaplains, on Sunday mornings, as punctually as in the barracks of any Indian station. One of our military correspondents, Lieutenant R. T. Roberts, R.A., of the 8th Brigade of Royal Artillery, 1st battery, while at the Peiwar Kotal, in the Kuram Valley, made a Sketch of the scene at church-time, which appears in our front page Engraving. The congregation here consisted of two regiments of infantry, and the men of his battery of Royal Artillery. The red uniforms of the former, and blue of the latter, seated on rising banks of earth under the shade of tall pine-trees, had a rather good effect. The pulpit was a circular mound of earth raised at the foot of an opposite tree, and a drum served for the "lectern" or reading desk. A more devout and attentive congregation would hardly be found in any parish church of peaceful England.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

In the Senate on Saturday Signor Cairoli, the Premier, expressed his gratitude to Mr. Gladstone for the great energy he had displayed in maintaining the concert of Europe, and for the naval demonstration, which he said had attained its object. He, however, entertained no illusions with regard to the Eastern Question, and perceived the possibility of complications, while hoping that the European concert would be maintained. The Senate has passed the foreign affairs and education estimates.

The Chamber of Deputies on Sunday continued the discussion of the navy estimates. The entire debate turned upon the question of the dimensions of the new ironclads. On Monday the Chamber, after a prolonged debate, agreed to the construction of two men of war of 10,000 tons displacement, at a cost of 15,000,000 lire, thus approving the views of Admiral Acton, the Minister of Marine.

HOLLAND.

The Dutch mean to have an Arctic expedition next year. Yesterday week the Second Chamber of the Legislature granted a sum of money towards the equipment of the William Barents for a voyage to the North next year.

GERMANY.

On Monday evening a more than usually brilliant assemblage, headed by the Emperor, Empress, and Crown Prince, filled the Opera House to hear Miss Minnie Hauk as Carmen, a rôle which that distinguished singer has come here at the special desire of her Majesty to perform twice.

From the Standard correspondent at Berlin we learn that the civil marriage of Prince William of Prussia and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein will be solemnised in Bellevue Palace in the Thiergarten Park, near Berlin, on Feb. 26, at eleven o'clock.

The Imperial German Budget for the next financial year estimates the expenditure at 588,077,972 marks, which will be covered by the receipts, together with the further sum of 106,614,431 marks for the matriculatory contributions, the the latter being 24,943,481 marks in excess of last year.

A bill has been submitted to the Federal Council authorising the issue of a loan of 54,000,000 marks for the postal, telegraph, naval, and military services of the Empire.

The Prussian Diet has adjourned for the Christmas holidays until Jan. 8.

An anti-Jewish meeting, attended by about 2000 persons, was held yesterday week in the Reichshalle at Berlin. Resolutions were unanimously adopted in favour of repressive measures against the Jews. It was also resolved not to make any purchases from Jewish shops or firms.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Empress of Austria, it is announced, has definitively given up her hunting-box in Ireland.

The Vienna correspondent of the Standard states that it has been officially announced that there is no truth in the report of the postponement of the marriage of the Crown Prince Rudolph and the Princess Stéphanie. The wedding will take place on Feb. 15.

The Lower House of the Austrian Parliament on the 16th inst. agreed to the proposed issue of Paper Rente to the amount of 14,500,000 fl. The treaty of commerce with Spain was also adopted. The Minister of Commerce subsequently introduced a bill to amend the laws relating to trade. The Lower Chamber at its last meeting before the Christmas vacation had a sitting of eighteen hours' duration. Beginning last Saturday at ten in the morning, the House sat through the whole of the night, and did not rise till four o'clock on Sunday morning. The proceedings were of an unusually stormy character. The German Liberal, or Constitutional, Party attacked the measures of the Government with great bitterness. There were several divisions, in all of which the Government came off victorious by considerable majorities.

RUSSIA.

There has been a disturbance at Moscow among the medical students at the University. Dissatisfied with the disregard of some demands they had made, they held a noisy meeting, disturbing one of the Professors in his lecture. The Governing Body thereupon sentenced six of their number to expulsion, and this caused some four hundred students to assemble in the courtyard and call out for the Rector, who escaped to the house of the Governor-General. The immediate result was the arrest of the whole body of riotous students. Many of them, however, have been released.

AMERICA.

Mainly with the object of promoting education among the blacks in the Southern States, the Senate has passed the bill for devoting the proceeds of the sales of public lands and the receipts for patents to the establishment of a fund for educational purposes in those States where such assistance might be most required.

The House of Representatives has passed the ordinary appropriation of 100,000 dols. for harbour fortifications. After an animated discussion, and despite the forebodings of several speakers respecting the defenceless condition of the country, the House rejected the amendment, granting 500,000 dols., which the Government demanded for the improvement of the seacoast defences. The Military Academy Appropriation Bill and the Consular Appropriation Bill have also been passed.

Both Houses of Congress adjourned on Wednesday for a fortnight.

The annual report of the Director of the Bureau of Statistics declares that the United States is now the largest exporter of breadstuffs and provisions in the world. It states, however, that the merchant marine of the country continues to decline, only twenty-three ships having been built last year. The internal and coasting marine has also declined. On the other hand, the railway transport has enormously increased, indicating the transfer of internal commerce from water communication to the railways.

The Governor of Idaho, in his message to the Legislature of that territory, states that polygamy is being rapidly introduced from Utah, and expresses the hope that adequate measures will be adopted to crush out the practice.

A paper-hanging factory at Buffalo was destroyed by fire on the 17th inst. The entire building was in flames within twenty minutes, when it fell in ruins, burying at least thirty persons; thirteen jumped from the upper stories, of whom three were killed and nine severely wounded.

CANADA.

By a majority of sixty-seven votes, the Dominion House of Commons has sustained the refusal of the Premier to lay upon the table a copy of the Pacific Railway contract entered into by the Dominion Ministers while in England.

The Manitoban Legislative Assembly was opened on the 16th inst. by the Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. J. E. Cauchon, who in his speech dwelt upon the prosperity of the province and the rapid progress made in developing its resources. On the 18th the House voted the Address in reply to his speech.

SOUTH AFRICA

A telegram from Capetown reports that there has been some fighting between the Basutos and the Colonial forces under Colonel Carrington, who had sent two columns on a patrolling expedition. The Colonel's division encountered 3000 Basutos, and was compelled to retire before them, with a loss of two killed and eight wounded.

Taking advantage of the Basuto rising, the Boers in the Transvaal have entered the field for the recovery of an independence which they forfeited by misconduct. A telegram received on Monday at the Colonial Office from Sir George Colley, the High Commissioner in the Eastern parts of South Africa, tells us that about 5000 Boers assembled at Heidelberg, and proceeded to establish a Republican Government. Mr. Kruger was selected as president, and Mr. Joubert was appointed commandant.

INDIA.

The health of the Marquis of Ripon is improving. Owing to the illness of the Viceroy and the absence from Calcutta of Sir John Strachey, who is about to leave for England, the Government of India is, the Times correspondent says, now virtually without a head. In the North-Western Provinces there has been a further rainfall, and there is a decided improvement in the crop prospects. Mr. Adam arrived at Bombay on Monday week, and left for Madras on Thursday. The Bhownagar Railway was opened on Monday by Sir James Ferguson, the Governor of Bombay.

AUSTRALIA.

Lord Augustus Loftus, the Governor of New South Wales, in opening the Parliament of that colony, on the 16th inst., announced the introduction of several bills, including measures for extending and improving Municipal Government and Local Self-Government, for the protection of life and property at sea, and for regulating the liquor traffic. He was able to congratulate the colony on the improved condition of the public revenue, remarking that better evidence could hardly be adduced of the sound condition and prosperity of the country. The Governor concluded his speech with a reference to the recent and forthcoming conferences on questions of deep concern to the whole Australian continent. "These questions," he said, "have already been under discussion, and some of them have advanced a stage towards satisfactory agreement."

The Channel Squadron arrived at Lisbon on Sunday.

The Prince of Montenegro has expressed his thanks to the Powers for the satisfactory settlement of the Dulcigno question.

Large orders for arms of the newest and best systems have been given by the Chinese Government to manufacturers in Germany.

A National Exhibition of the Products of the Industry and Art of the Kingdom of Bavaria is to be held at Nuremberg in 1882.

An association has been formed at Madrid with a view to establish life-boat stations at the most dangerous places on the coast of Spain. Several members of the Royal family have given the movement the aid of their patronage.

Cardinal Jacobini, in a circular to the Papal Nuncios and other representatives of the Holy See abroad, announcing his appointment as Pontifical Secretary of State, enunciates a policy of calmness and conciliation, and recommends them to display the greatest moderation, in order not to multiply existing difficulties.

TWO PHASES OF LIFE.

The satirical genius of a clever artist has in these companion drawings put before us the different situation and appearance of one and the same individual at different times. From certain peculiarities in the fashion of his tailoring, we should be inclined to think he lived and occasionally flourished about forty years ago. Indeed, he rather strikes us as an old acquaintance, whom we remember to have met with in one of the early novels of Charles Dickens, and whose fortunes in the world of mixed London society were liable to surprising changes. He was sometimes known by the name of Mr. Montague Tigg; his professions were various, but always promising and plausible; while his occupation, which he most steadily pursued, was that of persuading other people to trust him with their money. Whether or not this class of ingenious practitioners has become utterly extinct, we are by no means in a position to affirm; but there is some alteration in the cut of their coats and trousers, and in the shape of their cravats. The two periods of this gentleman's history selected by Mr. F. Barnard for a pair of aker et idem portraits may not have been separated by a greater interval than four or five years; though it is evident that the suit of clothes worn in the second instance, shabby as they now are, did not belong to the particular phase of sartorial fancy that looked so entirely comme il faut when he stood before the dressing-room mirror, attended by his valet, in "the light of other days." Male attire was formerly more subject to these violent revolutions of taste and custom than it seems to be in the present generation; and its condition was a more likely index to the state of the wearer's purse or his banker's account. There can be no doubt, however, that the interesting hero of these two chapters of pictorial biography was decidedly a "fast man;" and that he went very fast down hill, after having, by some devices not more creditable to his honesty than to the sagacity of his neighbours, risen to a temporary elevation which he was unable long to keep. The furniture and decorations of his chambers, with the portraits of racers, prize-fighters, and ballet-dancers, and those trophies of nocturnal prowess, the stolen door-knockers, arrayed on the wall, bear witness to the character of the man, and recall to memory some of those anecdotes of silly profligacy in a past age, which are but too authentic facts. There is small reason to condole or sympathise with such a person, when he is next seen in a squalid garret, reduced to the barest necessaries of life, but still endeavouring, by a ridiculous expedient, to preserve the glossy blackness of his napless hat with a touch of ink applied to the edge of its battered crown. This plight is some degrees lower than the "shabby genteel;" but it is quite as good as he deserves. He is not now, as we before saw him, "in full bloom;" but, very decidedly, "gone to seed," and what is called "seedy."

An appropriate motto has been suggested for Mr. Fawcett. "Post Hoc" writes thus to the Times:—"You have stated in your leading columns that Mr. Fawcett ought to have a motto for his admirable plan of giving the working classes in this country a chance of fortune—a motto which might be set over against the abortive Ex luce lucellum of another statesman. How would Fors et fortuna do for the Postmaster-General, thus coupling the London pronunciation of his name with the result of his policy?"

Digitized by Google

THE PLAYHOUSES.

"A New Trial," being an adaptation, by the skilled hand of Mr. Coghlan, of an Italian play, by Signor Giacometti, called "La Morte Civile," in which Salvini has taken Italy and the United States by storm for many years, was produced at the Prince of Wales's Theatre on Saturday last, and achieved what may be termed a "first night success," due partly, I should say, to the very forcible acting of Mr. Coghlan himself in the part of the hero, and to the admirable manner in which he was supported by the excellent working company whom Mr. Edgar Bruce has now brought together; and partly to the curiosity excited by the revealing in a substantially novel manner of a very weird tragedy, which, however, it is questionable whether the audience, unless they have a morbid appetite for supping on horrors, would care to have told to them again. And, for a drama to become thoroughly popular, it must be witnessed repeatedly by the same people.

"A New Trial" is one of the ghastliest and grimmest plays that I have ever been privileged to witness. As in the case of "Annie Mie," it turns on a stabbing case, the imprisonment of the assassin, his return to civil life, and the tribulations of a mother and daughter, whose blood relation to one another is, for the purposes of the story, kept concealed until the catastrophe; but, unlike "Annie Mie," "A New Trial" is utterly devoid of any humorous dialogue or any picturesque incident—such as the "Kissing Bridge" and Zeeland song and dance episodes in the otherwise lugubrious Dutch piece;; it does not contain any love-making, and it does not end happily. Its prologue is indeed, a murder with the stiletto, and its epilogue suicide by means of prussic acid or strychnine. It has no heroine—the mother and daughter being characters wholly subordinate to the hero—and it is very clumsily constructed; a young gentleman, who should be the lover, and an old priest, who promises to be the villain of the play, vanishing from it altogether, before it is half over. Notwithstanding all these anomalies, "A New Trial," so far from being a desperately dull play, as "Annie Mie" was, is an exceedingly interesting one, for the time being; but it leaves a strongly unpleasant taste in the mouth, and can scarcely be reverted to with pleasure. Thus, the Bravo case was interesting; but the majority of people were glad when the gruesome business was over.

The plot of "A New Trial" may be compressed into the compass, say, of a death's head. Corrado, a Sicilian painter, marries, against the wishes of his family, the Signorina Rosalia. Her brother Luigi, who is most persistent in objecting to the match, quarrels with and insults Corrado, who stabs him, even to death. The assassin, on conviction, is sentenced to hard labour for life. After thirteen years' imprisonment he escapes from the convict-prison, changes clothes with a peasant, and tramps across the mountains to a small town, where he accidentally learns that his wife has taken refuge. She has been protected by a benevolent medical practitioner of ultra-Liberal and anti-clerical views called Palmieri, and resides in his house as the governess of his young daughter Annetta, who is in reality the daughter of the convict's wife Rosalia, but has been substituted for the Doctor's real daughter, who died in infancy, with the benevolent intent of concealing the fact that her father is an assassin, dragging his life-chain at the galleys. When, after a series of incidents too numerous to follow, the escaped convict wishes to renew his matrimonial relations, his wife indignantly refuses to have anything to do with him, and most mendaciously and unnaturally tells him that his daughter is dead, and that the young girl whom, with unerring paternal instinct, he has discovered to be really his, is the child of the benevolent Dr. Palmieri. The young girl, indeed, is afraid of the unbidden guest, Corrado—mainly, I should say, because he makes such strange faces and bellows so loudly; his wife incessantly urges him to go away—at one time, even, in an unwonted moment of placability, offering to accompany him if he will leave Annetta in peace; and Dr. Palmieri endeavours logically to convince him that his first duty to society, to his family and himself, is to take himself off to parts unknown. The unanimous consensus of opinion between the Doctor and his two female protégées that Corrado is one too many in the house, renders the situation of things in general disagreeably equivocal, and additional repulsiveness is infused into the "dead set" made against the unfortunate "lifer" by the avowal of the Doctor that he has long entertained a platonic attachment for Rosalia, and the cool confession of that lady that she would have married the Doctor long ago had she been free. Ultimately there comes over the darkened mind of Corrado the conviction that it is his living body that stands between his family and happy respectability, so he presents them with a dead body instead: swallowing a phialful of poison, and expiring with horrible writhing and mouthing on the stage. The repulsiveness of the story is aggravated to the intolerable degree, when the curtain falls, by the unavoidable inference that the widow of Corrado will, as soon as she conveniently can, enter into the bonds of matrimony with Dr. Palmieri.

I am not prepared to say that this darksome tragedy, or a great deal of it, is terribly realistic. It might have been, indeed, a story of real life told at a Coroner's inquest on the corpse of a suicide, and transferred, cut and dried, from the columns of a newspaper to the boards of a theatre. It is, at the same time, highly amusing to find one of the critics of the "Forcible Feeble" kind, an eminent professor of the "cry-baby" style in dramatic art, writing that it is "curious to find in one play so much that is false in nature and true in art." The exact contrary happens to be the case. The mirror is constantly, albeit in a rather clumsy manner, held up to nature; it is the art which is throughout weak, limping, and false. One can easily imagine what a dreadful pest, nuisance, and skeleton in the cupboard a father who had escaped from penal servitude would be in a "stuck up" family who were selfishly anxious to maintain a position of respectability; indeed, such an intrigue of equivoque and embarrassment might furnish the plot for a most amusing comedy of manners; but the importation of such an unadorned chapter of horrors as "A New Trial" on to the stage, without any underplot, and without even the complete evolution of the action suggested by the introduction of some of the characters, may be natural enough, but is assuredly in the most offensive degree inartistic. And as for the realism, repulsively superabundant as it is, it lacks thoroughness. Mr. Coghlan spares us not one contortion and not one gasp of a man dying of a deadly poison; but please to remember that he dies in the house, and in the presence of a medical man. Surely this very clever Dr. Palmieri must have heard of such a thing as a stomach-pump. The "Forcible Feebles," amid a squeal of much windy verbiage, assert that "those who cannot give themselves up to the contemplation of an exceptional social position idealised by art and finished by master-strokes of execution had better remain away, and leave the atmosphere created by such a study undisturbed." These are mere "Words, Idle Words." No "atmosphere" that I know of, beyond that of the slaughter-house, the druggist's shop, and the hulks is "created" by such a play as "A New Trial;" and the "exceptional social position" arising from a wife and daughter wanting to get rid of a convict husband and father, is in the Giacometti-Coghlan piece wholly unidealised by Art. Art would have given us a heroine attractive of at least some modicum of sympathy, and a catastrophe not quite so coarsely true to the nature of a felo de se as Corrado's removal of his body "out of the way."

The acting of Mr. Coghlan as Corrado was, in parts, very fine. Usually, he is not a great master of pathos; but in Corrado I liked him best in his melting moments. Too frequently he allowed himself to rant; and the Prince of Wales's is too small a theatre for ranting to be agreeable there. Mr. Flockton was simply superb as a suspicious, snuffy, censorious, but not hard-hearted Italian village priest. As I have said, he gave signs in an early portion of the drama of being its malificent spirit; but all at once he disappeared from the action of the piece and was seen no more. Was this art? A similar evanishment also took place in the case of his nephew, Don Fernando, inoffensively played by Mr. Bayley; but, as Don Fernando happened to be a young gentleman about whom nobody cared so much as one bajocco's worth of Neapolitan macaroni, the disappearance of the Don was not regretted; and, indeed, it was scarcely noticed. Mr. James Fernandez brought real art to bear on the interpretation of the part of the somewhat frigid philanthropist Dr. Palmieri; but he had not much to do, although he had much to say. Miss Amy Roselle, who only the other night was playing the certainly not amicable part of the Princesse de Bouillon in Adrienne Lecouvreur at the Court, was on Monday condemned to undertake a yet more thankless part at the Prince of Wales's. She did her very best to "artistically idealise" the wretchedly unsympathetic part of the unlovely wife of the bloodstained yet uxorious actress; but Miss Amy Roselle is so thoroughly a sympathetic actress, and is so full of lovable nature, that one felt very frequently inclined to wish that Signor Giacometti and his ghastly play had tumbled into the crater of Mount Ætna before ever Mr. Coghlan came across them.

I can only record (pending a more extended notice) the complete and splendid success at the Alhambra Theatre Royal on Monday of a grand spectacular opera in three acts, "Mefistofele II.," the music by Hervé, the libretto adapted to the English stage (and very humorously adapted, too) by Mr. Alfred Maltby. It is the "Petit Faust" expanded, remanié, and thoroughly "revised and settled" by the accomplished musical director of the Alhambra, M. G. Jacobi, who, in one of the grandest of the spectacular tableaux, the "Temptation of Faust," has introduced a portion of Mendelssohn's magnificent music to the "Walpurgis-nacht." "Mefistofele II." affords ample scope for the bright vocal and mimetic talents of Miss Constance Loseby and Miss St. Quinton. Miss Emily Petrelli and Madame Rosa Bell also appear with advantage in the cast; Mr. F. Leslie is a tuneful and gallant Faust, and Mr. Lionel Brough is irresistibly humorous as Valentine. Never did I behold such a wondrous variation upon Captain Bobadil as Mr. Brough gave us on Monday night. Beautiful scenery by Mr. W. Callcott—"Looking-glass Scene Callcott," of traditional Alhambra fame—and Mr. T. E. Ryan; a graceful and animated ballet, sumptuous dresses and appointments, a faultlessly trained band and well-drilled chorus, and first-rate stage management produce in "Mefistofele II." an ensemble which will make a dazzling addition to the long line of lyric and choregraphic glories of the Alhambra.

G. A. S.

MUSIC.

SATURDAY ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS.

The fourth and last of these concerts, directed by Mr. F. H. Cowen, took place at St. James's Hall last Saturday evening, when three novelties were brought forward, the most important of which was Mr. Cowen's new symphony (No. 3, in C minor), which was given for the first time. It is a long, elaborate, and ambitious work, in which the composer avowedly seeks to realise, in music, the impressions received during a tour in Norway, Sweden, and Denmark. There is some characteristic writing in the symphony, with much ingenious command of orchestral effects; but, as a whole, it is over-elaborated, and prolonged to an excessive length, the tonal peculiarities of northern melodies being used with such reiteration as sometimes to amount almost to a travestie of national distinctiveness. The whole work, and especially the finale, requires revision and condensation. A cleverly-written overture, entitled "Titania," by H. C. Nixon, and a pleasing orchestral "Tone-Picture," by Mr. J. F. Barnett, illustrative of "The Ebbing Tide," were the other absolute novelties. A specialty was Bach's fine triple concerto for pianoforte, violin, and flute (with accompaniments of stringed instruments), very well rendered, with Madame Frickenhaus, Mr. V. Nicholson, and Mr. W. L. Barrett as the soloists.

Another specialty—and a favourable specimen of modern English music—was the scena, "Hero and Leander," by A. Goring Thomas, very effectively declaimed by Mrs. Osgood. This is an extremely well written piece, in which some varied emotions are illustrated by music of a highly dramatic character. It produced a genuine impression. Mr. Cowen's fanciful and imaginative series of short orchestral pieces, entitled "The Language of the Flowers," was repeated by general desire; and Mr. Lloyd's fine delivery of well-known vocal pieces, and the final performance (by the orchestra) of Beethoven's third overture to "Leonora," completed the programme.

The final Crystal Palace Saturday afternoon concert of the year took place last week, when a new concerto for the violin, composed by Herr Gernsheim, was performed, for the first time in England, by M. Emil Sauret. The work is dry and uninteresting in each of its three movements—least so, perhaps, in the final Rondo—and its chief, if not only, merit is in serving to display exceptional powers of execution by the solo player. These were evidenced by M. Sauret, and again in his performance of Vieuxtemps's "Ballade et Polonoise." Mr. Herbert Reeves's promised first appearance at the Crystal Palace was unfortunately prevented by illness, and he was replaced by Mr. Oswald, who rendered some familiar vocal pieces with much success. The remaining items of the programme call for no specific detail. The Saturday concerts are to be resumed on Feb. 5.

After the performance of last Saturday afternoon, the Popular Concerts are, as usual at this period, suspended for a time. The programme then included a string quartet, by the Bohemian composer Dvorak, which was finely rendered (for the first time here) by Madame Néruda, Mr. L. Ries, Mr. Zerbini, and Signor Piatti. Of the work itself we must speak after its repetition, which is promised at the first evening concert of the new year. M. Eugene D'Albert—the young pianist who recently made so successful an appearance at the Monday evening concerts—played Beethoven's solo sonata in E flat, op. 7, with great effect on Saturday, the other instrumental solo having been a sonata by Handel for violin (with pianoforte), charmingly rendered by Madame Néruda. These artists and Signor Piatti were associated in Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor. Madame Antoinette Sterling sang familiar vocal pieces with great effect, and Mr. Zerbini accompanied as usual. The Monday evening concerts will be resumed on Jan. 3; the afternoon performances on the following Saturday.

The Royal Academy of Music gave a Student's Orchestral Concert, at St. James's Hall, last week, when Mr. W. Shakspeare proved his fitness for the office of conductor, to which he has recently been appointed. The vocal performance, solo and choral, and the pianoforte playing of several students, were such as to give favourable proof of the efficient course of instruction and study pursued at the institution.

Yesterday (Friday) week, the Sacred Harmonic Society's forty-ninth Christmas performance of "The Messiah" took place—also at St. James's Hall, to which locality the society's concerts are now transferred from Exeter Hall—as already recorded. The solo music of "The Messiah" was generally well rendered by Mesdames L. Sherrington and M. Cummings, Mr. V. Rigby, and Mr. Bridson—the chorus-singing having been highly effective. Sir M. Costa conducted, and Mr. Willing presided at the organ, as usual. The next performance will take place on Jan. 21, when the programme will comprise Handel's coronation anthem, "The King shall rejoice," Cherubini's "Requiem," and Mendelssohn's "Athalie" music.

The Royal Amateur Orchestral Society gave the first concert of its ninth season at the Albert Hall, on Saturday evening, when the band (including the Duke of Edinburgh as one of the first violins) performed the overtures to "Le Pré aux Clercs," "Mignon," and "Le Domino Noir;" entr'actes by Massenet and Gounod, Bizet's orchestral suite, "L'Arlésienne," and Gounod's "Saltarello." Vocal pieces were contributed by Mesdames Zimeri and Dalton, and Signori Monari-Rocca and De Monaco. Mr. George Mount is still the zealous and energetic conductor of the performances. The concert was given in aid of the funds of the French Hospital and Dispensary, Lisle-street.

"The Messiah" was given at the Alexandra Palace last Saturday evening, with full orchestra and chorus, and Mesdames Sherrington and Enriquez, Mr. R. Hollins and Mr. Bridson, as the solo vocalists. The oratorio is to be performed by the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society next Monday evening, Mr. Sims Reeves being announced to appear.

The Royal School of Mines Orchestral Society (of which Professor Huxley is president) gave a concert last Monday evening in the Lecture Theatre of the South Kensington Museum. The programme was of a sterling character.

The ballad concert announced by Mr. Sims Reeves for last Thursday evening at St. James's Hall occurred too late for notice until next week. The programme promised performances by the concert-giver, his son (Mr. Herbert Reeves), Madame Albani, and other eminent artists.

The temporary lull in music caused, as usual, by the Christmas vacation, will soon be broken. The advent of the new year will at once bring a resumption of the serial performances. Mr. John Boosey's London Ballad Concerts at St. James's Hall will be continued on New-Year's Day, when an afternoon performance will be given. On the evening of Jan. 3 (as already said) the Monday Popular Concerts will be resumed, the first of the afternoon performances associated therewith taking place on the following Saturday; when, in the evening, the performance of Berlioz's "Faust" music, directed by Mr. Charles Hallé, will be repeated at St. James's Hall. Other important concerts will soon follow, and music will speedily resume its wonted activity.

Herr Max Friedländer—who has sung with much success at various London concerts—has recently met with a highly favourable reception at Berlin, Frankfort, and other important German cities.

The "Professional Pocket-Book," edited by Sir Julius Benedict, and published by Messrs. Rudall, Carte, and Co., has just been issued for next year. It contains a large amount of general and official information, with a diary for daily and hourly engagements, and a list of the principal forthcoming musical performances. The book will be found of special value both for the amateur and the professional musician.

SIR RICHARD TEMPLE ON EDUCATION IN INDIA.

A meeting of the National Indian Association was held in the hall of the Society of Arts, John-street, Adelphi, on the 16th inst., when Sir Richard Temple gave an address on the Effect of Western Education on the Natives of India. Sir Arthur Hobhouse presided, and there was a large attendance.

Sir Richard Temple explained that a system of State education had been extended throughout the length and breadth of India, there being no less than 66,000 schools and colleges, and nearly two million scholars. The direct education given to those young people was of a fourfold nature—intellectual, moral, scientific, and practical or technical. The intellectual education had been attended with considerable success; but, while the moral was in some degree systematic, a great deal of it was incidental. Under a civilised Government, like that of England in India, an immense amount of indirect education was afforded, the whole result of which had been refining, humanising, and elevating; but he was far from saying there were no drawbacks, because foreign rule, even of the best kind, must have a somewhat depressing effect on an alien race. Those drawbacks were inseparable from our position in India, and they made our obligations to the country all the greater. Formerly corruption and even worse faults were common amongst natives employed in the public service, but nowadays the high native officials brought up in the colleges were just as honourable and trustworthy as English gentlemen. A remarkable advance also had taken place in the general and political intelligence of the people. This had led the people to take an interest in the security of the British Empire, and had at the same time produced a fresh body of public opinion which it would be well not to lose sight of. He would gladly have believed that the old ideas and traditions connected with caste were being weakened, but he really could not see any signs of it. Somehow, caste and the associations which clung to it seemed to be more enduring than any other influences that existed in India. Of course the natives who came to England broke their caste, but he rather suspected that when they got back they conciliated their brethren in order to be once more admitted within the magic pale. As one who had spent some of the best years of his life in India, he could say that the natives were worthy of the highest esteem, and he was satisfied that if the efforts of the English people continued to be directed as they had hitherto been, British rule would be established more firmly than it could be by cannon and bayonet, and we should earn the lasting gratitude of the nationalities which had been committed to our care by an all-wise Providence for the good of the human race.

Digitized by Google

"CAU

FROM THE PICTURE BY C. J.

Digitized by Google

G H-T!"

STANILAND.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

The Extra Supplement.

THE MANOR HOUSE.

Our well-known Artist, Mr. S. Read, is always happy in delineating the picturesque aspects of fine old-fashioned country mansions. A partial view is here afforded of the central front and main entrance of a noble residence, seen from between the grand old cedars and other trees on the garden lawn. The interior seems brightly lit up for some festive entertainment, which may be a Christmas or New-Year's Eve party. A family of invited guests, who are doubtless of some rank, from the style of their equipage, have just arrived at the open doorway. The antique form of the carriage, which harmonises with the style of the building, would indicate that the artist's mind went back more than a hundred years to imagine this incident of rural grandeur. Everything is in perfect keeping with this view of the subject; the trees, the house, the equipage, with coachman and footman, and the signs of a stately hospitality within. It is one of those suggestive drawings from which any active mind can readily take the needful hints to imagine a whole chapter of personal history. This might be worthy of a place in some future collection of avowed "Romance of the Peerage and Baronetage," or "Tales of the Old English Gentry."

"CAUGHT!"

In this picture, by Mr. C. J. Staniland, there is no difficulty in comprehending the nature of the situation. It may be supposed to have taken place early in the eighteenth century, about the time of the first or second King George, to which belong some of our old comedies and romances of English social life. We have only to recollect certain incidents of these, and to imagine the characters of a haughty Squire, a passionate and sentimental young lady, the Squire's daughter, and a gallant young officer, Lieutenant in a Regiment of Horse, wearing his uniform in private life as they did in those days. Nothing will then be more likely and natural for us to believe than that the two young persons, in order to defeat the parental design of marrying her, will she nil she, to an odious rich Nabob or dissolute Peer, should have agreed upon a romantic elopement from the Squire's jealously guarded mansion. She has come out of the garden-gate, certainly not in her travelling-dress, but in obedience to her lover's signal or whistle, to speak a moment with him outside, before returning to her own apartment and properly attiring herself for the perilous journey. His servant and horses, ready to assist in the flight, are in waiting on the neighbouring hill. At this critical moment, the angry father, who has from his library window seen the rash maiden hurry across the lawn, emerges suddenly from the gate, and confronts the unlucky pair in a mood that is forcibly expressed by the knitted brows and sternly set lips, the attitude and gesture of his figure. In vain will she plead for his forgiveness, and try to soften his obdurate heart, with protestations of her filial reverence, or with assurances that she knows the brave young gentleman to be a man of honour, and worthy her entire confidence. She has got into a sad scrape, and is very decidedly "Caught!"

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS.

A new collective edition, in one handsome volume of small but clear and fair print, of the Works of Alfred Tennyson, Poet Laureate, is now published by Messrs. C. Kegan Paul and Co. It contains the well-known earlier poems, which the author now calls "Juvenilia;" the "Lady of Shalott," "The Miller's Daughter," "The Palace of Art," "The May Queen," and others, forming a second series; the "English Idylls," including "Dora" and "The Gardener's Daughter," as well as "Locksley Hall;" then "Enoch Arden," and those originally published with it; "The Princess," with many short pieces newly arranged; "The Window," "In Memoriam," "Maud," and "Idylls of the King," complete; and the two historical dramas, "Harold" and "Queen Mary." There is a portrait of Tennyson, engraved on steel; and twenty-five illustrations of different poems, in the form of wood-engravings, upon which we have no particular remark to offer. This volume will, on the whole, find ready acceptance, for the sake of our most popular living writer of English poetry.

The lovers of romantic poetry, with whom John Keats is still a congenial favourite, may take pleasure in the series of nineteen etchings, by Mr. Charles O. Murray, designed to illustrate The Eve of St. Agnes, printed on fine large paper (Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston, Searle, and Rivington). It is not a poem of the highest and purest motive; but the perception of sensuous beauty has scarcely been more powerfully expressed by any writer in verse or prose. Tennyson would not have conceived the story as Keats has done, but in a spirit of greater moral dignity; the choice of the subject, indeed, is less commendable than the poetical execution. The artist has done his best in these etchings, which are of appropriate character. The frontispiece represents the two lovers, Porphyro and Madeline, stepping out of the doorway, in their midnight flight, while the sleeping porter and the dog lie on the threshold, but are not roused by their noiseless passage.

Sketch-books of foreign travel, amidst the picturesque scenery and figures of the countries usually visited by English family tourists, have often, since the voyage in "Zig-zag," been characterised by an expression of quiet fun; and amusing personalities, which should always be confined to the members of the party, have been mixed up with local subjects. This species of publication is well exemplified in the Pen and Pencil Notes on the Riviera and in North Italy, by Mary D. Tothill (Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.; and J. Arrowsmith, Bristol). She has considerable talent and skill in outline drawing, and a keen eye, both for landscape or quaint old street and building features of a place, and for human oddities of manner and costume. The range of subjects goes as far as Venice and Verona, including Cannes, Nice, Mentone, Bordighera, San Remo, Oneglia, Savona, Genoa, Sestri, Lerici, Spezia, Pisa, Bologna, and some intermediate places.

A beautiful example of decorative bookwork is The Story of a Dead op, written by the Rev. Dr. J. R. Macduff, and printed, in bronze, by the publishers, Messrs. Marcus Ward and Co., of London and Belfast. It is adorned with four coloured illustrations, which represent the "Procession of the Queen of the Morning," the "Bird-talk and its Surroundings," the "Nightingale and Dewdrop," and the "Ascent of the Million Army." To explain the first and last, which seem enigmatical, it may be stated that the little fairy-tale is a physical allegory. The Dew drop, whose condition and business on earth it rather puzzles the Birds—Thrush, Lark, and Nightingale—to find out, is but one of a mighty host of aqueous particles, destined to be taken up into Heaven. The allegory, we now perceive, is a spiritual as well as physical—for the detached drop of water is a type of the human soul. There is true poetry, and true moral and religious philosophy, in this conception. The printers have decorated all the pages with a constant variety of exquisitely designed marginal borders, which are, in our judgment, not less valuable than the coloured pictures.

The twelfth series of the Vanity Fair Album Portraits (12, Tavistock-street, Covent-garden), contains but few persons of the first eminence. These have, indeed, mostly figured in previous volumes. Lord Beaconsfield, however, reappears, but only as walking arm-in-arm with Lord Rowton, late his private secretary, Mr. Montagu Corry. Three members of the Liberal Cabinet—Mr. Gladstone, Lord Hartington, and Mr. Chamberlain,—are likewise put on the Treasury Bench together. Many of the other portraits are those of third or fourth rate persons, known in the Clubs, but not to England at large. The comments, by "Jehu, Junior," are often unjust, and neither shrewd nor witty.

Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin's International Portrait Gallery (Second Series) consists of twenty slightly tinted lithographs, which present tolerable likenesses, with good memoirs, of the following men of the day: — President Grévy, the King of Spain, Sir Bartle Frere, Gustave Doré, Father Hyacinth, Professor Vambery, M. Waddington, Count Schouvaloff, Sir Arthur Gordon, General Grant, Louis Blanc, Lord A. Loftus, Count Beust, Wendell Holmes, Sir Hercules Robinson, the Duc d'Aumale, Emile Castelar, Sir G. F. Bowen, M. Lesseps, and Mr. James Russell Lowell.

The fourth volume of Cassell's Natural History, edited by Professor P. Martin Duncan, F.R.S., continues the description of birds, which is written by Mr. R. Bowdler Sharpe, treating here of the perching birds, the rooks and crows, and birds of paradise; the thrushes, the finches, the starlings, the game-birds, the wading birds, geese, ducks, and gulls, the divers, the ostriches, and other groups. Then come the reptiles, tortoises, crocodiles, and lizards, and the snakes. These are described by the editor of this work; and he also deals with the amphibious animals. The illustrations are good, and very abundant.

Among the more imaginative and original works of entertainment, accompanied with illustrations, we particularly like a small volume called The Children's Journey, with other Stories (Strahan and Co.), by the author of "Our Children's Story," and the "Voyage en Zigzag." Its spirit is delightful, kindly, delicate, and gently humorous, and the little tales have a touching interest; the author's drawings, too, are both clever and pleasing. There is a new edition (Bradbury, Agnew, and Co.) of Our Autumn Holiday on French Rivers; the narrative written by Mr. J. L. Molloy, the engravings drawn by Mr. Linley Sambourne. It relates, as some readers will remember with pleasure, the adventures of four Englishmen in a four-oared skiff, up the Seine and down the Loire, with brief glances at many places of interest, and at the manners and humours of French country life. Messrs. Sampson Low and Co. have reproduced, in a new and smaller form, electrotyped and printed in bronze, Child's Play, by E. V. B., which is a charming book of story-verses and original drawings.

Boys' books of stirring adventure have been produced for the present season. The late Mr. W. H. G. Kingston, author of many popular works of this class, has left The Heir of Kilfinnan (Sampson Low and Co.), which is a "Tale of the Shore and the Ocean," partly on the West Coast of Ireland, partly in the West Indies. With the Colours (G. Routledge and Sons), by R. Mounteney Jephson, is the story of a young military subaltern, Robert Froyle, serving with his regiment at Corfu and Gibraltar, and in China and Japan.

The Demon of Cawnpore (Sampson Low and Co.) is a translation from Jules Verne, and we need not say that it refers to the notorious Nana Sahib; but it is the supposed and rumoured survival of that atrocious malefactor, ten years after the Cawnpore massacre of 1857, his wanderings in disguise through different provinces of India, and his attempts to raise fresh conspiracies and insurrections, that form the subject of this exciting narrative.

The Golden Grasshopper, another of Mr. W. H. G. Kingston's tales, is published by the Religious Tract Society; it has appeared before, under the title of The Royal Merchant. It is a very fair specimen of instructive historical fiction, being mainly occupied with Sir Thomas Gresham and his Elizabethan contemporaries, and serving to illustrate the social and religious, political, and mercantile transactions of that age, and the struggles of the Dutch and Flemish Protestants against Spanish tyranny. The new title of this story is an allusion to the huge copper-gilt grasshopper, which was Gresham's family crest, displayed on the top of the high turret at the east front of the Royal Exchange. The narrative purports to be written by Ernst Verner, of Antwerp, formerly secretary to the great London merchant.

No better book for a boy, as boys go, has lately come in our way than Mr. Frank Stockton's Jolly Fellowship (C. Kegan Paul and Co.). It is in the form of an autobiography; the supposed writer is a New York lad of sixteen; his comrade is a youth named "Rectus," whose family surname is Colbert; and there is a brave girl, "Corny" or Cornelia Chipperton, one of their fellow-passengers in a voyage to the Bahamas. Plenty of bustling adventure, with a spice of danger, and a sufficient mixture of drollery, make up this entertaining American story.

For girls' reading, in their turn, good provision has likewise been made. Routledge's Every Girl's Annual, edited by Miss Alicia Leith, is a magazine of stories, short biographical sketches, little moral essays, songs and other poetry, riddles, puzzles, and proverbs, and bits of useful knowledge. We presume that Peter Parley's Annual (Ben George, publisher), with its nine coloured pictures, is rather intended for boys; it contains the stories of "Hal Stacey" and "Maximilian de Leste," with many other light and readable articles.

Cassell's Family Magazine, the yearly volume of which is before us, presents a great variety of wholesome reading; the tales are, in general, of considerable originality and interest, while the descriptive notices of scientific inventions, and of places worth visiting in England or abroad, will be acceptable to many intelligent young readers. Not less praise is due to The Welcome, a Magazine for the Home Circle, which is published by Messrs. S. W. Partridge and Co., and has common editorship with the Family Friend. The frontispiece of this volume is a portrait of the Princess of Wales, set in a gilt border. Most of the illustrations to the text are well chosen and effective in style. Scribner's illustrated magazine for girls and boys, edited by Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, is called St. Nicholas; and the eighth yearly volume, divided into two parts, is a treasure of good reading and fine engravings. We may also commend the volumes of Golden Hours (W. Poole) and Chatterbox (W. Wells Gardner) to the juvenile part of the public.

For the younger children we have some more playful entertainment furnished in Little Buttercup's Picture-Book (Routledge), with fine bold engravings, well drawn and well printed; My Own Picture-Book (Religious Tract Society), equally well illustrated; the Day Dawn Album (Routledge), and the Family Circle Picture-Book (James Clarke, Fleet-street). We should recommend, for thoughtful children of ten or twelve, Mr. H. A. Harper's Illustrated Letters from the Holy Land, published by the Religious Tract Society. Routledge's Singing Quadrilles are delightful to look at, and must be not less delightful to hear sung. The music, by Myles B. Foster, is composed for such popular little ditties as "The Queen of Hearts," and "Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son," but for only a single voice. The illustrations, drawn by Mrs. Staples (M. E. E.) and by Mr. Chantrey Corbould, are daintily printed in light colours by Mr. Edmund Evans. Children's Daily Bread (Religious Tract Society) consists of a picture, text of Scripture, and verse for every day in the year. Uncle John's Anecdotes of Animals and Birds (S. W. Partridge) is well calculated to foster a kindly regard for the brute creation.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Chapman, William Edward; Vicar of Faringdon, Berks.
Harrison, Alban Henry; Vicar of St. Andrew's, Deal.
Hirsch, H.; Rector of St. Michael's, Wood-street, Cheapside.
Jennings, H. E.; Organising Secretary to the Pretoria Diocesan Fund.
Jephson, Arthur William; Vicar of St. John's, Waterloo-road.
Myles, James Perceval; Surrogate of the Consistory Court of Bristol.
Nicholas, W. L., Curate of Rhyl; Rector of Flint.
Scriven, Thomas Fowell Buxton; Vicar of Luttons Ambo.
Smith, Walter Landon; Rector of Bisley, Surrey.
Trendell, W. H.; Honorary Organising Secretary for the County of Lincoln for the Missions to Seamen Society.
Willacy, Thomas Robert; Perpetual Curate of Thorganby.—Guardian.

By the liberality of the Earl of Sheffield, the ancient parish church of Fletching, Sussex, has been restored, at a cost of £6000, and has been reopened by the Bishop of Chichester.

The Dean of Westminster preached at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, on Sunday morning in aid of the maintenance and extension of the Hospital for Consumption, Brompton.

Recently, the Bishop of Lichfield consecrated at Tipton a new church, which has been built at a cost of £5100. The Earl of Dudley and Mr. W. Roberts, an ironmaster, have erected the tower at their joint expense.

An effort, some years in progress, for restoring the parish church of Althorpe, Lincolnshire, has been munificently assisted by the representatives of the late Mrs. Skipworth, of Risley Hall, near Derby, the lady of the manor, who had the matter of the restoration of the church greatly at heart. These gentlemen have reseated the chancel with stalls of carved oak.

The Bishop of Manchester on Wednesday week consecrated the new Church of St. Philip, which had been erected, at a cost of £8500, at the Griffin, Blackburn. In his sermon he dwelt upon the present disturbed state of the Church of England. He said that the platform of the National Church was broad enough to admit the three great schools of thought—Broad, High, and Low.

The Bishop of Winchester lately reopened the parish church of Frimley, upon the improvement of which a sum of £1250 has been spent, under the direction of Mr. Goodchild. Under the east window has been set up the following legend, which speaks for itself:—"This chancel has been restored, and window given as a memorial by their family to James Fitchett Burrell, lord of the manor of Frimley, who died Jan. 24, 1858, aged sixty-four years, and Joanna, his wife, who died Nov. 2, 1869, aged seventy-eight years.

On the formation of the new diocese of Liverpool, a number of valuable gifts were offered to the Bishopric committee for their acceptance on behalf of this new see. Among these were a superb service of altar plate, consisting of two flagons, four chalices, four patens, and four plates, the munificent gift of Mrs. Lawrence; and to these were added, by Messrs. Elkington and Co., the offer of a magnificent alms-dish. The designs for the entire service have now been completed by Messrs. Elkington and Co., with the assistance of eminent authorities in ecclesiastical art.

Application, in regard to the notices of appeal lodged by Mr. Pelham Dale and Mr. Enraght, was made last Saturday in the Court of Appeal for the discharge of those gentlemen from custody until their cases can be heard, on the understanding that they refrain from all participation in the performance of Divine worship. The application was granted. Mr. Enraght, however, remains in Warwick Gaol, having, it is stated, expressed his determination not to accept his liberty on the terms stipulated by the Court of Appeal.

A considerable number of the parishioners of St. James's Westminster (or, as it is more usually called, St. James's, Piccadilly) met on Monday evening in the Vestry-hall for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to Mr. F. Crane, of Regent-street, who has held the position of churchwarden for many years during the incumbency of the Bishop of London and of the Rev. J. S. Kempe. The testimonial consisted of a kettle, teapot, coffee-pot, sugar-basin, milk-jug, and biscuit-box, all of silver, and it was presented by the Rev. J. S. Kempe, who reviewed Mr. F. Crane's career of usefulness and beneficence.

The Court of Assistants of the Sons of the Clergy met at the Corporation House, Bloomsbury-place, on Saturday last, for the purpose of considering petitions from a large number of curates and other poor clergymen for a share in the funds annually distributed at this time of the year. The applications laid before the Court by Mr. Paget Bowman, the registrar, were more numerous than usual, while the income of the society has been seriously affected by the necessity of making allowances and reductions of rent to the corporation tenants, and by the general depression, rendering it impossible for the governors to meet with adequate grants the pressing claims presented to them. The petitions, including a few from widows and daughters of clergymen, numbered 155, and in almost every case a grant was made.

The decoration of the chancel of St. Peter's, Belsize-park, has been completed, under the direction of Mr. W. G. Taylor.—A stained-glass window, by Messrs. Jones and Willis, of Birmingham, has recently been inserted at Trinity Church, Ystalyfera, South Wales, bearing the following inscription:—"This window was erected by the sorrowing inhabitants of Ystalyfera and its neighbourhood, in affectionate remembrance and to perpetuate the memory of Emily, the beloved wife of Mr. James Palmer Budd, of Ynisydaren, who died May 14, 1880."—Two stained-glass windows, by Messrs. Clayton and Bell, have been placed in the little church of Stepleton, in the county of Dorset. They are the gift of Lady Rivers, in memory of her husband, the last Baron Rivers, of Rushmere, who is buried in the churchyard.—A beautiful stained-glass window has been placed in the North Chapel of St. Neots Church, Hunts, in memory of the late Mr. George Dawson Rowley, the design being carried out by Messrs. Hardman and Co.

The Duke of Newcastle has again returned to his tenants 20 per cent. of their rents in consideration of the severe depression in agriculture.

Digitized by Google

THE EVE OF PANTOMIME.

The loves of Harlequin and Columbine, the delightful pranks of that arch-mischief-maker, Mr. Clown, the doddering senility of old Pantaloon, perpetually falling and inevitably to be hitched up again, belong to the orthodox programme of Christmas as much as the happy-family gathering and the present-laden tree. When the boys come home for the holidays, and the children emerge from their quiet corners and throw down as exhausted pleasures their annuals and picture-books and illustrated numbers, it is as certain that this great pantomime question will be mooted in the family circle as that fiery plum-puddings will be placed on the dining-table and pretty girls kissed under the mistletoe. We hear a great deal about the changes in our Christmas customs, and so-called cynics endeavour to embitter the recollections of what has been once, and may be now, a happy season; but pantomime has changed only in degree since Grimaldi acted at Sadler's Wells and wore a mask in the character of Clown. The old order of pantomime remains pretty much the same, and consists of a fairy opening, a gorgeous ballet, a transformation-scene, and a harlequinade. No pantomime deserves the patronage of the children unless the water-nymphs in their sea-caves and the representatives of flowers in their sylvan homes are duly contrasted with a plentiful supply of demons, and with attendants, in comic masks of huge proportion. Of late years there has, no doubt, been a tendency to exaggerate the spectacular part of the entertainment at the expense of the fun, to outlengthen the ballet scenes until they become tedious, to drag out the opening to an interminable length, to curtail the clown and to prefer the dull doggrel of music-hall singers to the merry and inoffensive humour of the harlequinade.

Managers this coming Christmas have resolved, it would appear, to reform this altogether, to banish the "lion comique" to the noisy clatter of the drinking-hall, and to remember that little innocent children would far rather see the comic scenes of a Drury-Lane pantomime, an animated bed-post or the clown warming pantaloon's bed, the sausages stolen, the maid-servant kissed, and the slide buttered, than all the double meanings that could be invented for the funniest songs of music-hall stars. If it be true that at least one manager has determined to restore, as far as possible, the art of pure pantomime and to make the audiences laugh and not yawn, many will be thankful for the relief. It should not be difficult, indeed, to revive the old skill of expressing the various emotions, comic or pathetic, in dumb show, or with such few words as vary the monotony, for, although no "Garrick of clowns" may be in our midst to astonish us with his genius like Grimaldi, there are pantomimists of new and old schools sufficient to provide amusement for the thousands of Christmas holiday-makers. Alas! time and circumstances have reduced the Payne family to a minimum. Covent Garden Theatre will no longer echo with laughter of the old gentleman—the best pantomimist of the present generation—and his clever sons; and the wealth of humour is now alone possessed by Harry Payne, the Covent Garden clown, who is a funny fellow, without striving after effect or committing himself to exaggeration, and who can be witty without a trace of vulgarity. But the famous Vokes family, the Girards, the Hanlon Lees, the D'Aubans, and the Martinettis present a bold front against the army of incompetence, and have proved their power of humour not only in England but all over the European continent. Lucky the theatre that possesses any of these troupes or families, for they are inventors as well as executants, and are existing proof, if any were needed, that the art of pantomime is not dead.

The pantomime year of 1880 will be remarkable for the curious shuffle of the cards that sends so many old friends and faces to Covent Garden that have hitherto reigned supreme at Drury Lane. The Vokes Family, still active as ever, but losing the services of the fascinating and incomparable Rosina; Mr. F. B. Chatterton, the producer of who shall say how many successful pantomimes; Mr. John Cormack, once a famous harlequin in the days of Charles Kean at the Princess's, and the best trainer of ballets and stage-children in existence; Mr. Karl Meyder, the German conductor, who has lived long enough in England to understand the requirements of the gallery boys, all transfer their services to Covent Garden, and enlist under the banner of the Messrs. Gatti. And last, but certainly not least, Mr. William Beverley, who, with Mr. E. L. Blanchard, have done more for the refinement and grace of pantomime during the last forty years than any two men living, will paint scenes for the big house and leave old Drury to younger and more ambitious hands. Mr. Beverley, whose right hand has not forgotten its cunning, is prepared this year to enchant us as much as he did in the days of "old Lyceum loves," when Planché wrote and Madame Vestris managed, and has painted "a panorama" for Covent Garden, which will doubtless be one of the chief attractions of the pantomime year. The Covent Garden pantomime has been written by Mr. F. C. Burnand, the editor of Punch and well-known humourist; and this fact seems to show that in "Valentine and Orson" there will be plenty of good rollicking fun, and some good songs into the bargain. The charming Victoria Vokes will enact Valentine, the representative of chivalry. Mr. Fred Vokes, the hero of the black elastic legs, will be a most comical Orson, and an excellent comedian; Mr. J. G. Taylor has been engaged to play King Pippin, who rules over a very startling court of funny fellows. In a very short time we shall know all about the Green Knight, the conspiracy of Henry and Haufrey, the sons of King Pippin; the charms of the Princess Florimanda; the splendid tournament in which Eglantine, Agatha, and Pacolet engage; and doubtless be enthusiastic concerning the Watteau ballet, which will be on a scale of unparalleled magnificence. To see the Vokes is as essential to the happiness of the children as to eat mince-pie—the oftener you have seen the family the happier will be the years in the future; and so the success of Covent Garden pantomime is secured beforehand, backed up as it is by an old-fashioned Drury Lane combination of experience and good taste.

One commander is, however, faithful to the old ship. It would be as well to wipe Christmas out of the calender altogether as to tolerate such an unheard-of anachronism as a Drury Lane pantomime without Mr. E. L. Blanchard. The scene-shifters would revolt, the stage door-keeper perform some act of open mutiny; the gas-man would lose his head, the property-master throw up his engagement, and the children pelt Mr. Augustus Harris with oranges and nubbly lemons had he dared to dream of allowing "Mother Goose and the Enchanted Beauty" to appear without the familiar and ever respected name. One word about this said E. L. Blanchard, who is renowned throughout the land as having the best hand for the making of a Christmas pudding, and never allows a year to pass without causing us to be thankful for his kind heart and ceaseless fancy. Would you really believe, though I can assure you it is true, that E. L. Blanchard has had a finger in our pantomime pies, more or less, since the year 1835—close upon fifty years ago? As "Francisco Frost," this merry writer produced, from 1840 to 1849, about twenty pantomimes for the Olympic, Surrey, and Victoria Theatres. He peeped out from behind the alias of "The Brothers Grinn" in succeeding years, and has written times out of number for Covent Garden, the Princess's, Astley's, as well as the Crystal and Alexandra Palaces. The first pantomime produced at Drury Lane with the name of E. L. Blanchard attached to it was "Harlequin Hudibras; or, the Droll Days of the Merry Monarch," which was produced on Boxing Night, 1852; and since then, for twenty-eight successive years, the same pen, that has not one blush or blot on one of its feathers, has regularly supplied the Drury "Christmas Annuals."

By looking at the future, far as human eye can see, it is not difficult to detect an admirable subject in "Mother Goose." It was a very favourite one, as we all know, with Grimaldi. The happy combination of Mother Goose with the Sleeping Beauty gives a hint that Mr. E. L. Blanchard has travelled into Fairyland this year with a book in his hand by Charles Perrault, called "Contes de ma Mère l'Oie," and there discovered the French original of "La Belle au Bois Dormant;" but you may be quite sure that the subject familiar to every child in the kingdom will be treated in charming fashion, and contrived so as to suit young and old alike. France cannot claim, any more than Germany, the legend of the Princess at whose christening an important godmother was omitted; and I certainly remember in the nursery days a little volume called "The Hope of the Katzekoffs," in which the wicked and indignant fairy godmother dragged the unhappy infant through a keyhole and cast many other unholy spells on the poor child that have lingered on my memory ever since. This story was German, and not French, and it certainly is a most orthodox subject for Christmas pantomime. Mr. Augustus Harris, a very new, young, and energetic broom, is apparently determined to revive the splendours of Drury Lane, and to compel every paterfamilias to go to the play and take the olive-branches with him. The D'Aubans and Julian Girard will support the spirit of pure pantomime. Miss Kate Santley returns to the stage as the star of the singers. Arthur Roberts and James Fawn can safely be depended on for the acting; the ballets are said to be enchanting, and Mr. Alfred Thompson has been employed for some time past in designing the dresses that are so important a feature in these costly spectacles. Here also, as at Covent Garden, panorama will be a feature, and for the purpose Mr. William Telbin has been engaged to support the tradition of his famous family. In the other departments of scenic art he will be assisted by Mr. Henry Emden, who has been intrusted with the transformation scene. Mr. Augustus Harris is, however, wise in his generation in desiring to hurry on the harlequinade, which is the legitimate fun of Christmas time, and to see personally that the tricks are good enough to keep people on their seats until all is over for the evening. With Mr. F. Wallenstein in the orchestra, and glitter as well as fun in front of him, great things are naturally expected of "Mother Goose" at the orthodox home of pantomime.

Where is Mr. George Conquest to be found, one who created the fame of the pantomime at the Grecian Theatre in the City-road, and by his art united the East and the West? He has enlisted this year under the banner of Mr. William Holland, at the Surrey, and has helped the "people's caterer" in producing "Hop o' my Thumb; or, Harlequin Nobody, Busybody, Somebody, and the Wicked Ogre with the Seven League Boots," a pantomime that has been written by Mr. Frank W. Green, and, as usual, will be bright with pretty faces and clever people. Mr. Conquest, happily recovered from his American accident, is a host in himself; and it is a subject of interest that Miss Topsy Elliott, the pretty dancer, who was nearly burned to death a few years ago, is quite well, and prepared to lead the ballet once more. Herbert Campbell and Arthur Williams will be found at the Grecian, where Mr. Pettitt, one of the Drury-Lane authors, has written "Harlequin King Frolic." Mr. Douglas, of the Standard, will give us "Harlequin Wide-Awake the Sleeping Beauty," and a gorgeous tranformation scene; the Brothers Grinn give "Aladdin" to the Crystal Palace; and "Puss in Boots," with Mr. J. H. Friend to look after the cat, is promised at the Alexandra Palace at Muswell-hill. At the Imperial Theatre, Westminster, instead of a pantomime, the Hanlon-Lees will return to London to give their curious and eccentric entertainment "Le Voyage en Suisse," and better pantomime will be there found than at most theatres. There are two excellent circuses provided for the children—one at Hengler's, in Argyll-street, Regent-street, the other at old-fashioned Astley's, in the Westminster Bridge-road, where Mr. Sanger reigns supreme. The Alhambra gives, as usual, elaborate opera—in this case "Mefistofele II.," by Hervé, and Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night" music—to say nothing of a new ballet by Alfred Thompson, which will test the limit of the beautiful stage and the resources of this elaborate establishment.

Turning our backs on London proper, and directing our footsteps "down East," we find kindly Mrs. S. Lane at the Britannia with a pantomime founded on a popular French féerie called "Harlequin Love's Dream, or the Daughter of the King of the Kingless Kingdom," full of Parisian songs and English humour; and another celebrated Christmas house, the Pavilion, draws upon Frank Green for "Jack and the Beanstalk, or Harlequin King Blushrose, the Fairy Flowers, and the Wicked Weeds of the Nightshade Dell." The "North-west provinces" will not be forgotten, for Mr. Leonard Rae, a clever writer, has composed a new version of "Little Red Riding Hood" for the Park Theatre, and enthusiasts might go farther and fare worse than by taking a trip to Brighton to see Mrs. Nye Chart and her pretty entertainment. The busy Mr. F. C. Burnand has prepared an eccentric version of "Sandford and Merton" for the German Reeds, and the music will be by that clever composer, Alfred Scott Gatti.

To crown all, there is a "World's Fair," a kind of imitation of the Greenwich festivities of old, at the Agricultural Hall, where circuses, menageries, and peep-show will revive the recollections of Bartelemy and the traditions of the famous showman, Richardson. C. S.

JAPANESE PICTURES OF ENGLISH CHRISTMAS.

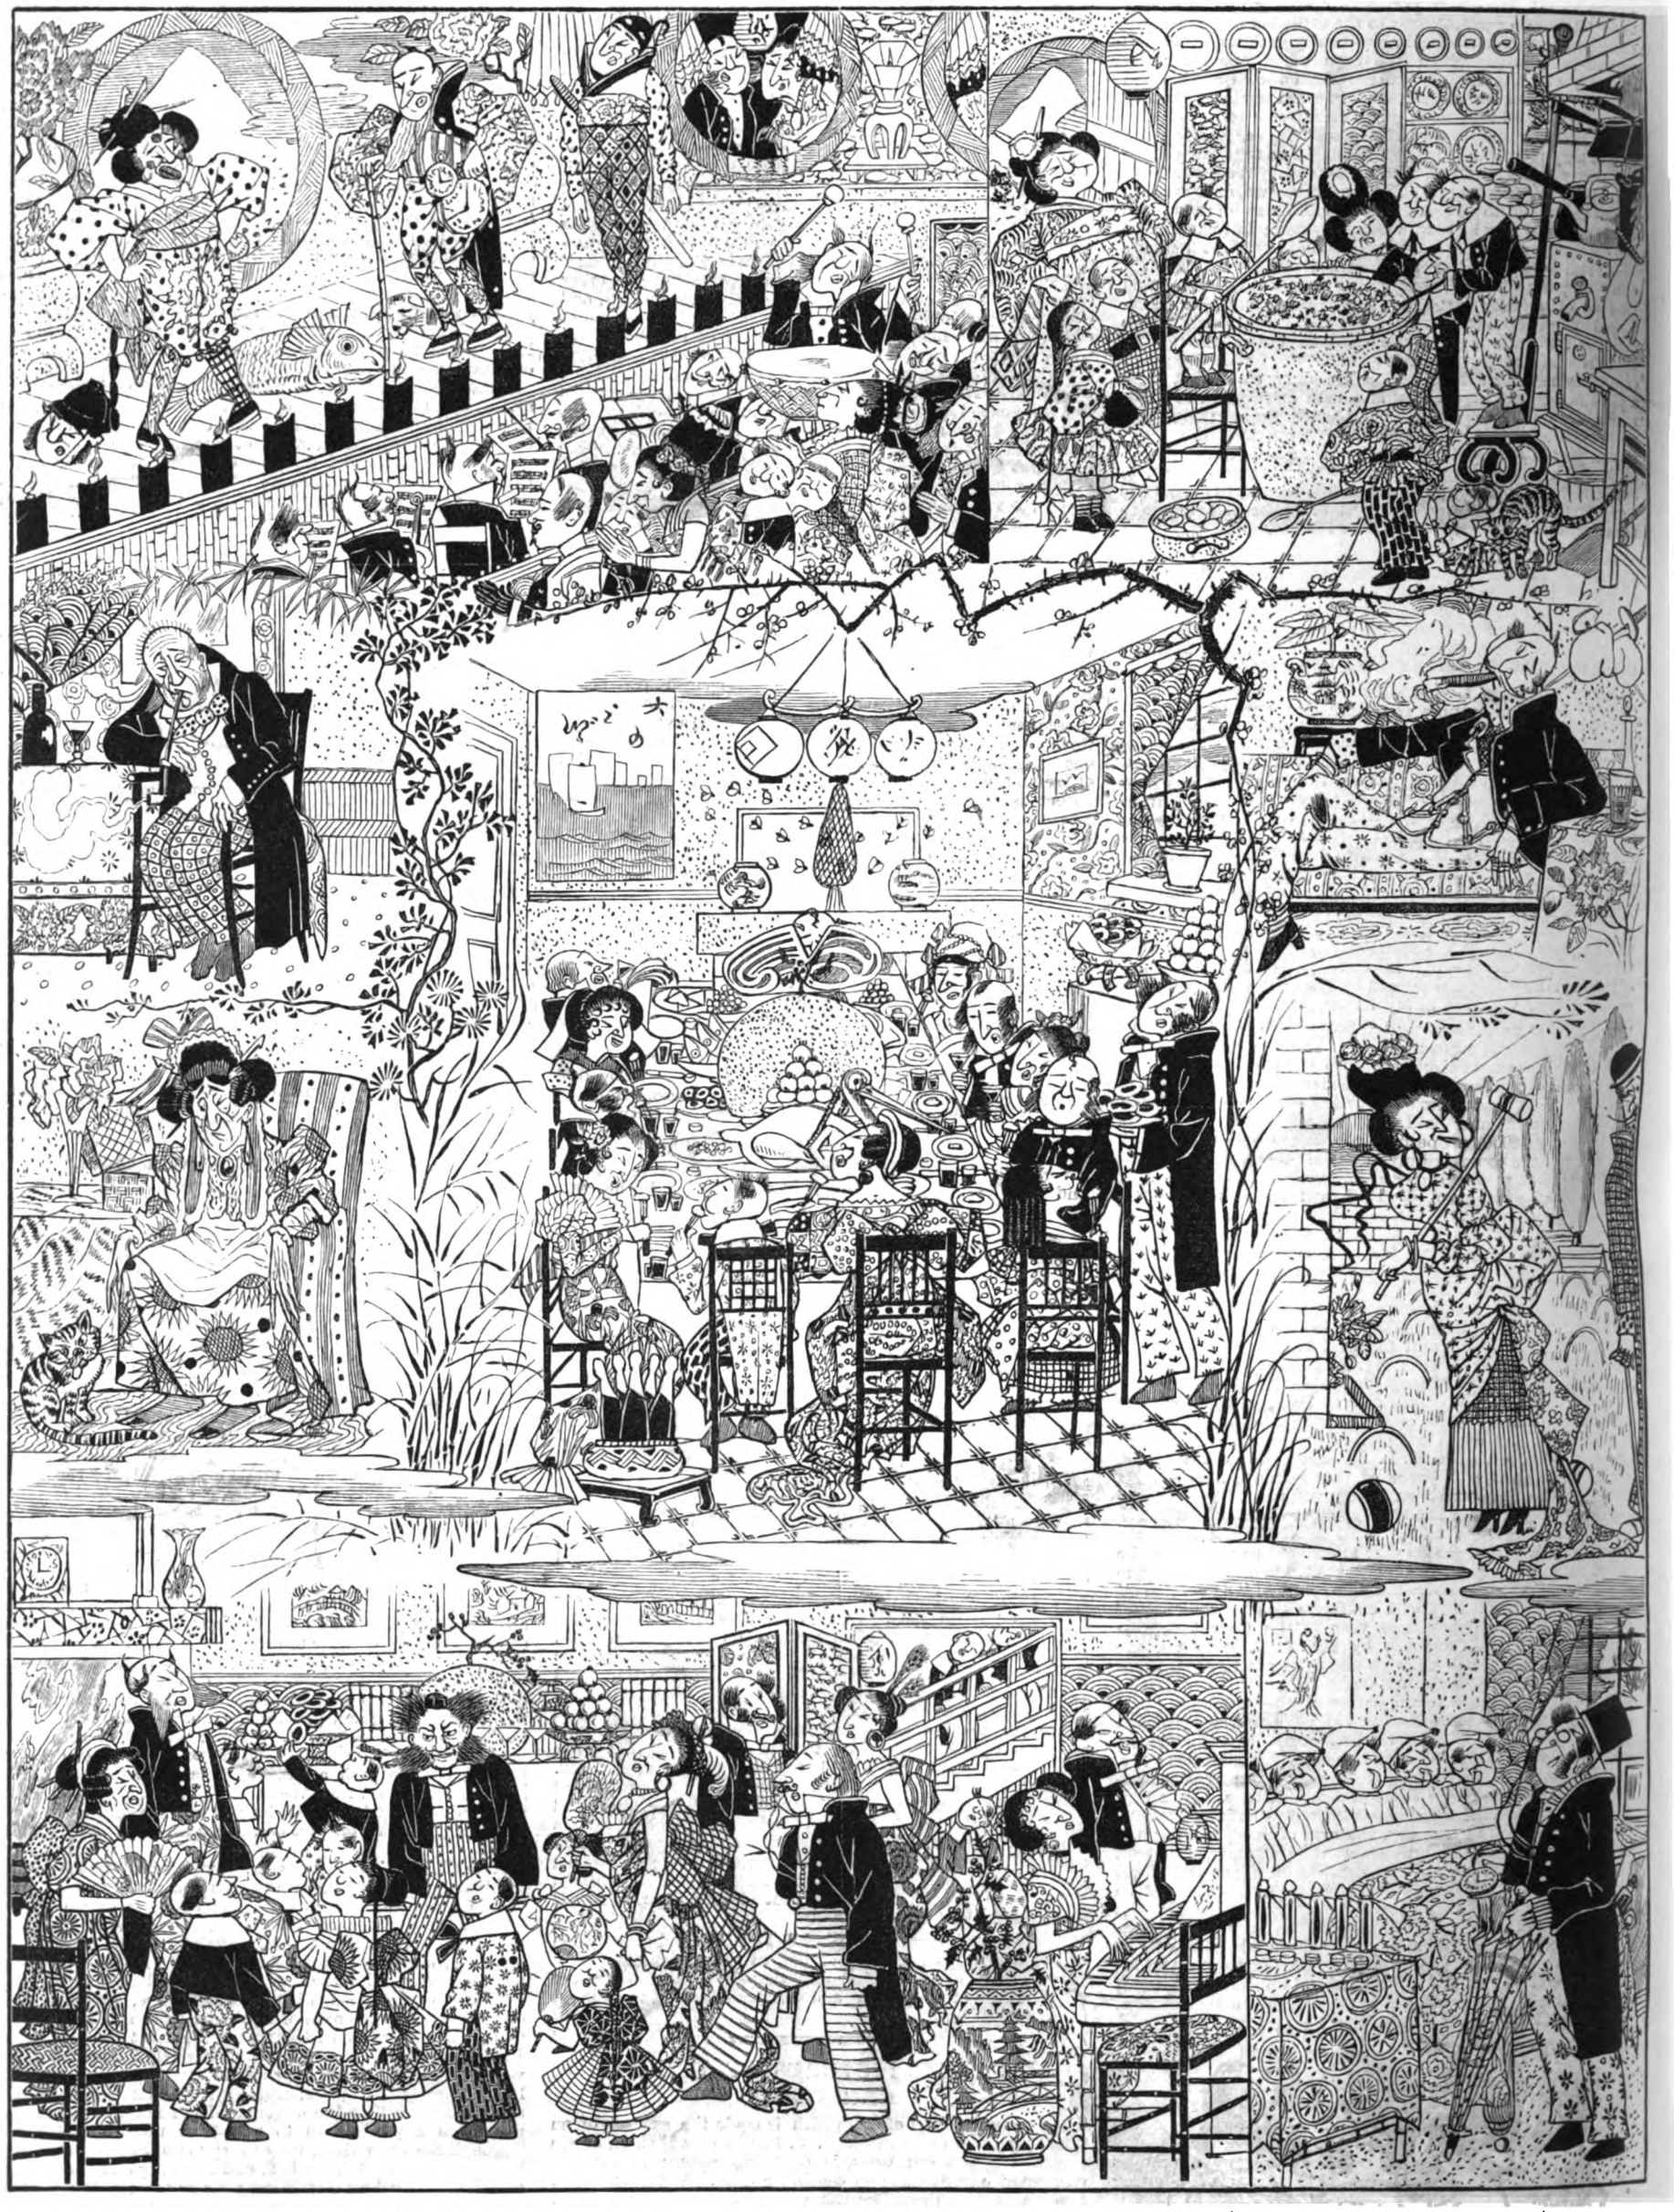
The Japanese school of art, which is made the subject of an interesting discussion in Sir E. J. Reed's new book on Japan reviewed by us last week, is especially strong in original designs of a grotesque and comical nature. We also noticed, two years ago, the delightful volume compiled by Mrs. M. Chaplin-Ayrton, called "Child-Life in Japan," which contained reproductions of many Japanese engravings, drawn in the boldest and most vigorous style, representing the favourite games and playthings of native children, and illustrating some of the popular nursery-tales that have been current through successive younger generations in that Far Eastern country. Readers of her book, which was published by Messrs. Griffith and Farran, will not fail to remember the chapter describing, in a talk between a little boy and his sister, all the holiday delights and glories of "O'Shogwats." That is the name of the Japanese yearly festival, most nearly corresponding with our English Christmas in its general acceptance as the great annual occasion for an array of ceremonial entertainments and adornments of domestic life, such as most people like to see observed in every cheerful household at least once in the twelvemonth. It is the celebration of the New Year in Japan, and several days of January are devoted to the prescribed routine of customary treats. This begins with the erection, before the gate of each house, of a sort of trophy, displaying, on a grass-rope or bamboo extended across boughs of different species of pine, certain mystic figures cut out in paper, with an allegorical lobster, oranges, fern-leaves, and seaweed, of historical or mythological significance, and other articles supposed to have the efficacy of sacred "charms." They will serve, we are told, "to bar out the nasty two-toed red, grey, and black demons, the badgers, foxes, and other evil spirits, from crossing the threshold." Among the ordinary performances of this festival is the solemn cooking and eating of some very particular rice-cakes, which are, it is said, the precise equivalent of our Christmas pudding. The boys and girls are further provided with a toy ship, called the Daikoku-jime; and a set of dolls or small images, the "Seven Lords of Wealth," embarked as passengers arriving in the "Ship of Riches," bring a fancied promise of good fortune at the commencement of the year.

Since the recent sudden and rapid increase of mercantile and social communications between England and Japan, the lively and intelligent people of that country have felt a great curiosity to learn all they can of our domestic manners, as well as of our arts and sciences, our laws and public institutions. As European fashions of dress are now worn at the Mikado's Imperial Court, and carriages like ours have begun to supersede the palanquin or "norimon" and the "jin-rik-sha," the journalists, novelists, dramatists, and popular artists of Japan frequently amuse their public with pictures of English life. A translation of passages from the travelling diary of a well-educated Japanese gentleman who lately visited England appeared the other day in one of our monthly magazines. We are not entirely prepared to give an account of the personal antecedents of "Kru-Shan-Ki," the highly original artist whose designs, intended to illustrate the English way of keeping Christmas, appear in this week's Number of our Journal. He has evidently found, somewhere or other, on opportunity of making himself acquainted with the habits of our countrymen and countrywomen at home, whose seasonable pleasures and pastimes occupy the greater part of the page filled with his characteristic drawings.

Beginning with the upper left-hand corner of the page, we perceive that he has got a tolerably good notion of a Christmas Pantomime at one of our theatres. The stage, with its row of footlights, the orchestra, pit stalls, and side-boxes, are correctly arranged; the pantomime actors, Clown, Pantaloon, and Harlequin, with some of the stage properties, a big fish, a number of stolen clocks, and the head of a decapitated policeman, are familiar to us all. The faces and gestures of the musicians, and of the critical gentlemen and ladies in the stalls, are rendered with great power of expression.

The making of the Christmas pudding, at which all the members and servants of a respectable family are supposed to give their personal assistance or superintendence, is the subject of Kru-Shan-Ki's next design. He may possibly be found in error with regard to some details of furniture and costume; but it cannot be doubted that he has actually seen an English kitchen range, with its proper utensils; though we do not see the fireplace that can admit so huge a pot; and why have these cooks forgotten to tie up their pudding in a cloth?

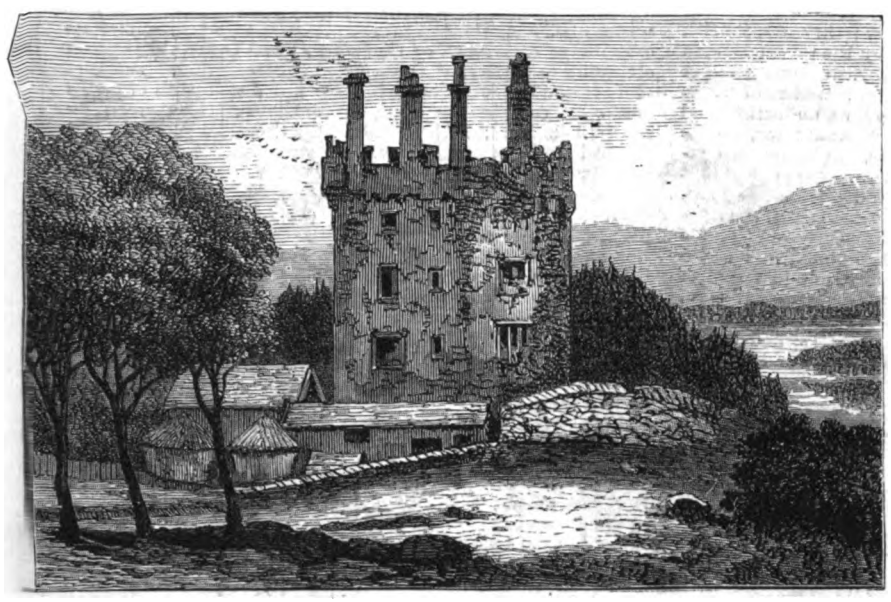
The central picture of the page shows the happy family party seated at their Christmas dinner. In the middle of the table is placed a large bird, which looks rather like a pelican, but which may be intended for a turkey or a goose. How the carver is to reach it, we have no business to ask. There is a pile of oranges, or some other large fruit, and several plates of almonds and raisins, the dessert appearing with the solid meats; and behind the mighty pudding, which must weigh about 2 cwt., adorned with its sprig of Christmas holly, we catch a glimpse of cod or salmon, which may or may not be in season at the end of December. The guests, being English, eat with knives and forks, instead of chop-sticks, and each has a big and a little tumbler, for the ale and wine. They are, one and all, making dreadful faces, as if the viands were uncommonly nasty. The Japanese may think so they are.



To the right and left of this "gay and festive cuss," as Mr. Sala's American friends would say, in the upper compartments sit two solitary old bachelors, each of whom has dined alone. One of them is staying at home, smoking a regular long clay, and sipping his pint of claret, which does not seem exactly right. The other is an aristocratic lounger, whose superfine dandyism is shown in the decorations of his person and the elegant furniture of his chambers. He has got the biggest Regalia that ever came from the port of Havannah, and its perfume and flavour have brought him into a state of ecstatic repose. Observe the fencing-foils and boxing-gloves, as well as the bowl of gold-fish, that are introduced among the cherished appurtenances of this gentleman's single blessedness. The old maiden lady with her cat, dozing away the long evening in a great wadded arm-chair, may be left to her peaceful nap. A younger damsel, but not so young as she wishes to be thought, on the opposite side, is playing croquet with a surly admirer in tartan plaid, who shows but half his face. We should like to ask Kru-Shan-Ki, if Japan were not too far off, how he can imagine that any of us in England play croquet on the garden lawn at Christmas time?

The Children's Christmas Party, which occupies the greater portion of space below, seems to us remarkably good; some of the faces are quite as English as those drawn by our London artists. There is Papa, or, it may be, Uncle, with bushy whiskers and brushy hair sticking out on each side of his head, whom we could almost swear to having met the other day going into the Temple. He is balancing the full inkstand upon the bald top of his pate, and therewith dancing a jig to the peril of his white shirt and necktie, but to the delight of the little folk. He must be their funny Uncle, not their Papa, for we observe that Mamma is not very well pleased. Grandpapa and Grandmamma, to the left hand, scarcely approve this frolic. There is flirting between a sedate couple beside the screen, and the musical lady at the piano has a polite man to turn over the leaves for her. Through the open door, we can spy two little urchins who have been sent upstairs to bed, still lingering on their way up, to enjoy the evening merriment yet a few moments longer.

Last scene of all, one that is almost tragical, brings in the pompous doctor, to give nauseous but needful physic—why not throw it to the dogs!—when the treacherous delights of feasting over-much have had their too frequent effect. The patients, all in a row, as if at the counter of a dispensary, await their turn for consultation and prescription. We are sorry they look so ill, but we hope they will soon be well.



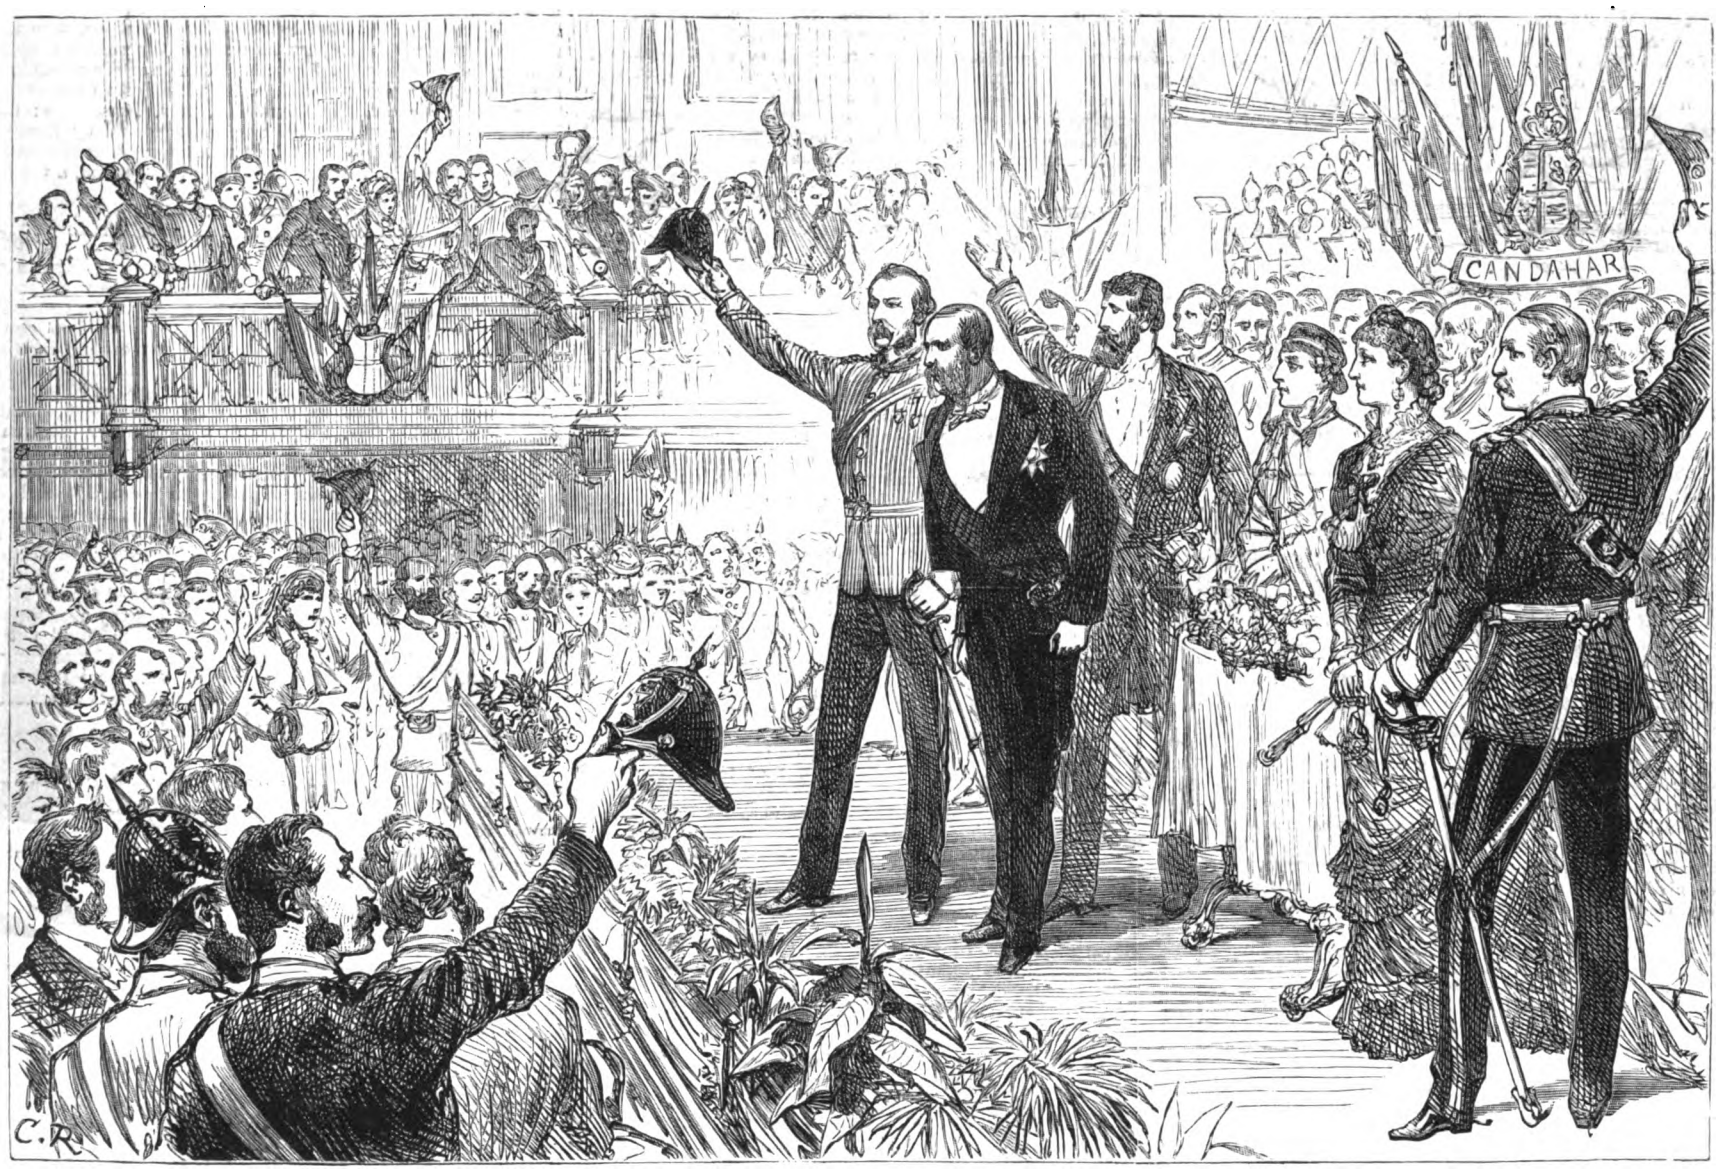
Professor E. Ray Lankester, F.R.S., gave the Monday evening lecture at the London Institution. His subject was "Growth from the Egg."

Digitized by Google

AN ENGLISH CHRISTMAS AS DEPICTED BY A JAPANESE ARTIST. DRAWN BY KRU-SHAN-KI.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

Digitized by Google

LOUGH MASK CASTLE.



DISTANT VIEW OF LOUGH MASK CASTLE.

LOUGH MASK AND CAPTAIN BOYCOTT.

We give two views of Lough Mask Castle, in Mayo, belonging to the Earl of Erne, whose resident agent, Captain Boycott, was recently exposed to the Irish Land League persecution, and was assisted by a party of volunteer labourers to get in his harvest, under the protection of a large military force. A correspondence between Captain Boycott and the Prime Minister has been published, with reference to his application to Government for pecuniary compensation, estimating his losses at not less than £6000. His personal testimony may here be given, as justifying an appeal which is now made to provide him compensation by means of a public subscription, there being no Government fund available for that purpose:—

"About thirty years ago I settled in the West of Ireland, relying upon the assurances which were then held out to all English settlers that the land laws were simplified, and that capital might be safely invested in that country. For many years I lived in the island of Achill, and after a long struggle against adverse circumstances my means improved, and, for that district, I became a prosperous man. Family circumstances placed me subsequently in possession of further capital, and I took a thirty-one years' lease of a farm at Lough Mask, in county Mayo, under Lord Erne. Subsequently I became agent for his Lordship, and a few other proprietors, and laid out the whole of my capital (amounting to £6000) on permanently improving and stocking my land. In the course of my duties as agent to Lord Erne, I was compelled to serve ejectment notices on some tenants, who could, but would not, pay their rents; and for this act I was denounced by the Land League, my farm servants were terrorized into quitting my employment, and my own life was only protected by the presence of armed policemen. It will be unnecessary for me to do more than refer to subsequent occurrences. You are, doubtless, aware that the Government dispatched into Mayo a large force of soldiers and police to protect fifty labourers from the North of Ireland, who voluntarily saved a portion of my crops. My object is to state to you my present condition. When the military were withdrawn, I was compelled to leave with them. Had I not done so, my life would not have been safe for one hour; and so great is the power of the Land League that even in Dublin the landlord of the hotel where I stopped declined to allow me to remain more than twenty-four hours in the house, as he was threatened if he ventured to harbour me. Under such circumstances, it follows that my property in Mayo is rendered utterly valueless to me. I left a caretaker on the place, but know nothing of what has since occurred. My house is full of furniture, which I cannot remove; my sheep and cattle are insufficiently tended on two of the farms, and on the others have been driven away, and the land is lying waste. Before I left, hardly a night passed without some injury being done—walls were thrown down, gates had their locks broken, and every other havoc was done which the people could commit. I learn, also, from the public prints that the hay has been carried away and made use of by those who stole it since I left my house. The circumstances which compelled me to leave Mayo prevent my return. There is an absolute absence of law there; and if I ventured back it would be to find the same system which drove me out still in force, and I should be unable to pursue my business or protect my property. Such is a plain statement of the facts, and I venture to think they entitle me to assistance at the hands of her Majesty's Government. I have been prevented from pursuing my business peaceably; where my property has not been stolen it has been maliciously wasted, and my life has been in hourly peril for many months. At length, in defiance of all law and order, I have been driven from my house, and, having done no evil, find myself a ruined man because the law, as administered, has not protected me. I am prepared to verify all my statements, and prove the extent of my losses."

The above letter, with the official reply from the First Lord of the Treasury, has been forwarded to the papers by Major-General Burnaby and Mr. W. A. Day, promoting the intended subscription. These gentlemen further observe that "statements having been circulated by the Land League that Mr. Boycott was severe to the tenants of his employers, he has been prejudiced in England by these representations. Three years ago Mr. Boycott ejected three tenants who owed seven years' rent. These men were replaced in their houses as caretakers, and have so remained ever since. With these exceptions, he never ejected a tenant. Neither did Mr. Boycott ever raise the rent of a tenant. The only instance in which the rent of any land under his charge was raised was on one estate when some tenants left, and on their leaving the land was re-let at rent offered for it by new applicants, and that rent was in excess of the sum at which the land was previously let."

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES TO THE 23RD MIDDLESEX RIFLE VOLUNTEERS: "THREE CHEERS FOR GENERAL ROBERTS!"—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

NEW BOOKS.

In these days, when the impending State prosecutions of Mr. Parnell and the other leaders of the Irish Land League engage our attention, Daniel O'Connell's trial at Dublin, with other Repeal agitators, in 1844, is naturally brought to mind. The first volume of Young Ireland, by Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, K.C.M.G. (Cassell, Petter, and Galpin), relates to the circumstances of that affair. The author, who has long resided in Australia, and has there earned high colonial distinction, was editor of the Nation at that period, and shared the trial and brief imprisonment of the great O'Connell. He afterwards continued, with Mr. Smith O'Brien and a few men of extreme views, to work the press and platform for an object far less within legitimate political endeavour than the Repeal of the Act of 1800. The silly and mischievous faction called "Young Ireland," which aimed, with little concealment of its ultimate design, to wrench away that portion of the kingdom from its allegiance to our common Sovereign, and would have converted it, apparently, into a Democratic Republic under French or American protection, met with a disgraceful failure in 1848. Its revival, by the name of "Fenianism," in 1867, with a result still more odious and contemptible, is within the memory of a younger generation. Sir C. Gavan Duffy, who underwent a second prosecution for his share in such practices, before Mr. Smith O'Brien's ridiculous military defeat at Ballingarry, has since passed a quarter of a century at the Antipodes; and this exile must be his excuse for not having yet learned enough home truth to see the folly of preaching a violent separation of these islands from each other. The alleged practicability and expediency of a system of administrative and legislative "Home Rule" for Ireland, consistent with the monarchical unity of the entire realm, would seem to be a very different question. This might very well, like O'Connell's demand for simple Repeal of the Union of the British and Irish Parliaments, be entertained without a shade of treason. O'Connell himself, after the collapse of his agitation in 1844, was inclined to look with some complacency upon the project of a sort of Federal Constitution. But Mr. Charles Duffy, as he then was, and his colleagues of the Nation, Mr. T. O. Davis, Mr. Dillon, and others, with the young men like-minded, Messrs. John Mitchel, Thomas Francis Meagher, John Martin, and Terence M'Manus, who followed the same course, were victims of a mere infatuation. They possessed considerable literary and oratorical talents, with a very small stock of political knowledge derived from books, none at all from practical experience, and the slenderest judgment that youths of liberal education, professional barristers, doctors, and journalists, could bring to the real business of life. The author of this history, though we can sympathise with his personal affection for the associates of his early years, and should respect the amiable sentiment that inspires his constant admiration of their genius and virtue, will never persuade us to believe that all his geese were swans. In short, we do not much care to hear any more about "Young Ireland;" but there is some interest in whatever throws a fresh and clear light on the conduct and opinions of Daniel O'Connell. He was not, by any means, a goose in those of his political conceptions which he really and earnestly cherished; though he was addicted to the vicious practice of sometimes putting forth, as a stalking-horse, other notions which he knew to be vain and futile. The reader may set aside, therefore, at least until we get the second volume, all that concerns the personalities of the junior branch, and its secession or excision from Conciliation Hall in 1845. We peruse the story of O'Connell's Trial, once more, with no small amount of interest, in Sir C. Gavan Duffy's animated narrative chapters. The preceding agitation, which nobody who is old enough to have then watched its daily progress can forget, had been regarded by Sir Robert Peel's Government with much greater alarm than was needful. It is certain that the vast multitudes of Irish peasantry, under the influence of the Roman Catholic parish clergy, mustered round the standard of nationality raised by O'Connell, did not mean fighting, and that O'Connell would have been the last man to think of fighting. There never was any real danger of that kind from the Repeal agitation under his management. He was by temperament and by conscientious and humane feeling, of which he had a good share, notwithstanding his lack of integrity, decidedly averse to civil war. Sir Robert Peel, incapable of appreciating the enormous reach of imaginative and emotional make-believe in the popular Irish mind, thought it necessary to menace O'Connell and Ireland with coercion by military force. This was quite uncalled for at that time, when nobody in Ireland was thinking of rebellion, conspiracy, or treason, but only of association and agitation to fill the coffers of the Repeal Managers. It threw, however, upon O'Connell's big meetings of 1843, as at Tara, at Mullaghmast, and the prohibited meeting at Clontarf, as well as upon his proposed Arbitration Courts and his Convention of Delegates, the aspect of revolutionary violence. The officials of Dublin Castle and the police and magistracy were all rather too zealous, and not too scrupulous in the conduct of the prosecution. It therefore ended in a discreditable failure: the judgment being set aside, upon sufficient legal grounds, by the House of Lords sitting as a Court of Appeal. We trust that no such exhibition of mismanagement will be made in the dealings with the Irish Land League now commenced.

Mr. W. W. Fenn, the accomplished author of a pleasant collection of short stories and sketches of social and domestic life called After Sundown, forming two volumes published by Messrs. Sampson Low and Co., is not unknown to the readers of this Journal. He was an artist, who unhappily suffered the infliction of partial blindness, but, having no slight degree of literary talent, with a bright and vivid fancy, has been enabled to exchange the use of "the palette" for that of "the pen." This alliterative combination appears on the titlepage of his present work. It is not much above a twelvemonth since he gave us an equal amount of agreeable reading, by the significant title, "Half Hours of Blind Man's Holiday," which consisted of a similar kind of brief separate papers, mostly reprinted from periodical journals. The new series is not less attractive and engaging; it will exactly meet the taste of persons who want a piece of gentle entertainment, one that is complete in itself, not a chapter of a lengthy fashionable novel, say for an hour before bed-time, perhaps over a mild cigar, to give a little easy play to brain and heart after the strain and worry of a business day. There are, in each of these volumes, about twenty papers, each averaging some thirteen pages; but a few of the tales are longer—namely, "The Riddle of the Ring," "The Gipsy Model," "Fair May of Mayfair," "River and Down," and "The Lady in the Blue Barouche," which find place in the first volume; and "The Ghost of a Chance," "A Story of Christmas Firelight," "Valentine's Vigil," "The End of a Dream," "Dorothy's Fortune," and several others, to be found in the second volume of this varied miscellany. "The Old Mill on the Marsh," as the author tells us, was not originally suggested, but was helped into more distinct pictorial descriptiveness and perception of characteristic details by the drawing which his friend and ours Mr. Samuel Read, contributed to the Black and White Exhibition of last year. We should say that no contemporary artist with whose pictures we are much acquainted makes his well-known views of antique buildings, such as the "Haunted House," "The Moated Grange," and "Woodleigh Grange" in our Christmas Number this year, more powerfully suggestive of a romantic imaginative story; they are, indeed, virtually distinct poems, only rendered by the pencil instead of by verse or prose. This is, by the way, in corroboration of Mr. Fenn's incidental testimony; but the writer of these volumes, having himself studied nature as an artist, and practised its delineation with graphic truth and force, as the painter or draughtsman must learn to do, has gained a considerable advantage in his literary vocation. It is evident that Mr. Fenn, as well as Homer, was not blind all his life long, but has seen both town and country, land and ocean, the Ring in Hyde Park, the Sussex Downs, the upper reaches of the Thames, "the Weird Woodland," "Mountains and Molehills," Dartmoor, and other British scenery, not to speak of France and Germany; besides the looks and gestures of men, women, and children, whose various dispositions he has also observed. With these materials, and those created by his own strong imagination, the blind story-teller and essayist makes very good reading.

Prose would have done quite as well as verse, and perhaps better, to tell all that is contained in Dorothy: a Country Story (C. Kegan Paul); but a tale, however slight, seems to fill a volume better and to impress both the eye and the mind more in the form of a poem. The poem is written in elegiac metre; and the story thus gains an additional peculiarity, if not an additional charm, and piques curiosity, if it does not stimulate interest. Theocritus employed hexameters for his idylls, and so did Virgil, principally if not entirely; but the anonymous author of "Dorothy" quotes them as if they had written chiefly in the elegiac metre. However, that matters little; Theocritus has left examples enough of the elegiac metre to serve as authority. And, though English elegiacs have an outlandish appearance, the anonymous author causes them to convey his meaning in a very smooth, harmonious fashion. Of course he neglects syllabic quantity, and relies entirely upon accent and emphasis; but even then, as ex. 1335, 1694, 1998, 2141, and 2163 will suffice to prove, the lines occasionally seem to halt, if conscientious pronunciation is to be attempted. Moreover, he has contrived to give to the whole poem an appropriately simple, rustic, breezy, wholesome air, redolent of rural life and manners; and, so far, he has caught the style of his classic models. Whether he has also caught their manner of investing homely scenes with poetic grace and expressing homely sentiments in poetic language is not quite so certain. Theocritus is certainly realistic; but the anonymous author carries his realism to an extent which might almost satisfy M. Zola, only that, if the diction more than seldom approximates to slang, there is not, either in diction or sentiment, anything bordering upon impropriety. Virgil sang "arms and the man;" the anonymous author sings arms and the woman, and the woman's arms are red and powerful, joining on to hands which are rough, and hard, and begrimed with toil. His heroine, in fact, is a maid of all work at a farm-house, and she is, moreover, of illegitimate birth. She is beautiful in her way, virtuous withal, and full of womanly delicacy as well as of womanly yearnings. Her roughness is all, like physical beauty, but skin deep. Of such a woman, her work, her love, and her marriage the anonymous author writes with manly appreciation. It is to be feared, however, that "for all his pains, poor man, for all his pains," he will not succeed in establishing among the men of this generation, a bangle-wearing generation, the worship of woman with large, red hands and with brawny arms, or among either men or women, however enthusiastic in the cause of women's rights, the belief that to drive the plough, to curry the horse, to work in the pit, are occupations as becoming as less healthy but more "genteel" employments for industrious members of the gentler sex. Yet to establish that worship and that belief appears to be one of his objects. It may be doubted, besides, whether his cause be so much strengthened as weakened by the paternity assigned to his heroine: it might be argued, not without some show of reason, that it was most likely the illegitimate strain of blood that redeemed her from a general coarseness in keeping with that of her hands. However, the poem, if it may be so called, is excellent reading; and equally, if not more, excellent reading is the preface.

Messrs. Vizetelly and Co. are proceeding, as rapidly, no doubt, as circumstances will permit, with their enterprise of publishing, in a very cheap form, translations of carefully selected French novels; and among the latest may be mentioned a volume containing A New Lease of Life, together with Saving a Daughter's Dowry, both from the French of Edmond About, and another volume containing Wayward Dosia, together with The Generous Diplomatist, both by Henry Gréville. A New Lease of Life, whatever may be the case with the others, had already appeared before in an English dress, but in a far less handy and more expensive form, under the title, if memory can be trusted, of "Colonel Fougas." It is, of course, a translation of M. About's extremely clever and amusing novel entitled "L'Homme à l'Oreille Cassée," and cannot fail to please all who can appreciate wit and elegance, satire and fun.

The veteran Signor Gallenga, in his South America (Chapman and Hall), a reprint from the Times, has achieved a feat memorable in the annals of newspaper correspondence. So long a journey, involving so many hardships; undertaken at such an age, and performed in so buoyant a spirit, would alone be sufficiently remarkable; but the circumstances of the expedition are almost forgotten in view of its substantial result. Short as was Signor Gallenga's stay in the countries traversed by him, his highly trained intelligence has enabled him to grasp the leading features in the political and social situation of them all; and we hardly know where to look for more luminous, and at the same time more entertaining chapters, than the review of the question between aristocracy and democracy in Chili; or his account of the stupendous engineering works on that vast but premature enterprise the Andean Railway. The book is a panorama of South America, necessarily wanting in minuteness of detail, but satisfying both the understanding and the imagination by its broad, bold presentment of facts on an ample scale.

Our Illustration of the Yorkshire College of Science, at Leeds, in last week's paper, was from drawings furnished by a local artist, Mr. Walter Braithwaite, of Leeds. The architect of the building is Mr. Alfred Waterhouse, of London.

Messrs. Tom Smith and Co., of Wilson-street, Finsbury-square, are even more successful this year than they were in previous years with their Christmas and New-Years' Crackers of various designs—Cupid's, Hymen's, Little Folks', Caricature, Society, Curios, and Crackers of Mount Olympus,—all in tastefully got-up boxes.

THE VOLUNTEERS AND GENERAL ROBERTS.

The annual prize distribution of the 23rd Middlesex Rifle Volunteers (late the 46th) took place on Tuesday evening last week at St. James's Hall in the presence of a very numerous assemblage of friends of the corps, the Countess of Lytton attending to perform the ceremony of presentation. The Earl of Lytton did not arrive until after the distribution of prizes had been completed. Upon his entrance, accompanied by Lord Chelmsford, Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts, and General Ross, the distinguished party was received with military honours. Sir Charles Russell, V.C., M.P., honorary colonel of the regiment, Major-General Burnaby, M.P., Colonel Logan, C.B., and several other officers were on the platform. The commanding officer, Lieutenant-Colonel R. Routledge, in his preliminary remarks to the regiment, said that he need not remind them that since the last distribution the number of the corps had been officially changed, and the regiment, which had been known for twenty years as the 46th Middlesex, was hereafter to be designated as the 23rd Middlesex. The change came at a very favourable time for the regiment, because at the end of the volunteer year in October it was in a more satisfactory and prosperous condition than ever it had been before. For the last three years the regiment had enrolled almost up to the maximum strength; and at the end of October last they had a strength of 788 men, against 784 at the corresponding period of last year. He was happy to say that out of the whole corps there were only seventeen non-efficients, and out of this number of men who had not conformed to the Government regulations at least one half had been unable to do so owing to illness or absence from England. Lieutenant-Colonel Routledge concluded his remarks by a reference to the Easter Monday review, the annual inspection, and other events of interest to the regiment. The Countess of Lytton then proceeded to deliver battalion and company prizes and marksmen's badges to the winners. After this ceremony, Sir C. Russell introduced Lord Lytton and General Sir F. Roberts, each of whom addressed the volunteers and other company present; the former speaking of the circumstances of the late Afghan War. Our Illustration represents the scene in the hall when the volunteers gave three cheers for General Roberts, which they did most heartily. A vote of thanks was given to the Countess of Lytton; and both her Ladyship and Mrs. Routledge were presented with medals to commemorate this interesting occasion.

THE WESTMINSTER PLAY

Rarely (says the Globe) has so large an audience been gathered within the walls of St. Peter's College dormitory at Westminster as that which assembled on Thursday week to witness the third and concluding representation of the "Andria" of Terence. The Dean of Westminster was in the chair, and was supported by Canon Liddon, Sir H. Parks, Sir Richard Harington, Sir Patrick Colquhoun, the Rev. H. S. Thompson (the reputed writer of the epilogue), the Right Hon. Hugh Childers, the Dean of Jersey, and a host of other gentlemen distinguished in the fields of theology, law, medicine, art, politics and literature. It was natural that before such an exceptional assembly the Queen's Scholars should have put forth their utmost histrionic ability, and should have endeavoured even to surpass their efforts of the previous nights. Happily for their continued success, the stress thus put upon them took a right direction, and instead of tempting them to exaggerate, induced them only to refine their respective rôles. The prologue and the epilogue again evoked the applause with which they were received on Tuesday night. The Prologue recorded the distinctions gained during the past year by old Westminsters, as well as the names of those who had been removed by death. The epilogue was, as it usually is, an Aristophanic piece of satire. Here is a brief outline of the proceedings drolly set forth, before a certain court of law, crowded with wigged and gowned advocates, witnesses, policemen, and common people. Pamphilus has been unseated on petition by the election judges, who have reported further that bribery has extensively prevailed in the constituency. Chremes, Simo, and Charinus are accordingly sent down as election commissioners, with Sosia as secretary. They hold their court and examine, first, Pamphilus; then Davus, his agent; then three persons, reported by Davus as having received bribes, namely, Crito, an ancient freeman of the city; Mysis, a married woman; and Byrrhia, a voter of the rougher order.

THE PIONEER OF CONVALESCENT HOMES.

We are continually receiving appeals for subscriptions in aid of charitable institutions, the insertion of which is prevented by the smallness of the space at our disposal. An endeavour must, however, be made to place before our readers one of exceptional claims, not only on account of its excellent management, but by reason of its having been the pioneer to the many valuable convalescent hospitals now in being. We allude to the Metropolitan Convalescent Institution, situated at Walton-on-Thames, and having a branch for children at Kingston-hill. The measure of its usefulness may be gauged from the fact that during the present year alone 3500 poor persons recovering from illness have been restored to health at this institution, each having been maintained, free of charge, about four weeks. This good work has been going on for forty years. Its sphere is now being extended by the erection, at Bexhill, near St. Leonard's, of a home for convalescents needing sea air. Donations are urgently needed for the maintenance and enlargement of this praiseworthy institution; and a Christmas-box in the shape of a cheque could not be more worthily bestowed by the benevolent than by sending it to this charity, the secretary of which, Mr. Charles Holmes, may be addressed at the office of the Metropolitan Convalescent Institution, 32, Sackville-street, Piccadilly, W.

The Christmas number of "The Theatre" (Dickens and Evans, 26, Wellington-street, Strand) contrives, as Goldsworth would say, "a double debt to pay." It is at once a holiday periodical dealing specially with the pantomime season, full of pictures, photographs, plays, and poems, and it is also the first number of what will eventually be the history of the stage for 1881. The editor, after a year's experience, has now got his team well in hand, and has been encouraged to continue a magazine whose interest and usefulness to students of the stage increase with every number published.

We have also before us "Volumes 1 and 2 of The Theatre for 1880" (Dickens and Evans, 26, Wellington-street, Strand), in which will be found, in a light, handy, and agreeable form, a record of the dramatic events of the past year, with full casts and dates of all the new plays, over a dozen admirable cabinet photographs, as well as criticisms, essays, poems, and stories by the most popular writers of the day. The magazine, therefore, passes from the chrysalis stage of a periodical and becomes a handsome book for the drawing-room table.

Digitized by Google

HOME NEWS.

The Queen has appointed Marmaduke, Lord Herries, to be Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the East Riding of the county of York, in the room of the late Lord Wenlock.

Lady Burdett-Coutts on Monday distributed the prizes to the boys and girls of the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage, at Strawberry Hill, Twickenham.

Mr. Richard Redgrave, R.A., has been named by the Queen a Companion of the Bath, in recognition of his eminent services to the Science and Art Department, South Kensington.

The Bath and West of England Society and Southern Counties Association have accepted the invitation of the Mayor and Town Council of Cardiff to hold the meeting of the society for 1882 in that town.

The Court of Common Council have voted two hundred guineas towards the Mansion House Fund on behalf of the sufferers by the Pen-y-graig Colliery explosion; the members of the Stock Exchange have transmitted subscriptions amounting to nearly £500; and the Fishmongers' Company have sent £105.

A deputation from the National Union of Elementary Teachers had an interview with Mr. Mundella last Saturday, and presented a memorial in favour of the recasting of the Education Code; while the question of pensions for aged teachers was also mentioned. Mr. Mundella promised that the representations made should have his best attention.

The Lord Mayor yesterday week remitted £500 to M. Tiza, the Minister-President of Hungary, making £1100 sent from the Mansion House in relief of the sufferers by the earthquakes at Agram. The more recent subscriptions include £105 from the Drapers' Company, £52 10s. from the Fishmongers' Company, and £151 from the members of the Stock Exchange.

Yesterday week the Earl of Dalhousie presented prizes to the students in the Dundee School of Science and Art.—Sir William Harcourt distributed the prizes at Derby School on Monday; and, in an address to the students, advocated the claims of classical learning. In the evening he presented the prizes at the local School of Art.—On the same evening Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, M.P., presented the prizes to the successful students of the School of Science and Art at Nottingham, and gave an address on the subject, tracing the progress of such schools since their practical initiation by the Prince Consort in 1851.

Mr. Morton Jones, of Carnarvon, was on Monday presented by the Mayor with a bronze medal of the Royal Humane Society, for saving a child from drowning in the Menai Straits.

Mr. Bedford has presented to the London Common Council a report of the proceedings of the City Lands Committee in regard to the Temple Bar Memorial, the cost of which is stated to be from £10,600 to £11,000.

After a good deal of opposition, the London School Board has agreed to a recommendation of the School Management Committee to appoint a French teacher in schools where French is taught as one of the specific subjects in accordance with the New Code.

Lord Derby has offered the Victoria University, Manchester, £2000 for a University scholarship, in part applied mathematics; the Cobden Club have offered a triennial prize in alternation with Oxford and Cambridge of £60 for an essay in some prescribed subject of political economy.

The committee of Lloyd's have voted the silver medal of the corporation to the executors of the late Lieutenant Heyland, R.N., of her Majesty's ship Minotaur, as they would have done to that officer had he lived, and the bronze medal of the corporation to Arthur Triggs, torpedo instructor on board the Minotaur, for their extraordinary efforts to save life at sea.

Sir John Lubbock, Bart., M.P., has been elected chairman of the general committee of the City Liberal Club.—Mr. Cropper, the Liberal candidate for Kendal, was on the 16th inst. returned by a majority of 300 votes, in opposition to Mr. Harris, the Conservative candidate, and in succession to the late Mr. Whitwell.—The trial of the Evesham election petition ended the same day, when the Judges declared that the recriminatory case had failed, and that Mr. Hartland (Conservative) was entitled to the seat, subject to a scrutiny.

A two-days' conference of Poor-law guardians was opened at Leeds on Thursday week, under the presidency of Mr. Stansfeld, M.P., who, while expressing a strong approval of the principles of local self-government, was of opinion that the central authorities ought to counsel, inform, enlighten, and guide; and he believed that the local guardians would willingly and gratefully respond to such a policy. On Friday a paper was read on the education of pauper children, and resolutions were passed in favour of the boarding-out system and the educating of workhouse children in the public elementary schools. The next conference is to be at York.

The state apartments of Windsor Castle are open for public inspection upon the usual days during the absence of the Queen and Court at Osborne.

Mr. Hercules Campbell Yates, solicitor, of Macclesfield, son of the County Court Judge, was on Monday chosen Coroner for East Cheshire.

Mr. J. P. Murphy, Q.C., of the South-Eastern Circuit, has been appointed the Third Commissioner for the ensuing Winter Assizes, and will accompany Mr. Justice Denman on the Midland Circuit.

A new school lately erected by the School Board for London in Campbell-street, Maida-vale, was opened on Monday evening by Sir Charles Reed, M.P. The school is a large one, and built in the style generally adopted by the board.

The annual meeting of the Hospital Sunday Fund was held on Monday, when it was reported that last year's collection, amounting to £30,423, was the largest ever received, while the expenses of administration had diminished.

Sir Ughtred Kay-Shuttleworth has been elected a member of the London School Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Rev. J. Rodgers; and Mr. G. H. Kenrick to fill the vacancy at the Birmingham School Board caused by the resignation of Mr. R. W. Dale.

Mr. Frederick Harrison gave the last of the seventh series of free popular lectures at the Working Men's College, Great Ormond-street, last Saturday night, taking for his subject "The Place of History in Education." The chair was taken by Mr. Vernon Lushington, Q.C.

Judgment was given on Monday in the Exchequer Division in the action "The Attorney-General v. the Edison Telephone Company." This was an information filed by the Government alleging that the defendants had infringed the monopoly of the Postmaster-General over the telegraphs, and asking that royalties should be paid for the use of telephones by public companies. The Court decided in favour of the Crown.—In order to meet the convenience of the public, the Post Office is prepared to establish in any town a system of intercommunication by means of the telephone instrument as it has hitherto, for some years, been prepared to do by means of the A B C instrument. At the same time the Post Office holds itself ready to make arrangements for the establishment or continuance of systems of intercommunication by existing private companies.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW NOVEL BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE NEW REPUBLIC."

BELGRAVIA for JANUARY contains the first parts of Three New Serials—viz.,
1. A ROMANCE OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. By W. H. Mallock, Author of "The New Republic."
2. JOSEPH'S COAT. By D. Christie Murray, Author of "A Life's Atonement." With Illustrations by Fred. Barnard.
3. ROUND ABOUT ETON AND HARROW. By Alfred Rimmer. With numerous Illustrations.

Price One Shilling, Illustrated,

BELGRAVIA for JANUARY.

CONTENTS.

Joseph's Coat. By D. Christie Murray. Illus. by F. Barnard.
Does Writing Pay? The Confessions of an Author.
"Rigged with Curses Dark." By Mrs. Alfred Hunt.
Monaco and Monte Carlo. By J. Arbuthnot Wilson.
Rambles about Eton. Illustrated by Alfred Rimmer.
Archery in Scotland. By Robert Macgregor.
A Dreadful Case. By William Jameson.
Trees in Kensington Gardens. By W. M. Williams.
A Romance of the Nineteenth Century. By W. H. Mallock.

NEW NOVEL BY JUSTIN McCARTHY.

THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for JANUARY contains the first chapters of a new novel, entitled THE COMET OF A SEASON. By Justin McCarthy, M.P., Author of "A History of Our Own Times," "Dear Lady Disdain," &c. SCIENCE NOTES. By W. Mattieu Williams, F.R.A.S., will also be continued monthly.

Price One Shilling,

THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for JANUARY.

CONTENTS.

The Comet of a Season. By Justin McCarthy, M.P.
The "Flitters" Puzzle. By Richard A. Proctor.
The Discrowned Jingo. By the Member for the Chiltern Hundreds.
On a Cattle Station. By Redspinner.
The Invincible Armada. By Alex. Charles Ewald, F.S.A.
Some Animal Biographies. By Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E.
Sir Thomas Dockwra. By Major F. Duncan.
Bella's Transcripts. By John Amphlett.
Science Notes. By W. Mattieu Williams.
Table Talk. By Sylvanus Urban.

NEW NOVELS AT EVERY LIBRARY.

A CONFIDENTIAL AGENT. By JAMES PAYN. 3 vols.
THE REBEL OF THE FAMILY. By E. LYNN LINTON. 3 vols.
QUEEN COPHETUA. By R. E. FRANCILLON. 3 vols.
THE LEADEN CASKET. By Mrs. ALFRED HUNT. 3 vols.
ELLICE QUENTIN. By JULIAN HAWTHORNE. 2 vols.

Crown 8vo cloth, extra, with 314 Illustrations, 7s. 6d.,

A TRAMP ABROAD. By MARK TWAIN, Author of "Tom Sawyer."

NEW VOLUME OF POEMS BY MR. SWINBURNE.
Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 7s.,

STUDIES IN SONG. By ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE.

Complete in 4 vols., demy 8vo, cloth extra, 12s. each,

A HISTORY OF OUR OWN TIMES. From the Accession of Queen Victoria to the General Election of 1880. By JUSTIN McCARTHY, M.P.
CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

NEW STORIES.

NOTICE.—The CORNHILL MAGAZINE for JANUARY, 1881, contains the First Parts of TWO NEW STORIES.
One entitled
A GRAPE FROM A THORN. By JAMES PAYN, Author of "Lost Sir Massingberd," "By Proxy," &c.
The other—
LOVE THE DEBT. By a New Author.
The Stories will be illustrated by Mr. Du Maurier and Mr. W. Small.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready (One Shilling), No. 253,

THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for JANUARY. With Illustrations by George du Maurier and W. Small.

CONTENTS.

A Grape from a Thorn. By James Payn. (With an Illustration.) Chap. I.—On the Road. II.—The Arrival. III.—The Ladies' Drawing-Room. IV.—A Visitor. V.—The Map of the Country.
To an Old Coat. (From Béranger.) By F. Doyle.
The Moral Element in Literature.
Vagabondage and Pedestrianism.
Fina's Aunt. Some Passages from Miss Williamson's Diary. Chapters VII.—XIII.
In the Heart of the Highlands.
Love the Debt. (With an Illustration.) Chap I.—In a Temper. II.—Revenge. III.—Rev. George Kneeshaw.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

BINDING the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.—Half-yearly Volumes bound in appropriate Covers, with gilt edges, at 5s. each, if sent carriage free with P.O. Order to LEIGHTON, SON, and HODGE, 16, New-street-square, Fleet-street. The only Binders authorised by the Proprietors.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

One Shilling; post-free, 1s. 3d.,

THE SHOWMAN'S PANORAMA.
By CODLIN and SHORT.
A Selection of the most Humorous Drawings in "The Showman," with Codlin's Comments.
Introduction by GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA.

[Mr. Sala says, in his entertaining Introduction:—"I have many a time and oft glanced with much gleeful contentment on (these) literary and graphic drolleries. . . . In surveying these waggeries I have always been struck by one of their most pleasantly characteristic features—that the 'funiments' are always devoid of the faintest spark of malice or illnature."]

Now ready.
Order of any Bookseller.
Published by THOMAS FOX.
10, Milford-lane, Strand, London, W.C.

MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE, No. 253, for JANUARY. Price 1s.

CONTENTS OF THE NUMBER.

1. The Portrait of a Lady. By Henry James, Jun. Chaps. XV.—XVIII.
2. A Study of an Old Parish Register. By the Rev. W. Benham.
3. The Mistletoe.
4. "Subscription." By the Dean of Westminster.
5. A Royal Zulu Progress over Bishopstowe. By Frances Ellen Colenso.
6. Christmas, and Ancestor Worship in the Black Mountain. By Arthur J. Evans.
7. Mopsa's Tale. By E. H. Hickey.
8. Mr. Tennyson's New Volume. By Sidney Colvin.

MACMILLAN and Co., London.

COURT NETHERLEIGH,
Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S New Illustrated SERIAL STORY, COMMENCES in the JANUARY NUMBER of
THE ARGOSY.

Now ready, the JANUARY NUMBER of Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S MAGAZINE,

THE ARGOSY.

CONTENTS.

1. Court Netherleigh: a new Illustrated Serial Story. By Mrs. Henry Wood, Author of "East Lynne." Chapter I.—Miss Margery. Chapter II.—Shot in the Leg. Chapter III.—Left to Robert. Illustrated by M. Ellen Edwards.
2. All for Love.
3. The Story of Dorothy Grape. By Johnny Ludlow.
4. In the New Forest. By Charles W. Wood. With six Illustrations.
5. Lady Ennerdale's Diamonds.
6. The Fairness of the World.
7. Madame de Staël. By Alice King.
8. Write Soon.
9. Gwen's Lover.
10. The New Year.

SIXPENCE MONTHLY.

"There is no monthly magazine which gives greater pleasure."—Oxford University Herald.
"Bright and charming."—Roath Journal.
"Best and cheapest of our magazines."—Standard.
"Replete with excellent fiction."—Welshman.
"A never-failing supply of pleasure."—Derby Mercury.
"Interesting and sparkling."—Yarmouth Gazette.
"It is safe to affirm that there is not a single story of Johnny Ludlow that will not be read with pleasure by both sexes of all ages."—Illustrated London News.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

The JANUARY NUMBER, now ready, price 6d., of SYLVIA'S HOME JOURNAL commences a NEW VOLUME, and contains the Latest Parisian Fashions, Choice Stories, &c. With the January Number is Presented Gratis, an artistic Five o'Clock Tea Cloth, with design of "The Mad Tea Party" (from "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland"), and other valuable Supplements.

London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

A NEW VOLUME OF

THE ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD JOURNAL is commenced with the JANUARY NUMBER, now ready, price 9d., containing the opening of an entirely New Series of LESSONS IN COOKERY, by MARY HOOPER: Interesting Stories, the Latest Fashions, &c. With this Number is PRESENTED, GRATIS, a Large Coloured Plate of Latest Fashions and a Cut-out Pattern of a Child's Dress.
London: WARD, LOCK, and Co., Salisbury-square, E.C.

LODGE'S PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE for 1881. Under the especial patronage of her Majesty. Corrected by the Nobility. 56th Edition. One vol., with the arms beautifully engraved, 31s. 6d., bound. [Now ready.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

PAINTING on CHINA, EARTHENWARE, &c.: Practical Lessons by Madame la Baronne DELAMARDELLE. From the French, by G. A. Bouvier. Fourth Edition, post-free, 1s. 1d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-st., W.

A CHRISTMAS VOLUME FOR ENGINE-DRIVERS, FIREMEN, AND THEIR FRIENDS.
This day, crown 8vo., 2s. cloth (postage 2d.),

ENGINE-DRIVING LIFE; or, Stirring Adventures and Incidents in the Lives of Locomotive Engine-drivers. By MICHAEL REYNOLDS, M.S.E. ("The Engine-drivers' Friend"). Author of "Locomotive Engine-driving," "Stationary Engine-driving," &c.
CROSBY LOCKWOOD and Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, London, E.C.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

DR. SMILES'S WORKS.

Now ready, Twentieth Thousand,

DUTY; With Illustrations of Courage, Patience, and Endurance. Post 8vo, 6s.

Also,

SELF-HELP; With Illustrations of Conduct and Perseverance. 6s.
CHARACTER: A Book of Noble Characteristics. 6s.
THRIFT: A Book of Domestic Counsel. 6s.
INDUSTRIAL BIOGRAPHY: Iron Workers and Tool Makers. 6s.
LIVES OF THE ENGINEERS. 5 vols., 7s. 6d. each.
THE HUGUENOTS: Their Settlements, Churches, and Industries in England and Ireland. 7s. 6d.
JOHN MURRAY, Albemarle-street.

JOHN WALKER and CO.'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Crown 8vo, Persian morocco, wood sides, price 10s. 6d.,

THE "ELSTOW" BUNYAN.

A new Edition of the "PILGRIM'S PROGRESS," with Memoir, Bibliography, Index, and numerous Original Illustrations.
The wood sides of this book are warranted made of the Old Oak taken from Elstow Church previous to restoration.
"Will form a lasting memento of the immortal dreamer."—The Bookseller.
Prospectuses may now be obtained of all Booksellers.

Crown 8vo, cloth elegant, price 5s.,

STORIES OF LONG AGO. Retold by ASCOTT R. HOPE. With a Hundred Illustrations by C. O. Murray, engraved by R. Paterson.
"Extremely interesting. . . . handsomely got up."—The Scotsman.

Super royal 8vo, cloth elegant, sunk centre, price 12s.,

ENGLISH LAKE SCENERY.

A series of twenty-four Plates in the highest style of colour-printing, from drawings by A. F. Lydon. With descriptive letterpress.
The illustrations are remarkable for the delicacy and moderation of their colouring."—The Times.
JOHN WALKER and Co.,
96, Farringdon-street, London, E.C.

CAPITAL CHRISTMAS OR NEW-YEAR'S PRESENT.

LETTS'S POPULAR ATLAS. Completion of First Series. An entirely original and complete work of Thirty-six Maps (17 by 14), printed in Colours from steel plates, with Consulting Index of 25,000 Names. The best ever published at any price. Half morocco or calf, 17s. 6d.; cloth, bevelled boards, 12s. 6d.; stiff boards, 10s. 6d. Indestructible Edition, on cloth, 31s. 6d. and 25s. respectively.
For details of every map, notices of the press, and prospectus of next year's issue, apply to any bookseller.

Now ready, 25th Edition, 8vo, cloth, pp. 1102, price 16s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Completely rearranged, revised, re-written, annotated, and brought down to the present time, with a copious introduction, by R. S. Gutteridge, M.D. The present edition contains many important new chapters and sections, with new features and matter pertaining thereto, including the specific characteristic effects of all the new American remedies, the symptoms and treatment of all general diseases, including those of women and children. Diseases of Tropical Climates are fully considered, and the volume may be pronounced of the greatest value to families, emigrants, and missionaries.
Of this work a Physician of high standing writes:—"I have gone pretty well through your Edition of Laurie's Domestic Homœopathic Medicine, and I can truly say that it is the most perfect work of its kind ever published; in fact, it is, to my mind, too good for the general public, as it enlightens them too much in the art and mystery of medicine and surgery. For young medical beginners such a work is invaluable, as it would save them a great amount of reading. It is really superior to any Domestic yet published. I have the First and Second Editions of Laurie, and your Edition only shows what the work has developed into."

Just out, Thirtieth Edition, post 8vo, cloth, price 5s.,

EPITOME OF THE ABOVE WORK.
By R. S. GUTTERIDGE, M.D.
This edition contains notices of most of the new medicines, and is brought down to the present time.
LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard; and 9, Vere-street, W.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,

DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease.
Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
G. HILL, 156, Westminster-road.

Fourth Edition, cloth, post-free, 13 stamps,

DR. BARR MEADOWS on Homœopathy.
"A clever exposé of the system."
G. HILL, 156, Westminster-road.

JUST PUBLISHED. Post-free, Two Stamps.

DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A Small Pamphlet on those distressing complaints and their complete cures. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

THE Treatment of Cancer, Tumours, and Ulcers, by CHIAN TURPENTINE, and all other Methods. Addressed to sufferers by ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Post-free, 1s.
London: WYMAN and SONS, Great Queen-street, W.C.

NAUTICAL TRAINING COLLEGE.
THE THAMES NAUTICAL TRAINING COLLEGE, H.M.S. WORCESTER, moored off Greenhithe, Kent, is managed by a Committee of London Shipowners, Merchants, and Captains.
Chairman—G. H. CHAMBERS, Esq., 4, Mincing-lane, E.C.
Vice-Chairman—W. STRANGE, Esq., 63, Fenchurch-street, E.C.
Treasurer—THOS. DANIEL HILL, Esq., 4, Mincing-lane, E.C.
Youths from 11 to 13½ years of age, intended for the sea, are received on board, and especially educated for a sea-faring life. The annual terms in the Upper School for Cadets, from 13 to 15, Forty-five Guineas, with a charge to each of Ten Guineas for uniform, medical attendance, washing, &c. Lower School for Cadets from 11 to 13, Forty-five Guineas, with a charge to each of Ten Guineas for uniform, medical attendance, washing, &c.
Forms and Prospectuses may be obtained on application to
W. M. BULLIVANT, Hon. Sec.,
72, Mark-lane, London, E.C.

SCHOOL-SHIP CONWAY, LIVERPOOL.
Established for training Young Gentlemen for Officers in the Mercantile Marine. Terms, 50 guineas per annum, including uniform and all other extras. The Sons of Members of the Mercantile Marine Service Association, and of Officers of the Navy are received at the reduced rate of 40 guineas. Age for admission 12 to 16. Quarter days: Feb. 1, April 10, Aug. 1, and Oct. 10. Apply to Captain E. B. H. FRANKLIN, R.N., Rock Ferry, Birkenhead.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1881.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £550,000.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and eighty-two other towns and places throughout the Colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHARLES FRODSHAM and CO.
By Appointment to her Majesty. THREE GOLD MEDALS for CLOCKS and WATCHES.
Only Address, 84, Strand, London, W.C.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES.
SPECIALITE REPEATERS, CHRONOGRAPHS, &c.
Special Workmen for Repairs.
London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of 18-carat, accurate time-keepers, full jewelled. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

DIAMONDS.
SAPPHIRES.
CATS'-EYES.
OPALS.
EMERALDS.

Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

Digitized by Google

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera, by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

VOCAL SCORE	.. ..	5s.
PIANOFORTE SOLO (arranged by Berthold Tours)	.. ..	2s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE WALTZ	.. .. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE LANCERS	.. .. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE QUADRILLE	.. .. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE POLKA	.. .. D'Albert	4s.
PIRATES OF PENZANCE GALOP	.. .. D'Albert	4s.
KUHE'S FANTASIA	.. ..	4s.
BOYTON SMITH'S FANTASIA	.. ..	4s.
SMALLWOOD'S THREE EASY FANTASIAS	.. .. each	3s.
THE POLICEMAN'S SONG AND CHORUS	.. ..	4s.
I AM A PIRATE KING	.. ..	4s.
THE MODERN MAJOR-GENERAL	.. ..	4s.
POOR WANDERING ONE	.. ..	4s.
AH! LEAVE ME NOT TO PINE ALONE, DUET	.. ..	4s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

Vocal Score	.. ..	8s. net.
Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture and Songs	.. ..	4s. "
Pianoforte Solo	.. .. 2s. 6d.	"
Olivette Lancers. D'Albert	.. ..	2s. "
Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert	.. ..	2s. "
Olivette Waltz. D'Albert	.. ..	2s. "
Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert	.. ..	2s. "
Olivette Polka. D'Albert	.. ..	2s. "
Torpedo Galop. D'Albert	.. ..	2s. "
Torpedo Song	.. ..	2s. "
Sob Song. Sung by Miss St. John	.. ..	2s. "
Romance—"Nearest and Dearest"	.. ..	2s. "
Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs. Solo or Duet	.. ..	2s. "

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti	2s. 0d. net
PORTIA WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

JANOTHA'S GAVOTTE. Played by Mdlle. Janotha at the Saturday Popular Concerts. Price 2s. net.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready.

CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES. Volume II., handsomely bound in cloth and gold. Price 10s. 6d. net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs.; Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these Instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.

Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street. City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.

THE LATEST SUCCESS.

BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.

VOCAL SCORE .. .. 6s. net.

SONGS.

ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition)	2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition)	2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER	2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE	1s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net. Ready shortly.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY (Illustrated)	1s. 6d. net.
WINTER EVERGREENS. S. GLOVER	2s. net.
WELCOME MERRY CHRISTMAS. GREENLAND	1s. 6d. net.
WHILE THE CHRISTMAS LOG IS BURNING (Illustrated)	1s. 6d. net.
SIMON THE CELLARER. J. L. HATTON. 50th Edition	2s. net.
THREE JOLLY BRITONS. G. WARE. The new National Song to be sung in all the leading Pantomimes	1s. 6d. net.

THE CHRISTMAS QUADRILLES. By HENRY FARMER. "Has become a general favourite with the young folks, being expressly arranged for small hands." Solo, 1s. net; Duet, 1s. 6d. net.

WINTER EVERGREENS. CHRISTMAS FANTASIA. Introducing a number of seasonable melodies and popular Airs by A. GRENVILLE. Beautifully illustrated. Price 2s. net.

VIOLIN DANCES. Containing all the popular Dances from "Les Cloches de Corneville," together with the favourite compositions of Henry Farmer, C. H. R. Marriott, &c. "Will find a ready welcome from all at this season." Price 1s. 6d. net.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 1000th Edition. 4s.

"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

SUNG BY MISS AGNES LARKCOM.

COME IN AND SHUT THE DOOR. Music by J. G. CALLCOTT. In E flat, Soprano; in C, Mezzo-Soprano. 2s. net.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published, a New Volume of

MODERN BALLADS. Price 2s. 6d., paper cover; 4s., cloth, gilt edges. Containing Fifty Songs and Ballads by the most eminent living composers.

The volume includes the following favourite songs, in addition to a number never before published:—"She wandered down the mountain side," "It was a dream," "Then and Now," "The Fisher," "Who shall be fairest?" "Birds in the night," "As you like it," "He doesn't love me," "Old Cottage Clock," &c.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS IN MUSIC.

THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS. Handsomely bound in cloth, gilt edges, price 4s. each. Now ready.

SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.	BEETHOVEN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF SCOTLAND.	MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF IRELAND.	SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
SONGS OF WALES.	SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF FRANCE.	RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
SONGS OF GERMANY.	RUBINSTEIN'S DUETS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS.	DUETS FOR LADIES.
SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. 2 vols.	SACRED SONGS.
	HUMOROUS SONGS.

Also, THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone. Price 7s. 6d. each, handsomely bound, gilt edges.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

POPULAR WALTZES.

ANTOINETTE WALTZ	C. Coote, Jun.
GOOD COMPANY WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
OLIVIA WALTZ	Marriott.
BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ	A. Lamothe.
NANCY LEE WALTZ	Loffler.

All on popular ballads. Price 2s. each net.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BABY AND THE FLY. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling. 2s. net.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

A SUMMER SHOWER. By the Composer of "Twickenham Ferry." Sung by Miss Mary Davies at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.

BOOSEY and Co, 295, Regent-street.

THE KERRY DANCE. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Sherrington. 13th Thousand.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE MIDSHIPMITE. By STEPHEN ADAMS. Sung by Mr. Maybrick. 30th Thousand. 2s.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES.—A most extensive Stock, Upright and Grand, by all the great Makers, English and Foreign, including Pianettes, at 20 gs.; Over-Strung Pianinos, at 40 gs.; and short Iron Grands, at 60 gs., for Hire or for Purchase, either upon the Three-Years' System or for Cash with liberal Discount.—295, Regent-street.

PRATTEN'S PERFECTED FLUTES, Cylinder and Cone, commencing at 4 gs. The Siccama Flute and the Boehm Old and New system of Fingering. Particulars of all these Instruments upon application to the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street, W.

THE MUSICAL ÆSOP. By TALBOT EBLE. Fables in Prose and Verse, Song and Chorus, with connecting Story, forming a Drawing-room Entertainment for Children. Price 1s.—WEEKES and Co., Hanover-street, W.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.

Section I.—No. 1, Pianoforte Tutor. Also 67 Numbers of CHARLES HALLE'S MUSICAL LIBRARY are now ready. Catalogues and all particulars may be had from

FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

STEPHEN HELLER'S LAST PUBLICATION.

FIFTEEN MELODIES OF SCHUBERT. Transcribed for the Pianoforte.

Charming short pieces, specially adapted for teaching. Price 2s. each; or, handsomely bound, 15s. net.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, Sole Agents for the Dominion Organ Company, Canada. New Organ, "PRINCESS LOUISE," the best and cheapest 25 Guinea Organ in the Trade.

Sole Agents for the United Kingdom, FORSYTH BROTHERS, Manchester and London.

POPULAR PIANOFORTE COMPOSITIONS. By FREDERIC N. LOHR.

FLEUR-DE-LIS. A Mazurka de Salon. Price 4s. (Second Thousand).
GAVOTTE in G. Price 3s.
MAUD. A Romance. Price 3s.
TWILIGHT. An Idyll. Price 3s.

FORSYTH Bros., 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

Now ready,

THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST ("L'Enfance du Christ"). By BERLIOZ.

Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Hallé. Price 5s. net, paper; 7s. net, bound.

FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

CIRO PINSUTI'S LATEST SUCCESSES.

The Bugler, in D, F, and G.
The Linnet's Answer, E and G.
Good Speed and Welcome, F and G.
In the Sweet of the Year, G and B.
Post-free, 2s. each net.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

ONE MORN IN MAY. New Waltz Song. By A. REICHARDT. Composer of "Love's Request," &c. Sung by Miss Annie Marriott. "Singularly bright and sparkling, and the accompaniment, simple though it be, is scientifically and harmoniously written."—Lloyd's News. Also, by the same Composer, GENTLE SWALLOW. 2s. each, post-free.—MARRIOTT and WILLIAMS, 313, Oxford-street, London.

SECONDHAND PIANO SALE.—PIANOS, £15; Broadwood Pianos, £26; Erard Pianos, £25; Collard Pianos, £28; Harmoniums, £5; American Organs, £10. THOMAS OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE.—Purchasers who can pay cash will do well to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of obtaining thoroughly good instruments at extraordinary low prices.

BROADWOOD PIANOS, 24 guineas. Full compass Pianofortes, in handsome cases, good condition, fine tone, at above moderate price, for cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

COLLARD PIANOS, 28 guineas. Full-compass COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fine full, rich tone, perfect condition. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Madame Tussaud's).

ERARD PIANOS, 38 guineas, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Trichord COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, in handsome ebonised and gilt cases, fine full, powerful tone. Cash only. At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

PIANOFORTE SALE. — The PIANOFORTE HIRE and THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM BUSINESS carried on as usual during the sale.—THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., opposite Madame Tussaud's.

PLEYEL, WOLFF, and CO.'S PIANOS. EVERY DESCRIPTION of these CELEBRATED PIANOS for SALE or HIRE. Special Models in Louis XVI. Style. 170, NEW BOND-STREET, W.

NEW MUSIC.

J. B. CRAMER and CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

OPERETTAS SUITABLE for PRIVATE THEATRICALS:—

The Sleeping Queen	.. .. Balfe	.. net 2s. 6d.
The Magic Melody	.. .. Offenbach	.. " 2s. 6d.
The Barber of Bath	.. .. Offenbach	.. " 1s. 0d.
The Crimson Scarf	.. .. Legouix	.. " 2s. 6d.
Up the River	.. .. Hervé	.. " 1s. 0d.
My New Maid	.. .. Lecocq	.. " 1s. 0d.
The Sea Nymphs	.. .. Lecocq	.. " 2s. 6d.
Fashion	.. .. W. C. Levey	.. " 2s. 0d.

Each complete with Dialogue. Further particulars on application.—J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent-street, W.

MADAME FAVART. OFFENBACH'S very successful Comic Opera.

Complete Vocal Score	.. .. 8s. 0d. net.
Piano Score	.. .. 2s. 6d. "
Quadrilles, Lancers, Waltzes, and Polka, each	.. 2s. 0d. "

Piano Solos and Duet. H. Parker. Each 2s.

LA FILLE DU TAMBOUR MAJOR. OFFENBACH'S Popular Comic Opera. Now performing at the Alhambra.

Complete Vocal Score	.. .. 8s. 0d. net.
Piano Score	.. .. 2s. 6d. "
Quadrilles, Lancers, Waltzes, Galop, and Polka, each	2s. 0d. "

Piano Solos and Duet. H. Parker. Each 2s.

LES MOUSQUETAIRES. Comic Opera. By LOUIS VARNEY (Now performing at the Globe).

Complete Vocal Score	.. .. 8s. 0d. net.
Piano	.. .. 2s. 6d. "
Quadrilles, Waltzes, Galop, and Polka	.. each 2s. 0d. "

Piano Solo, B. Vilbac; Piano Duet, H. Parker, each 2s. 0d. "

THE CAPTIVE AND THE BIRD. Song. By PLANQUETTE; Words by H. B. Farnie. Sung by Mr. F. H. Celli, and always redemanded. Published in F, G, and A flat. Also for the Pianoforte, a brilliant but not difficult arrangement, by Henry Parker. Each Edition, post-free, 2s. net. J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent-street, W.

THE DREAM QUEEN Cantata for Female Voices. Composed by ODOARDO BARRI. This charming work, for three principals and chorus, from its easy vocal range, and yet dramatic treatment, is suitable alike to school or public performance, and is certain to become popular. Vocal Score complete, with argument. Price 3s. net.

CAROLINE LOWTHIAN'S NEW DANCE MUSIC.

Marguerite Waltz	.. .. .. net 2s.
The Old Love and the New Waltz	.. .. .. " 2s.
Vanity Fair Polka	.. .. .. " 2s.

Beautifully Illustrated Titles. Post-free.

COQUETTERIEN POLKA. By MAX FRUHLING. Easy, very melodious, and well marked for dancing. "The polka of the season; no ball programme should be without it."—Review. Beautifully Illustrated. Post-free, 2s. net.

NEWEST AND MOST POPULAR SONGS.

Across the River. In D and F	..	Henry Parker .. net 2s.
Autumn	.. .. ..	King Hall .. .. " 2s.
Better than Gold	.. .. ..	C. Pinsuti .. .. " 2s.
Close to the Threshold. In G and B flat	.. ..	Henry Parker .. " 2s.
Haymaking. In F and G	.. ..	Michael Watson .. " 2s.
He went away in Spring. In E flat and G	.. ..	A. Scott Gatty .. " 2s.
Life's Uphill. In F and G	.. ..	A. Scott Gatty .. " 2s.
Moss Rose	.. .. ..	King Hall .. .. " 2s.
My Treasures. In F and G	.. ..	Henry Parker .. " 2s.
Rest. In E flat, F, and G	.. ..	C. H. R. Marriott .. " 2s.
Rita	.. .. ..	C. H. R. Marriott .. " 2s.
Rivals. In G and B flat	.. ..	J. L. Roeckel .. " 2s.
Second to None	.. .. ..	F. Campana .. .. " 2s.
In the Golden Eventide	.. ..	C. Pinsuti .. .. " 2s.
Homeward Bound	.. .. ..	Stephen Jarvis .. " 2s.
My Little Sweetheart. In D, F, and G	.. ..	Odoardo Barri .. " 2s.
Smuggler, The	.. .. ..	F. Campana .. .. " 2s.
Story by the stream. In F and A flat	..	J. L. Roeckel .. " 2s.
Who Cares?	.. .. ..	A. L. Mora .. .. " 2s.

CAROLS and HYMNS for the SEASON. Thirty of the Best and most Popular, post-free, 1s. 1d. In elegant paper cover, price 1s. net. In cloth boards, price 2s. net.; post-free, 2s. 2d. J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from Steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 46 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for JANUARY contains: Mr. Pepys, the Musician, by Dr. Hueffer—The Father of the Symphony—The Great Composers: Schubert—Musical Changes, by H. C. Lunn—The Leeds Festival Surplus—Crystal Palace, Monday Popular, and Brighton Aquarium Concerts—Reviews, Occasional Notes, Foreign and Country News, Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d.; annual subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for JANUARY contains: "The Watchword," a new Part Song, by CIRO PINSUTI. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO, EWER, and CO.'S LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR PRESENTS and SCHOOL PRIZES.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS. New and Old. Words edited by the Rev. H. R. Bramley, M.A., and s. d.
J. Stainer. Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound. Cloth, gilt 7 6
Ditto, ditto. Library edition, complete, demy 8vo, with long historical preface, half roxburgh binding .. 7 6
Carols for Christmastide for Little Singers. By George Fox. Illustrated cover and title 2 6

SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS. Words by Frances Ridley Havergal; Music by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. Illustrated, cloth, gilt, 5s.; paper cover 2 6

THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG. A Collection of Sacred and Moral Songs, with original Music by the most eminent English composers. With 46 Illustrations, handsomely bound 7 6

NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS. By J. W. ELLIOTT. With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound. Cloth, gilt 7 6
THE CHRISTMAS BOOK OF LITTLE SONGS FOR YOUNG SINGERS. By J. F. LORRAINE. Handsomely bound 5 0

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

GREAT SALE OF MUSIC.—MUSIC THREE PENCE in SHILLING below half price. All Publishers' Music. 4s. Song or Piece for 1s. 6d.; 3s. ditto, 1s. 2d. 50,000 Pieces of Music at One Sixth Market Price. POULTRY MUSIC STORE, 36, Poultry, E.C.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS' IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS. "The best and most substantial instrument produced." 3 and 4, PRINCES-STREET, OXFORD-STREET, W.

METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, GREAT MARLBOROUGH-STREET, LONDON, W.

HIGHEST AWARDS AT ALL EXHIBITIONS.

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST AMERICAN ORGANS by MASON and HAMLIN. "Economy Organ," with one set of reeds and knee swell, having beautiful Organ tone, and in an elegant Walnut Case (Style 139). PRICE 8 GUINEAS. Testimonial from "Dr. Stainer."

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS. "Cathedral Organ," with 8 stops and knee swell; including two octave couplers, echo stops, in beautiful Walnut Case (Style 168). PRICE 25 GUINEAS. Testimonial from "Ch. Gounod."

AMERICAN ORGANS by MASON and HAMLIN. "Universal Organ," with 13 stops and knee swell. New tone stops, Oboe Dulciana, Clarabella, Vox Celeste, Vox Humana, &c. (Style 268). PRICE 35 GUINEAS. Testimonial from "The Abbé Liszt."

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS. "Combination Organ," with Octave Coupler, Sub Bass, and two and a half complete Sets of Reeds. In elegant case of new design. PRICE 55 GUINEAS. Testimonial from "Sir Julius Benedict."

AMERICAN ORGANS by MASON and HAMLIN. "Chancel Organ," with new Venetian swells, 12 stops, and having a very powerful tone. In new design of case, containing music cupboards. PRICE 75 GUINEAS. Testimonials from 1000 Musicians.

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS. New Drawing-room Models in elegant cases. New Church Models, with Organ Pedals. New Combination Models, with Two Rows of Keys. New Indian Models for hot climates. Prices from 8 to 300 Guineas. On Hire from Ten Shillings a Month. On the Three-Years' System, from One Guinea per Quarter. New Illustrated Catalogue post-free. May be had of all the principal Musicsellers in the United Kingdom.

METZLER and CO.'S MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS of every description. Pianofortes by the best Makers, Harmoniums, Violins, Cornets, Musical Boxes, Digit-oriums, &c. Estimates given for Brass, Drum and Fife, and Military Bands. Liberal discount for cash. Illustrated Catalogue post-free.

METZLER and CO.'S TOY INSTRUMENTS. The only complete Sets to be obtained in this country. Used in St. James's Hall, before the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Royal Family, by the following eminent musicians:—Sir Julius Benedict, Charles Hallé, A. Randegger, J. Blumenthal, Arthur Sullivan, Dr. Stainer, Arthur Chappell, J. Barnby, and others. Also used at the Promenade Concerts, Covent Garden, and at the Crystal Palace. PRICE 2 GUINEAS. The Instruments are complete, and perfectly tuned. Just published, New Edition of ROMBERG'S TOY SYMPHONY, for the Pianoforte and Toy Instruments. Price 2s. 6d. net.

Book II. now ready.

LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES. By ALFRED SCOTT GATTY. Words and Music complete, with Illustrated Cover, price 2s. 6d. net. Ditto, ditto, handsomely bound in cloth, price 4s. net. Now ready, Book II., with numerous Illustrations, specially drawn by Mrs. John Collier, and dedicated to the Hon. Welmi Rydell-Bouverie. Price 2s. net.

MUSIC for CHRISTMAS. METZLER and CO.'S NEW LIST. Now ready. CHRISTMAS ALBUM of DANCE MUSIC, containing "Carmen" Singing Quadrille, Tout à la Joie Polka, two New Waltzes by Emile Waldteufel, Polkas, Quadrille, and selection of Country Dances, &c. Post-free, 13 stamps. CHRISTMAS ALBUM of DANCE MUSIC, containing "H.M.S. Pinafore" Singing Quadrille, a selection of Waltzes, Polkas, Lancers, Galops, &c., by Waldteufel, Lamothe, Godfrey, and Gaston de Lille. Post-free, 13 stamps. Violin or Cornet Accompaniments to either of the above. Post-free, 7 stamps.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

The Lovers' Waltz. By Ch. D'Albert.
Liebe und Hoffnung Waltz. By B. Herzen.
Blitz-Rata Polka. By J. M. Coward.
John Peel Polka. By J. M. Coward.
Old Blue Polka. By L. Owen.
Garden Party Polka. By Ch. Godfrey.
Carmen Lancers. By Ch. Godfrey.
Lawn Tennis Galop. By E. Simmons.
Robert the Devil Galop. By Ch. Godfrey.

Post-free, 24 stamps each.

THE UNFINISHED SONG. By FRED. H. COWEN and F. E. WEATHERLY. Sung by Miss Orridge with the greatest success. In two keys, E and G. Post-free, 24 stamps each.

THE CHORISTER. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN and F. E. WEATHERLY. Sung with the greatest success by Antoinette Sterling. In two keys, E and G. Post-free, 24 stamps.

JESSIE. By FRED. H. COWEN. Sung in St. James's Hall by Edward Lloyd. In two keys, B flat and G. Post-free, 24 stamps.

THE CLANG OF THE WOODEN SHOON. By MOLLOY. Sung by Antoinette Sterling with the greatest success at the Ballad Concerts. In four keys, C, D, E, and G. Post-free, 24 stamps.

DRUM AND FIFE. By ZUCCARDI and MARY MARK LEMON, and sung with enormous success by Barrington Foote. Compass B flat to E flat. Post-free, 24 stamps.

Now ready,

THE LANGUAGE OF THE FLOWERS. Suite de Ballet. By F. H. COWEN. Performed in St. James's Hall with the greatest success. Arrangement by the composer, for pianoforte solo, complete, 4s. net; Separate numbers (1 to 6) 2s. each net.

METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, GREAT MARLBOROUGH-STREET, LONDON, W.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1880.

Digitized by Google

Old Couple at Cross-a-Kial Co West Meath

Murder Memorial. West Meath

On the Bridge Mullingar.

Grocery Store, Cross-a-Kial West Meath

IRISH SKETCHES.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Digitized by Google

THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

The reign of terror prevailing in many parts of Ireland from the effect of this agitation continues to extend and to become more intense from day to day. Fresh instances are everywhere reported of the systematic intimidation of persons belonging to different classes connected with agriculture, agents, bailiffs, farmers, cattle-dealers, and country tradesmen; and not only these, but the managers of public conveyances are forbidden to serve the needs of landowners placed under the ban of the League. There is, on the other hand, rather a decrease in the number of violent outrages on persons, and acts of malicious damage to cattle and other property, since public indignation has been aroused so generally against those atrocious crimes. The state of the country is, perhaps, not less alarming, for the influence of the Land League now appears so great as to supersede the ordinary functions of law and government. The Executive Council of the League has just issued a circular of instructions to its agents, which expresses a tardy disapproval of such practices as sending threatening letters, maiming cattle, and other monstrous acts, that must rather "alienate the sympathy of outside observers."

It is unfortunate that, notwithstanding these commendable professions, the Land League agitation is still attended with terribly frequent instances of wicked acts of wilful injury, sometimes of extreme cruelty, as well as the unjust and dishonest repudiation of rent. A few days ago a nocturnal outrage was perpetrated at Oory, on the property of Mr. H. O. Browne, of Balla. A man named Boyle and his wife were taken out of their beds, dragged along the road, and their hair was cropped off by a large party of men. The only cause assigned is that Boyle pointed out the different holdings on the estate to Mr. Routledge, the agent, after being previously threatened. One night last week a serious riot took place at Irishtown, four miles from Claremorris, and seven from Tuam. A number of persons attempted forcibly to enter a farm from which the tenant had been evicted, but were opposed by the police. They, however, persisted in their attempt, and attacked the constabulary, who immediately fired on them, wounding four, and two were arrested. Another night, an armed party of men with blackened faces visited the houses of several farmers on an estate near Kilmabogue, and threatened them with death if they paid more than Griffith's valuation. Shots were fired outside three houses. A Dublin merchant has been summoned before the Clare Central Land League at its next sitting to answer for a harsh case of eviction that occurred on his property in September, 1879. Failing to do so, it has been signified to him that effectual means will be taken to "Boycott" himself and his farm. At the Tuam Sessions the solicitor for two men who had claims for compensation for malicious injuries declared that they would forfeit their right to any compensation, as, owing to the great intimidation and terrorism that prevailed, they could not go on with their application in the face of the public disapprobation. They renounced their legal and just claim to large compensation sums. At Waterford Mr. Justice Barry delivered judgment in the application made on behalf of the Crown that the New Ross murder case might be postponed, as it was believed Land League influence had been brought to bear on the jury. His Lordship granted the application. These are but some of the more recent tokens of the disturbed condition of the country. At the Cork Assizes a number of persons charged with being concerned in the Moybella outrage, in the county of Kerry, were acquitted and discharged. It was alleged that the accused formed part of an armed band who attacked the house of two brothers named Horgan and beat them, in consequence of an eviction having taken place. The defence raised was an alibi. At the same assizes the trial of Mr. Healy, M.P., and Mr. Walsh took place before Mr. Justice Fitzgerald. They were charged with attempting to intimidate a farmer, named Manning, near Bantry, to give up possession of a holding, from which a former tenant had been evicted. Manning, however, declared now at the trial that it was advice, and not menace, which was used towards him. The jury, after an hour's deliberation, acquitted the prisoners. In another case, William Riordan, a tenant-farmer, was convicted of taking forcible possession of a farm. The defence was that he was put on the land by an armed party, who made him swear not to surrender the farm. Sentence was postponed. Nine persons, charged with riotous assembling and assaulting a sub-sheriff of county Tipperary while he was engaged in effecting an eviction, were found guilty at the Waterford Assizes.

Attention has been directed to the case of Mr. W. Bence Jones, an English gentleman owning large property at Lisselane, in County Cork, and residing there some time every year. He is a liberal and improving landlord, who never had any disputes with his tenants, but he had written some letters and magazine articles upon the Land League, and was consequently "Boycotted," or excommunicated, by the agency of that association. Last week Mr. Bence Jones sent thirty head of cattle and thirty sheep to Cork for shipment to Bristol by the Cork Steam-Packet Company's steamer Xenia. When it was discovered by the other shippers that Mr. Bence Jones's cattle were about to be taken on board, they waited in a body upon the directors of the company, and said that if these cattle were taken they would withdraw their cattle and would ship no more by the company. The directors thereupon refused Mr. Bence Jones's cattle, which were driven out of the yard and strayed about the quay, no one being found willing to take charge of them. The police collected the cattle, which were driven to the premises of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company for dispatch to Dublin. It is stated that none of the dealers would supply fodder for the cattle. They remained all night and next day in the cattle-yard of the Dublin and Glasgow Steam-Packet Company at North Wall. Mr. Norris Goddard, one of the organisers of the Boycott Relief Expedition, then, on behalf of Mr. Bence Jones, put himself in communication with some of the companies. He had an interview with Mr. Watson, of the City of Dublin Company, of a satisfactory nature, and the result was that, without the least trouble or opposition, the sheep were sent to Liverpool, and the cattle were afterwards shipped off to Holyhead. Mr. Bence Jones has written to the Times to explain his position. He says that he has lived at Lisselane since 1840, has spent £25,000 in improvements, and pays £25 a week in wages, and spends a similar sum on other farm expenses. Hitherto a good feeling had prevailed between him and his tenants, but at the beginning of this month his tenants received notices threatening them if they paid more than Griffith's valuation, and a threatening notice was stuck on his door, and a grave dug on his lawn. Because he would not accept the valuation he has been "Boycotted," and can neither sell nor buy.

The Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland have adopted resolutions for expelling all members of the Land League from the order, and for the appointment of a committee to assist all Orangemen and loyal Protestants who are suffering from the persecution of the League. The committee are now about to take measures for the relief of Mr. Bence Jones. They further announce that applications from various quarters for arms have led to an arrangement with manufacturing firms in England for the supply of suitable weapons, some of which have been already received and distributed in the South and West. Lord Rossmore presided over a meeting of Orangemen and county magistrates at Monaghan, when resolutions were passed repudiating the doctrines of the Land League, as intended to bring about the separation of Great Britain from Ireland, and setting forth the principles which should characterise an acceptable Land Bill. It was also resolved that an anti-league should be formed, and that a committee should be appointed to draw up a form by which all those who signed it bind themselves to support each other with purse and person if assailed by the present unlawful organisation of the Land League. There were about five thousand persons present. A similar meeting has been held at Portadown, Lord Mandeville and Mr. Maxwell Close being present. A Land League meeting was to have been held at Loughgall, near Portadown. A large number of tenant farmers had assembled in a field; and the speakers were about to address them from the platform, when an opposing force with fifes and drums rushed into the field and into the midst of the crowd, scattering them in all directions, and tearing the platform to pieces. The farmers adjourned to another field, and the leaders of the hostile mob prevailed upon their followers not to molest them any more. The meeting was then proceeded with. There was a large force of police present.

Lord Kenmare, it is stated, is about to leave Ireland in consequence of the condition of his neighbourhood. He has lately built a new house on his estate, and employed a skilled carpenter to finish some windows, to the exclusion of local workmen. He received notice that if this man was not immediately dismissed the house would be burnt down. Last year, in consequence of the distress, Lord Kenmare borrowed £20,000 from the Board of Works in order to give employment to his people.

At a meeting of the Privy Council at Dublin Castle on Saturday it was decided to proclaim the Queen's County, thereby prohibiting all Land League meetings within that portion of Ireland. A meeting on Sunday at Cullohill, near Durrow, Queen's County, was stopped by the magistrates, with a military force at hand. It is stated that, with a view to meet any contingency that may arise in Ireland, the Government have determined upon sending additional troops to that country within the course of the next few days. The first battalion of Scots Guards left London for Dublin on Monday. Instructions from the Horse Guards have been issued to Colonel Sargent, commanding the 67th Brigade Dépôt, at Birr, to patrol nightly forty soldiers, under command of an officer, until order is restored in the district. The nightly patrolling bodies of the constabulary have been doubled.

The Irish Government has issued two circulars of instructions to the constabulary. The first relates to the cases of persons taking or being put in possession of premises from which they have been evicted. It instructs the constabulary to take immediate steps against such persons, and informs them that they will be considered responsible for outrages committed upon persons taking land from which others have been evicted. The second Circular states that outrages by night patrols are discreditable to the constabulary, and the sub-inspector of each county is directed to pay frequent nightly and early morning visits to his out-stations.

Our Illustrations of this unhappy subject this week comprise some additional Sketches by our Special Artist in Ireland, Mr. Wallis Mackay, including those of "Parnell's Country," noticed in another page. We also give two views of the ancient ruin of Lough Mask Castle, in Mayo, from Sketches by Colonel Bedingfield, R.A., lately commanding the military force sent to protect the volunteer harvestmen on Captain Boycott's farm. The house of Captain Boycott is but two hundred yards distant from the ruined old Castle, but is hidden by the trees to the left hand in our view. The distant mountains beyond the lake are those of Joyce's Country, Connemara. A page of figures and groups of the peasantry in Westmeath, with the "murder memorial" of a rustic tragedy that occurred there in 1857, is supplied by Mr. J. Proctor, another of our Special Artists. The opposite page of "Dublin Sketches," by Mr. H. Furniss, contains a variety of street scenes, one of which, be it observed, belongs to past history, not to the contemporary social and political crisis. The readers of Sir C. Gavan Duffy's "Young Ireland," which relates the proceedings at the trial of O'Connell in January, 1844, will have been struck by his mention (page 407) of the corrupt system formerly practised in the selection of special jurors for Crown prosecutions. "It was known," he says, "that a small knot of broken-down citizens, of safe politics, were enabled to live by this trade. They were always in Court; their confederates in the Sheriff's Office and the Crown Offices knew they were to be relied upon; and they went into the jurors' room to earn the fee paid in such cases with as much regularity as the Sheriff's bailiffs took their places outside." There must be some truth in this: for the highest of the English Judges in 1844, Lord Denman, speaking in the House of Lords on the appeal against the conviction of O'Connell, declared that trial by jury, so conducted, was "a mockery, a delusion, and a snare." We wish it to be observed, however, that the system above described has since been entirely reformed; and there is no reason to doubt that the special jury which is to try Mr. Parnell will be fairly selected. The old class of venal and subservient special jurymen, referred to by Sir C. Gavan Duffy, were called "Four-Court guinea-pigs," alluding to the amount of their regular fee, and to the well-known "Four Courts," on the Dublin Quays—a very fine range of buildings, erected towards the end of the last century, where all the highest judicial business of Ireland is transacted. The other Sketches are those of different groups of loungers in the streets and on the quays, who appear to be under the influence of strong political excitement. Some of them are listening to one reading a newspaper, which may give the report of one of the trials of subordinate Land League agents who have within the last week or two been brought before the provincial Assizes.

"HOLDING THE MIRROR UP TO NATURE."

The construction of that formidable effigy of the human figure which is called a "scare-crow," to do duty, in the absence of real men and boys, by warning off the birds from depredations on the farmer's fields, may exercise no small amount of artistic skill. It may, of course, be performed in a rude, clumsy, uninventive style, by merely sticking up a coat and hat, or even a few loose fluttering rags of cast-off wearing apparel, with no semblance of a substantial body and limbs. We believe that the crows and all other winged creatures, against whose intrusion this curious guardian of rural property is meant to provide, are far too wise to be so easily deceived for more than a few days or hours. It is quite worth while, at any rate, to try and make the thing as life-like as possible; and such is here the attempt of a zealous and faithful agricultural labourer, whom Mr. F. Dadd's drawing has caught for us, busy at this work in the field. He considers, we see, that even the featureless visage of a scare-crow ought not to lack the ornament of an imitation of hair; and for this he substitutes the flowering grass that he has plucked, or flowers taken from the hedge-side. It will neither be "a thing of beauty," nor will its continuance be "a joy for ever" to feathered or unfeathered bipeds. The dog, for his part, does not know what to make of such an apparition. In his labours, however, to give it the appearance of life, we may commend the rustic Pygmalion, or Tatterdemalion, for "holding the mirror up to Nature."

THE COURT.

On the eve of her Majesty's departure from Windsor a Council was held at the castle, there being present Earl Spencer, the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, the Earl of Kenmare, and the Right Hon. Sir William Harcourt. Mr. G. J. Shaw-Lefevre was sworn in a member of the Privy Council. The Queen gave audiences to the Right Hon. W. E. Forster, the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Earl Spencer, and the Earl of Kenmare; and knighted Mr. Walter Watson Hughes, of South Australia, Dr. Edward Burrowes Sinclair, and Mr. Edward Baines, late Member of Parliament for Leeds, at which ceremony Princess Beatrice was present. Lord Thurlow and Captain Walter Campbell kissed hands on their appointment as Lord and Groom in Waiting.

Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, drove to the Albert Institute, in Windsor, and inspected the statue of the Prince Consort presented by Mr. Richardson-Gardner, which had been unveiled by Princess Christian. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson-Gardner were presented to the Queen.

The following were entertained at dinner by her Majesty:—Prince and Princess Christian, Princesses Augusta Victoria and Caroline Matilda of Schleswig-Holstein, the Right Hon. W. E. and Mrs. Gladstone, Lord and Lady Frederick Cavendish, Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby, the Hon. Lady Biddulph, Lady Waterpark, the Dowager Marchioness of Ely, the Lord Chamberlain, Lord Thurlow, General Viscount Bridport, Major-General Dillon, Colonel Sir John Carstairs M'Neill, Captain Walter Campbell, and Captain F. I. Edwards.

Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice, who arrived at Osborne last Saturday afternoon, attended Divine service on Sunday, performed at the house by the Rev. Canon Connor.

The Queen received with deep regret the intelligence of the death of the Duchess of Westminster.

The Prince and Princess of Wales have during the week entertained at Marlborough House the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, Princess Louise of Lorne, Prince Leopold, and Prince Christian. Their Royal Highnesses attended Divine service on Sunday. The Prince has been photographed by Mr. Massano, of Old Bond-street. The American midgets and "Commodore" Foot and Miss Jennie Quigley, by desire of the Prince and Princess, have been presented to their Royal Highnesses and to the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh at Marlborough House.

The Duke of Edinburgh was in his place amongst the first violins at the first concert of this (the ninth) season of the Royal Amateur Orchestral Society held last Saturday evening at the Albert Hall.

Princess Frederica of Hanover and Baron von Pawel-Rammingen have arrived from Paris.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriage of Mr. Archibald Lennox Napier, late Grenadier Guards, eldest son of Sir Robert J. Milliken Napier, Bart., of Milliken, Renfrewshire, with Mary Allison Dorothy Fairbairn, youngest daughter of Sir Thomas Fairbairn, Bart., took place last week at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge. Mr. F. C. Fergusson, Scots Guards, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Fairbairn, her sister; Miss Napier, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Elizabeth Newton, Miss Gertrude Harter, Miss Edith Wayles, and Miss Frances Fairbairn, cousin of the bride. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of white Venetian velvet and satin, trimmed with embroidery and fringes of pearls, and Alençon lace; over a chaplet of orange-blossoms a tulle veil fastened by diamond stars. Her jewels were a diamond tiara and diamond necklace, the gifts of her father and mother. The bridesmaids were attired alike in short costumes of a dark shade of ponceau plush and cashmere; small plush bonnets ornamented with humming-birds, and "mousquetaire" gloves. Each lady wore a pearl and coral brooch, with the initials of the bride and bridegroom, the gift of the bridegroom. Lady Fairbairn, who accompanied the bride, wore a dress of dark prune velvet bordered with broad feather trimmings, bonnet and muff to match. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Adam Henderson Fairbairn, Vicar of Waltham, Berks, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Hon. and Rev. Robert Liddell, Vicar of St. Paul's. Sir Thomas and Lady Fairbairn gave the breakfast at their residence in Wilton-crescent. The newly wedded couple started for Paris on their way to the south of France. The bride's travelling-dress was of sapphire-blue velvet trimmed with skunk, with mantle, bonnet, and muff en suite. The bridal presents were numerous, and included valued gifts from the tenants and servants of Milliken and Brambridge.

Marriages are arranged between Count F. V. Lützow, secretary to the Austrian Embassy, eldest son of his Excellency Count Lützow, and Mdlle. Anna de Bornemann, daughter of the Minister of Mecklenburg in Paris, and niece of Count and Countess Batthyany; and between Captain E. W. Haywood, of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Regiment, and Ada, third daughter of Sir Henry Allsopp, Bart., of Hindlip Hall, Worcester.

A conference upon bread reform, convened by the Bread Reform League, was held yesterday week at the Mansion House, the Lord Mayor presiding. Miss Yates gave an address upon the "Principles of Bread Reform," in which she stated that it was as impossible for children to grow strong and healthy upon white bread as it was for two and two to make five. To make flour white the larger proportion of the nourishing properties of wheat had to be rejected, and the phosphate and flesh-forming qualities were lost to a very serious extent. Among the other speakers were Professor Henslow, Professor Church, Dr. Bartlett, and Mr. S. Morley, M.P.

A superb photograph album, of royal quarto size, which has just been published by Messrs. T. J. Smith, Son, and Co., bound in coloured plush, calf with inlaid pattern, morocco, gilt or embossed, or russia leather, is called the "Album Lingua Floris." It is adorned with twelve very beautiful chromolithographs of floral wreaths, designed from nature, besides an illuminated titlepage, in which all the various flowers are introduced. Each design, interpreted by the conventional "Language of Flowers," to which there is a key, has a significant emblematic meaning. There is space for one, two, or three portraits of friends in each of the floral pages, besides the ordinary pages, which are fitted as in other photograph books.

Digitized by Google

OBITUARY.

THE DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER.

Her Grace, Constance Gertrude, wife of the Duke of Westminster, K.G., died on the 19th inst. The Duchess was born June 16, 1834, fifth daughter of George Granville, second Duke of Sutherland, K.G., by Harriet Elizabeth Georgiana, his wife, daughter of George, sixth Earl of Carlisle, K.G., and was consequently sister of the late Duchess of Argyll, of the late Lady Blantyre, and of the present Duchess of Leinster. Her Grace married, April 28, 1852, Hugh Lupus, Duke of Westminster, K.G., by whom she leaves a numerous family, the eldest son, Victor Alexander, Earl Grosvenor, and the eldest daughter, Elizabeth Harriet, Marchioness of Ormonde.

THE EARL OF CRAWFORD AND BALCARRES.

The Right Hon. Alexander William-Crawford Lindsay, Earl of Crawford and Balcarres, &c., in the Peerage of Scotland, and Baron Wigan, of Haigh Hall, in the county of Lancaster, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, whose death at the Villa Enalmira, Florence, is just announced, was the male heir of one of the most ancient and distinguished families in Scotland, and had illustrated the history of the several noble lines from which he descended in one of the most interesting and charming books ever published, "The Lives of the Lindsays." He was also author of "Letters on Egypt, Edom, and the Holy Land," "Sketches of the History of Christian Art," and various other works, besides contributions of considerable value to genealogical and antiquarian literature. His Lordship was born Oct. 16, 1812, the eldest son of James, seventh Earl of Balcarres, to whom the earldom of Crawford (the first on the Union Roll of Scotland) was confirmed by the House of Lords in 1848, and he succeeded to all the honours at his father's death, Dec. 15, 1869. The Earl's mother was the Hon. Maria Margaret Frances Pennington, daughter and heiress of John, first Lord Muncaster. He married, July 23, 1846, Margaret, eldest daughter of Lieutenant-General James Lindsay, of Balcarres, and leaves issue, one son, James-Ludovic, Lord Lindsay, M.P. for Wigan, now Earl of Crawford and Balcarres, who was born July 28, 1847, and married, July 22, 1869, Emily Florence, second daughter of Colonel the Hon. Edward Wilbraham, by whom he has several children. Lord Crawford leaves also six daughters, Alice Frances, wife of Mr. George Bramston Eyre; Margaret Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Lewis Ashhurst Majendie, of Hedingham Castle, Essex; Mary Susan Félicie, wife of the Hon. Frederick George L. Wood; Mabel Marian; Anne Catharine Sybil; and Jane Evelyn.

SIR A. CAMPBELL, BART.

Sir Alexander Campbell, second Baronet, of Barcaldine and Glenure, county Argyll, J. P., Serjeant-at-Arms in the Queen's household, late Captain Argyll and Bute Militia, died on the 11th inst. at Wimbledon. He was born June 15, 1819, the eldest son of Sir Duncan Campbell, Captain Scots Fusilier Guards, and A.D.C. to his cousin, General Campbell, at Talavera, by Elizabeth Dreghorn, his wife, daughter of James Dennistoun, Esq., of Dennistoun, county Dumbarton, and he derived his descent from a branch of the Campbells of Glenorchy. Sir Alexander succeeded to the baronetcy, created Sept. 30, 1831, at the decease of his father, April 2, 1842. He married, in 1855, Harriette, daughter of Admiral Henry Collier, and leaves a son and heir, now Sir Duncan Alexander Campbell, third Baronet, born Dec. 4, 1856, and other issue.

SIR C. E. B. KENNEDY, BART.

Sir Charles Edward Bayly Kennedy, second Baronet, of Johnstown Kennedy, in the county of Dublin, died on the 4th inst. He was born Feb. 13, 1820, the eldest son of Sir John Kennedy (who was created a Baronet in 1836), by Maria, his wife, daughter of Mr. William Beauman, of Dublin, and succeeded to the title at his father's death, Oct. 15, 1848. Sir Edward was a magistrate and Deputy-Lieutenant for the counties of Dublin, Kildare, and Waterford, and served as High Sheriff of the last-named county in 1843. He married, Oct. 19, 1854, Lady Augusta Pery, sister of William, second Earl of Limerick, and leaves two sons, of whom the elder, now Sir John Charles Kennedy, third Baronet, born in 1856, married, in 1879, Sydney, daughter of Sir James Macaulay Higginson, K.C.B.

MR. CHILDE, OF KINLET.

Mr. William Lacon Childe, of Kinlet, Shropshire, and of Kyre, Worcestershire, J.P. and D.L., within a few weeks of attaining the age of ninety-five. He was born in 1786, the only son of Mr. William Baldwyn (who assumed the surname and arms of Childe only), by Annabella, his wife, second daughter of Sir Charlton Leighton, Bart., and was grandson of Mr. Charles Baldwyn, of Aqualake, M.P. for Salop, by his marriage with Catherine, the elder daughter and coheir of Mr. Childe, of Kinlet. Mr. William Lacon Childe was educated at Harrow, being contemporary there with the eminent men of the last generation—Lord Byron, Lord Palmerston, Sir Robert Peel, and others—and was afterwards at Christ Church, Oxford. He was elected M.P. for Wenlock, in the Conservative interest, in 1821, and sat for that borough till 1826. In 1828 he served as High Sheriff for Shropshire. He married, in 1807, Harriet, second daughter of Mr. William Cludde, of Orleton, Salop, and leaves a son and successor, Mr. William Lacon Childe, who is seventy years of age.

The Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge has made a further grant of £4000 towards fitting up St. Katherine's Training College, Tottenham, for female pupil-teachers.

At the Guildhall, yesterday week, Lord Chief Justice Coleridge was presented with the chain of office worn by the late Lord Chief Justice Cockburn, and which was his property. It is intended that the chain shall be worn by all succeeding holders of the office of Lord Chief Justice of England in turn.

CHESS.

G N (Newcastle, Natal).—The game has many interesting points, and it shall appear in due course.

H W H (Manchester).—It is frequently the case that, in three-move problems, White effects mate in two moves, against weak defences. The solver is required to discover the best defence, as well as the best attack.

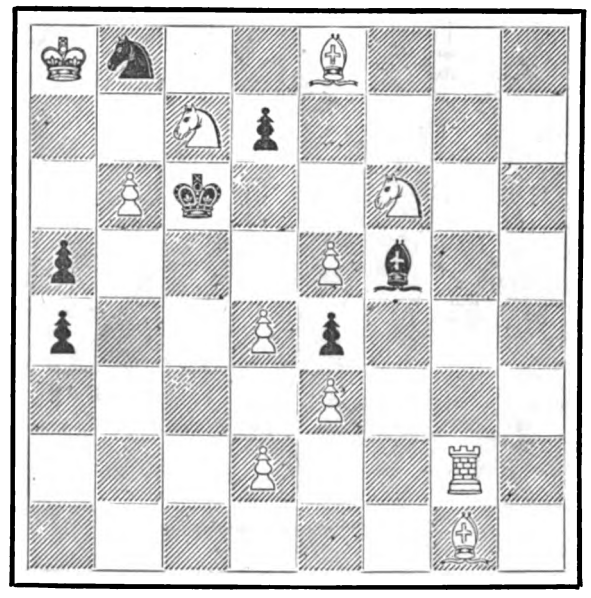
E L G (Blackwater).—Your solution of Mr. J. P. Taylor's problem was correct, but its acknowledgment has been crowded out until now.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1915, received from M Cumming (Augusta, Ga., U.S.A.); of No. 1916 from Orima and Va (U.S.); and of No. 1917 from Orima. The Canadian Prize Problem has been solved by Orima; and the Solmate dedicated to Count Pongracz has been solved by Va (U.S.) and M Cumming (Augusta, Ga., U.S.A.).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1918 received from W Burr, James Atkinson, F W Humphries, H J Grant, Franklin Institute, N M Carrig, Emile Frau, Waldenburg, and Lincopensis (Sweden).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1919 received from P S Shenele, G C Baxter, A C, Dr H W Hill, Frank E Purchas, D A (Dublin), H de Groot, A W Hale, Dr N W Holmes, W M Curtis, Hereward, W J Eggleston, J Tucker, James Atkinson, Emile Frau, and Waldenburg.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEMS Nos. 1920 and 1921 received from H B, P S Shenele, Frank E Purchas, D A (Dublin), E L G, M H Moorhouse, Norman Rumbelow, James Dobson, East Marden, Shadforth, Alpha, A C, E Louden, J W W, Cant, Jupiter Junior, D Templeton, R Jessop, M O'Halloran, Nerina, An Old Hand, T Greenbank, Elsie, C Oswald, H Blacklock, E Elsbury, L Sharswood, E Sharswood, D W K, R Gray, B L Dyke, S Farrant, Ben Nevis, R Ingersoll, G Fosbrooke, A Kentish Man, C Darragh, E H Brooks, Otto Fulder, D Templeton, and C S Coxe.



CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1920 received from G C Baxter, Emile Frau, W J Eggleston, J Burnstead, Mars, Templar L Down, H de Groot, Z Ingold, Smutch, Lulu, Frank Littlebuy, Underwood, E P Vulliamy, Portobello, Julia Short, W T (Ffynone Club, Swansea), W Burr, J Perez Ventoso, F Gentry, James H Symington, J W Waugh, Joseph Moore, H W Hill, W Scott, Insignificant Pawn, C Edmundson, Dr F St, George Neuer (Heidelberg), James Putney, George Corrie (R M A), and Waldenburg.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1921 received from Fred Littleboy, Sudbury Suffolk, V S Otley, and W F R (Swansea).

PROBLEM No. 1923.

By S. H. THOMAS.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

A CHRISTMAS PARTIE.

Last week we presented to our readers a view of the humorous side of modern chess, selecting our examples from the works of problem composers, and we should have pursued the subject this week among the players but for good cause. It happens, unfortunately, that, although humour is by no means a rare quality among chessplayers, it is one that cannot be exercised in their games, while the verbal quips with which some of them are wont to enliven themselves over the board have no special relation to chess. They are chessplayers' jokes, and worthy of the admiration of all chessplayers, but they would be equally appropriate to the occasion if they were conceived and expressed at cards or billiards, and, consequently, do not concern us at present. There is, in truth, no comic side to practical chess. It is not without its humours, in the Shakspearean sense; but these spring from the idiosyncracies of the players, and not from the game they are playing. As in practical jokes, the fun of practical chess is all on one side, and that is not the side of the man who chiefly contributes to it. Many games of chess have been contested—or, rather let us say, played—amid the smiles and even open laughter of the spectators, and sometimes of one, but never by any chance of the two, players. One of these is, invariably, unwilling to believe that his part in the joke is a fair subject for laughter. He intends no joke, therefore there is none. As one illustration is worth a page of argument, we quote here a case in point—a game in which Mr. I. O. Howard Taylor, of Norwich, one of the most accomplished amateurs of our time, played the White pieces:—

1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	4. Kt to Q B 3rd	Kt to B 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd	5. Kt takes P	P to K B 3rd
3. B to B 4th	Kt takes P

At this point White announced mate in eight moves, and proceeded to bring down his adversary, as Bob Acres puts it, "at a long shot," to the great amusement of the spectators. It will, however, surprise no one, certainly no chessplayer, to learn that Black was unable to see the jest or to join in the laughter it provoked. But, if practical chess is deficient in examples of broad fun, as undoubtedly it is, it possesses qualities which, without underrating the value of humour, may be regarded as superior to it. We are not going to dwell upon these, in either a philosophic or satiric spirit. Philosophy and Satire are both good things in themselves, but this is not the season for either. No one could be a Philosopher, and no one, we hope, would be a Satirist at a Christmas party. At this, our Christmas party for chessplayers, we purpose illustrating, from practical chess, two of the superior qualities to which we have already referred—Readiness to discern opportunity and Promptness to seize it ere it flies, the most useful accomplishments a man can possess for success in the Battle of Life. In presenting these games we shall not trouble the student with notes to the moves. If there is any Zoilus among our readers he can seek for the demerits of the players and be happy, if he can, when he finds them. The majority, like ourselves, will be content to admire and applaud. Let everyone please himself is a maxim embodying good morals; and, if it were not Christmas-time, we should add, good Philosophy also.

Herr STEINITZ giving the large odds of Queen's Rook to an Amateur.

(Queen's Knight Opening.)

WHITE (Herr S.)	BLACK (Mr. A.)	WHITE (Herr S.)	BLACK (Mr. A.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	8. P to Q 4th	B to Kt 5th
2. Kt to Q B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	9. B to Q Kt 5th	K to B sq
3. P to K B 4th	P takes P	10. Castles	Kt to K 4th
4. Kt to K B 3rd	B to Kt 5th	11. Kt takes Kt	B takes Q
5. Kt to Q 5th	B to R 4th	12. Kt to Kt 6th (ch)	R P takes Kt
6. Kt takes K P	P to Q 3rd	13. Kt takes P.	Mate.
7. P to Q B 3rd	B to Kt 3rd

Played between Mr. S. S. BODEN and HERR SCHULDER.

(Philidor's Defence.)

WHITE (Herr S.)	BLACK (Mr. B.)	WHITE (Herr S.)	BLACK (Mr. B.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	9. P to K B 4th	B to Q 2nd
2. Kt to K B 3rd	P to Q 3rd	10. B to K 3rd	Castles
3. P to Q B 3rd	P to K B 4th	11. Kt to Q 2nd	R to K sq
4. B to B 4th	Kt to K B 3rd	12. Q to B 3rd	B to K B 4th
5. P to Q 4th	P takes K P	13. Castles (Q R)	P to Q 4th
6. P takes K P	P takes Kt	14. B takes Q P	Q takes P (ch)
7. P takes Kt	Q takes P	15. P takes Q	B to R 6th.
8. P takes P	Kt to Q B 3rd	Mate.

A bonne-bouche for our finale. One of ten games played without seeing the boards, and simultaneously, by Mr. J. H. BLACKBURNE, at Kidderminster. (Centre Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Amateur).	WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Amateur).
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	13. P takes K P	Q takes P
2. P to Q 4th	P takes P	14. Castles	P to K R 3rd
3. B to B 4th	P to Q 3rd	15. B to K 8th	B to K 3rd
4. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	16. R takes Kt	P takes R
5. P to Q B 3rd	P takes P	17. R to Q 7th (ch)	B takes R
6. Q Kt takes P	Kt to K 4th	18. Q to B 7th (ch)	K to Q 3rd
7. Kt takes Kt	P takes Kt	19. Q takes B (ch)	K to B 4th
8. B tks K B P (ch)	K to K 2nd	20. B to K 3rd (ch)	K to Kt 5th
9. B to Kt 5th (ch)	Kt to B 3rd	21. Q takes Kt P (ch)	K to R 4th
10. Q to K R 5th	P to B 3rd	22. P to Kt 4th (ch)	B takes P
11. Q R to Q sq	Q to R 4th	23. B to Kt 6th (ch)	P takes B
12. P to K B 4th	Q to B 4th	24. Q takes R.	Mate.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will of the late Mr. John Lewis Eyre (commonly called Count Eyre), who died on the 11th ult., at 25, Manchester-square, was proved on the 10th inst. in the Principal Registry by the two executors—namely, the Most Rev. Charles Eyre, Catholic Archbishop of Glasgow, and the Right Hon. John Francis, Lord Arundell of Wardour, the estate being sworn under £400,000. The testator makes various specific bequests of pictures, books, plate, articles of virtù, and ornamental furniture, &c., likewise of jewellery; and bequeaths an annuity of £500 to his grandniece, Lady Arundell of Wardour; a pecuniary legacy and all his real and personal estate (except what is otherwise disposed of by his will) unto the Most Rev. Charles Eyre and Lord Arundell of Wardour, upon trust, to purchase a sufficient sum of Consols to answer the annuity to Lady Arundell, and to hold one half part of the residue for the Most Rev. Charles Eyre, and the other half part in trust for such persons as the Most Rev. Charles Eyre and Lord Arundell of Wardour shall jointly appoint; and, in default of appointment, in trust for all his children (other than the said Charles Eyre) living at his death, equally.

The will (dated April 3, 1880) with a codicil (dated Sept. 3 following) of the late Right Hon. Sir Alexander James Edmund Cockburn, Bart., P.C., G.C.B., Lord Chief of Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench, has just been proved by Mr. G. Cockburn and Dr. Gill, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator leaves legacies to his executors, members of his family, and friends, and appoints Captain Cockburn residuary legatee.

The will of the late Right Hon. Sir Fitzroy Edward Kelly, Lord Chief Baron of the Court of Exchequer, has just been proved by Miss Eveline Agnes Kelly, the daughter, the Hon. Robert St. John Fitzwalter Butler, and Dr. Henry Marshall, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testator gives souvenirs, to be selected by his said daughter, to each of his grandchildren, the children of his deceased daughter Mrs. Bromley, besides giving special directions as to some plate and jewellery to be set apart for their benefit; and he states that, having provided for his grandchildren by their mother's marriage settlement, it was unnecessary to make any further provision for them. All the residue of his estate, both real and personal, he devises and bequeaths unto his surviving daughters, share and share alike. The will, which is all in the testator's handwriting, bears date March 25, 1876.

The will (dated Aug. 17, 1875) with two codicils (dated July 5 and Aug. 11, 1880) of the Hon. Alfred Henry Thesiger, one of the Lord Justices of the Court of Appeal, late of No. 30, Stanhope-gardens, South Kensington, who died on Oct. 20 last, at No. 5, South Eaton-place, Eaton-square, was proved on the 9th inst. by the Hon. Mrs. Henrietta Thesiger, the widow, Lord Chelmsford, the brother, William Frederick Higgins, and Ludlow Handcock, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £80,000. The testator gives to his wife his plate, pictures, furniture, household effects, horses and carriages, an immediate legacy of £1000, and a further legacy of £6000; to his sister, the Hon. Mary Lincoln Thesiger, £3000; to each of his other brothers and sisters, £2000; to his brother-in-law Ludlow Handcock, £500; and the residue of his property upon trust for his wife for life, and then for his children, if any; but no child is to take more than £30,000. In the event of the testator leaving no children, which we believe was the case, he divides the residue of his property, after the death of his wife, into twenty-five parts, and gives nine parts to his brother, Lord Chelmsford, two parts to his sister, Mary Lincoln, and the other fourteen parts between his brothers, Charles Wemyss and Edward Peirson, and his sisters, the Hon. Mrs. Augusta Higgins and the Hon. Lady Julia Selina Inglis.

The will (dated July 19, 1879) of Mr. Thomas Elliott Price, formerly of No. 48, Chancery-lane, but late of Spring Lawn, Woodbury Down, Stoke Newington, who died on the 9th ult., was proved on the 8th inst. by Charles Furber, and Alfred Price, the son, the surviving executors, the personal estate being sworn under £200,000. The testator bequeaths £300 to the Parochial School, St. Andrew's, Holborn; £200 to the National Sunday and Infant Schools, St. James's, Holloway; £100 each to the National School, Baldwin's-gardens, the Church Missionary Society, the London City Mission, the Mackenzie Nurses' Home, St. James's, Holloway, the London Female Penitentiary, No. 166, Pentonville-road, the New Lecture Hall, St. James's, Holloway, King's College Hospital, the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's-inn-road, and the Goldsmith's Benevolent Institution; an annuity of £400 for life to his daughter Eliza; £30,000 each to his son Walter and his daughters Emily and Florence; and numerous bequests to relatives, friends, and servants according to length of service. The residue of his real and personal estate he gives to his son Alfred.

The will (dated Sept. 13, 1879) of Mr. James Bentley, J.P., D.L., formerly treasurer of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, late of Wood Green Park, Cheshunt, Herts, who died on Oct. 26 last, was proved on the 7th inst. by James Dixon, Alfred Taylor, and John Tindall Harris, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator earnestly wishes to be buried in the vault in the churchyard of St. Margaret Roothing, Essex, with his wife and sister-in-law; and if he is so buried, he leaves £100 to the Rector of the said parish for his own use; £100 to the Rector and churchwardens for the parochial schools, and another £100 for the poor of such parish. He also leaves £2000 to be distributed among the charitable, curative, or educational institutions of the borough of Scarborough, to be selected by his executors; £1000 New Three per Cents each to the Vicar and churchwardens of the parishes of St. Mary, Cheshunt, and St. James, Cheshunt, the income of which, subject to some other payments charged thereon, is annually to be given away by them about Christmas time to or for the benefit of the poor of their respective parishes; £1000 to the general funds of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and £100 to the Samaritan Fund of the same Hospital; £1000 to the Royal Alfred Aged Merchant Seamen's Institution; £500 each to Christ's Hospital, the British and Foreign Bible Society, the Church Missionary Society, the Clergy Orphan School, the Corporation of the Sons of the Clergy, the Seamen's Hospital, the Merchant Seamen's Orphan Asylum, and the Sailors' Orphan Girls' School and Home; £200 each to St. Thomas's Hospital and the Marine Society; and £100 to St. Luke's Hospital for Lunatics. Among the very numerous legacies and annuities to relatives, executors, servants, and others, may be mentioned the gift of £24,000 upon trust for the eight children of his deceased nephew, Francis Davison. The residue of his real and personal estate, to the extent of £1500, he gives to his executors for their own use; but all over that amount is to be distributed by them among his kinsfolk, without regard to consanguinity, at their absolute and uncontrolled discretion. The deceased served as High Sheriff for Hertfordshire in 1860.

Digitized by Google

DUBLIN SKETCHES.—SEE PAGE 634.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

THE MANOR HOUSE: ARRIVAL OF GUESTS.

BY S. READ.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

"HOLDING THE MIRROR UP TO NATURE." BY F. DADD.—SEE PAGE 634.

Digitized by Google

BOOKS FOR PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES.

Crown 8vo, with upwards of 100 Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

LIFE AND HER CHILDREN. Glimpses of Animal Life from the Amœba to the Insects. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "The Fairy Land of Science," "A Short History of Natural Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students."

Extract from Preface:

"The main object is to acquaint young people with the structure and habits of the lower forms of life, and to do this in a more systematic way than is usual in ordinary works on Natural History, and more simply than in text-books on Zoology. For this reason I have adopted the title 'Life and Her Children,' to express the family bond uniting all living things, as we use the term 'Nature and Her Works,' to embrace all organic and inorganic phenomena, and I have been more careful to sketch in bold outline the leading features of each division than to dwell upon the minor differences by which it is separated into groups. I have made use of British examples in illustration wherever it was possible, and small specimens of most of the marine animals figured may be found upon our coasts at low tide."

CONTENTS.

I. Life and Her Children.
II. Life's Simplest Children; How They Live, and Move, and Build.
III. How Sponges Live.
IV. The Lasso-Throwers of the Ponds and Oceans.
V. How Star-Fish Walk and Sea-Urchins Grow.
VI. The Mantle-Covered Animals, and How They Live with Heads and Without Them.
VII. The Outcasts of Animal Life, and the Elastic-Ringed Animals by Sea and by Land.
VIII. The Mailed Warriors of the Sea, with Ringed Bodies and Jointed Feet.
IX. The Snare-Weavers and their Hunting Relations.
X. Insect Suckers and Biters, which Change their Coats but not their Bodies.
XI. Insect Gnawers and Sippers, which Remodel their Bodies within their Coats.
XII. Intelligent Insects, with Helpless Children, as Illustrated by the Ants.

Eighth Thousand, crown 8vo, with Seventy-four Illustrations, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 6s.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 11s.,

THE FAIRYLAND OF SCIENCE. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," &c.

"Her methods of presenting certain facts and phenomena difficult to grasp are most original and striking, and admirably calculated to enable the reader to realise the truth. As to the interest of her story, we have tested it in a youthful subject, and she mentioned it in the same breath with 'Grimm's Fairy Tales.' We are sure any of the older children would welcome it as a Christmas present; but it deserves to take a permanent place in the literature of youth."—Times.

Second Edition, post 8vo, cloth, 4s. 6d.,

DOMESTIC ECONOMY AND HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE. Adapted for Home Education, and for Schoolmistresses and Pupil-Teachers. By ROBERT JAMES MANN, M.D., late Superintendent of Education at Natal.

"Mr. Mann's directions are practical and judicious, and frequently he says a good deal that is worth attention in a few words. The little volume is one in which most people who have, or are likely to have, anything to do with household cares, will find some hints worth noting."—Saturday Review.

Post 8vo, cloth, 3s. 6d.,

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE: Readings in Necessary Knowledge for Girls and Young Women. Edited by Rev. J. P. FAUNTHORPE, Principal of Whitelands Training College. Dedicated by permission to his Grace the Duke of Westminster, K.G.

CONTENTS:—Domestic Economy—Food and its Preparation—Clothing and its Materials—The Dwelling: its Warming, Cleaning, and Ventilation—Washing Materials and their Use—Rules for Health—The Management of the Sick Room—Cottage Income and Expenditure.

Fcap folio, each 7s. 6d.,

INSTRUCTIVE PICTURE-BOOKS: A Series of Volumes Illustrative of Natural History and of the Vegetable World, with Descriptive Letterpress.

No. I.—NATURAL HISTORY OF ANIMALS. By ADAM WHITE. With 54 folio Coloured Plates. Tenth Edition.
No. II.—LESSONS FROM THE VEGETABLE WORLD. By the Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe." With 31 Double-page plates. Fifth Edition.
No. III.—GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION OF ANIMALS. 60 Folio Coloured Plates. Third Edition.
No. IV.—PICTURES of ANIMAL and VEGETABLE LIFE in ALL LANDS. Second Edition. Forty-eight folio Coloured Plates.
No. V.—PICTORIAL LESSONS on FORM, COMPARISON, and NUMBER, for Children under Seven Years of Age. Eighth Edition. Thirty-six oblong folio Coloured Illustrations.

"These volumes are among the most Instructive Picture-Books we have seen, and we know of none better calculated to excite and gratify the appetite of the young for the knowledge of nature."—Times.

Fcap folio, 7s. 6d.,

THE INSTRUCTIVE ATLAS OF MODERN GEOGRAPHY. Intended for the use of Young Pupils. Containing 17 Coloured Maps, each 17 inches by 14.

"This new atlas cannot fail to become a popular one. It is evidently designed with a view to making it not so much a work of reference as an aid to the teacher. The individual maps, of which there are seventeen, are beautifully bold in outline, are not crowded with a host of unnecessary names, and are so clear and distinct that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in deciphering any single name. All the maps are brought down to the present date, Western Europe and South Africa especially receiving careful attention."—Schoolmaster.

Second Edition, crown 8vo, with 77 Illustrations, cloth, 7s. 6d.; or in calf extra, marbled edges, 13s.,

A SHORT HISTORY OF NATURAL SCIENCE, and of the Progress of Discovery from the Time of the Greeks to the Present Day. For the Use of Schools and Young Persons. By ARABELLA B. BUCKLEY, Authoress of "Life and her Children," "The Fairyland of Science," "Botanical Tables for the Use of Junior Students," &c.

"Guides to literature abound; guides to science, similar in purpose and character to Miss Buckley's 'History' are unknown. The writer's plan, therefore, is original, and her execution of the plan is altogether admirable. She sees clearly what she describes and the interest felt by the author is imparted to the reader. Diagrams and illustrations of the letterpress add to the value of the compendium."—Pall Mall Gazette.

SIMPLE LESSONS.
By Eminent Writers.

CONTENTS: Our Bodily Life—How and Why we Breathe—Food—Drink—Cookery—Plain Needlework—Clothing—Air and Ventilation—The Sicknesses that Spread—Weather—Astronomy—Birds—Flowers—Money.

18mo, cloth, 2s. 6d.

The Simple Lessons are also published separately, 3d. each, or 16s. per 100, assorted. The Set of 14, in card case, 3s.

"Couched in clear, straightforward language, these papers cannot fail to be understood by children; and, collected together in their present form, will be as useful for home teaching as for regular school instruction."—Graphic.

STUDIES IN ENGLISH LITERATURE.
By JOHN DENNIS,
Editor of "English Sonnets: a Selection from 1547," &c.
Crown 8vo, cloth, 7s. 6d.

CONTENTS—Pope—Defoe—Prior—Steele—The Wartons—John Wesley—Southey—English Lyrical Poetry—English Rural Poetry—The English Sonnet.

"One of the best books upon poetry which we have had for a very long time."—Westminster Review.

"An excellent book. It has the charm—quite captivating in these days—of being entirely void of affectation, extravagance, or any 'trick of singularity;' and it displays sound judgment, both moral and æsthetic, and a thorough mastery of the subjects with which it deals."—Spectator.

With 32 full-page Illustrations, post 8vo, cloth, 4s.; a few copies, with the Illustrations hand-coloured, cloth gilt, gilt edges, 14s.,

BOTANY FOR CHILDREN. An Illustrated Elementary Text-Book for Junior Classes and Young Children. By the Rev. GEORGE HENSLOW, M.A., F.L.S., F.G.S., Author of "Floral Dissections."

"Just such an elementary text-book of botany as might be put into practical use in schools without the slightest doubt that children would take to it."—Science Gossip.

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

Second Edition. Post 8vo, cloth, with Forty Illustrations an Maps, 1s.,

GEOGRAPHY FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.
By ANTONIA ZIMMERN.

"In a very simple and interesting way attempts to show the use of a map and teach some of the elementary points of physical geography. Its numerous attractive and quite original illustrations are an important feature."—Nature.

"An admirable first book for young children. By maps and illustrations the configuration and physical geography of the world are taught in a very popular and attractive style. It will prove a suitable gift-book for little folk."

London: EDWARD STANFORD, 55, Charing-cross, S.W.

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S MUSICAL BOX. A Sensational Caprice for the Pianoforte. Composed by I. LIEBICH. 4s.; free by post for 24 stamps. "An agreeable and clever piece, which is very popular among amateurs."—Musical World.
London: Published only by ROBERT COCKS and Co.

BEETHOVEN'S SIX FAVOURITE WALTZES. Arranged and Fingered for the Pianoforte by G. F. WEST. 3s. each. The same as Piano Duets, 4s. each. All post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MOZART'S THREE FAVOURITE WALTZES. Arranged and Fingered for the Pianoforte by G. F. WEST. 3s. each. SCHUBERT'S THREE FAVOURITE WALTZES. Arranged and Fingered for the Pianoforte by G. F. WEST. 4s. each. All post-free at half-price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

THE FAVOURITE QUADRILLES for Piano Solo, and Piano Duets.

A Singing Quadrille. C. Dick.	The Garden Party. W. Smallwood.
The Canary. Linter.
The Osborne. S. Glover.	The Gipsy. S. Glover.
Le Perroquet. S. Glover.	The Pussy. Le Duc.
The Great Globe. S. Glover.

4s. each; post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., of whom may be had gratis and post-free, Catalogues of Dance Music, Piano Solos, Piano Duets, and Piano Trios (six hands). London: New Burlington-street.

PERLES DE LA MER. New Waltz. By LAMOTHE. Beautifully Illustrated by Packer. "Lamothe has never written a prettier waltz than 'Perles de la Mer,' and it has the advantage of being easy to play." Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

TIT-FOR-TAT. New Polka. By H. S. MUSCAT. Humorously Illustrated by Packer. A light, bright, and thoroughly danceable Polka. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

A PRETTY SEASONABLE PRESENT.

MERRY CHRISTMAS SCHOTTISCHE. By F. BERNARD, Composer of the "Break of Day Schottische." Beautifully Illustrated. Sent post-free, 1s. 6d.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

GOOD-BYE. New Song. Poetry by G. J. Whyte-Melville; Music by COTSFORD DICK. "There is a charm about this song which will gain for it a wide acceptance; there is no bar to its achieving considerable popularity."—Queen. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

POPULAR SONG FOR BARITONE OR BASS.

THE KING'S CHAMPION. New Song. By ED. OXENFORD and MICHAEL WATSON. This vigorous and soul-stirring Song may be had in E flat for baritone, and in D for bass. Post-free, 2s.
DUFF and STEWART, 2, Hanover-street.

THE LOVE OF OLD. ROECKEL'S charming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming engagements. Post-free, 24 stamps.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W., and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW NUMBERS FOR CHRISTMAS OF

HAMMOND'S MUSIC PORTFOLIO.
PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.
Post-free, 13 stamps.

No. 10.

Elfen Reigen	Waltzes		Gung'l.
Light and Shade	Waltzes		Strauss.
Les Muses	Waltzes		Lamothe.
La Vallette	Waltzes		Percy Beamish.
Aus Freundschaft	Polka		Liebig.
Fairy Fountain	Schottische		Roullson.

No. 11.

Marien	Waltzes		Gung'l.
Les Zephyrs	Waltzes		Lamothe.
Les Cloches de Paris	Waltzes		Lamothe.
L'Alliance	Waltzes		Schiller.
Deutsche Lieder	Quadrille		J. Resch.
Le Verre en Main	Polka		Fahrbach.

N.B.—Cornet and Violin Accompaniments to each Book, 6d. each.
Complete Lists sent on application.
A. HAMMOND and Co., 5, Vigo-street, London, W.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE.
In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by this long-standing firm, of 100 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale. The easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £12.
Class 0, £14 | Class 2, £20 | Class 4, £26 | Class 6, £40
Class 1, £17 | Class 3, £23 | Class 5, £30 | Class 7, £40
American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate Station, E.C.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £200. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

SIGNOR PIATTI. After FRANK HOLL, A.R.A. Engraved by Francis Holl. Messrs. THOS. AGNEW and SONS have the honour to announce the completion of the Portrait of this eminent Musician. An Artist's Proof may be seen at their Galleries, 39a, Old Bond-street, Piccadilly, W.; and at Messrs. Chappell and Co.'s, 40, New Bond-street.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

1745 NEWSPAPERS RECOMMEND these PENS.
"They come as a boon and a blessing to men,
The Pickwick, the Owl, and the Waverley Pen."
Also, the Hindoo Pens, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, DIAGONAL POINTS.
Sold at 6d. and 1s. per Box, at all Stationers'. Sample Box, containing all the kinds, by post, 1s. 1d. Patentees, MACNIVEN and CAMERON, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh. (Estd. 1770.)

A MOST USEFUL AND ELEGANT PRESENT FOR THE SEASON.

THE GOLD WAVERLEY PEN	10s. 6d. each.
THE GOLD J PEN
THE GOLD HINDOO PEN	Free by post.
THE GOLD "FINE WRITER"

"Without exception the most flexible ever offered."—Exeter Gazette.
Patentees of Pens and Penholders.
MACNIVEN and CAMERON, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh, Penmakers to Her Majesty's Government Offices. (Estd. 1770.)

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for LADIES.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for GENTLEMEN.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX for BOYS.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX for GIRLS.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS-BOX, suitable for everybody,
JENNER and KNEWSTUB, 33, St. James's-street.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX, containing Thirty Useful and Ornamental Articles.

THIRTY-SHILLING CHRISTMAS BOX, containing Thirty Articles suitable for Christmas Trees.

JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S Two to Ten Guinea CHRISTMAS BOX for Ladies.
JENNER and KNEWSTUB'S
Two to Ten Guinea CHRISTMAS BOX for Gentlemen.
33, St. James's-street; and 66, Jermyn-street, S.W.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, INVITES INSPECTION of all that is new and beautiful in useful and ornamental CHINA and GLASS, including

	s.	d.
Dinner Services ("Cottage"), 50 pieces	13	6
Dinner Services for 12 persons (108 pieces)	35	0
China Dessert Services for 12 persons, Gilt, 17s., Ungilt	14	0
Gilt China Tea Services, 40 pieces, 12s. 28 pieces	8	6
China Breakfast Sets for 6 persons, 11s. for 4 persons	7	0
Toilet Services (for washstands), 6s. 6d., 8s. 6d. and	3	9
White Stone Jugs, "The Grecian," set of three	1	3

All really excellent patterns.

Quart Decanters, good cut glass, 5s. per pair plain	4	0
Claret Decanters (with handle), 4s. each and	3	0
Plain light Claret Glasses, well made, 6s. per doz. and	4	6
Wine Glasses, plain or cut, Ports and Sherries, per doz.	1	9
Engraved Wine Glasses do. do. do.	3	6
Hock Glasses, ruby bowl, 6s. per doz. green bowl	3	0
Tumblers, cut, 3s. 3d.; plain, 2s. 9d. moulded, per doz.	1	6
Plain light Finger-Glasses, taper shape per doz.	6	6

Other articles proportionately cheap.
Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, LUDGATE-HILL. Established 1760.

GARDNERS' DINNER SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs of unequalled value, from £3 3s. the set for twelve persons, complete. Cash discount 15 per cent. Coloured lithographic sheets of the newest designs, post-free.

GARDNERS' CROWN WARE DINNER SERVICES, of pearly whiteness, and nearly rivalling porcelain, £3 13s. 6d. the set for twelve persons, complete, in Bronze, Green, Blue, Black, and other colours, in Enamels, £8 8s. A Coloured Design of this speciality set sent post-free on application. Cash discount, 15 per cent.

GARDNERS' TABLE GLASS SERVICES, of the best crystal, tem, 65s., plain light engraved, 80s.; richly cut, 105s.; the service, for twelve persons, complete. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photos showing the designs on suite, post-free.

GARDNERS' GASELIERS, Gasfittings, and Lamps in Brass and Iron. GARDNERS', in connection with their Manufactory, 112, St. Martin's-lane, are OPENING a new SHOW-ROOM for the display of their own DESIGNS in the above Branches, at prices the most moderate. Estimates and Designs post-free from their Show-Rooms and Offices, 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

NOTICE.—SPOONS and FORKS, in SILVER and in ELECTRO-PLATE. ELKINGTON and CO., as the result of important improvements in the above manufactures, are able to offer their guaranteed qualities at such prices as, while fully maintaining their acknowledged superiority, place them within the reach of all classes. Revised Illustrated Price-Lists free by post on application. Purchasers of Silver Spoons and Forks obtain the advantage of any fluctuations in the silver market.
Address—ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-street, London, or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Nargh'lés at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

PALACE SOAP.
PIESSE and LUBIN are the only makers of this exquisite Soap. Single Cakes, 5s.; or six, in a carton, 27s. 6d. PIESSE and LUBIN also make a great variety of fine Toilet Soaps, such as Opoponax Soap, Frangipanni Soap; also charming flower scented soaps, as Rose Soap, Violet Soap, Mélange Soap, &c. Single Cakes, 2s. 6d.; or six, in a carton, 14s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being piquante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET, White Rose, Jockey Club, Ess Bouquet, Frangipanni, Opoponax, Chypre, Stephanotis, Moss Rose, New-mown Hay. Price 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle.

BREIDENBACH'S SACHETS in any of the above Odours. Price, Silk Bags, 1s.; Paper Envelopes, 1s. each.
The above articles can be obtained through all Chemists, Perfumers, Stores, and Fancy Dealers in town and country.
BREIDENBACH and CO., Perfumers to the Queen, 157B, New Bond-street, London, W.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—Bridal Bouquets, Bridesmaids' Bouquets, Baskets of Flowers, Loose Cut Flowers, Funeral Wreaths. Prices on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 88, Oxford-street, W.

A MASS of CURLS is assured by regularly using two or three times a week COX'S CURLING FLUID, warranted harmless. Protected by Government stamp, signed John Robert Cox. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, with full directions, of all Chemists, or forwarded by L. N. MARSHALL, 35, St. Mary's-square, Kennington, London, S.E., on receipt of amount.

"A GENTLEMAN to whom I recommended DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS was cured of an attack of severe Bronchitis by their use."—(Signed) W. IRELAND, Egremont, Cumberland.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
FOR CONSTIPATION,
BILE,
HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING
FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 493, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

SUFFERERS FROM CONSUMPTION and Wasting Diseases will find SAVORY and MOORE'S Pancreatic Emulsion a Medicinal Food that arrests the waste and loss of power, while it nourishes and strengthens the system. Descriptive pamphlets on application
143, New Bond-street, London; and of Chemists.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

CHILBLAINS, RHEUMATISM, &c. Chilblains are prevented from breaking and their tormenting itching instantly removed by WHITEHEAD'S ESSENCE OF MUSTARD. Guaranteed by an extensive and successful experience of nearly a century. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, of BARCLAY and SONS, 95, Farringdon-street; and all Medicine Venders.

FITS.—EPILEPSY, or FALLING SICKNESS.—SENSATIONS, GIDDINESS, FAINTS.—A Pamphlet addressed to sufferers from these distressing complaints, explaining their treatment and complete Cure. By a Physician of 25 years' experience. Pamphlet gratis and post-free from Mr. WILLIAMS, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park, London.

HOMŒOPATHIC Home Hospital (Select) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-rd., Surrey. Estd. 1857. A Home for the Cure of Internal and External Tumours and other Diseases of Women without cutting. Treatise of successful cures post-free. Physicians—David Jones, M.D.; Horace Lowther, L.R.C.P. Dr. Jones attends at his residence, 15, Welbeck-street, London, daily, 11 till 1 (except Tuesday and Friday). Dr. Lowther attends daily, 9 till 11, at Bolton House, where, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and evenings, the fee is 2s. 6d.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—OETZMANN and CO. beg respectfully to intimate to their Patrons the desirability of forwarding their orders early as possible for goods required before Christmas; extra hands have been engaged, and every effort will be made to keep pace with the additional influx of orders usual at this season.—OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.

SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)

OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.
OETZMANN and CO.

DRAWING-ROOM SUITES.
OETZMANN and CO.—Elegant Drawing-Room Suite, richly-carved Italian Walnut Wood; upholstered very soft and comfortable, in best Rep or Tapestry, consisting of a Couch, two Easy-Chairs, and six Chairs, price 15 guineas; ditto, very handsome design, upholstered in rich Silk Tapestry, made and finished in superior style, 20 guineas; ditto, very elegant design, richly upholstered in finest Satin, and finished in the best possible manner, 33 guineas. Also a variety of other Drawing-Room Suites, in Black and Gold, Early English, and other designs.
OETZMANN and CO.

PAINTING, PAPER-HANGING, and DECORATING DEPARTMENT.—OETZMANN and CO. undertake all kinds of Painting, Paper-hanging, and Decorating in town or country. A staff of thoroughly competent workmen are employed in the various branches under experienced foremen. Designs and estimates supplied for every style of decoration. O. and Co. also undertake Gas-fitting in all its branches. A large stock of French and English Paper-hangings, newest and best designs, always on show.—OETZMANN and CO.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.—Stout Tapestry Brussels Carpet, 1s. 3½d.; handsome pattern ditto, from 1s. 9d. to 2s. 5d. per yard. Good Brussels, new designs, from 2s. 4d. upwards. Good Axminster, from 4s. 9d. Good Wilton, super quality, from 5s. 11d. per yard. These prices are much below value. Kidderminster Carpets, all wool, 1s. 11d. per yard. Patent Rock-Dye Felt Carpeting, handsome designs, double-width, 1s. 9d. per yard. Excellent Stair Carpet, from 6d. per yard; all-wool ditto, 1s. per yard.—OETZMANN and CO.

DOWN QUILTS.—OETZMANN and CO.'S EIDER and ARCTIC DOWN QUILTS and CLOTHING combine the greatest amount of warmth attainable with the least possible weight, and are warranted pure. O. and CO. sell only the best make—BOOTH and FOX'S. See Trade-Mark on each article. Prices will be found much below those usually charged for this favourite make. Reduced Price-Lists post-free.
OETZMANN and CO.

FOR QUALITY and CHEAPNESS nothing can compare with OETZMANN and CO.'s new design "Queen Anne" Fenders, handsome and artistic, bronzed, 10s. 6d.; and their "Early English" Coal Vase, black, with brass mountings, handscoop, and strong loose lining, complete, 12s. 9d. An inspection solicited, or Coloured Lithographs sent, post-free, on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

CHINA and GLASS DEPARTMENT. Beatrice Pattern Toilet Services (ewer, basin, &c., complete), 5s. 6d.; Cleopatra ditto, 8s. 6d.; Richly-Cut Decanters, 7s. 6d. per pair; Cut Wines, from 2s. 6d. per dozen; superior ditto, richly cut, reduced to 4s. 9d. per dozen; Gilt Clocks, under glass shades, from 18s. 9d. upwards; Cottage Clocks, from 5s. 9d. each; Elegant Lustres, Vases, Parian Figures, &c.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 3.9 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.

OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Mediæval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

RODRIGUES' CHRISTMAS PRESENTS, 42, PICCADILLY, LONDON, W.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA.

BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from	21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS	63s. to £20
DRESSING CASES	21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES	21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES	4s. 9d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS	10s. 6d. to £5
STATIONERY CASES AND CABINETS	30s. to £5
INKSTANDS	5s. to £5
CANDLESTICKS (per pair)	7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS	15s. to £5
PORTRAIT ALBUMS	4s. 6d. to £5
THE NEW "TANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND	105s. to £10
THE NEW "EPITOME" WRITING CASE	12s. to £5
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 14s. 6d., and 16s. 6d.

And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS, ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly Illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
REST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 30s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 8d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 5s. Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

WILLS' "WESTWARD HO!"

WILLS' "WESTWARD HO!"
NEW SMOKING MIXTURE.
"When all things were made, none was made better than Tobacco; to be a lone man's Companion, a bachelor's Friend, a hungry man's Food, a sad man's Cordial, a wakeful man's Sleep, and a chilly man's Fire. There's no Herb like it under the canopy of Heaven."—Kingsley's "Westward Ho!"
In 1 oz., 2 oz., and 4 oz. Packets, lined with tinfoil.
WILLS, W. D. and H. O.

Digitized by Google

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON. Good qualities from 6s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
100 Pieces of handsome
BLACK BROCADED VELVETS,
5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and 10s. 9d. per yard.
Black Velvets for trimming purposes, 3s. 11d. to 6s. 9d.
Black Striped Velvets (best quality), 4s. 9½d. and 5s. 3d.
Black Brocaded Silks and Satins, 3s. 6d. to 6s. 11d.
Black Silk Plush, for Costumes, from 4s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Silk-faced Satin, from 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Duchess Satin in Black and in White, 5s. 3d. to 12s. 6d.
Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets (all Silk), 8s. 11d. to 21s.
Satin de Lyons, in Black, 3s. 11d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d.
Dress Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets,
A Special Bargain,
16 Yards for £3 8s.
Address for Patterns to
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6D.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, new so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

THE SMALL PROFIT SYSTEM, A LARGE SALE BEING DESIRABLE.
BLACK SPUN SILK STOCKINGS (WHITE TOES AND HEELS), 3s. 6d.
BLACK RIBBED CASHMERE Do., 2s. 2d.
Samples sent for Comparison.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, Regent-street,
Nos. 256 to 262 (the ONLY Address for these Goods).

"THE LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION" for October, 1880, says:—
The warm reception accorded to the
LOUIS VELVETEEN
in Paris—that City of the fashionable—is enough to assure it of success, even were its own intrinsic merits of colour, fineness, lightness, and excellent wearing qualities to constitute an insufficient recommendation.
"LOUIS." It was, indeed, a "happy thought" of its manufacturers to stamp it with its own name on every yard, for, having once made a trial of it, we shall not desire to become the purchasers of any other, and there are so many new kinds in the market that there is plenty of competition. Many ladies have adopted the
LOUIS VELVETEEN,
in place of real velvet, for evening wear, and the list of colours in which it is manufactured is so long that every purchaser can suit her own complexion."
Ladies are respectfully informed that on and after this date all Louis Velveteen, both
"LOUIS." Black and the New Autumn and Winter Colours, have stamped on the back plain instructions for removing all creases, folding-marks, &c., made in conveyance by rail, post, or other causes.
WHOLESALE AGENTS,
"LOUIS." who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine "LOUIS" VELVETEEN can be obtained:—
J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London, E.C.
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.
WILLIAM FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow.

EVENING DRESSES. — The Greatest Novelty. New French Satteens, price 8½d. per yard, in combination with Madras Lace and Madras Muslin.—JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W. Patterns free.

WINTER DRESSES.—The best value in London. VECUNA FOULE SERGES, the fashionable material for the season. Price 8½d. per yard. Patterns free.—JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

EVENING DRESSES, Black Net, Tulle, and Spanish Lace.—Messrs. JAY prepare for the season a variety of Black Evening Dresses, which they can confidently recommend both for their correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and Prices, postage-free.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

MANTLES, lined with Plush and other seasonable Doublures. These Mantles are noticeable for their special neatness and convenient arrangements.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season, perfectly fast colour, will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up into costumes. In various qualities, 48 in. wide, from 8s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

MOURNING.
Messrs. JAY'S experienced ASSISTANTS travel to any part of the kingdom, free of expense to purchasers. They take dresses and millinery with them, besides patterns of materials at 1s. per yard and upwards, all marked in plain figures, and at the same price as if purchased at the Warehouse in Regent-street. Funerals at stated charges.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, REGENT-STREET, W.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

SOLD only in tin-lined Packets by all Grocers. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
A choice prepared Cocoa.
most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

GUARANTEED PURE.
FRY'S COCOA. FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
Pure Cocoa only,
the superfluous oil extracted.
J. S. FRY and SONS.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoas Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 15,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 10s.; Households, for Bread making, 9s. 4d.; Whole Wheaten Meal (granulated) for Brown Bread, 8s. 8d.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat, Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 2s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d., Barley Meal, per 56 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 1 lb. tin, 8d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

WHOLE WHEATEN MEAL (Granulated), for BROWN BREAD, is Manufactured and Supplied by the ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY.
See above.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
DUC DE MONTEBELLO'S EXTRA CUVEE CHAMPAGNE.—At the competitive tastings recently held at the Wine and Spirit Exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, 20 samples of the leading brands were tasted by 41 members of the Wine Trade, and the above was adjudicated the FINEST. Calculations checked and vouched for by A. B. INGRAM, Chartered Accountant, 2, Gresham-buildings.
This identical Wine, at 70s. per Doz., can be obtained of T. W. STAPLETON and CO., Wine Merchants, 208, Regent-street, W.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained in Wood by wholesale merchants and dealers, direct from their respective distilleries.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
COLOURED BROCADED VELVETS,
300 Pieces, in all the New Textures, at 5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 6d., and 8s. 6d. per yard, being 20 per cent under price.
200 Pieces of Rich Black Broché Velvets, 8s. 6d. per yard.
The New Silk Plush, for Costumes, in all New Shades, 7s. 6d. per yard.
260 Pieces of Rich French Brocaded Silks, from 4s. 11d. per yard.
100 Pieces of Guaranteed Good Wearing Black Silks, at 2s. 11d. per yard.
Patterns free.

NEW DRESS MATERIALS.
Casimir d'Italie, Grain de Peur, Cachemire de la Reine, Angola Foulé, &c., all pure wool, and dyed by the most eminent Paris dyers, in Black, and every New Colour.
Prices from 14s. 6d. to 25s. the Full Dress.
Also, in Black and the same colours, several thousand pieces of Cachemire and Cachemire Merino, very wide, 2s. 2d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
Estamene, Witney, Devonshire, and other all-wool Serges, in Navy, Dark, Brown, Prune, Bronze, Black, &c., from 1s. to 2s. 9d. the yard.

MATERIALS for EVENING DRESS in great variety.
Rich Japanese Silk, in Plain and Damassé, 1s. 11d.
Double Warp Gros Grain Japanese, 24 inch, 2s. 9d.
Cachemire de Paris, 2s. 2d. to 3s. 3d.
Cashmere Merino, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 9d.
Tinsel Gauze, 6½d. to 1s. 11d.
Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, Oxford-street.

BALL AND DINNER DRESSES in the latest Novelties in Tarlatan, Net, Madras Muslin, Gauze, Spanish Lace, &c., in Black and all Colours, from 18s. 9d. to 20os.
The "Rowena," a pretty and stylish trained or short dress in Tarlatan, price 21s. In Brussels Net or fine White Muslin, price 31s. 6d.
The "Dora," a decided novelty, in Madras Muslin, handsomely draped over, any colour in Sateen, price 45s. 6d.
This is a pretty style for Gauze or Spanish Lace, price from 3½ guineas.
Specialities in Grenadine, Cashmere, and Japanese Silk Evening and Dinner Dresses.
The "Marie," in Black Striped Fibre Grenadine, with ample material for bodice, price 21s.
The "Lilian," in Light-Coloured Cashmere, trimmed lace, with material and lace for bodice, price £2 12s. 6d.
The "Bertha," in Rich Light-Coloured Japanese Silk, with material for bodice, price £2 18s. 6d.
Patterns and Illustrations post-free.
Illustrations of the above designs, with many others, can be had post-free on application to PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street, London.

ARRASENE.
Patented and Registered.
A New Yarn in Silk and Wool, for Artistic Embroidery.
Made in all Shades.
Can be used also with Crewels and Embroidery Silks.
R. G. GEACH, 137, Cheapside.

WATERLOO HOUSE, Pall-Mall East and Cockspur-street, S.W. The HALF-YEARLY SPECIAL SALE, MONDAY, JAN. 3, to SATURDAY, JAN. 29, 1881.—HALLING, PEARCE, and STONE.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS
ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Ladies' Attendant,
J. F. PRATT,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

TIRED HANDS AND ARMS. EDSON'S ELECTRIC ARMLETS and WRISTBANDS.—For all persons having tiresome WRITING, SEWING, or MUSIC PRACTICE, they give wonderful energy and strength, enabling the wearer to accomplish tedious work with steadiness and comfort. Price 2s. 6d. per pair, silk web and fine steel clasps. Sent to any address on receipt of P.O.O. for 2s. 8d., payable to J. EDSON; address, THE ELECTRIC FABRIC COMPANY, Sole Patentees (New Building), Charlotte-street, Bedford-square, London.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

CONSUMPTION AND WASTING DISEASES.
IN "NOTES on CONSUMPTION and WASTING DISEASES SUCCESSFULLY TREATED with HYDRATED OIL, with Cases showing the immediate increase in weight by it," see Book published by Diprose, Bateman, and Co., Lincoln's-inn-fields. The ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, will send a copy free on application.

G. OVEREND DREWRY, M.D., Physician to the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, Author of "Common-Sense Management of the Stomach," &c., referring to cases treated at the National Free Dispensary for Consumption and Wasting Diseases, says that "'Hydroleine' (or Hydrated Oil) produces an effect such as neither cod-liver oil nor any preparation of it with which I am acquainted even faintly approaches, and patients are unanimous in their statement that the appetite is much increased by taking 'Hydrated Oil,' and that, so far from possessing the unpleasant taste of ordinary cod-liver oil, the taste of 'Hydrated Oil' is agreeable rather than the reverse, and is described by some as resembling Devonshire cream. These, I submit, are very important points in cases usually attended by great irritability of stomach. The general improvement in strength shown within a fortnight was in many instances surprising, even to myself, who had seen already in private practice many startling results from its use. My experience, however, shows that in cases where cod-liver oil or an emulsion of it has been depended upon, increase of weight is rarely obtained."—Page 16.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil),
Equal to Ten times the quantity of Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Entirely supersedes plain Cod-Liver Oil.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Produces rapid increase in flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is certain in result, and is pleasant to take.

TRY YOUR WEIGHT!!

TRY YOUR WEIGHT.—HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has proved of the highest value as a food in consumption and all wasting diseases, invariably producing increase in flesh and weight. This preparation of Hydrated Cod-Liver Oil is tonic, digestive, and ten times more strengthening and nourishing, as well as far more pleasant to taste, than plain cod-liver oil. Hydroleine may be described as partially digested oil, which will nourish and produce increase of weight in those cases where oils or fat, not so treated, are difficult or impossible to digest. All tendency to emaciation and loss of weight is arrested by the regular use of Hydroleine, which may be discontinued when the usual average weight has been permanently acquired. Of all Chemists, 4s. 6d.; or sent direct, carriage paid, to any address in England for 54.—Sold wholesale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London.

READ the following Extracts from a few among the hundreds of letters received, showing that HYDROLEINE will nourish, and cause young or old to increase in weight where plain cod-liver oil will not; the original letters, with many others, may be seen at our Office.

DR. AUSTIN, of Sunnyside, East Grinstead, writing on May 13, 1880, says:—
"I recommended one patient to get it, and he gained 8 lb. weight in a week; left it off next week, and lost 4 lb. This speaks well."

MR. JAS. STEWART, Chemist, of Dalkeith, writing April 28, 1877, says:—
"I weighed only 116 lb. on March 25, took the Hydroleine very irregularly I must confess, and on April 19 weighed 120 lbs. I found it very pleasant to take, never experienced the least approach to eructation, and rather think it acted very much as a tonic."

WRITING of Hydrated Oil on May 14, 1877, Mr. KENNETH M'DONALD, of Dunkeld, says:—
"I had been taking cod-liver oil all winter myself, and thought I would first experiment on myself with the Hydroleine, and I must say, whether it is that or not, I am much better; in fact, all right again, and I certainly give it the credit, and will recommend it to all in preference to the ordinary oil—it is much easier taken."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been favourably received by all classes of people, as well as the press, as the following extracts will show:—

MRS. ELLEN COOKE, Weston-super-Mare, in a letter dated May 24, 1879, says:—
"I think the last bottle you sent me has saved the life of a little boy three years old."

MR. J. H. GREGORY, Master of Caxton Workhouse, Cambs., writing on March 12, 1879, says:—
"The effect of the bottle I received from you was marvellous, as I increased nearly 4 lb. in weight, and felt better in every way."

MRS. MARYATT, Bayswater, W., writing on Jan. 22, 1877, speaks of the Hydrated Oil in the following terms:—
"My little boy (aged five and a half years) is so extremely fond of it that he will take it just as it is, without the ginger or orange wine, and will smack his lips after it. As for myself, I can never sound its praises too loudly. I consider it a perfect life-giver."

MR. JOHN MILTON, writing from Liverpool on May 7, 1877, says:—
"Five weeks ago a small pamphlet was handed to me descriptive of your Hydroleine, and since that time my wife has been taking just one bottle a week with certain benefit."

MR. A. BOYCE, Chemist, Hayward's-heath, writing on July 9, 1877, says:—
"I have given it to several consumptive cases, and am pleased to inform you with very good result. The effect of it on two persons (children) has been wonderful. I am trying to make it known every where I can."

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is n t a patent medicine.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Has the formula upon every bottle.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
Is used to increase flesh.

HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil)
May be relied upon to increase weight.

THE CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES upon which HYDRATED OIL is prepared were first described in a treatise on the Assimilation and Digestion of Fats in the Human Body, by H. C. Bartlett, Ph.D., F.C.S., published by Messrs. J. and A. Churchill, New Burlington-street (Fat in the Human Body, page 41):—"Nothing appears to restore the healthy functions of the liver and pancreas in these cases except the frequent ingestion of oil or liquid fat, so treated artificially that it is already partially transformed by fermentation and the reaction of bile. Seized on with avidity by the absorbents, it is insensibly assimilated by the digestive organs, until they gradually become strengthened, not only to provide their own nourishment, but to transform a sufficient quantity of fat to supply the inevitable waste throughout the body."

ALL persons taking HYDROLEINE are particularly urged to keep an ACCOUNT from WEEK to WEEK of their WEIGHT, that the gain and improvement may be shown. The makers, having devoted special attention to perfecting a process by means of which uniformity in the production of HYDRATED OIL is secured, desire to direct the attention of the medical profession and the public to this preparation, to distinguish which the name of HYDROLEINE (Hydrated Oil) has been registered under the Trade-Marks Acts. Ask your Chemist for it. If your Chemist has not the "Hydroleine" in stock, a bottle will be sent from the Factory (carriage paid) to any part of England, on receipt of Post-Office Order, 5s. Sold whole ale by the ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG COMPANY, Limited, 33, Farringdon-road, London. Pamphlet sent free to any address.

Digitized by Google

SKETCHES IN PARNELL'S COUNTRY, WICKLOW.

The trial of Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, M.P., and a dozen other leading members of the Irish Land League, on the indictment for conspiracy which has been framed by the law officers of the Crown in Dublin, will commence on Tuesday next, Dec. 28; the jury list has been prepared and reduced to twenty-four, of which twelve may be challenged and struck out. Mr. Parnell has issued a circular to the Home-Rule Irish members of the House of Commons, inviting them to a conference at Dublin on Monday. A subscription, which now amounts to £10,000, is being raised for the costs of Mr. Parnell's legal defence, and that of the others included in the State prosecution. We gave some particulars concerning it, with biographical notices of Mr. Parnell and others, in our publication of Nov. 20, which contained his portrait and those of Mr. Joseph Gilles Biggar, M.P., and Mr. T. Brennan, secretary to the Land League. A view of Mr. Parnell's residence, Avondale House, Wicklow, has also appeared in this Journal. It was mentioned that he is proprietor of an estate of four or five thousand acres in that county, with copper and silver-lead mines, and large saw-mills, and with a wood-turning factory, in which he makes brush-handles and such articles from the wood grown on his estate. He employs a large number of men and boys, and has about thirty tenants, who mostly hold their farms on long leases, at rents seldom exceeding the Government valuation, and of late years reduced. Mr. Parnell, who is thirty-four years of age, and unmarried, inherited this property from his father, and his ancestors had lived in the same place more than a hundred years.

WICKLOW HEAD.

We give some views of the neighbourhood, on this occasion, under the title of "Parnell's Country;" but it is really one of the most picturesque and interesting districts in Ireland, or in the British Isles, and had been celebrated long before this Mr. Parnell was born. Every person in England has often heard of the Vale of Avoca, or Ovoca, as it is more correctly named; and few tourists in Ireland, having the leisure, fail to visit that beautiful scene, of which Moore has spoken with tender rapture in one of his popular songs. "The Meeting of the Waters" has usually been referred to, by local topographers, as the junction of the Avon Beg, or Little Avon, with the Avon More, or Great Avon, just below Castle Howard, the seat of Mr. Howard Brooke. There is, however, another meeting of two rivers, lower down the vale, where the Aughrim flows into the Avoca. The entire length of the vale is nearly eight miles; the nearest small town and railway station is Rathdrum, on the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford line, about thirty miles south of Dublin. It will be readily believed that the romantic and poetical sentiment attaching to this place is turned to the profit of mercenary guides, inn-keepers, and coach-proprietors, who are on the look-out for tourists all through the summer season. The following passages of a letter from our Special Artist, Mr. Wallis Mackay, give his own observations of this neighbourhood:—

ENTRANCE TO AVONDALE HOUSE.

"Wooden Bridge Hotel, Vale of Ovoca,
Wicklow, Dec. 6.

"'I intend to return to my place in the country,' said Mr. Parnell, at one of the autumn meetings of the Land League, and in a speech for which he will shortly be arraigned before a jury of his own countrymen; 'and if any peace-officer appears I will put him in the river.' I suppose 'the Master of Avondale' referred to the babbling brook that runs along the foot of his fair lawns, and finally pours its tiny torrent into the junction known throughout Christendom as the 'Meeting of the Waters.' Peaceful and genial is the place of Avondale, even in this period of the year, when one would expect to find snow or storm. 'Brushing ankle deep in grass,' and more than ankle deep in rich brown dead leaves, you may wander for hours about the beauteous demesne of the Parnells, without finding aught but beauty or hearing anything save the call of the wood-birds.

"To get from Dublin to the country of the Parnells you take train at Harcourt-street, Dublin, and travel to Rathdrum on the journey, which is a short one. The chief attraction is to look out upon the lovely Bay of Dublin, with its bold rocky borderings. One of these I have jotted down, not as a note of its beauty, but to indicate "another Irish grievance." You will notice that at the headland known as Wicklow Head, there are three lighthouses. One would think this might be a sufficient stock to go on with; but that is not the grievance. It is simply this: first, the light was placed right down by the breakers on the immediate side of the cliff; this could only be seen by small boats immediately against the shore. Next, it was rebuilt in a secluded hollow, from which place it ineffectually threw its glare, for it could neither be seen by those near shore nor out at sea. This slight defect was corrected by building No. 3 right up on the higher part of the cliff, a position which gave it the enormous advantage of requiring a ship to go out some ten miles to sea in order to be enabled to discern it all. And there the three lights of Wicklow Head pale their ineffectual fires from dusk till sunrise.

A TRAVELLING PUBLISHER.

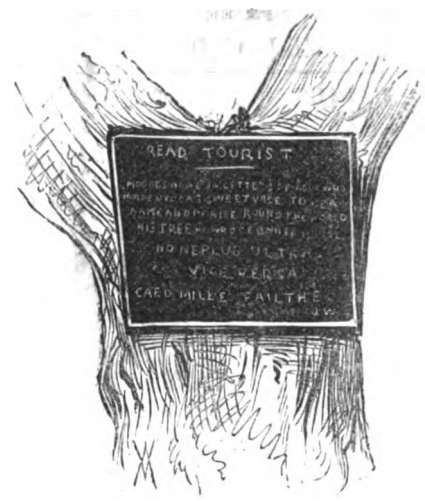
"Arrived at Rathdrum, you bend your steps towards Avondale, and as you pass through the street known as the town of Rathdrum the one thing that strikes you as a characteristic is that the tradespeople who boast a legend above their shops are all "Sauls" to a man—and a woman, for that matter, for the women seem mostly the serious workers in the commerce of life. Presently, after a few miles' walk through most lovely country, you come to the ancient house of the Parnells. I don't know whether the poet Parnell (who is an ancestor of the chieftain of the Land League) ever resided at Avondale, but I must say that a more charming and peaceful spot I never visited.

"The entrance to Avondale is insecurely guarded by a notice to the effect that the place is private, and that the proprietor will be inclined to prosecute any form of trespass. However, a very pliable gate and an empty lodge show but little resistance, and at last we stand right on the immediate native heath of Charles Stewart Parnell, the head and front of the entire Irish party. The lodge near the gate at Avondale is a quaint old piece of architecture, and seems to be a portion of a much older form of building than one finds in the house of Avondale. Some one with a wild idea of advance and modernisation has had it whitewashed. Passing the house, which is a cheerless, bilious-looking pile, you

BRUSHMAKING AT AVONDALE.



dip down the hill and under the railway bridge, and then, keeping well within the sound of the purling stream you come to the scene of Mr. Parnell's mining operations. A more primitive pump than the one I have attempted to sketch I don't think you will find in the dominion of the British Empire. It is ingenious withal; and, when one has followed the wire rope which connects it with the water-wheel, some quarter of a mile, the absurdity of the length of the connection is explained by the fact that the same wheel is not only working the pump but the machinery of a wonderful centre of industry in the shape of a brush-handle manufactory. When I say brush-handle, I do not mean the long stick of a sweeping brush or the hilt of a dandy hair brush, but just that portion of a housemaid's broom in which the hairs are fixed. Mr. Parnell has a fine stock of ash wood on his estate, and is utilising it in this way during the operation of digging for gold, silver, or lead, whichever he hopes to strike in the quiet sylvan glades of Avondale.

MINE PUMP ON AVONDALE ESTATE.

"A beautiful walk through rows of ash-trees and young pine-masts brings you to the road close to that portion of the Vale of Ovoca known as the Lion's Bridge, so called on account of an ivy-grown archway, on which a wild caricature of the British lion (probably) is cut in granite. On the road here I met an old personage with a small sack over his back. On my inquiring he told me that he was 'a publisher,' and had been to Dublin to buy some Almanacks for the coming year; 'but sorra a wan had he sold,' for he had 'walked five miles at a stritch, and niver a house to be seen, only wan or two up on the hillside, where, if you were to come out av in the dark, you 'd have to fall three times the hoight av thim trees.' I purchased several of his volumes, and learnt from him that he intended waiting two days at Rathdrum for a fair that was coming off, where he hoped to dispose of his little stock, and his after intention was to seek work on a railway somewhere or other. I certainly think that labouring on a railway would be work of a more exciting nature than bookselling in the heart of Wicklow.

INSCRIPTION ON MOORE'S OAK, AT "THE MEETING OF THE WATERS."

"Turning to the right from the Lion's Bridge, a few steps brings you to the first Meeting of the Waters, where the rivers Avonbeg and Avonmore unite, and where the oak under which Moore is said to have sat and written bears a legend of some originality. This is the very limit of the Parnell country, and the road ahead leads to the town of Newbridge, and further on the Wooden Bridge Hotel, at the second Meeting of the Waters.

Where these four valleys part—
The Gold-mine Vale, and the Aughrim,
And Ovoca and Glenart.

The wild and beautiful hills on each side of the river that now roars in a sufficiently pretentious condition to satisfy even Mr. Parnell in the matter of the peace officer, are nothing marred in effect by the strange engineering operations of the mines that honeycomb them. I was struck by the aspect of one of these strange wild mining colonies, with its deserted village and abandoned shafts. And now the Wooden Bridge is at hand, and dinner is soon to be had. Boiled turkey and bacon, the great boast of Wicklow, is not a bad repast after a long day's ramble, and is inclined to make one to take a more cheerful view of the condition of the country than before. And afterwards, leaning over the bridge (which is a stone one, by-the-way) and listening to the murmuring stream and gazing on the soft, dark curves of the surrounding hills, wrapt in their silence, it is hard to think that even this quiet nook of nature has been affected by the Land League agitation that is convulsing the country, and that the very hostelry that you have been dining in will, in a few hours, be visited by men with blackened faces and wild imprecations, and the night made hideous by their shouts and gun-shots."

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by George C. Leighton, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—Saturday, December 25, 1880.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Stanford University Libraries
3 6105 005 565 176

072
I29
v.77
1880

STANFORD UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES
STANFORD AUXILIARY LIBRARY
STANFORD, CALIFORNIA 94305-6004
(415) 723-9201
All books may be recalled after 7 days

DATE DUE

Digitized by Google

Copyright

Stanford University Libraries
3 6105 005 565 176

072
I29
v.77
1880

STANFORD UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES
STANFORD AUXILIARY LIBRARY
STANFORD, CALIFORNIA 94305-6004
(415) 723-9201
All books may be recalled after 7 days

DATE DUE

Digitized by Google

